

Indians Fall To Morton In Regional Tournament

The Haskell Indians fell to Morton last Friday afternoon in the first round of the Class AA regional tournament in the Lubbock Coliseum.

The trip to regional marked the first time in the 99 year existence of Haskell High School that a varsity boys team has reached such a level. Winning bi-district and area titles also represented two firsts for the Indians. The 1983 edition of the Indians won district for the first time in 25 years and this year's team went two steps further, earning the right to compete in the regional tournament.

The Morton Eagles are the defending state champions and after defeating Haskell Friday, they had beaten every Class AA and AAA team in the regional tournament.

The Indians got into foul trouble early in the game but managed to stay with Morton throughout the first quarter. The Eagles began to widen their lead in the second quarter and never fell behind.

Fed by regular substitutions of equal talent as the starting five, Morton kept constant pressure on the Tribe with an aggressive full court press.

The Tribe played an outstanding game against a very formidable opponent.

Morton met Seagraves in the finals of the tournament and defeated them to earn the right to advance to the state tournament this weekend.

Following the Class AA final between Morton and Seagraves, the all tournament team was named and Haskell Indian Shane Hadaway was selected to a position on that team.

State Sales Tax Up 12%

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Tuesday sent checks totaling $53.5 million in local sales tax payments to the 985 cities that levy the one-percent city sales tax.

"Texas is pulling out strongly from the trough we were in last year," Bullock said. "Along the border, January sales were well above last year in Laredo, Brownsville, and El Paso. Among the 20 biggest sales tax cities, only Midland and Odessa are still running behind last year. Overall, sales tax receipts are up more than 12 percent."

March checks reflect sales made in January and reported to the Comptroller in late February.

Houston received the largest check—for $9.7 million—which brings that city's 1984 total to $37.2 million, up 5 percent over what it had received by this time last year.

Dallas' check for $6.7 million brought year-to-date payments to $24.8 million, up more than 15 percent over last year.

San Antonio's payment was $2.9 million, up more than 36 percent over the same period last year. Austin's March check for $2.3 million brought the city's yearly total to $8.4 million, or nearly 22 percent ahead of 1983 totals.

Fort Worth received $2 million, bringing the 1984 total to $7.4 million, up more than 7 percent over 1983. El Paso received $1.2 million, with 1984's year-to-date total now running nearly 20 percent ahead of 1983.

Last Friday marked a first in the history of Haskell High School when the Indians basketball team played in the regional tournament in Lubbock.

The Tribe met the defending state champion Morton Eagles in the first round and were defeated. The defeat was an abrupt halt to a season which established at least three records in the 99 year history of Haskell High School.

When the Tribe defeated Hale Center for bi-district, the win marked the first bi-district title for a boys basketball team in the history of HHS. From there the Tribe won area defeating Memphis and qualified for the regional tournament.

The defeat at the hands of Morton was hard to swallow for team members as well as fans. It's never fun to lose and losing to Morton was no different.

It's easy to justify the loss saying that Morton had the experience, playing in about five state tournaments during the past ten years (some as a AAA school). For some it's easy to criticize officials, saying "If..." then things would have been different, and on and on with excuses about players, the coach, the fans, etc.
Perhaps we should be looking on the positive side and give credit where it's due.

First to the Morton Eagles who had an exceptional team. They played hard, never giving up.

But let's also give credit to Coach Jim Dan Raughton and the Haskell Indians. In two seasons as a head basketball coach, Raughton has compiled a record of 50 wins and 12 losses. He has turned the basketball program around in Haskell winning back-to-back district titles. After 25 years without a boys basketball district title, Coach Raughton has replaced an attitude which seemed to look on boys basketball as "something to do between football and track" into the firm belief that "we can compete with anyone on the court and win our share or more."

When the Indians took the court in Lubbock last Friday they were one of sixteen teams in the state who had qualified to compete at the regional level. Considering that there are about 200 class AA teams in the state, that's quite an accomplishment in itself.

Coach Raughton, his assistants, and the Haskell Indians deserve our thanks and congratulations on an outstanding year. They have represented our town both on and off the court and Haskell is a better place because of them.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Charles Stenholm, wife of Cong. Charles Stenholm of the 17th Congressional District, will be the featured guest at the March 15 meeting of the Progressive Study Club. Brush and Palette

schnuriger

A person does not have to be in the business of art very long until he realizes the importance of good materials. Too often a beginner will start with the cheapest possible paints, inadequate and unsuitable brushes, make-shift surfaces to paint on, not realizing that he is slowing his progress and defeating his purpose. The better equipment one has, the more inspired he will be, and what a joy it is! He will soon discover cheaper paints are thickened with chalk filler, which diminishes their tinting power, makes them hard to handle and causes them to be unstable and often not permanent. Cheap brushes are an abomination. Not only will they refuse to hold their shape and balk at what you want them to do, but they will lose bristles and wear out twice as fast as the better ones. So if you are buying a paint kit, spend a few more dollars and get a good one. If you already have low quality equipment, as you replace it get the better kind and see what an improvement it will make in the enjoyment of your painting and how much better work you will do.

Q. I am interested in pastels. Tell me something about them.

A. Pastels are indeed experiencing a renewed popularity after having somewhat dropped out of the scene for a few years. I heartily recommend them as a change of pace and a delightful discovery if you have not tried them. There are several kinds. The very soft ones put out a soft stroke which is easily blended. The semi-hard ones are a compromise between the quite hard and soft kinds. These produce a more distinctive line where a hard edged effect is desired, but may be rubbed and blended. Hard pastels will produce a hard, clean line. Several good brands are on the market. Pastel pencils are a remarkable new discovery. These can be used with the stick pastels for emphasis. Then there are oil pastels which can be dipped in turps and used as is, or applied with a brushed dipped in turp. There are also watercolor pastels, so called because they are water soluble. The method here is to paint with the crayons and then use a wet brush over the whole thing to produce watercolor effects. Your art supplier can suggest the kind of paper to use.

HINT: Your head is probably the most important part of your equipment. Use it-think about what you are doing. Make the most of the ability that God gave to you.

Write your questions and hints to me, Faye Schnuriger, P.O. Box 134, Haskell, Texas 79521. I will not use your name but do want you to sign your letters.

Lowrance, Fischer United In Marriage

Linda Michelle Fischer and Galen Craig Lowrance were united in marriage on Saturday, February 25, 1984, in the Paint Creek Baptist Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. John Mark Trice, brother-in-law of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Fischer of Paint Creek and the groom is the son of Mrs. Jerry Bartlett of Uvalde and Mr. John Lowrance of Colorado City.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown of candlelight sheer-gauze and English net. The bodice was fashioned with flounced Victorian-yoked neckline. It was embroidered with seed pearls and sequins on chantilly lace. The full sleeves were lined and held deep cuffs of chantilly lace with pearl buttons. The tea length skirt was bordered with deep chantilly lace and was caught at the waist with a long satin sash. Her father placed a penny in the year of her birth in her shoe. In her bouquet of roses and English ivy she carried a handkerchief made of lace from her Mother's wedding gown. From each of her sisters she wore pieces of jewelry.

Maid of honor was Kay Fischer, sister of the bride. Bridesmaid was Denise Stuart of Richardson, cousin of the bride. They wore matching dresses of blue and yellow polyester and cotton. Horizontal tucks graced the bodices and were repeated in the full pleated skirts. They carried single yellow roses.

Serving the groom as Best man was Donald Lowrance, cousin of the groom. David Ashford of Colorado City was groomsman. They wore matching oxford shirts in yellow and blue.

Candlelighter was Denise Lowrance, sister of the groom. Mrs. Gary Roach of Roanoke registered guests at the wedding and reception. Mrs. Bob Stuart of Richardson and Melinda Lowrance of Abilene served at the reception.

Ushers were Terry Morris and Jeff Morris of San Angelo.

The bride is a graduate of Paint Creek High School and will complete her Instructors License in Cosmetology at Western Texas College in March. She already holds her operators license.

Girl Scouts Celebrate 72nd Anniversary

Girl Scouts will be celebrating their seventy-second birthday on March 12. Girl Scouting in America was started back in 1912 by Juliette Gordon Low.

"Daisy", as Juliette was affectionately called, had a dream to make the world a friendly, peaceful place. She wanted people to understand themselves and others. She wanted to give something special to the girls of the world. It was Juliette Low's commitment to high ideals, confidence in the abilities of girls, and sense of new horizons for women that led her in calling to order that first meeting, and now, only 72 years later, there are over thirty million girls and adults sharing in Girl Scouting.

"We Found a New World" is this year's theme for the Girl Scouts.

Girl Scout Week, March 11-17, serves to remind everyone that for 72 years, girls have been having fun, gaining solid learning experiences and enriching their worlds through Girl Scouting. West Texas Girl Scout Council is a participating agency in the United Way.

Nancy Robinson Presents Program To Study Club

The Progressive Study Club met in regular session March 1, 1984 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room with Mrs. Hugh Horton, president, in charge. During a brief business session Mrs. Milton Christian's membership was changed from associate to active.

Ms. Virginia Jones, director for the program, introduced Ms. Nancy Robinson, aviation columnist for The Abilene Reporter-News, who has been writing about people, places, and planes of West Texas for more than six years in her weekly aviation column, "Ups and Downs", which appears in the Saturday morning edition. Ms. Jones added that Nancy was a freelance writer/contributor as well as a pilot and owner of a 1941 Interstate Cadet. She has traveled across the United States and Europe representing West Texas and reporting on various flying activities. She has been a guest of the Air Force on numerous missions and was the first woman honored by the Military Airlift Command by receiving the Distinguished Citizen of the Year Award for her contribution in support of America and its armed services. Nancy, a native of Stamford, was accompanied by Bill Masters, her flight instructor and owner of the Elmdale Airport. They complimented the Haskell Airport.

Ms. Robinson's topic was "Those Wonderful Women and Their Flying Machines—Is the United States of America Still Climbing on Course?" In 1979 a French woman was launched in a balloon by her scientist husband and became the first pilot. In 1902 France opened the field of aviation to women.

The first woman to solo was French. During World War I many women disguised themselves as men and flew. Prior to 1926 it was illegal for a woman to fly. The first black woman pilot performed all over the United States in 1921. Anne Morrow Lindbergh was a distinguished pilot. In the 1930's women set every altitude, speed, and distance records in the United States. Britain kept the fact that women flew the Spitfires during the Battle of Britain a secret until recently. 1800 WASPS flew over 60,000 miles during World War II. Many women received no credit for the accomplishments.

The second part of Ms. Robinson's talk centered around her travels with the military and the threat of a Communist take-over of our citizens one-by-one. She said, "As women of this club and community, if you don't want to live as we did a hundred years ago, you had better stop being a spectator and start being a participant. Help someone else to strengthen your community, state, and country." The program was concluded with slides of famous women pilots.

Hostesses were Mrs. Thula Perry, Mrs. Mildred Berry and Mrs. W. H. Pitman. Mrs. Rozelle Wilkinson assisted. The Mesquite District Spring Convention will be March 29-30 at the Kiva Inn in Abilene.

The members are urged to bring guests to the March 15 meeting when Mrs. Charles Stenholm will be the speaker for the Americanism program.

Abused Wives Often Endure Years Of Violence

Fear and ignorance can strike the abused wife harder than physical blows of her husband. The real tragedy of the battered women is that she often endures years of violence without help.

The National Institute of Mental Health fact sheet, Plain Talk About Wife Abuse, examines the motives of abuse, identifies its recurring patterns, and suggests shelters and treatment programs for battered women in need of help. For your free copy of Plain Talk About Wife Abuse, write to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 571M, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Wife abuse, or abuse of a woman involved in a close relationship with a man, is defined as violence that results in injury or death. It is different from the normal conflicts that occur during the course of a marriage, and it can occur within families at any socio-economic level. Black eyes, split lips, fractured jaws, and broken noses and collar bones are just a few of the injuries which can be associated with wife abuse.

The man who abuses his wife was likely abused as a child. He is often filled with anger and resentment at a world that has not fulfilled his expectations. He strikes his wife because she is the only vent for his anger. If he were to strike his boss in anger he would lose his job, but he suffers no penalty for striking his spouse.

Many women suffer the physical violence of their husbands because they also believe in the traditional concept of male dominance of the household. They believe it is their duty to stay with their mate. Other women stay with abusive husbands because they feel they have no alternative. They have no money of their own, they have children to support and they believe they cannot survive alone.

Wife abuse often follows a predictable pattern. In the first phase, arguments build up and create tension. The explosion or actual beating phase follows. The pattern culminates with the loving phase as the husband professes sorrow and promises never to repeat the action.

But the violence is repeated. It recurs with more intensity and frequency. It recurs because it has little to do with the marriage or the woman, but with the man's inability to resolve conflicts and deal with his anger in an appropriate, acceptable way.

According to Plain Talk

About Wife Abuse, in a situation when a woman knows she will be attacked, she should get herself and her children out of the house and call the police as soon as possible. She should hide money, car keys and important documents in a safe place to facilitate a quick escape.

In the long run, an abused woman must decide on a course of action that will release her from the vicious cycle of attacks. The first step is for her to admit to herself that she is abused. She must face the reality of her situation and believe in her right to live free from physical violence.

Friends and relatives can provide support and guidance for a battered woman who will no longer tolerate abuse. Emergency shelters, women's organizations, and community health centers are also available for women who do not have friends or relatives to rely on.

While fear may have dictated the past of the battered woman, it doesn't have to determine her future.

When you order a copy of Plain Talk About Wife Abuse (free), you'll also receive the free Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration, the Catalog lists more than 200 other free and moderately priced federal publications on everything from health to cars to money.

Small Households Pay More Per Serving For Most Foods

People living alone pay more than twice the per capita food costs of four-member households. The reason for this is that most singles—and couples—buy small quantities at a time. Typically, the bigger the package, the lower the unit cost. So small households pay more per serving.

Also, according to the Food Marketing Institute, 40 percent of all shoppers are men. Some of these men are smart buyers, but many could save by shopping more carefully. Employed women may also tend to buy food impulsively and expensively when they could save more.

Many people resent the time it takes to shop. But if you organize yourself, it can be done quickly and pay off in smaller grocery bills.

Just shopping for groceries instead of eating out saves money. The average home-prepared meal costs one-third less than an equal restaurant meal. Even frozen gourmet entrees and dinners from the supermarket will cost less than similar choices in a restaurant.

That doesn't mean you have to give up restaurant dining. But you can keep the restaurant choice for when you need it most and not when you're simply unprepared to eat at home.

Couples and singles don't have to choose between time and money. Instead, try some of these strategies:

- Invest in a microwave oven so you can cook and reheat food rapidly.

- Or think about each evening's dinner before you leave for work in the morning. Move the food you will need from the freezer to the refrigerator to thaw for quick cooking when you get home. Just be sure to use the thawed food right away.

- Avoid the small-costs-more trap. Buy larger sizes, then cut or divide and freeze or store in meal-size portions. You save on shopping time, as well as money.

- Don't feel like you have to cook everything. Vegetables, for example are delicious and nutritious served raw or barely cooked.

- Use quick cooking foods, like fish, or quick-cooking methods such as stir-frying.

- Save money by buying a small roast and slicing it into steaks.

- Prepare enough of a main dish to make two or three meals. Freeze extra portions in freezer-to-oven containers for future meals. That way you'll spend less on convenience foods.

- Cook potatoes, rice dried beans, carrots and other foods in double amounts. Store servings for a second meal in the refrigerator.

Letters To The Editor

(EDITORS NOTE: The Haskell Free Press will publish letters to the Editor dealing with any subject. All letters must be signed but names will be withheld by request. All letters are subject to editing for length and liability.)

I am enclosing a picture which I thought your readers (especially your older ones) might be interested in. It is a picture of a dollhouse replica of the M. S. Shook home which was built in Haskell in 1906.

M. S. and Jennie Shook were my grandparents. I am the daughter of Marion (Man) Shook and Effie Nola Long Shook. Both the Shooks and Longs were pioneer citizens of Haskell. My granddaughter, Jennie Weidner, will be the second "Jennie" to be mistress of this house. My husband and I commissioned Mr. Harold Burgett of our town, Gordon, to build the house which he did from some old snapshots and my memory and that of my aunt, Mildred Shook Green, who lives in Haskell at the present time. It turned out to be such a good reproduction that I told my husband one day as I stooped down and looked through the kitchen door and down the west porch toward the south, that I was sure I could see "Couch's house across the street!"

Many happy childhood memories are associated with my grandparents and this house (which I wanted preserved in some way), and with my other Haskell relatives who are no longer living, Una Shook King and Florence Shook Darden. Although we have lived away from Haskell for many years, my mother enjoys the Free Press each week, and still refers to Haskell as "out home."

Pictured are myself, Frances Shook Weidner, and my grandson and granddaughter, Chris and Jennie Weidner, who are great great grandchildren of the M. S. Shook's.

The original house was built by an architect from Norway. It was located on Avenue E just north of 16th Street.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Alvin Weidner

Most Farmers To Plant More Crop Acres In 1984

"More in '84" seems to be the trend as farmers across the country gear up to plant spring crops.

"More in crop acres will bring good news to agribusiness industries and livestock and poultry producers, but crop producers may find lower prices at harvesttime," says Dr. Carl Anderson, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Increased crop acres will give a boost to agribusiness industries furnishing supplies and services to farmers, including farm machinery. The agribusiness sector suffered a major setback in business in 1983 due to the PIK program and adverse weather, notes Anderson.

A big increase in feedgrain and oilseed acreage will benefit the livestock industry by lowering feeding costs. A decline in feed costs should boost feeder calf prices this fall, says the economist.

"Crop farmers, on the other hand, need to sharpen their market skills and try to avoid getting caught with all their crop to sell at harvest," notes Anderson. "Increased crop production will likely weaken market prices late in the year. "Overall, agriculture income is expected to improve somewhat over the depressed level in 1983," believes the economist. "Increased marketings, slightly higher average prices and higher government target prices will probably add up to a little more money for Texas farmers and ranchers this year."

According to farmers' planting intentions as compiled by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, crop acreages are expected to increase by these percentages: corn, 36; cotton, 35; sorghum, 26; rice, 29; spring wheat, 18; and soybeans, 3. Winter wheat acreage is up slightly from 1983. Peanut producers, operating under a farm program that sets marketing quotas, intend to plant the same acreage as last year.

"Texas producers also will plant more acreage to crops, but the pattern of increase is somewhat different than the nation as a whole," notes Anderson. Texas farmers will expand corn, rice and soybean acreage faster—corn, 48 percent; rice, 41 and soybeans, 8—while cotton acreage will increase 25 percent and grain sorghum, 16, lagging behind U.S. increases.

"The USDA prospective plantings report appears in line with economic expectations for acreage for cotton and grain sorghum intentions, which are too low when compared with recent plantings," contends Anderson.

Intended cotton plantings of 10.7 million acres seem at least a million acres lower than previous plantings would suggest, the economist points out. The U.S. has a 15.5 million acre base for farm program purposes. U.S. cotton acreage was 14.3 in 1981 and 7.5 million of that was Texas.

Yet, planting intentions show only 5 million acres in Texas in 1984. A survey by the National Cotton Council indicates a Texas average of 5.7 million acres, which seems more reasonable, Anderson says.

Planting intentions also point to only 4 million acres of sorghum in Texas compared with 6 million two years ago.

Again, the economist believes this figure is too low.

"The prospective plantings report is conducted early in the year to provide producers with data they can use in making informed production and marketing plans," Anderson points out. "Even with the extremely low estimates for cotton and sorghum, the report clearly points to a big rebound in crop production this year. Facing increased production, farmers should develop a marketing plan that considers the risk associated with the possibility of lower prices later in the year."

Blood Drive To Replace Blood For Mrs. Briscoe

A Community-wide blood drive will be held Tuesday, March 20, from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. at the Weinert School Gymnasium. The Mary Meek Blood Bank of Hendrick Hospital in Abilene will be collecting blood to replace units used during Alice Briscoe's illness.

Anyone ages 18 to 65 may give blood. Seventeen-year-olds may donate with parent's written permission. Persons taking high blood pressure medicine or allergy medicine (after 72 hours) may also give blood.

Units donated will substitute for partial payment on the medical costs incurred during Alice's illness. All eligible donors are encouraged to give.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

When an American couple assumed care of two little girls from Mexico, they thought the arrangement was a permanent adoption.

The girls' natural mother claims the arrangement was temporary, until she could join her children in the United States. Since she could not read English, the mother says she did not know the legal papers she signed were adoption papers.

The publicity resulting from this heartbreaking case has uncovered the activities of some unlicensed independent adoption brokers, operating in at least 20 states, who may have defrauded up to 400 couples.

Nearly 40 couples, including one from Texas, claim to have paid up to $7,000 apiece without ever receiving the child they were promised or a refund.

As an adoptive parent, I sympathize with the deep desire of these prospective parents to bring a child into their home. It is this desire, frustrated by scarcity of adoptable infants available through usual channels, that has given rise to such exploitive "adoption" operations.

Last year, according to the National Committee for Adoption, an estimated two million American couples were waiting to adopt children. Of these, only 60,000 were able to obtain a child, some 14,000 of them in Texas.

Individual states have the primary responsibility for regulating adoption practices. But this case has brought to light the abuses that can occur in interstate and international adoptions, which fall outside the jurisdiction of any single state.

Particularly disturbing are reports that pregnant women are smuggled into the United States as a way of getting around immigration requirements relating to adoption. Their children, born in the U.S., are citizens of this country.

I believe individual states should continue to regulate adoption practices. It would be unwise to change that. But I also believe that the federal government has a responsibility to protect children and their families—both natural and adoptive—from deliberate, unconscionable deception and fraud that crosses state lines or international boundaries.

I have joined as an original co-sponsor of legislation that would supplement state laws by making it a crime for adoption services operating between states or internationally to defraud people. Conviction would result in up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

In addition, the Secretary of Health and Human Services would be directed to join with states in reviewing all adoption legislation to determine whether improvements in existing law are needed.

This bill is not meant to inhibit the operation of licensed state adoption agencies or arrangements between natural mothers and adoptive parents for which reasonable, legitimate fees are paid to professionals, such as doctors or lawyers, who provide a valid service related to the adoption.

But we need to give vulnerable, adoptive and birth parents, and children, a legal means of protecting themselves against those who would prey on them.

Money Matters

A Series Of Informative "Plain Talk" Thoughts Regarding Your Money Matters

Where Were They?

In the past year many of our customers have asked us about investments in Mutual Money Market Funds. As a whole, the money funds have been a pretty good investment. Some times they've paid a higher rate of return than we have. But like anything else, they do have their drawbacks. They are not insured. Your rate of return on a money fund investment is not guaranteed so it can fluctuate up and down like the stock market. You are usually charged a brokerage fee for the handling of the investment. Most of these money funds are owned by large Eastern concerns who could care less about the financial well being of our community. There have always been and there will always be investments which pay a high return, but, they are always accompanied by a higher risk than the insured investment that you make with our bank.

Where were they when one of our area farmers needed to borrow the money for a new tractor? Where were they when one of our local businessmen needed to borrow the money to expand his inventory? Where were they when one of our local families needed to borrow the money to send their child to college?

We were here making those loans that our community needed. Where were they?

Poison Control Center Handles Emergencies

Your child comes running to you coughing and spitting a red, cherry smelling liquid out of his mouth—he has been under the kitchen sink—and has gotten into scented lamp oil. What do you do? "This type of call comes to us daily," said Michael Ellis, Director of the Texas State Poison Center. "And some of these cases can lead to fatalities. This lamp oil looks like strawberry soda, smells good, and if swallowed and gotten into the lungs can cause disastrous results. Products like liquid furniture polish, kerosene, gasoline, and lighter fluid—are all derived from petroleum. As little as a few drops, gotten into the lungs, can coat the lungs. This can cause the child to suffocate—because he can't get oxygen through the oil coating," noted Ellis.

During 1983 over 29,000 poisoning cases were handled by the Texas State Poison Center—over 25,000 of them involving children under the age of 5 years. "Prescription and over-the-counter medicines, plants, perfumes, and petroleum products—make up about 60% of the poisoning cases handled by the Poison Center", Ellis stated, "that is why it is important that adults use and store household products and medicines very carefully."

March 18-24 is National Poison Prevention Week, and provides an excellent opportunity for parents, grandparents, and everyone who has small children in the house to survey their surroundings and see that potential poisons are stored carefully. "The common practice of storing cleaning and polishing agents under the sink and keeping medications in medicine cabinets with sliding doors—begs for problems," commented Ellis, "cleaning products and medicines should be stored on high shelves and out of sight."

But even the most careful parent can still run into poisoning problems. "Children have nothing but time, and are quite inventive when it comes to getting into things," Ellis noted, "the vast majority of these emergencies can be handled at home, but some do require medical attention." Should a poisoning emergency occur, call the Texas State Poison Center at (409) 765-1420. Remember—children act fast...so do poisons.

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

The Spring Break Holiday is almost complete. Why do we have Spring Break? There are several reasons. Number 1 is that it provided a break during the second semester for the teachers and students. The first semester offers natural breaks such as Thanksgiving and Christmas. The student and teachers are coming off summer vacation and are fresher and more motivated during the fall. The excitement of school opening keeps the adrenaline for several months. The Christmas Holiday restores some of this motivation, but, by this time of year, spirits wane, the cooler weather has brought out the colds and the energy level has dropped. This week off allows the teacher and students to recover, regroup their resources and strike forward eagerly to an excellent finish for the school year.

Another advantage for this community is the possibility of our farm families to have a vacation together. The family unit is still (Thank God) a dynamic force in Haskell. The Spring Break provides an opportunity to be together as a family. The summers are taken up with wheat harvest and the row crops to the point there is simply no time for family vacations.

I hope each of you have enjoyed your break and are looking forward to an exciting climax of this wonderful school year. I know I am.

Estate Planning Seminars Slated

Texas farmers and ranchers concerned about high taxes eroding their estates will want to take advantage of special seminars on estate planning coming up at various locations in the next few months.

The seminars are being conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, as part of a continuing effort in farm and ranch management, notes Dr. Wayne Hayenga, Extension economist. They are designed to help farmers and ranchers learn how to reduce taxable estates and learn new methods for passing their operations to the next generation.

Titled "How to Lower Your Estate Tax Burden," the seminars are slated as follows: March 12-13, Holiday Inn Civic Center, McAllen; March 27-28, Holiday Inn, 801 Avenue Q, Lubbock; April 24-25, Howard Johnson, 7800 North I-35, Austin; and May 8-9, Ramad Inn, Hwy. 69 at Loop 323, Tyler. Each day's program will be from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

"Of major importance is how every farm estate will be effected by new estate tax rules," points out Hayenga. "The best tax planning of the past may be the worst under the new law."

Each seminar will begin with a discussion on estate taxes, including deductions, expenses and tax rates. Basic estate planning devices will be explained in depth. Among these are wills, by-pass trusts, gifts, disclaimers and property titles.

There will also be a separate segment of the program devoted to treating beneficiaries fairly.

Another discussion will center on estate planning tools for agriculture and will deal with corporations, partnerships, selling part of the business to heirs, and oil and gas interests.

The second day of each seminar will be devoted to special estate tax rules for agriculture. These include special farm and land valuation, deferred estate tax payment rules, life insurance, "flower" bonds and other property.

Joining Hayenga in conducting seminars will be Extension economists Dr. Jerry Cornforth of Overton, Dr. Tom Jones of Weslaco and Lawrence A. Lippke of Bryan.

"Estate planning is a step toward reduced taxes," points out Hayenga. "This process should start when you plan to inherit substantial property, when you have an active and growing business, when you still have time to take tax-saving actions, when you have minor children, and when your children marry or divorce."

For more detailed information about the seminars, contact your local county Extension agent or Hayenga in the Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843, or call 409/845-2226.

Feverfew is a low, hardy plant with white daisy-like flowers. People once believed that it could drive away fever. Its name means to put fever to flight. It doesn't work.

56 Enrolled In Computer Classes

A total of 56 Haskell area residents enrolled for computer classes offered in Haskell by Western Texas College during the Spring Opportunity Session, Dr. Wendell Jones, WTC Director of Extension Centers, has announced.

"Bill Blakely, coordinator of the Haskell center, did an outstanding job in handling registration, and we would like to thank him," Jones said. "We had our personnel spread thin because we were registering at all centers at the same time and Mr. Blakely did his usual fine work in getting everything done in Haskell."

"Enrollment in our Spring Opportunity Session was good and we are already looking forward to scheduling summer classes in Haskell and at other centers. We would like to hear from Haskell area residents about courses they are especially interested in having on the summer schedule. People can contact Mr. Blakely or me with these suggestions."

Jones' office at WTC can be reached by calling 915-573-8511.

Bell County Judge Takes Action Against DWI's

As in cities and towns across the country, drunk driving is a problem in Bell County, Texas and the citizens there aren't going to take it anymore. Their involvement has led to a citizens' task force which is studying and developing solutions to Bell County's drunk-driving problem through its education, audit and public relations committees.

The Bell County Citizens DWI Task Force—the first citizen-administered drunk driving task force in Texas—was formed in June 1982. District Judge James F. Clawson Jr. was the driving force behind Bell County's organization. A member of a national advisory committee on drunk driving, Clawson left a meeting of that group in Washington determined that something could be done to reduce the drunk driving-related carnage occurring on Bell County highways. "I left the meeting in Washington convinced of two things," said Clawson. "First, that any meaningful attack on DWI would have to be by members of the lay public; and second, that I would have to call a meeting in Bell County to get the public organized."

In response to the judge's invitation, more than 300 people packed his courtroom in Belton—county seat of Bell County—where the meeting was held. A task force was formed, and an executive committee elected. The task force is studying and developing solutions to Bell County's drunk-driving problem through its education, audit and public relations committees.

Judge Clawson and task force members credit members of the news media with helping get the story told. "The news media have followed every action of the task force. It has been excellent," said Dale Yates, former task force chairman. Media, law enforcement and public support combine to keep DWI arrests on the upswing, says Clawson. And according to County Attorney Patrick J. Ridley, "people are more willing to identify drunk drivers now."

To help other communities in Texas and throughout the U.S. emulate the model of Bell County, Allstate Insurance Company has prepared a 16-page booklet outlining the task force's work. It will be distributed nationally, along with Allstate's many other anti-drunk driver publications.

If you'd like a free copy of "Taking Drunk Drivers to Task in Texas," write the Underwriting Department, Allstate Insurance Company, 200 W. Highway 114, Irving, Texas 75062.

PCA Presidents Gather For Annual Conference

R. C. 'Clif' Cobb, president of Rolling Plains Production Credit Association, was among Farm Credit officials throughout Texas who gathered in Austin for the 1984 Annual PCA Presidents Conference, March 1-2.

According to Cobb, the meeting serves as a place for PCA presidents to exchange ideas and gather information on the status of the Tenth Farm Credit District. Presentations revolved around the theme, "Where are we? Where are we going?"

Sessions included a micro computer workshop, techniques for improving growth, image and professionalism and an update on Project 1995.

Project 1995 is a nationwide study being conducted by the Farm Credit System to assess its operating environment in the 1990s. Results will provide a basis for strategic planning in each of the 12 Farm Credit districts.

Rolling Plains PCA is a member-owned agricultural finance cooperative which serves the credit needs of 1,032 farmers and ranchers in a 17 county area.

35mm Camera Classes Set In Rule

"35 Millimeter Photography" will be the title of an educational program scheduled to start in Rule this month. Larry C. Sanders, a Certified Photographic Counselor, will conduct the classes designed to help photographers improve their ability to use the 35 millimeter camera.

The classes will meet March 26th and April 2nd in the Rule Church of Christ fellowship hall from 6:30 to 9:30. This is the same class offered through Keaton Kolor in Abilene and TSTI in Sweetwater. It is recommended for both the beginning and the intermemediate level photographer. Mr. Sanders assures that everyone will leave the course a more accomplished and confident photographer.

Cost for the class is $20.00 per person. Pre-registration can be mailed to Molly Cannon at Box 187, Rule, Texas 79547, or can be brought by Wilcox and Sons in Rule.

Mr. Sanders has instructed photography for over eight years with Keaton Kolor, the Abilene Tri-College Program, TSTI in Sweetwater, and in high school workshops throughout the Big Country.

Tax Renditions Due Before May 1

"The first priority for property owners is to file renditions and applications for tax relief before May 1 this year.

Rendition is the method through which a property owner reports or lists the taxable property he owned or managed on January 1, 1984. It is also the means by which a taxpayer is allowed to record his own opinion of his property's value.

Taxpayers may file all exemption applications and property rendition forms with the Haskell County Central Appraisal District Office. State law also allows one-time applications for homestead exemptions; disabled veterans' exemptions and open-space land valuation.

Property owners who last year received homestead exemptions, disabled veterans' exemptions and open-space land (1-d-1) valuation do not need to reapply in 1984. However, the chief appraiser may confirm a person's current qualifications by requesting a new application form be completed.

Applications must be filed in 1984, by property owners who have not previously received tax relief on their present homestead or land.

State law also requires that applications for agricultural (1-d) valuation be filed each year in all appraisal districts.

Agricultural (1-d) and open-space land (1-d-1) valuations are available to property owners using land for farming or ranching purposes. Such land may be taxed based on productivity rather than market value.

Certain property owners are required to render their property. "Any person who owns or manages income-producing personal property on January 1 is required by state law to file a rendition statement with the Haskell

County Appraisal District.

Special rendition procedures exist for property on which an exemption applicable on January 1 ends during the tax year. In such a case, the person owns or acquires the property when the exemption ends must render the property taxation within 30 days.

And, the chief appraiser may require rendition of other taxable property upon notice to the property owner or manager. Transportation companies, banks and railroads must also file special rendition statements.

Rendition forms are available from Haskell County Appraisal District Office. Transportation businesses may obtain property report forms from the SPTB.

Complete information on tax exemptions and renditions requirements is contained in "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities!" a taxpayer pamphlet produced by the SPTB.

The pamphlet also reviews how to prepare and present an appeal to the appraisal review board. It is available at no charge from the Haskell County Appraisal District Office or from the SPTB in Austin.

"The property tax is the primary source of local government revenue in Texas. "It will generate about $8 billion this year to help fund public schools, cities, counties and special districts."

"We urge all property owners to become familiar with the tax process, to file renditions and to apply for all exemptions or other tax relief to which they are entitled.

For more information contact the Haskell County Central Appraisal District at 604 N. 1st Street, Haskell, Texas 79521, phone number 864-3805.

Treas. Sec. Says Indexing Will End An Unfair Tax

BY TREASURY SECRETARY DONALD T. REGAN

For a number of years taxpayers saw their real income and purchasing power actually decline even though their wages (income) were increasing.

American workers got pay raises, only to find out later that the increase pushed them into higher tax brackets. What started out as a bigger paycheck became, in effect, not so big after being ravaged by inflation and then subjected to an even larger government bite.

Americans were finding that the harder they worked, the less they got to keep—a classic case of diminishing returns, a recipe for resentment and a powerful prescription for destroying incentive. The years 1979 and 1980 were especially harsh since many wage earner's pay increase didn't even keep up with double-digit inflation, not to mention the extra taxes on that inflation.

Beginning on January 1, 1985 this patently unfair "inflation tax" will no longer hit the wage earner. As part of President Reagan's 1981 Tax Act, inflation indexing will begin.

To the average taxpayer, this means that increased taxes will be owed only when real income gains are made. A real gain is that portion of a pay increase above and beyond the inflation rate.

Indexing will work by having the tax rate schedules and the $1,000 personal exemption adjusted at the end of each year to offset any increase in the Consumer Price Index. You-the taxpayer will have to make no additional calculations since any changes will be incorporated into the Internal Revenue Service tax tables.

Indexing is, one of the most equitable reforms of our system since the modern-day tax code was instituted in 1913. Currently, because of inflation and our progressive tax rates, every 10 percent increase in prices and wages nets the Federal government a 16-17 percent increase in tax revenues! This 6 or 7 percent "windfall" simply is not fair. Especially since the excess revenue collected by the government amounts to a non-legislated tax increase.

My staff at Treasury estimates that inflation-induced bracket creep would cause income tax increases totaling almost $100 billion for fiscal years 1985-1988 if indexing were not in effect. That's $100 billion collected in higher taxes without a single vote being cast in Congress.

Indexing eliminates this problem, but that is precisely why there could be attempts in Congress this year to repeal, revise or at least delay this important reform. Many legislators realize that inflation has provided them with more and more revenues for higher and higher spending. And the extra revenues have been provided without having to vote on the record—for tax increases.

Efforts to change or do away with indexing must be resisted. The President has made it clear that indexing is a cornerstone of his economic program.

And, even though inflation has dropped dramatically under this Administration and should remain low moderating inflation should not downgrade the importance of indexing. Because inflation forces income to rise faster through the bottom tax brackets, this reform offers the most protection to lower-income taxpayers. For example, even a 4.5 percent inflation rate would produce a 9.4 percent tax increase for wage earners with less than $10,000 in adjusted gross income.

For too long the average taxpayer in America has been a poorly represented constituency. The Reagan Administration entered office with a commitment to the taxpayer and is honoring its pledge. Indexing is central to that commitment.

Vets Eligible For Property Tax Exemptions

A large number of veteran and their surviving spouses and children are entitled to property tax exemptions which they are not claiming. According to C. H. Herren, Veterans Service Officer for Haskell County, the tax exemptions apply to service-connected disabled veterans and their surviving spouses, and in some instances, their children.

Under a State law, a veteran with a compensable service-connected is entitled to claim a property tax exemption. The amount of the exemption depends upon the percentage of disability of the service incurred disabilities as rated by the Veterans Administration or the branch of the Armed Forces in which a veteran served. Each year, generally during February, veterans in receipt of VA compensation are sent letters showing the percentage of disability that is in effect. The veteran must then take a copy of the VA letter to each taxing entity in which his taxable property is located.

The automatic VA letter is sent to all veterans whose VA records are located in either of the VA Regional Offices in Waco and Houston. If a veteran has taxable property in Texas, but resides elsewhere or the VA records are located in another State, he must obtain from his own VA Regional Office a letter verifying his disability rating. Also, there is no letter automatically sent to the widows of deceased veterans. These people must contact the appropriate VA Regional Office and ask for the tax exemption letter.

The request for the property tax exemption should be made to all of the appropriate taxing offices before April 1 each year in order to take credit for the entire year. If a letter of verification is needed, it may be requested from the VA Regional Office of jurisdiction. Your local Veterans Service Officer will assist you in this request.

TAX PLANNING

IRS GIVES IN
(New IRA Advantage)

The requirement that a taxpayer actually make his IRA contribution before filing the tax return on which he takes a deduction for it has now been changed. A recent IRS ruling now allows you to file your income tax return and take a deduction for your IRA contribution of up to $2,000 even though you have not yet put the money in your IRA. You then have until the filing deadline of your tax return to actually make your contribution.

This change in IRS policy allows for an interesting maneuver. Those taxpayers who will be receiving a tax refund can file early and take their IRA deduction, wait for their refund, then use the refund money to actually make the contribution.

If you apply for the automatic extension that allows you to extend the filing date of your tax return to August 15th, you can file your tax return between April 15th and August 15th, wait for your refund and make your IRA contribution before the filing extension expires on August 15th.

You cannot, however, file your return before April 15th and then file for an August 15th extension to try to get additional time to make the IRA contribution.

Taxpayers who file and take a deduction for an IRA contribution but who actually never make the contribution by the due date of the return, are required to file an amended return eliminating the deduction. If they do not, the IRS can assess a negligence penalty of 5% or a fraud penalty of 50% of the additional tax due.

Since earnings are tax free until withdrawal, consider making your IRA contribution early in the year. It is especially advisable to transfer money that's in a savings account or other taxable investment to an IRA early in the year. You'll have tax-deferred growth for a longer period.

Farm & Ranch Expo Set This Weekend

In addition to more than 3 million dollars worth of exhibits covering more than 200,000 square feet of exhibit space, the 1984 Southwest Farm and Ranch Exposition will feature two new sections—one on farm and ranch computers and computer programs, and another on equipment for the small-acreage operator.

Dates for the big show are March 9, 10, and 11 in the Tarrant County Convention Center.

Championship truck and tractor pulls have been scheduled for Friday and Saturday at 7:00 p.m. in the Center arena.

Hot-rod and super stock tractors, and 4-wheel drive trucks from across the nation will be pulling for more than $23,000 in cash prizes.

There is no charge for the Farm and Ranch Exposition. Tickets for the two nights of pulling can be purchased at Ticketron outlets throughout the Metroplex or by calling 817/265-0789.

The farm show will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Sunday hours are 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m.

Opening the Farm and Ranch Exposition on Friday will be the "New World of Agriculture Forum" which begins at 9:30 a.m.

Congressman Phil Gramm will speak at the Forum luncheon on "Government Economics" and their effects on agriculture. Luncheon tickets may be ordered by calling 817/625-5562.

Young Future Farmers of America from all over Texas will compete on Friday in the state finals of the FFA Tractor Mechanics Contest.

More than 30 entries have been accepted for the Exposition Barbecue Cook-off for Sunday.

Home fashion designers will model their creations of cotton, wool or mohair at the Natural Fibers Showcase, Saturday afternoon at 4:00 in the Center theater.

More than 1,700 persons attend the fashion show each year, with more than 65,000 for the 3-day Farm and Ranch Exposition, according to Exposition officials.

ful spawn and hatch from the year-old bass. To check the results of this first hatch, use a minnow seine along the edge soon after hatching time, May or June, and if you fail to catch small bass you have problems. The solution may be to start all over again.

Channel catfish are well adapted to small ponds, one half surface acre or less and if you plan to do supplemental feeding. Ponds that are subject to floodwaters permit catfish to easily escape through spillway overflow.

Stocking rates for channel catfish will depend on if you plan to feed, or occasionally feed. On ponds of one surface acre or less, stock 100 channel catfish and 500 fathead minnows per acre. Reduce these rates if less than an acre in size. The stocking size of channel catfish should be 4 to 5 inches in size.

Supplemental feeding of catfish is best accomplished by using pelleted fish food. When supplemental feeding is carried out, the need to fertilize is reduced to two or three applications during February and March of the first year.

Aquatic weeds can be a problem in farm ponds. These weeds are best controlled by chemicals such as "Endothal" which is used to control "Chara". Copper Sulfate can also be used to control "Chara". To control water milfoil, Aquathol is a recommended chemical.

For additional information on fish pond stocking, fertilization and control of aquatic weeds, come by the local Soil Conservation Service office.

Japanese corporation to acquire patent for processing soybeans

COLLEGE STATION— A Japanese corporation has made an offer to acquire world license rights to a process developed at Texas A&M University to take the "beany" flavor out of soybean protein products.

The Texas A&M University System (TAMUS) Board of Regents authorized a license agreement with Yazaki Plastics Industries Co. Ltd. to use the ultrafiltration membrane technology developed by James T. Lawhon, research engineer with the Food Protein Research and Development Center. The center is a division of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station, the engineering research arm of TAMUS.

Porter said the acquisition of the technology by the Japanese firm may open new markets for soybean protein products in Japan and help the U.S. balance-of-trade situation. Japan does not grow soybeans, but they are a major crop in America. Officials expect Japan to import soybeans grown by U.S. farmers.

Lawhon received a U.S. patent on the process for processing protein from oilseeds including soybean, peanuts, sesame seeds and glandless cottonseeds.

TFU President Applauds Hightower

Texas Farmers Union President Mike Moeller is applauding efforts by Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower to convince federal budget director David Stockman to review his interpretation of the Economic Emergency Loan Program.

Moeller, speaking to Hightower's February 17th letter written to Stockman, says "Some type of action must be taken; the handling of the Economic Emergency (EE) program by Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has been adominable. Stockman's office is at fault. The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for the White House stepped in after Judge Flannery ordered the release of the $600 million (Kjeldahl vs. Block, Civil Action No. 82-2745). Stockman directed FmHA to release some $50 to $60 million of the money for direct loans; the remaining $540 to $550 million is only to be used for guarantee purposes."

"These guaranteed loans in this program have two problems," continued Moeller. "To begin with, the loan rates for the direct, insured loans are carrying interest of 10.25% to 10.75%, while the guaranteed loans are going for 14% to 15% through commercial banks. You don't have to have a doctorate in economics to realize the difference between the two sets of rates. Then on top of that, the agricultural credit situation is tight out there in the country. These little rural banks just don't have the money to loan...they are all 'loaned' out."

Moeller's comments were prompted by the tightening credit situation, Hightower's correspondence with Stockman, and U. S. Senator Walter Huddleston's (Ky.) appeal to Judge Thomas Flannery of Washington, D. C. Senator Huddleston has asked Judge Flannery to review the OMB/FmHA conduct in the matter. Senator Huddleston has noted that since the E. E. program was created in 1978, the bulk of the $4.85 billion has been used as direct loans, and when the program first began, almost 95% of the funds were issued directly.

National agriculture leaders were forced into a year's worth of civil action to pry the already available loan money from the FmHA, which operates under the auspices of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The case was heard in the courtroom of Judge Flannery who found for the plaintiffs and against Secretary John Block and the USDA last October.

The TFU president also echoed and expanded on Hightower's closing comments in the letter. "The Commissioner is right about there 'being a world of hurt' in agriculture right now," says Moeller.

He's also on target about the severe damage being done to the small rural communities. Recovery may be on tap for other portions of the country, but there is still just one word to describe many rural towns now, in both economic and spiritual terms: DEPRESSED. The release of that loan money would certainly help those towns."

Moeller will head the Texas delegation to the National Farmers Union Convention to be held in New Orleans March 11-14.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

History has shown the strength of a nation is linked to its primary resource -- its people. Citizens are the source of leadership -- military and political -- as well as the foundation for all economic and scientific growth. But only a well educated citizenry can meet the needs of the future.

The American educational system is at a crossroads. We must decide now whether we will allow it to continue to decline or to bring it back into the realm of excellence it once occupied.

To help attain this goal, I am co-sponsoring a resolution to designate 1984 as the "Year of Excellence in Education." This resolution will focus the attention of the nation on strengthening education in America.

As a former educator, I am well aware of the importance of educational excellence. Our future leaders are nurtured in our classrooms. We cannot afford to give our future presidents, generals, scientists and business leaders a secondary education. Without an excellent public school system, we not only are robbing our children of their future, but also denying our country its continued greatness.

As our nation travels further into the technical age, education will become even more necessary. This is particularly true in the fields of math and science where much of our instruction is lacking. Competent teachers with degrees in these fields are in great demand. However, they can receive higher salaries in private industry than in teaching.

There is plenty of evidence that the need to give our educational system a "shot in the arm" is real. Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores have declined steadily in the past 20 years. This decline can be blamed on a number of factors, but the result is the same and the problem remains.

Historically, education has always been a prime concern among Texans. The absence of public education was listed as one of the grievances in the Texas Declaration of Independence from Mexico. In 1836, President M.B. Lamar stressed to the Republic of Texas Congress the need for public education. He advocated reserving public lands for schools, a step that was taken with the 1876 State Constitution. Lamar is known as the "Father of Education" in Texas.

Public concern for educational excellence is growing. According to a Gallop Poll, 90 percent of business leaders said the American educational system needs improvement, and 46 percent said education should be a national concern.

It's time to thrust America's schools back to the level where they once stood. We must not falter in our duties at a time when the existence of educational excellence could be crucial to the economic future of the United States.

I hope the resolution I have co-sponsored will spur a movement for better schools across America. It should be led by the teachers, principals and parents for they are the front-line soldiers in the education of our children.

The time to act is now. This objective is too important to relax until our schools are the best they can possibly be.

Many Products Produce Carpet Stains

The next time a mysterious carpet stain appears, don't rush to blame the kids or the dog. It may be from some seemingly harmless product—like your face cream—spilled months ago.

Most people know that poor handling of foods, liquids and household bleach will damage household furnishings, says Dr. Peggy Owens, a housing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program.

But few people realize that many common products containing chemicals can cause irreparable damage to valuable carpets, rugs, upholstery fabrics and other furnishings, she adds.

For example, acne medications, fade or age creams, some foot care products and some pet shampoos contains benzoyl peroxide as an active ingredient. Benzoyl peroxide is a strong bleaching agent which can destroy most dyes used in carpet and upholstery fabrics, as well as pillowcases, sheets, towels, and clothing, the specialist says.

Spills of some liquid plant foods or leakage from house plants can also cause color changes in carpet. Spots of this kind typically develop near the backing and surface as a dull yellow stain days or weeks later. Some pesticides and insecticides can cause discoloration of carpet. If the spray is directed to the carpet instead of the baseboard, fading around baseboards may be evident.

Even furniture polish can act as a catalytic agent to destroy red carpet dyes and create green or bluish discoloration. Because this is usually occurs about the base of a piece of furniture, a stain can remain hidden until the furniture is moved.

One fiber manufacturer has estimated that more than 50 household products can cause stains or spots on home furnishings, says Owens.

The time between contact and appearance of the stain can be days or months until a change in humidity, temperature, moisture or sunlight activates the chemical reaction.

While common stains like food, dirt or oily substances can usually be removed, chemical stains actually change or destroy dyes. Generally, nothing can be done to restore the dye to its original color.

Today's dye stuffs represent the best that modern technology has produced. Yet there are few known dyes which are resistant to chemical degradation. As a result, chemical spots and stains are not covered under most manufacturer's warranties.

From the consumer's point of view, says Owens, the only real solution to chemical spots and stains is careful use of all household products.

Monthly articles on luminous places and attractions across Texas

☆ South Padre Island's gold is now sun and sand

by Richard McCune, chief of media relations, Texas Tourist Development Agency

During the Great Freeze in the winter of 1983-84, not a place in the 48 states escaped misery from the cold and its damage to homes, buildings, crops, livestock, and virtually everything else left outdoors.

For residents of South Padre Island, just as with their eastern counterparts on the Florida peninsula, the nation's semi-tropical wintering grounds for vacationers briefly turned semi-frigid.

But not for long. Springtime will creep forward from the south, and warm breezes from the Gulf of Mexico will mend the lush vegetation as it has for centuries. Not even an adverse Ground Hog Day could dissuade the local folks that sunshine, sand and surf will lure its customary crowds to this southern tip of Texas, virtually on the Mexico border.

The city of South Padre is sandwiched amidst two Cameron County parks, Andy Bowie Park on the north and La Blanca Park on the south, so named for the white (blanca in Spanish) sand beaches. It is also known as the children's beach, as a protected area where youngsters can wade and swim in the shallow water. Here also are located such attractions as Ocean Safari, a combination of dolphins, sealions, lions, tigers and jungle birds—all full of tricks.

Nearby is the Pan American University marine biology building open to the public. Other attractions in that area also bring in crowds of students on spring break, and concerts are frequent during the spring to autumn.

The city itself is but four miles long and a quarter-to-half-mile wide. Cameron County embraces a large mainland area which includes Harlingen, Brownsville, Port Isabel and numerous other cities with visitor features of their own.

Fishing is a major activity around the island, the bay, Laguna Madre, on the landward side of and the Gulf of Mexico on the other side. Boats and tackle are readily available for fishing both inshore and offshore waters.

Summer species are the popular school fishes such as mackerel, bonito and dolphin (the fish, also known in Spanish as dorado, meaning golden) and deep sea fishing produces marlin, sailfish and tuna farther out in blue water, while closer in the catches are seatrout, redfish and a variety of other species.

Fresh seafood, of course, is also a specialty of restaurants and hotels all across the area. Needless to say, travel lodging is in all forms, at all rates, and range from condominiums, apartments and motels to luxury resorts and seaside cottages.

A stay in the area should include trips to Mexico, especially to the city of Matamoros just across the Rio Grande from Brownsville. Crossing back and forth are pedestrians as well as autos, for those who prefer a walking tour. Taxis in Mexico take visitors farther into Matamoros as they wish.

The South Padre area has a long history of participation in the Civil War, with freebooters, captains of commerce, adventurers and soldiers of fortune.

Indeed fortunes aplenty were made in the postwar years. Some were lost in ships foundering in the gulf. Others were buried in the dunes, never to be recovered, since landmarks on the sand are forever changing.

For many years before and after the Civil War the island was owned by several families, figuratively as well as legally, among the first being the Singer family which was shipwrecked there in the 1840s. The impending war forced them to flee.

Later, Richard King and Mifflin Kenedy had set up the Santa Gertrudis Ranch in the area some 50 miles along the coast and nearly half that wide, now 840,000 acres.

An Irishman, Patrick F. Dunn, moved his livestock across Padre and claimed to be the duke of the island, later buying land until it became a fact. When he sold it to a Colonel Sam Robertson in 1926, he is said to have complained, "If the Lord would give me back the island now, wash out a channel 30 feet wide and put devilfish and other monsters in it to keep out the tourists, I'd be happy."

Surely, the Lord forgave him, as he knew not what he said.

For more information about South Padre Island, contact South Padre Island Tourist Bureau, P. O. Box 2095, South Padre Island, Texas 78597. Tel. 512/943-6433.

For more information about history of the island, ask for "The Secrets of Padre Island," by Vernon Smylie at book stores or news counters.

Facts & Figures

Northern Ireland, as an integral part of the United Kingdom, has direct access to the EEC and its more than 320 million customers. And the productivity record of Northern Ireland is one that's rivaled only by West Germany and Japan.

Financial advantage is just one more attraction of Northern Ireland. It offers businesses a wide range of incentives, better than those found in nine out of ten other countries. Add a fine telecommunications system with modern world-wide telephone, telex and data communications links, an outstanding infrastructure and a technical education system that is very supportive of business, and you'll appreciate why dozens of U.S. companies operate plants in Northern Ireland.

Eleven U.S. Presidents could trace their roots to Northern Ireland. That's not the only reason, however, that American business executives are increasingly exploring the possibilities of this lovely land as the base for penetrating the European Economic Community markets. Three of the reasons most cite for the move are: high and rapid return on investment; labor stability and productivity; generous financial incentives that include tax-free grants.

Theodore Roosevelt, one of the 11 U.S. Presidents with roots in Northern Ireland.
