HASKELL COUNTY PRESENTATION

Shown are the Haskell County representatives for the Texas Sesquicentennial committee, as they receive a flag from the Austin sesquicentennial commission representative Lee Storey, Tuesday. From left are Mrs. Sharon Mullino, of Rochester (assistant to Mrs. Analou Shaver), Mrs. Orheana Greeson, of Rule, Mrs. Jerrene Couch, county chairperson, Lee Storey of Austin, and County Judge B.O. Roberson.

Sesquicentennial Flag Presented To County

BY JANET WILKE

It was history in the making as a good number of spectators, county officials, and a sanctioning committee from Austin were on hand to present Mrs. Jerrene Couch, county sesquicentennial chairperson, with Haskell County's sesquicentennial flag.

As guest arrived, the 60 member Haskell High School band played music, and then County Judge B.O. Roberson welcomed all who came out and braved the cold to attend the ceremonies.

Rev. Phil Harris, the president of the Haskell Ministerial Alliance gave the invocation, and Jerrene Couch listed the many celebrations which were set to take place honoring the 150th birthday of Texas, in 1986, and recognized her assistants.

She then welcomed Lee Storey, a representative from the State Sesquicentennial office in Austin.

Storey praise Mrs. Couch and the entire committee for all of the efforts they had gone to in planning the county's celebrations.

He also praised the county for such a "moving sanctioning ceremony."

"I have been to many sanctioning ceremonies, but this is the most moving. The community involvement which we have seen from Haskell county has been the best of anywhere I have been," Storey remarked.

He also said that tourism in the State, in 1984, brought in over $14 billion, and the state was visited by 37 million travelers.

"Your efforts will help to boast the tourism in Texas," Storey said.

When talking about the 200th anniversary of Texas Independence, in 2036, Storey, who took great pride in ribbing Judge B.O. Roberson during the ceremony, said, "I'll be 84 in 2036...how old will you be, Judge?" At that remark Judge Roberson said, "41".

As the sesquicentennial flag was raised on the flag pole at the southwest corner of the Courthouse lawn, the Haskell Indian band played "The Yellow Rose of Texas", capturing a moment of Texas history in the making.

The meal on Saturday will be catered by Betty Lacey. Bettye McBroom of the Hayloft will present a seminar to the women present on colors, and how to choose the right one for them. This will be held in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church.

Lions Cabinet Meeting Set Here Saturday

This Saturday, approximately 100-120 members of the District 2E-1 Lion's Clubs will be convening on Haskell for their third annual Cabinet meeting.

President Ed Harris will serve as host for the event, which will be held in the Haskell National Bank Community Room from 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Among the dignitaries to be present at the meeting will include District Gov. Tim Cassles of Gerald Mann is a fellow who obviously understands politicians. The best part is that he frequently has an opportunity to use his understanding for the benefit of the people of Texas.

Gerald Mann is a Baptist preacher at Riverbend Baptist Church in Austin and also serves as Chaplain of the Texas House of Representatives.

It's not often that you find preachers and politicians in the same room and when you do more often than not, the politicians are doing most of the talking. After all, everyone knows that politicians are the only folks who talk more and say less than preachers.

Gerald Mann is the exception to that rule and like the well advertised brokerage house, when Gerald Mann talks, the Texas House of Representatives listens.

During the first thirty days of the 69th Legislative Session, Gerald Mann gave the opening invocation on seven days.

Reprinted below are several of the prayers which he has given this year.

Second Day, Wednesday January 9, 1985: Our Father, there was never a legislature that needed prayer more than this one. So God bless this house, and God bless Texas. Amen.

Third Day, Monday, January 14, 1985: Our Father, You turned clear water into red wine. We ask for the wisdom to turn red ink into green money. Amen.

Sixteenth day, Tuesday, February 5, 1985: Our Father, Remind us that the best way to persuade each other is with our ears--by listening. Amen.

Twenty-third day, Monday, February 18, 1985: Our Father, help these who make the laws today, remember us who will have to live by them tomorrow. Amen.

Ninth day, Wednesday, January 23, 1985: Our Father, Remind us that any government which robs Peter to pay Paul usually peters out. Amen.

Now, if only we could get Gerald Mann in to see Mark White.

Haskell's City Council met March 12 in regular session with all council members present.

Councilmen awarded the airport renovation bid to the Stephens-Martin Paving Company, in the amount of $105,553.50. This bid approval was subject to the previous approval of the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

Rick Vaughn of the Lone Star Gas Company from Fort Worth, and Roy Washburn of the local LSG office were on hand for the third time to try to persuade the council to go along with a 1.69% rate increase.

After an hour and a half discussion on the subject, the Council decided to award the increase, as set out in an ordinance drawn up by the gas company, at the City's request.

The ordinance stated that the general service rate for residential and commercial customers would be fixed, and that the council would have a chance on a year to year basis to look at that increase and rate structure, and to consider either rejecting or approving any rate hike asked for in future years.

Lone Star Gas had originally asked for a 2.01% increase in the total revenue generated, but the Council twice turned down this request.

Councilmen were concerned that LSG was requesting an increase, but was not willing to offer their services to some of the potential users in town whose homes exceeded the 100 foot pipeline limit, set by Lone Star Gas. For those residents whose homes exceeded the 100 foot pipeline limit set by the gas company, there would be a charge of $5.40 per foot after the first 100 feet, which the gas company would

School Board Okays Resolution At Meeting

Members of the Board of Trustees of Haskell Independent School District approved a resolution Tuesday night in regular session authorizing president David Davis and secretary Mike Guess to enter into a contract with Superintendent James Lanier and wife, Judy, for the purchase of the Lanier's home.

The contract is contingent on two items, Lanier ceasing his employment with Haskell ISD and moving from Haskell and being unable to sell the home prior to June 30, 1985.

The contract apparently resulted from the compromise agreement reached in executive session during the Feb. 7 meeting of the board when Lanier canceled his request for a public hearing after his contract was not renewed. The resolution and contract call for Lanier to attempt to sell the house and in the event it can not be sold prior to June 30, the board will pay the sum of $55,000.00 for the house. The purchase is contingent upon Lanier moving from Haskell. If Lanier finds another job in Haskell and does not move, the board is not bound to purchase the house or if Lanier does not move prior to June 30, the board is not obligated to purchase the house.

In other action, board members rehired all teachers. Sec. Mike Guess read a letter from W.L. "Blue" Holt during the discussion on rehiring teachers. In the letter, Holt requested reassignment. The request was approved.

Board members also approved the hiring of Martin Young as bus maintenance man and approved report of the textbook committee and the report of the district learner goals.

Thursday, May 23 was scheduled as a make-up day for a day missed for bad weather. Teacher workday was rescheduled for May 24.

City Council Okays Request By Lone Star Gas Co.

Councilmen cited at least four cases in which LSG would have customers if they could change their 100 foot limit. They also made it clear that they felt that the gas company would have the increased revenue if they would make an effort to serve all of the customers.

Lone Star, however, explained that their service was just one of many alternatives that the customer could use, citing electric service or butane as the other options.

In the final stage of the discussion the council decided to grant the proposed rate increase of 1.69%, on a motion made by Kenny Watson, seconded by Jerry Stocks, and approved unanimously.

Following a twenty minute closed session to discuss personal, the Council came back and agreed that City manager Robert Baker should have a salary raise. Baker has been with the City for about one year, and was due a raise after the first six months, if his job performance met with the Council's approval.

Council members also voted to

Exterior Home Repair & Maintenance Is Program Topic

On Tuesday, March 5, the Weinert Home Extension Club met in the home of Mrs. W.B. Guess for its program on "Exterior House Repair and Maintenance".

Faye Jetton and Cordie Cunningham presented the informative program and told how to do roof inspection and gave a check list of roofing material and what to look for repair needs in each.

They demonstrated how to clean chimneys, and stressed the importance of checking for cracks and deterioration in the flue lining and chimney structure. Frequently used chimneys should be cleaned most often.

They discussed the types of paint to use and compared the durability of alkyd, latex, acrylic and oil base paint. Lengthy drying time of oil base paint, with strong orders and messy clean-up puts it on the bottom of the list. The synthetic-resin of alkyd makes for the same properties, with more hiding power, better leveling and more rapid drying than oil base. They provided each member with handout material, and members are happy to share them with anyone who is interested.

Mrs. Guess shared a printed article about "My Husband Cooks", and Betty Sanders gave the invocation.

In the business meeting and in keeping with The Extension Club's plans to participate in the Sesquicentennial of Texas Celebration, each member was given the name of an Indian tribe that once populated our state, with instructions that a brief history of that tribe be given as the club meets in that persons home. Next meeting will be in the home of Faye Jetton as the members learn more about "nutrition".

Plans for council on March 13 were discussed, and Mrs. Cunningham gave a report on the February Council. She announced the Log Cabin quilt in calico shades of blue, is quilted and ready to show.

The Tri-County Rally day will be hosted at the Bank's Community Room on March 28, and each member is to bring a dish of food, and each club will furnish five nice door prizes. Other counties are Knox and Baylor.

Members were reminded that the Bloodmobile will be in Haskell on March 27, from 10:30 to 2 p.m. Kim Crawford is chairman and will need help.

Mrs. Guess served lovely, delicious banana-splits to nine members and one guest. Roll call was answered with "The last time I did outside repair on my home."

Girl Scout Week, March 10-15 is the week that Girl Scouts have over the nation celebrate their founding in 1912. This year marks the 73rd year of Girl Scouting in the U.S.

The week begins with Girl Scout Sunday, March 10. Many troops in West Texas and across the country attend church together in uniform.

From then till now Girl Scouting has been going strong and spreading across the entire world.

Girl Scouts of today are not tied to the past. They have their history and their traditions, but they are reaching out to the future through career exploration, environmental protection, Wider Opportunities, value development, and contributions to society.

The West Texas Girl Scout Council is a participating United Way agency.

Questions Are Useful In Child's Learning New Cookbook Available

Questions are useful things. They are how we remind our child of what we assume he hasn't done: "Have you hung your coat up?" "Have you fed the cat?"

Questions are how we tell our child we hope he feels, how we hope he behaves: "Did you have a nice day at school today?" "Were you a good girl?"

And sometimes when we ask "how many?" "what color?" "why this?" "who that?" the questions are how we test to see if our child knows the "right" answer, the answer we already know.

And yet questions like these, useful as they are to remind, sway, and test, are also traps, reminds Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter. Because no, the child hasn't hung up his coat, and he isn't sure what color the ribbon is. He's wrong or in the wrong. Caught again.

There is a knack, and it can be learned, to asking questions that don't trap or make a child feel pushed or dumb or bad, but instead invite confidence, indicate interest, become conversation. The knack is in asking, honestly, for answers you don't know beforehand.

"What do you think happens," you ask, "when evergreen has bought all the milk in the store and there isn't any left?"

"The man in the store makes more," your child might reply.

"I've never seen him make milk, have you?"

"I saw Mrs. Pickford make milk."

No wrong answers here, because the mother couldn't know what her child thought or saw until he said it. She is learning that he has ideas about where milk comes from.

Maybe Mrs. Pickford was making powdered milk. Maybe she was mixing infant formula from a can. Maybe she was even nursing her baby. The mother will find out by asking more.

The child will find out that people can discuss things, and figure them out together. Perhaps his mother will take him to a farm zoo to see a cow. Or show him a mother cat feeding her kittens.

A child can't give you a "wrong" answer to questions like these. He can only tell you what he thinks. When you understand what he things, you can help him understand more. And that, after all, is a more useful question.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month by month from birth to six years old. For more information and a free sample newsletter, please write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

By Janet Wilke

There is a new cookbook out offered in town, with menus in it which should just about satisfy any Texas appetite.

"Calf Fries to Caviar" is the title of the new cookbook, and it was written by two rather enterprising women. Janet Franklin of Tahoka, and Sue Vaughn, of Lamesa, were two homemakers who were busily sending their kids off to college, and having to pay for long distance phone calls, until they found a way to rid themselves of at least one of their problems. They decided to defray the costs of the long distance bills by writing a cookbook.

Mrs. Franklin admits now, that this project was only supposed to have taken two months, but, instead, consumed two years of time.

Most of the recipes in the book have been passed down, and around, by relatives, friends, and acquaintances who were good cooks, said Mrs. Franklin.

The book has been out for the past one and a half years, and they have sold some 16,000 copies out of five distributors nationwide.

Here in Haskell, it is being offered at Under the Rainbow where it sells for $11.95.

Some of the mouthwatering delicacies include six varieties of chili, three cheese ball recipes, an entire section devoted to Tex-Mex cooking, and a large section on sweets.

The book contains 280 pages of recipes, which is laid out in easy to understand terms, which can be made "with what you already have in your kitchen", Mrs. Franklin promises.

Aspirin With Caffeine More Effective

by the American Chemical Society

For over 20 years, drug companies have been adding caffeine to some over-the-counter pain relievers, but many scientists believed that aspirin alone did just as good a job of killing pain. However, researchers at Rockland Research Institute, Orangeburg, N.Y., have found that caffeine increases the pain relief effectiveness of analgesics by an average of 40 per cent.

Dr. Eugene M. Laska, a pharmaceutical chemist, analyzed the results of 30 clinical studies, involving more than 10,000 patients, that had been conducted over the last 20 years. Not only was he able to show that adding 65 milligrams of caffeine to each aspirin tablet increased pain relief, but also improved patients' mood. "For many, this could be of considerable clinical importance," he said.

Fifth Graders Raise Money For Heart Assn.

Haskell's fifth graders collected some $1828.68 for the American Heart Association in their recent Jump Rope For Heart event, held in the school.

Some 28 fifth graders jumped rope for 30 minutes each day for four days and then one hour a day for one day to meet the requirements of the contest.

Winning jump ropes for collecting up to $24.00 were Teresa Arrigo, Terry Williams, Christina Gonzales, Brian Cook, Chad Roberts Johnny Rodriguez, Tony Coleman, and Patrick Weeakes.

For collecting $25-$49.99 the following students received a jump rope and a T-shirt: Emily SoRelle, Cody Stocks, Shannon Langford, David Hargrove, April Isbell, and Kim Gilly.

For collecting $99.99 these students earned for themselves a jump rope, T-shirt, cap, or visor:

Jeffrey Brister, Deepa Patel, Lee Decker, Craig Neal, Eric Gardner, and Aaron McFadden.

Those who collected $100-$199.99 were Belen Huerta, Misti Bartley, Tommy Butler, Jeremy Jordan, Jimmy Johnston, Chris Tanner, and Mary Alice Olvera. For their efforts, they were awarded a jump rope, T-shirt, cap, visor, or barrel bag.

Heath McMeans collected $200 or more, and for his efforts in the drive he earned a jump rope, T-shirt, cap or visor, barrel bag and jacket.

Six students collecting the most people received a patch, and they are Misti Bartley, Heath McMeans, Chris Tanner, Jeremy Jordan, Mary Alice Olvera, and Jimmy Johnston.

McMeans will also receive a trophy for collecting the most money on an individual basis. Special thanks goes to the following fifth graders who substituted for others when they were absent: Denise Collins, Ramona Guzman, Steven Crain, Vernon Jones, Marty Mitchell, Michael Rodriguez, Isaac Swann, Greg Williams, Samuel Villareal, Shawn Gilliland, Robye Blackburn, Martha Nava, Elsie Ruiz, Jane Villa, Richard Gonzales, David Holt, Relandus Swann, Michael Hernandez, and Jackie Dunn.

Seven Inducted Into National Honor Society

Seven Haskell High School juniors were inducted into the National Honor Society Tuesday at the Community Room of the Haskell National Bank.

New members are Stephanie Browning, Rebecca Holt, Diana Jarred, Jill Jennings, Tina Lacey, Chris Lopez and Kelly Wallace.

The current NHS members conducted the formal candle-lighting ceremony. "To be eligible for NHS, a student must be a junior or senior and have an 85 average. The faculty members then rate the students on their character, leadership and service," Mrs. Susan Pope, sponsor, said.

Following the induction, officers for the 1985-86 year were elected. Parents, friends and school personnel attended the ceremony and the reception which followed.

Midwestern State University honor rolls for the Fall 1984 semester listed 50 students on the Dean's Honor Roll and 155 students on the University Honor Roll. One student from your area is among those listed.

Students meeting the requirements for the Dean's Honor Roll made no grade below "A" for at least 15 semester hours. Those meeting the requirements for the University Honor Roll made a minimum grade point of 3.5 on a 4.0 scale and had no grade below a "C" for at least 15 semester hours.

Johnney Larned, son of John Larned of Haskell, was named to the university honor roll.

The View From Here

by Janet Wilke

With weather as beautiful as it has been lately, it is really too bad that the world's news cannot be nearly as beautiful as well.

I am referring to the farm crisis. I heard a few days ago that as many as 250 farm families were losing their homes and farms, per day, in this country.

That is sickening and appalling. I can remember the time, not too many years ago, when the family farm was the backbone of the society. When American farmers fed American people, and everybody was prosperous and happy!

Not today! The family farm is apparently giving way to the corporate farms, and the small farming communities will, doubtlessly, have to move to the bigger cities.

What does that do to the small rural schools, churches, businesses.

I just bet that you can think of the answer without much help.

This must stop. America cannot live without the people who feed her people. We cannot, and should not, go looking to buy other foodstuffs in any other place, especially when we have people here who can feed this country, and two or three more just like it.

Of course, the real argument is that the Government won't subsidize the farmers. It will not give them the few extra dollars to try to make a go of it.

But, it is indeed acceptable to bale out New York City, Chrysler, and a bevy of other bad risks, right?

Shouldn't the family farm, and the individual farmer, have the same rights as the large corporations?

I guess, with all of the economic problems of the farmers, they were not able to hire big, expensive lobbyists to go to Washington and plead their cases.

It may be true that many of these farmers did get their own "tail in the crack", so to speak, by borrowing, buying, and not using much good sense, if any.

This is not, however, true of all farmers. There are many who have taken care of their equipment, worked with what they had, and watched their investments wisely. They are the ones who just got the bad breaks, and are ultimately the ones who will suffer the worst.

The government must see that the problems with the farm economy will not get any better, nor will they go away with time.

Someone is going to have to do something, because when the family farmer is gone, we will all be affected!

The Rotary Club will be launching a new project, which if they are not deluged with calls, will be a really good service.

The Rotarians will be providing odd job service for the elderly or disabled who cannot do such simple things as change their light bulbs, take the covering off their air conditioners, caulk, etc.

They will be providing the service without charge, when they can find the time to drop by and do these repairs, despite holding down fulltime jobs.

Now, it would be really easy to take advantage of an offer like that, wouldn't it?

But, I ask you to please not take advantage of these men, and their kindness.

They are trying to do repairs for those persons who really cannot do them.

There will, not doubt, be enough work that needs to be done for the senior citizens in Haskell who cannot do these tasks, without others (who are capable and can do them) calling.

Hats off to the Rotary Club and their new project. I hope that they will have just enough work to keep them busy, but not so much that they cannot handle it.

Foursquare Church To Hold Celebration This Weekend

The members of the Foursquare Gospel Church will be celebrating the second anniversary of the arrival of their pastors, David and Kathleen Green, with a special seminar on women, Saturday, March 16, and then will continue the events on into Sunday, March 17.

The Green's took over the Haskell church on March 17th, which is St. Patrick's Day. Ironically, the Green's are Irish.

The activities on Saturday will begin at 9 a.m. at the church, and will consist of three seminars for women: What Are Women, Is There Life After Divorce, and 50 Years of Marriage.

Mrs. Green will conduct the first seminar, which will be dealing with the biblical explanation of women. The second seminar will be conducted by Suzanne Jones, on how to cope with, and live after a divorce. The third seminar will be conducted by Rev. Arlene Westbrook, of Abilene, and will tell how to stay in love through even fifty years of wedlock.

The cost for the seminars will be $3.00 per person, and this money will be used to furnish breakfast and lunch.

For those who wish to pre-register, they may call 864-8947, or registration may be done on Saturday at the church.

On Sunday, the congregation of the church will have supper together beginning at 4:30 p.m., then this will be followed by a special youth program, directed by Suzanne Jones, followed by the message from Rev. David Green.

Letters To The Editor

(EDITORS NOTE: The Haskell Free Press will publish letters to the Editor dealing with any subject. All letters must be signed but names will be withheld by request. All letters are subject to editing for length and liability.)

Dear Editor,

I have never done this before but I had something to say, that I have been thinking about. I have nothing against Sammy Larned, for he is a fine man and our town would be better if we had more men like him. I have known him all his life, but I believe in a fit of anger he resigned from the school board because he could not have his way. Now he wants to be relected, however their are other people as fine as he that should have a chance to show their leadership.

We do not need a hot head who can not sit down and reason things out. It is a thankless job and a headache, but we should admire the people who are willing to give their time.

Thank you,
Juanita Dunnam

RRC Denies Rehearing On U.P.S. Request

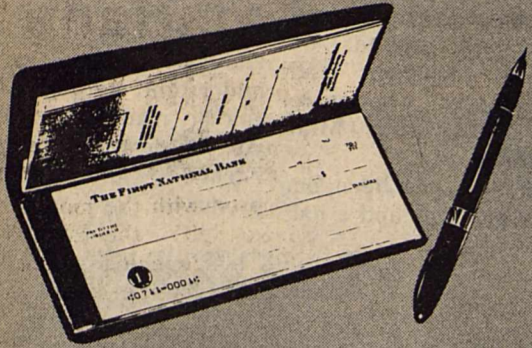

On a two-to-one vote the Railroad Commission Monday denied motions for rehearing in the United Parcel Service case, reaffirming its order of Jan. 21 granting the company authority to transport packages from point to point within the state.

Chairman Buddy Temple and Commissioner Mack Wallace voted to deny the rehearing motions filed by some 39 truck and bus companies which protested the UPS application. Commissioner James E. (Jim) Nugent voted to grant the rehearing requests.

According to the state's Administrative Procedures Act, with the denial of the motion for rehearing, the Commission's order is final. Any appeals of the grant of authority to UPS must now be made through the court system.

Science Class To Study Seeds From Space

Students in Gerald McCoys science classes next year will have some unusual seeds to study.

McCoy, a veteran Haskell teacher, received notification Tuesday from NASA that his request for seeds flown in space has been accepted and to expect a fall 1985 delivery date.

"The students will plant the seeds in the spring, and study the resulting mutations, if any occur. The mutations would be a result of exposure to radiation while they were in space," Mc Coy said.

HARVESTER SINGERS

The Harvesters Choir, of the Southwestern Assemblies of God College, will be performing at the First Assembly of God Church on Saturday night, March 23 and again on Sunday morning, March 24. The group will be performing in conjunction with Haskell's Roundrobin Revival on Saturday night, and will then sing in the worship service at the First Assembly of God Church on Sunday morning at 11 a.m. They have traveled throughout the entire U.S., and are continually sought after for performances. Not only do they sing, but are instrumentalists as well, says a recent press release. There will be no admission charged, and Rev. J.C. Amburn of the First Assembly of God Church extends a cordial invitation for all to attend.

Waterlines Buried During Excavation

Although there is some what of a mess in the area around South Third and Avenue F, the City of Haskell will soon see that things get back to normal, after having tried to bury some waterlines, and hitting natural springs, not far below the ground's surface.

According to the contractor's instructions, the city had to bury the waterline some 11 feet, and after making an effort to do this, they were faced with having to deal with the spring water flowing out of the trenches which were dug for the lines.

However, the city now has the waterlines in place.

Another addition to the city's water facilities is the inclusion of 12 new valves, which will be used to turn off water in isolated places instead of having to have all of the city's water turned off for repairs or for work on other water-related projects.

The City of Haskell wishes to express their thanks to the First National Bank for their patience and cooperation with the city while the waterline project was taking place. The city had to use part of the new bank's parking lot to have enough room to move the equipment around and do the excavation.

Sometime soon, the diversionary ditch which was built to drain off the spring water will be covered and the area will be back to normal.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Gerald Rodgers, CPA

IRA FACTS

You hear a great deal about Individual Retirement Accounts these days. Here are some little known but useful facts that may interest you.

- * The maximum contribution for an individual and his non-working spouse is $2,250 per year. You can decide yourself how much to put in each spouse's account, with the only restriction being that no more than $2,000 can go into either account. Review your overall objectives and if you want to start drawing the money as soon as possible, put the most dollars in the older spouse's account. On the other hand, if you want the money to remain in the IRA as long as possible and continue earning tax free dollars, put the largest amount possible in the younger spouse's account.
- * You are not required to make contributions every year simply because you have established an IRA. If you find that you are short of cash in any year, you may reduce or skip your contribution.
- * Not all IRAs are the same. Be sure that you shop around and establish an IRA where your money will draw the highest yield possible.
- * You need not contribute to the same IRA account each year. If you find a more attractive IRA, open a new account for this year's contribution. You may even shift your old IRA fund to the higher yielding IRA.
- * Some financial organizations offer IRAs that allow investment choices, a good option to look for. Then monitor your investments and move them around to get higher yields.
- * Once every 12 months you can withdraw your funds from your IRA, and as long as you put the same amount into another IRA within 60 days, you are not taxed on the withdrawal. With careful timing, this can give you a brief period to use your IRA funds once a year.
