BEE SWARM

Joe Alves and James Dunlap rescued a swarm of bees from the courthouse lawn in Haskell Monday afternoon. The bees swarmed on a small tree near the north entrance to the building Monday afternoon and the two waited until after 5 p.m. when the offices were closed before placing the bees in a hive. A crowd of spectators watched the action—from a distance.

Thank you for staying tuned and now for the extended weather forecast...

The next twelve weekends should be terrible if present indicators prove correct. Most Thursdays and Fridays will be only slightly better. Monday, Tuesdays, and Wednesdays will be absolutely beautiful unless of course I plan a late afternoon fishing trip.

Several items may alter these results. For example, this weekend I plan to attend a meeting in Odessa and while listening to boring speakers for two full days the weather will probably be ideal for fishing, trapshooting or other outdoor activities.

Other instances which will affect this forecast include minor things such as listening to a real weatherman who predicts high winds and scattered showers for the weekend and canceling a trapshoot or fishing trip to stay home and work in the yard. Such a drastic change in plans will assure a wonderful weekend suitable for anything but working in the yard. After all you can work in the yard when it's windy to fish.

A recent example of how sensitive weather is to planning follows. Monday of this week was almost perfect. Tuesday started much the same and continued so until I suggested a fishing trip. Within minutes a light westerly breeze had shifted to a moderate north wind. Thirty minutes after arriving at the lake the wind was blowing about 40 miles per hour and the temperature had dropped about 20 degrees.

Understand that this is an extended forecast and is subject to change according to the plans of the Comedy household. For an up-to-the-minute forecast please call for an itinerary of the Comedy family and the next few days of weather will be easily predicted.

Appraisal Board Hires Mrs. Robert (Jamie) Weaver

Members of the Haskell County Appraisal Board hired Jamie (Mrs. Robert) Weaver as the new chief appraiser of Haskell County during their meeting Monday night.

Mrs. Weaver has been an employee of the Appraisal District since the district was formed three years ago. She has served as bookkeeper and clerk and computer operator. She is working toward certification and plans to complete certification as soon as possible.

When asked her goals as head of the office she replied, "I hope to serve the public with a fair and equal tax program".

Her husband is employed at the Paint Creek Power Plant by West Texas Utilities and is also engaged in farming and ranching.

The couple has two children, Aaron, a student at Tarleton State University and Robyne, a 7th grader at Haskell Junior High.

They are members of Trinity Lutheran Church where Jamie serves as church treasurer.

According to Board President Pat Hale, the Board had about 15 applicants for the position which was vacated when Kyle Wilfong resigned his position to accept another chief appraiser position.

Sales Tax Checks Received

State Comptroller Bob Bullock today sent checks totaling $33.7 million in local sales tax payments to 974 cities who levy the one-percent city sales tax.

"Statewide, these checks are down more than 3 percent from last year," Bullock said. "This follows the downward trend we're seeing in state sales tax receipts. For the first time in 21 years, we've seen a drop in the number of sales tax dollars collected from year to year. We've found the oil and gas industry pays about 30 percent of our state sales tax, either directly or indirectly, and the hardest hit areas of our state are where the local economy leans heaviest on oil and gas."

Bullock said studies in his office show as much of 40 percent of local sales tax receipts in Houston come from oil and gas companies or their employees. "This would explain why Houston's local sales tax receipts are running 11 percent behind last year," Bullock said. Houston received the biggest check in the state—for $6.6 million.

Other cities that depend heavily on oil and gas, or on trade with Mexico, continue pulling down statewide collection totals. Midland and Odessa receipts are running 27 percent behind last year and El Paso is now more than 15 percent behind 1982 totals.

The April checks were for taxes collected on sales made in February and reported to the Comptroller by the end of March.

It is designed to serve as an additional tool for the economic development of the region.

Brush and Palette

The painter, no less than the musician, the actor or the dancer, is a performer. His talent and training are meant to be shown before an audience. What do you know about proper exhibition etiquette and procedure? Judges and juries are an unpredictable lot. Here are some tips on how to avoid disappointment and meet the requirement for exhibition. It is wise to first understand the various ways that exhibitions operate.

Membership Shows - only members of the exhibiting group are eligible. In most cases, your membership guarantees you that your work will be hung. (Wish more of our group would participate and get their work before the public.)

Open Shows - The work of members is automatically hung, but non-members' work is screened by a Jury of Selection. All works, however, are passed by a Jury of Awards.

Judges - In small organizations, they will probably be people best qualified from among the members. In some cases, outside professionals may be invited to serve as Jurors. In larger organizations, the Awards Jury will almost always be comprised of leading professionals, although the Jury of Selection (which initially screens the entries) may be members of the sponsoring group.

How To Choose Your Entry - don't be a gate crasher! Stay within the framework of the show. Don't submit a realistic work to a predominantly modern show or vice versa. Study the prospectus and previous catalogs of the group. It is impossible to try to be different.

Follow The Rules - Rules serve a purpose. If the rules state: "no eye screws", then don't use them for hanging. Keep within the specified sizes. Limit your work to the number specified. Restrict your media to those set down, (i.e., no oils in a watercolor show). Take your work at the specified time for the judging or screening. Finally, be sure that you pick up your work after the show closes, by the requested time.

Entry Fees - Most organizations charge an entry fee of a dollar or more, which is non-returnable regardless of whether your work is accepted. Pay this cheerfully; after all, the sponsors make no profit and probably lose money in the handling of your painting.

Price Your Work - Don't be unrealistically high to discourage its sale. It is best to simply indicate "NFS" (not for sale) if you do not wish to offer it for sale.

Framing Your Picture - A well constructed frame should be used for exhibition - no sawtooth hangers, no twine or string, no masking tape to hold the picture in frame. Prepare your picture professionally for display.

HINT: Many shows in the area attract painters. Hope these suggestions will help you prepare for them.

Write your questions and hints to me, Faye Schnuriger, P.O. Box 134, Haskell, Texas 79521. I will not use your name but do want you to sign your letters.

Water Conservation Is Garden Club Topic

The Haskell Garden Club had a most informative and educational program on "conserving water" in the Community Room with the president, Mrs. J.O. Blankenship presiding April 14, 1983.

Miss Ranelle Scott, of the Soil and Water Conservation of Haskell, showed slides about urban and farm communities based on the high plains of Texas, although it could apply anywhere. There are two basic sources of water, ground water and well water, which is dropping 3 feet per year.

The average person uses 165 gallons of water in and around the home every day. After you add water for recreation, cooling, food preparation, and industry, we use a total of 1,500 gallons a day for each person. Compare these figures to the 5 to 10 gallons a day our great grandparents used before they had indoor plumbing, washing machines, dishwashers, or a landscaped yard.

A few statistics about using water: yard and outdoors-35%; toilet-25%; bathing and showering-20%; laundry-10%; cleaning-4%; drinking-2%; brushing teeth, shaving, etc.-2%; cooking-2%.

Be water conscious, for there is no time to waste our water, educating the people now about using water, the sooner we launch an extensive, vigorous, conservation program, the longer our existing water supplies will last conserving now for our children, who will inherit the future water supplies.

Most yard grasses, flowers, and shrubs only take water from the top two feet, therefore, you only need to put about 1 1/2 to 2 inches of water on your yard each time your water. Since various water sprinklers put out different amounts of water, the best way to tell when enough water has been put out, is to measure it by setting a small can or jar under the sprinklers. Check it at 30 minutes intervals and when it measures about 1 1/2 to 2 inches of water, cut the water off. In 1981, a check was made on water flowing down the curb from two over watered lawns, were wasting 83 gallons a minute. In just a little over 9 hours that would waste enough water to last one person a full year. Waste not want not. Water early in the morning or late in the afternoon. Avoid watering under windy conditions or during the heat of the day. "I give my pledge as an American to save and faithfully defend from waste the natural resources of my country, its soil and minerals, its forests, waters and wildlife", quoted Mrs. Otho Nanny from the Conservation Pledge as she introduced the program, "Listen to our Garden Sing" "Down by the Old Mill Stream". She introduced Mrs. Cody West, who introduced Miss Ranelle Scott, the speaker, who is a graduate of Seymour High School and Texas Tech, Lubbock.

"Flower Gardens" are like "Women's Fashions", said Callie Robinson, as she talked about summer flowers. You plan a year ahead of time when thinking of the annuals and perennials for color in order to have an array of flowers blooming at different times. The annuals have a one year life span, but provide more color while the perennials grow from year to year a wild flower does not like tender loving care, just left alone.

Juanita Dunnam showed how to disbud plants in order for the top blooms to grow larger, also pinching out the tops of any plant, such as chrysanthemums, to make them bushy and not grow so tall.

Beautiful horticulture was brought by Nettie McCollum, Star of Bethlehem and a photinia, Mrs. Blankenship-tulips, Juanita Dunnam-Iris, and an arrangement, "Spring-time" of tulips and garzia by Juanita Rhea.

Miss McCollum gave an interesting report on the District VIII Convention of the Texas Garden Clubs in Breckenridge, March 16.

Hostesses were: Mrs. Otho Nanny, Juanita Rhea and Mary Bischofhausen.

New Packaging Required For Over-The-Counter Drugs

After Tylenol pill-tampering deaths last fall, the nation became wary of buying over-the-counter drugs or using the ones recently added to medicine cabinets.

To help prevent poisonings from recurring and to restore consumer confidence, Congress passed a law requiring tamper-resistant packaging. All new packaging designs must be torn or broken to remove the product from the container, according to regulations by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

The Texas Medical Association calls your attention to the following packaging techniques being used to protect non-prescription drugs:

—Film wrappers: A transparent film is wrapped around the product or the entire container.

—Bubble packs: the product or container is sealed in plastic and mounted on a display card.

—Blister or strip packs:

Capsules or tablets are individually sealed in plastic or foil.

—Shrink seals and bands: The seals or bands seal the cap to the container. This is done by shrinking the seal or band by heat.

—Foil, paper or plastic pouches: The product is enclosed in a pouch.

—Tape seals: Paper or foil is sealed over all carton flaps or the mouth of the bottle.

—Breakable seals: The container is sealed by a plastic or metal cap. When container has been opened, the cap will break away completely or a portion of the seal will remain attached to the container.

—Sealed tubes: The mouth of the tube is sealed and can be opened only by puncturing the seal.

—Sealed cartons: All flaps of the carton are sealed. If the carton has been opened, it can be visibly detected.

In addition to safer packaging techniques, a warning label will be required on all non-prescription drugs. The label will tell the consumer how to check for tampering.

Covered by this legislation are oral, nasal, ear, rectal and vaginal products. Mouthwash and contact lens solutions also are included.

Some non-prescription drugs are not included are toothpastes and insulin. These products are not usually susceptible to tampering.

Mrs. Blankenship Presents Program To Munday Garden Club

Munday Garden Club members met Tuesday, April 5, in the Church of Christ for a salad luncheon. Hostesses were Mrs. Dan Offutt, Mrs. Sam Stone, Mrs. Grady Phillips, Mrs. R.L. Latham and Mrs. Lonnie Offutt.

Presiding over the business meeting was Mrs. Joe Roberts, club president.

Program leader for the day was Mrs. Ruddy Latham, who turned the program over to Mrs. Bernadine Blankenship of Haskell. Mrs. Blankenship is a flower show judge with her masters certificate in judging. She presented a workshop on flower arrangements.

Beginning by showing ways to establish and strengthen the line of an arrangement, Mrs. Blankenship brought out several points on the subject, stressing the need to keep darker flowers at the bottom and saying the needlepoint should always be covered.

She showed the group examples of abstract, line mass, vertical, crescent and foliage arrangements. Club members constructed different arrangements of tulips, redbuds, iris and daffodils, and discussed them with Mrs. Blankenship. She also talked about grooming the arrangements.

Arrangements for the meeting were made by Mrs. L.L. Wise, Mrs. Weldon Floyd, Mrs. E.H. Nelson and Mrs. Ralph Adams.

Members attending were Mmes. Ralph Adams, Hal Amerson, Weldon Floyd, Ida Jungman, W.C. Kirschner, Ruddy Latham, Dick Moore, Wallace Moorhouse, E.H. Nelson, Dan Offutt, Lonnie Offutt, J.T. Offutt, Grady Phillips, Joe Roberts, O.H. Spann, L.L. Wise, Lloyd Mathews and Frankie Ponder.

Children Need To Learn How To Play

Friendliness, like courtesy, makes the give and take of life more enjoyable. And, like courtesy, friendliness is learned by experience as well by example.

When a child begins walking is a good time to give him a start in learning the art of being friendly, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

At two years old, children are so busy exploring, so curious about people and things, that they have not yet become self-conscious about themselves. This is the ideal time for them to meet other children in a play situation.

Even though children don't usually play with other children until they are about three, two-year-olds are not too young to learn the fun of mutual exchange. Skills in "getting along" with others will increase with each exchange and self-confidence will grow with each new acquaintance made.

Friendliness is basically a love of other people, and enjoyment of their company, and a spontaneous desire to please them.

Beginning at two years, it is a good idea to take a toddler to some place where other children play two or three times a week. Toddlers get acquainted with other children in their own way and at their own rate. Don't push them, but quietly encourage them to respond to any overtures made.

Don't be overprotective, either! Toddlers must learn some give and take, and that includes holding on to a toy when another child snatches it. A little roughness and noise are not fatal. Toddlers should have the chance to learn to stand up for their rights!

These early play experiences help children learn to play side by side or in company with other children, and to share and exchange toys. At this age, communication is largely wordless. Most toddlers talk more to themselves than to others.

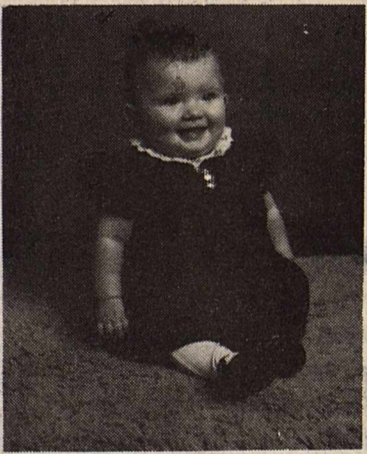

This early play behavior is known as "parallel play." Only after a long period of parallel play do young children begin to engage in cooperative play, which requires more language skills than most toddlers have at two years.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Children's Definitions Of The Chamber Of Commerce

BY WANDA DULANEY
MGR. HASKELL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

"If you want the truth, ask a child". That's how the saying goes. Sometimes a conversation with a kid can also point out a need for better public information. Others seldom see us as we see ourselves.

We asked Mrs. Don Comedy if she would be responsible for teachers conducting an inquiry among elementary students to see how they would define the Haskell Chamber of Commerce. Here are some answers from third grade students as to what they think it is: (Please note spelling!)

"It is a flower shop."
"A place where they keep people."

"It's a little church thing."
"It's music."

"The Chamber of Commerce is mindin'."
"It's a party."

"It's a meeting."
"It is the state building."

"It's a meeting."
"It is worship."

"A meeting where people talk about stuff."
"A building what helps Haskell."

"A little store."
"The Chamber of Commerce is hardware."

"A story out of the library books."
"A good place to work."

"Where people pay their fines."
"People who make dough."

"A bank."
"It's the courthouse."

"I think it drives hot rods."
"It tortures people if they are bad."

Some fourth graders had the following conceptions:
"They help run the city."

"They organize parades and rain money."
"It's a place where people of Haskell meet that owns stores and other buildings, like Perry's."

"A kind of bank."
"Someone from Washington D.C. It's like a box of commerce."

"A group of people who sing and talk and listen."
"An office in farming. A big bisnis."

From Fifth Graders:
"I don't know what the Chamber of Commerce is. I haven't even heard the words before."

"Chamber of Commerce helps Haskell to grow."
"They help the crippled."

"I think the Chamber of Commerce is the nicest thing in Haskell."

"A bank that you can rely on and use as often as you want. It has nice people and very fast services is what I think."

"Like if an old person is sick that you could help them to get well and help them not to die from sickness."

"A place that anyone go to by things and pay the man in the store and then they will give you change."

"A rich company that helps old people or people that need help."

"Having to do with work in an insurance."

"Insurance. Like you rick a car they will give you some money for the car."

"A place where people write things for the newspaper, and the mail."

"Where the courts meet."
"It rules the town. It gives us ideas. It arranges parades and the fairgrounds and keeps the town's money. It's in charge of the town. It pays people that work in the courthouse. If we didn't have one the town wouldn't be exciting."

"They come up with ways that make Haskell more fun."

"It is a club sorda like where members come together and meet and talk about a lot of different things but I do not know what they talk about."

"Depend on someone to be a good sport, have friendship on one another. Be nice."

"A big dinner or a piece of clothing. Or is it some kind of a building."

"I do not no."
"Keep Haskell clean."

"The Chamber of Commerce is the organizing of the city."

Sixth graders had their own ideas:
"It is the guard of the bank."

"Community Building."
"The people who help Haskell with particular stuff like Ex-rodeos, parades. They give Haskell a famous spot in history."

"A bank building where old people play dominos."

Gov. Mark White Signs Texas Wildlife Conservation Act Of 1983

Gov. Mark White signed into law April 5, the Texas Wildlife Conservation Act of 1983 which will enhance the stability of the state's wildlife populations and expand outdoor opportunities for sportsmen and outdoor enthusiasts. The act gives the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department statewide authority for wildlife management and eliminated locally specialized wildlife laws previously in effect in 116 Texas counties. The bill was sponsored by Rep. Fred Agnich, R-Dallas, and Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall.

Both Agnich and Lyon attended the bill signing ceremony in the state capitol. Also in attendance was Ed Cox Jr., vice chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Cox expressed the appreciation of the tens of thousands of sportsmen and conservationists who supported the efforts of Texans for Wildlife Conservation. The group, whose members include the more than 800 sportsmen's clubs in Texas, was formed to promote passage of the Wildlife Conservation Act.

"The Texas Wildlife Conservation Act will at last enable the Parks and Wildlife Department to manage our wildlife resources on a scientific basis statewide," Cox said.

"It is the most far reaching wildlife conservation legislation ever passed in the state," he added.

Cox explained that prior to enactment of the new law, locally specialized law was in effect in 13 counties. Some of these laws were first passed in 1925 and were not responsive to today's wildlife management needs. In 30 other counties, commissioners courts had authority to veto wildlife regulations developed by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. In 73 other counties, Cox said, the Parks and Wildlife Department had only partial authority to manage wildlife.

"The Wildlife Conservation Act puts wildlife management in the hands of professionals and eliminates the outdated laws that regulated wildlife in large parts of our state," Cox said. "The act will extend to every county the extraordinary success record of the Parks and Wildlife Department."

Cox praised the hard work of Senator Lyon and Representative Agnich in attaining passage of the legislation and Governor White's support of the law.

"Generations to come of outdoor enthusiasts and sportsmen truly owe you a debt of thanks," he told the Governor and the lawmakers.

Operation Game Thief Is Working

"Operation Game Thief," the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's reward program for reporting game law violators, set new records for calls, arrests and convictions during the six-month period which ended this week.

Officials said more calls were received, 718, than were recorded during the program's entire first year of operation. The calls resulted in 347 convictions and $39,106 in fines paid by poachers. The toll-free number is 1-800-792-GAME, and callers may remain anonymous if they so desire. The six-member Operation Game Thief Committee met in Austin Monday (April 4) and authorized payment of $8,525 to 50 persons whose tips led to convictions. Another 37 callers whose tips turned out to be valid requested no reward.

Rewards are funded entirely by donations from individuals and organizations, and the Game Thief Committee serves without pay.

A total of $33,669 has been donated to the Game Thief fund since the Texas Legislature authorized the program two years ago. Organizations which have contributed $1,500 or more are the Dallas Ecological Foundation, $5,000; Game Conservation International (GAMECOIN), $5,000; Mestena Oil Co., $3,000; The Fondren Foundation, $2,500; Houston Safari Club, $2,500; Killam Oil Co., $2,000; The Port Aransas Rod & Reel Club, $2,000; and the Texas Game Warden Association, $1,500.

OGT Coordinator Stanley Brooks said the Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas (SCOT) also has sent the committee a monthly donation since the program's inception. "We also don't want to overlook the hundreds of individuals who have made smaller contributions, because all participation is important," Brooks said.

Rewards range from $50 to $200, with the cases judged by the committee to be the most flagrant bringing the larger rewards. Officials anticipate that a bill currently pending in the Legislature will eliminate the maximum and minimum reward limits.

Several cases completed during the past six months were significant. Two individuals who were arrested for game law violations were already on felony probation for previous offenses. Their probation was revoked and they were sent to prison.

One of the largest OGT cases involved five persons found guilty of 35 counts of illegal possession of deer and killing deer during the closed season. Fines totaled $5,315. Another call resulted in conviction of another group for 32 counts of possession of deer and squirrels for commercial purposes, with fines totaling $3,500.

Officials are pleased with the 14.7 percent conviction rate on calls received, which is considered excellent based on the experience of game thief programs in other states.

Members of the Game Thief Committee are Harry Tension of Fort Worth; chairman; Ed Spencer of Dallas; Walter Fondren III of Houston; Ed Stedman, Jr. of Beaumont; Mrs. Clayton Williams, Jr. of Midland and Radcliffe Killam of Laredo.

CONSERVATION ACT SIGNED

Buck Hits Record Book After 64-Year Wait

A huge white-tailed deer killed in 1919 near Pearsall has finally qualified for entry into the Boone & Crockett record book as having the sixth-best atypical antlers ever taken in the state.

The late C.J. Stolle of Rosanky, Bastrop County, killed the 29-point buck in December 1919 after an arduous journey from Rosanky to Frio County in a 1919 Model T. Ford. Upon his return, Stolle had the deer's head mounted.

The mount remained in excellent condition through the years, but until recently it had not been "scored" to determine how the deer compared to other trophy racks. Stolle's grandson, John F. Stolle of Austin, became curious about the rack after his sons purchased a book on trophy deer.

Stolle called the Parks and Wildlife Department for advice on getting the antlers scored, and found a willing volunteer in Horace Gore, white-tailed deer program leader. Gore, an official scorer for Boone & Crockett, scored the antlers at 226 1/8 points, placing it 64th in the nation out of 312 entries in the book. The spread was 27 inches and the base diameter five inches.

Another historical note pointing up how times have changed in the hunting lease business: Stolle ventured to the Frio County ranch with instruction on how to pay for hunting rights; he took the ranch operator a bottle of whisky.

Aspirin, Acetaminophen Have Similarities, Differences

Although aspirin is perhaps the most popular drug on the market, some people cannot take it because of an allergy or certain other disorders. For many of these people, the answer to relieving pain or reducing fever is acetaminophen.

Familiar brand names of this non-prescription drug include Allertest, Tylenol, Datriol, Bromo-Seltzer, Tempra, Liquiprim and Anacin-3. Acetaminophen also is combined with aspirin such products as Excedrin and Vanquish.

In many ways acetaminophen and aspirin are similar, but they also have some important differences, says the Texas Medical Association. The main similarity is that they both lower fever and relieve minor aches, pains and headaches. On the other hand, they belong to separate classes of drugs.

Unlike acetaminophen, aspirin is effective against inflammation. For this reason, it is used to treat arthritis, rheumatism and sprains according to a doctor's instructions.

But aspirin is an acid and can irritate the stomach. Although most people have no side effects from the drug, nausea and vomiting also may arise. People with certain disorders should not take aspirin unless told otherwise by a doctor. These include flu and chicken pox in children, ulcers, asthma, gout, bleeding problems, and kidney or liver disease.

One of the main advantages of acetaminophen is that it has fewer side effects than aspirin. Because it does not irritate the stomach and rarely causes allergic reactions, acetaminophen can be taken by people with ulcers or aspirin allergies.

Acetaminophen's main disadvantage is its effect on the liver. Excessive use for several weeks can cause liver problems. Because of this, people with liver disease or a virus infection of the liver should not take the drug.

As with other over-the-counter drugs, aspirin and acetaminophen are generally safe to take if instructions and warnings on labels are followed.

WIC Needs Haskell Co. Sponsor

"Eating a nutritious diet is one of the most important things a pregnant woman can do to help assure a healthy baby, but eating a nutritious diet isn't always as easy as it sounds" according to Ms. Cathey Litteer, nutritionist and chief administrator of the Texas Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC). This is why she is encouraging local health agencies to sponsor WIC in their communities.

WIC is a Federal health program designed to prevent malnutrition during pregnancy and early childhood. The program has gained a solid reputation as a preventative health and nutrition program that actually saves Federal dollars.

At a time when so many Federal programs are being cut, the WIC Program enjoys the bipartisan support in Congress, and in Texas it's actually continuing to expand.

The Texas Department of Health is currently soliciting applications from any local or migrant health agencies, community action programs, or neighborhood health clinics, who would like to sponsor a WIC Program for their communities. Interested agencies should contact: Cathey Litteer, R.D., Special Project Director, WIC Program, 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas 78756. Phone: (512) 458-7632.

Currently, there are 52 local WIC projects in the State, but the program is not available to women, infants, and children in many Texas counties. WIC needs a sponsoring agency in education to low-income pregnant and lactating women, and children up to five years old, who have been found to be the most vulnerable to the effects of malnutrition. To receive this assistance, participants must have health or nutrition related problems and meet specific low-income criteria.

"Some pregnant women simply can't afford a nutritious diet, and many more don't know how to plan one," explained Ms. Litteer. "The consequences of poor prenatal nutrition can be anemia, toxemia, prematurity, low birth weight infants, complications in delivery, or other maternal or infant illnesses."

The benefits of good prenatal nutrition, achieved through the WIC Program have been documented in a study conducted by the Harvard University's School of Public Health. The study found that every $1.00 spent to aid pregnant women avoided $3.00 in hospital costs that would have been spent for treatment of their babies. The cost to taxpayers is less to prevent complications than to pay costs resulting from complications. Since the program is delivered through local health care agencies, WIC encourages early and frequent prenatal and child health care.

WIC participants receive a monthly supply of nutritious foods such as milk, eggs, fruit juice, iron-fortified cereal and iron-fortified infant formula.

Monthly nutrition education classes are also provided so that WIC participants can learn about the relationship between health and good nutrition, and how to buy and prepare nutritious meals. The ultimate goal is a positive change in dietary habits that will improve participants' nutritional status. The futuristic nature of the program, training young mothers, who will in turn teach their children good eating habits, has far reaching potential.

SSI Recipients To Receive Questionnaire

"We are now starting our annual review of each SSI recipient's case," said Glyn Hammons, manager of the Abilene Social Security Office. "This annual review is required and is nothing that should alarm recipients when they receive a questionnaire in the mail. The purpose of the annual review is to insure that we are paying recipients all they are due and that policy is being correctly applied to their situation. Of course, this annual review does not do away with the recipient's responsibility to report changes as they occur."

"The actual interview may take as little as 15 minutes depending on the complexity of each case," said Hammons. "Because each individual's situation is unique, it is difficult to say exactly what documentation or proofs we will need, but generally we will ask for checking and savings account statements for each month since the last review; proof of income received since the last review, such as unemployment, rental income, lease income, wages, self-employment, and proof of any transfer of property by sale or gift. We also may need to see some life insurance policies each year. If an individual (or couple) lives with people other than a spouse and minor children, we may ask for an itemized list of household expenses for food and shelter, and the amount of the recipient's contributions toward those expenses.

When SSI recipients receive a call or a notice to come in, they should check with the Social Security office if they have questions about what to bring with them for the interview. This will allow the necessary papers to be completed. Our office is open from 9:00 to 4:30 and the telephone number for SSI is 695-1240.

Fitzgerald Clan Holds Reunion

The home of Esta Cobb was the location Saturday afternoon of a very joyful reunion for some decedents of one of Haskell's oldest pioneer families.

The Fitzgerald clan from Gonzales, settled in Haskell County during the early 1880's. One of the members of this family, Warren Fitzgerald, left Haskell County in 1912 and went to Argentina to seek his fortune.

On Saturday afternoon, one of Warren's sons, Roberto Fitzgerald and his wife Dora from Santa Cruz, Bolivia, returned to Haskell for the first time.

Among those attending the reunion were from Santa Cruz, Kansas City, Kan., Irving, Uruguay, Fort Worth, Stamford and Haskell.

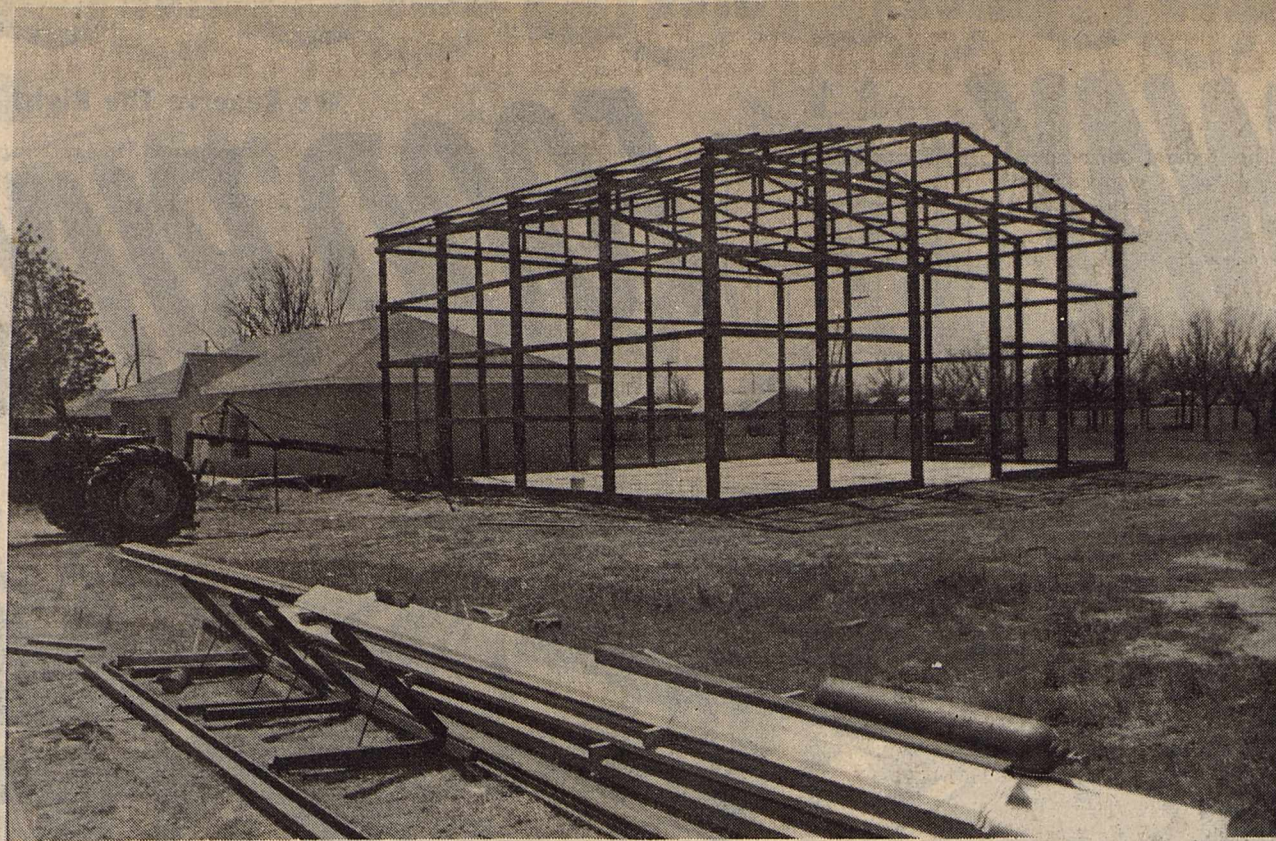

The long, lost cousins spent the afternoon visiting with each other and touring various family points of interest such as the Fitzgerald plot at Willow Cemetery and the Katherine and Wat Fitzgerald homeplace on FM Road 600.

Texas A&M chemist patents device to extract oil from pits

COLLEGE STATION — A Texas A&M University chemist has patented a device he says will extract water clean enough to drink, and thousands of dollars of petroleum from oil field waste pits now regarded as environmental hazards.

Dr. Rod O'Connor said the patent has been assigned to ROMECE Environmental Research and Development Inc., a College Station firm formed to develop and market the device. O'Connor, director of Texas A&M's first-year chemistry program, worked with several other people after hours and on weekends to perfect the system.

The first mobile model, housed inside a 16-foot trailer and capable of processing about 50 barrels of waste fluid a day, will soon be field-tested by a Louisiana waste treatment company, he said. A 40-foot unit could handle about 10,000 barrels of waste a day.

Bullock Cuts Estimate Of Available Revenue

State Comptroller Bob Bullock again reduced the revenue outlook for Texas state government Thursday, cutting his official estimate of available revenues by $95.3 million.

Bullock explained that even with the latest cuts in his estimate, Texas and Alaska remain the only states with budget surpluses.

"Our surplus has dwindled from the $1.3 billion we thought we would have last year to about $630.5 million we expect now. But we still have $2.3 billion available over and above our present budget."

Bullock said he reduced his estimate because of continued uncertainty in oil prices and because sales tax receipts keep falling.

"Thirty-eight states are having to cut their state budgets below their present levels. We've got enough money to write a budget that's 12.4 percent bigger than the existing budget that we are now operating under," Bullock said.

Handbook helps advisers counsel work bound students

COLLEGE STATION — Some high school counselors are themselves in need of counseling when it comes to helping students who are not interested in going to college, says a psychologist who has co-authored a handbook for counselors.

"The High School Student in the Working World" gives counselors tips on how to help students decide if college is for them and then tells counselors how to help students get a job, handle the first day at work and develop good habits to help them keep the job.

"We want the counselors to help the kids determine whether or not they want to go to college," said Dr. Christopher Borman, head of Texas A&M University's Educational Psychology Department and one of four Texas A&M faculty members who developed the handbook.

The handbook, published by the Texas Education Agency, has been distributed to every junior high and high school in Texas.

Borman said it is important for parents as well as counselors to realize that young people can be successful without going through four years of college. Training programs through the armed forces, vocational schools, community colleges and apprenticeship programs can lead to equally or more lucrative careers, he said.

TAX PLANNING

Written by Gerald Rodgers CPA

INVESTMENT EXPENSES (Keep Track)

Income tax filing time serves as a reminder of the records we didn't keep for the prior year. For those people who are not in a business and do not have a formal recordkeeping system, many tax deductions are lost for lack of a proper diary or logbook.

Expenses you incur in maintaining an investment portfolio are deductible as itemized deductions on your income tax return. Any expenses paid during the taxable year for the production or collection of income or for the management, conservation, or maintenance of property held for the production of income are deductible. Deductions for such expenses, however, are not permitted to the extent that they're incurred for earning fully tax-exempt income such as interest on municipal securities. Deductible expenses include fees paid for investment counseling, clerical help, office rent, telephone, and travel incurred in connection with investments.

Expenses which relate to rents and royalties are taken as a deduction directly against the revenue from those activities as opposed to being treated as itemized deductions.

Start now with a diary of all the expenses that you think relate to your investment activities. If you're in doubt as to the deductibility of a given expenditure, list it anyway and let your accountant help you make a determination at the end of the year. Better yet, spend a few minutes with your accountant now to determine which expenses constitute investment expenses for itemized deductions and those expenses which may be treated as business expenses against rental property, etc.

A simple system of identifying expenditures day by day will produce a far better tax result than trying to recall twelve months of activity at the end of the year.

The Consumer Alert

by Jim Mattox
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Consumers are advised to obtain a second opinion when they inquire about servicing a major appliance, according to the Independent Appliance Service Association. This newly organized association was created by the Independent Service Companies in response to the growing number of consumers who are subject to false, misleading or deceptive business practices by unscrupulous appliance repair companies.

It has come to the attention of many of the members of this Association that consumers, who know little or nothing about repair of a major appliance such as a washing machine or refrigerator, are being deceived by repairmen who has the advantage of such knowledge.

Often a consumer will call a repairman to make an estimate as to what has to be repaired and how much it will cost. Be wary of a company that double bills you for the service call by charging once for the estimate and again for the actual service. When making an estimate unprincipled repairman may relate in detail that there are repairs needed and will require him to return a second time to do the necessary work.

This is the point that you as a consumer would be well advised to procure a second opinion as to what repair is really necessary and to shop around as to the cost. This practice is not only beneficial to the consumer but it would also be conducive to the Association to ascertain which companies are damaging the reputation of all repair companies. It is relatively easy for an unethical repairman to inform an unknowing consumer that unneeded parts or services are required to bring the appliance into working order when a minor adjustment or an entirely different repair is necessary.

A second opinion would also be advantageous in receiving a fair and reasonable cost for the work needed. An unethical repairman who recognizes a situation of dire necessity or sees the chance of making a fast buck may try to overcharge for the services or parts required. A person who isn't aware of the normal prices will ordinarily pay the price quoted. A second opinion will help assure you of being given the best possible service at a fair and reasonable cost.

Therefore, the consumer would be wise to heed the advice of the Independent Appliance Service Association by obtaining a second opinion as to the necessity of repairs and the cost thereof to receive a reliable service at equitable cost for the repair of major appliances.

Farm Foreclosure Moratorium Sought

"The federal government has got to be stopped from chopping off the hands that feed us," Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower told a Capitol news conference Tuesday as he, State Sen. Bill Sarpalus (D-Hereford) and State Rep. Tip Hall (D-Ponder) called upon the Texas Legislature to pass a concurrent House-Senate resolution asking Congress to approve a moratorium on government foreclosures of hardpressed farmers.

The resolution, introduced by Hall in the House with several dozen members signing on as co-sponsors, asks Congress and the President to enact into law a bill that has been introduced by U.S. Rep. Ed Jones (D-Tennessee) to defer farm foreclosures by the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) and to make emergency money available for FmHA loans. The resolution also asks Congress to amend the bill to include an automatic two-year redemption period on farmland and equipment that are foreclosed by FmHA. The redemption period would allow foreclosed farmers to keep and use the land and equipment for an additional two years in the hope that the farm economy would turn around and allow them to earn enough to buy them back.

"This isn't some do-nothing resolution to get the Administration's attention," Hightower said. "The Jones legislation is a pragmatic action we can take this year to save thousands of farmers. And we must pass it right now. More than 16,000 Texans have a combined total of more than 24,000 loans from FmHA. Sixty-nine percent of those loans are delinquent. That's more than 11,000 of our good farm families who are on the brink of broke and who are likely to be shoved over it by their own government if we don't stand up and say 'No!' Last year the worst year in history for farmers in terms of real farm income—only 603 Texas farmers came out in good enough financial shape to pay their FmHA operating loans in full. We had 800 FmHA borrowers who had to liquidate their assets and close the farm gates for good.

"It's important to realize that most farmers who might be considered poor managers were already out of business by 1982," Hightower noted, "so those who went under last year and those who are facing the same prospect this year are good, efficient, productive farmers. They're making good crops and being paid poor prices for them, putting them in trouble through no fault of their own. We're talking about the farm operators who produce the majority of our food—these are the hands you and I count on to feed us, and it is suicidal government policy to chop them off.

"To quote Larry Windham, President of the Beaumont Production Credit Association, 'These guys are really up against the wall. If we don't get some assistance, it's over.' And he's not talking about just a few of his borrowers—he says if commodity prices continue where they are for the remainder of this year, half his borrowers will be out of business. Half!

"Many of those farmers have some collateral left to put up against new loans to help them grow a crop this year, but there's no money available.

"One farm couple we talked to yesterday has been farming the same land for 25 years. They suffered the drought in 1980 and they've had severe hail damage the last two years. In addition, FmHA wouldn't loan them enough to spray for insects, so their crop suffered even more. From an established average yield of 400 lbs. of cotton per acre in 1979, their established yield has dropped to just 230 lbs. per acre, and the price on cotton fell from 80 cents/lb. to 50 cents/lb. in that period—again, through no fault of their own.

"They asked FmHA to ride with them another year, and they got back what amounts to a 'Dear Chump' letter," Hightower said. "Imagine what this lifelong farmer felt as he read this: 'After careful consideration, Farmers Home Administration was unable to approve your application request for service.'

"This couple owns some of their land, but their home sits on rented land. They're about to lose it. Their FmHA contact told them they don't need the house, that they can get a trailer to live in.

"These are not statistics. These are real people who have invested their adult lifetimes in the land only to face the loss of everything due to circumstances beyond their control.

"They deserve our help, not only because they are good farmers, but also because we're going to need them next year, and the next year and every year that we want to eat—or to buy a cotton shirt or a pair of bluejeans.

"The Jones bill will delay farm foreclosures and make more money available to keep people farming until they can climb out of the hole the government dug for them. The bill should be passed, and the resolution by Rep. Hall and Sen. Sarpalus will let Congress and the President know that the Texas Legislature, representing all the 14 million people of Texas, wants it passed before we lose any more good farmers."

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

In this column, I would like to relate to Senate Bill 699 as introduced by Senator Grant Jones of Abilene.

Senator Jones addresses teacher salaries in Section 1. He is introducing a pay raise for all applicable positions. A teacher will advance one step each year. Under the present scale, teachers stay at the same step two years after they have reached 10 years of experience. After reaching maximum pay, a teacher will receive 4% pay increase for tenure. In addition the bottom three steps 0-2 are eliminated thereby increasing beginning and younger teachers' salaries a greater percent.

Sections 2, 3, and 4 of the bill deal with particulars of the pay scale of the teaching staff.

Section 5 and 6 of the bill deals with local fund assignments or the districts share of the Minimum Foundation Program. If 699 passes, our local fund assignment would go from $121,500 to approximately $145,600 which would cost us additional local tax dollars.

Section 7 of the bill deals with equalization aid or the premise that all students in the state should have equal opportunity. However, as I interpret the bill as it is written, it would hurt Haskell ISD because we have maintained a rather conservative tax program in comparison with the rest of the state. In other words, we do not tax to the maximum of our ability to pay locally.

Bill 699 does not address any increase in maintenance and operation, transportation, or other factors. Therefore, the cost of excess units we carry would have to be increased by local taxes. We would be mandated to have these units to continue our program but would have to increase local dollars to meet the cost.

Senate Bill 699 does address the problem of teacher salaries. However, it shifts an additional burden on local taxpayers.

The point to remember, however, is that these bills seldom are passed in their original form. Careful study is going on throughout the state on the effect of each of the bills.

National Consumers Week Set April 24

FROM LOU GILLY
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

President Reagan has declared the week of April 24th as National Consumers Week. In his declaration, President Reagan states that we must "fully recognize the crucial role consumers play in our economy."

Most of us know what government, agriculture, industry, and labor contribute to the economy. But we don't often recognize how we as individual consumers contribute the economic health of the nation.

So the theme of this year's National Consumers Week is "Consumers Supply Demand." As consumers, we are important to the economy because we create a demand for products—from homes to housewares; a demand for services—from medical care to auto repair; and a demand for information—from cost comparisons to safety information.

Consider how many stores, businesses and services in our country would close if it was not for demand of the consumers who live here.

But is not enough to simply recognize that consumers are important. We need to work at being more effective consumers to make our economy function at its best.

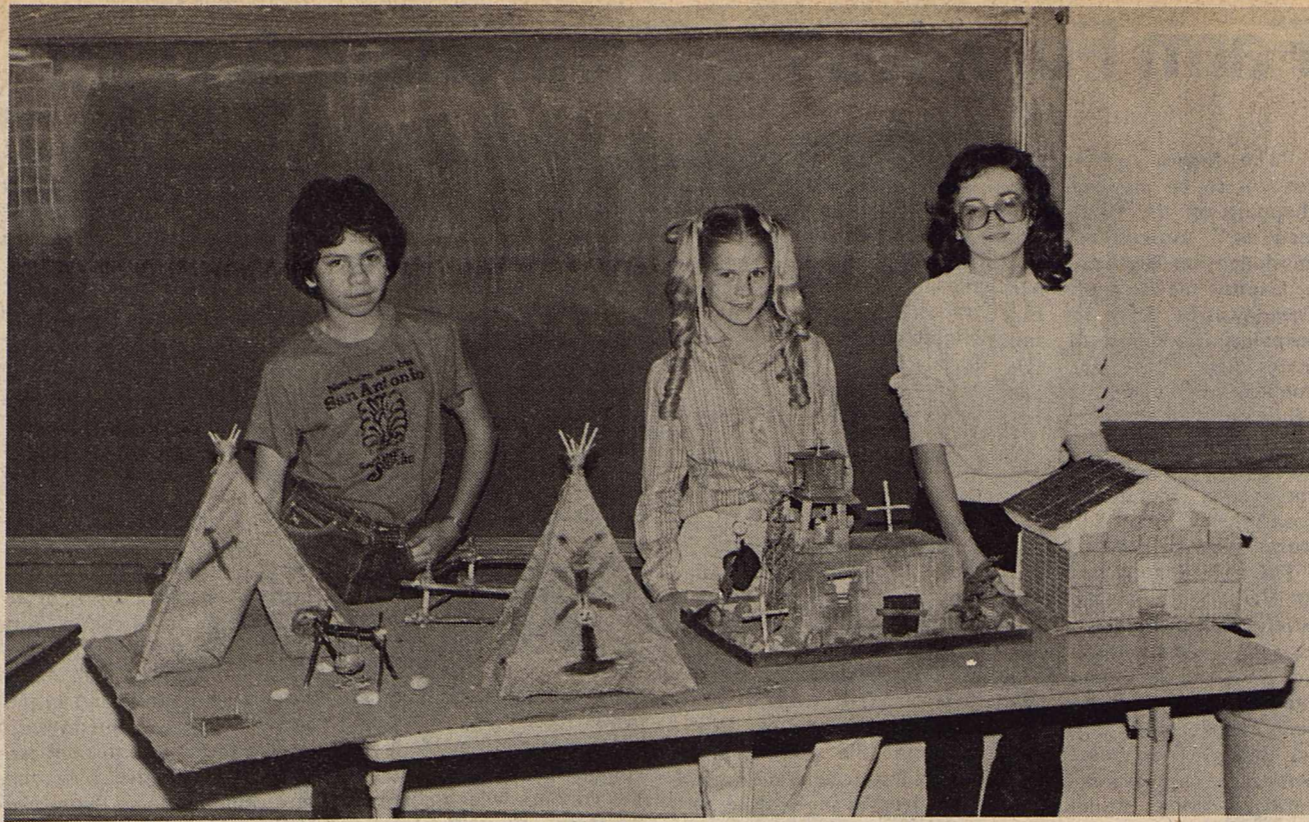

In the kick-off ceremony for National Consumers Week, Louis V. Gerstner, Chairman-Elect of the Joint Council on Economic Education, said there is a "strong need to improve the economic literacy of the American consumer as the country's economic environment becomes more complex and difficult."

Any consumer who has tried to figure out the advantages of different types of bank accounts, read the energy usage labels on major appliances, or understand a warranty, can appreciate Mr. Gerstner's comments. Although consumers now have greater choices in making purchase decisions, the increased amount of consumer information that goes with those choices can be confusing.

According to Virginia Knauer, Director of the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs, the answer to this problem is consumer education which will "help us to function as competent, creative consumers."

For nearly 70 years, the Texas Agricultural Extension Services has provided consumer information and education. But you don't need to wait for a National Consumers Week to take advantage of this service.

For more information on consumer programs and materials, contact your county Extension Office.

TEXAS HISTORY

Seventh grade students at Haskell Junior High School recently completed projects in Texas History class. Pictured above are three winners in the competition. High Blood Pressure Affects Estimated 23 Million People

High blood pressure affects an estimated 23 million Americans. If you are one of them and the disease is left untreated, it can take fifteen years off your life. However, most cases can be successfully controlled if they are caught in time. And the only way to find out if you have high blood pressure is to have your blood pressure checked, a quick painless procedure.

The Veterans Administration has a booklet to help you understand what high blood pressure is, what the symptoms are, and how to treat the problem. And if you are on a low sodium diet, the book has a chart to help you choose herbs and spices to make foods taste good without salt. For your copy of Protect Your Lifeline! Fight High Blood Pressure, send $4.50 to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 163L, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

High blood pressure means that when your blood pressure is taken, the reading is higher than 140 over 90 while you are at rest. When it remains at this level over a period of time, it becomes the disease hypertension. It has nothing to do with the speed of your heartbeat. Rather, it is caused by the smallest arteries, the arterioles, clamping down so the blood is unable to get through to the veins. This makes the heart work harder to move the blood. Over time, hypertension can result in blindness, kidney failure, heart attacks, or stroke.

The most common type of high blood pressure affects up to 85 percent of all cases. Its cause is unknown and, while it cannot be cured, it can be controlled. The other two types of high blood pressure, secondary hypertension, which is caused by another disease, and severe and malignant hypertension, can also be treated and, in some cases, cured.

There are no usual symptoms of high blood pressure. In fact, most people with high blood pressure experience no symptoms at all. They only find out their blood pressure is elevated when it is checked.

The most characteristic symptom that does occur is an occasional morning headache, usually felt at the back of the head and upper part of the neck — a common site for a headache. If you have these headaches periodically for no reason that you know of, have your blood pressure checked to see if there is a connection.

Doctors can control most high blood pressure with medication and a diet program. Some mild cases can be controlled simply by reducing your weight and limiting the amount of salt and saturated fat you eat. If you have hypertension you should avoid butter, shortening, and hydrogenated oils, and instead use oils that are liquid at room temperature (known commonly as polyunsaturated oils).

The most commonly prescribed medicine is a diuretic. It lowers blood pressure by removing excess salt and water. However, diuretics can also remove potassium, an important mineral. So to compensate for the deficiency, people taking diuretics should eat foods high in potassium but low in salt content such as raisins, bananas, and potatoes. Be careful of some foods that have high potassium content and also a high salt content like celery, sauerkraut and most canned vegetables. Whenever possible, read the label, or check the nutrition information available in many supermarkets.

If you have high blood pressure, get plenty of rest and recreation, always take your medicine on time, and stick to your diet. Since tobacco and alcohol can raise blood pressure by themselves, most doctors also recommend that you avoid them. That way you can live a longer, healthier life.

For more information on treating the problem, check with your doctor and send for Protect Your Lifeline! Fight High Blood Pressure ($4.50). When you order a copy, you will also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the Catalog lists over 200 selected free and moderately priced federal consumer booklets.

Tips For Buying Used Child Safety Seats

Parents who feel they cannot afford the $30 - $40 cost of a new child safety seat may be tempted to search the garage sales and want ads looking for a bargain.

"But a used child safety seat that is defective is no bargain," says Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension System, Texas A&M University System.

"Parents need to shop very carefully to avoid buying a defective used seat which can endanger the life of their child if they are involved in an accident," she adds.

The first test of a child restraint device, says Shirer, is whether it has a label stating that it "meets or exceeds all federal safety standards."

Beginning in 1981, the federal standard governing child safety seats required crash testing of the devices to insure their safety. All seats that meet the standard can be considered good ones.

Some car seats manufactured prior to 1981 meet these requirements, while others do not. "Many seats now on the used market were made before 1981, so parents should always look for that label," warns Shirer.

In addition to the federal safety label, Shirer recommends that parents look for the following defects in used child restraint devices.

Check the harness to see if it is torn at any point. A torn belt system can be easily repaired on most safety seats with replacements ordered from the manufacturer.

Also examine the padding to see if it is torn. If so, it should be replaced with new padding from the manufacturer.

A child restraint system with these defects will not adequately protect a child until the belt system and padding are replaced. Parents should not purchase a used seat with these problems unless they actually intend to repair them, notes Shirer.

If the device has a metal frame, check to see if it rattles. Ask the owner if you may tighten the screws on the frame. If the frame is still loose after tightening, do not buy it.

Also, check the seat bars. If they are twisted or bent, do not buy the seat, since full protection cannot be guaranteed.

According to Shirer, the manufacturer's directions for using the safety seat should be provided by the owner. Most seats made after 1981 have a place on the seat to store instructions. For effective use of the seat, Shirer recommends that parents carefully follow the manufacturer's instructions.

Finally, try the seat in your car before buying. Certain types of safety belts may cause installation problems. Bulky seat-belt buckles, for example, will not fit through the belt slots on some safety seats.

"When it comes to the safety of our children," says Shirer, "a 'bargain' may not be the best buy."

Simply using a child restraint device is not enough. "Parents must also make sure that the device itself is safe and used properly in order to protect their children from injury or death in an accident," she adds.
