

To Close?

Officials with John Deere Company in Dallas have announced plans to close John Deere dealerships in Haskell and Stamford. City and County officials, Chamber of Commerce officials, Industrial Foundation officials and many individuals are urging area residents to write letters and sign petitions asking John Deere to reconsider.

AN EDITORIAL

Word has been received that the John Deere Company has decided not to renew the operating contract of Hale Farm Supply in Haskell resulting in the closing of the facility effective October 31, 1985.

Closing the John Deere dealerships in Haskell and Stamford and replacing them with a new facility in Stamford will only present problems.

Nothing will be gained by the move. Local users of John Deere products will have to travel further, spend more time and probably receive less service than is currently offered by the two local facilities.

In addition, closing the Haskell facility will remove one of the largest taxpayers from the county tax roll and will reduce local wages by about $400,000.00 per year.

Hopefully John Deere officials will consider local opinion before the decision is finalized.

Petitions are being circulated in Haskell by C.G. Burson; in Rule by Joe Mathis; and in Rochester by Jim Beauchamp urging the company to maintain a facility in Haskell. At the same time, every local resident should write Dave Noble c/o John Deere Company, Box 20598, Dallas, Tx 75220 and urge that the facility be kept open.

If the local community can't support the business then it should be the decision of the local owner to close the doors not a corporate planner 200 miles away.

Pat Hale and Hale Farm Supply have been good to Haskell. Not just providing John Deere products and service but by supporting the community, the school, every organization the area and every worthwhile project that comes along.

The time has come for us to support them, for the benefit of each of us.

Personal to:

Dave Noble
Vice President
John Deere Co.
Box 20598
Dallas, Texas 75220

Dear dave noble:

It has come to my attention that you have decided that Haskell, Texas does not deserve to have a John Deere dealership.

For the record I hope you will consider the following, and at the same time I hope someone higher up in the John Deere Corp. will take notice of your action.

During the past sixteen years, Hale Farm Supply has sold over $60,000,000.00 in John Deere products. If we consider inflation and the same rate of sales the total should be about $100,000,000.00 during the next ten years.

Please be advised, mr. noble, that this newspaper encourages readers to shop in Haskell and if John Deere leaves Haskell, we will ask our readers to shop locally with Richardson Truck and Tractor (a local firm which pays local taxes and supports local programs).

For your information, mr. noble, the local John Deere dealer pays over $10,000.00 in local ad valorem taxes in the county each year and pays almost $400,000.00 in salaries each year. If your company thinks that local farmers will continue to support John Deere if the nearest distributorship is moved to Stamford, then I hope I can be the first to tell you, YOU ARE WRONG.

This community has supported John Deere and in return Pat Hale and Hale Farm Supply have supported this community. If you continue with plans to move John Deere out of Haskell, we will encourage local farmers to go back to the days of plowing with mules before they spend another cent with John Deere.

Group Attends Texas War On Drugs Seminar

Kiersta Lane, sponsor, Matt Lane, Kelly Wallace, all of Haskell and Teena Briscoe of Weinert attended the Texas War on Drugs seminar held July 30 and 31 on the ACU campus in Abilene.

The Texas War on Drugs is a project that originated as a campaign promise during the Clements for Governor campaign. Gov. Mark White took over the promise after his election and fully supports the project. Monies for the project have been provided for by Ross Perot.

Goals of the project include providing an atmosphere for young people where there are other things to do besides drink or take drugs.

Texas is divided into 6 regions. The Haskell area is in Region A. The group members in this region have taken the name of "STAND" (Students of Texas Against Narcotics and Drinking).

Many outstanding speakers and authorities from police units and drug units were on hand at the seminar to help those who attended understand the importance of Texas War on Drugs.

The local group has set two goals for the coming year. They include a New Year's party and a graduation party where activities other than drinking or taking drugs will be provided.

The group wants the community to understand the need for the community support to make this Haskell area group successful. Some steps that will have to be taken will be the education of the community, and the organization and meeting of groups to attain ideas for projects.

This group will meet Thursday, August 8 from 6-6:30 at the Fellowship Hall of the Methodist Church in Haskell for a very short meeting.

All interested individuals, especially young adults, are encouraged to attend.

Bill Wilson Motor To Celebrate 40th Anniversary

Bill and Mary Lois Wilson and their children and grandchildren will be at Bill Wilson Motor Company in Haskell all day next Tuesday, Aug. 13, to celebrate the 40th anniversary of Bill Wilson Motor Co. in Haskell.

Activities will include coffee and donuts and cokes and hot dogs as well as many other surprises for those attending.

The celebration is set as a special thank you to the friends, customers and employees both past and present.

The dealership was opened in August 1945 after Maj. Bill Wilson returned to Haskell following service in WWII. The business moved into a new building in 1948 and several expansions and remodeling projects have been completed since that time. The latest expansion project has just been completed.

Plans for the day also include several surprises and the entire Wilson family urge all their friends and customers to plan to attend.

In addition, there will be a donation made to the Haskell Memorial Civic Center in Honor of each individual who registers during the day.

Local Youths To Participate In Greenbelt Bowl

Two Haskell youths will participate in the 1985 Greenbelt Bowl All-Star Football Classic activities this week in Childress.

Robert Ivey, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Ivey, made All-State 1st team Linebacker player this year. Ivey plans to attend Tarleton State University this fall and play football for the Texans.

Tamra Burnett, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burnett, will participate in the queen contest. The Greenbelt Bowl Queen will be crowned during half-time activities of the 36th annual Greenbelt Bowl football game held at 8 p.m. Friday, August 9.

Players reported to Childress City Hall at 1 p.m. Sunday, August 4 for a meeting and short workout. Teams will workout twice a day at the Childress Fair Park Stadium. A picnic will be held Thursday at 6 p.m. for football players, their parents, coaches, trainers, queen nominees and their parents.

Queen contestants will participate in a registration tea at 1:00 on Thursday. There they will meet the judges and participate in the interviewing portion of the pageant. At 6 p.m. they will join players and others for a picnic. Formal judging of the nominees will be held Thursday at 8:30 p.m. during an outdoor pageant.

At 10 a.m. Friday, a coffee and style show will be held for queen nominees and their guests. A pool party is scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday.

Highlighting half-time ceremonies will be the crowning of the Greenbelt Bowl Queen. First Runner-up, Second Runner-up and Miss Congeniality awards will also be announced.

After, their judging, their ice cream will be sold to the public.

Annual Sayles Centerpoint School Homecoming Held

Ex-students and families traveled from several cities to attend the 18th annual Sayles-Centerpoint school homecoming held in the Community Room of the Haskell National Bank.

Saturday night each family brought delicious home cooked food, fresh baked loaves of bread, ham, salads, cakes, and pies. Coffee and punch was enjoyed as the group visited and recalled the "Good Ole Days" at the Country Schools we attended many years ago.

The group assembled at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, August 4 and was registered by Dessa Jeter and Oleta Pennington ex-student of Sayles.

School pictures, family pictures, stories of family life on the farms and school days were recalled as the group visited.

The invocation was given by Colonel Jack Harris of San Antonio ex-student of Sayles at the noon hour. A delicious lunch was catered by the Haskell Steak House.

Clyde Bland, president of the reunion, presided for the business meeting.

The Bland families from Sayles had the largest number of ex-students present.

Mrs. Eva Speer was the oldest ex-student present. Clyde Bland was elected president for the 1986 reunion.

Doris (Felker) Hannsz was elected Secretary and Treasurer; and Claudia Mae Bland, Card Chairman.

A delightful program was given by Mrs. Flora (Pinkerton) Bruton of Abilene. She portrayed "Minnie Pearl" with her jokes, actions and dress. Everyone present enjoyed her program.

The W.R. Barrington family of Throckmorton presented several skits. Mrs. Mattie (Breedon) Barrington is an ex-student of Sayles school. We appreciate these ex-students who give of their time and talents that others may have a laugh along life's pathway.

The memorial service for eight ex-students whose names have been added to our book of precious memories was held. The memorial prayer by Mr. Myrt Marti of San Angelo concluded our reunion as the group formed a circle and sang "Blessed be the Tie."

The next homecoming will be the first Sunday in August 1986.

Correction

In the article announcing the engagement of Susan Diane Blankenship, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blankenship of Haskell and Marc Todd Nieman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Nieman of Abilene, the date of the wedding was printed incorrectly.

The couple plan an August 31 wedding, not an August 3rd wedding as printed by the Haskell Free Press. We regret the error.

Discipline Teaches Children Good Conduct

Discipline is something that concerns everyone who cares for children.

Discipline is more than punishment for misbehavior, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter. Discipline is also the means through which adults teach children good conduct now and for the future. Every mistake a child makes is an opportunity for learning.

Children need to know right from wrong and how to stand up for their rights, needs, and convictions without interfering with the rights of others. They need to learn inner controls rather than rely on someone else to tell them how to behave. Here are ten tips to help adults provide children this kind of discipline.

Teach by example: Teach by example. Try to act in ways you'd be proud to see the child copy, now and when she's grown. For instance, if a child hears you tell a lie to others, she will learn to tell lies even if you punish her for lying to you.

Be fair: Try to be fair in your discipline. Give the child a fair hearing and make the punishment fit the crime. For example, if a child breaks one of her own toys, the loss of the toy is punishment enough. She doesn't need a spanking or to be told she's careless or clumsy. If you point out that this is why you sometimes remind her to be careful, she'll learn the lesson more readily than if you make her feel bad.

Remember the Golden Rule: Next time you reprimand or punish a child, think about how you would feel if you were in her shoes. Would you feel hurt, misunderstood, or angry if someone treated you the way you are treating her?

Discipline with kindness and respect: When a child makes a mistake, let her know you don't like what she did without making her feel she's a bad person for doing it. For example, if she hits her baby brother, explain that you won't allow her to hit him even though you understand how mad she gets when he takes her toys or interrupts her games. Listen to her side of the story and try to work out a solution together.

Accent the positive: Let your child know you appreciate her doing things that are important to you. For example, thank her for helping you keep the house neat by picking up her toys.

Minimize the negative: Pay more attention to the things your child does well than to her mistakes. Children tend to repeat behaviors that get the most attention. For example, the more you ask a child to stop playing with her food, the more she may do it. Try ignoring it instead. Then, when you notice her eating neatly, compliment her. It won't take long before you see a change.

Explain your expectations: Let the child know what you expect of her. Try to keep your expectations fair, reasonable, and sensible. If she knows what you expect, it will be easier for her to please you and avoid your disapproval. For example, explain that you expect her to be in bed by a certain time every night. Let her know she can lie quietly or read, but she must be in bed.

Be consistent: Decide what's important, then try to be consistent in your responses. Don't let her do something one day because you are feeling good and then yell at her the next because she's getting on your nerves.

Cultivate patience: No matter how much you love your child, sometimes she will exasperate you. Try to keep your patience and sense of humor.

Think, don't react: Try to think rather than react. When you do react in a harsh or unfair way, let the child know. It's good for her to see that you make mistakes too.

Growing Child follows a child's development from birth to six years. For more information, write Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Children Must Have Milk Included In Their Diets

Children take anywhere from a few weeks to a few months to learn to feed themselves. At 1½ years, most children will be feeding themselves, although they'll be quite messy until they master feeding skills.

During this time some children lose their enthusiasm for the cup - and what's in it. Milk is a necessity if children are to get enough calcium for growth and good nutrition.

So getting your child off to a good start drinking milk can be the start of a lifetime health habit.

Here are some suggestions for making milk drinking a pleasurable experience for toddlers:

- Children typically do not like their milk ice cold. Try pouring it a short time before serving to remove the chill.
- Help your child develop an "I can do it" feeling about drinking milk from a cup or glass. Serve milk in a plastic cup with a fitted cover or weighted bottom. Fill the cup half-way to make the milk more difficult to spill; it will also make the task seem easier. You can also place a small, sturdy pitcher on the table which the child will enjoy using to re-fill the cup. Expect to have some spills and don't get upset at the child for having an accident.

- Using a straw can make it easier for a child to drink milk, but you may want to encourage your child to drink directly from a cup or glass. Drinking from a glass helps develop eye-hand coordination.
- Help your child develop a taste for plain milk by offering flavored milk only on special occasions. Plain milk has fewer calories than the flavored milks.
- If your child refuses to drink milk, treat it as a temporary preference and continue to offer milk at meal time and snack time. Also make sure you're including plenty of cereals with milk, milk-based soups, cottage cheese, yogurt, cheese or custard in the child's diet.

Choose Liquid Refreshments To Benefit Nutrient Intake

Be kind to your body when you reach for a summer cooler. Not all liquid refreshments are created equal.

After a summer tennis match, a bicycle ride or a rousing racquetball game, you may need to replenish your body with some liquid refreshment. Make the choice beneficial to your daily nutrient intake.

Dairy coolers based on milk and yogurt are naturally refreshing and can provide a boost in protein, vitamins and calcium, a nutrient that is often missing from the diet.

Dairy drinks are healthy alternatives to the more typical soft drinks people reach for by habit, with little thought to nutritional content.

Butter-Flavored Products Now Entering Market

Americans eat more margarine than butter, but many still prefer the flavor of butter.

That's one reason for the growing popularity of new butter-blend and butter-flavored products, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

While the split between butter and margarine consumption was about half and half 25 years ago, margarine consumption is now about twice that of butter, says Marilyn Haggard.

Butter blends are so new that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has no consumption figures compiled. But preliminary figures from the National Cheese Institute show that the butter blends have cut more into margarine sales than butter sales.

"Evidently, some consumers would like to afford the flavor of real butter and find the blends a more desirable substitute than pure margarine," she explains.

Now consumers can also choose "buttery" flavored oils and vegetable shortenings or artificially flavored seasonings, condiments and other foods such as butter flavored salt or syrup.

Snack foods and side dishes such as butter flavored pretzels and dehydrated pasta and rice products flavored with butter are also in the markets.

Butter-flavored granules are made partially with dried butter and designed to be reconstituted. The butter granules can replace butter in many recipes and provide the butter flavor with fewer calories, the nutritionist says.

"Label-reading is a must when buying these new butter flavored products," Haggard cautions. For example, one spread with the word "butter" in its name contains no butter. It's made of 75 percent soybean oil, but does list sweet cream buttermilk among the ingredients.

The specialist advises reading the label to determine the source of the butter content or flavor.

Assorted color coding labels. These self sticking colored labels come in a package of 4 bright colors. Ideal for shower invitations or home color coding projects. Haskell Free Press.

SALT FOR SALE

SALT WAR ...
About 100 miles east of El Paso lie the salt flats of Texas. Mexicans along the Rio Grande had been mining the salt since the 1700's. In 1877, Texan Charles Howard filed a land claim on the salt flats. When Howard tried to charge a fee for the salt, he was met by an angry Mexican mob. A gun-battle started. After a five-day fight Howard and his men surrendered; Howard and two of his cohorts were executed by a firing squad.

Several Common Myths Surround Use Of Seat Belts

It is indeed strange thinking about seat belts that permits so much death and suffering in the name of personal convenience and unwrinkled clothing, says a safety official.

Most of this "strange thinking" is based on a number of common myths about seat belts, says Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

—Myth: Seat belts are unnecessary for short trips.

Fact: More than 70 percent of injury-causing traffic accidents occur within 25 miles of home, according to the National Safety Council. More than 80 percent of all collisions happen at speeds of under 40 mph. People who were not wearing seat belts have been killed in accidents that occurred at speeds as low as 12 mph—about the speed you would be driving in a parking lot.

—Myth: Seat belts trap people inside cars, and I'd rather be thrown clear.

Fact: "Thrown clear" is a misnomer. Being thrown from a vehicle usually means flying through a windshield or catapulting out a door. The force of a collision can fling you as much as 150 feet onto a roadside object, into the path of oncoming traffic or scraping along the pavement. For these reasons, if you are thrown from a vehicle in an accident, your chances of being killed are 25 percent greater. What's more, instead of being trapped, belted occupants are likely to be conscious and unhurt, and therefore better able to escape in the rare situation where fire or submersions are added dangers.

—Myth: Seat belts cause injuries.

Fact: Study after study in the United States and abroad show a substantial decrease in the number of serious injuries in actual auto accidents among those who are belted versus those who aren't. In the rare instances where injuries due to belts have been reported, either the belt was inappropriately worn or the crash was so severe that the occupants would have been killed or seriously injured if they had been unbelted.

—Myth: I don't need belts since I'm a careful driver.

Fact: No matter how good a driver you are, you can't control the other car. There's no way to protect yourself against someone else's bad driving, poor judgements or mechanical failures. Even good drivers can be killed or injured in a crash.

—Myth: I don't need seat belts; I can brace myself.

Fact: The force of an impact at just 10 mph is equivalent to catching a 200-pound bag of cement thrown from a first-story window, according to the National Safety Council. At 35 mph, the force of an impact is even more brutal. There's no way your arms and legs can brace you against that kind of force—even if you could react in time.

Ever need an ambulance? What if you did, and there was none available? Don't wait until this happens. Give to the Haskell Co. Ambulance Memorial Fund today. The life you save may be your own!!

Aug. 1-4 — 14th Annual Texas Folklife Festival, San Antonio. Some 6,000 representatives from more than 30 ethnic groups who settled and built Texas join together on the 15-acre grounds of the University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures in downtown San Antonio to share their culture, artifacts, arts and crafts, traditional tunes and folk dances and authentic ethnic cuisine. Visitors may see and participate in pioneer "chores" such as chair caning, soap making, spinning, quilting, whittling, boat mak-

Booklets Available To Help You Shop For Home Computers

Do you start every line you write with a number? Do words like "GOTO" and "REM" mean something to you? Then you probably speak BASIC, the language used by many home and some office computers to make the computer perform its tricks. But for many people BASIC is Greek to them, and computers are just machines that seem to "go down" every time it's their turn at the bank. If you are one of them, but feel that you should know more about computers for your children, your job, or to satisfy your curiosity, here's help.

You can get some advice about buying a personal computer in a booklet called How to Buy a Home Computer (Item 426N, 50c). Published by the Electronic Industries Association in cooperation with the United States

Office of Consumer Affairs, How to Buy a Home Computer describes the different types of computers, what they can do, and what to think about when you go shopping. If you have a small business, you might want to get How to Get Started with a Small Business Computer (Item 453N, 50c). This booklet from the Small Business Administration will help you figure out your business computer needs, what a computer can do, and how to select the right hardware and software to meet those needs. And the U.S. Navy has put together a 135-page individual study guide so you can learn how to program the computer. The book is called Introduction to Programming in BASIC (Item 196N, $4.50), and you can get it, along with How to Get Started with a Small Business Computer, and How to Buy a Home Computer from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. RW, Pueblo, Colorado 81009, at the prices indicated. Please include your name and address and the item numbers of the booklets you want.

If you are thinking about buying a computer, you need to make some decisions first. What do you want it to do? Are you getting it primarily for games, educational programs for the kids, word processing, graphics, financial management for your home, financial management for a small business, or a combination of a number of these?

Do you want a simple computer, something rather sophisticated that can do many things, one that is portable, or perhaps even one of the mini-portables that you can take in your briefcase so you can work on the bus? What about the display screen? Do you need one that has color? Do you need a printer, and if so, what type? What kind of software is available? Is it compatible with a variety of computers?

What kind of warranty is being offered? Where do you have to go to get repairs? If it is for business use, is it expandable in case your business grows? Do you need a mini-computer -- which is actually a moderately sized computer and costs from $25,000 on up -- or a microcomputer -- which is basically a personal computer similar to what you would use at home? Can you test it in the store to make sure it will do what you want?

Both How to Get Started with a Small Business Computer and How to Buy a Home Computer will help you answer these questions and many more.

Once you have the computer set up and you have figured out how to make it do something, you may want to get into BASIC, a computer language. Introduction to Programming in BASIC will help you program the computer to do the things you want. For instance, a very simple program in BASIC is:

10 PRINT 4*25

When you tell the computer "RUN," the number 100 will appear on your display because that program has told the computer to multiply 4 x

25. You can do it in your head much faster than you can program it in. But as you progress through the book, you will learn how to make your computer work with many variables so that it will be able to do various functions much faster than you can do them. And that's why computers are so helpful -- they can do the drudgery of working with lots of records and many variables very quickly.

Introduction to Programming in BASIC will lead you step by step through the process of programming in BASIC. It will also help you design flow charts so you can decide how best to develop programs. By the time you complete the book, you will be able to write complicated programs that will allow you to use the computer to do specific things that are important to your home or business. You will even be able to improve programs you have gotten from other sources.

So before you PRINT

END to the idea of a computer, send for How to Buy a Home Computer (Item 426N, 50c), How to Get Started with a Small Business Computer (Item 453N, 50c), and Introduc- tion to Programming in BASIC (Item 196N, $4.50). At the same time, you will also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration, the Catalog lists more than 200 other free and moderately priced federal booklets on a wide variety of subjects.

CONSUMER ALERT
by Jim Mattox
Attorney General

'FREE GIFTS' CAN BE EXPENSIVE

My office continues to receive complaints and inquiries from consumers who have been annoyed--and sometimes taken--by phony give-aways.

These operations are always changing, so we can't give the details of every one. But here are some examples of those we've heard about lately:

COMMON TACTICS

• The consumer receives a card in the mail stating that a gift company has certain promotional gifts "left over" from some contest. Further, the card states, the company is "required by law" to give away all such prizes. "However, you must pay insurance, freight and processing fees" in order to participate. Such fees are frequently more than $100--and always more than your gift will be worth, if you receive the gift. The consumer is expected to agree to receive and pay for a TV, refrigerator, motorboat or whatever, without viewing the product or knowing anything about the company.

Although most people would never purchase such an item without shopping for it, some people will agree to this kind of swindle because it's presented as a gift.

• The consumer receives a phone call congratulating her on winning a certain item, such as a car, motorcycle, boat or diamond ring. The only catch is, she must pay for shipping charges, which may be as low as $30 or as high as $400 depending on how ambitious the salesperson is. Rest assured, if you spend your money on such "charges," the prize you get will not be worth the money you paid to get it.

• In some instances, the caller will tell the consumer he or she has won a gift because of his or her good credit rating. Then the caller asks for the consumer's credit card number "to verify that we have the right person." It is never a good idea to give out your credit card number to someone who calls you.

Add Color & Variety To Summer Menus

Mothers of vain little girls used to remind them that "pretty is as pretty does." But food that looks good often seems to taste especially good. The real challenge is to make sure that food that's "good for you" looks tempting.

It's simple enough to remember to choose the plate that fits the food you are serving. And it's not hard to remember that hot food needs to be served hot and cold food cold. It's even easy to plan your menu with color in mind.

During the summer, vegetable and fruit garnishes and fresh herbs are readily available to add color and appeal to each meal. For a touch of red, think of tomatoes, red peppers, radishes, beets, cherries, apples, strawberries and raspberries. In the yellow-orange family are carrots, banana peppers, oranges, lemons and melons plus squash and yams in the fall. Other fruits and vegetables fall into the green, white and violet/black sections of the color wheel. You can use their colors to tempt picky eaters. Balanced eating for adults includes four servings from the Bread Group each day, two from the Meat Group, two from the Milk Group and four from the Fruit and Vegetable Group.

An assortment of red, white, orange/yellow and green vegetables served with a dip of yogurt and cottage cheese is a colorful salad or snack. Season the dip with a powdered salad dressing mix. Yogurt is an excellent calcium source, and the vegetables can be counted on for other minerals, vitamins and fiber.

Milk, cornerstone of a well-balanced diet, can be served in a bright mug or striped glass. More colorful members of the dairy group are the cheeses, which range from Blue (white with blue veins) through yellows and oranges. Use the red wax coating of Gouda and the red paprika coating on Muenster to add color contrast on a cheese tray. Cheese and fruit make a delicious and nutritious dessert and one that is easy on the eyes.

So making a meal attractive is an important step on the road to good eating and an easy one with so much variety available.

PROTECT YOUR CHILD FROM BEING ABDUCTED

There are nine steps parents can take to help keep their children safe.

1. Keep your child in sight at all times; when your child is away from you, know whom he or she is with and where.
2. Teach your child not to wander off, to avoid lonely places.
3. Establish strict procedures for picking your child up at school, at a friend's, after a movie, etc. Don't let your child accept rides from anyone with whom you haven't made previous arrangements—even if they say they're a policeman, teacher or friend of the family.
4. Teach your children never to go anywhere with anyone who doesn't know a family "code" word.
5. Teach your child his full name, your full name, address and telephone number. Make sure he knows how to make local and long distance phone calls. Even a small child can learn to dial "911" for help.
6. Tell your child about the abduction problem in a calm and simple way—as if you were teaching any other important coping skill.
7. Listen attentively when your child talks about a man or woman he or she met in your absence.
8. Teach your child it's OK to run away or scream if someone is making him or her do something he doesn't want to do.
9. Have photos taken four times a year (particularly with very young children); make note of birthmarks and other distinguishing features.

These suggested rules are from a pamphlet recently written by JCPenney in cooperation with Child Find, Inc., a national non-profit organization.

Stenholm's Bases And Yields Amendment Unanimously Approved

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm's bases and yields amendment to the 1985 farm bill was unanimously approved in the House Agriculture Committee Wednesday.

The legislation simplifies and standardizes the way acreage bases and yields are assigned to producers. An acreage base, or number of acres to be planted, is assigned to farmers who wish to take part in federal farm programs.

A yield measures how many bushels or pounds per acre the farmer is assumed to produce. Both bases and yields are important when farmers decide whether to participate in the programs.

"With these reforms being enacted into permanent law, farmers will be able to make their planting decisions further in advance, knowing that Congress and USDA won't throw them a curve."

The passage of the Stamford representative's bill culminates a three-year effort to reform this system. It represents the second time in two weeks that a major Stenholm-sponsored proposal had been adopted by the Ag Committee as a part of the omnibus farm bill.

Direct Deposit Has Many Advantages

People receiving Social Security checks in the Big Country area can have them deposited directly into a checking or savings account at a financial institution of their choice, Glyn Hammons Social Security district manager in Abilene said recently.

State credit union, or similar institution. Since banking practices vary, a person should find out how the financial institution handles direct deposits whether a statement is sent, about any service charge, minimum deposits, interest rates, and special services provided.

Under the Stenholm plan, the formulas used to calculate bases and yields will be written into permanent law giving farmers a reliable benchmark upon which to plan their crop production. Under current law, these formulas are subject to revision each time Congress reauthorizes federal farm programs every four years. Consequently, farmers often don't know how one year's planting decisions will affect their crop acreage bases the following year if these formulas are readjusted.

THIRST QUENCHING FACTS & FANCIES

"I'm dying of thirst!" How often have you declared that on a hot, humid summer day? Your claim may be close to the truth. Though the body may look solid, it is actually about two-thirds water. The body's great need for water is unmatched by food or shelter.

Here are a few survival tips for quenching summertime thirsts:

- Lemonade, sodas and fruit punches are slow to refresh. It can take one hour for the body to break down sugar or additives. This delays the thirst-quenching process.
- Cold beer, wine or mixed drinks pose problems. Alcohol has a diuretic effect, releasing fluids from the body just when it is craving fluids the most.
- Coffee and even iced tea are not the answers either. The caffeine in them has a dehydrating effect.

- Perrier and other pure sparkling waters provide the quickest refreshment. With no sugar, salt or caffeine, they are quickly absorbed into the body to revive and refresh.
- For variety, the new mineral waters with a hint of citrus, like Perrier With A Twist of lemon, orange or lime, quench thirsts naturally with no calories.

IS YOUR CHILD THE ONE IN FIVE?

Is your child sometimes listless and ineffective at school? Does your youngster have trouble sleeping? Is he or she nervous and irritable during the day? These symptoms characterize many illnesses, but one that is frequently overlooked, is pinworms.

The most common parasitic infection in the United States. It probably affects over five million youngsters. Children tend to be less careful about personal hygiene than adults, and the time they spend at school or on the playground provides plenty of opportunities to catch the contagious worms, which are spread by hand-to-mouth contact or even through the air.

sites home and can spread the pests throughout the family. A frequent sign of infection is itching in the anal area, particularly at night when fertile female worms emerge to lay thousands of microscopic eggs. Fortunately, your doctor can prescribe a very fast-acting medication called Vermox® (mebendazole) which is almost 100 percent effective in treating pinworms. It comes in chewable tablets and produces virtually no side-effects. One pill usually kills all the worms within a day. Many physicians recommend treating the whole family with this simple procedure, just to be on the safe side. If you're concerned that your child may be among the 20 percent of elementary age students infected by pinworms, your doctor can perform a simple test and recommend a safe, easy remedy.

Apply For Student Financial Aid Now

High School and college students should use the summer months to investigate and apply for private financial aid, according to The Scholarship Bank.

Now is an excellent time to contact private foundations, corporations, civic and trade groups for scholarship aid, according to the director of the largest private search service in the country. These sources usually fund throughout the year and are receiving far fewer applications during the summer months.

The Scholarship Bank will send students a print-out of private financial aid for which they appear specifically qualified; according to the computer entry form, there are over 30 areas of specific information that the computer uses to search for aid. Areas such as major, occupational goals, religion, geographic preferences, year in school, sports, ethnic and parents' union, employer or memberships may all qualify students for aid. Each student is guaranteed a print out of at least 50 sources. According to this company, private financial aid equals almost 500 million dollars for calendar year 1985, and should be equal to about one fourth of a student's entire aid package. Private money is not usually as "need based" as state and federal grants, so students may have an easier time getting it. Students wishing to use this service should send a business size, stamped, self addressed envelope to The Scholarship Bank, 4626 N. Grand, Covina, CA. 91724. There is a special two for one offer now in effect, making the cost less than $25.

The 1960 Class President, Bobby Gibson, assumed the chair to direct the members through choosing the next time and place for a gathering. It was suggested that the Class of '60 organize a dinner club and meet each year at a time and place selected by popular vote for dinner. After casting many ballots, the class chose to meet in San Antonio at La Mansion Hotel on the third weekend in June 1986.

In reminiscence of the very first "Gold Brick Award" presentation made by Don Urban during the 1958-1959 football season, he presented Philip Norton with a special nostalgia award, "The Shinola

Throughout the day the class members and guests were treated to background music provided by Betty Sue Larned Wolfe with her collection of original 1950's records.

ATPE To Prepare Teachers For Competency Tests

The Association of Texas Professional Educators (ATPE), Texas' second-largest teacher group, announced today that it plans to prepare its members for the mandatory teacher competency test and will not oppose the exam.

ATPE officials announced the decision at the group's annual Leadership Workshop, held July 21-23 in Austin, and attended by more than 250 educators from throughout Texas.

At a special meeting July 24, the ATPE Board of Directors agreed that the association would not attempt to thwart the competency test but would instead accept the challenge posed by the examination, scheduled to be administered next March.

The teacher competency test was one of the school reforms mandated by House Bill 72, the education reform bill passed last year. Teachers must pass the test in order to remain employed as public school teachers in Texas under the law.

"We will support the competency test although we do not believe that is its true evaluation of a teacher's teaching ability," said ATPE State President Joe McGarvey, a Hallsville High School government teacher. "But, ATPE has always acted in a positive manner. Competency testing is the law, and we have always obeyed the law."

"Students must abide by no-pass, no-play and the exit level test," McGarvey said, mentioning other HB 72 reforms to which students must adhere. "How can we give tests to our students when we ourselves refuse to take them?"

In announcing its decision to support the test, ATPE elected not to follow the rival Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA), which has said it will go to court to fight administration of the test.

Instead, ATPE will take steps to help its members prepare for the first phase of the test, a reading and writing skills exam which will be given to 212,000 Texas educators in March 1986. ATPE representatives will conduct local meetings and workshops for members to offer information and advice and answer questions about the test after the state distributes study guides for the exam in November.

In addition to announcing its position on the competency exam, ATPE also held numerous workshops for members attending the Leadership Workshop. The sessions included one on parliamentary procedure conducted by representatives of the Texas PTA, and a Canter Assertive Discipline Workshop for the classroom teachers. ATPE sponsors the Assertive Discipline Workshops for teachers and parents in response to Gallup polls which reveal that discipline is the top concern of parents questioned about their children's education.

With approximately 42,000 members statewide, ATPE is Texas' fastest growing teacher association. In addition to McGarvey, the group also is led by Vice President Jann Bogenschutz, White Oak; Secretary Marion Wagamon, Huntsville; Treasurer Tony Diaz, Corpus Christi; and Past President Mike Hardin, Hurst-Euless-Bedford.

Railroad Commission Assesses Penalties

The Railroad Commission has assessed administrative penalties totalling $10,000 against four oil and gas operators for violations of the RRC's pollution-control regulations. All the operators agreed to the fines.

The largest penalty--$4,000--went to Sage Energy Co. of San Antonio. Drilling fluids from Sage operations were disposed of at an unauthorized site on the Jesse Hoskins property in northern Washington County. The area borders Hale Creek, which flows into Yegua Creek. Violations occurred from Nov. 30, 1985 to Jan. 21, 1985.

Don Dolberry of Wichita Falls was assessed a $2,500 penalty for backfilling a pit with dirt before fluids were emptied from it, allowing salt water and oil to be discharged. The violations occurred from Feb. 11, 1985, to Feb. 19, 1985, on the Lilyan chilson lease in Wichita County.

Another $2,500 penalty was assessed Circle T Oil Co. of Wichita Falls for numerous violations on the W.A. Rushing lease about three miles northwest of Farmer Community in Young County. Violations, which occurred from Jan. 17, 1984, to April 24, 1984, involved two unpermitted pits containing salt water and oil. Leaking tanks and flowlines were also found.

D-III Petroleum, Inc., of Austin was assessed a $1,000 penalty for failure to get a letter from the Texas Department of Water Resources stating the depth of fresh water at a drill site. That depth determines how far down casing must be used to protect usable-quality water from potential pollution. The company also began drilling the well before getting a permit from the Railroad Commission.

TAX PLANNING

Written By Gerald Rodgers, CPA

TAX-WISE LOANS

It's not unusual for individuals to lend money to family members, friends, and to their own businesses. It's also not uncommon for some of these loans to end up as uncollectible bad debts.

The IRS is very suspicious of loans to family, friends and one's own business and will try to force you to prove certain things if you try to deduct such loans as bad debts. The IRS will expect you to prove that you did indeed make a loan and that the money was not a gift to a family member or friend or a capital contribution to your company. The IRS will look for evidence that the bad debt that you want to deduct is in fact uncollectible. Finally, if you try to treat the loan as a business loan with its more favorable tax treatment rather than as a personal loan with less favorable treatment, the IRS will expect proof that the loan was business related.

Do the necessary paperwork at the time you make a loan, business or personal, to assure yourself of the best deduction should the loan turn into a bad debt. Draw up a note for the loan, stating the interest rate, schedule for repayment, and the collateral that secures the loan. If the loan becomes uncollectible, be certain your collection attempts are formally documented. Keep copies of letters sent to the debtor and a record of other collection attempts that you make.

If the loan is a business one, have that fact documented in the loan agreement or in business records or corporate minutes. A business bad debt can be deducted when it becomes partially worthless or completely worthless and it gives you an ordinary loss that offsets taxable income dollar for dollar. A personal debt can only be deducted when it is totally worthless and is treated as a short-term capital loss which means it will first offset capital gains and then can offset ordinary income to the extent of only $3,000 per year.

Child Abuse And Neglect Occurs In Many Ways

There were 2,247 children who were victims of child abuse and/or neglect last year in this region alone. Four of these cases were reported in Haskell County.

In a report recently received from the Texas Department of Human Resources, statistics indicated that over the period of the last two years, child abuse cases, dealing specifically with sexual abuse, has increased 50.4 percent.

And, approximately 18,000-26,000 children in the TDHR region in which Haskell is included will suffer either abuse or neglect in 1985.

These children will all be helped by only 55 workers in Region 4. And, although they already see some 311 children a month as foster care children, they will be asked to increase their work load in order to provide services to these additional children.

The State's definition of child abuse is: "The repeated mistreatment or neglect of a child."

Child abuse may manifest itself in many ways. It can be physically, through shaking, beating, burning; or failure to provide adequate food or clothing.

It can be a verbal abuse: excessive yelling, teasing, or name calling.

There is also the emotional abuse of the failure of providing warmth, attention, supervision, normal childhood experiences.

And possibly the worst abuse of all, and the hardest to prove is the sexual abuse of a child. Using a child in or exposing a child to sexual activities with or without the child's consent.

Abusers don't have to be someone who has a certain "look" on their faces. Most of the time they are people that the children love and trust.

According to the materials from the state, most children are abused by a parent or someone living in the child's home.

The picture of the typical abuser is one who is isolated from the social system. Sometimes it could be someone who lives far away from their relatives, who has few, if any, friends, and is lonely. There are also often family problems of finances, marital conflicts, a new baby perhaps on a recent move, which enters in to the picture.

Low self-esteem can also be part of the picture of the abuser. There is sometimes a role-reversal of the parent-child relationship, whereby the parent wants to be nurtured by the child.

And, many of the times, an abusive parent was an abused child.

About 90 percent of the abusers hate themselves for what they are doing to their children. Outside help is the only answer to curbing the child abuse/child abusers problem.

However, there is 10 percent of those who abuse children who are sadistic, and feel that what they are doing is not wrong.

Through the Texas Department of Human Resources, and the Child Protective Services, there is help for the abused child, and the abusive parent.

It is required by Texas law that all reports of child abuse be investigated. And, if a case is found, sometimes it is necessary for the children to be removed from the home, for the child's own protection. This happens in only about 4 percent of all of the cases.

It is the goal of the Child Protective Services, as well as the Texas Department of Human Resources to keep the family together, and to make home a safe place for the children to be.

In cases which the TDHR find to be hazardous to the well-being of the child, these children are categorized into three areas, mainly to prioritize the child's need.

Priority 1 children are those whose environment is life threatening. Children in Priority 2 situations are those whose environment is one in which the child's health and/or safety are being endangered, and Priority 3 children are those whose environment is a high risk one for abuse and neglect.

According to the State, all Priority 1 and 2 situations must be investigated. Priority 3 situations are investigated as time permits.

There are many factors which have to be considered if child abuse is being suspected. The State offers a list of things one might look for if abuse is suspected.

Are the injuries inconsistent with the child's age and explanation as to what happened? If this is the case, there is a good reason to suspect abuse. For example, if a child is not yet walking, it would be highly unlikely to have him break a leg unless abuse might be a factor. And, head injuries are often suspected when a child is brought in and the parents say he has fallen on concrete, when there are obviously marks on the head where the child was struck with an instrument. Excessive bruises, and bruises that are in varying stages of healing is also an indication that abuse might be taking place.

Neglect is also a problem addressed by the Child Protective Services.

Children who are neglected are: often left by themselves totally or for long periods of time. They are sometimes left unattended, or left in the care of an older child who is not old enough to care for the younger one.

Neglect is also spelled out in lack of adequate clothing, which might leave the child exposed to extreme heat or cold.

Child neglect will also manifest itself in the form of children who have poor hygiene: those whose diapers have not been changed, where there is severe diaper rash or other skin disorders, and/or children who are dirty and unbathed.

Lack of medical attention often constitutes neglect, lack of education often signals neglect, and lack of food, and shelter, can be considered contributing factors.

Neglect is very hard to prove however, because many times the workers cannot separate neglect from poverty. Some of the time, there may be a cultural difference which places a child in what would normally seem to be a neglectful situation. And, of course, everyone has his own way of raising children, and some methods might be viewed as neglectful.

However, be it neglect, or abuse, children have the right to live in a world free from mistreatment.

And, because there are legal means by which the child's rights can be protected, we, all of us who live with children, are given the responsibility to see to it that children, no matter whose they might be, are treated well, and are afforded a life without fear.

But remember, child abuse and neglect is a crime. If it goes unreported, it is often fatal.

There is a toll-free number in Texas to report child abuse, and it is: 1-800-252-5400.

Conservation Viewpoints

USDA Soil Conservation Service
Assisting
Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District

"Good grass stands don't just happen, they are made from planning and ground preparation," said Jim Hudson, DC-SCS in Haskell. The summer drought of 1984 caused many local producers to establish grass stands due to their plans and careful observance of plant-soil conditions.

Present moisture conditions are not enough to ensure you will establish a satisfactory cover of grass this year, stated Hudson.

Fertilizer, a key element in the planned establishment of grass in waterways, critical area and other grass plantings, is needed on all grass plantings. Soils in the Haskell County area need nitrogen and phosphorus to aid in grass establishment. "Fertilizer recommendations and requirements vary but generally 64 lbs. per acre of nitrogen and 80 lbs. per acre of phosphorus are needed, along with shredding for control of undesirable competition," he pointed out.

"Many local producers are participating in various programs through which cost share assistance is or was furnished to aid in grass establishment. The requirements concerning these programs vary but all require that fertilizer be applied by August 15," Hudson stated.

Approximately 450 acres of waterways and critical areas were planted to improve grasses this past spring with most of these requiring some fertilizer. Ever those grass plantings that you think no one cares about, need fertilizer," Hudson stressed. If you are not sure of your needs or program requirements, stop by or call the SCS.

A&M Center Focuses On International Business

COLLEGE STATION — Increasing international competition in historically U.S. dominated business markets has spurred the creation of the Center for International Business Studies at Texas A&M University.

Dr. William Mobley, dean of Texas A&M's College of Business Administration, said a major objective of the new center is to develop a research program that will make significant contributions to knowledge in international business and to conduct management and executive education in international business in connection with the college's Center for Executive Development.

"The economic vitality of Texas and the nation is increasingly dependent on international trade," said Mobley, "and contemporary higher education in general, and business education in particular, must infuse a greater international emphasis into the curriculum and in student development."

He said American firms will focus more on international markets in the future, and the change will bring about an evolutionary change in business schools' curricula.

"While the overwhelming majority of students won't be working abroad, they will be working for companies for which foreign trade is absolutely essential," said Mobley, "and they'll need to be informed about the international nature of business, in addition to knowing business tools and techniques."

U.S. Suffering Grasshopper Infestation

WORST INFESTATION

Severe grasshopper infestations in 17 western states have prompted emergency spraying of crops and rangelands with materials such as Sevin® brand XLR Plus carbaryl insecticide. Up to 50 grasshoppers per square yard have been reported in some areas.

The worst grasshopper infestation in 30 years could very well repeat itself next year in the western United States according to American and Canadian government officials.

"A mild winter and a warm spring followed by hot and dry conditions have prompted the widespread grasshopper hatch in 17 states," according to Chuck Bare, staff officer of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) headquartered outside Washington, D.C. "Outbreaks in some southwestern states were eliminated as a result of a cold snap in May but the balance of the western states experienced weather ideal for grasshopper development."

Over 30 species of grasshoppers have reached economic thresholds in Idaho and surrounding states. The U.S. government considers an infestation of eight grasshoppers per square yard economically significant. Yet, in some areas grasshoppers counts have exceeded 30 to 50 insects per square yard reports Don Nielson, public information officer for APHIS.

"Some grain farmers have been losing up to 30 feet of crops per day on field perimeters as the grasshoppers migrate in search of food," Nielson explained. "A 300 acre alfalfa field in Oregon was completely consumed in a two day period during the second week of June. County agents in some Oregon counties predict that one-third of the farmers in the area will be forced out of business due to crop damage from grasshoppers."

The insects feed primarily on range and grasslands but at this level of infestation "nothing green is safe," remarks APHIS official Chuck Bare.

"We must treat the grasshoppers before they become egg-laying adults and that can be a relatively short period of time," comments APHIS spokesman Nielson.

To date, approximately 25 million U.S. government dollars are committed or already spent to control grasshoppers in 13 of the 17 infested states, according to Bare.

A sizeable portion of the monies spent in privately funded efforts and federal co-op programs have gone for the purchase of insecticides such as SEVIN® brand XLR PLUS and SEVIN® brand 4-OIL carbaryl insecticides, respectively.

Bare pointed out the carbaryl formulation used by the federal government performs well in areas of heavy vegetation and that the residual activity of the product is helping assure grasshopper kill during the prolonged egg hatch experienced in some areas this year. SEVIN® brand carbaryl insecticide is also registered on 125 different crops.

Outbreaks in the Canadian provinces of Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba have also been treated with SEVIN® brand carbaryl insecticide.

Lloyd Harris, provincial entomologist for Saskatchewan, predicts that in his province alone Canadians will treat 7 to 12 million acres of crop and rangeland this year. Approximately six million acres were treated during the last severe grasshopper outbreak which occurred in 1961.

In order to quickly treat threatened acres, U.S. companies such as Union Carbide Agricultural Products Company, Inc. cooperated with Canadian businesses to airlift pest control products to Canada to supply immediate needs.

Ron Campbell, Union Carbide Agricultural Products (Canada), Ltd.'s, product manager for SEVIN® brand carbaryl, said his Canadian-based company worked with Canadian government officials to obtain an emergency permit to allow the use of SEVIN® brand XLR carbaryl insecticide, for grasshopper control programs in Saskatchewan, the area most heavily infested.

"Grasshoppers know no state boundaries and I'm pleased American and Canadian industry have been able to work together with cooperation from both governments to fight this major pest outbreak," Campbell continued.

Provincial entomologist Harris says he and his cohorts fully anticipate an outbreak of grasshoppers in Canada next year. "The severe drought and lack of spray control measures last year prompted this year's outbreak and there have just been too many grasshoppers to treat this season to catch them all before they laid eggs. Therefore, the likelihood that they'll be back next year is good," Harris concluded.

The first cafeteria was opened in 1895 in Chicago on Adams Street between Clark and La Salle Streets by Ernest Kimball.

The first American student to work his way through college was Zechariah Bridgen, 14, who graduated from Harvard in 1657. He earned money by "ringing the bell and waytinge."
