NEW RECRUIT

Haskell City Policeman, S.E. Braly, visits with Daisy the newest recruit on the Haskell Police Department. She recently completed three months of training in Lubbock in Narcotics Detection and Obedience and accompanies Braly during his normal police duties.

New Recruit Joins Force

The Haskell Police Department has a new recruit on the force and there are those who would say filling the position is a dog's life.

The newest addition to the force is Daisy, a two year old, half wolf and half German Shepherd.

Daisy recently completed twelve weeks of intensive training in Narcotics Detection and Obedience. Daisy rides as a back seat assistant to City Policeman S.E. Braly. The training was conducted by Lubbock Policeman, Randy Robertson. Near the completion of the training, Braly spent about a week in Lubbock undergoing extensive training with Daisy.

According to Braly, the training included concentrated drills in the detection of narcotics, especially marijuana. She also accompanies Braly during his normal police work and has been trained as a guard dog.

At home, Daisy is a fine pet, according to Braly, and she enjoys playing ball and other games with the Braly family. Things change when Braly places a special collar on Daisy, and she becomes strictly business. In addition to other special training, Daisy refuses to allow strangers to approach the City Police car when she has been left alone in it.

Daisy has been back in Haskell for about three weeks and, according to Braly, the time has been spent in letting her become familiar with her new surroundings. Braly said that the department should be able to begin using her in the very near future to assist in the detection of drugs in the Haskell Community.

He added, and several other Law Enforcement Officials agreed, that apparently Daisy's presence is already being felt since sources indicate that in the past few weeks the price of marijuana has more than doubled.

City Council Discusses Salaries, Budget, Flooding

Discussions of salaries, budget, and flooding dominated a five hour Marathon City Council meeting Tuesday night.

Council members spent about three hours discussing and making final proposals on the City budget and considering salary increases for employees. Both the budget and salaries will be adopted at the September 14 meeting of the Council.

Callie Ann Combs and M.L. Williams, both of Munday, also met with council members and outlined procedures used by the City of Munday to solve flooding problems.

They told the Council documentation and persistency were the key to solving the problem.

In other action, council members heard a report from City-County disaster coordinator Tom Watson. Watson presented council members with a written disaster plan and explained the different situations contained in the document. He also asked that council members consider at some future time the possibility of increasing complimentary water to members of the Fire Department and entry into the Firemen's Relief and Retirement System.

Having your name published in the local newspaper is generally something to be proud of, but this issue of the Free Press contains a large list of names to the contrary.

The list includes all persons who owe delinquent taxes to one or more taxing jurisdictions in Haskell County.

The individuals received letters in May stating that their taxes were delinquent and received warning in July that the list would be published if the taxes were not paid. They also received notices last fall stating that the taxes were due before January 31.

During several years of reporting on local government meetings, the discussion of delinquent taxes has been heard frequently, but only recently did the full magnitude of the problem become clear.

While the collection of about 96% of the tax levy is certainly a high percentage, the 4% which was not collected in 1981 by taxing jurisdictions in Haskell County amounts to over $100,000.00. That figure is greater than the total collection of ad valorem taxes by the City of Haskell.

Some of the names on the list of delinquent taxpayers are probably there as the result of a mistake. At the same time, some of the names are probably there as a result of present economic conditions. But, the vast majority of the names are there simply because the individuals chose not to pay their taxes.

The staff of the County Appraisal District will be more than happy to assist taxpayers in correcting errors and in clearing up problems of ownership. Staff members also ask to be notified if delinquent taxes are owed on property which has been sold.

We applaud the members of the Board of the Appraisal District for taking positive steps to collect every tax dollar rightfully owed and at the same time urge those responsible for delinquent taxes to pay promptly. Also remember that the employee collecting does not deserve your criticism or anger. They are doing the job they were hired to do.

After all, if the taxes had been paid when they were due, there would not be a problem.

New Emergency Response System To Begin Here Soon

More frail, elderly persons can now remain independent and in their own homes thanks to the Emergency Response System being installed in Knox, Throckmorton, Haskell, Stonewall and Kent counties. Residents living in these counties may now have access to this 24-hour, seven-day-a week system for elderly persons who are able to care for themselves and stay in their own homes, but who may need assistance in an emergency situation.

For elderly people who live alone, or who are left alone frequently, fear of a sudden illness or accident can be overwhelming. Many older persons who are handicapped or frail, however, can care for themselves and wish to maintain their independence. In many cases being able to deal with an emergency is the only factor in determining whether or not a person is able to stay in his or her home.

The Emergency Response System makes use of a cordless call button which is carried or worn by the client. The button is pressed, in the event of an emergency, to signal for help through a device attached to a telephone. The call button will send a signal if it is anywhere within 500 feet of the home telephone unit. The alarm message is also transmitted automatically when the client is unable to signal after a preprogrammed period of time. Upon receipt of an alarm call from a client, the system assures appropriate response to provide assistance to the client in the event of an emergency.

Since the program is funded under the Older Americans Act through the West Central Texas Council of Governments Aging Department, the Emergency Response System home units must be placed in the homes of frail and handicapped persons over the age of 60. A questionnaire has been developed which aids in determining whether or not the placement of a unit in a particular home is warranted. This questionnaire covers factors such as general state of health, any illnesses or conditions which may render a person unable to telephone for help if it is needed, and the amount of time the individual spends alone in his home.

A reception and informational meeting open to the general public will be held at the Knox City Community Center, 212 South 3rd, Tuesday, August 31, 1982, 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

Persons interested in having an Emergency Response System Home Unit or learning more about the program may contact Marsha Whittemore, at the Experienced Senior Citizens Center, 817-864-3875.

Haskell Unemployment Rate Down

The unemployment rate in Haskell County hit 1.1 percent in July 1982 according to figures released today to Capitol News Service.

That compares to a rate of 2.9 percent in June, the Texas Employment Commission reported. Out of a total local labor force of 3,532 persons, the TEC estimates 38 were actively seeking employment in July.

The manufacturing, mining and services sectors of the Texas economy continued to show employment declines in July, while the picture for construction has improved, said James Barnes, TEC labor market analyst.

The release of the statewide jobless rate of 7.3 percent for July several weeks ago sparked a controversy between Gov. Bill Clements and TEC Chairman Nolan Ward.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates are based on surveys conducted monthly by the Bureau of the Census. Ward's figures, and the local TEC estimates, are based on actual unemployment insurance claims.

The 7.3 percent July unemployment rate was down from the 7.7 percent rate announced for June, the highest mark in the state in the last 12 years. "As I anticipated," Clements said when the latest rate was released, "the strength of the Texas economy has produced another 30,000 new jobs for Texans during a time of rising national unemployment."

An estimated 542,400 Texans out of a total labor force of 7.4 million were unemployed in July. The national jobless rate remained steady at 9.8 percent in July.

Cattle Producers Set Meetings

There will be two meetings held for beef cattle producers, the first meeting will be held at the Haskell County Fair grounds, August 30 at 6 p.m. on Monday, Dr. John Beverly, Extension Reproduction Specialist with A&M Extension Service, will present the program on bull evaluation.

The second meeting will be at the Haskell National Bank Community Room at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night, Dr. Bill Smith, Extension Beef Cattle Specialist from Vernon will talk about nutrition as it pertains to your cow herd.

Max Stapleton, County Extension Agent-Agriculture hopes all the cattle producers in this area will attend both the informative meeting. He feels that they will be of great interest and very valuable to you.

John Turner Hired By Ambulance Service

John Turner was hired as a new ambulance attendant by the Board of Directors of the Haskell County EMS System Tuesday night.

Turner will assume duties with the service effective September 1. He is currently employed by the Haskell County Sheriff's Office as a Deputy Sheriff. He has several years experience as director of the Ambulance Service in Knox City and as a volunteer with the Haskell Service. Turner will fill the vacancy created when Wes Strickland resigned and Board Members promoted Tim Leek to the position of Administrator.

In other action, Board Members heard a report on a financial review of ambulance records. The review was conducted by the auditing firm employed by Haskell Memorial Hospital.

Following the review, Board Members decided to request that Strickland return approximately $1,000.00 to the service. The funds include a portion of Strickland's salary following his resignation and unauthorized expenses during a trip.

Haskell Sales Tax Up 13.5% From 1981

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Monday sent checks totaling $97.9 million to 967 Texas cities as their share of the one-percent city sales tax of August.

"So far, these monthly rebates of local taxes are running nearly 12 percent ahead of last year's totals," Bullock reported. "As we predicted last month, the oil glut has slowed down the pace of this growth markedly, especially in the places that were experiencing oil booms. But the general state growth rate is still strong and healthy."

Houston received the biggest share of the one-cent local sales tax with a check for $20 million, based on taxable sales of $1.96 billion by 51,166 business outlets. So far in 1982 Houston's payments are up 14 percent over 1981.

Dallas got $11.1 million, bringing the total received during 1982 to $53.6 million.

MRS. MICHAEL MADISON CAULEY
...formerly Lissa Denise Hunt

Cauley, Hunt Repeat Vows In Double Ring Ceremony

Lissa Denise Hunt of Haskell and Michael Madison Cauley of Seagraves were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Sat., Aug. 14 in the Church of Christ in Haskell. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Don Fleming of Loop, cousin of the bride.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hunt of Haskell. The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joe Cauley of Seagraves.

The couple exchanged wedding vows before a massive eight-foot brass arched candleabra holding white tapers, enhanced by a huge fan shaped silk arrangement of various shades of orchid and pink dutch iris, roses, lilies, gladiolus with large white orchids and flocked gyp. Additional candleabras were used and the pews were adorned with large bows and sashes of lavender satin, highlighted by pink satin and white lace streamers with pink and white orchids. Escorted down the aisle by her father and given in marriage by both parents, the bride wore an original gown by Michelle for Alfred Angelo in white organza and lace. The fitted bodice of chantilly lace had a Queen Anne neckline. Seed pearls and paillettes traced the lace pattern and the long fitted sleeves were edged in an organza ruffle and enhanced with lace appliques and a deep bias flounce was held by a wide band of scalloped lace. The skirt fell into a full chapel length train.

Her lace cap held a long chapel length veil of imported English illusion that was edged in matching lace and appliques. The bride carried a floor length cascading bouquet containing large pink orchids with pink rosebuds, and an assortment of orchid runners. In keeping with tradition, the bride wore a diamond necklace belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. R.L. Hunt, as something old, her wedding dress as something new, an embroidered handkerchief with the names and wedding dates of the girls in the graduating class married thus far as something borrowed and a garter as something blue.

The wedding music was provided by the church singers. Selections were "Endless Love", "Surround Me With Love", "Follow Me", "We've Only Just Begun", and "The Wedding Song".

Serving as Matron of Honour was Trina Haley, of Perkins, OK., sister of the bride. The Maid of Honour was Jana Hunt, of Haskell also a sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Julie Coday, of Tulsa, OK., cousin of the bride, Sara Starr and Vickie Wallace, of Haskell friends of the bride. They wore dresses by Bianchi, alternating in violet and petal pink voile. The bodice of each dress was fitted with spaghetti straps and had white silk venise lace across the bodice. The lace was repeated on the Sabrina neckline of the short jacket that had full puffed sleeves. A tiny self belt defined the waistline and their full skirt was floor length. They carried large cascades of orchids, lilies, and roses with layers of white tulle with lace and satin streamers tied with love knots.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo, accompanied by a white wing collar shirt and a white satin ascot with a pearl stick pin. His boutonniere consisted of small pink orchids intertwined with seed pearls.

Serving the groom as best man was Butch Cassas. Groomsmen were Larry Bell, Joseph Williams, Lane Mills and David Renfro, of Loop all friends of the groom. They wore matching silver tuxedos.

The flower girls were Amber and Charla Hunt, of Loop, twin cousins of the bride. They each wore floor length dresses, one of petal pink voile and one of violet. They carried white baskets covered in tulle and lace and trimmed with seed pearls and satin bows.

The ring bearers were Kyle and Keith Crutcher, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Crutcher of Seagraves. They wore white tuxedos and carried the wedding rings on white satin and lace pillows.

Ushers were Kevin Haley and Mark Hannsz, brother-in-law and future brother-in-law of the bride, Kim and Pat Coulter, cousins of the groom, Lynn Addison and Joe Roark, friends of the groom. They wore the same attire as the groomsmen.

The bride's mother wore a formal floor length gown of morning rose with lavender cording. Her corsage was made of orchids and pink roses. The groom's mother wore a mauve formal floor length gown with long sheer sleeves. Her corsage also was made of orchids and roses. As the bride neared the altar, she presented her mother with a pink rose and a kiss. The bride presented her mother-in-law with a rose after the ceremony.

Registering the guests was Mrs. Tommy McGuire of Weinert. Covering the table was a floorlength pink satin cloth with an overlay cloth of white lace, gathered at each corner with pink and orchid cluster corsages. A picture of the bride and groom and a white plume pen were placed by the book. Wedding scrolls were handed out by Colbie and Kelly Cauley, cousins of the groom.

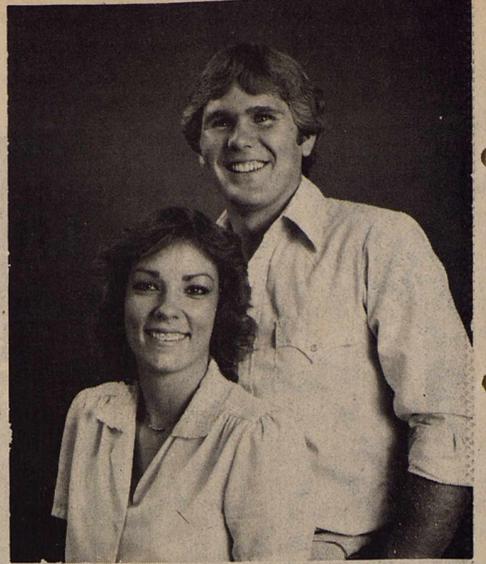

The reception following the ceremony was held in the church annex. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with gum paste orchids and roses. The tablecloth was of pink taffeta with a lace over-lay. Silver candle sticks with orchid candles and silver and crystal appointments with orchid and pink napkins were used. Kiersta Lane, of Haskell and Kimberly Beauchamp, of Rochester served at the bride's table.

The groom's table was covered with a monogrammed cloth with brass appointments. A chocolate cake decorated with gum paste orchid lilies and babies breath was served. Serving at the groom's table were Laurie Gross and Terri Welch, both of Abilene.

Miss Hunt had been honoured with a bridal shower in Seagraves June 26 and an afternoon gift tea here in the home of Kathleen Tanner on July 12. She was also given a lingerie shower by friends, Sara Starr and Vickie Wallace in the Wallace home.

Suzanne Starr hosted a bridesmaid luncheon in her home the day of the wedding.

After a honeymoon in Ruidosa, the couple will reside in San Angelo where he will attend school.

MR. AND MRS. JERRY L. HUNT of Haskell are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Jana Lyn to James Mark Hannsz, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hannsz of Haskell. The bride-elect is a 1981 graduate of Haskell High School and is presently employed by the Haskell Free Press. The prospective bridegroom is a 1980 graduate of Haskell High School and is engaged in farming. The couple plans an October 2 wedding.

By the time you read this, the Brazos West Art Association will have completed the HASKELL CENTENNIAL 1882-1982 Mural on the Green Stamp Building in Haskell. Much research, planning and real work went into this painting and we hope you all enjoy it as our participation in Haskell's celebration. The news media, TV, radio and papers have been very generous with publicity. Thanks to all of you!

Looking back into history, we have come a long way. Just think what it would be in our art world if we did not have light. Light is one of the most important factors in painting and had it not been for Edison inventing the practical incandescent lamp in 1878, we could not have gone so far in our art world. Once, in filling out a form, Edison came upon the heading "Interested in..." and unhesitatingly he wrote "Everything". Movies, the phonograph, the typewriter, the florescope, even radio and television are gifts to posterity. But Edison's biggest feat was the invention of the lamp. Ane he called his shot! Never before - or since - has an American inventor had the nerve to predict what he was going to do, much less set a time limit (two years), then organize a company to back the venture. Did you know that for writing the story announcing Edison's new lamp, New York Herald reporter Marshall Fox almost got fired? Thank you Mr. Edison for inventing the lamp so we can not only work in the arts but enjoy the finished masterpieces.

Q. What are some of the varying refractive effects of light on materials, such as glass, water, etc.?

A. We know that glass is usually transparent but when it is crushed, it becomes white pulverized particles; water is clear but when it is frozen, it becomes snow and is opaque.

Q. How can I test a color for lightfastness?

A. Time-consuming, I'd say! Take a piece of clear glass, cover on-half of it with metal foil. Place the color to be tested (previously painted on canvas or paper) under the glass and let it remain 500 to 600 hours in the sun. Upon removing the sample, you should be able to tell if the uncovered portion has faded.

Q. What is meant by diffused light?

A. Low valued blues and greys and greens made soft by using a dry blender brush. Hint: "May my teaching drop as the rain". Duet. 32:2 Write your questions and hints to me, Faye Schnuriger, P.O. Box 134, Haskell, Tex. 79521. I will not use your name but do want you to sign your letters.

The descendants of the late M.O. and Drucilla Field flocked to the Corral Building in Haskell on Aug. 21st and 22nd for a "Cousins Reunion". 101 persons were in attendance, coming from far and near and the four corners of the United States. A fun time was enjoyed by a host of relatives from noon Sat. until four p.m. on Sunday. A very interesting and unique program was presented Saturday night consisting of a style show, presenting the new fall fashions and modeled by several of the men in attendance. THE COMMUNITY BANKER

By Berlie J. Fallon

From teeming cities' towering spires
To verdant valleys swathed in shade,
The wheels of commerce hum because
The local banker plies his trade.

To businessmen his helping hand
Means ample capital for growth;
"More jobs, new stores, and industry"—
His constant pledge and solemn oath.

To builders he's a guarantor
Of lumber, labor, needed tools;
As tributes to his faith in man
Rise dwellings, factories, sparkling schools.

To farmers, stockmen, he's a boon
When drouth restricts their annual yields;
His prayer co-mingles with their own:
"Lord, send the rain to green our fields."

To younger folks who want to spend
Beyond the limits of their pay,
His counsel wise rings clear and true:
"Postponement is a better way."

Here and there throughout his town
Are those he granted private aid—
A scholarship, a personal loan—
No interest will be due when paid.

His energies are primed to give
The best to his community,
A place where families come to stay
Because of pride and unity.

Conferred by those who know him best
Are plaques which crowd his humble shelf:
Youth welfare—parks—ecology—
His motto: "Service before self."

Most often he's a self-made man—
No stranger he to toil and sweat;
He worked to pay his way through school
And knows the challenge of a debt.

When grateful folks reflect on friends
And number those they ought to thank,
They do grave wrong if they forget
The man who runs their local bank.

Allergies: How Do You Know If You've Got One?

People often say casually that they are allergic to this or that substance when they are not truly allergic at all. For example, a so-called food allergy may just be indigestion. In other cases, an irritant may produce discomfort which is not based on allergic reactions. Conversely, that summer cold may really be hay fever, even if you've never had hay fever before. You may not realize it's an allergy until you notice that you get the same "cold" at the same time every year and that it goes away on schedule.

What are the symptoms of hay fever, the most common form of allergy? Hay fever is characterized by sneezing, raspy wheezing, stuffed-up or runny nose, itchy and watery eyes and excessive mucus in the nose and throat.

Why do some people develop it and not others? Hay fever only develops in people who have an inherited tendency for the condition. Any kind of allergy can appear at any time in life, and its severity can change from year to year.

Some medical authorities estimate that as many as one of five people suffers from an allergy or may be predisposed to developing an allergy under certain conditions.

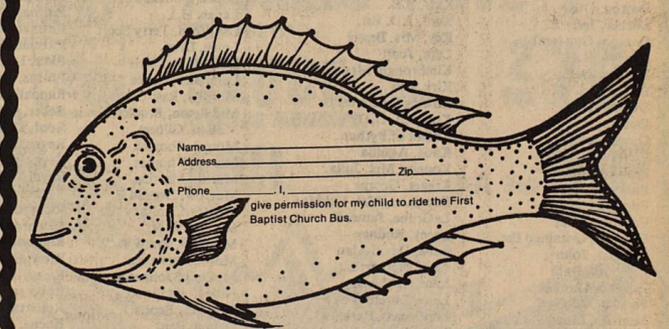

The only way to know for sure if you are allergic to one or all of the many types of pollens, including ragweed, tree or grass pollens, is to consult your physician and undergo a series of skin tests.

Hay fever is not caused by hay, nor is there any fever. It's an overreaction of the body's immune system to a substance in the environment, such as pollen.

Your doctor may suggest the product most recommended by pharmacists for temporary relief of hay fever symptoms. Chlor-Trimeton, from Schering Corporation, is now available in new, maximum strength, long-acting, anti-histamine tablets or regular strength tablets. You might like to ask your pharmacist which strength is best suited to your needs.

Haskell Nursing Center News

* Monday afternoon we had a "Welcome back party" for our activity director, Chris Collins who had been on vacation. Ice cream was served to a number of our residents who had gathered together. All enjoyed it, afterwards we did some craft work. We enjoy working together. A group of ladies from the First Methodist Church of Haskell for a service Tuesday afternoon. Several songs were sung, by all led by Grace Montgomery. Dora Montgomery brought us some good words. We enjoyed the service. At the close we presented each lady with something we had made.

The Country Band came out Thursday evening and played a number of songs for our residents who had gathered to hear them. The outstanding violin player was present again. Everyone really enjoyed the band. We have a new D. O. N. Peggy Pryor from Dublin, who had been a resident there for 15 years. She was Charge Nurse of the Dublin Convalescence Home for 5 years. She also attended Tarleton State University working for her R.N. Degree. Her husband Bill Pryor is self-employed, hauling peanuts. She has two children Michelle, age 14, and Richard, age 12. She tells us she and her family enjoy living in Haskell very much. Richard has been visiting Pogues meat locker everyday with Mr. Pogue and employees, he is very interested in this type of work, he feels like he might want to go into this when he gets older. The other day when they had butchered two heifers, they were in the family way, he brought them to his mother at the Nursing Home. She had put them in a jar of preserving fluid, which made him very happy. All the residents and visitors, employees really enjoyed it. I am sure lots of folks that grew up on a farm, like me, has never seen interesting sight like this before. Theda Neal had her sister from out of town visit her. Truett Piland and Mrs. Edd Melton of Abilene visited Bessie Piland. Mrs. John Clemer, Jewel Little of Rochester visited Sude Mae Ballard, Gertrude Boberson and Lector Thomason. Joy Spalding of Hamlin visited L.C. and Pauline Williams. Mardell Roberson of Rochester, Alva LeFevre and Etta Leach of Sagerton, Marvin and Margarette

Haskell Statistics Show Births Down—Deaths Up

Births were down, deaths were up and, according to Texas Vital Statistics, heart disease was the leading cause of death in 1981 in Haskell. Vital Statistics, an annual report issued by the Texas Department of Health, lists 62 local births. Of these, 24 were boys and 38 were girls, 62 were white and none black. Statewide, 281,558 babies were born to Texas residents in 1981 - a new record for the third straight year. Of those babies, 144,312 were male and 137,246 female, 243,022 were white and 38,536 black. Although the number of births increased, the birth rate dropped slightly from 19.2 births per 1,000 population in 1980 to a 1981 rate of 19.1. The report also showed that 70 residents of the town of Haskell died in 1981. Of those, 46 were male and 24 female, 68 were white and two black. In 1981, 110,498 Texas residents died, another new record. More than 55 percent of those dead, 61,475 persons, were male, 49,023 were female. Almost 96,000 whites died as compared to 14,670 blacks. The death rate decreased to 7.5 deaths per 1,000 population in 1981, down from the 1980 rate of 7.6.

As was true with the rest of the state, heart disease was the no. 1 cause of death locally, killing 13 residents of Haskell County. The second leading cause of death locally was cancer, which accounted for 3 deaths, this was followed by accidents, with 3 deaths. State-wide, heart disease killed 38,463 Texans last year, followed by cancer, which was responsible for 21,770 deaths and strokes with 9,439 deaths. Accidents claimed 7,935 Texans' lives. Together those four leading causes were responsible for seven out of every 10 deaths in 1981. Other important causes of death were: bronchitis, emphysema and asthma - 3,169; pneumonia and influenza - 2,710; homicide - 2,518; suicide - 1,884 and diabetes - 1,850.

Of the three leading causes of death, heart disease and strokes have been decreasing since 1950, while cancer deaths have increased 11 percent. "Cancer may soon become our greatest killer," said Texas Health Commissioner Dr. Robert Bernstein.

According to Vital Statistics, infant, neonatal and fetal deaths totaled four in 1981 in the town of Haskell. Across Texas, the infant, neonatal and fetal mortality rate was 29 deaths per 1,000 live births, up slightly from 28 per 1,000 in 1980. Of those 8,244 babies who died statewide, 2,359 were stillbirths, 2,159 were neo-nates - from birth to 28 days of age, and 3,276 were infants - children 29 days to one year of age.

The report indicates that 93 couples were married in Haskell County in 1981. The model age for grooms was 20 to 24 and for brides was 15 to 19. Last year, Texas recorded 194,672 marriages; the model age for both brides and grooms was 20 to 24 years.

There were 22 divorces in Haskell County in 1981, or 24 divorces for every 100 marriages. The model age for a husband involved in a divorce was 20 to 24 years and for a wife was 25 to 29 years. Statewide, 101,856 marriages ended in divorce last year, or 52 divorces for every 100 marriages. Almost half of the divorces occurred in the first six years of the marriage, the report said. The median age of a wife involved in a divorce in Texas in 1981 was 30; the median age of a husband was 32.

East Side Baptist To Hold Revival

East Side Baptist Church will be holding revival services Sunday, Aug. 29th through Thursday, Sept. 2nd. Dale Cartwright, a full time evangelist from Lipan, will be preaching each service. Dale has been preaching since he was 17 years old. After 17 years of pastoring, God directed him into full time evangelism. He is a gifted man of God in presenting the gospel message.

Leading the music for the services will be Larry Sinclair, also a full time evangelist. Larry was a part of the music group "The Followers" for 3 years. As a small boy, Larry had polio but instead of a detriment this has helped his faith and ministry. He is a gifted singer and also does "Chalk-Talk" drawings during the services.

Services will begin Sunday at 11:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. and each evening at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to share in these revival services. We pray that God will send His revival.

Chamber Urging Business Cleanup For Centennial

WANDA DULANEY
Manager, Haskell
Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber of Commerce has been asked to encourage all places of business in Haskell to improve their buildings, store fronts, surroundings and interiors in keeping with the city beautification program during the centennial year. The Board of Directors of the Chamber voted to recognize at the end of the year all firms who cooperate in this effort.

For the most part, Haskell already looks good, and minor repairs and touch-ups may be all that are needed.

Clean sidewalks and shiny plate glass windows do almost as much good as a new coat of paint.

The purpose of window displays is, of course, to lure people into the store to purchase merchandise. West Texas sun often plays havoc with the articles that are exhibited. Why not, then, display fewer items and feature them, thus calling more attention to these and providing a far more attractive window?

Some merchants prefer not to mix their products in a window display so they show things in one particular color or use a seasonal theme or a certain type throughout the display. The result - a window that appeals to the potential customer and whets his appetite to enter the store to see what else they have to offer.

Boxes of incoming merchandise lining the aisles in a store are a definite safety hazard and a nuisance to anyone who is trying to shop. Of course, all merchandise has to be put in the shelves, but perhaps it could be brought up a carton at a time and dealt with accordingly, thus giving the customer space to walk and more convenience in shopping. Clean, clear aisles are one of the most inviting aspects of a well-kept store, insuring a good traffic flow and a prevention of accidents.

When a customer sees considerable dust of any merchandise, he is inclined to think it has been there for quite a while, and he may go elsewhere to seek what he believes are newer, fresher products.

Usually, stores across the United States have the same arrangement that they had when they opened their business. It looks good so why change it? Change is sometimes good and can be very inducive to business. Sometimes it's only a matter of reorganization - putting chairs with chairs, canned goods with canned goods, blouses with blouses, cosmetics with cosmetics.

Merchants everywhere experience a summer slump. This might be a good time to take a good look at the present conditions and arrangements, then determine whether or not some changes or improvements might be in order to entice more customers.

Too often the owner of management feels that he must assume full responsibility for the overall appearance of his store. Most salespeople would probably like to be involved in the planning for improvements. A lot of them have excellent ideas and very good taste. Ask for their opinions. You might be surprised how much this could increase their pride in your establishment.

If you are a merchant, why not take a walk around the square. Take a drive through the outlying business districts of Haskell. How does the condition of your store compare with those of your competitors and other stores near you? Is your window display as attractive as theirs? Is your plate glass as clean? Is your place as uncluttered? Is your entrance as inviting? If not, maybe that could have something to do with the fact that some sell more of the same merchandise than others.

When you drive around our town, you will quickly see an evidence or pride, for Haskell is one beautiful, prosperous looking city.

Then drive a hundred miles in any direction comparing the overall appearance of our town with that of any other. There IS no comparison. Haskell looks great!

Why, then, is there an organized effort to enhance its beauty? Well, you know a shirt looks better when you add a tie; a shoe looks better when you keep it shined; a puppy looks better when you give him a bath; a house looks better when all of the rooms are clean at once.

Therefore, merchants, we ask you to join the challenge of this community project. And, customers, will you make it a point to compliment their efforts when you see the improvements they have made? Several firms have already done this earlier this year, and what a difference it has made!

Oil Industry Loosing Millions To Theft

The Texas oil industry could be losing a billion dollars to crude oil theft every year, plus another quarter million to oil field equipment theft according to Ed Thompson of the American Oil and Gas Reporter.

Thompson was one of a group of oil industry representatives, Railroad Commission officials, Department of Public Safety officers and others interested in the oil field theft problem in Texas which appeared before the House Energy Resources Committee chaired by State Representative Joe C. Hanna of Breckenridge on Friday, Aug. 6.

"North Central Texas is experiencing the problem with the rest of the state", Representative Hanna stated. The object of the meeting was to consider the problem of oil field theft and see if legislation will be necessary in the coming 1983 legislative session to combat the situation.

Most agreed that oil field equipment theft has lessened, but crude oil or liquid hydrocarbon theft is on the rise. Principal theft appears to be in two areas: haulers of liquid hydrocarbons, and employees who are actively involved in stealing or get kickbacks through aiding thieves.

The public does not recognize how serious the problem is, and many producers are not even aware they are being ripped off in some cases. One man said he believed that 85-90% of crude oil theft was an inside job. Another participant of the meeting said he believed that 3-18% of Texas oil was sold illegally.

Problems in both oil and equipment theft are in prosecution. Those in attendance said that district attorneys and juries do not understand the problem and it is hard to convict someone of theft. The group agreed that stiffer penalties were necessary and hoped that local district attorneys would call on the State Attorney General's Office for assistance in convicting thieves.

Representative Hanna said, "The Energy Resources Committee will work with the industry and the Railroad Commission and be ready to introduce new laws in the coming session of the Texas Legislature to help to deter oil field theft."

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower

U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Last week the Senate approved a bill which would substantially change our immigration laws, particularly in the area of enforcement. Much as I would like to see much-needed and long-overdue reforms in the laws relating to illegal entry into the United States, I felt compelled to vote against this legislation because of my serious concerns about its provisions regarding penalties for employers who hire illegal immigrants.

Under the provisions of the bill approved by the Senate, an employer of four or more individuals will have violated the law if he does not obtain documentation from each employee to show his legal status. The employer must attest that the documentation was sufficient to make a "reasonable" person believe it to be genuine, and he must keep the form making this declaration on file for at least five years.

This record-keeping burden for each of some 70,000,000 employment transactions each year in the United States is mind-boggling, particularly for small business owners for whom this new requirement will be particularly onerous. Additionally, the employer is put in the position of having to judge the validity of the documents.

Simple failure to obtain the documentation could result in a $500 fine. Hiring an illegal alien would lead to a $1,000 fine per alien for the first offense, a $2,000 fine per alien for the second and a jail sentence for the third.

I am terribly concerned that these provisions, in addition to their unfair impact on employers, will have a discriminatory effect against American citizens or legal aliens. If an employer faces still penalties for unwittingly hiring an illegal alien or accepting forged identification, can we be surprised if he elects not to hire anyone who appears foreign?

I introduced an amendment which would have directed penalties toward employers who willfully and knowingly recruit or hire illegal alien workers.

The employer who attempts to comply -- and I am convinced that the vast majority of businesses will -- would not suffer. My amendment also would have eliminated the requirement for documentation. Instead, a voluntary program would have been created so that employers who chose to participate could use the documentation records as a defense against charges that they hired illegal aliens.

Taken together, I believe the provisions of this amendment would have greatly diminished the risk of discrimination while effectively controlling the intentional hiring of illegal workers. I do not believe that even the worthy goal of making certain that people who break our immigration laws are not allowed to work in the U.S. justifies creating an unconscionable burden for employer or employee.

My concerns were shared by a broad spectrum of groups and individuals. The United States Chamber of Commerce endorsed my approach. Leaders of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC), the American GI Forum, and other Hispanic organizations also advocated the measures in my amendment.

Unfortunately I must report to you that the amendment was not agreed to on the Senate floor. Because of my concerns for the impact on both employers and employees from this section of the bill, I thus could not in good conscience cast my vote for this legislation.

I cannot predict what will happen to the Immigration Bill in the House of Representatives, but if it is enacted into law in its present form I will monitor its effects on my fellow Texans and do everything that I can to see that these effects are not as harmful as I fear they could be.

Toll-Free Line In Service For Champus

CHAMPUS and CHAMPVA beneficiaries who have questions about their claims can now reach the claims processor for their state on a toll-free telephone line. According to C. H. Herren, Veterans Service Officer for Haskell County, the lines have been set up during the past year to better serve beneficiaries in the U.S. At the present time, there are no toll-free lines for beneficiaries residing in Hawaii or Europe.

CHAMPUS (Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services) is the Government supervised program of health care for dependents and survivors of active and retired military personnel. CHAMPVA (Civilian Health and Medical Program - Veterans Administration) is the same program but provides care for the dependents and survivors of veterans who are rated 100% service-connected disabled, or were so rated at the time of their deaths.

The toll-free lines of most of the claims processors are open during the business hours of the time zone in which they are located. The processor servicing the claims of eligible persons residing in Texas is the Wisconsin Physicians Service, and their mailing address is P.O. Box 7938, Madison, Wisconsin 53707.

The toll-free telephone number which is currently available to CHAMPUS-CHAMPVA beneficiaries in Texas is 1-800-356-5954. This same claims processor, Wisconsin Physicians Service, should also be used by beneficiaries who may reside elsewhere in the country but who actually receive covered medical or health care in Texas. In the event the claims processor cannot be reached on the toll-free line, their commercial telephone number is (608)221-4711.

Assisting
Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District

Limited funds for repair of lands damaged by heavy rainfall received in May and June, have been made available to eligible producers in Haskell County. The ASCS office will take applications for assistance on September 1 thru September 15.

Funds are available for the following practices: EC-2, Grading, Shaping and Deleveling; EC-3Restoring permanent fences and EC-4, Restoring structures (ponds, terraces, diversions, waterways, etc.). At present only a small amount of funds are available but ASCS is hoping more funds do become available soon.

A producer must file an application for cost-share assistance and indicate where the damage occurred so that the damaged area can be inspected to determine the level of assistance needed. Applications must be made by the individual that will bear the cost of restoration and all damages will be inspected by the Soil Conservation Service.

Eligibility requirements and qualifications have not at this time been determined, but all producers receiving damages should prepare to make their applications. Damages that can be repaired at a minimal cost using regular farm labor and equipment are not eligible for cost-sharing. Assistance is available to all regardless of race, color, creed, sex, or nation origin.

For more information, come by or call the ASCS at 864-2617 or the SCS at 864-3212.

LEARNING BAKING SKILLS IS REWARDING

Summertime means kids have extra time for activities to develop their skills. Adult supervision is important with these activities, especially with baking.

The following two recipes will test your kids' baking skills and, perhaps, enable them to learn new ones. Surprise Cupcakes and Granola-Peanut Butter Brownies, developed in the Betty Crocker Kitchens, are two desserts to learn about and bake.

It is important to teach care when removing hot pans from the oven. Remind the child to always wear a protective mitt or use potholders. Never use wet or thin potholders.

Most important when baking with kids is to enjoy yourselves. Surprise Cupcakes and Granola-Peanut Butter Brownies are as fun to make as they are good to eat.

Dry Weather Is Fire Threat

Current hot, dry weather is making Texas pastures and ranges ripe for wildfires.

"Some areas of Texas have had abundant grass growth from spring and early summer rains, so the fuel supply is there for wildfires," said Dr. B.J. Ragsdale. "Better managed ranges are especially vulnerable as there is an abundant supply of fuel."

Wildfires often erupt this time of the year due to lightning careless use of fire, said the range specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Fire is a natural phenomena that had a major influence in developing and maintaining grasslands and savannahs," Ragsdale said.

"And it is being proven as a valuable range improvement tool. Used under proper conditions, fire is a valuable asset. However, a wildfire can do untold damage."

Everyone stands to lose from wildfires. Desirable forage plants may be reduced in vigor or killed, forage for fall and winter is lost, wildlife habitats can be damaged, air and water quality is lowered, recreational value of the burned area is altered, and the burned area is an eyesore.

Additionally, livestock may be lost and fencing and other improvements damaged or destroyed, noted the specialist.

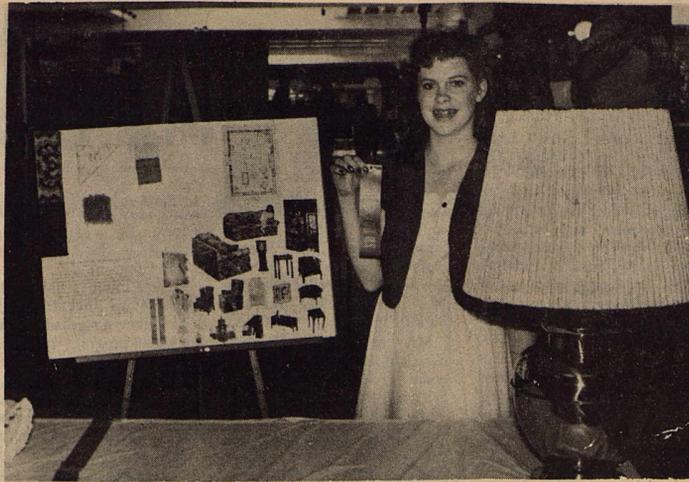

"Prevention is the best cure for wildfires," Ragsdale said. "Use extreme caution with fire of any kind." He especially urged people who work outdoors and sportsmen to use care while the threat of fire is great.

Any wildfire should be reported immediately to the nearest authority, the specialist said.

Ragsdale urged county governments to develop or update rural fire fighting plans so wildfires can be effectively controlled. Equipment should be in order and easily located.

Also, management of burned areas should be planned to insure reestablishment of forage plants. This should include grazing and wildlife management and possibly grass seeding to insure a ground cover.

"Fire, prescribed for use under specific conditions and controlled, can be a useful tool in land and natural resource management," Ragsdale said. "But uncontrolled wildfires can do severe damage and mar an area for a long time."

Jill Jennings--Senior Division Winner District 4-H Home Designer Event

Haskell Youth Compete In Interior Design

Under the curious gaze of passing shoppers and the inspection of a panel of judges, 19 Four-H Club county champions put their interior design skills on display Thursday, Aug. 12 in the Sikes Center Mall in Wichita Falls, garnering trophies and ribbons for their efforts.

Melissa Matus of Wilbarger County won first place in the senior division of the Rolling Plains 4-H Home Environment Event. Second place in that age group went to Giva Chandler of Baylor County.

In the intermediate division, Becky Cook of Wilbarger County won the first place trophy. Mark Ellis of Hardeman County took second.

Winner in the beginner division was Stephanie Streit of Wilbarger County. Second place went to Penny Peden of Haskell County.

Haskell County was also represented by Kelly Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Wallace and Jill Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jennings. Kelly received a blue ribbon in the Intermediate Division and Jill received a blue ribbon in the Senior Division.

Each contestant had to prepare a poster illustrating the floor plan, furnishings, color and fabric choice, and other features for a room of their selection. They also had to exhibit an accessory they had prepared for the room. The accessories ranged from pillows and comforters to pleated lampshades and stained glass decorations.

The room plan was judged on originality, furniture arrangement, selection of furnishings, selection of interior finishes and surfaces, color schemes, neatness and layout, and proper use of design principles.

The accessory was judged on originality, coordination with room design and color scheme, selection of fabric or finish, neatness, and proper use of design principles.

During interviews with the judges, each contestant had to describe their experiences in conducting the project, explain their choices, and describe what changes they might make after completing the project.

The event, now in its second year as a district project, was conceived to help 4-H members develop knowledge and skills in home design and selection of furnishings, explained Jackie Hopkins, Extension home economics agent in Hardeman County, project chairman.

Judges were Mrs. Linda May, 4-H adult leader from Burkburnett; Jim Golden, Vernon furniture dealer; and Extension home economics agents Carol Arndt of King County and Alice Ballinger of Fisher County. Awards were presented by Extension 4-H and youth specialist Leon Moon of Vernon.

Four-H is the youth program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

More Salt Needed With Increased Activity

Athletics usually mean profuse sweating. Watch sodium and potassium when this occurs.

During the hot summer, profuse sweating—particularly in the athlete, can lead to deficits of the principle minerals, sodium and potassium.

Amounts of these two minerals in sweat varies from one person to another by the amount of exercise, temperature and humidity. Ranges of concentration may vary widely, in fact.

INCREASE SODIUM INTAKE

An ordinary diet may furnish from six to 10 grams of salt (sodium chloride).

However, during periods of profuse sweating, an intake of 13-15 grams of salt is recommended daily.

A person may increase the sodium intake by using more salt at the table and by eating foods with a high salt content, such as salted crackers, chips, nuts, pickles, olives, sauerkraut, cheeses and cured meats.

One-half teaspoon of salt contains about one gram of sodium.

ADD WATER, POTASSIUM, TOO

Liberal amounts of water should accompany increased sodium.

Increased sodium can lead to potassium depletion, too, so the athlete should select foods to meet energy needs from foods also rich in potassium.

These include bananas, melons, prunes, prune juice, orange juice, baked potatoes, lima beans, tomatoes, winter squash, dried peas and beans, beef round, turkey and hamburger meat.

Control For Nematodes Vital For Gardens

Nematodes are small, microscopic, worm-like animals that live in the soil and feed on plant roots. Signs of their damage include decayed spots on roots, enlarged root tips, sparse root systems or galls (knots or swellings) on roots.

Root knot nematodes which cause galls on plant roots are the most damaging. These pests cause plants to be stunted and yellow in color and to often die prematurely.

Nematode control is based on resistant varieties, soil fumigation and cultural practices. Whenever possible, use resistant varieties in nematode-infested soil. Tomato varieties having resistance to root knot nematodes include Jackpot, Big Set, Bonus and the cherry tomato Small Fry.

Cultural practices that help reduce losses to nematodes include rotations with such nematode-resistant crops as corn, onions and garlic and turning the soil and letting it dry.

A cover crop such as cereal rye grown during winter months also helps reduce nematodes. Do not use common rye grass as it may become a weed problem. After the first killing frost, plant cereal rye (Elbon) in the garden area previously occupied by cold-susceptible vegetables.

Use of the fumigant Vapam in gardens is the only effective chemical treatment currently recommended by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service for controlling nematodes. Apply Vapam with a hose-on sprayer using one quart per 100 square feet of garden space. After applying Vapam to the surface, immediately wash the chemical into the soil by applying one inch of water. Water twice during the next 48 hours and leave the soil undisturbed for seven days before tilling. Wait an additional two weeks before planting the garden.

If Vapam is applied during high temperatures and low humidity, additional watering during the first 48-hours increases the chemical's effectiveness and prevents excessive loss to the atmosphere. Soil temperature should ideally be below 90 degrees F. when treating.

Vapam is effective for only one growing season and the garden may need treating again next year. Chemical treatment will reduce the number of nematodes at the start of the season, but they will increase during the season if susceptible crops are grown.

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

One of the problems for some school districts in planning school budgets is loss of ADA (average daily attendance). This is definitely one of our problems. We had an ADA of 664 last year in comparison of 693 the previous year. My first thought was the percent of attendance. However, upon checking, I found the percent was 94.47 which was almost exactly what it was the previous year. We then did a quick five year survey and found our ADA had dropped from 780 to 664 over this period of time with only a small change in percent of attendance.

What does this mean fiscally to a school district? We lose approximately $1100 for every loss of one ADA. This loss comes from fewer PU's (teacher units), loss of M&O monies (237 dollars per student), loss of per capita monies (550 per student), and equalization aid. Haskell ISD lost 2 PU units last year.

What are we doing to overcome this deficit? The board and administration, after lengthy discussion, decided that the best route for this coming year was to economize and hold our tax rate as close as possible in order to let the current economic situation right itself. I have instructed the building principals, Mr. Blakley and Mr. Neal, that I expect at least 1 percent improvement in the percent of average daily attendance. We chose to have a bus overhauled rather than purchase a new one even though it had over 100,000 miles on it. We did not replace a coach who resigned but simply shifted assignments. When Mr. Pulattie resigned, we opted to have one principle in charge of the entire secondary program, grades 7-12. The board and administrative staff took a very close look at all supply requests. We changed from three bus routes to two. We have pledged ourselves to close fiscal control in order to maintain the best school program possible for the lowest dollar.

We are well aware that such close budgeting and expenditure control will help in the cost of the school program. However, we also realize that improvements such as better curricular, building renovations, teachers benefits, increased materials, etc. are not possible without the benefit of additional tax dollars.

Hopefully, the economy will right itself, crops and the price for the same will improve, businesses will increase their volume, and more oil wells will go into production in our district. Then, we can begin planning improvements such as courses in computers, distributive education, gifted and talented, industrial arts, building renovations, and fringe benefits for teachers.

Farmer Input Needed For '83 Cotton Program

Cotton farmers have a chance to guide their own destiny by offering suggestions for the 1983 Upland Cotton Program.

Farmer input is needed by Sept. 14 so that the U.S. Department of Agriculture can announce program plans for the coming year around Nov. 1.

"A number of major decisions will be made regarding next year's cotton program, so comments from farmers are vital," said Dr. Carl Anderson, economist in cotton marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "A major issue is acreage set-aside."

Farmer input is needed on the following: mandatory or voluntary acreage reduction, paid land diversion, base loan rate for Strict Low Middling one-one sixteenth inch cotton with a 3.5 to 4.9 mike, 1983 target price and the loan rate for seed cotton. Comments should go to Director, Analysis Division, USDA-ASCS, Room 3741-S, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Anderson noted that the financial implications of a set-aside program are far reaching. "Producing less may well mean that farmers will make more money," he said. "Base cotton acreage would have to be reduced in the range of 25 percent or more to be effective in reducing surplus stocks."

The cotton market is currently in the doldrums and may remain so another year or so, noted the economist. Demand is weak because of this nation's high unemployment and the current deep recession which is straining consumer budgets for needs other than clothing. Mill usage in the U.S. has dropped to the lowest level since the 1930 depression.

"High interest rates have also been the enemy of cotton farmers," Anderson pointed out. "They make it expensive for the cotton trade to hold large inventories of raw cotton or manufactured textile goods, so such inventories have been reduced. Consequently, farmers or the government end up holding cotton which, then, hangs over the market and holds down the price."

Cotton farmers also are having to put up with an undependable export market and a growing level of imported manufactured textile goods, said the economist.

Exports have suffered because foreign governments are temperamental in deciding on cotton production and use. Furthermore, the strong U.S. dollar has pushed up the American price in terms of most foreign currencies, so overseas buyers are reluctant to purchase U.S. cotton. At the same time, the strong American dollar has made foreign textiles a good buy so that imports are cutting deeply into domestic mill usage, Anderson noted.

"Faced with huge cotton stocks and other circumstances that have weakened demand, cotton farmers need to be wary of the devastating financial effects of a large 1983 cotton crop," Anderson said. "Without a sizeable cutback in the base acreage for 1983, any price improvement this season could result in a big increase in cotton acreage and production next year which would almost certainly push prices well below production costs."

Adverse weather has severely reduced cotton acreage this year so that the crop could be below use levels. That, said Anderson, could reduce carry-over stocks and cause the USDA to decide against an acreage set-aside program, which would be a mistake.

Gulf of Mexico sites studied for sanctuary program

COLLEGE STATION — Seven sites in the Gulf of Mexico are currently being evaluated for possible designation as National Marine Sanctuaries, says Dr. Thomas Bright, a Texas A&M University oceanographer who leads the selection team.

The Marine Sanctuary Program is intended to establish a system of national marine sanctuaries for the long-term benefit and enjoyment of the public.

Bright said he expects about two sanctuaries to eventually be established in the Gulf region. He said the "sanctuary" designation would not preclude uses of the sanctuary and its resources by the public as long as the basic ecological integrity of the area is maintained.
