SIX POINTS

Haskell Indian Joe Benavides is shown leaving a pile of players on his way to a 49 yard touchdown. Indian Joe Ortiz (84), is in front of Benavides to block. Benavides was the leading rusher in the game with 11 yards on 16 carries and two touchdowns.

Shotgun Offense Guns Down Munday, 33-19

A new quarterback, a new offense and a fired up group of Haskell Indians combined to defeat the Munday Moguls, 33-19, last Friday night in Indian Stadium.

A stunned Indian crowd watched as the Tribe offense started the game with a passing attack from a shotgun formation and moved the ball 74 yards for a touchdown on their first possession.

Highlight of the drive was the completion of four of five passes by Mark Bailey for a total of 61 of the 74 yards.

Bailey, in his first starting roll as Indian Quarterback, completed 10 of 14 first half passes for a total of 171 yards.

The Tribe established a strong ground game during the second half and only threw four passes.

After receiving the opening kickoff, Bailey started the game with an incomplete pass before connecting with Joe Benavides for 11 yards, Monte Moeller for 13 and Jonnie Hise for 25. Hise carried five times during the drive for a total of 10 yards before Bailey connected with Moeller for 12 yards and a Tribe TD. Bailey kicked the PAT to make the score 7-0 with 8:10 left in the first quarter.

The Tribe defense stopped Munday on their first possession and the offense moved the ball to within eight yards of another TD before a pass interception halted the drive.

The defense again held the Moguls but a fumble halted the next Tribe attempt.

The Indians got things together on their next possession with Bailey connecting with Benavides for nine yards and Joe Ortiz for 20 yards. Benavides carried for 11 yards and Hise added four before Bailey found Aaron Weaver and connected for a 30 yard TD pass. Bailey's kick was good.

Just prior to the end of the first half, Munday moved the ball to the one yard line when an Indian defender and a Munday receiver juggled the ball with the Moguls ending up with the pigskin. On the next play the Moguls scored and the PAT was good making the halftime score 14-7.

The Moguls moved to within one point of the Tribe on the second play of the third period with a 31 yard touchdown run. The PAT failed.

The Tribe added to their lead with 4:06 left in the period when Hise scored on a six yard run capping a 57 yard nine play drive. The drive started with a four yard pass to James Davis and continued with Benavides carrying four times for 24 yards and Hise rushing for the remainder. The PAT failed and the Tribe lead 20-13.

With 2:41 left in the game, Munday again moved to within one point when they scored on a 40 yard run. The go-ahead attempt for two points failed.

The Tribe took over on their own 46 yard line following an onside kick by the Moguls. Benavides carried for four and one yards before breaking loose over the middle for 49 yards and a Haskell

TD. The PAT failed.

The Tribe defense again proved too much for the Moguls following the kickoff. The Moguls took possession on their own nine yard line and lost possession on a fourth and 15 giving the Tribe the ball on the four.

Benavides carried in on the first play and the PAT was good finalizing the score at 33-19 with 36 seconds left.

Benavides was the leading rusher for the Tribe with 111 yards on 16 carries and two TD's. Hise had 64 yards on 19 carries and one TD. Hise was the leading receiver with three catches for 60 yards. Ortiz caught two Bailey passes for 36 yards, Benavides caught two for 20 yards, Moeller caught two for 25 yards including a 12 yard TD pass. Weaver caught one, a 30 yard TD catch and Davis caught one for four yards.

The win moved the Tribe to 1-2 in District play and 4-4 for the year.

The loss was the first in District for the Moguls and only their second of the season, falling 20-19 to Rule.

The Tribe will travel to Paducah this Friday night. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

VOLUME NINETY-FIVE HASKELL, TEXAS 79521, NOVEMBER 5, 1981 NUMBER FORTY-FIVE

Two Teams Change In District 7-AA Realignment

University Interscholastic League officials released new district assignments Monday which included several changes for area schools.

Haskell, Munday, Paducah, and

Seymour will remain in District 7-AA. Crowell and Quanah will move to other districts and Hamlin and Rotan will be added to 7-AA.

Rule will be in District 3-A with Aspermont, Chillicothe, Crowell, Jayton, Knox City and Matador.

Paint Creek will be in a six man district with Lueders-Avoca, Gail, Hermleigh, Grady, McCaulley, Roscoe and Trent.

Rochester and Weinert will be in a six man district with Patton Springs, Benjamin, Goree, Guthrie, Harold, Higgins and Vernon Northside.

The realignment will give Haskell football fans a closer district schedule since Rotan and Hamlin are both closer to Quanah and Crowell.

At the same time Rochester and Weinert will increase their travel distance considerably. Higgins is in the very North East corner of the Texas Panhandle, about 200 miles from Rochester and Weinert.

District 7-AA officials met Monday night in Haskell and drew for the 1982 district schedule. The non-district schedule will be completed later this week and announced next week.

The district schedule will include:
 October 8 Seymour, There
 October 15 Hamlin, Here
 October 22 Munday, Here
 October 29 Paducah, There
 November 5 Rotan, There

County Voters Approve Five

Slightly over 500 Haskell County voters approved five of seven proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution Tuesday.

Local voters rejected amendments one and three.

Amendment one dealt with tax relief for redevelopment areas and county voters rejected the issue, 275-236.

Amendment three, authorizing management committee for state funds, was rejected, 369-132 by local voters.

Local voters strongly supported all five other amendments by about two to one margins.

The turnout in Haskell County was light and was comparable with other portions of the state.

A complete list of county returns by Precinct is printed below. The results are unofficial and will be canvassed by the Haskell County Commissioners Court during their regular meeting next Monday.

Brush and Palette

In no other line of work will you hear more false statements about materials used than in painting. You've most likely heard some of these: use sable brushes only for details and to finish a picture; never use black, it's not a color; Zinc White always yellows. Misstatements all, but the most glaring misconceptions have to do with painting knives. First of all, they're incorrectly called palette knives, which are essentially for mixing on the palette and for scraping paint off the palette. The misapprehension about painting knives is that they should be used only to produce thick, heavy effects. Not true. Painting knives can give you textures that are smooth as well as rough and thin as well as thick. Moreover you can use painting knives for very realistic painting as well as for the more obvious interpretive techniques. There are 25-30 different types of knives. Experiment with these knives; you'll find that you may add a new dimension to your painting pleasure.

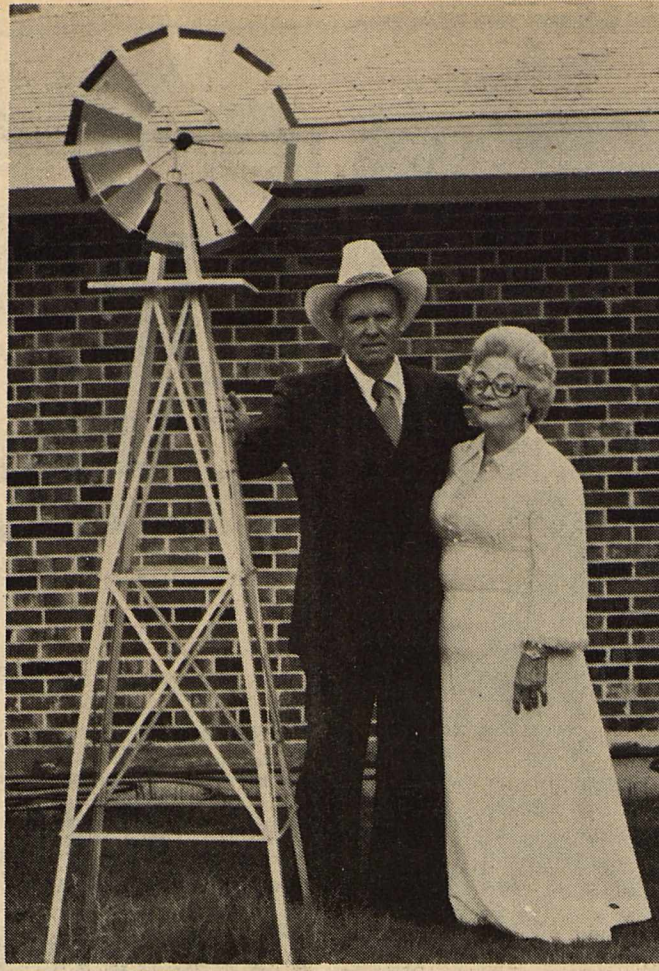

A. There are no special colors for clear glass. To paint the illusion of glass, you should look for the highlights and reflections on the glass and paint these in tones of gray that you can make with black and white. Add a little bit of warm color to these gray mixtures because these tones are caused by light that is usually warm. A touch of Burnt Sienna or Burnt Umber will do. First of all, you begin by painting a background. Then add the reflections and highlights as a second step. Using a very dark background, blue-black for instance, start a glass with the lighter tones of gray, due to the background that it is up against. If you are painting a glass of milk, paint the milk first, then put the glass around it.

Q. Can you suggest a paper for pastels that you make my pastels pictures look smooth? Here's a sample of what my work looks like.

A. From your sample, I believe you are not applying enough pastel paint. The smoothness of a pastel application is not a matter of the paper you use but more a buildup of the pigment itself. Bear down on the stick, don't be afraid! Pastels are meant to be opaque so the surface should be completely covered. Then the edges of the heavily applied pastel can be blended together easily and softly. Check with your art supplier for the various papers used for pastel painting. I found the suede finish delightful.

HINT: For those who do not like Picasso, do not look at him. Avoid museums that display his works. If you prefer Grandma Moses, look at Grandma Moses.

Write your hints and questions to me, Faye Schnuriger, P.O. Box 134, Haskell, Texas 79521. I will not use your name but do want you to sign your letters.

All four of the couple's children were present. They include Betty Sue Wolfe of Potosi, her husband, Erby Hugh, two sons, Lance Wade and wife, Pattie and Flint Todd; Shirley Ann Story of Wichita Falls, her husband, Danny R. and son Craig Gordon; Johny Gordon Larned of Haskell and Timothy Blaine of Wichita Falls.

A host of family and friends congratulated the couple with telegrams, telephone calls, flowers, and gifts. Paintings in the Community Room were all by Florence Larned. Poster size pictures of

Christian Missionary Society Meets

On the evening of Nov. 2, Kathy Garrison hosted the Christian Missionary Society in her home with seventeen members and one visitor present.

Kim Crawford, president, opened the meeting with a business meeting in which coming events were discussed and plans made for them. Among them was that "The Revelations" a singing group from Dallas Christian College, will be at the First Christian Church the weekend of Nov. 14-15 to take part in the services. Everyone is welcome to come hear this group sing.

Marjorie Pace gave a beautiful devotion on "Spirit of Gratitude" from Ps. 105 and closed with prayer.

Meralin Sue Holt introduced Linda Chapman to the group. She told us about her trip to Brazil. She said the purpose of the trip was to share with others the love of Jesus and the blessing received when He is allowed to work within one's life. She told us much about the people and their living condition there, which made us more aware of the blessing we enjoy here in our beloved United States, to be more thankful for God's blessing, and to pray that God will help and bless them. Many thanks Linda for being with us.

The meeting closed with the hostess serving very delicious refreshments.

Protecting Children From Crime

The following article is a public service by the Haskell Free Press through the cooperation of Joseph Thigpen, District Attorney. Its purpose is to make you aware of a prosecutor's role, of your responsibility as a resident of this county and how we can work together to alleviate some of society's problems.

PROTECTING CHILDREN FROM CRIME

September means school and for parents of young children, their child's trek to and from school each day can be a constant source of apprehension.

Parents should teach their children basic, commonsense precautions and work with school officials and the PTA to initiate crime prevention strategies in and around schools.

1. Give your child a healthy suspicion for "strangers", and a stranger is anyone a child's parents don't know, even if the person knows the child's name or "seems like a friend."

2. Children should never accept food or an automobile ride from a stranger and should never play around public restrooms.

3. Teach your children to never open the door to a stranger and never enter a stranger's home. If your child is selling Girl Scout cookies, Easter Seals or Christmas cards door-to-door, make sure he or she is accompanied by at least one friend.

4. If a stranger bothers your child, he or she should remember the stranger's description, his clothing and the color and license number of his car. Call the police immediately.

Parents of young children might consider organizing "child safety patrols" if child harassment becomes a serious problem. A more aggressive form of the "block parent" idea are child safety patrols, which are composed of parents who walk the streets when school opens and closes each day.

Know the length of time it takes your child to walk to and from school. Immediately check any delay in arrival home. Also know the safest route to and from school and instruct your children to follow that route. If your children are to arrive home after dark, arrange to meet them.

Know your children's playmates and where they congregate. Visit the school and become acquainted with teachers and school officials. You may learn of delinquent behavior before it becomes a serious problem. Give the school instructions to release your children only to persons you have designated in writing.

Tell your children never to admit being home alone—on the phone or to someone at the door. Be sure your babysitter is a responsible person and capable of acting in an emergency.

Children should be encouraged to talk with their parents any time they have a problem, whether the problem is with a stranger, friend or relative. Remind your children that the police officer is a friend who can be called on any time there is trouble.

Social Security Collections

According to Glyn Hammons, District Manager in Abilene, the Social Security Administration is redesigning its debt collection system to bring it into compliance with the joint General Accounting Office/Department of Justice standards for debt collection by Federal agencies. These Federal standards call for aggressive collection to recover all monies owed to Federal agencies. The standards are a significant departure from SSA's current debt collection policies, but are necessary because of the growing losses on uncollected debts being experienced by many Federal agencies.

Most of the debt owed to the Social Security Administration results from Social Security, supplemental security income, and black lung beneficiaries being paid more than they are due in monthly benefits. Although Social Security has been collecting outstanding debts, the more aggressive Federal collection standards are expected to result in a higher percentage of recovery.

The Federal standards offer several collection options. These options would permit Federal agencies to:

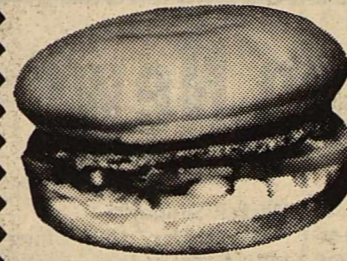

- collect interest on all overdue debts and debts that are repaid in installments.
- report overdue debts to commercial credit bureaus and use private collection agencies to collect overdue debts.
- These options would supplement the collection methods agencies currently use to collect debts.
- Social Security has established a high-level management panel to examine all options offered and to choose those options that will best suit Social Security's collection needs.

Area Green Thumb Workers Meet

Green Thumb workers from eight counties met Monday, November 2, at the Snyder Senior Center to learn some "tricks of the trade" when it comes to finding permanent jobs in their home communities.

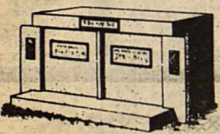

The workers participated in a "Job Hunt" session to teach them how to re-assess their job interests and to promote themselves to local employers.

The nearly sixty Green Thumbs present at the session are now working under the sponsorship of non-profit community organizations such as schools, senior centers, libraries, museums, community centers, colleges and housing programs.

The Green Thumb program stresses the needed rural community services when it places a worker with a sponsor. A primary goal of the program is to assist workers in finding permanent non-Green Thumb employment to meet their individual needs.

Green Thumb, an equal opportunity employer, is the oldest federal senior citizen employment and placement program in the nation. Sponsored by National Farmers Union, Green Thumb has been active in Texas since 1970 and now has workers in 107 counties.

Local workers and sponsors attending the training session were: Rita Rinera, Eula Arend, Neat Bevel from Haskell.

Novices Safer With Chain Saws

Skilled with a chain saw? Don't take it for granted! A recent government study shows that operators with more than six years experience with chain saws have more accidents than novices.

With cool weather coming on, economy minded Texans will be busy with chain saws cutting wood for winter. Now's the time to review safe ways to use the equipment, according to Nelson Mueller, Texas Safety Association (TSA) vice president for home and leisure activities.

Follow these guidelines for safe chain saw operation:

1. Review the owner's manual for safety and operating instructions.
2. Perform routine maintenance tasks to insure the saw operates properly. Be sure the chain does not move while idling and that the chain brake works.
3. Do not allow children or animals near while cutting. All operators should be mature, properly instructed individuals.

4. Dress in close-fitting clothes. Wear a safety hat, shoes, gloves and hearing protection.

5. Fuel the engine in a well-ventilated place. Refuel only after the engine has cooled. Do not re-start the engine until all spilled fuel has dried.

6. Do not start the engine on your knee or leg.

7. Be certain your body is in a completely stable position before cutting. When felling a tree, plan for a safe escape away from the falling tree's path.

8. Hold the saw firmly with both hands while cutting. Run the saw at full throttle when cutting to avoid kick-back.

9. Do not operate the saw in a tree, on a ladder or any unstable place.

10. Turn off the saw when setting it down and when moving from one work place to another.

Nelson Mueller, safety and health administrator for Alcoa in Rockdale, says experienced operators should redouble their efforts to cut safely this year. He points to a recent government study which shows experienced operators of chain saws have more injuries than novices. One accident could wipe out any money saved by cutting wood yourself, Mueller says.

Texas Is Tops For Business Climate

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said it's no accident that Texas earned the top spot in the nation in a Boston business magazine's survey of states to locate small businesses.

Bullock said the October issue of INC. Magazine rated Texas as the number one overall place to run a small company.

"The healthy attitude Texas takes toward small business is a conscious policy which has been and must be tended to carefully at every level of government and economic life," Bullock said.

"If any state could be pegged as Number 1 overall as a place to run a small company, Texas would be the one," the magazine reported.

Texas made the top 10 in labor, taxes and capital resources; more top rankings than any other state, according to the magazine.

Bullock said the magazine singled out Texas in taxes because the state has low debt per capita and the lowest employer unemployment contribution rate.

The magazine concluded that in the area of taxes the most important feature of the state was the absence of a corporate or personal income tax.

Tax rates are the most important factor in any comparison of a state's business climate, Bullock said, and it's hardly any surprise that the state did so well.

The magazine assigned each state a letter grade from A through F, with the rankings showing 10 A's, 18 B's, 11 C's, 6 D's and 5 F's.

Wheat Rust Causing Problems For Producers

An old problem is causing new concern for wheat growers throughout the Texas wheat belt, but there isn't much the farmer can do to help this year's crop, says a plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The problem is wheat rust, a disease often caused by a microscopic fungus which thrives in the moist, warm environment of autumn, explained Dr. Robert Berry, the plant pathologist.

"Wheat farmers all over the wheat belt of Texas have become aware of a yellow color and poor appearance of their crop in many fields," the Extension specialist said.

The oldest leaves on a wheat plant will show the most damage. At first, there is a small yellow fleck on the leaf. The spot enlarges for a short time and becomes a round, rough spot beneath the leaf surface. Soon the bump becomes pale in color, then yellow, and breaks to release many golden yellow rust spores. The spores blow to other leaves and start the whole process again. It takes about twelve days under good conditions, Berry said.

The best conditions for the disease are mild temperatures and long periods of wetness on wheat leaves. The spores will not infect a dry leaf and they soon perish under extremely high or low temperatures, he explained.

"As the disease progresses, each generation is more damaging," Berry said. Many fields have so much leaf rust at this time that older leaves are dead, middle leaves are yellow and only a few young, green leaves remain in the crown.

The continual loss of leaves to rust is something like heavy grazing by livestock. The plant will survive with good moisture but it will make little progress. "In fact, it is a good idea to graze a rusted field so as to use the forage and reduce the production of rust spores," Berry advised.

Leaf rust is not a new problem to wheat producers, he noted, it appears every fall on volunteer or early planted wheat. It spreads to younger plants and the epidemic increases rapidly until the weather forces a slow down.

The spores don't grow at low temperatures and many may freeze. Some will go south on the first northwind and carry on the disease in a more favorable climate.

"Rusted leaves are more sensitive to frost injury, so we usually expect no leaf rust after Thanksgiving," Berry said. Counties below the caprock may not be so lucky, he cautioned. The organism has occasionally spent the winter in the San Angelo area but it may be killed all the way to San Antonio or even farther south, he said.

In the spring, leaf rust may move slowly to the north. "It may reach as far as Munday or Seymour on southerly winds and it might even show up at Childress in some years," Berry said. "However, in my twenty years in the area, I've seen rust above the caprock only once."

In 1981 leaf rust was extremely heavy throughout the eastern Texas Panhandle, he noted. Most plant pathologists blamed the problem on an unusually mild winter last season and timely spring moisture.

"Leaf rust causes more concern to cowboys who happen to need wheat for grazing. They always plant early and the rust organism has a long time to raise many generations before cold weather comes. One solution is to delay planting as long as possible. Wheat seeded at this time will have no trouble with leaf rust," the Extension specialist said.

Another control is the use of rust resistant varieties. Sturdy, Sage, Osage, and Newton have resistance to leaf rust built into their genes. They will have much fewer rusted spots, and the pustules will be much smaller, he said.

Some fungicides have good activity against the rust fungus. Their use can not be recommended, though, because they do not have the proper label for use on feed or food wheat or wheat used for grazing, Berry cautioned. The cost of chemical controls might prevent their use on wheat even if it was legal, he added.

"There isn't much the wheat producer can do about rust on his crop this year. He can make plans for next year so as to prevent rust losses, and he can be thankful for the moisture which will help the wheat through the winter," Berry said.

10 Commandments Of Firearm Safety

Accidents with firearms don't just happen. They are caused by ignorance, carelessness or disregard for safety rules. Abide by the following "Ten Commandments of Firearm Safety" each time you handle a firearm. Don't let a needless hunting tragedy mar your hunting pleasure.

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun.
2. Watch that muzzle! Be able to control the direction of the muzzle even if you should stumble.
3. Be sure the barrel and action are clear of obstructions and that you have only ammunition of the proper size for the gun you are carrying.

Cotton Classing Samples Increasing

Harvest activity was the heaviest of the season, but we are receiving less than one-half the expected volume of samples when all gins are operating at full capacity, reports B.B. Manly, Jr. of the USDA Cotton Marketing Services Office in Abilene.

Around 15,000 samples were classed this week, bringing our season total to 40,000. The crop year 1979 was similar to this crop, and 100,000 bales had been processed as October 1979 ended.

Local cotton prices range from 44 cents for grades below 42 up to 57 cents for grade 31, staple 32. Grades 42 and above brought 7 to 9 cents per pound above the CCC loan. Grade 42, staple 32, 35 to 49 mike brought around 53 cents per pound. Grade 4131, 35 to 49 mike brought around 54 cents per pound.

Cottonseed prices paid to producers ranged from $75 to $90 per ton.

The quality of cotton classed during the week ending October 29 was as follows. Grade 42 was predominant with 42 percent; Grade 41 was 20 percent, and grade 52 was 14 percent. Staple 32 was predominant with 45 percent, staple 33 was 36 percent, and 31 was 12 percent.

Micronaire readings continued very good with 97 percent in the premium range 35 to 49. Nineteen percent was reduced in grade on account of Bark, and 3 percent on account of Grass.

Hunter Education Course Set

A complete course in hunter education has been scheduled for Haskell on November 9-12 at 7:00-9:00 p.m. in the Junior High School building according to Howard Canafax, hunter safety instructor.

The course is open to adults and youngsters and will include instruction in rifle, shotgun, and handgun safety, outdoor ethics, conservation, survival, game identification and wilderness first aid.

Those students successfully completing the course will be issued a hunter safety card from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. The course fee is $2.50 per student to cover the registration, materials, and postage.

More than 80,000 Texans have already been certified as safe hunters. Even though this course is not mandatory at the present time to hunt in Texas, it is mandatory in 29 other states before a hunting license can be purchased.

For more information, contact Howard Canafax at 864-2280 in Haskell.

Why gas is plentiful:

Two New Sources

There's enough natural gas in proven and existing reserves to heat America's homes and run its factories for many years. And now gas is flowing in enormous volumes from two new sources: the tight basins and the deep basins right here in Texas and Oklahoma. Experts believe each of these sources could double the nation's proven supply. And our pipeline system will let us deliver your share of this gas efficiently and economically. It's another reason to be glad you're served by the Lone Star system.

Gas. It's plentiful, efficient and right for the times.

EDITORIAL:

Disabled American Veterans... They Paid the Price for Peace!

The screams of the wounded and the stench of gunpowder surrounded Robert Richardson, a private in America's Continental Army, but he fought on until a British cannonball struck his hand spike. It broke in two, one end tearing his belly open. The wind from the cannonball left his right arm useless. Richardson's blood had paid the price of peace and freedom. But, for the rest of his life, he was totally disabled.

For a while, the Continental Congress provided the Revolutionary War veteran a disability pension of half his military salary. It helped, but Richardson was unable to support himself on this meager allowance. Even this practice ended shortly after the War of Independence when the new national government turned responsibility for disabled veterans over to the individual states and their Poor Law systems.

Life was tough—really tough—for Richardson and other patriots wounded in the struggle to free America from colonial chains. Many were reduced to begging.

Things are better for the 2½ million disabled veterans living in today's America. But, on Veterans Day this year, it's appropriate to recall what happened to the disabled veterans of our Revolutionary War. What happened to them established a pattern that has, to some extent, been played out after each of our country's nine wars—a pattern of forgetfulness that's playing itself out again today, just six years after the last American was killed in Vietnam, our most recent war.

Perhaps that's understandable. When wars end, people want to get back to normal, peacetime life, leaving the turmoil and anxiety of war behind. Following the Vietnam War—the most unpopular war in our nation's history with the single exception of the Civil War—the process of forgetting has been unusually rapid. People want to bury the bitter social division of the Vietnam years. That's good, but there's a tragedy in the way we're going about it: When people forget about wars, they tend to forget about the sacrifices that veterans, particularly disabled veterans, have made. And when the public forgets the needs of disabled veterans, so do their elected representatives.

Maybe that's why the Veterans Administration (VA) hospital system has been hit by one budget cut after another for the past five years, forcing the VA to turn thousands of eligible veterans away from the doors of its health care facilities. Maybe that explains why job programs for disabled and Vietnam era veterans have been kept too small to make a serious dent in the employment problems these veterans have experienced. Maybe that's why we've seen, for the first time this year, curtailments in GI Bill educational programs.

Maybe that's the reason veterans' preference in federal employment was attacked so viciously back in 1977 and 1978. Maybe that's why the VA and other federal agencies were so slow initially in recognizing the seriousness of such problems as the defoliant Agent Orange, the exposure of Cold War veterans to radiation in atomic weapons tests, and the post-traumatic stress difficulties of half a million or more Vietnam veterans.

Think about it. Could it be that the American people have forgotten the warriors as they went about the process of forgetting the trying times of war? The 700,000-member Disabled American Veterans (DAV) believes this is exactly what happened...not just after Vietnam, but after World War I, World War II, and the Korean War as well. But no veteran of any war should ever be forgotten. Without the sacrifices these men and women made, there would be no United States.

Back in 1903, Theodore Roosevelt said something that nearly every American would probably agree with. "A man who is good enough to shed his blood for his country is good enough to get a square deal afterward," he stated. Looking at veterans' programs realistically, it's unlikely that our country would ever let the plight of its disabled veterans get as bad as it was for Private Richardson and his disabled comrades following the American Revolution. But it would be a mistake to simply assume, without giving it much thought, that all of our political leaders are bending over backward to make sure veterans—even disabled veterans—are getting the kind of "square deal" Roosevelt was talking about.

On Veterans Day, 1981, we must ask ourselves a very basic question. Can we do too much to guarantee a square deal for a sailor whose arms were crushed when a Nazi torpedo smashed through the hull of his ship...for the pilot whose body was burned and disfigured when his plane was shot down over Korea...for the Marine whose legs were blown off by a Viet Cong booby trap in the Mekong Delta...or for the World War I soldier who lost his sight in the Battle of the Marne? Every American owes these people a debt that can never be repaid.

WTU To Interconnect With Sister Companies

West Texas Utilities Company and its three sister companies in the Central and South West Corporation have received approval from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) to interconnect with each other across state lines and operate as an integrated system.

The FERC in Washington authorized a proposal which will result in construction of electric transmission lines connecting the Southwest Power Pool with the Electric Reliability Council of Texas, which historically has operated strictly as an intrastate electric grid.

The proposal filed with the FERC for decision had been agreed to by all utilities affected, including Central and South West Corporation, Houston Lighting and Power Company and Texas Utilities Company.

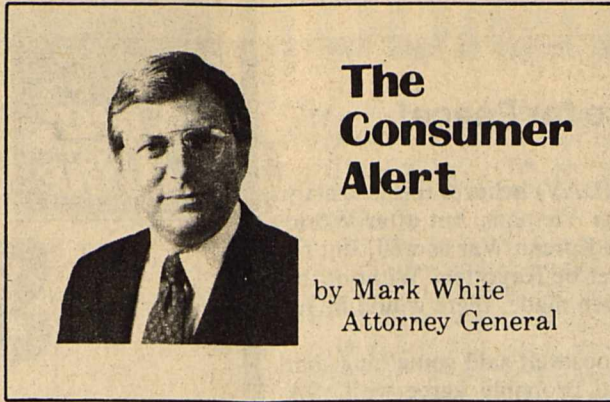

Central and South West officials said the interconnection would be accomplished with construction of direct current (DC) facilities near Vernon in North Texas and near Victoria in Southeast Texas. The North Texas interconnection is projected for completion in 1984 and the Southeast Texas interconnection in 1985. Construction activities are expected to begin immediately following receipt of required regulatory approvals.

Central and South West officials expect customers of the system's subsidiaries in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas to save about $1.7 billion in reduced expenses between 1984 and 2000 as result of the interconnection.

The CSW companies have sought for several years to integrate the CSW system, but were unable to do so because WTU and Central Power and Light Company of Corpus Christi are members of ERCOT and have not been allowed to operate in interstate commerce.

The two other CSW companies are Public Service Company of Oklahoma, with headquarters in Tulsa, and Southwestern Electric Power Company, of Shreveport. Both are members of the Southwest Power Pool and already are engaged in interstate commerce.

AUSTIN—Vacuum cleaners have come a long way since they were invented in 1899 by John S. Thurman. Estimates of households in search of these cleaning aids run as high as one in four. With that many prospective customers, dozens of companies manufacture thousands of machines yearly.

Most vacuum cleaners work on a system of fan-driven suction that takes dirt and air into a filter bag which then removes the dust while releasing vacuum cleaned air from the bag. A number of different machines employ the same basic principles in various ways.

Currently three basic types of machines are available: the upright, the canister and the combination. The upright is designed to clean carpets, employing a rotating brush and/or bar to loosen dirt and debris from the carpet while sucking them in through the machine's head. Although this type of vacuum cleaner is excellent for use on carpeted floors, it does not perform well on wooden, vinyl or tile floors. Some uprights come with hoses and attachments that can be used on other surfaces, but these attachments can prove difficult to use.

Canister vacuums are designed to clean surfaces other than carpets, are easier to carry than uprights and perform better on bare floors, stairs, walls, furniture and drapes than uprights do. However, without a beater brush, the canister does not vacuum dirt embedded in carpets as well as the upright model.

Newer on the scene than the upright and canister models is the combination machine with a "power nozzle." It is basically a canister unit with a hose and a motor-driven nozzle that uses the same type of rotating brushes employed by the upright cleaner. Although this type of machine is designed to handle both carpeted and non-carpeted floors well, it can cost as much as two separate machines.

Several factors should be considered when buying a vacuum cleaner. Suction power is the main feature most customers consider. "Peak horsepower" ratings are not always an accurate guide to the cleaning power of a good machine. Some manufacturers strip the motors before testing for peak horsepower and a bare motor would naturally have more pulling power than one with a full range of tools attached, which is how vacuum cleaners normally are used.

To accurately determine the cleaning power of a machine, it should be tested with a full bag. Suction power may be reduced by as much as 50% by a bag filled to near capacity. Also helpful is a "bleed valve," or small opening usually located on the hose or tubes of a canister, with a movable cover that can be used to control the amount of suction. Lighter cleaning, such as drapes, requires less suction than heavy cleaning. A variable speed motor and/or a bleed valve will prove a valuable aid.

The ease with which dust bags can be removed should be a major consideration when buying a machine. There are basically two types of bags, permanent and disposable. Although permanent bags are more economical, they can be messy to empty. Cleaning should be done out-of-doors or in a garage as removing dust and debris from the bag usually causes some dust to scatter.

Disposable bags are neater but a constant expense. When considering a particular machine, have the salesperson demonstrate the proper way of installing the dust bag, and check the cost of replaceable bags.

Belts are another item that require periodic replacement in most machines. Since having this done at the shop can prove costly, ask the salesperson to demonstrate the technique of changing the belts yourself. If the procedure is difficult, you might want to consider a different model of cleaner.

One more factor to consider is the availability of an authorized service center. Though most vacuum cleaners are less expensive when purchased at department or discount stores, these can require repairs to be made at service centers located in distant cities, which can be costly. Always inquire where repairs can be made, as well as the extent of the warranty.

Once you purchase a vacuum cleaner, take precautions to insure safety. Vacuum cleaners have been involved in home accidents, such as injuries to the fingers and toes as well as to the face. Never try to remove something caught in the roller without turning off the machine. Disconnect a machine before converting an upright so that it can be used with the accessory tools. Never leave children alone with the machine. Most importantly, do not use a standard household machine to vacuum wet surfaces.

With proper care and use, a vacuum cleaner should give many years of service.

Women's Aglow Fellowship To Meet In Aspermont

The Aspermont chapter of Women's Aglow Fellowship will meet Thursday November 12, at 9:30 a.m. in The New Place, Aspermont. A nursery will be provided at fifty cents per child per hour. All area women are invited to come and bring a salad to share in a salad luncheon to be served at noon.

Speaker for the program will be Pat Stanton of Lubbock. Pat has served as hostess for the Rays of Hope television program for the past five years and was on CBN Satellite for two and one-half years.

Pat Stanton was born in Dickens in the home of a Southern Baptist minister. Her husband, Jay, is a farmer and businessman and serves as an Elder with Trinity Church in Lubbock; he also serves as General Administrator for all the Rays of Hope work.

Pat asked Jesus Christ into her life when she was seven years old, and God also gave her a new start in life in 1970 when she received a tremendous healing from God. She also received the Baptism of the Holy Spirit and became a transformed wife, mother, and Christian.

Having received so much from the Lord, she had a new desire to share with others about God's healing and love. She began to share in churches and ladies' groups and was soon praying the prayer of faith for many others. God spoke to her that she would spend the rest of her life ministering peace and healing to others. She opened the Rays of Hope offices in 1975. The office is a place of counseling, intercessory prayer, and for carrying on all the general work of Rays of Hope. Many people are receiving salvation, healings, and peace because of God's love and mercy.

The Aspermont chapter of Women's Aglow Fellowship issues a special invitation to all interested area women to come and hear this exciting speaker.

Law Imposed a Year Late and $16 Million Short by the Spotlight Staff

After a year's reprieve, brought on by bureaucratic haggling, the government is stopping Social Security (SS) disability payments to criminals in jail.

Public Law 96-473, passed in October, 1980, was supposed to cut SS disability benefits to thousands of prisoners presently receiving them. Unfortunately, a year-long argument between the Justice Department, Social Security Administration (SSA) and the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) caused a delay in the implementation of the law, costing taxpayers about $16 million.

The arguing agencies could not decide if the new law would violate the criminals' right to privacy. Actually, the argument is not finished. The agencies involved have decided to cut Social Security payments to convicts while the dispute continues—but the Justice Department warns that criminals may end up suing the government for violating their right to privacy, and winning.

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

Haskell ISD, along with all the other public schools in the state, have been mandated by the Legislative to provide a program of ESL of bilingual education for students needing language development or academic help in areas of underachievement. In order to qualify for a bilingual program, a school must have 20 students in one grade that qualify as limited English proficiency (LEP). According to a recent home survey, we do not qualify on this requirement. However, we are mandated to meet the needs of students who qualify through the ESL or English as a second language program. This program when implemented will be held during one period within the regular school day. The program will be structured to assist students who need help in English oral language skills and in reading-language arts skills.

One misconception of a bilingual program or ESL program is that the students are taught Spanish. This is not true. Spanish is only used when the child is severely limited in English to teach him the concepts needed in the classroom. The object of the program is to develop English language skills and not Spanish Skills. Hopefully this program will allow students who have not developed the needed English language skills to progress at a normal rate and not fall below grade level. It will be a high intensity, concentrated program in English so that hopefully students can develop the needed reading and oral language skills to maintain a normal pace with other students their age.

The counselors and Principals conducted a home language survey of every student enrolled in Haskell ISD and all the students who indicated spoke another language other than English in the home were administered a language proficiency test in English and then their primary language. The results of these oral test and the students achievement scores on the SRA determine their eligibility for the program. The students identified as needing help in language will receive oral language training while those needing academic help will receive a different program.

Hopefully, this program will better meet the needs of certain students to help them to achieve to their highest potential. If you desire to know more about the program, you are welcome to contact Mrs. Betty Davis, the counselor, the building Principals, or me.

Free Tax Guide Available

President Reagan's Economic Recovery Act of 1981 has generated an abundance of controversy over the exact nature of the changes in the tax law. At this point the only certainty in many minds is the need to start planning now to avoid paying more than legally required in 1982 income taxes.

To aid the average taxpayer in understanding exactly what has been changed in the tax laws - both for individuals and for businesses - and when the changes take effect, "How You Can Profit From The Reagan Tax Cut," an 18-page guide to successfully planning tax strategies, is available with our charge from Tax Information Center, a New Concord, Ohio firm specializing in tax, estate and financial planning on a year-round basis.

The indisputed showpiece of the Reagan tax cut is the across-the-board reduction in individual income tax rates. The cut will total 23 percent by 1984, though the reduction for 1981 will total only 1.25 percent, a savings for the average American taxpayer ranging from less than one dollar to three or four dollars per paycheck.

But the individual income tax rate reductions aren't the only changes in the tax law. The "marriage tax," for example, has been reduced, though not eliminated. Also, as a result of the reduction in the maximum income tax rate, the maximum capital gains rate has already been dropped from 28 percent to 20 percent. Congress made this ceiling on capital gains tax available retroactive to June 10, 1981.

Taxpayers will have a little more breathing room under the new law for estimated tax payments. Under prior law, it was necessary for an individual to file an estimated tax return if the tax liability was $100 or more. Starting in 1982, the threshold amount will be $200. The amount will raise $100 per year in each succeeding year until leveling off at $500 in 1985 and subsequent years.

Through a very significant provision in the new tax law, Congress has locked in the income tax cut after 1984. Starting in 1985, the tax brackets, the zero bracket amount and the personal exemption will be adjusted for inflation. This indexing provision will stop taxpayers from being pushed from one bracket to a higher bracket simply because they receive cost-of-living increases in their salary. The rate of inflation will be measured by the Consumer Price Index.

These tax law revisions, and all the others, are explained at length in "How You Can Profit From The Reagan Tax Cut," which is available at no charge from Tax Information Center. To order a free copy, please send a self-addressed business size envelope (approximately 9 1/2 by 4 1/2 inches) and 35 cents postage to: Tax Information Center, 68210 Boden Road, New Concord, Ohio 43762.

Discussion Groups To Be Organized Here

Have you ever found yourself wondering about: How to meet other people, make friends, get married, what is marriage, what makes a good marriage, what is love, what is it like for others to be divorced, will I ever find another person who will love me? If so, maybe you would like to learn more about friendships, marriages, and divorced relationships. Friendship is a very important area for social contact for most people and the least understood or written about.

Three discussion groups are being formed; the purpose of each group is to explore and learn about relating to other people. Each of the three groups will be made up of persons in the same particular status. They will be as follows: Single persons in one group. Married persons in one group (spouse is not required but encouraged). Divorced persons in one group.

The requirements are simple: Bring yourself (and spouse if interested) and be willing to have fun, learning about yourself and other people.

The atmosphere will be relaxed and casual. No dues or money is involved.

Call: 864-3472 for more information about the groups, the meeting place and time schedule.
