BRUSH and PALETTE

I made an amazing discovery when I began teaching. This was that people need to express themselves. They need to record their environment so there can be communication between the artist and the canvas. This creative urge does not change, whether it be on canvas, soft materials or sculpture. There is hope for all of us—there was Grandma Moses, Churchill, Eisenhower and others—so let's have fun and try it!

We must remove the mystique from painting. There is nothing mysterious as many believe. Painting is exciting, fun and gives pleasure to those who pursue it. Don't be discouraged, let's give it a try!

Q. HOW DOES ONE START TO PAINT A LANDSCAPE?

A. Using a small brush and turps or painting medium, draw the composition on to the canvas. Draw as accurately as possible for your finished painting is no better than your original drawing. I believe the basic forms should be drawn before you start to paint. There must be a relative proportion of things, determine if mountains are too close or too far away, a house or tree should not be centered in the middle of the canvas—now is the time to make any changes for the better painting. When you are satisfied with the composition, start painting.

First, paint that part of the picture that is in the distance. Therefore, start with the sky, then the middle ground, then the foreground.

Q. WHAT FOUNDATION SHOULD I USE FOR A PAINTING?

A. There are three basic materials used for oil painting. Stretched canvas, canvas boards and masonite panels. These can be purchased from art suppliers. They are sold in standard sizes, i.e., to fit standard frames. I like to apply at least two coats of tinted Gesso on to the foundation. The Gesso can be tinted with Burnt Sienna Acrylic. Gesso is a water-base product, therefore you must use Acrylic to tint it. Oil paint will not dissolve in the Gesso. Tinting the Gesso with the Burnt Sienna will give a beautiful soft glow to the canvas.

Using an ordinary house paint brush, apply two coats of Gesso to the front side and one coat to the back of masonite and canvas panels, this will prevent warping. Stretched canvas needs only the two coats to the front side, or painting side.

HINT: It does not cost a thing to wear a smile and say a kind word—it's contagious—and everybody around you will be happier too.

Write your questions and hints to me, Faye Schnuriger, P.O. Box 134, Haskell, Texas, 79521. I will not use your name but do want you to sign your letters.

Outdoor Furniture Needs Special Maintenance

Outdoor furniture is an investment you can keep for many years with protective special-care tactics, says Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist. Berry, on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, explains that although a plain soap-and-water rinse is "good for cleaning," applying a protective finish will extend the furniture's life. For example, the patina and shine of aluminum furniture can be restored by wiping with fine steel wool and kerosene and then buffing with a soft cloth.

However, if the furniture will be exposed to direct sunlight as well as rain, it needs a protective finish of auto paste wax.

Protecting outdoor furniture is the key to its long life, the specialist stresses.

Even redwood furniture, with its special properties that make it ideal for outdoor use, will benefit from a special protective treatment.

For redwood, the important thing is to use a "penetrating finish," Berry says, rather than a "surface sealer" such as varnish.

In the case of other woods, you can extend their lives with special-care tactics, but it's wise to realize they won't last as long as redwood if they're used in direct sun or exposed to rain, Berry advises.

For non-redwood furniture, use varnish or polyurethane sealers that sit on the surface, she says. Also, marine-type paints and varnishes made for use in water will hold up well on outdoor wood furniture.

In protecting wrought-iron furniture, the main "care-needed" signal is chipped paint. Rub any spots—where bare iron shows—with steel wool and paint them with both an anti-rust primer and enamel.

To extend wicker furniture's life, do not use it outdoors. Both rattan and wicker "like" to be in humid conditions rather than dry ones, but they will deteriorate in direct sunlight or rain showers.

However, wicker and rattan do need cleaning from time to time. To clean them, scrub with detergent and water using a natural-bristle scrub brush. When they're dry look for chipped paint or hairline cracks.

If necessary, paint the furniture using a spray lacquer or a spray, oil-base enamel or a spray latex paint with a gloss or semi-gloss finish.

Owens Attends Gin Meeting

Jimmy Owens, Manager of Farmers Cooperative Society No. 1 of Haskell returned recently from Houston where he had been attending the 8th Annual Cooperative New Managers Conference.

Owens, a native of Denison became manager of Farmers Cooperative Society No. 1 of Haskell in August 1979. He, along with nearly 60 other individuals, represented those who had been named to cooperative managers positions within the state the preceding year.

Purpose of the conference was to promote the desire for better understanding among the Houston-based Texas Bank for Cooperatives and the new statewide agricultural and utility association managers, thus improving the working relationship necessary to provide sound financial services.

eratives, a cooperative itself, provides financial services to eligible cooperatives. Last year it provided well over 50 percent of the cooperative credit needs throughout Texas. This included a peak loan volume of $425 million to nearly 200 associations. Jack Hughes serves as president. Hughes says, "The conference is designed to acquaint new cooperative managers with the basic policies and procedures of the Bank as well as familiarize each one with the general areas of staff responsibility."

THE BEST IN MEAT, CUT THE WAY YOU WANT IT.

Renovating Old House May Be Best Bet

With house prices and mortgage rates making "trading-up" almost a relic of the past, you might be better off renovating that old house you are in now.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has a manual with detailed advice on home renovations. Called New Life for Old Dwellings, the book helps you decide whether your house is worth repairing, how to draw up a plan, and carry out the project. For your copy, send $4.00 to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 157J, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Once you have decided that your house is worth renovating, the first thing you need to do is measure all the rooms of the house, including the thickness of the walls. Draw them out on graph paper including the windows and doors.

Then make scale cutouts of major pieces of furniture. That way you can try your furniture in different places without getting a sore back.

Now consider the traffic flow. Are there areas where you have to walk around furniture or through the middle of a room to get to the next room? Maybe moving a door would make a difference. With more usable wall space, you may be able to rearrange the furniture and create a more convenient walk-way.

Another possibility is removing a wall. Before you do this, find out if it's a load-bearing wall—in other words, check that it's not holding up part of the house. You can figure this out fairly easily. Look at the direction of the joists visible in the attic or basement. They run the same way as the ones hidden in the ceiling above the wall. If the wall is parallel to the joists, the wall is probably not load-bearing. But if the joists are perpendicular to the wall, it probably is load-bearing. Then you would need to put up a beam to support the joists when you knock out the wall.

Also check for electrical wiring, plumbing, or heat ducts in the wall. They can be moved, but that will increase your costs.

Once you have made your plans and you decide how much to do yourself, figure out how much time it will take. Then raise that figure by at least half. Things always take longer than you expect. That goes for costs, too. There are always those little extra cans of paint, or special tools, or wasted pieces of sheetrock that don't cut quite right.

You can get money to fix up your home from your bank, savings and loan, or credit union. Just see where you can get the best terms for the best period of time.

And when you decide what you are going to have done professionally, get estimates and references from at least three reputable contractors.

That way you can be sure of getting the best job for the money.

To learn more, send for a copy of the manual, New Life for Old Dwellings ($4.00). At the same time you will receive a copy of the free Consumer Information Catalog, a listing of more than 200 federal publications of interest to consumers. The Catalog is published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration.

Caution Needed In Food Storage

Sometimes you can tell food is spoiled because it smells "funny." That's your clue to throw it out, to avoid the dangers of food poisoning.

However, sometimes you can't tell. Germs that cause food poisoning often don't change the taste, odor or appearance of food. To help you know what to watch out for, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food Quality Inspection Service has a new booklet. For your free copy of Food Safety, write to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 653J, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Poultry preparation requires special care. If you prepare the bird the day before you plan to cook it, store the stuffing in a separate container in the refrigerator. Don't leave it in the bird, or it can get contaminated. Right before roasting, stuff the bird loosely enough to allow the heat to penetrate. Refrigerate leftover poultry and stuffing in separate dishes—within two hours after serving.

When you shop for canned foods, don't buy or use food from containers that leak, bulge or are severely dented or damaged. Don't buy or use jars that are cracked or have loose or bulging lids. Don't taste or use food that has a foul odor or any food that spurts liquid when the can is opened. These foods could contain botulism, a rare but often fatal toxin. Home-canned foods improperly prepared cause most incidents of botulism. So, if you can your own vegetables, meat or poultry, always use a pressure canner. A boiling water bath, an oven, a steamer, or an open kettle will not heat low-acid foods enough to kill the bacteria that cause botulism. Always follow canning directions carefully, and take each step in order. Do not take shortcuts. Make sure your equipment is in good working order.

And what can you do when your freezer fails? If your freezer will be fixed within two days or if the power will go back on within that period of time, you'll probably be able to save your stored food. Keep the freezer door closed—don't keep opening and closing it to check on the food. A fully loaded freezer will keep food frozen for 2 days. A half-full freezer will only keep food cold for a day. And, meats that still contain ice crystals or have been maintained at 5 degrees Celsius (40 degrees Fahrenheit) for less than 2 days may be safely refrozen. Some quality may be lost, but the product is still edible. But, throw out any food that has an unusual color or odor. Never refreeze ice cream because it could be contaminated.

If it looks like your freezer will be off for more than two days, use dry ice. Place 25 pounds of dry ice in the freezer soon after the power goes off. A half-full freezer should stay cold enough to keep food for 2 to 3 days, and a full freezer should keep food frozen for 3 or 4 days.

When you order Food Safety (free) you'll also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the free catalog lists over 200 selected free and low-cost federal consumer booklets.

Little League News

BY MARILYN BAHNEY

The Area 4 All-Star playoffs will begin Monday with a double-elimination tournament. Haskell drew a bye for Monday and will play Monday's winner on Tuesday. All games begin at 7:30. This may be the only All-Star game you will see all year, so take advantage of this opportunity.

The Major League wrapped up play last week. The Tigers coasted to second place by handily defeating the Eagles 18-4 on Monday. This win assured the Tigers of a second place in the standings.

Although Roy Graham of the Cubs knocked out his sixth home run of the season, it was not enough to defeat the Rams. The fifth inning proved lucky for the Rams when they scored the bulk of their runs and blasted the Cubs 15-7.

Joey Swinney plays on the Rams, not the Cubs.

Proper Lawn Care Aids In Conservation

Don't just turn on your lawn sprinkler when hot, dry weather arrives and gripe about your high water bill. By watering, fertilizing and mowing your lawn properly, you can reduce your water bill as much as 40 percent during the summer months.

"Conservation by the homeowner provides the only solution to high water bills and excessive water demands during our hot and usually dry Texas summers," points out Dr. Richard Duble, turfgrass specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

In small cities where industrial demand for water is low, lawn watering may account for as much as half of all the water used during summer months. Even in larger cities, lawns get 30 to 40 percent of all the water supplied by municipalities, notes Duble.

He adds that most Texas lawns need about 2 inches of water per week during the summer and that most of this usually comes from irrigation.

Exactly what can a homeowner do to reduce his summer water bill?

"The first thing is to water your lawn only when grass starts to show signs of drought stress," explains the specialist. "Look for discoloration and wilting. If leaves roll up in the late afternoon and footprints remain after walking across the lawn, then water within 24 hours."

"Once you've decided that your lawn needs watering, do it right," emphasizes Duble. "Most homeowners don't water their lawns properly. They either water too often, causing grass to develop shallow roots and making it a prime target for insects, diseases and temperature extremes, or they water too infrequently and apply too much water at one time, resulting in a lot of runoff."

When watering, soak the soil to a depth of 4 to 6 inches, recommends the specialist. In heavy clay soils, watering for 15 to 20-minute periods may be necessary to prevent excessive runoff.

"Cutting back on lawn fertilization can also reduce watering," says Duble. "Applying fertilizer in the spring and fall will generally keep your lawn healthy. Fertilizing during the summer, especially with nitrogen fertilizer, will green up your lawn, but it will also make it grow faster and use more water."

Mowing less often and cutting your grass at taller heights also will help keep your lawn in better shape during hot, dry weather, adds the specialist. St. Augustine grass does well when mowed at a 3-inch height, and bermudagrass can be cut at a 2-inch height.

Cotton Growers Need Marketing Plan

Faced with a record world cotton crop and a lackluster demand for their product, cotton growers need to map out a sound marketing strategy. A key part of this strategy is keeping a close eye on the market itself.

Dr. Carl Anderson, marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, suggests a number of marketing options for cotton producers:

—Establish a selling price by forward contracting or hedging in the futures market and arrange delivery at some future date.

—Sell at harvest.

—Hold and sell later.

—Place cotton under the Commodity Credit Corporation loan program and hope the price will go up.

"Growers can develop a 'feel' for the cotton market by watching daily and weekly reports on prices and worldwide production and use," says the economist. "Bumper 1980 crops in Russia and China have burdened the market, and U.S. prices have fallen about $35 per bale since January."

According to Anderson, two developments will bear heavily on the cotton market for the season ahead—low carryover stocks and export demand.

"During the summer, the market will move up and down between low supplies and good and bad reports on crop conditions," says Anderson. "A decline in interest rates might also give the market a boost."

Periods of market strengths may offer an opportunity to forward-price some cotton between now and the time harvest gets into full swing, he adds.

"Export demand will be the main factor influencing cotton prices this fall and winter," believes Anderson. "The growing importance of exports to disappearance of U.S. cotton suggests even more price uncertainty than in the past. Export demand is subject not only to the uncertainty of foreign production but also to political disruptions."

Any major change in the cotton market will likely stem from a change in exports from current projections of about 7 million bales, notes the economist. If the new U.S. crop turns out about 13.5 to 14 million bales, market prices will likely go up or down as exports go above or below the 7-million-bale figure.

"Historically, when cotton supplies improve—as it appears they will in 1981—the market usually remains weak.

However, the worldwide supply-demand balance is expected to remain tight. So watch for a time when the market is on the upswing to 'set' your price," Anderson advises growers. "With the high cost of holding cotton, timing your sale is more important than ever."

Highway Dept. To Renovate Roads

The State Highway and Public Transportation Commission has approved a massive rehabilitation and improvement program for highways and FM roads in Texas.

The 1982 Rehabilitation and State Highway Safety and Betterment and Farm to Market Road Improvement Program will cost an estimated $213.6 million, with $1.6 million held in reserve for later assignment.

The program includes improvement and rehabilitation of 5,478.3 miles of state-maintained highways. In all, there are 898 separate projects in 218 counties of the state.

The work includes projects which will upgrade existing highways to handle heavier volumes of traffic, enhance safety, reduce the amount and kind of maintenance necessary and to protect the large public investment in the highways of Texas.

Almost 70 percent of the work is on US— and State—numbered highways in Texas with the remainder being on FM roads.

District Engineer Roger G. Welsch of Abilene, said projects included in the program in Haskell County are:

SH 6—a seal coat consisting of a layer of asphalt and aggregate from 277 to SH 283.

US 277—a seal coat from FM 1225 to Haskell.

US 380—a seal coat from Throckmorton County Line to 3.7 miles east of Haskell.

US 380—a seal coat from Haskell east for 3.7 miles.

Also included in the program is to raise the grade and add a drainage structure on US 380 at a point 4.9 miles west of Haskell.

Disposal Of Assets Is Changed

After March 1, 1981, a person may no longer give or sell, at a reduced price, property or other resources in order to become eligible for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments.

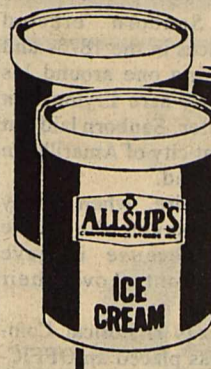

A new provision of the SSI law requires that when a person either gives or sells, at less than fair market value, property which would otherwise disqualify the person, that person will be charged as still retaining an interest in the property or money. The value of their retained interest is determined by subtracting the amount received from the transaction from the fair market value of the property. This will continue to be counted as a resource for 24 months after the transfer of the resource.

The resource limits for the SSI program are $1500 for an individual and $2,250 for a couple. For example, under this new provision if a person (who was otherwise eligible) owned ten acres of non-home property and decided to sell this property to his children for $500, when its fair market value is $5,000, that person would be charged as having $4,500 resource and would not be eligible for 24 months after the month of the sale.

The new law is designed to encourage people to use their available resources to provide for themselves rather than transfer the resources to relatives or friends in order to get on the SSI rolls.

For more information about this change or questions about SSI, you should call 695-1240 in Abilene. For those outside Abilene, call toll free 1-800-392-1603.

Public Notice

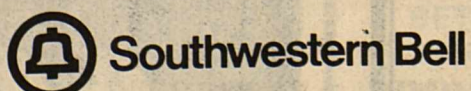

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas effective July 21, 1981, unless otherwise determined by the Commission.

It is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 15.8 percent increase in the company's intrastate revenues.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

The filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for interexchange private line and foreign exchange (FX) service. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide interexchange private line and foreign exchange service in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell's tariffs.

Aviso Público

Southwestern Bell, en conformidad a las reglas del Public Utility Commission (Comisión de Servicios Públicos) de Texas, por la presente hace saber su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel para servicio de teléfono en Texas con vigencia a partir del 21 de Julio de 1981, a menos que la Comisión haga otra determinación.

Se espera que el nuevo arancel que se ha solicitado rendirá un aumento de 15.8 por ciento en los ingresos intraestatales de la compañía.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel se ha archivado en las oficinas del Public Utility Commission en Austin, Texas, al igual que en cada municipalidad afectada y servida por Southwestern Bell, y cada una de las oficinas de la compañía para negocios con el público en Texas tiene una copia para lectura pública.

Aviso a los Clientes de Otras Compañías de Teléfono

El registro incluye, pero no se limita a, propuestas para aumentar las tarifas para servicio de línea privada entre centrales telefónicas (interexchange private line) y servicio de central telefónica extranjera (foreign exchange FX). Cambios en dichas tarifas de servicio también afectarían a clientes de otras compañías de teléfono porque dichas compañías proveen los servicios ya mencionados en conformidad a tarifas especificadas por Southwestern Bell.

Barbed Wire Has Sticky Start

The first known barbed wire was invented in Austin by John Grinninger, a Swiss immigrant, who wanted to keep his neighbors' cows and children out of his vegetable and fruit garden. Grinninger, a bachelor, worked at an Austin iron foundry and maintained a truck farm on a half-city block. His new "contrivance" displeased his neighbors considerably when their cows came home scratched and their children got holes in their britches. It's reported that his neighbors tried, unsuccessfully, to run Grinninger out of town. In 1862, a slave, tempted by Grinninger's bag of money,

Fees Collected

The monthly report of fees collected in the County Clerks office of Haskell County by Rhonda Moeller, County Clerk, for the month ending May 1981 include: Recording Fees, $1755.00; Chattel Mortgage Fees, $347.00; Marriage License Fees, $45.00; Copies, $420.00; Criminal Court Fees, $75.00; Criminal Justice Planning Fund, $25.00; Comp., $50.00; Law Enforcement Education Fund, $5.00; Probate Court Fees, $127.00; Law Library, $30.00; Letters Testamentary, $8.00; Judge, Sheriff and County Attorney, $182.00; Fines, $500.00; Trial Fees, $5.00 for a total of $3574.00.

Savings Bond Report

Sales of Series EE and HH United States Savings Bonds in Haskell County were reported today by County Bond Chairman, R.W. Herren to be $2461. Sales for the first four month period totaled $31,529 for 25% of the 1981 goal of $125,000.

Texas sales during the month amounted to $20,913,033, while sales for the first four months of 1981 totaled $93,196,515 with 37% of the yearly sales goal of $252.3 million achieved.

was convicted of bludgeoning Grinninger to death with an axe.

It was 1867 before the first U.S. patent for barbed wire was issued to a New Jersey man. Years of litigation followed with many claims of prior use. However, some alleged inventors remained in the background and did not press their claims because barbed wire had such a bad reputation. The idea of using a fence with sharp projections that might harm livestock other than one's own was simply inexcusable. It took men like John Warne "Bet-A-Million" Gates (one of the founders of present Texaco) and H.B. Sanborn to change the minds of cattlemen across the country. Gates, a poor boy from Illinois who made his first million by his twenty-fifth birthday due to his amazing sales ability, built a barbed wire fence around wild cattle in San Antonio in the 1870s.

The fence corralled the beasts so effectively that Gate's company could not fill all the orders.

H.B. Sanborn erected model fences in the 1870s and 80s including one around his own 120,000-acre Frying Pan Ranch. Later, Sanborn laid out the present city of Amarillo on his ranch land.

Barbed wire, when finally accepted, saved the cattle industry because it gave cattlemen control over their own herds.

The Texas Historical Commission has placed an OFFICIAL TEXAS HISTORICAL MARKER honoring the Grinninger Fence on the west bank of Waller Creek, north side of Town Lake, Austin. The National Register of Historic Places, archeological investigations, and museum services are other programs administered by the Texas Historical Commission.

Speakers Set For ACU's Anniversary

Tickets are still available for luncheon and dinner events featuring Judge Abner McCall, Senator Orrin Hatch, (r-Utah), Roger Staubach and Dr. William F. Banowsky, June 17-19 in Abilene Christian University's Moody Coliseum.

McCall, chancellor of Baylor University, will speak Friday, July 17, at 5:30 p.m. at the dinner that will officially open the National Christian Education Conference, being conducted as the concluding event of ACU's 75th Anniversary Year. His topic will be "Private Education: Its Heritage and Hope in America."

Sen. Hatch, a leader on the Senate Education committee, will address guests at a noon luncheon on Saturday, July 18, concerning "Education:

Its Precepts and Promises for Our Nation."

Former Dallas Cowboy Staubach will speak that evening at a 5:30 dinner concerning "Character Building for the Future of Our Country."

The conference will conclude on Sunday when Banowsky, president of the University of Oklahoma, will keynote a noon luncheon, speaking on "Confronting the Moral Issues of Our Day."

Banowsky helped open the university's 75th anniversary year last August as the keynote speaker for the academic convocation luncheon at Abilene Civic Center.

In addition to the four main gatherings, numerous workshops have been planned for special interest groups involved in various aspects of Christian education. Dr. J.D. Thomas, professor of Bible, is heading plans for the three-day conference, which is expected to draw guests from more than 20 states.

Tickets for the luncheon and dinner events are $5.75 per person and may be obtained by writing to Mr. John Duty, Reservations, ACU Station, Box 7842, Abilene, Texas 79699.

Rural Texans: More healthy?

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Living in the clean air and less congested areas of rural Texas makes you healthier than city folks. Right? Wrong, says a University of Texas faculty member.

Dr. Mary Walker, who directs the Texas Rural Health Field Services Program, says the mental and physical health of rural Texans is markedly worse than that of city dwellers.

Few health professionals, facilities or services exist where populations are sparse, says Dr. Walker, who has found rural Texans are less educated, poorer and likely to die sooner than urban Texans. It is her belief that if "health" is defined in terms of environmental, physical, mental and social factors, it is inaccurate to say rural residents are receiving health care.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower

U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

The President has won some important battles in his fight to bring the federal budget under control, winning crucial votes recently in both houses of Congress that will pave the way for his budget reforms.

Questions have been raised, however, about the effect a combined program of tax and spending cuts will have on our goal of a balanced budget. I'd like to show, in the limited space available, how these programs will bring about a balanced budget and how they fit in the President's overall economic program.

These tax and spending cuts do represent integral parts of the President's program. The Federal Reserve, as another part of the program, must not permit inflationary expansion of the money supply, a direction in which the independent Fed seems to be moving.

The President's proposed tax rate reductions are needed to offset rising tax rates due to the inflationary policies of the past. The tax reductions will be more than paid for, however, (1) by reductions in spending, (2) by additional revenue generated from faster economic growth and (3) by higher levels of private saving.

As to balancing the budget, that will be impossible without the tax reductions. It has become clear in recent years that the budget cannot be balanced simply by taxing at higher and higher levels.

No, what is needed is less government spending and increased production in the private sector which the tax cuts will generate. Without the tax cuts, the economy will continue to stagnate.

This continuing stagnation will increase pressure for spending on welfare programs at the same time that tax receipts are beginning to fall because of reduced work and investment.

On the other hand, if tax rates are cut, the incentives mentioned earlier will stimulate additional work. Unemployment and welfare spending will fall. Tax receipts will rise. More goods will be produced, easing pressure on price levels.

Reduced inflation will ease government spending, as cost-of-living adjustments become smaller. Interest rates will also fall, lowering the burden of financing and the national debt, all leading toward a balanced budget and less inflation. Indeed, without such a program there is little hope of ever balancing the budget.

It is true that deficits will continue for the next two or three years. This is simply unavoidable given the fantastic growth in government spending programs which has occurred in the past few years.

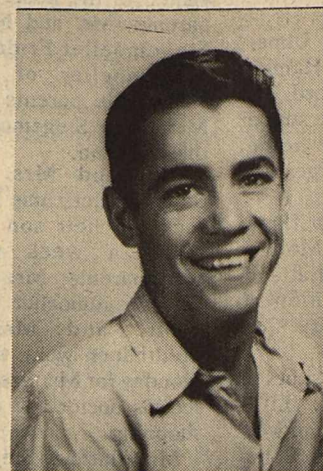

To end the deficits any sooner than the President's economic program projects would require the absolute abolition of many essential programs, including some in the defense field.

The solution today, then, is to cut taxes and stimulate work, investment and saving. If enough saving occurs, and it is believed that it will, then the temporary governmental deficits will be financed from that saving rather than through the inflationary process of Federal Reserve money creation.

Inspiration #3

Consider the uniqueness in the style of the Scriptures.

1. The brevity of entire books. Genesis has 50 chapters yet tells of the origin of the world and all that is in it.

2. The brevity of Bible incidents. Genesis 3 has 24 verses yet tells the origin of sin suffering, death, toil, and the need for a Messiah.

3. The omissions of the scriptures. As an illustration the Gospel of John completely omits the birth of John the Baptizer and Jesus' birth. It deals only with a specific point at hand.

4. The impartiality of the scriptures. The Bible sets forth both the virtues and the follies of its characters.

5. The calmness of the scriptures. The wonderful and the commonplace are described alike in the Bible.

Here you will find a letter from Senator Lloyd Bentsen. This was in answer to a situation caused by the nine blind men on the Supreme Court which I discussed with Sen. Bentsen.

If there is anything pending or in force in our Federal Government that you would like to see changed, please write and tell Charles Stenholm, Lloyd Bentsen or John Tower your views on it.

Believe me "the squeaking wheel gets the grease."

Mr. Charles E. Smith
204 North First
Haskell, Texas 79521

Dear Mr. Smith:

Thank you for your recent correspondence.

I am firmly opposed to compulsory busing for racial balance and since entering the Senate I have voted time and time again—in fact, over 40 times—against busing. As you may know, I cosponsored legislation, which became law, that prohibits funds provided by the HEW budget to be used for forced busing. This was the first anti-busing legislation passed by the Senate and I was pleased to cosponsor it. I continue to believe that the education of our children will not be enhanced by moving them out of their neighborhoods and I will continue my efforts to see that this practice is stopped.

I appreciate your taking the time to contact me.

Sincerely,
Lloyd Bentsen

SELF-CONTROL CAN BE THE SMARTEST THING YOU DO THIS SUMMER...

Self-control can be the smartest thing you do this summer. Sometimes you have to cut down on the things you like, that takes self-control. Self-control is important when you overindulge in too many calories... or when you over cool your home. It can be rough on your pocketbook if you set your thermostat too low on hot summer days. WTU recommends setting your thermostat at 78 degrees or higher. Clean or replace your air conditioner filter at least once a month so your unit will operate as efficiently as possible.
