Record Entries In Centennial Parade

The fourteen-block Frontier Day Parade was viewed by a large crowd of spectators who lined the parade route to see the numerous entries.

Judges for the floats had a difficult time with their decisions, feeling that every entry was deserving of an award.

First prize went to M-System for their authentic grocery store of

New Members Inducted Into Honor Society

On Tuesday, May 11, the Haskell Chapter of the National Honor Society inducted 12 new members.

New members include Melinda Blakley, Patsy Butler, Emily Cox, James Davis, Danny Griffith, Casey Hannsz, Shannon Lane, Albert Sherman, Leann Turnbow, April Turner, David Wheatley and Gena Whitaker.

Members are selected by the faculty each year. Selection is based on leadership, scholarship, character, and service.

After the induction ceremony, officers for next year were elected by both old and new members. Officers elected were David Wheatley, President; Albert Sherman, Vice-President; Shannon Lane, Secretary-treasurer; and Gena Whitaker, Store Manager.

yesteryear, complete with sawdust on the floor, antique cash register and telephone, old counters, a hanging stalk of bananas, and grocery clerks dressed as they did so long ago.

Second prize was awarded to Boot Hill Western Wear for their giant armadillo, a burrowing animal that is familiar to Texans.

Third prize winner was the float build by the 4-H Clubs of Haskell County, bearing farm animals and pioneers.

Runners-up were the Brush Arbor Church sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce that featured singers from the Church of Christ, led by Bobby Simpson; Haskell Firemen's Auxiliary float, showing an outhouse on fire and a bucket brigade to extinguish it; Haskell Memorial's hospital on wheels; Lane Apparel with a float that said "a tradition of excellence dwells in our pioneers", antique furniture on board included a "fainting couch" that is 170 years old.

Special mention is made of the Sagerton Hee Haw float with their tribute to Haskell on our 100th birthday, and with appreciation also to the Stamford Riding Club for their participation.

Parade entries were judged on four points: suitability to the Frontier Day parade theme, originality, structure and animation.

Judges were: Abe Turner, Sue Pate, Jane McAdoo, Peggy Lane, Ruby Turner, Steve Roper, and Buddy Lane.

Parade chairman Grace Womack said that no one had more fun than the Senior Citizens riding on the floats from Rice Springs Care Home and the Haskell Nursing Center—unless it was the kids from Girl Scouts, 4-H and Little League.

(Note: This week's 'Pipe Smoke' is the joint project of Charles Thornhill and Don Comedy.)

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we look back at the events of the past few weeks; the Frontier Days Celebration, the spring band concert, the Baccalaureate services, the senior parties, the All Sports banquet, the Chamber of Commerce banquet, and many other such functions that many of you have had an opportunity to attend and become a part of.

One thing comes to mind as we review these many gatherings and that it this; why do we not have a facility in Haskell, with the many things we have to offer, that can and will accommodate a group of people comfortably, without the necessity of having to piecemeal, rake and scrape-up tables, chairs, sound systems, and the many other essentials so we can have a banquet, gathering, social, or such.

Much has been discussed about the possibilities of a civic auditorium or a civic center, but that is all that has been done—only lip service; The time has come for us to do more than talk, we should, in fact must, realize that the facilities in Haskell are entirely inadequate for a gathering of more than 150, or at the most, 250 people. This is not a condemnation of the facilities that now exist, for without the Elementary School Cafeteria, The Haskell Country Club, the American Legion Hall, and the Corral Building, we would be entirely without a place to meet!

To those many of you who have had to work and gather chairs, tables and the like in order to have a meeting, "wouldn't it be nice to go to a place, take a few minutes to set up the facility, take your time decorating, and still have time to rest up before the function begins, rather than running at breakneck speed just to get set up before the function begins?" Wouldn't it be super to have a facility that had adequate heating and cooling, with a sound system that everybody could understand? Wouldn't it be great to have a capacity of 500 or 750 people, where we could have meetings, not on a grand scale, but something that we could host in Haskell, instead of having to go to Abilene or Wichita Falls or Lubbock?

All of this may sound like a farfetched dream, but we have accomplished much more in the past by all teaming together. The possibilities of a civic center have been discussed by the school, the Progressive Study Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Homecoming Association, the City and the County and probably many more groups.

Why can we not get a coalition going between these groups and every other organization in Haskell to go to work and get this done?

The only reason is not enough of us have gotten excited! The question was asked at the Chamber of Commerce banquet some three years ago: "Wouldn't it be great to have an auditorium to have a meeting such as this that we could really enjoy?"

The time has come for action, not just words.

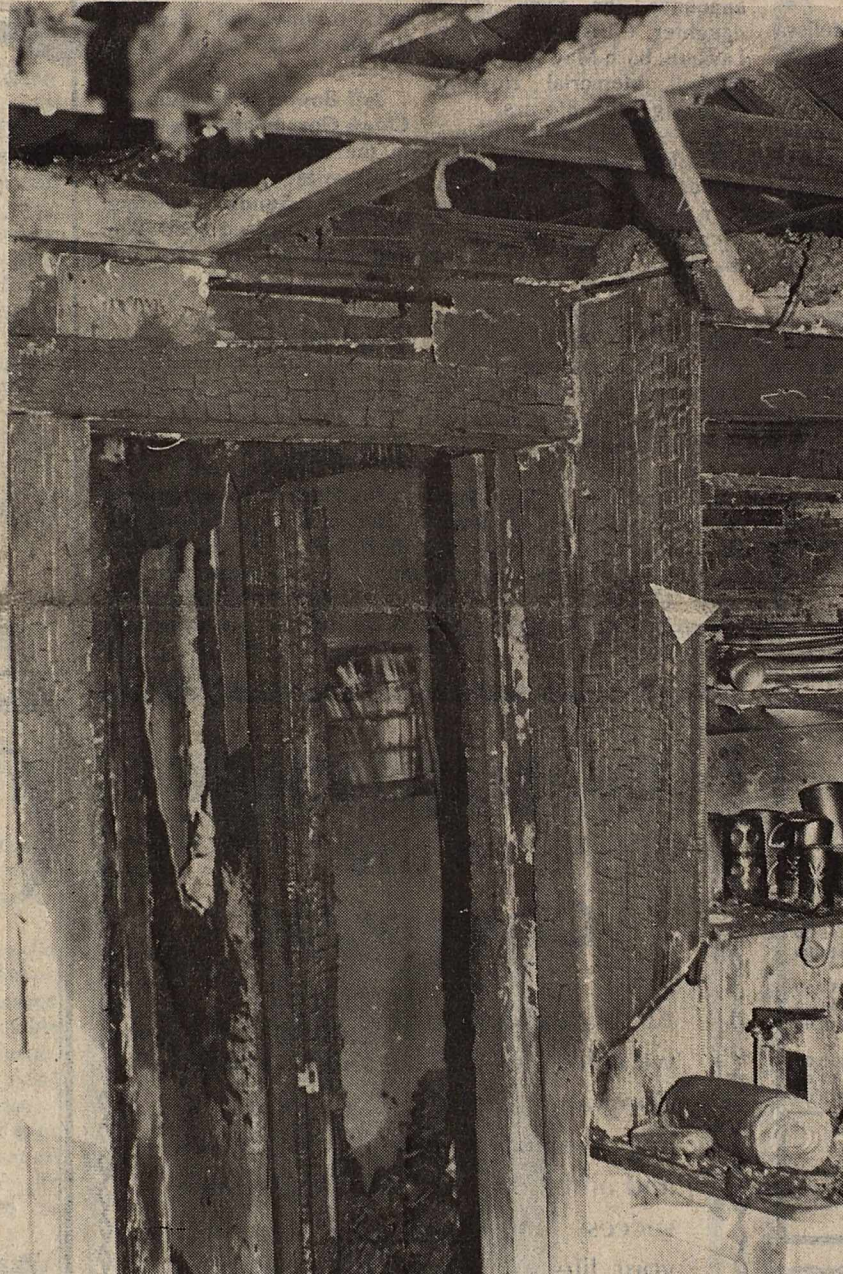

We would like to challenge each of you to come forward and set a goal of building a facility we can all call our own, and do away with these deficiencies. This goal is not an impossibility, but a very obtainable reality.

A wise old sage once said "A journey of a thousand miles begins with the first step".

It's time to make that first step. One man alone cannot accomplish this, but each of working in unison can. A great motto for us all is "together we can" and truly together we can and will build an auditorium for Haskell.

Yes, we can, but it will get done only if you are convinced that we need it, only if you are willing to get involved and work toward this goal. Each of us can do a little and get the job done, if not, we will still be talking about a civic center in Haskell in the year 2001.

In you're interested, call Charles Thornhill or Don Comedy, or the Haskell Chamber of Commerce, if not, the next time we need to move tables and chairs, we'll call you to help.

A correspondent writes, "It is easy for an artist to express himself in the confines of his studio but it is not easy to prove himself to the community in which he lives. It is also easy for a businessman to stand up in his community, but it is not pleasant for him to be counted, if he is counted on the 'wrong side'. With the assistance of my husband, paintings were hung in a business place and were changed about once a week.

At first little interest was aroused, but before too long verbal pros and cons were being heard from the public. After much confidence was gained by assuring artists, with the same experience, it was possible to prove myself to the community and 'stood up and was counted'. I then felt that I was doing more than just giving space to the walls of the business."

Q. Although I allow two to four weeks to elapse before I overpaint my canvases, quite frequently the overpainting turns dull. I use resin-oil medium and rub it into the surface before painting.

A. The dull appearance is the result of oil absorption by the lower paint layers that have not dried sufficiently; they absorb the vehicle from the super-imposed paint film. Although a thin underpainting may be sufficiently dry in a week, however, a considerable impasto may require more than four weeks to attain a condition of relative nonabsorbency.

Q. Do you think that the recent cleaning of so many old master's paintings have deprived them of their original glazes?

A. It is my observation this must be the case in many instances. If a glaze is not made up of a brilliant color, the restorer has no way of knowing whether he is removing dirt or a glaze. I shudder to think what will happen years from now when paintings are cleaned - more glazing is done today than years ago. If you have not done glazing in your work, try it!

Q. I should like to have my thinly executed paintings dry within a day without using an artificial drier. How shall I proceed?

A. Driers used by painters are not "artificial". They merely induce oxygen intake. Such an inducer is, for example Manganese Dioxide and our Umber color, possessing up to 16% of this iron salt. Therefore when painting into a thin glaze of Umber (which could hardly affect the values of any color), a rapid drying throughout the entire paint film will follow.

Christian Church Slates VBS May 24-28

The Christian Church of Haskell will hold its annual Vacation Bible School next week May 24-28.

The meetings will start at 9 a.m. each day and run until 11:30, according to Dusty Garrison, minister.

The theme of this year's V.B.S. is "Come, Follow Jesus", with the lessons emphasizing how the apostles responded to the call of Jesus.

They also stress the need for us to follow Jesus today.

Classes will be held for ages 2-12, and Garrison said that all the young people of the community are invited to "come, follow Jesus".

Garden Club Installs Officers

The final meeting of the Haskell Garden Club was held in the Haskell Community Room on May 13 with Mrs. Juanita Rhea presiding.

A report on the Haskell Beautification Council was given with how improvement were being made by the property owners and the County Commissioners along the creek. It proves that the property owners do care about the improvements by the large attendance at the Council meeting. If other property owners will do the same, Haskell will be noted for its beautification program and can be proud to celebrate the 10th birthday.

We are thankful to Mr. Duane Gilly and his class for the very nice sign he made for the Garden Club to be used when the committee selects the yard of the month. So everyone work hard because people are going to be looking to see if your yard deserves the sign. You might think yours will not count, but do not be surprised.

Mrs. Norman Nanny held a very impressive installation of the 1982-82 officers, taking us on an imaginary tour for the year. Mrs. J.O. Blankenship: President will be the tour guide; Mrs. Otho Nanny, First Vice-President, the tour itinerary of schedules; Mrs. Juanita Rhea, Second Vice-President also serving as chairman of the flower show; Mrs. Pearl Walker, Third Vice-President serving as Historian and Scrap-Book Chairman; Mrs. Lorene

Dewey, Recording Secretary and Treasurer; Nettie McCollum, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. J.C. Dunnam, Reporter; Mrs. Ed Foils, Parliamentarian.

Mrs. Nanny, continued, all members want a tour that is necessary with helpful hints. She closed with this quote, "May the road be smooth and open, may the wind be always at your back, may the sun shine warm upon your face and the rain fall soft upon your gardens, and until your tour is completed, may God hold you in the hollow of his hand."

Hostesses were Mrs. Rhea and Mrs. Otho Nanny.

After the meeting adjourned a tour of Conner's Nursery and Mrs. Hassie Couch's yard was enjoyed.

Crop, Livestock Reports Needed

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will begin interviewing Texas farmers and ranchers in mid-May on 1982 crop acreage and midyear livestock inventories, State Statistician, Doug Murfield has announced.

Results of the confidential interviews, conducted through the mail or in person by field enumerators, will be published in June.

Murfield is urging farmers and ranchers to complete and return mail questionnaires promptly. Information will be combined for state and county estimates.

Murfield said estimates give Texas farmers and ranchers planning information for planting, breeding, feeding, storing, producing, and marketing. "Without these reports, most producers would have to depend on trade and other sources for information on crop and livestock prospects," he said.

Reports are also used by farm organizations and legislatures to plan and develop farm programs, extension economists and farm and ranch management consultants to advise farmers and ranchers, and exporters to plan and promote sales of Texas agricultural products in foreign markets.

Texas Rehabilitation Commission Offers Much Assistance

The Texas Rehabilitation Commission is the state's principal authority on matters relating to the vocational rehabilitation of the handicapped (except for the visually impaired). TRC is one of the largest agencies in Texas state government and one of the youngest (it became independent from the Texas Education Agency in 1969). The Commission's main mission is to assist vocationally handicapped people to enter or return to the work force to become productive, taxpaying citizens. In addition, the Commission administers the federally funded social security benefits programs. Most people, whether they realize it or not, are disabled in some way. Some have relatively minor disabilities, such as nearsightedness or a speech impediment. Others have more severe disabilities, such as paralysis, an amputated limb or deafness.

People with relatively minor disabilities, such as nearsightedness, can generally find a simple solution to overcome the disability, such as eyeglasses. Some people have disabilities that interfere with their lives to a greater extent. For instance, some disabled people find it difficult to maintain employment because of their disabilities. These people are known as vocational Rehabilitation Division serves.

A person must meet two requirements to be eligible for Vocational Rehabilitation Division services: (1) he or she must have a physical or mental disability which results in a substantial handicap to employment, and (2) there must be a reasonable expectation that rehabilitation services will result in gainful employment. Not all disabled people are candidates for vocational rehabilitation services. For instance, a lawyer who becomes a paraplegic can probably continue in a legal practice. The lawyer is disabled, but not vocationally handicapped. A professional ski instructor who becomes a paraplegic probably cannot continue in that profession. He or she is disabled and vocationally handicapped. Not all cases are as cut and dried as these examples. That's why eligibility for vocational rehabilitation services is determined on an individual basis.

The TRC counselor is responsible for making the determination. The counselor works with each eligible client to assess the client's needs, develop a vocational rehabilitation plan and follow-up on the client's success.

It might be that the client's only need is something as simple as a wheelchair or other assistive device to help him or her overcome the disability and enter the work force. In other cases, a client may require more assistance such as medical treatment, surgery or therapy to lessen or remove the disability. A client may need training to prepare for a job. These and other services are available to all TRC clients. All of the services are aimed at one goal—to get the disabled person into the work force.

Without employers who are willing to hire disabled workers. Most employers find that their disabled employees are as good or better than other workers. According to a U.S. Labor Department study, the average handicapped employee produces more than his able-bodied counterpart, takes less time off and has one-fifth as many accidents.

Vocational rehabilitation benefits the taxpayer, too. Prior to receiving vocational rehabilitation services, many disabled people must rely on public assistance to meet their financial needs. Once a disabled person enters the work force, he or she becomes a taxpayer, instead of a tax-user. National studies indicate that for every dollar spent on vocational rehabilitation, nine dollars are returned to the economy in taxes. Vocational rehabilitation is not a handout program. It is one of the few government programs actually returning money to the public coffers through its successfully rehabilitated clients.

The real value of the vocational rehabilitation program cannot be counted in dollars and cents. Self-esteem cannot be bought at any price. Most disabled people, when they enter or return to the work force, gain a feeling of self-respect, achievement and pride.

The Vocational Rehabilitation Division has been serving disabled Texans since 1929. Then a part of the State Department of Education, the division's primary purpose was to serve disabled veterans returning home from World War I. Through the years, the division has expanded to meet the needs of an ever increasing number of disabled Texans.

In Fiscal Year 1981, the Vocational Rehabilitation Division helped 15,860 disabled people enter or return to the work force. After vocational rehabilitation, the total income of successfully rehabilitated clients amounted to $2,748,535 per week. Prior to rehabilitation, these clients received a combined income of $705,516.00, 39 percent of which came from public assistance funds.

Counselor Charles H. Foster serves Jones, Haskell and Knox counties. He is at the MH/MR Headstream Clinic, 1301 North 1st in Haskell on Thursdays of each week. If you are interested in Vocational Rehabilitation services, you may telephone 817-864-3472 in Haskell or 915-695-0110 in Abilene for an appointment or come by the clinic.

Time was when your electric bill probably was "just another item" in the family budget. You knew from the year before about what to expect.

Regretfully, this is no longer true. As the costs of producing and supplying electricity have gone up, WTU has had no choice but to pass on fuel cost increases through fuel clause adjustments on your bill. The electric bill has become a large item in your family budget.

You and each member of your family are important parts of your electric bill. How you use appliances and equipment makes a big difference in the amounts of your bills. Make a family project of keeping the thermostat set at 78° in the Summer. Operate the clothes washer, dryer and dishwasher only with full loads. Turn the television off when you leave it. And check around the house for other energy-saving, dollar-saving measures.

WTU is working to assure an adequate supply of electric power for all of its customers and to help them get the most value for their electric dollars.

Remember REDDY Supplies the energy—but only YOU can use it wisely!

"Christmas Seal" Bass Tournery Set May 22

There are a lot of things people take for granted. Such as breathing. But the outdoorsman should be among the first to realize just how drastic any loss of normal breathing can be.

Lung diseases cause thousands of deaths each year. And those who have diseases that aren't curable find their lifestyles altered tremendously.

Some cannot even enjoy pastimes such as fishing and hunting that are taken for granted by many sportsmen.

The American Lung Association released some statistics this week that they hope will inspire fishermen to head for Lake Whitney on May 22nd to compete in the second annual "Christmas Seal" Bass Tournament.

If $2,425 in prize money, in addition to $100 per hour for "Big Fish" isn't enough to inspire bass fishermen to compete in the tournament, perhaps these statistics will:

- * Forty-seven million men, women, and children in the U.S. suffer from a chronic respiratory disease. (Many other millions suffer from acute- or short-term- respiratory illnesses.)

- * A total economic cost to the United States of disease of the respiratory system is estimated at $48.8 BILLION each year.

- * 16,000,000 people suffer from Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD).

This figure includes:

- 2 million persons who have emphysema
- 6 million with asthma
- 8 million with chronic bronchitis

- 13,521,000 persons with pneumonia plus acute bronchitis

- 122,000 newly-diagnosed cases of lung cancer each year (increasingly these are women)

315,000 persons with pneumonococcosis (Such as asbestosis and silicosis)

30,000 persons with byssinosis (brown lung)

28,000 new cases of tuberculosis per year

486,000 persons with pleurisy

50,000 infants with hyaline membrane disease

15,600,000 persons with hay fever

107,585,000 incidences of influenza per year

126,446,000 incidences of the common cold per year.

Among the co-sponsors donating cash, products, and services to make the tournament a success are Big Bass Express, Johnson Supply Co., Fish 'n Stuff, Hummingbird, and Skyline Graphite Rods.

Headquarters for the event will be Plowman Creek Park.

$35.00 entry donations will be accepted from 6:00 p.m. until Midnight Friday, May 21 and from 4:00 a.m. to 6:00 a.m. Saturday, May 22. Fishing will start at 6:00 a.m.

"Cash prizes will be paid for places 1-10, with merchandise prizes given for places 11-20," said Willie Clements, Tournament Director.

For additional information, Contact the American Lung Association of North Texas at 735-1411 or Willie Clements at 817-381-0024.

To The Parents of Our Graduates:

We share the special joy That you must feel today, For a hard earned, lengthy goal achieved, A new adult is on his way. We share the special joy That graduation brings, And want to wish each one of you All life's best and happiest things.

Letters To The Editor...

Dear Editor:
Another rodeo has come and gone in Haskell and after some time to reflect, it is time to express deep appreciation to a group of people who are responsible for the success of the production.

It is impossible to thank everyone individually for their assistance in such a large project. Such an attempt would only result in forgetting someone who deserves credit. A successful rodeo starts weeks before the first grand entry and a host of people spent untold hours in preparation for the show. Without their assistance, the entire production could not have been held.

Throughout the week, numerous people volunteered their time and services, not just to make the rodeo a success, but toward the success of the entire week of activities.

The square dance, street dance, Wednesday night combined church service, parade and rodeo were all successes because of a large group of people who spent many hours working on a multitude of details.

Another Big Thank You

goes to the fine people of Haskell for supporting each of the special events. Without your attendance and participation, none of the activities could have been successful.

Please accept this means of saying "Thank You" for making the entire week long celebration of the Centennial of Haskell such a tremendous success.

Gwynn Butler,
Rodeo Chairman

Dear Editor:

May I use your paper to express appreciation for a great Frontier Parade.

Thank You Leisa Hutchinson and Debbie Merchant for all the phone calls you made.

Cotton Whitfield thank you so much for putting up with us all this past month.

To all the Haskell County Merchants, Organizations, & Individuals who took part in the parade, thanks to you the parade was the best ever.

Haskell people are the greatest!

Thank You,
Grace Womack,
Parade Chairman

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to say a special Thanks to Lee Barnett and all the ladies who prepared the food and made it possible for the Senior '82 Roast at the Country Club.

It was a very unique experience and fun filled evening that I will long remember and treasure.

Without your help and support, this trip would not have been possible. Again, Thank You!

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

It is that time of year in which we close out the school and send the students home to parents and teachers home to rest. It is also time to bid adieu to our Senior class. As I contemplated this column, it dawned on me that I could pass this class of '82 the highest of compliments in my opinion. They are "good ole boys." (and girls) As a group, they are rather quiet. I remember as they entered the seventh grade, we wondered about their quietness. We soon found out that they would do their very best on any task we asked them to perform. They might not have been totally successful at some things, but it was not because of their effort.

At least with me, this Senior class of '82 have always been pleasant. I enjoyed watching them grow and develop. As they progressed through high school, I enjoyed their pleasant smiles as I walked down the halls. They always had a pleasant word for me. I never asked them to do something that they didn't do to the best of their ability.

They have been a part of many accomplishments on the "reservation." They have been willing to play their role in activities as students. When it came time for them to lead, they accepted this mantle graciously even with their quietness.

I foresee this group becoming solid citizens, good family people and contributors to society. They are workers and workers emerge in adult life. As to the career roles they assume, I have no predictions. I am sure, however, they will fit anywhere in society they chose.

As you can tell from the above, I, personally, will miss this group. But, I have no questions about their future in that mysterious realm called life. They will do well because they are "Good Ole Boys". Congratulations and good luck, Seniors!

Noles Assists In Training Meeting

Donnie Noles, supervisor for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation in Throckmorton county assisted with training at the loss adjustment meeting held May 4 thru May 6 for 5 Districts of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. Donnie Noles supervises the team of All-Risk Insurance loss adjuster contractors that will handle losses in Haskell, King, Knox, Stonewall, and Throckmorton counties during the 1982 crop year and is responsible for training them to provide fast, accurate loss adjustment service for the insureds.

Because of the 1981-82 expansion, the end of the ASCS disaster program, and the many new contract improvements, we need better and earlier training than ever before Noles said. With as many farmers depending on All-Risk Crop Insurance, fair efficient loss adjustment is absolutely vital Noles declared.

Extension Service To Revise Nutrition-Education Programs

Texas Extension Computer Study Prompts Nutrition-Education Shifts College Station--A computer study 25,000 Texans' eating habits has prompted shifts in nutrition-education programs conducted by home economists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service throughout the state.

"Dietcheck," carried out in 32 locations across Texas during 1980, asked interested persons to recall their total food intake for a 24-hour period.

Data from individual participants was fed into a computer which analyzed it for each one in a matter of minutes.

Study Points to Problems Although the study had its limitations, it pointed two important deficiencies that are showing up in other studies across the nation, Dr. Cass Ryan-Crowe, and Extension Service food and nutrition specialist, told a Texas Human Nutrition Conference gathering here recently.

Most lacking nutrients "across the board" are iron, calcium and calories, Ryan-Crowe said, for both males and females.

Poorest nourished were female teens ages 15-18, with male teens in the same age bracket running a "close second" for that category.

Snacks were part of the study, and the computer analysis showed a major lack of nutrients in snack items.

"This leads us to believe that 'empty-calorie' foods are frequently selected for snacks," Ryan-Crowe said.

Body weight was included in the study, and "it was alarming to see that more than 65 percent of the participants were over their ideal body weight by 10 percent or more," the specialist added.

Finally, foods that might promote tooth decay were identified in the survey, and the computer reported that only 405 participants of the 2,500 could say they didn't eat cavity-promoting foods.

Extension Programs Respond As a result of the nutrition study, Extension Service nutrition-education programs are shifting emphasis slightly—in direct response to the most prevalent problems, Ryan-Crowe said.

To help improve the nutritional habits of teens, Extension Service food and nutrition specialists are not in the process of revising and updating all 4-H food and nutrition project materials, and in 1983, all County Extension Agents will receive training on adolescent nutrition, Ryan-Crowe noted.

Because weight control is a problem for Texans and because traditional approaches have not been successful, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is developing a new weight-control service for teens, called "Taffe--Teens Against Fat Forever."

More emphasis will be placed on consumer-education materials which stress calcium-rich and iron-rich foods, since these two nutrients are deficient in most people's diets.

And, since snacking is an important part of most lifestyles. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service will conduct a statewide nutrition-education program called, "The Snack Connection." In Sept. (1982) every County Extension Agent (Home Economics) in Texas will have the opportunity to conduct programs, workshops and seminars on how to snack nutritiously, Ryan-Crowe said.

Weinert Matrons Hear Conservation Program

Weinert Matron's Club met Thursday May 6, 1982 in the home of Mrs. W.C. Winchester in Haskell for the last meeting of the year.

The president, Mrs. D.L. Moody conducted the business meeting. Minutes were read and approved. Reports were made by the treasurer and standing committees. Mrs. Ramon Liles and Mrs. W.A. King gave reports from the district and state meetings. Members answered roll call with a name of some substitute for gas, and a plan for their summer vacation.

Mrs. Henry Smith and Mrs. W.C. Winchester directed programs on conservation and safety in the home. Mrs. J.A. Mayfield gave a talk on water, telling of its importance, sources uses and ways to conserve it.

Mrs. King spoke on energy. She told about changes that are taking place in our way of life, and listed ways of conserving energy, and told of new sources of energy.

Mrs. Vern Derr told of numerous accidents that occur in the home many of which are preventable. Many of these are caused by fire, misuse of gas and electrical appliances. Many can be prevented just by using caution.

Mrs. Liles reviewed a recent article on health care, giving special attention to drugs, X-ray, vitamins and diets.

The meeting concluded with a tour of Mrs. Winchester's beautiful new home. She served delicious refreshments to eight members.

Sixty-six 4-H members from 16 of the 21 counties in the Rolling Plains Extension District qualified Saturday (May 8) to compete in the Texas 4-H Roundup at College Station, June 3-10. The youths took top honors in district competition at Midwestern State University here.

A total of 235 4-H boys and girls competed in District Roundup events, which included 29 contests. To qualify for the State Roundup a team or individual must receive a first or second place win in the senior division, for youths aged 14 and older. Junior division winners, aged 9-13, receive ribbons, but do not compete beyond district level.

Fisher County had the most qualifying wins in the senior division, with 28. It was followed by Kent County with 19 and Young County with 12 wins.

Already, three other rounds of district competition have been staged. The 4-H Food Show was held last winter and team judging events were held last month. Range and pasture grass identification and range evaluation winners were determined at a tri-district contest April 29, in Floydada.

Saturday's winners were honored at an awards program in the Student Center Ballroom at Midwestern State University. West Texas Utilities donated ribbons for the contests.

H. S. students lack interest in consumer issues

COLLEGE STATION — A lack of interest in consumer issues by high school students is the biggest obstacle in establishing a consumer education program in Texas Schools, says a university marketing professor.

In a study comparing 1970 and 1981 state high school consumer education programs, Dr. James McNeal of Texas A&M University said a lack of student interest and already-crowded curriculums keep them from doing well.

"Half of our high schools don't offer a separate course and more than 10 percent of the high schools offer no consumer education at all," said McNeal, a specialist in consumer research.

Hats off to you, grads!

We're so proud of you! After your years of hard work, you're ready to handle whatever challenges lie ahead. You have a bright and exciting future waiting for you. Make the most of it! Use your energies and skills and all the knowledge you've gained through your education to their fullest.

Lawn Diseases Increase With Warmer Weather

Warmer weather and recent rains have brought an increase in grey leaf spot disease in many home lawns.

Grey leaf spot causes irregular brown to grey spots on leaf blades of St. Augustin-grass explains Dr. Walter Walla, plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. It is especially a problem on newly sprigged or rapidly growing grass.

This disease develops rapidly with warm, moist conditions and usually appears first in shaded areas. In areas of heavy disease development, the grass may have a burned or scorched appearance resulting from dead leaves.

Another disease problem which will also be causing homeowners a problem in the near future is a disease complex called "fading-out." Fading-out is a serious problem in many lawns where grass thins and becomes unsightly, explains Walla. The problem develops rapidly, causing large dead areas to appear in the turf.

Thatch build-up caused by an accumulation of fallen clippings and dead leaves provides a favorable environment for the fungal organism causing fading-out. Thus, Walla suggests removing leaf accumulations and catching grass clippings to prevent thatch build-up.

Good cultural practices such as using the proper mowing height, fertilizing according to a soil test, watering properly and avoiding thatch build-up all contribute to healthy grass that resists development of diseases such as grey leaf spot and fading-out.

If the disease situation is especially severe, apply a fungicide to hasten recovery of affected turf, notes Walla.

For more information on turf grass disease and their control, pick up a copy of L-732, "Control Diseases in the Home Lawn," at the county Extension office.

Cub Scouts Hold Awards Ceremony

Cub Scout Pack 136 held its annual awards ceremony Thursday night May 13 in the elementary school cafeteria. Cubmaster Lee Bahney opened the program and recognized the Webelos as having the most guests in attendance.

After Den 1 led the Pledge of Allegiance, Cubmaster Bahney presented Wolf badges and arrow points to the following: Aaron Bahney, Noel Hadaway, Craig Hanson, Billy Bennett, Jay Miller, Samuel Rodriguez, Chris Howeth, Rusty Stocks, Steve Quattlebaum, Brandon Powers, and Eric Gardner. Recognition was also given to Russel Weeks, Ronnie Weeks, Jason Davis, Ronnie Hutchinson, and Chris Howeth, who are working towards their Bear badges.

Charles Chapman, assisted by Scout Master Hester, then conducted the Arrow of Light ceremony, which inducted the Webelos into Boy Scouts. Receiving the order of the arrow were Stoney Trussel, Kyle Darden, Kevin Mitchell, Cole Larned, Michael Lane, and Davis Chapman.

When A Town Pulls Together

WANDA DULANEY, Manager
Haskell Chamber of Commerce

Individually we can do a little, Collectively, we can do a lot; Togetherness makes the difference— We lacked it not.

Frontier Days in Haskell '82 Can be written as successful now

On the pages of history As memories allow And future generations Will later know

That it was pulling together That made it so.

The reorganized Jaycees Were anxious to please And their untiring efforts Didn't cease

Until it was fully planned And fully met;

Their perseverance We won't forget.

Knowing how important The task at hand

They involved other organizations In their community plan.

President Charles Andrew Began his delegation

Asked Gwynn Butler to be chairman Of the week's celebration.

Grace Womack was asked The parade chairman to be

And no one could work harder Nor such success see.

One by one the entries Were signed

And when the time drew near She put them in line.

There were cars and tractors, And riding clubs passed.

The floats that were entered Depicted the past.

Some store windows were decorated From calico to tubs

You really missed something If you didn't see Kid's Duds.

Barbeque was the food That really pleased

Dan Hoover—Kiwanis; Jake Dusak—Jaycees.

Our Community Prayer & Song Service Was conducted so well

By the Ministerial Alliance And didn't fail

Though threatening skies looked very bad A town met to give thanks

For the life we've had. The Church of Christ singers

On the Chamber float Filled the Brush Arbor Church

With praise of note. Religion—

So important in those yesterdays Equally so

In our town today. Do-si-do

The square dancers had a ball No wonder it was good

They had Slim Ivy to call. The main event

Of the week, you know Was traditionally The Rodeo.

Not as large as some And less renown

But rather special For this century-old town.

Our Centennial Celebration Goes on, as the past we review

And it will continue The rest of eighty-two.

With nostalgia we look To the Frontier Days

And so Jaycees We sing your praise,

For planning a week Such pleasure to bring

A lot of fun Remembering.

To every man and woman To each girl and boy

Who entered into the spirit That all might enjoy.

It took a lot of hard work And an eye on the weather

The secret was a town Where all pulled together.

U. S. Showed Positive Trade Balance In 1981

AUSTIN—For the first time since 1977 the United States experienced a positive trade balance in livestock, meat and livestock products, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown reports.

"This is good news for the Texas ranchers who produce the largest amount of cattle, sheep and goats in the nation," Brown said.

Frozen and fresh beef and veal exports from the United States increased roughly $45 million in 1981. During the same year, U.S. beef exports to Japan, the nation's largest beef market, reached nearly $160 million in fresh and frozen beef. Also in 1981, Texas meat exports totaled roughly $74 million or nine percent of the nation's total meat export. While total red meat trade in the U.S. remained negative, there was a marked narrowing of the deficit.

Texas also contributes a large percentage annually to total U.S. live animal exports which increased in both quantity and value during 1981. There were 17,906 head of cattle shipped from Texas exporting facilities during 1981 along with 48,525 head of goats, 128,359 head of sheep, 3,899 swine and 739 horses. The total value of animals exported from Texas during 1981 totaled about $33.4 million. Overall, U.S. live animal exports increased in value by approximately $40 million.

The import of live animals and their meat products to the United States showed a decline in 1981. Beef and veal imports declined about $373 million and almost 100,000 tons on a product weight basis from previous years. Live cattle imports declined in both number and value during 1981 with feeder cattle imports dropping approximately 12,000 head for a decline in value of roughly $24 million.

Based on preliminary figures, U.S. exports of livestock, meat and livestock products exceeded imports in 1981 by about $307 million. While imports declined by nearly $325 million from the 1980 value, exports grew approximately $105 million.

"An increase in exports of our nation's raw and processed foods should alleviate several economic problems that we are now facing by helping to eliminate surpluses, which are costly to maintain," Brown said. In a five point proposal outlined by Brown, he points to the importance of exporting processed foods in stimulating the nation's economy.

"An increase in exports of processed foods from the United States would result in an increase in jobs here as well as present some tariff advantages for American exporters," Brown said.

GOVERNOR'S REPORT

by William F. Clements Jr.

In an era of increased demand for government services with limited resources to meet the demands, state management systems must be streamlined to assure maximum effectiveness for each tax dollar.

I established the Texas State Government Effectiveness Program in July 1979 to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of state government management.

We must make every effort to avoid the crisis management prevalent in many other states. During fiscal 1981, 29 states projected revenue deficits. Several have had to enact emergency measures to reduce spending, including major across-the-board reductions in state employment.

Rapid population and economic growth of Texas underscores the challenge confronting us. Texas 2000, our long-range planning initiative, projects a 50 per cent increase in population, to more than 20 million by the year 2000.

And, while our state is growing and demands are increasing, oil and gas production, which has accounted for 20 per cent of all taxes collected in Texas will continue to decline. Obviously, the state revenue base will change accordingly.

The New Federalism, proposing to reduce the growth of federal funding and reverse the trend to greater dependence on the federal government, may provide state and local government an opportunity to exercise real judgment in allocating block grants to meet needs for services.

Major progress has been made toward effectively meeting the challenges of developing improved management and more productive state government.

Six elements of the Texas State Government Effectiveness Program are board effectiveness, management by objectives, employment reduction, state personnel management, management development and operational audit. TSGEP has utilized more than 160 public-private sector volunteers to accomplish management review projects. The corporate-public sector partnership combines business expertise with state executive experience, increasing mutual understanding of each sector.

Major accomplishments have been achieved in all six elements of the program. Some of the more significant include:

—Orientation and training of 8,000 managers in management by objectives (MBO) planning techniques.

—Graduation of more than 500 first-line supervisors from the Texas State Management Development Center.

—A reduction of approximately 2,000 full-time equivalent state agency employees, the first since 1945.

—Completion of 25 operational audits or management reviews in four major agencies and two other agencies.

—Statewide operational audits performed in the areas of personnel and purchasing.

—Publication of two major handbooks to assist newly-appointed board members.

—Quarterly meetings set up with chairmen of the boards of the larger state agencies and major universities.

—Establishment of bi-monthly and/or quarterly meetings between the Governor and key heads of larger agencies, universities and medical schools.

Commitment of board members and state officials is the major reason for success of the program. The primary factor in improving productivity in Texas state government through TSGEP is open, continuing communication between the Governor's Office and board members and executive management.

As Governor, I pledge continued strong support for further improvement of state government. All of us must continue to work toward the most cost-effective government possible to avoid the fiscal crises of other states and to perpetuate our vital economic and environmental climate. I look forward to reporting to you annually on the financial and operational status of our government and the ongoing effort for improvement.

We Salute All Seniors

Texas Hotels Offer Bargain Rates

By Elmer Whiddon Jr.

With $100-a-night hotel rooms becoming more and more common in the big cities, some travelers think lodging charges in the $20 and $30 range are near extinction. But, don't give up — there are still some great lodging buys around.

For example, if you are thinking about a trip to Big Bend National Park and surrounding areas, plan a night at Balmorhea State Park. Balmorhea, if not the best buy in the state is surely one of the best. Comfortable rooms with either two twin beds, a double or a double and twin go for only $13 per night single. It is $3 more for each additional person. The park has a huge outdoor pool fed by San Solomon Springs, flowing at 26 million gallons per day. Located just south of Interstate 10, Balmorhea is a great place to stay when traveling east and west across Texas or going to and from the Big Bend. For reservations contact Balmorhea State Park, Box 15T, Toyahvale 79786 (915-375-2370).

Not far from Balmorhea, another state park, Davis Mountains near Fort Davis, offers great rates at Indian Lodge. Built in 1933 by the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC), Indian Lodge's rates are $16 single, $18 double and $23 for the lone suite. Originally there were only 15 rooms, but 24 were added in 1967. The older rooms are a little larger and they have fireplaces (which can't be used now), but all are nice. There is also a game room, swimming pool and restaurant. The key to getting in here is reservations made well in advance — it has been discovered. Contact Indian Lodge, Box 786T, Fort Davis 79734 (915-426-3254).

In the town of Fort Davis is another lodging gem, one which thrills lovers of old hotels. On the square, the vintage Limpia Hotel has been lovingly restored by J. C. Duncan and is in full operation with 11 rooms. Rates are $24 single, $28 double and $32 double for a room with two double beds. There is a two-bedroom, one-bath suite that goes for $46 double or $50 for four persons. Next door is one of the area's better dining spots, Sutler's Limpia Hotel, Box 822T, Fort Davis 79734 (915-426-3237).

Rooms are hard to come by in Big Bend National Park — there are only 34, but those are reasonable. A single is $33, double $39.50 and stone cottages start at $44 for a family of three. If you are trying for a room in the park, make reservations well in advance with the Chisos Mountain Lodge, Dept. T, Big Bend National Park 79834 (915-477-2291).

On the western boundary of the park at Lajitas, The Cavalry Post and Badlands Hotel offer comfortable accommodations. At The Cavalry Post rooms are $30 single and $35 double. The Officers' Quarters (two-bedroom suite) is $55 double plus $5 for each additional person. Badlands' rates are $33 single and $38 double. The jointly-operated properties feature a swimming pool and tennis courts. One- and two-bedroom condominiums are also available. For either property contact The Badlands Hotel, Box 18T, Terlingua 79852 (915-371-2471).

So that you don't think all the good deals are in the Big Bend, here are some more from around the state:

Bastrop State Park, Box 518T, Bastrop 78602 (512-321-2101) and Caddo State Park, Route 2, Box 15T, Karnack 75661 (214-679-3351) both have cabins that rent for $12 double with $3 for each additional adult and $1 for each child 6 through 12. Reservations are taken 90 days in advance and both places are very popular.

The historic Excelsior House, 211T West Austin, Jefferson 75657 (214-665-2513), singles $23 and $30, doubles $25 and $35, two suites $50. The New Jefferson Inn, 124T West Austin, Jefferson 75657, (214-665-2631), double $20, double with two double beds $22.50.

Aquarena Inn, Box 2330T, San Marcos 78666 (512-392-2441), single $30, double $37. The Inn is located on Spring Lake and has a large swimming pool and adjoining golf course.

Nutt House Hotel, On the Square, Granbury 76048 (817-573-5612) has rooms "with bath down the hall" for $12 single and $20 double. A suite with its own bath is $30. Neat place to get acquainted with old hotels and to enjoy excellent meals.

June 11-August 23, Bauder Fashion College, 508 South Center Street, Arlington 76010 (817-277-6666) rents its dormitory rooms for $14.30 single, $18.70 double. These have bathrooms. Guests must furnish their own linens. Swimming pool and cafeteria are open to guests.

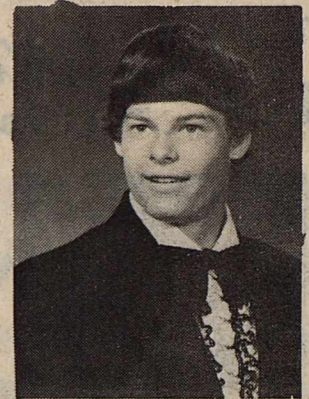

This is just a sample of lodging buys across the state.

Coping With Child's Fears Can Be Frustrating

One of the problems of dealing with a child's fears is how to recognize when he is scared.

A young child is often unable to express feelings clearly because of a limited vocabulary. Then, too, a youngster may not recognize his own feelings as fear. He just knows that something is wrong and he feels all upset inside. So he responds by expressing his feelings in the only ways he knows—by crying, clinging, hiding, actively resisting—and by generally "being impossible."

Dealing with this kind of behavior can be very frustrating to parents. It is easy to say he is stubborn or having a tantrum. Even if the parent does recognize that the reason for such behavior is fear, it is often difficult to decide just how to cope with it, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

Fear is a normal human emotion—a natural means of self-protection. Certain fears appear to be inborn. A newborn infant responds with fear to the loss of support and to loud and sudden noises. All other fears are learned.

We consciously teach a child to be wary of objects or situations which are potentially harmful to him—fires, certain animals, strangers, a busy street. Some fears a child learns on his own. For instance, if he sees another child fall from a swing, he realizes that he, too, might fall. The next time he approaches a swing he will hold on tightly! Fears such as these are healthy because they tend to protect the child from real dangers.

Unrealistic fears are not unusual among toddlers either. In fact, strange or violent fears are quite common to children between ages two and six and should not alarm parents too much since they are usually a passing phase. On the other hand, such fears may be a sign that things are not going well.

You will want to help your child overcome his unrealistic fears, both for his benefit and your peace of mind. Recognition of a fear and reassurance to the child are important parts of dealing with the situation. Without this reassurance from you, a child can become more confused and more fearful.

Some of the more common fears include fear of certain animals, loud noises and sudden movements, fear of the dark, fear of going to bed or of going to sleep and fear of separation from parents. Most of these can be traced to their source: Animal fears may have their beginnings in an alarming experience with a neighbor's pet or a fright while visiting a zoo. This initial experience may lead to avoidance of stuffed animals or even those pictured in a book.

An over-enthusiastic relative who greets the child with loud laughter and smothering hugs may arouse considerable anxiety in a toddler. In fact, he may not only hide from that individual but show increasing fear of all persons outside the immediate family circle.

Fear of going to bed or of going to sleep is as much a fear of separation as a fear of the dark. A child may think that if he goes to sleep he won't find his parents there when he wakes up.

When coping with a youngster's fears it is important to remember that no matter how unreasonable, even ridiculous, his fear may seem to an adult, it is very real to him. Respect his feelings and reassure him gently that he need not be afraid.

If he shows fear of animals introduce him very gradually to their presence. Point out dogs and other animals from the car. When possible stop the car and let him watch from the safety of the vehicle. Several visits to a children's "petting zoo" will be helpful.

Don't force the child near animals. At the first visit just walk around and look. If your child shows anxiety or fear pick him up and hold him. Somehow it is harder to be afraid of something that you are looking down on. Let him watch other children pet and play with the young animals. Talk about the baby animals and about their mamas.

It is pretty hard to tone down loud and over-demonstrative relatives, but sometimes visitors can be told in advance that the child is just learning to adjust to persons outside the family. They can be asked to wait until the child makes the first move. Another approach is to pick up your youngster and hold him as you greet visitors. This includes him in the eye-level greeting and gives him the additional security of your arms. If he struggles or cries, comfort him and then interest him in something else. Young children are naturally curious and will usually overcome their fear of visitors if effusive greetings are avoided and they are allowed to proceed at their own speed.

Fear of the dark and fear of separation are sometimes difficult to separate. Begin by letting your child help you choose an attractive night-light—a clown, a star, a happy face. Let him handle and examine the light so that he will be familiar with it. Children's nightlights should be fully enclosed in plastic and dimmer than the ordinary nightlight.

A quiet half hour of play and a warm bath before bedtime are recommended as relaxing for a child.

Reassure the child that you are near and that you will be there in the morning when he awakens. A youngster must learn trust. He needs to know that his parents will come when he needs them. Once he has been reassured you must be firm. He should not be allowed out of bed.

And—don't forget—an "Ounce of prevention" goes a long way. Control your own fears and don't punish in fearful ways. If your child must undergo a potentially frightening experience, prepare him for it carefully. When in doubt about how to handle your child's fears, talk to your pediatrician or family physician. He is as interested in your child's emotional health as he is in his physical well-being.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information on the social and physical development of children from birth to six years old, write to Growing Child, PO Box 620N, Lafayette, IN 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing. A year's subscription to the newsletter costs $11.95.

At General Telephone We're Not Simply Talking About Service Improvements We're Making Them In Haskell

At General Telephone, better service isn't just a goal, it's a solid commitment. General Telephone spent over 354 million dollars in 1981 on capital expenditure projects (i.e. new electronic switches, expanded cable projects and modernization), and GTE will spend over 410 million dollars in 1982 to provide you the best telecommunications available.

For you, as a valued customer, this investment in service improvement is working as shown below. General Telephone is working hard to continually provide you with the best of service.

The Texas Public Utility Commission (PUC) has established certain standards in public hearings, and our service results are listed against those standards.

	Texas PUC Standards	Most Current Figure

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN—With springtime naturally sprucing up the outdoors, people also are inspired to fix up their own living spaces. While the desire is present, the know-how may not be. Lacking such expertise, homeowners easily can be persuaded to accept the assistance of an independent contractor. Such assistance will prove worthy only if the independent contractor is reputable. Remodelers, roofers and pool builders, for example, can fall into the category of fraudulent contractors.

Consumers can protect themselves in this area by being aware of some of the characteristics associated with fraudulent contractors. Often your first contact with these people is when they approach you at your residence. They can be quite capable of convincing the home owner that they will perform a quality job at a discounted rate. These contractors justify the discounted rate with such rationale as they are new in town and have not yet acquired clientele, or they have not had time to establish a set place of business. Various business practices could qualify such contractors to be termed fraudulent. For example, a home owner could contract a remodeling job to be completed in one month, and three months later the work remains unfinished. Advance payment might be requested to purchase materials for the project, when in fact the payments are not used to purchase anything for your project. It is possible that the contractor could deceive the customer as to a particular standard or quality of material. The contractor might tell you that he is using top grade lumber when actually it is low grade lumber. These descriptions include only a few of the possible fraudulent practices of which the homeowner could be a victim, by dealing with an un reputable contractor.

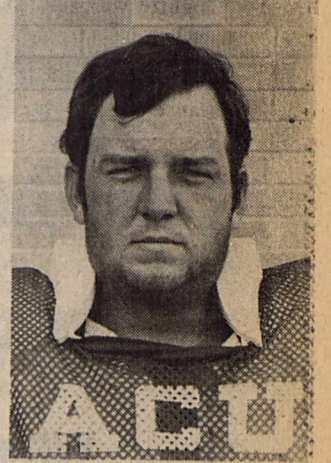

The consumer must protect his or her interests by taking the time to acquire references as to the credibility of the contractor before entering into a contract. Consumers could further safeguard themselves by finding out if the contractor is bonded, or by calling the Better Business Bureau, or the Attorney General's office in their area.
