DISTRICT CHAMPIONS

Tribe To Face Seagraves For Bi-District Title

By Janet Wilke

For the third consecutive year, the Haskell Indians will be competing past the district level, as they face the Seagraves Eagles, this Friday, in the Scurry County Coliseum, in Snyder, beginning at 7 p.m.

The game will follow the 6AA district runners-up, the Hawley Bearcats, and the Morton Indians. In the past season, Haskell has rolled up a 22-1 seasonal record, and a lossless 10-0 district record.

In the course of the year, the tribe has scored 1493 points in 23 games, which averages 64.9 points per game.

In the ten district games, the Indians have scored 736 points, for a 73.6 average.

In individual scoring, the Tribe is led by senior Shane Hadaway, with 596 points this season. In district he scored 301 points, and in the 13 non-district games, was responsible for 295 points.

Behind Hadaway was senior Ricky Rojas, with 260 points, and another senior, Robert Ivey with 227 points.

Also in the scoring for the Indians this year was junior Sammy Baker with 130, senior Todd Harris with 95, senior David Adams with 88, Steven Boyd with 42, junior Kelly Strickland with 23, junior Tim Johnson with 14, senior Carl Dever with 8, and two JV players: Lance Hanson and Steven Rodriguez each with two points.

Rojas played in only 19 games because he was recuperating from an injured knee.

In team totals, the Indians, in district play, shot 46.4 percent from the field per game, and shot 51.5 percent from the free throw line per game.

Their highest scoring game came against the Rotan Yellowhammers in which the Tribe won 102-71. Ironically, this was also the game in which Haskell's opponents scored the most points against them, with 71.

Haskell's highest field goal percentage in district play came against Stamford, with 64 percent. The lowest field goal percentage also came against Stamford in the second half of district play with 37 percent.

The Tribe made 92 percent of their free throws in the Hawley game for their highest percentage from the bonus line. Their lowest average from the free throw line came against Stamford when they made 17 percent.

In the ten district games, Haskell averaged 73.6 points per game, while they allowed their opponents an average only 51.7 points per game.

Haskell players snatched away 377 rebounds per district game, and had 197 assists to their credit.

Shane Hadaway led rebounding with 130 in 10 games, while David Adams led the team in assists with 62.

From the bonus line, Hadaway led the team in free throws completed with 42, followed by Ricky Rojas with 33, Sammy Baker with 22, and Robert Ivey with 19.

Haskell's Indians made it to the first round of the regional tournament last year, where they fell to the defending state champion Morton Indians.

They arrived at the regional tourney by beating Hale Center 73-71 in the bi-district game, and then besting the Memphis Cyclones 63-46 in area play.

Last year's trip to regional was the first time the Haskell team ever advanced to that level in the school's 99 year history.

Acreage Deadline

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will not extend the 1985 acreage reduction programs' signup deadline past the originally scheduled March 1 date, said Everett Rank, Administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Requests to extend the signup period are being received from several areas where some farmers have not been able to arrange financing for 1985-crop plantings.

Rank said that USDA encourages such owners and operators to sign up for the program while they work out their financing. If lack of financing is the reason for not seeding the 1985 crop, USDA will terminate those contracts by mutual agreement and without penalty.

Texas Ex Celebration Set

University of Texas students first celebrated Texas Independence Day in 1897. This first March 2 celebration revolved around students "borrowing" a cannon from the Capitol after UT President Winston denied their request for a Texas Independence Day.

On Saturday, March 2, 1985, University of Texas ex-students in Jones and Haskell Counties join more than a quarter million other Texas Exes in celebrating Texas Independence Day and recognizing the University at a celebration at 6:30 p.m., Community Room, Haskell National Bank.

The meeting, which will include food, fun and fellowship and special guests, Jerry and Crockett English and distinguished alumni, Dr. Wm. J. Kemp, is open to the public. It is one of hundreds taking place worldwide as Texas Exes gather to honor Texas Independence Day and pay tribute to a first class University.

The local chairman for the Jones-Haskell Club is Carolyn Pippin, she can be contacted for more information at 817/864-2139.

Creek Project Underway

Work began Monday on the Creek Project, as the contractors from Nobel and Nobel of Colorado City arrived with their trucks, surveyors, and machinery.

The project, which is contracted to be finished within 270 consecutive days, will cost approximately $392,184.

The entire structure of the creek will be revamped, in order to facilitate better drainage through the city of Haskell.

According to City Manager Robert Baker, the drainage problem is the most important reason for the creek project. The project will also clear the creek of debris and weeds and will make the creek more presentable.

The project will include that portion of the creek, from N. Ave. 1 to South Sixth.

Numerous low water crossings, and other improvements will be seen in the future, as the project progresses.

The Dept. of Housing and Urban Development is helping fund the project.

With the death of Joe Williams Monday evening, Haskell and the surrounding area lost a true friend.

Joe ascended the attorney ranks from the very bottom, starting out as a court reporter. He was a court reporter in the days of a pencil and pad, no miniature, transistorized, battery powered, portable tape recorders. No sophisticated dictation machines and no electric, correcting typewriters. Joe recorded court proceedings in shorthand and later transcribed the notes into typed word for word records.

During the time between 1949 when he moved to Haskell as the court reporter and 1961, he studied law. Not at a college law school, but in his office. In 1961, Joe took and passed the State Bar Exam and began a law practice in Haskell and Throckmorton.

My friendship with Joe began when we moved to Throckmorton in 1965. He kept regular office hours one or two days a week and at other times as needed and was a regular at Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce meetings.

After moving to Haskell Joe was my direct line of communications with Throckmorton and we visited frequently about happenings in that city.

Even though we had visited regularly for over five years, I didn't know of Joe's history as a court reporter until shortly after moving to Haskell.

Joe was serving as City Attorney and I was covering a City Council meeting when a fire call was received. Joe offered to take notes for me if I needed to leave the meeting to cover the fire. When I returned Joe flashed a warm grin and passed me three pages of shorthand notes with not one word of English on them. He whispered that he had written down everything that had been said during my absence and that I was welcome to use any or all of it.

Joe worked in practically everything that has happened to benefit Haskell during the past thirty-five years. Many of his actions were behind the scenes and were never recognized by many.

He was active in his church, the Masonic lodge, civic clubs and any special project which would benefit this area.

Joe was a true friend to Haskell and this area and will be missed.

Tips For Teaching Children The Value Of Money

Even children know that a dollar doesn't buy much anymore. Inflation has affected not only the worker and the homemaker—it has also reduced the value of the spending money that children have. In light of this, many parents are reevaluating their policies with regard to children's money. Giving money (such as an allowance) will help teach a child about decision making. But children who are given money to spend any way they choose, without direction, often spend it foolishly. A dialogue between parent and child about spending and saving will help, according to Growing Up, the developmental newsletter about school age children. Even young children are old enough to learn the difference between wants and needs. Parents try to provide a child with the basic necessities. But a parent who tries to give a child everything he wants is sure to encounter problems. What can parents do to help a child learn to manage money? Here are some guidelines suggested in Growing Up:

- * Have a plan. Whether it's a weekly allowance or some other arrangement, a plan will help prevent parent-child disagreements.
- * A child may sometimes example) with some appropriate payment. Help the child develop a savings plan with the aim of saving for something he really wants. Lastly, children can be taught that good entertainment doesn't always have to cost money. Remember, the child who receives the largest allowance is not usually the one who loves his parents, his family, or his home the most.

make parents feel embarrassed or guilty because they can't afford to be as generous as they (or the child) would like. This is a sign the child needs to know about the family's financial situation and the limits of the family budget. Teach the child that money must be earned. It does not grow on trees nor is there some bottomless vault from which the parent can draw endless supplies. A good way to teach the value of money is by rewarding specific jobs (mowing the lawn, for

Comparison Shop For Appliance Warranties Before You Buy

Consumers typically compare the features and prices of different brands before buying an appliance, but may neglect to compare the warranties. "Manufacturers are not required by law to provide a warranty," says consumer economics specialist Bonnie L. Piernot. "But if one is given, it must meet certain standards for either a 'full' or a 'limited' warranty," adds the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist. Knowing the difference between the two types of warranties can save money and aggravation if the appliance must be repaired later, Piernot maintains. "A full warranty promises that a defective product will be repaired or replaced free, including removal and reinstallation when necessary," Piernot says. But a full warranty does not have to apply to the entire appliance, cautions the specialist. For example, a microwave oven may carry a full warranty on the cabinet, fan and magnetron tube but only a limited warranty on the touchmatic control. Under a "limited warranty" consumers may have to pay for labor, reinstallation or other charges, she advises. They may also be required to return or take a product to a service location and receive a pro-rata refund or credit. The term "limited warranty" should alert consumers to the fact that only part of the product may be covered, that it includes just the cost of repair parts or that it lasts only for a certain period of time, says Piernot. "A limited warranty does not imply that the appliance is inferior or will not work as promised," states the home economist. "In fact, it may contribute to a lower initial cost for a particular brand." Piernot recommends that consumers read warranty information carefully to decide whether they want to pay more for a full warranty.

Musicians In Texas Are High Achievers

A survey of the most outstanding high school musicians in Texas revealed that they are also high academic achievers. According to Texas Music Educators Association President Sally Schott, the survey was designed to demonstrate the parallel between outstanding musical accomplishments and high academic standing.

The survey was conducted during the convention of the Texas Music Educators Association in San Antonio, February 7-9. It included members of the All-State Band, Orchestra and Choir. The selection process for these organizations involves a series of rigorous tryouts in which only 812 students from the 30,000 who audition win places.

Twenty-eight National Merit Scholarship Finalists and Semi-Finalists performed with these All-State organizations. Although membership in National Honor Society is open only to juniors and seniors, disqualifying a significant number of underclassmen all-staters, 229 students have attained membership in the National Honor Society. Six hundred and seventy-two students returned surveys which were verified by their school counselors.

Farm Wife To Compete For State-Wide Title Of 'Mrs. Texas'

LORENZO—Mrs. Margaret Amnett, a freelance TV talent and model from Crosby County is being sponsored by the Texas Farmers Union in the March, 1985 Mrs. Texas competition. The March 16th event is to be held in the Greenspoint Marriott Hotel in Houston.

Mrs. Amnett will be competing for the title of Mrs. Texas 1985 with the largest number of entrants in the pageant's history, over 80 contestants. Wife of Crosby County farmer Gaylon Amnett, the Amnett's have two children, Marc and Alex, who are 15 and 11 years of age, respectively.

A graduate of Idalou High School, Mrs. Amnett has done spots for several regional advertisers, both print and television campaigns, and has recently appeared on the CBS television series 'Dallas'. In addition, the family farm organization's contestant is very active in her local community, from teaching modeling at local high schools, to participating with the Farmers Union on state and national levels, to church activities in her hometown.

"Margaret Amnett represents the finest qualities of the present-day farm wife," says Mike Moeller, president of the 10,000 family-member organization.

"Not only is Margaret active on the farm with Gaylon, but she pursues a very successful career of her own. In the meantime, she and Gaylon have two fine sons, and a role in their community and the Texas Farmers Union. We can't think of a better representative for Texas in the national Mrs. America competition this May—a woman who is directly involved in the number one industry of Texas, agriculture, yet whose own career is in one of Texas' premier growth industries, television."

The Texas Farmers Union is a state-wide organization of farmers and ranchers, working for the survival of rural Texas.

February Potato Recipes

Hot Chinese Potato Salad
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
4 medium potatoes, halved lengthwise and thinly sliced (about 1 1/2 pounds)
1 cup each carrots and celery, thinly sliced on the diagonal

1/2 cup green pepper strips (1/4 x 2 inches)
1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 1/2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 large tomato, cut in thin wedges

1/2 cup sliced green onions
In wok or large skillet heat 1 1/2 tablespoons of the oil. Add potatoes; cook and stir over medium-high heat about 10 minutes until barely tender. Remove and keep warm. Add remaining oil to wok, then carrots, celery, pepper, mushrooms and garlic. Cook and stir 3 or 4 minutes until crisp-tender. In small bowl combine water, soy sauce and cornstarch. Return potatoes to wok with cornstarch mixture. Cook and stir about 2 minutes, just until sauce thickens and mixture is heated through. Spoon onto platter; garnish with tomato and onions.

Makes 6 servings.
If you prefer your vegetables cold; try one of these two delicious potato and tomato combinations. One's a luscious low-calorie soup, the other is a tangy salad that's great with broiled meat.

Pomato Garden Soup
4 cups tomato juice
1 cup instant, mashed potato flakes
2 cups cold water
3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, pressed
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup chopped tomato
1/2 cup chopped cucumber
1/2 cup sliced green onions
1/4 cup chopped parsley or chives

NEWS For Senior Citizens

Results of a recent survey of 2,000 U.S. men, women and children show that adults over 65 experience an average of 4.2 everyday health problems during a two-week period—slightly fewer than younger adults. This may partly reflect a higher tolerance of minor symptoms by the elderly, perhaps because they suffer more serious, chronic illnesses that cause them to overlook minor health problems.

these problems and, if they used nonprescription medicines, with what results.

The study provided these additional findings about persons over 65:

- The health problems older Americans most frequently report are arthritis and rheumatism;
- They tolerate or ignore 35 percent of their reported problems without treatment;
- Older adults tend to be more likely than younger adults to take some form of action (take a medicine or see their doctor) rather than to ignore their problems; and
- Long-term and multiple-drug consumption are rare for treatment of everyday problems.

The study concluded that most elderly do not see themselves as vastly different from other Americans in personal health matters. Despite more chronic illnesses they use self-medication responsibly and express high satisfaction with nonprescription medicines.

These findings were part of a nationwide study of self-medication practices conducted by Heller Research Corporation to determine the types of common problems experienced over a full year, to learn what people do about

27 Area Parents Travel To Austin To Visit Legislators

Twenty seven parents from Knox, Baylor, and Haskell counties returned late Tuesday night after meeting all day with several legislators and other administrative executives in Austin.

The day began with a meeting with John Tate, head of the Texas Association of Community Schools, who was very interested and supportive of the opinions and petitions (3,912 names) presented by the group. He represents 771 school districts with less than 1600 students. He stated that 80 percent of Texas students were in 10 percent of the school districts, pointing out the lack of representation for our rural school districts.

Following the meeting, the group met with Sen. Ray Farabee and his administrative assistant Atelia Clarkson. He addressed the group and answered questions concerning HB 72. Although he only agreed in part with the group's position, he openly admitted there had been many mistakes made in this bill and that he is now involved in sponsoring new legislation to correct some of these errors. It was interesting to the group that Sen. Farabee and his aide were not fully aware of the TEA's interpretations of HB 72. These interpretations are given as rules to our local school districts by the State Board of Education, the State Commissioner of Education, and the State Department of Education. Farabee's assistant made the statement that some of these interpretations were foolish and did not fulfill the intent of the law.

Rep. Bill Haley, who co-authored HB 72 also addressed the group. He is now chairman of the committee on public education. Surprisingly he had several major concerns about the way the bill has been interpreted by the appointed board. He expressed that there was need for flexibility to be given back to local school boards dealing with the implementation of HB 72. He is now involved in several articles of legislation which will alter the present form of this bill. He is very opposed to the forced consolidation of small schools.

The group met with the following Representatives: Steve Carraker of Roby, Charles Finnell of Holliday, and Rick Perry of Haskell, the Rep. of Knox, Baylor and Haskell Counties. They were very appreciative and supportive of the group's actions and encouraged the group to stimulate other citizens and communities to become more politically involved. They invite response from citizens who are concerned about local authority being usurped by the state.

The group then met with Rep. Jerry Clark of Buna and Gerald Geistweidt of Mason. Both were very dedicated to working for corrections to what they believe to be serious mistakes in HB 72. Jerry Clark is a past president of the state FFA Chapter. He is very concerned about vocational programs and asked for support and activity from concerned citizens. He said that 30 million dollars was appropriated for bilingual programs in the State of Texas while only 6 million was allocated for vocational agriculture programs.

Members of the group visiting the governor's office found him unavailable and met with a special assistant, Marc Campos. He was not receptive to the views of the group. Rep. Charles Finnell vigorously advised the group to contact the appointed members of the State Board of Education by writing letters expressing their views. This board of 15 members, now has complete authority to adopt policy and interpret rules which will affect the lives of our children and grandchildren. We want to encourage our children not to discourage them.

Please make your viewpoints known on these issues. You can affect change. Our Rep. on this board: Katherine Raines, State Board of Education, Box 34, Cleburne, 76031, 817-645-3967. Chairman of State Board of Ed.: Mr. Jon Brumley, Southland Royalty Co., 200 InterFirst Tower, Ft. Worth, 76102, 817-390-9207.

Conservation Viewpoints

USDA Soil Conservation Service

"What would happen if the Soil Conservation Service were closed in Haskell County?" This question was asked of Jim Hudson, District Conservationist, SCS Haskell, by R.V. Earles, chairman of the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District.

Hudson stated, "The major impact would be on local farmers and ranchers. The SCS in Haskell is now staffed by three employees, two below its needs. This delays assistance and sometimes completely prevents all producers from receiving the technical help they request."

The SCS is a professional agency of the USDA, charged with the responsibility of providing technical assistance to farmers, ranchers and all land users, in maintaining our soil and water for future use. Starting in the mid 30's SCS began when wind and water erosion across the Great Plains was destroying America. Today there are some 3000 offices across this nation to assist with natural resource problems.

"Conservation dollars have increased in the Haskell SWCS since 1981," said Hudson. "In 1981, $36,801 from the Great Plains program was obligated while 1984 saw the amount grow to $165,509 with a four year total of $538,301. These monies are spent in this county by people that are concerned about not just their future but the future of their sons and daughters that will follow in their footsteps."

"Conservation of our soil is like the maintenance around your home," said Earles. "If you don't take care of it, it will fall apart around you."

During this past year there has been many changes and, hopefully, improvements. We have continued to try to improve our equipment. To this end a new motor grader, copying machine, pick-up truck and police vehicle have been purchased. Also the City's administrative offices were computerized. One hundred sixty acres were purchased for the new landfill site.

One thing I am most proud of is the new automated garbage system that is currently being installed. I really believe after we get it completely installed, the citizens of Haskell will be pleased. I am hoping this project will be completely finished within six weeks.

The Creek Project is finally getting started. As you know, anything involving government funds takes time, but our efforts are paying off. The final construction contract was signed February 14, 3 times greater than the U.S. handgun homicide rate. Maybe Dear Abby left Mexico out of the account because the country is like a huge Morton Grove -- it's illegal for private citizens to have handguns.

For Dear Abby to support gun control she has to assume that gun control reduces guns in circulation which, in turn, reduces crime. The facts clearly don't support Dear Abby's wishes.

One thing we know works. Keeping violent criminals off the street and executing murderers keeps them from preying upon new victims.

Views From City Hall

It will soon be one year since I was appointed City Administrator. At times this has been a difficult job, but overall it has been most gratifying, primarily because of the support I have received from the Mayor and Council and also from the citizens of Haskell. I want to take time to thank each one of you for your efforts and continuing help.

The View From Here

by Janet Wilke

Well, it's all over! They did it again. And, in grand style, I might add. What am I referring to, you ask?

The Haskell Indians triumph as the district champs for the third year in a row.

It is not too often that a team can boast of two back-to-back championships, let alone of a 10-0 district record, or a 22-1 season, whose only loss came to a AAA school.

This will be a season to remember. Not only, perhaps, because of the high scoring games, and the perfect record, but because of the players who made it all happen.

Let's look at who they are. First, there is Shane Hadaway. While he may be the tallest man on the team, this unsuspecting young man, with his calm, quiet demeanor, can grab down a rebound or stuff a basketball into a net with equal ease.

Next, there is Ricky Rojas. Ricky, with his catlike gracefulness, is as lethal with a basketball as a blind man is with a gun. He can cut, dribble, and shoot faster than most of us can read that last sentence.

Who can forget David Adams? Although he was the smallest man on the Indians this year, he may have had the biggest heart of all. If I could give David one thing, it would be a pair of elevator shoes, so he could face, eye-to-eye, the big guys he's spent the entire season cutting down and running over the get them down to his size.

As a senior, Todd Harris played well and showed his natural athletic ability on the team this year.

Robert Ivey, with his size, strength, and endurance has proven to be a tremendous asset to the Haskell varsity. His good attitude, high class, and sportsmanship have earned him respect from both his team and the opponents who he has faced this year.

Although a junior, Sammy Baker earned a spot on the varsity, and has been a steady player during the year. He will be a force in next year's efforts to rebuild the Haskell varsity.

Kelly Strickland, who is also a junior, has exhibited alot of basketball skill the times he has played. While he has seen limited playing time this year, Kelly will be a factor in the Indians success down the road.

Then, there's Tim Johnson. As a junior, Tim has been able to come in and do well. He has a good attitude, and will also be one of the returnees who will help the rebuilding effort next year.

All of these young men are true champions in every sense of the word. They have all faced adversity, and met it head on.

Each of the Indians came into the season, knowing that every team in the district was gunning for their hides, but their spirit, determination, and skills have brought them to where they are now...champions, once again!

They won because they are winners, and winners never quit.

Congratulations to you, Indians, and to your fine coach, Jim Raughton. I know that I speak for all Haskell fans everywhere when I say how very proud we are of you, and we all hope that your success finds you in the State Championship game.

Above-ground dump designed by Texas A&M scientist

COLLEGE STATION — A design for above-ground "landfills" for chemical wastes, which could solve the problem of contaminating underground water, has been developed by a Texas A&M University soil and crop scientist.

"The idea is to take a sloping piece of land and make it as impermeable as possible using compacted clay or plastic. A gravel drain is placed on top of the impermeable area, the solidified waste is then mounted on top of the gravel drain and a cap of clay or plastic and soil is then put in place," said the concept's developer Dr. Kirk Brown.

"The result would be essentially an above-ground burial mound, one that would not allow the chemicals to seep into the groundwater," he added.

Brown said if sometime in the future the cap is breached and the wastes come out, they can be easily detected.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T Communications"), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC") hereby gives notice of its intent to implement a new schedule of rates for its services. The new rates will be effective February 22, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the PUC. All customers and classes of customers would be affected by the proposed rates.

AT&T Communications has filed restructured tariffs designed to more closely recover access and other costs for private line, DATAPHONE® Digital Service, OCC Facilities, WATS and 800 services.

Also proposed is the institution of a charge for directory assistance to begin to recover access costs incurred for such service, and increases in rates for operator assisted AT&T Long Distance calls.

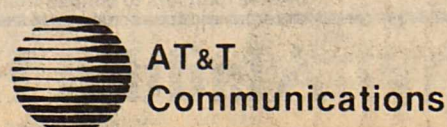

AT&T Communications is proposing to restructure its AT&T Long Distance Service and to reduce its overall revenues from basic long distance approximately $25 million.

While long distance rates will, in most instances, be reduced, certain AT&T Long Distance rates are proposed to be increased to more nearly recover the access charges approved by the PUC for such service.

The proposed new rates for all services would result in an increase in adjusted test period revenues of $123.4 million, or 11.3 percent.

A complete copy of the proposed tariffs are on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Senator

Washington

The United States is in a race to create the new industries of the 21st Century and capture the jobs they will spawn.

New industries grow from inventions and innovations, which are born of research and development.

The research of Thomas Edison, to give only one example, produced the movie camera. From that single invention, a new industry was born that created countless new jobs.

Research and development (R&D) requires financial backing, and it is potentially one of the most lucrative investments a firm can make. But it is also a high risk investment.

That may account for the slow growth of civilian R&D in the U.S. during the 1960s and 1970s. Measured as a percentage of our Gross National Product (GNP), our nation's businesses invested 1.29 percent of GNP in research during 1963, increasing to 1.50 percent in 1970 and 1.59 percent in 1979.

Congress recognized the urgency of encouraging U.S. companies to risk spending more on R&D in 1981 when it approved a tax credit for such investment. By 1983, our civilian R&D investment jumped sharply to 1.75 percent of GNP.

The urgent need for boosting our research efforts arises from a vigorous challenge by West Germany and Japan to our world leadership in technological invention and innovation.

In 1964, West Germany bounded past us by spending 1.38 percent of its GNP on civilian R&D. That lead grew steadily over the next 17 years, to 2.53 percent in 1981, compared with 1.69 percent for the U.S. that year, the most recent year for which comparable figures are available from the two countries. Similarly, Japan spent 2.30 percent of its economic output on civilian R&D in 1981.

Even though such research has increased significantly in the U.S. since 1981, there is no expectation that we have narrowed the gap much, if any, with Germany or Japan.

The Japanese also use their investment more efficiently by encouraging companies, through an array of tax incentives, to pool their research efforts and avoid wasteful duplication, especially in the new frontiers of microelectronics and automation.

The United States has managed to stay ahead of the challenges so far because of our government spending on research and development, primarily in our space and military programs. But as federal budget cuts take effect, we must further encourage civilian R&D investment if we want to remain contenders in the race to the future.

I am concerned that the R&D tax credit is scheduled to expire at the end of this year and have re-introduced legislation to make it permanent, as well as easier for more companies to use.

The United States cannot afford to sit back and let other countries dominate the marketplace of the future, becoming merely a clever imitator of others' inventions. Nor can we afford to lose the jobs those inventions create.

We are in hot competition for the jobs of the future and the economic prosperity they ensure. And we cannot afford to forget that.

Greenhouse Might Be Enjoyable Home Addition

Do your energy bills for this winter send shivers up your spine? Is your house usually cold throughout the winter months? Do you love plants and flowers and miss gardening during the winter? If you have said yes to any of these questions, perhaps you should consider a greenhouse as an addition to your home.

To discover what a greenhouse, or its newer counterpart a sunspace, can do for you, and how to design, build and use one effectively, the U.S.

Department of Energy has published a booklet called Solar Greenhouses and Sunspaces. For your copy send $2.25 to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 176N, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

In the 1800's and early 1900's, many houses were built with solariums, sun porches, conservatories, and hot houses for health purposes, to let in light and heat, and to grow plants. But when central heating became common, these rooms were no longer needed. Greenhouses were used almost exclusively for commercial growing of plants. Now, however, people are again looking for innovative ways to use of the sun to help heat their homes, either with greenhouses as rooms for heating and growing plants or sunspaces as rooms for heating and living space.

Greenhouses and sunspaces can be remarkably effective. However, maximum effectiveness hinges on a well-thought-out master plan. The first design step you should take is to decide what purpose you want the sunspace or greenhouse to serve. Remember that plenty of light is essential; therefore you need to have an area facing south or southwest where the addition can be placed. Don't shortchange your design and don't take anything for granted during the development stages. A little extra money you pay now may save you a lot of money later.

Greenhouses and sunspaces can be built without a great deal of sophisticated knowledge or skill, and they don't have to be expensive. However, it is still an experimental field. The purpose of this booklet is to identify the common mistakes in design, construction, and operation that affect performance, and also to provide useful advice to help consumers avoid these mistakes. For example, in Massachusetts, people had problems with snow covering the glazing of the greenhouse, thus blocking the sun. To prevent this from happening, they increased the slope of the glazed surface so that the snow would slide off without hindering performance.

To help you plan ahead for maximum efficiency, this publication is divided into six major categories: 1) design; 2) construction tips; 3) management, maintenance, and safety; 4) horticulture; 5) greenhouse construction workshops; and 6) information sources. And a readable question and answer format is used to present information on how to improve greenhouses and sunspaces.

To learn more, send $2.25 for your copy of Solar Greenhouses and Sunspaces. At the same time, you will also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration, the Catalog lists more than 200 other free and moderately priced federal booklets on a wide variety of subjects.

With Texas facing tough fiscal times, it is encouraging to look at one government program that works. The Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program is one such program -- a successful combination of cooperation between the public and private sectors that benefits both Texas Veterans and the Texas economy without costing the taxpayer a single penny.

Since the program began just one year ago, the VLB has certified more than 13,400 applications for loans to Texas Veterans. Providing $20,000 to each Veteran to apply toward the purchase of a home, this program has already put $268 million into the Texas economy. As a result, the housing program stimulates the homebuilding industry as well as creating jobs for Texans.

Another aspect of this successful program is the effect our VLB bonds have on the bond market -- our bonds have a AAA rating, which is as good as you can get.

Although the program works so well and contributes so much to the state's economy, we must occasionally renew the bonding authority for the Veterans Housing Assistance Program.

That's why Sen. Lindon Williams (D-Houston) and State Rep. Frank Tejeda (D-San Antonio), the original sponsors of the legislation that created the VHAP, are sponsoring a joint resolution to renew bonding authority to issue an additional $500 million.

This resolution, which follows the recommendations of the Sunset Advisory Commission to provide the additional bonding authority, will call for the question to be placed on the November 1985 ballot. The last time Texans were asked to approve similar bonding authority, 71 percent voted to allow the VLB to have that $500 million in bonding authority to help provide housing for Texas Veterans.

The VHAP has been called the greatest single Veterans benefits program to be enacted by a state since World War II. It enables eligible Texas Veterans to borrow $20,000 at less than 10 percent interest to apply toward the purchase of a home. That rate is currently 9.97 percent. When our current program is combined with a conventional or VA home loan, the Veteran can purchase a home with no down payment.

This program can provide the opportunity for every Texas Veteran to own his or her own home -- especially thousands of Veterans who have been unable to afford it.

Continued funding for this cost-effective program will enable Texas' 1.7 million Veterans to continue to take advantage of this much-needed program, as well as providing a 7-to-1 boost for the housing economy of Texas--without costing Texas taxpayers one cent.

Cotton Classing

Local cotton prices were weak to mostly steady during the week ending February 15th; according to B.B. Manly, Area Director of the U.S.D.A. Cotton Division Classing Office in Abilene. Spot prices were mostly 250 to 300 points over loan values, with most cotton selling at physical prices ranging from 42 to 44 cents per pound. Demand was generally light; but was very light for low mike, high grade, and long staple cotton. Late season trading was inactive to mostly slow. Forward-contracting was inactive. Cottonseed prices paid farmers ranged from 85 to 105 dollars per ton.

About 15,000 cotton samples were classed during the past week, bringing the seasonal total to 251,000. Mr. Manly estimated that about 10,000 additional samples remain to be classed for the 1984-85 season.

Cotton classed in Abilene this season was about 69 percent light-spotted, 28 percent white, and about 2 percent spotted grades. Grade 42 was predominant at 37 percent; followed by grade 52 at 24 percent, grade 51 at 14 percent, and grade 41 at 11 percent. About 38 percent of the samples classed were reduced in grade because of bark or grass content. Staple length averaged 31.9 for the season; with staple 31 the predominant length at 28 percent. Staple 32 comprised 24 percent, staple 30 comprised 13 percent, and staple 34 accounted for 11 percent. Micronaire readings were 69 percent within the 35 to 49 range, and averaged 36.5 for the season. The average strength reading was 24.6.

Next, the students are required to try out in front of the student body on March 19 and 20.

Finally, on March 25, the students will try out in front of judges, who will be evaluating them on appearance, spirit, skill, crowd communication and the general execution of the yells.

COMPUTER MISTAKES
(How to Avoid Them)

There's a right way and a wrong way to computerize your business. Don't make these very common mistakes:

1. Delegating the buying decision, buying what a friend or business acquaintance has without further investigation, buying a computer before you know exactly what you want it to do. The first step in buying a computer is deciding the tasks you want it to perform. Look for software that will do these tasks, then find hardware to run that software. Get involved in the decision making process yourself, even if you hire a consultant. It's your business and you need to be involved. Don't be overly influenced by someone else's recommendation. What works for another's business may well be totally inadequate for yours. Investigate what's available, and go see the most promising computers in operation on the job site.
2. Buying too little capacity. Project your computer needs for several years and buy a computer that will grow with your business.
3. Failing to involve the entire staff. You'll eliminate a lot of fear of the computer and have a staff more willing to learn and maximize the computer if you involve everyone right from the start.
4. Expecting too much too soon. Learn exactly what the computer can do and be willing to invest the time to learn how to use it.
5. Thinking you will program the computer yourself or make changes in the program you buy. Unless you're a computer programmer by profession, thinking you can write complicated programs or make changes in purchased software is an invitation to disaster.
6. Believing everything the salesman tells you. Be especially wary when you're told that a feature you consider indispensable is in the development stage but will be available soon. It probably isn't and it probably won't be, and you'll end up with equipment that won't do what you thought it would.
7. Paying prematurely. Don't write your check before you have your equipment and are satisfied with the performance.

Area Sales Tax Receipts Mixed

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday sent checks totaling $111.8 million in local tax payments to the 991 cities that levy the one-percent local sales tax.

"Disappointing Christmas retail sales during the 1984 Christmas season held February payments to a puny 6 percent increase over last February," Bullock said. "And even this little increase is due as much to new items being taxed for the first time as it is to any real sales growth."

City payments compared to last February's checks and total 1985 to-date payments compared with 1984 to-date totals include Houston, $19 million, down 1 percent from last February, up less than a percent from 1984 totals; Dallas, $13.5 million, up 7 percent for the month, up 12 percent for the year; San Antonio, $6.8 million, up 3 percent for the month, up 8 percent for the year; Austin, $5 million, up 22 percent for the month, up 26 percent for the year; Fort Worth, $3.9 million, up 5 percent for the month, up 7 percent for the year; El Paso, $2.4 million, up 9 percent for the month, up 12 percent for the year.

Bullock also sent checks totaling $45.5 million to the state's four Metropolitan Transit Authorities. Houston's MTA received $21.9 million for a 1985 total of $31.9 million. Dallas' DART check for $18.6 million brought payments this year to $27.3 million. San Antonio's VIA received $3.9 million for a 1985 total of $5.5 million and the Fort Worth Transit Authority's payment of $921,697 brought its 1985 total to $1.3 million.

February checks represent taxes collected on sales made in December and the fourth quarter and reported to the Comptroller by January 20.

Ray Farabee To Be Governor For-A-Day

Senator Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls has announced that May 4th has been set as the date for the traditional "Governor-for-a-Day" celebration in Austin, at which he will be sworn in as the acting Governor of Texas.

"The celebration is an occasion for the President Pro Tempore's constituents to come and celebrate "their day" in Austin. We will hold the swearing-in ceremony in the Senate Chamber and have a barbecue on the Capitol grounds. This will be a good time for all those living in the 30th District to come to Austin and enjoy the District's elevated status for a day," Farabee explained.

Each session the Senate chooses a member to serve as Senate President Pro Tempore. That member is third in line to govern the state, following the Governor and Lieutenant Governor. The President Pro Tempore traditionally serves one day as Governor while the Governor and Lieutenant Governor leave the state. Farabee was elected to the Pro Tempore position January 8, 1985, at the beginning of the 69th Legislative session.

"More specific plans will be announced in about a month. In the meantime, I hope that everyone in the 30th District will keep May 4th open on their calendars," Farabee concluded.

Haskell Is Site For Playoff Games

Haskell seems to be the mecca for area basketball fans, as they crowd here to watch some of the region's teams in post district basketball action.

Last Tuesday, the Throckmorton and Aspermont girls teams were in action, on the bi-district level here, with the Lady Hornets of Aspermont winning. Tuesday night, the Seymour and Baird girls played in the Haskell gym for the area playoff.

This Thursday (tonight) the Throckmorton boys will meet the Aspermont boys in the bi-district game for districts 25A and 26A.

Game time tonight is 7:30 p.m.

Safari Club Donation To Be Used In Deer-Hunting Dog Research

A $4,500 donation by the Houston Safari Club (HSC) to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will be used in a research study on the effects of hunting deer with dogs in East Texas.

Ted Clark, director of the department's Wildlife Division, said the radio telemetry study is in its second and final year. "We will again be using radio transmitters on both dogs and deer during the fall 1985 hunting season in an attempt to learn more about all aspects of hunting deer with dogs," Clark said.

The HSC money will primarily pay for helicopter time for tracking the movements of deer and dogs during actual hunts, Clark said. He added that some of the funds also will support a deer trapping program in late summer to obtain animals to be fitted with transmitters.

The donation represents the second major grant from the HSC to the department in recent months. Last week HSC officials presented a check for $10,000 to the Parks and Wildlife Commission, with the money dedicated to the department's Operation Game Thief program for reporting game law violators.

The department's study on hunting deer with dogs resulted from complaints by some landowners and hunters in East Texas about the practice. "Several other southern states have conducted studies on this, but data on the biological aspects of the sport still are lacking," Clark said. "The results of the study will provide information to the commission for decisions on whether to allow dog hunting to continue in the future." Chasing deer with dogs during the hunting season is permitted in 10 East Texas counties.

32 Area Students Entered In Houston Livestock Show

Some thirty-two entrants from Haskell County will be entered in the Houston Livestock Show, which will be held Feb. 16 through March 3.

Those showing from Haskell County will include 11 Rochester entries, 11 from Rule, 9 from Haskell, and 1 from Weinert.

Showing livestock in the show from Haskell will be: Patrick Burson, Doug Davis, Jerry Davis, Mickey Dunnam, Wayne Geilhausen, Kirk High, Val King, Patrick Perez, and Louie Torres.

From the Rochester FFA chapter, these persons will be showing their entries: Howell Adkins, Chad Ballard, David McNelly, Larry Reid, Michelle Scoggins, Richard Shaver, Lance Sloan, Scott Sloan, Jody Sprayberry, James Wyatt, and John Mark Wyatt.

From Rule, exhibitors will be: Brandon Bowles, Michelle Bowles, Allen Kutch, Lori Landes, Traci Landes, Kevin Mathis, Mandy Mathis, Micheal Mathis, Chad May, Jim Pitcock, and Wade Welborn.

From Weinert, Mandy Mayfield will be the only exhibitor.

The Houston show is considered the world's largest livestock show, and holds competition on two levels: for professional breeders and ranchers, and for FFA and 4-H members, representing the 788 clubs from throughout Texas.

Premium monies available from the show top more than half a million dollars in prize money and in premium auction prices paid in excess of market value.

Junior livestock competition includes beef heifers, dairy cattle, breeding sheep, goats, commercial steers, breeding rabbits, market lambs, poultry, swine and steers. For the second year, there will be carcass contest for the market lamb, swine and steer shows.

Beginning with the 1985 Show, all junior market turkeys must be purchased from Texas A&M University as poults from the same hatch. Weight limits are then eliminated in the market turkey show due to the standardization and control this rule imposes on potential entries.

The Show this year will be the site of the Texas Beef-Cook-Off, a contest to determine the Texas representative to the National Beef Cook-Off. Sponsored by the Texas Cowbelles, it will be held in the Astrohall on Monday, Feb. 18 and Tuesday, Feb. 19. Five Texas finalists will prepare their beef recipes for judging.

Once again, in the market lamb, barrow and steer shows, the three-judge system will be used. This system helps insure selection of an animal based on production, feeding and carcass merit.

Junior market barrows will again be sifted at the Washington County Fairgrounds in Brenham on Feb. 23-24. Sifted barrows are then loaded directly for sale through normal livestock auction consignment.

Non-sifted barrows proceed to Houston and the livestock show competition.

In addition to its position as the world's largest livestock show, the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo is also the largest donor of agricultural scholarships in the nation. A total charity benefiting youth and education, the Show currently has 885 students on scholarships and annually commits $1.9 million to its regular scholarship program.

Also, research project money and scholarship endowment funds are given by the Show to colleges and universities throughout Texas.

Saturday matinee performances begin at 11 a.m.; Sunday matinee performances begin at 1 p.m. and all evening performances begin at 7:45 p.m. Ticket prices are $4 and $8.50 and include admission to the livestock show.

The livestock show opens on Feb. 16, the first rodeo performance is scheduled for Feb. 20 and all events conclude on March 3.

Entertainers for the 1985 Show are: Billy Ocean, Wednesday, Feb. 20; The Judds, Thursday, Feb. 21; George Strait, Friday, Feb. 22; Ronnie Milsap, Saturday matinee, Feb. 23; Charley Pride, Saturday evening, Feb. 23; Exile, Sunday matinee, Feb. 24; Janie Fricke, Sunday evening, Feb. 24; Willie Nelson, Monday, Feb. 25; Ricky Skaggs, Tuesday, Feb. 26; Jose Luis Rodriguez, "El Puma," Wednesday, Feb. 27; Conway Twitty, Thursday, Feb. 28; David Frizzell and Shelly West, Friday, March 1; Lee Greenwood; Saturday matinee, March 2; Larry Gatlin and The Gatlin Brothers Band, Saturday evening, March 2, and the Oak Ridge Boys, Sunday matinee and evening performances; March 3.

Science Students Sprout "Green Thumbs" With Projects

By Tina Lacey
The students in Mrs. Lena Armstrong's 7th, 8th and 9th grade Science Class have sprouted "green thumbs."

To fulfill requirements for an experimentation unit, students brought seeds and cuttings to grow for a science project. Some seeds that are being grown are black-eye peas, onions, green beans, apple, red beans, avocados, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, and tomatoes.

Cuttings include ivys, moss roses, and a tree branch.

The responsibilities of the students are to water and care for their plants.

"Experimentation is one requirement of the class but the students have enjoyed planting and watching the plants grow," Mrs. Armstrong, teacher, said.

"Beans, Irish potatoes, and sweet potatoes were the plants that grew the best while the avocados didn't grow that well," she said.

The students learned how long the plants took to germinate and how long they took to grow (which was two weeks). Then they noted the progression each day the plants were making each day.

"One unusual occurrence of the "green thumbs" happened when a student brought a tree branch to stake his plant, and the branch started sprouting and growing!" Mrs. Armstrong explained.

Keith Swaner, who attends Eula school was nominated for this National Award by Mrs. Rene Massie, mathematics teacher at the Eula School.

Keith's picture and biography will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship and attitude.

Keith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Swaner of Abilene, and the grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L.J. Adams of Weinert and Mr. Ed Swaner of Arlington.

Yeary Has New Post At Hendricks

JOHN YEARY

Two new department directors have begun their responsibilities at Hendrick Medical Center, announced Michael C. Waters, HMC president.

John Yeary, a 1982 graduate of Hardin-Simmons University, is now director of planning and organizational development. His duties include coordinating Certificate of Need activities and long range planning to provide guidance in facilitating HMC's long range plan.

Prior to this appointment, Yeary was an administrative resident at Hendrick, completing his master's degree in hospital administration from Trinity University, San Antonio.

He is a native West Texas, born and raised in Haskell. His wife, Tena, is also an H-SU graduate and is an accountant in HMC's department of financial services.

Stan Marett comes to Hendrick from Hillcrest Baptist Medical Center, Waco, to serve as director of information systems. He will coordinate medical center needs with appropriate and cost effective computer solutions.

At Hillcrest, he was manager of the data processing department. He has been a part-time computer instructor at McLennan Community College, Waco, and has also worked for the University of Texas Health Science Center, Tyler.

Though born in Hawaii, Marett was educated in Texas, receiving his undergraduate degree and masters degree in computer science from Texas A&M University. He and his wife Susan, an Abilene Christian University graduate, have three children.

Air Force Needs Experienced Service People

The Air Force has an urgent need for nearly 900 Air Force prior service people with experience in tactical aircraft maintenance, according to Staff Sgt. William O. Worthington, Air Force recruiter at 4036 Kemp, Suite A. The job includes in Wichita Falls inspecting, repairing, and maintaining tactical aircraft and tactical aircraft equipment.

"Former aircraft mechanics who have been out of the Air Force less than five years are eligible to apply," said Sgt. Worthington. "They will get their rank back if they have less than a four-year break in service and a cash bonus to boot."

Also needed are former Air Force people with experience in air traffic control, aircraft systems, aircraft weapons, munitions maintenance, avionics and ground communications to name a few.

People who want to find out if they are eligible to enlist during this special recruiting drive should contact Sgt. Worthington at (817) 691-6234.

Public Utility Commission of Texas

Consumer Update

The Public Utility Commission reminds Texans that federal law provides for tax credits for eligible home energy conservation improvements. These credits are scheduled to expire at the end of this year unless Congress acts to extend them. So, if you have been considering improvements to your home as a way of gaining control of your utility bills, this is the year to complete the job.

Under current law, homeowners may claim 15 percent of the first $2,000 spent on improving the energy efficiency of existing homes, with a maximum credit of $300. New homes are not eligible for the credits. The law applies only to improvements on homes built prior to April 20, 1977.

Though you may own or rent the residence, improvements must be to the taxpayer's "principal residence" (a rent house or vacation cottage would not qualify).

Energy conservation improvements that qualify for tax credits include insulation, storm doors and storm windows, caulking, weatherstripping, and certain devices such as automatic set-backs on thermostats, meters for measuring energy consumption, and furnace ignition systems that replace pilot lights.

Items that do not qualify for the tax credits include siding for the outside of the home, heat pumps, wood-burning stoves, and ceiling fans.

To qualify for the tax credits, energy-conserving items must be new; they must be expected to last at least three years; and they must meet certain performance and quality standards set by the federal government.

Tax credits also are available for expenditures for certain renewable energy devices -- solar, wind-powered, or geothermal -- that are installed on the taxpayer's principal residence. You may claim 40 percent of the first $10,000 spent on such devices. The full $10,000 in expenditures may be spread out over several years, but to qualify for the 1984 tax returns, the work must have been completed during 1984.

Improvements which qualify under this section of the law include:

- solar equipment for heating and cooling the home or for providing hot water or electricity for use within the home;

- wind energy equipment for generating electricity for use within the home; and

- geothermal energy equipment.

Qualifying expenditures include labor costs, installation, and equipment, but do not include structural components of the dwelling. You may claim the credit more than one year if you expand an existing system or purchase more than one system, but the maximum cumulative credit is $400 on any one residence.

To qualify for the tax credits, the equipment must be new, and must be expected to remain in operation for at least five years.

If you have been planning to make energy conservation improvements to your home and you want to take advantage of the tax credits, you should arrange to have the work completed by December 31, 1985.

Protect Your Family From Deadly Carbon Monoxide

Because you can't see it, taste it or smell it, carbon monoxide has earned the name, "the silent killer."

"Carbon monoxide is not a product of automobile exhaust alone. Whenever any fuel is burned, carbon monoxide is usually one of the by-products. If it escapes into the rooms of your home, the air you breathe can kill you," says Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

"As you breathe, oxygen in the air combines with your blood and is carried to all parts of your body. Because carbon monoxide combines with your blood 200 times more readily than oxygen, a relatively small amount can displace the life-giving oxygen you need," emphasizes Nelson.

As carbon monoxide crowds out the oxygen, weakness, dizziness and confusion will result, notes the engineer. Further oxygen starvation will ultimately result in death.

Nelson offers these tips for protecting your family from deadly carbon monoxide:

- Have your heating systems (furnace, space heater, water heater and fireplace) checked annually to make sure they are operating efficiently and that vents, pipes, flues and chimneys are tight. Never alter or tamper with a heating device.

- Since heating devices, especially central furnaces, require a lot of air for proper operation, make certain they are not starved for air. Check with your heating contractor or fuel supplier to be sure.

- Don't close your fireplace damper until you are certain the fire is out.

- Make certain your attached garage is well sealed-off from the rest of the house. Never run your car engine in a closed garage.

- No heating device, designed for venting, should be used until it has been properly vented to the outside.

- Use only heating devices that bear the label of a nationally-recognized testing laboratory. Follow the manufacturer's recommendations concerning their installation and use.

- When changing from one type of fuel to another, have all appliances involved adjusted by a qualified serviceman.

- Use charcoal grills and hibachis only in well ventilated areas.

- Remember that any time a fuel-consuming device is used in an enclosed area, it is using up oxygen and may be producing carbon monoxide," says Nelson.

- Although you can't smell carbon monoxide, you can often smell the smoke and other products associated with it. Use your nose as a detection device.

Track down and correct all unexplained sources of smoke or other smells of heat," he adds.

Farm Debt Is On The Increase

Farm debt is like a heavy weight on the shoulders of many farmers today and has been the cause of increased farm liquidations, farm bankruptcies and agricultural loan delinquencies the past few years.

"Eighteen percent of the nation's farmers and ranchers have debt-asset ratios of more than 40 percent," notes Dr. Forrest Stegelin, an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System. "The most integrated farming operations have the highest ratios, but they are accepted as normal operating procedures for their businesses and are not typically part of the farm debt problem."

Thirty percent of the farms with annual sales exceeding $100,000 have debt-asset ratios of more than 40 percent. Farms with less than $40,000 in annual sales usually have a greater off-farm income. Therefore, these operators are not as vulnerable to high farm debts as the larger commercial farms, adds Stegelin.

The Great Lakes, Corn Belt and Northern Plains states have the highest concentration of debt-asset ratios greater than 40 percent. The Southern Plains, including Texas, is below the national average, says the economist.

Weak asset values for farmland and farm machinery have not curtailed the problem. Farmers with high debt-asset ratios own 15 to 20 percent of these assets. So, more liquidations and farm debt should be expected in 1985, explains Stegelin.

Debt restructuring steps are being taken since farmers are neither borrowing nor buying like they were a decade ago, he says.

Why do the same size families with the same size homes have different size electric bills?

Simple, It's The Power of Choice.

It's happened to almost everyone. You compare electricity bills with your neighbor; and, even though you lead similar life styles, your neighbor's bill is lower.

The difference can be in how well you buy electricity. That's right, buy. Every time you flip a switch, you make a choice to buy a little electricity, little choices that add up to your bill.

Today, electricity gives you choices that help you get more value out of your energy purchase.

The New Appliance Choice.

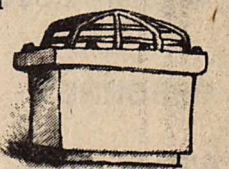

Suppose you were choosing between two refrigerators same size, same features. The less expensive choice saves once. But the more efficient choice saves year after year. When choosing a new appliance, choose an appliance with a higher Energy Efficiency Rating (EER). This will help to save you money on your energy bill.

The Heating and Cooling Choice.

Because heating and cooling are your biggest energy-consuming functions, a smart electric choice can really pay off here. A heat pump efficiently cools in summer, then reverses, and heats all winter — both at a total cost that can provide substantial savings. Check out whether a heat pump is suitable in your situation.

No matter where you live, there's always an electric choice that will help you get more value out of your energy purchase. For more information on how you can use electricity wisely, call your local WTU office today.

Stenholm Backs Bill For Reduction Of National Debt

Concerned about the growing deficit and its effect on the future of America, Congressman Charles Stenholm is co-sponsoring a resolution calling for the urgent reduction of the national debt.

The resolution, introduced by Congressman Jim Moody (D-Wisconsin), urges Congress to take appropriate action to curb the deficit. The concurrent resolution states that, according to reports by the Congressional Budget Office and the U.S. Bureau of the Census, today's children and grandchildren will have to pay approximately $3,000 per family each year in extra taxes to meet the interest of the national debt.

Other figures in the reports show that a young person about to enter the labor force will have to pay, over his or her lifetime, $10,000 in extra taxes to cover the interest on this year's budget deficit alone.

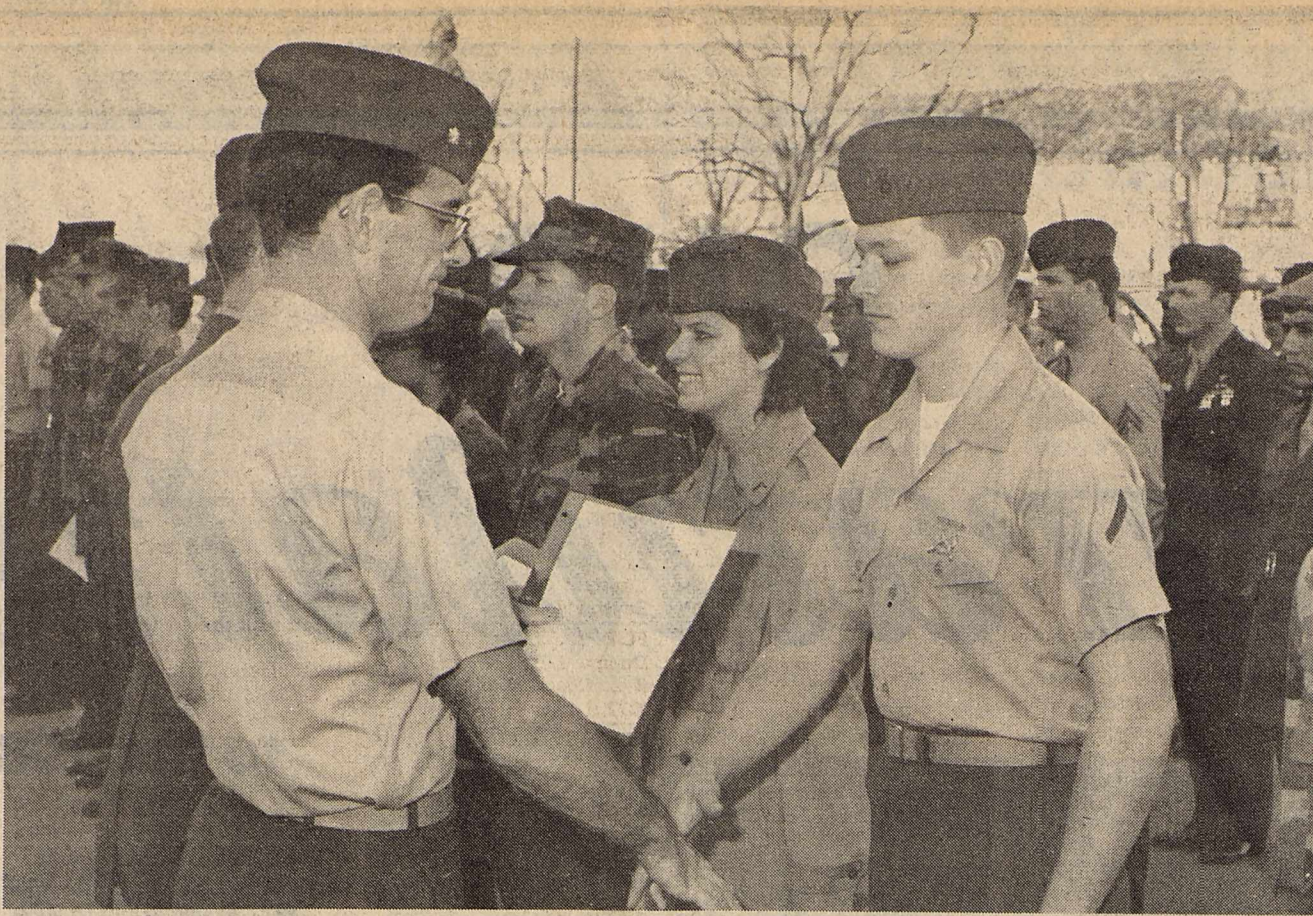

"Economic projections like these bear the fact that we can no longer simply ignore the national deficit," said the Stamford Democrat. "As I've said time and time again, our children and grandchildren will pay dearly tomorrow, if we don't do something to correct this today."

This resolution is concurrent, which is not legally binding, but expresses the sentiment of both houses. It points out that unless the deficit is arrested, the next generation of Americans may never match or exceed the standard of living achieved by their parents and grandparents; and this debt may cause high interest rates, which discourage private investment, restrict job opportunities for young people and result in prices higher than many young people can afford.

Also introduced in the Senate, the resolution dictates that the government should do four things. First, the federal government should manage the affairs of the nation in a more beneficial manner. Second, the deficit should be reduced in order to ease the long-term economic burden placed on future taxpayers. Third, the manner in which the budget is reduced should be fair to Americans of all ages. Finally, the president should report to Congress, no later than 180 days after the resolution's passage, a report concerning the effects of today's taxation and spending policies on the different age groups.

Congressman Stenholm said the report, which substantiates the need to reduce the deficit, also brought out some other startling statistics. The study revealed that during the past 15 years, the dream of owning a home has been fading for millions of young people. Since 1975, the cost of home ownership, adjusted for inflation, has more than doubled. Even five years before that, in 1970, families with incomes of 26 percent below the national median could afford to buy an average home. By 1983, only families with incomes of 29 percent above the median could afford one. Also during this time frame, the poverty rate among children and young people rose at an incredible rate. It is now rising faster than the poverty rate for any other group, having grown by almost 50 percent in the last five years.

NOTES FROM AGENT BRIAN BURGESS

If you want to get back the buck you've been passing to Uncle Sam, there is no reason on earth, except poverty, not to have an IRA. Your entire contribution is deductible from your gross income. If you contribute $2,000, you save $1,000 in taxes, if you're in the 50% bracket, $800 in the 40% bracket, $600 in the 30% bracket and so on.

The usual objection, "what if I have to get to my money?"—suggests you have poor savings habits. Every person needs a balanced program of liquid assets for emergencies and non-liquid long term savings for retirement that you don't touch no matter what. Your IRA falls into this second category.

Can't afford to contribute $2,000 to your IRA? With State Farm you can contribute monthly by bankdraft as little as $20 or as much as $166.67. The most important step in any financial plan is to start! Haven't you wasted enough time and paid Uncle Sam enough money? Come see me right away and start letting Uncle Sam pay you.
