1983 District Champs

To Meet Hale Center

Indians Win District Title In Overtime

In 1958 not a single member of the 1983 Haskell Indian basketball team was born.

Yet, 1958 marked the last District Basketball Championship in Haskell. That is, until last Friday night, when the Tribe defeated the Hamlin Pied Pipers, 74-72 in overtime.

Regulation play ended with Hamlin scoring as the buzzer sounded to tie the game at 68. The Tribe had scored with four seconds left to go ahead and the game was practically history. Nobody can move the ball the length of the court and score with only four seconds, or can they?

Hamlin did, and furthermore, they almost did the same thing again at the end of the overtime when the Tribe went ahead 74-72 with eight seconds left.

The Tribe scored first in the game and maintained a lead of from one to 9 points until mid-way in the final period when Hamlin went ahead for the first time.

Friday's contest marked the third time the two teams had faced each other this year. Early in district play, the Tribe defeated Hamlin soundly. Head Coach Jim Raughton said that Hamlin was flat the first game and he wasn't surprised with their 4-0 record during the second half.

Indian Jamie Davis led the Tribe attack with 27 points, followed by Patrick McCoy and Shane Hadaway with 16 each, and Doug Lanier, 5, Mark Bailey and Albert Sherman with 4 each and Fred Rike with 2.

The Tribe will meet Hale Center February 25, in Lubbock Coronado gym in the second game of a double header. Hamlin and Lorenzo will meet in the first game beginning at 7 p.m. The Haskell game will start about 8:30. Tickets are $3.00 for adults and $2.00 for students. The gym is located at the intersection of 34th St. and Slide Road.

Haskell will play De Leon at Baird February 17 beginning at 6 p.m. and will play Winters at Wylie next Tuesday night at 7 p.m.

Two Juveniles Held In Vandalism Incidents

Vandalism to the Haskell Elementary School and the Community Building of Haskell National Bank last weekend has resulted in the apprehension of two Haskell juveniles.

According to Haskell School Superintendent James Lanier, the two students, ages 14 and 15, have been expelled from school for five days each as stipulated in the vandalism policy adopted by the school board in 1980.

According to Lanier, damage to the Elementary School was estimated at about $200.00. Most of the cost was due to labor required to clean rooms where vandals had discharged dry powder fire extinguishers.

R.C. Couch, Jr. estimated damage to the Community Building at about $5,000.00. Extensive damage occurred to two pianos, one of which was an antique and has damaged extensively.

Fire extinguishers were also discharged in the Community Building and several functions had to be cancelled or moved because of the damage.

Entry into the school building was

A capacity crowd attended the 47th annual banquet of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce Friday, Feb. 11 at the Elementary School Cafeteria, with its theme "Reach for the Stars."

A highlight of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce banquet was the announcement of the most outstanding citizens of 1982.

Dudley Phelps was born in Byrdstown, Tennessee and has worked for the City of Haskell for twenty five years as Truck Foreman

Dr. T.W. Williams and Mrs. C.M. Conner were named Honorary LIFETIME MEMBERS OF THE HASKELL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE at the banquet.

Both were charter members, with Dr. Williams serving as the Chamber's first president in 1936. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Conner remains involved as an avid recruiter for new members. The two honorees are loyal supporters of the local Chamber activities and its endeavors.

Bids Opened

On U.S. 277

Highway Project

J.H. Strain and Sons, Inc. has submitted the low bid on the reconstruction of 4.2 miles of U.S. 277 in Haskell County.

Bids were opened in Austin Tuesday and the bid of J.H. Strain and Sons was approximately $300,000.00 lower than the only other bid. Strains bid was $2,307,991.00. The bid of the Zack Burkett Co. was $2,648,061.11.

A spokesman for the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation (DHT) in Austin told the Free Press that the commission is scheduled to meet February 23 and action will be taken at that time on the acceptance of the bids.

The project calls for the existing 24-foot asphaltic concrete pavement to be reconstructed to provide four 12-foot travel lanes for 2.3 miles and a divided highway with 24-foot lanes for almost two miles.

DHT project engineer Tommy Higgins, of Hamlin, said the work will provide a wider, safer facility and increase the useful life of the roadway. Higgins estimates the project, once underway will require about 375 working days.

Playoff Games Set In Haskell

The Paint Creek High School girls will meet Roby this Friday night at 7 p.m. in Aspermont.

The game will decide the Bi-District title.

Two playoff games will be held this week in the Haskell gym.

Goree will meet the Rule boys Thursday night at 7 p.m. and Coleman will meet the Electra girls Friday at 7:30 p.m.

A small group of High School students lead by a first year head coach bridged the generation gap last Saturday night.

For twenty-five years HHS basketball teams have taken the court for each game and when the season ended their records were never quite good enough to win a district title.

That quarter century of being one of the also rans, came to an abrupt halt last Saturday night when the Indians clinched their first district title since 1958 when Jimmy Browning lead the Tribe to a championship.

The team improved their record from 4-22 last year to 22-6 this year under the leadership of Head Coach Jim Dan Raughton. Raughton is in his third year of coaching in Haskell and his first year as head basketball coach.

After winning a district football title and receiving a Division I in UIL Marching Contest last fall, Saturday's trophy should get HHS off on the right foot for a successful spring UIL competition.

But, no matter what happens next week, or later in the year, the 1983 basketball season will always be remembered.

Election Set April 2 For Weinert ISD

The Weinert Independent School District Board of Trustees has called its election for Saturday, April 2, 1983.

Persons wishing to file for a position on the school board may do so by contacting the Superintendent's office during regular school hours. Filing should be done before March 2.

Other members of the Weinert I.S.D. Board of Trustees are Jerry Walker, Ronnie Alexander, Elmer Adams, and Rex Herricks.

Donut Sale

Members of the Haskell High School track team will hold a donut sale this Saturday around the courthouse.

Funds raised will be used to buy equipment and to pay expenses to the San Angelo track meet. Donuts will be $3.00 per dozen.

Two Juveniles Held In Vandalism Incidents

through a window in the cafeteria. Vandals entered the Community Building through the back door.

County Attorney Charles Chapman stated that petitions had been filed charging the two youth with delinquent conduct and that a hearing would be held in juvenile court to determine the disposition. Chapman said the choices would be to place the two on juvenile probation or sentence them to the Texas Youth Council.

According to Chapman, the fourteen year old is currently under probation in Haskell and Hansford Counties.

Stegemoeller, Hannsz Wed In Afternoon Ceremony

Kristie Dianne Hannsz and Dennis Lee Stegemoeller were united in marriage at 3:00 p.m. Saturday, February 12, 1983 in the First Baptist Church in Haskell. The double ring ceremony was performed by Bro. David Bradshaw of Slidell.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hannsz of Haskell. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin L. Stegemoeller of Rochester.

Vows were read before a fern entwined brass arch holding white wedding bells and doves with brass candle trees on each side of the arch. Brass hurricane lamps marked the pews with English ivy and suede rose bows.

Escorted down the aisle by her father and given in marriage by both parents, the bride wore a wedding dress of white slipper satin and chantilly lace. The gown featured a Queen Anne neckline with fitted bodice of chantilly lace. Seed pearls traced the lace pattern on the bodice. Victorian sleeves were adorned in lace ruffles circled in pearls. The wide cuffs were closed with pearl buttons. The back of the gown, accented by a chapel train, outlined the lace ruffles at the hemline. Tiny pearl buttons lined the back and waist closure. Her lace caplet held a long chapel length train veil of illusion that was of lace and appliques. Her gown was designed and fashioned by her mother. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of suede rose carnations and white lilies of the valley.

In keeping of tradition, for something old she wore a ruby lavalere necklace belonging to her late grandmother Mrs. Ted Marugg. She also wore a gold wedding band belonging to her late great-grandmother Kohout, who wore the ring from her native country of Czechoslovakia. Her wedding dress was something new; an embroidered handkerchiefs with names and wedding dates of the girls in the graduating class married thus far as something borrowed; and a garter as something blue. In her shoe, she wore a six-pence for good luck given to her by Mrs. W.A. Lyles.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Ellen Rieger and Mrs. Carl Bailey. Soloist was Denise Ehlers of Tahoka, cousin of the groom, singing "If" and "The Wedding Song".

Serving as Matron of Honor was Laurie Gross of Abilene. Bridesmaids were Terry Kuykendall of Abilene and Charlotte Peiser, sister of the bride. They wore long gowns of suede rose satinure with sweetheart necklines and fitted bodices. The long sleeves were edged with self-ruffles, and pleated cummerbuns accented the waistlines. They carried brandi vases with lighted candles and suede rose ribbon streamers.

Breann Peiser, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her long dress was of suede rose satinure with full gathered skirt and self-ruffle outlining the hem. Her long sleeves and ruffles on the shoulders were edged in lace. She carried a white basket trimmed with lace and rose daisies.

The groom was attired in an all-white tuxedo featuring single peak lapel coat, white trousers with satin stripe, and satin vest and tie. A pleated skirt accented the groom's tux. His boutonniere was lilies of the valley and suede rose carnations.

Serving the groom as best man was James Beauchamp. Groomsmen were David Carver and Mark Hannsz, brother of the bride. They were attired in navy-blue tuxes and white ruffled shirts with lilies of the valley boutonnières.

Ushers were Robert Ace Turner, Don Hawkins, Chad Glover, and Matt Reed. Candlelighters were Chad

Glover and Matt Reed. They were also attired in navy blue tuxes and white ruffled shirts.

The fathers wore navy blue tuxes identical to the ushers, candlelighters and groomsmen.

The bride's mother wore a street-length mauve crepe dress with her corsage of spider mums.

The groom's mother wore a street-length dress of navy crepe georgette. Her corsage was also in spider mums.

Registering the guests was Jana Hannsz, sister-in-law of the bride. Covering the table was a floorlength white satin cloth with a deep ruffled overlay of suede rose satin.

Navy and rose silk flowers circled the base of the crystal Hurricane lamp burning a scented candle. Beside the bride's book was a plum pen which the guests registered with.

The reception followed the ceremony in the church fellowship hall. A floor length pink satin cloth covered the bride's table. A bouquet of silk rosebuds, spider mums, carnations, and lilies of the valley in the brides' chosen colors adorned the silver candleabra. The five-tiered bride's cake was antique-white with the traditional bride and groom atop the cake. The decoration was also used on the bride's parents wedding cake at the time of their marriage. Fruit punch was served to the guests from a silver punch bowl. Crystal and other silver appointments completed the table arrangement. Serving at the bride's table were Sharla Carver, Kim Beauchamp, and Terri McBee of Abilene.

The groom's table was covered with a white floor-length cloth and navy linen overlay. Sweet German Chocolate cake was decorated with the monogrammed initials of the couple. The centerpiece on the groom's table was a crystal Hurricane lamp circled in navy and rose silk flowers. A silver-footed coffee service with other silver appointments were used for mints and nuts. Serving at the groom's table were his sisters, Marla Hawkins, Brenda Turner, and Susan Stegemoeller of Lubbock.

Lezlee Hawkins, niece of the groom, passed out rice bags to the guests during the reception. Music was provided during the reception by Mrs. Ellen Rieger.

After a winter ski trip to Ruidosa, New Mexico, the couple will reside in Haskell.

The bride is a 1982 graduate of Haskell High School and Abilene Commercial College as an Executive Secretary. The bridegroom is a 1981 graduate of Rochester High School and 1982 TSTI graduate in refrigeration technology. He is owner and operator of Haskell Heating Air Conditioning & Appliance Service.

The rehearsal dinner was given Friday evening February 11 in the church fellowship hall. The dinner was prepared and hosted by the groom's parents.

Miss Hannsz was honored with an Old-Fashioned bridal shower on January 24th at the Community Building and an afternoon gift tea at the Sagerton Faith Lutheran Church on February 5. She was also given a surprise lingerie shower by her sister on February 4.

Many who paint seem to think they should paint a good picture every time. This is a mistaken attitude, because it just isn't done. It is said of professionals that many of them consider one fine painting out of ten or one good painting out of five is doing all right. The rest, they realize, are just run-of-the-mill. Perhaps not duds, but certainly not exceptional. Sometimes they miss the boat entirely, just as we do. I saw John Pike, the famous watercolorist and author, paint for several minutes, then tore the paper in half, then in quarters, started over and completed a good painting. So if you are smart, you will not agonize over little disasters, but will paint over the canvas and start something that you can get excited about. We learn from mistakes, and nothing is really gained by muddling around with something that is all wrong. Spend your time on a new painting that you can "put yourself" into. Q. What colors should I use to paint a winter landscape as it is right now, drab and uninteresting? A. As previously suggested in this column, this is an ochre world and if you look closely, it is just that right now. However, as painted, it should not be drab. The skies are usually a lovely pale cobalt with very pale pink at the horizon. A cloudy day suggests purple-grey-ultramarine mixture with a little Burnt Sienna and White. Try Viridian Green and Alizarin and White, which gives you different values, of course. The distant hills are more purple in the winter. Look for spots of color to live up your painting; bright clumps of Burnt Sienna grass, even some earth reds and oranges can be used. The bluish greens of the prickly pear are offset by the Alizarin Crimson fruit. Yellow sunlit edges of the yucca leaves is interesting. The cedars are a richer green against the dry grass and some trees still have leaves. Search for it. Q. How can I put a pretty sunset into a winter landscape since winter is so dull and colorless? A. Have you seen these winter sunsets? I marvel daily at the changes in the yellows, oranges and reds as the sun leaves us for the day. Perhaps it is too cold to get out and see them but try it, they are beautiful! Dark graceful bare trees silhouetted against a brilliant sky makes a very dramatic painting, indeed. This is a good time to study tree structure - oh, how we do need that! HINT: Get out your snapshots and slides and paint springtime - it is not far away. Write your questions and hints to me, Faye Schnuriger, P.O. Box 134, Haskell, Texas 79521. I will not use your name but do want you to sign your letters.

Garden Club Continues Theme With Discussion

The Haskell Garden Club met February 10, in the Community Room, with the president, Mrs. J.O. Blankenship presiding, as each member answered roll call with her favorite blooming shrub. Mrs. Otho Nanny said, "it is time to 'Roll Out the Barrel' continuing the theme of 'Listen to our Garden Sing', as she introduced Mrs. Ed Fouts and Mrs. Juanita Rhea in a round table discussion on plants.

Mrs. Fouts told about the planting and care of shrubs, deciding where is the best place to plant shrubs, taking in consideration the sun, and if some do better on the south or north side of the house, also keep in mind the ones most suitable for this area. When selecting roses, the best buy are those with the most cones from the main stem. When buying plants, get directions of how to plant the depth and width of the hole and fill in with compost, dirt and pete moss. Water real good, and later when the leaves began to form, fertilize with a fertilizer high in nitrogen, phosphate and potash, because nitrogen gives a dark color, phosphate makes growth and blooms faster and potash causes plants to resist insects. In trying to control mealy bugs, the white powdery looking substance on a plant, use a mixture of one half water and one half Fantastic (the household cleaner) using a spray.

Mrs. Rhea said it is now time to prune and fertilize for summer blooming. A 12-12-12 fertilizer is very good and should be used every four to six weeks for the growth of annuals. She said one of the fastest growing shade trees is the Fantex Ash. Also now is the time to set out azalias with pete moss. Mrs. Blankenship said using one half can of lye with two gallons of water was good to paint tree trunks for bugs, also a 3-inch trench two or three feet dug around a tree, putting lye in it was good for pecan trees.

For the horticulture display, house plants were brought by Mrs. Ruby Meadors, Mrs. C.T. West and Mrs. Blankenship. A beautiful Valentine arrangement was presented by Mrs. Rhea and taken to the Rice Springs Care Home. District VIII Garden Club convention will be held in Breckenridge March 16, with Inez Boyd, a national flower show judge, using as her theme, "Tea Cups and Chop Sticks". She does many Japanese flower arrangements. When she was in Tokyo, Japan, she took an Ikebana Course Under in Ichiya Seobal Design in Meiko Kasuya. Jim Dillion of Knox City, Vocational Agriculture teacher, will be the Garden Club speaker March 10, on trees and lawns at 2:30 p.m. in the Community Room and the public is invited.

Ownership Of Microwaves Up

"A growing number of consumers now consider the microwave oven a necessity rather than a luxury," says Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

About 15 percent of American households had microwaves by the end of 1979. An estimated 22 percent of households now contain microwaves, reports Piernot.

As the number of dual-earner families continues to increase, so should the sales of microwave ovens and cooking equipment. Added income and limited time available for food preparation are the primary reasons dual-earner families acquire a microwave, says Piernot. But research by microwave manufacturers also indicates a "psychological" reason for purchasing a microwave oven. According to Piernot, this research shows that working parents are able to provide "home-cooked" meals with a microwave, thus eliminating a feeling of abandonment or neglect in family members.

A microwave oven may also be purchased so additional family members, especially older children and teenagers, can more readily participate in meal preparation.

"Extension home economists receive a tremendous number of questions from microwave owners and potential owners in Texas," notes Piernot. Most of those questions have to do with energy usage, oven safety, nutrition, and where to place the microwave in the kitchen, she adds.

With the growing number of microwaves in Texas homes, county Extension agents will continue to offer information and programming about microwave use to local residents, says Piernot.

Large Doses Of Vitamins Dangerous

Some vitamins can be poisonous if consumed in large amounts, says Dr. Cass Ryan-Crowe, a food and nutrition specialist. Ryan-Crowe is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Fat-soluble vitamins are of particular concern because these nutrients are stored in the body when excess amount are ingested, the specialist explains.

Therefore, if a megadose, or an amount several times the recommended daily allowance, is taken over a long period of time, toxic side effects may show up, she warns.

For example, vitamin A can cause hair loss, increased cranial pressure and pain in the extremities if overtaken, Ryan-Crowe points out. In addition, vitamin D can cause anorexia, weakness, constipation and elevated serum calcium levels if doses exceed RDA, the specialist says.

Vitamin E in megadoses can cause weakness and fatigue as well as skin rashes and giddiness, she reports.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Wayne Coker, Jr., of Haskell announce the arrival of their daughter, Tabitha Dawn Coker, born February 10, 1983 at Haskell Memorial Hospital weighing 7 lbs. 3 oz.

Dual Earner Families Reap Economic Benefit

Around income tax many couples start counting up the economic benefits of two salaries.

"But lifestyle benefits may be just as important as economics for many," says Diane Welch, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The rapid change from Mitchells Named AHA Chairpersons

"Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mitchell were named developmental chairpersons of the Haskell County American Heart Association," Clayton Neal, president of the local association, said at the recent AHA meeting.

"This is the second year they have served in this capacity, and they're primary responsibility will be fund raising," Neal said. The Jump Rope Contest will be March 2 for Weinert, March 3 for Rule and March 17 for Haskell.

The Rev. Ed Hart, a member of the Regional Leadership Team, discussed fund raising ideas from his chapter.

single-provider families to dual-earner families in the last decade has been motivated primarily by economic benefits. Both husband and wife now work in about half of all American families.

If present trends continue, the labor force participation of women in 1990 will equal that of men.

In these difficult economic times, the wife's income allows many families to have the necessities, keep up with inflation or maintain a desired standard of living.

A second income may also help educate children and support other family members.

According to Welch, survey data indicates that dual earners feel they gain lifestyle benefits from having two incomes.

Husbands express pride in their wife's capacities as an earner. They indicate less personal pressure for being the sole income provider. Husbands also report feeling freer to make job changes, take job risks or increase their education, says Welch.

The wives in dual-earner families report an increased sense of independence, self-confidence and personal fulfillment. They also describe closer, more sharing relationships with their husbands, she adds.

In spite of the benefits, dual-earner marriages can create problems, warns Welch.

Researchers are now focusing their attention on the impact of dual-employment stress.

"This research in family life education will be needed to help dual-career couples manage their work and family to balance the gains and strains," says Welch.

Deer Management

Attitudes Changing

Intensive land management for production of deer and other wildlife is slowly coming into vogue with Texas landowners, according to an official of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Charles Winkler, big game program director, told a recent session of the Texas Chapter of the Wildlife Society annual meeting in Austin that the apathy encountered among landowners during the 1950's and 1960 is fading, and a growing number are now actively engaging in deer management programs.

"We (the department) spent much of our time during past decades trying to promote and defend antlerless deer hunting as a tool for deer management, but now there are cases where landowners feel we are not issuing enough antlerless deer hunting permits," Winkler told the group.

A growing number of owners of large ranches are hiring qualified wildlife biologists to conduct surveys and formulate management plans. "This is an excellent idea, but an effective management plan actually can be accomplished without having to employ a biologist," Winkler noted.

However, some detailed on-site study is needed to create an effective plan. "The department has five technical guidance biologists who are able to help landowners formulate a plan," said Winkler. Landowners interested in determining the nearest biologist may call the department's toll-free information line, 1-800-792-1112.

Having a biologist prepare the plan is not mandatory, but any plan must be approved by Wildlife Division officials, and should be submitted well in advance of the hunting seasons.

Winkler said an adequate harvest of deer is an essential element in most management plans. Equally important, Winkler said, is habitat protection and enhancement, and proper stocking of livestock to prevent overgrazing.

"We have limited personnel for management work, but we certainly will do all we can to assist landowners who wish to have sustained wildlife production in concert with agriculture and other land uses," Winkler said.

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

The time has arrived for the TABS (Texas Assessment of Basic Skills) tests to be given again. This is a state wide test given every 3rd, 5th, and 9th grader throughout the state. These tests are given each year in February in three areas, reading, math, and writing. Haskell has made a drastic improvement in the area of writing over the past three years. We have also improved some in the other two areas.

Why are the TABS test given? As the back-to-basic movement gained impetus, the realization dawned that some sort of evaluation must be developed. The State Board of Education researched this problem and concluded that a state wide criterion based test was the best solution. They, then, contracted with a testing firm to develop the instrument. Every possible means is used to protect the integrity of the test from sealed boxes of text booklets and information sheets to limited numbers of trusted assistants having access to the materials. Each school in Texas is instructed to test within a certain period of time each level to void passing information.

How do we use the results on a local level? First, the teachers take the results on each grade level to develop curriculum to overcome any problem area. It is a basis to provide information to the public on progress or lack of it. The Board of Education receives a report each year concerning test results.

Haskell has scored well above state averages each year in the math skills. We are now well above state average in writing. We are above state average in reading but are weaker in this area than the other two. We have strived diligently to improve in these areas. The ideal level would be for every student to handle every skill. Realistically, this is an impossible dream. Hopefully, we can continue to improve our results to the point we can compete on equal basis with any student in Texas.

Persistent Game Warden Arrests Five

A game poacher might do better with a pack of bloodhounds on his trail than to be pursued by a West Texas game warden.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Game Warden Ronnie Aston of Colorado City recently received a call from a Mitchell County landowner who suspected some illegal quail hunting activity.

Upon arrival, Aston found that five suspects had left the area, but he was able to obtain a license number and a tip that the men were staying at a local motel.

Aston contacted the Mitchell County Sheriff's Office by radio and requested that they check on the men at the motel. Deputies replied later that the men had already checked out and headed east on Interstate Highway 20.

A radio call to the Loraine Police Department, just seven miles up the road, resulted in the suspects being stopped as they drove through town.

The men were escorted back to Colorado City, where a search of their vehicles revealed 44 freshly-killed quail and 140 dressed quail killed the day before. Fines and court costs amounted to $412 for each of the five Oklahoma residents.

Fuel-efficient tractors are goal of Texas A&M engineers

Texas A&M University agricultural engineers are developing an automated tractor system that could tell a farmer when to slow down or even shift gears to conserve fuel.

The research conducted by Texas A&M's Agricultural Engineering Department is part of an effort to help farmers improve energy efficiency, reduce their costs and lower consumers' grocery bills.

The researchers are connecting a complex network of sensors to a tractor for measuring such things as fuel flow, forward travel speed and the amount of power that's being produced.

Natural Bridge Caverns Named For Limestone Bridge

In 1960, four spelunkers (cave explorers) from St. Mary's University in San Antonio went spelunking on Natural Bridge Ranch. Quite by accident, they discovered Natural Bridge Caverns.

While on their fourth mapping and exploring trip, one of the boys was resting when a draft of cool air blew on his neck. Very excitedly he called the other three spelunkers to help him clear rocks and debris out of a narrow crawlway where the blast of cool air had been felt. It turned out to be a sixty (60) foot crawlway that opened into a spectacular underground wonderland that is today called Natural Bridge Caverns.

Named for the awe-inspiring, 60-foot natural limestone bridge that spans the entrance, the Caverns were dedicated on August 5, 1964 by then Texas Governor John Connally. Visitors from all 50 states and 44 foreign countries toured Natural Bridge Caverns during the first year it was open to the public. Thousands more are expected to make the 80-minute tour of the National Natural Landmark this year.

Exploring the 140-million-year-old Caverns is an exciting, educational experience for young and old. Inside, it's a comfortable 70 degrees year around and the constant dripping of water tells all who enter that this phenomenon is alive and still forming. Each of the Caverns' many rooms seem to have a personality all of its own.

As a visitor, you'll proceed along lighted walkways with a knowledgeable guide who will help you discover the more than 10,000 different limestone formations that fill the Caverns.

First on the tour is "Pluto's Anteroom," a fast showplace of countless formations and colors. Here, stalactites hang from the ceiling and stalagmites rise from the floor, their natural beauty enhanced by indirect, hidden lighting. A switchback trail leads from "Pluto's Anteroom" to "Sherwood Forest" where long, narrow totem poles climb from floor to ceiling, some only a few inches in diameter and 35 feet tall to form a "forest" of rock.

You'll cross "Purgatory Creek," over a 152-foot long concrete bridge built as one solid form to eliminate any opportunity for worm seams or separations.

The most massive formation yet discovered at Natural Bridge Caverns is the immense "Mount of the Landlords," towering 45 feet from its 18-foot wide base in the room called "The Castle of the White Giants." Here, too, is the delicately ornate "King's Throne" with its truly majestic colors and gently-folded limestone "drapes" sparkling with tiny crystals. In this same chamber, you'll find a steady stream of water pouring from the suspended "Chandelier," a delicate example of nature's patience, and proof that this cave is indeed alive.

Along your tour, you'll pause at "Emerald Lake," a brilliant creation of flowstone and shimmering green water.

You'll visit the "Hall of the Mountain Kings," too. Measuring 350 feet long, 100 feet wide and more than 100 feet from floor to ceiling, this immense room is big enough to hold a football field! Inside are formations that look exactly like "fried eggs." But don't be fooled. They're actually limestone stalagmite tops with colors that only look appetizing enough for breakfast.

Topside at Natural Bridge Caverns, there's a gift shop featuring items from around the world and a snack bar where you can lunch on hot dogs and nachos, ice cold goat's milk and soft drinks.

Natural Bridge Caverns is located between San Antonio and New Braunfels on Natural Bridge Caverns Road, just minutes from IH-35. The Caverns are open daily the year around with the exception of Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day. Tours leave every half hour from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. the balance of the year. Tours last approximately one hour and 20 minutes. Cameras are welcome and comfortable shoes recommended. No wraps needed as the temperature remains a constant 70 degrees year 'round.

For additional information, write or call Natural Bridge Caverns, Route 3, Box 515, Natural Bridge Caverns, Texas 78218 9645, or call 512/651-6101.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

We may look back on 1982 as the year we turned the tide in excessive government regulation.

From 1970 to the end of 1981, the Federal Register, which lists all government rules, regulations and fiats, exploded from 20,000 to 87,000 pages.

By the end of 1982, though, the Federal Register had dropped to 58,492 pages. That's still far too much "red tape," but it's a good start in our efforts to reduce government intrusion into our lives.

I have long been concerned about excessive government paperwork and the burden it creates, especially for small businesses. Six years ago I had the Joint Economic Committee study the costs of federal regulations and paperwork.

The Committee's report showed that complying with and enforcing all of these rules and requirements cost the U.S. economy more than $100 billion annually—and that was back in 1978.

I then made proposals to help ensure that federal regulations are more cost-effective. Those were incorporated into a Presidential Order aimed at cutting down the number of federal regulations.

But that order did not affect dozens of independent federal agencies, so I introduced legislation that would also rein in some of the regulatory activities of the independent agencies.

Again, my proposal was adopted by the President as the core of a new regulatory review mechanism for the Office of Management and Budget. The slimmer Federal Register demonstrates that an effective program of outside review, such as this one, can go a long way toward eliminating duplication and unneeded regulation.

But there is more to be done. Last year, I introduced legislation requiring that federal regulations affecting small businesses, farms and ranches be reduced by 25 percent across the board in two years. My bill passed the Senate, but was stalled in the House of Representatives when the 97th Congress ended.

I'm going to submit my proposal again in the new Congress because these people need help now more than ever.

My bill requires the President to annually prepare estimates of the cost to farmers, ranchers and the small business community of federal regulations and paperwork. This would be reported to the Congress no later than January 31 of each year.

A second part of the bill stipulates that within two years after enactment, all federal agencies must cut the burden of their major regulations on farmers, ranchers and small businesses by 25 percent.

If we keep plugging away, maybe we can get the burden of government regulation back down to a manageable load.

Thomas Jefferson, in his first inaugural address in 1801, said government has an obligation to keep people from injuring one another, but otherwise, Americans should be left free "to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement."

President Jefferson would have been pleased by our recent progress in this area.

West Texas Historical Book Available

The West Texas Historical Association's Annual Year Book is fresh on the presses, including articles on the oil boom days in Ranger and two town promoters instrumental in the building of Rotan.

This year's year book is dedicated to Clayton W. Williams, Fort Stockton. He served as president of the association from 1980 to 1981 and is rancher, oil man, and civic leader.

Williams currently is on the Executive Committee of the West Texas Historical Association and also serves on the Texas State Historical Association's Executive Board. He is past president of both the Fort Stockton Historical Society and the Permian Basin Historical Association and a Fellow in the latter association.

"Ranger and The First West Texas Drilling Boom" written by Richard Mason, a field representative for the Southwest Collection at Texas Tech University, is a 17-page article on Ranger, called the "watershed event" in a drilling boom that lasted from 1910 to 1930 in the oil fields of West Texas. It is one of 14 articles in the year book.

"West Texas Town Promoters: Charles Hamilton, W.E. Spencer, and the Building of Rotan; 1900-1920" is the title of a 16-page article by Tai Kreidler, a graduate student in the Department of History at Texas Tech University.

The article outlines some of the promotion efforts of Hamilton and Spencer in creating Rotan by the Texas Central Railroad. Hamilton, a railroad man, was a native of Meadville, Penn. Spencer was a businessman and land developer.

The year book sells for $10 and may be purchased by writing to Dr. B.W. Aston, History Department, Hardin-Simmons University, Box 1172, Abilene, Texas 79698.

Other articles and their authors are "The Historic Indians of the Llano Estacado," by Dr. Ernest Wallace, Horn professor emeritus, Texas Tech University; "Shepherders and Cowboys: A Comparison of Life-Styles in West Texas," by Dr. Paul H. Carlson, associate professor of history and chairman of the History Department, Texas Lutheran College, Seguin; "The Story of William Davies: Texas Shepherd," by Arthur H. The book also has 39-pages of book reviews.

The next meeting of the West Texas Historical Association will be held April 8-9 at the Kiva Inn in Abilene, according to Dr. Aston. President of this year's group is Leona Bruce of Santa Anna. Vice presidents are J. Conrad Dunagan of Monahans; Robert Byrns of San Angelo; Mrs. John Berry, Clyde;

Texas Baptists Grow To Record Levels In '82

Texas Baptists recorded gains in 1982 in all major church organizations and increased baptisms by 11 percent over the previous year.

The total of 67,692 baptisms was the second greatest for one year in the denomination's history and is the highest mark since 1955.

Total membership of the 4,800 churches and missions more than 33,000 to a total of 2,288,218.

Sunday School enrollment also increased more than 33,000 to a new all-time high of 1,210,418.

"This is an excellent report and reflects the growing concern Texas Baptists have for missions and evangelism," said William M. Pinson, Jr., executive director of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Texas Baptists continued to set new records in giving with more than 4,800 churches and missions reporting $593,811,095 in church offerings.

Missions gifts set an all-time record too as the churches contributed $95.4 million. More than $45.4 million of the total was through the Cooperative Program, Southern Baptists regular lifeline of support for state mission causes and for the more than 6,200 missionaries in the United States and almost 100 nations.

Membership of all major church organizations increased. Church training had a 6 percent gain raising their enrollment by 14,188 over the 1981 total of 234,144.

Church music enrollment increased by 7,315 to a 1982 total of 220,631.

Woman's Missionary Union increased statewide to 131,611 members, and Texas Baptist Men raised its total membership to 64,968.

NFBI Respondents Call For Business Tax Equity

Respondents to a new survey say they want small business exempted from the state use tax on utilities.

Current tax exemptions cover most consumers of natural gas and electricity. Because of all the exemptions, those businesses that are traditionally small end up paying most of the tax. Small-business owners responding to the survey by the National Federation of Independent Business say they will back legislation to rid them of the $60 million or more annual tax burden.

Singling out the small-business community to pay the tax is unfair because it is generally the group least able to absorb it," said Mills Boon, spokesman for the more than 45,000 NFIB members in Texas.

The NFIB poll cited unemployment compensation as another major burden: "Small business understands that the Texas unemployment compensation Fund may be in serious financial trouble by the end of the year, but we want legislators to use good-business sense in bailing out the system," said Boon.

Sixty-one percent of the respondents favored a motion to legislatively set the maximum and minimum weekly benefit amounts for unemployment compensation. For the past five years, the Texas Employment Commission set compensation rates based on the average weekly wages in Texas. The current system automatically increases benefits without a ceiling and does not lower benefits when wage averages decrease.

Respondents to the NFIB survey wouldn't go for a "quick fix" for unemployment compensation problems. Sixty percent of the respondents opposed using general state revenues to quickly bail out the unemployment compensation fund.

"Such a move would turn unemployment compensation into a social welfare program, and Texas doesn't need that added drain," said Boon.

TAX PLANNING

Written by Gerald Rodgers, CPA

IRA OR NOT?

For 1982, you are able to make a tax-deductible contribution of up to $2,000 per year to an individual retirement account (IRA) up to the due date of your 1982 return. How beneficial will such a plan be by the time you retire?

The following schedule has been prepared with the assumptions that you contribute a full $2,000 each year, that your IRA earns 12% interest to age 65 and continues to earn 12% while you draw out your monthly benefits. We are also assuming inflation from now until retirement at 10% annually.

The actual purchasing power benefits at your retirement age are going to depend on the difference between the earnings percentage and the inflation percentage. If you start at age 20, contribute $2,000 per year, earn 12% and have inflation of 10%, your purchasing power at retirement would be $372.98 per month.

Column 4 shows a very impressive monthly retirement benefit for a total of 20 years of retirement. Column 5 shows the equivalent purchasing power if inflation remains constant at 10%.

Age	Deposited By Age 65	Accumulated Value At Age 65	Monthly Benefits At Age 65	10% Inflation Equivalent Purchasing Power
20	$90,000	$2,716,000	$29,905	$372.98
25	$80,000	$1,534,000	$16,890	$339.26
30	$70,000	$863,000	$9,502	$307.38
35	$60,000	$482,665	$5,314	$276.85
40	$50,000	$266,667	$2,936	$246.35

With a difference of 2% between the inflation rate and the earnings rate, it isn't likely that your retirement will be very comfortable at the equivalent purchasing power of $372.98 per month. If inflation averaged only 8%, your equivalent purchasing power would be a more appealing amount of $867.46. Despite the possible negative aspects that could result as shown by the above assumptions, the IRA is still a solid investment for providing supplemental income during your retirement years.

New El Paso Plant Handling Hot Product

Chili peppers have been a tradition on many Texas dinner tables even longer than apple pie. But just how are Texas chili peppers becoming a hot product to market.

That's due largely to Jack Stallings and 14 other producers of chili peppers around a small community near El Paso.

But not until Stallings' Paso-Pak Chili Company, Inc., entered into a contract with the Tigua Indians to process those chili peppers did any direct markets start developing.

"Originally we had what might be compared to a cotton gin, or maybe even a compressor," Stallings says. "But we didn't carry it any further."

"And now we've put in the chili pepper processing capabilities which might be compared to a spinning mill. Now we can go direct to manufacturers with a finished product."

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower wants to see more raw farm products processed within the state, by those who grow them, as Paso-Pak has done.

"Texas products, in general, have all been shipped out of our state without being processed—without that value added revenue from them," Hightower said.

"This (Paso-Pak) is another example of what we would like to see in every industry whether it be in fiber or food products. We'd like to see more processing here."

Now that it's into the processing end of its business, Paso-Pak, within a decade, anticipates the sale of up to 10 million pounds of chili peppers a year.

It has just signed a contract to deliver its processed chili peppers to Wolf Brand of Corsicana, the leading manufacturer of canned chili products in the Southwest.

"Working with the Texas growers of a product, being shipped to a canner within the State of Texas, where the majority of the business is in the same Limerick, purchasing officer for Wolf Brand.

Begun in 1979 by Stallings and seven other local growers of chili peppers, Paso-Pak produces raw processed chili powder and paprika and has rapidly become an innovator in the processing of chili peppers.

Paso-Pak has also helped provide new jobs for the Tigua Indians of Ysleta, an Indian community near El Paso. Under a contractual agreement, members of the Tigua tribe are employed by the company and handle the blending operations at the spice plant at Fabens.

Manufactured in Corsicana and sold in six southwest states, Wolf Brand has long considered itself a Texas tradition. But, because there was no processing in Texas in the past, Wolf Brand heretofore was required to purchase its chili pepper through distributors in California.

This is the first time that the spice will be obtained directly from another Texas company.

PIK Tax Program Change Proposed

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block says the Reagan Administration has endorsed a proposed change in the law concerning the tax treatment of payments-in-kind made to farmers under a production and stocks reduction program announced last month.

Under the proposed legislative change, payments-in-kind received by producers under the now PIK program would be treated for tax purposes in the same manner as actual production. This means that taxable income would not be reported until the farmer sold the PIK commodities.

"The Treasury Department has endorsed the change, and legislation has already been introduced," Block said. "We are confident that the Congress will move quickly so farmers will know for sure how the payments will be treated before the sign-up period for the PIK program closes on March 11."

Without the change, a payment-in-kind would be treated as income at the time the farmer has a right to receive it, regardless of when the commodities were actually sold by the farmer. Block said this could mean a farmer would owe taxes on a payment-in-kind even though there had been no sale and no cash income to pay the taxes.

"The payments-in-kind under the PIK program will be partial substitute for the commodities that would have been produced on land diverted from production," Block said. "So, we think it's only fair that the timing of taxes on PIK commodities be adjusted to coincide with when the producer has income from their disposition."

Block encouraged farmers to sign up early, noting that contracts can be revised or withdrawn through March 11, the final date to sign up. He said the contract does not become effective and binding until after the deadline. Thus, farmers are urged to sign up early to avoid overloading local ASCS offices during the final days.
