

Students do well on tests

Haskell County juniors racked up very good scores in the minimum skills tests taken in October, it was learned this week.

Results of the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) taken by 74 Haskell County juniors show 95.2 percent of the students mastered the English part of the test and 88.2 percent passed the Math section.

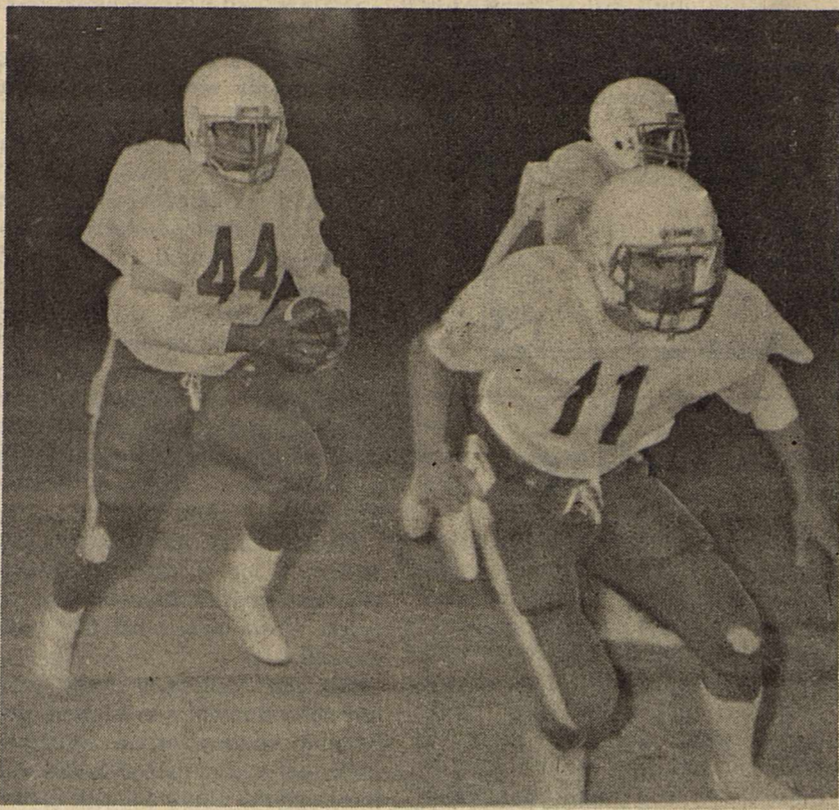

Mandatory under House Bill 72, this was the first time the test was given.

Haskell County students were above the state average in both categories. Statewide, 91 percent passed the English part of the test and 88 percent got by the math portion.

Beginning with the class of 1987, students must pass both parts of the exam to get a high school diploma. The requirement is part of the 1984 education reform package approved by state lawmakers.

State Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby had predicted that 25 percent of the students would fail the test.

High school juniors who failed either portion of the test will have up to three more chances before graduation.

HHS junior winner of speech contest

Scott Burris, a Haskell High School junior, was winner Saturday of the Lions Club Zone speech contest on drug abuse.

Haskell was host to the event for Zone 5-A of Lions International, which includes Lions clubs from Knox City, Haskell, Seymour, Rochester, Throckmorton and Munday.

The speech contests represents one way in which Lions International expresses its concern for drug abuse.

Burris' speech was on "dipping" and the dangers of such chemical abuse.

He will compete with winners from 12 other zones in Graham on Jan. 4. The winner of the district contest will speak at the district convention in Vernon April 4-5 and then will compete in the state contest at South Padre Island June 6-7. The state winner will receive a $500 scholarship.

Becky Underwood, Knox City senior, was named alternate in the zone competition here. Alan Donaldson, Knox City sophomore, was third-place winner.

Judges were John Gresson of Rule and Joel Fox of Haskell who said each of the speakers did a good job addressing this increasing problem. They also complimented the speakers on sharing their personal views and using statistics to substantiate their points.

Christmas drawings, sponsored by the Retail Merchants Assn. of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce, kicked off the opening day celebrations.

DRAWINGS

Gift certificate winners were Sara Jones, $200; Mickey Patterson, $50; Kathy Livingston, $50; Charles Redwine, $50. All were present at the drawing and received the full amount. Emma Franklin's name was drawn for $100 and she will receive one-half of that amount since she was not present.

STORE WINDOWS

Judges deemed the following were winners in the 1985 Window Display Contest:

1. Aladdin House, 2. Johnson Realty/KIS Photo, 2. Sunshine Shop.

RESIDENTIAL DECORATIONS

First place went to Mary and Drey Lowe, 1004 North Ave. F. Second was Eunice and Odell Helweg, 301 Addison Drive. Third went to Bonnie and John Fouts, 215 Addison Drive.

PARADE

Trophies for the theme division were awarded to the Progressive Study Club (grand prize winner), and to the Haskell Fire Dept. and Auxiliary (best organization entry). Kids Duds won all four of the remaining categories—best commercial float, best lighted, best music adaptation and best animated.

All judges were from out of town and each category was judged separately by points, according to Sandy Horton, coordinator.

GRATITUDE

The Haskell Chamber of

Band concert to be Sunday

The Haskell ISD Bands Christmas concert will be at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Civic Center. The concert will feature performances by all three bands, the sixth-grade beginning band, the Junior High band, and the High School band.

Included in the sixth-grade program will be "Mary Had a Little Lamb," "Go Tell Aunt Rhodie," "Holiday in Paris" and "Jingle Bells."

To be performed by the junior High band will be "All I Want for Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth," "Silver Bells," "The Twelve Days of Christmas" and "Auld Lang Syne."

The High School program will be "The Christmas Song (Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire)," "Carol of the Drum" and "Themes from the Nutcracker Suite."

There will be no admission charged.

Commerce Board of Directors and membership are very grateful to these dignitaries and to the riders of the Six White Horses of Hardin-Simmons University and to the Love Twirling Academy of Abilene for coming to Haskell to participate.

To the businesses and service clubs for their willingness to participate with their floats, we appreciate their efforts, their spirit, their community pride and their positive attitudes.

Thanks to the Haskell High School Band. They looked good and sounded good.

We appreciate the tenants of the courthouse and almost all of the retail stores who cooperated in our uniform lightning by outlining their windows, thus presenting a show of unity as well as beauty.

It takes a lot of people who have a lot of spirit to put together anything so gigantic, and many of these were not seen. Law officials were out directing traffic around the parade routes; the Fire Department members were in their vehicles manning car radios in a large communication network and Parade Marshall Grace Womack was in touch with all of them.

Charles Thornhill, Christmas chairman, and his crew of volunteers spent three nights and two days installing all the downtown street decorations, then Charles served as announcer for the drawing and for the parade.

Everyone who worked deserves public recognition, but we know the gratification they felt in playing such an important part is all the glory they sought.

Thank you Haskell for making Haskell look good!

Agnes Winchester is 'Woman of Year'

It has been said that four things make life worthwhile—to love, to hope, to help and to smile.

Agnes Winchester has long followed this rule in her home, her church and her club.

Last week, Mrs. Winchester was named Haskell County's Home Demonstration Club Woman of the Year.

An extension homemaker for 40 years, Mrs. Winchester became a member of the New Mid Home Demonstration Club in the western part of Haskell County in 1946. She served that club as a faithful member, president, vice president 4-H chairman and alternate council delegate.

In 1977 she joined the Weinert Home Demonstration Club when the New Mid Club disbanded. She has faithfully served the Weinert club as alternate council delegate, council delegate and secretary-treasurer.

During the past 40 years she has held various council position. She has served as a member of the yearbook committee, 4-H chairman, finance committee chairman, treasurer and secretary.

Mrs. Winchester is always willing to do more than her share when there is work to be done. She participates in the Weinert Extension Homemakers Club's annual project of selling community birthday calendars. The money from this project is used for community improvement projects. Not only does she prepare the quilt lining but also helps with the quilting of the quilt that her club donates to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center each year. She also volunteers regularly for work with the bloodmobile.

Mrs. Winchester is the kind of club member that every club needs. She is faithful to attend club meetings, leader training meetings, district meetings, Tri-County Rally Day and council.

She was the first of four children born to Anton and Annie Mayer. The family lived at Oklaunion before moving to Harrold in Wilbarger County when Agnes was three years old. Her mother, Annie Mayer, still resides in Harrold.

Agnes Winchester

While visiting her Grandmother and Grandfather Vojkufka in the Lone Star Community in northwestern Haskell County, she met a young man, Clovis Winchester, who became her husband in 1934. Clovis was an outstanding farmer and the couple lived and farmed about five miles west of Weinert for many years. After Clovis' death in 1980, Mrs. Winchester built a home in Haskell where she now resides.

Agnes and Clovis had one daughter, Jo Ann, who attended both Weinert and Abilene high schools, graduating from Weinert High School with honors. She received her bachelor's degree from Hardin-Simmons University and her master's degree from the University of Texas at Austin.

Jo Ann married Jon Hagler, who is a stockmarket analyst. They have two daughters, Ayn and Jill. Jo Ann and Jon live in Dover, Mass.

Of all the activities that she has done in her lifetime, Mrs. Winchester feels that church work has given her the most satisfaction. For a number of years she was a member of Weinert Baptist Church, where her husband, Clovis, was a deacon. She served as a Sunday School teacher in the youth department and leader of Young Women's Auxiliary while she was at Weinert.

When she became a member of the Munday Baptist Church she continued as a leader of YWA's and taught a youth Sunday School class. She is currently a member of Haskell Baptist Church.

Jetty Clare died Sunday and the newspaper industry lost a true friend.

When Jetty sold the Free Press in 1970 he officially retired, but for several years was a regular in the Free Press office. He kept a small office here and came in practically every day to open his mail. Whenever we were working on a special edition or a big job, Jetty pitched in and did whatever needed to be done. He always referred to the work as "paying for his office rent".

Jetty's friendship with the Comedy family began in 1937 when Bill went to work for him in Coleman. Their paths separated several years later when Jetty bought the newspaper in Paducah. He later bought the newspaper in Olney and then bought the Free Press in 1950.

The Clare/Comedy friendship again became close in 1965 when the Comedy's bought the newspaper in Throckmorton.

Throughout those years, Jetty remained a true friend, always ready to help when needed, ready to give sound well thought advice when asked, or perhaps most important just to listen when we needed a friendly ear.

Jetty's friendship touched four generations of Comedy's and we all loved him.

He was a gud'un.

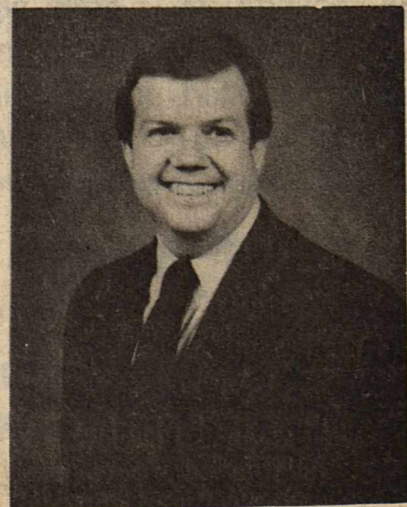

Baptist Church has new pastor

Assuming duties Sunday as pastor of the First Baptist Church was the Rev. James L. Densman.

The Rev. Mr. Densman and his family moved to Haskell last week from Groesbeck, where he had served seven years as pastor of the First Baptist Church of that city.

The Densman family includes the pastor's wife, Elaine, and their three children, Sarah 9, Josh 6 and Mary Rachel 2. Mrs. Densman was a fifth-grade teacher at Groesbeck for the past five years. Earlier, she had been a junior high English teacher.

Bank to host artists

George Kovach and Terry Gilbreth, prominent artists, will be at the First National Bank's Christmas open house Thursday and Friday, Dec. 12 and 13, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Their appearances commemorate the start of construction of First National's permanent new banking facility and the completion of the first in a series of paintings commissioned by the bank for its Heritage Art Series.

Kovach will autograph prints of his "Early Haskell", an oil painting portraying a downtown scene of Haskell in 1912. The painting was especially commissioned by First National and is the first in a series of paintings commissioned by the bank for its Heritage Art Series. Gilbreth, a noted sculptor, will display several of his bronze mediums and be on hand to answer questions about his art.

Kovach is best known for his paintings that bring nostalgia into vivid focus as his paintings take the viewer on a journey through time. The sensitivity and warmth suggested by his unusual lighting effect has put his work in demand among noted collectors throughout the United States. George was co-illustrator of "XIT, The American Cowboy", a major book published by Oxmoore House. His work has appeared in Texas Monthly, Southern Living, South West Art and Western Horseman magazines. He was Texas' See page 5

Commentary

A lot of garbage

It's a mess the size of Texas. And it cost Texans a whopping $20 million to clean up last year.

If that sounds like garbage—that's because it is. That's what it cost Texans last year to clean up trash on the state's highways and byways.

And the $20 million figure does not include the tax dollars spent by city and county governments in clean-up efforts.

To some, it may be litter, but the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation calls it "trash".

In mid-November, the department began its very first all out war against trash. The battle plan calls for a three-pronged program that includes a media campaign aimed at habitual litterers, a statewide community beautification and clean-up program, and incentives for increased law enforcement.

"This is the first program of its kind in Texas, but with litter pickup increasing at a rate of 15 to 17 percent annually, trash on the side of the road has become an unacceptable drain on our budget," said J. Don Clark, Director of the Information Services Section.

"There simply are better ways to spend that money, such as repairing roads and streamlining our highway system," said Clark.

To understand the problem better, the department, in late August and early September, initiated extensive research to determine who litters and why.

"To mothers of young men, the results are probably not surprising," said Betsy Todd, vice president of GSD&M Advertising, the firm hired to design and implement the media campaign.

"Our research showed overwhelmingly that in Texas, the habitual litterer is male, and primarily between the ages of 18 and 34. We also found that the age groups of 10 to 17 and 35 to 44 contribute their fair share," Todd said.

"Those who drive pickups in these age brackets, in particular, cause a disproportionate amount of litter. Pickups are involved in approximately 27 percent of all acts of littering; therefore, we have to communicate with these people," said Todd.

The advertising campaign for the highway department is designed to speak directly to the habitual litterers. Well-known Texas celebrities like George Strait and Johnny Rodriguez have already agreed to help.

Their message is "Don't Mess With Texas".

"It's certainly a switch from other slogans like 'Pitch In' and 'Don't Be a Litterbug', but the research proved we needed a bold, aggressive message," Clark said.

The State will do follow-up research next August to determine if the campaign has been effective in reducing the estimated half-billion pieces of trash found this August during the visible litter count.

The research proved that the vast majority of Texans, even the habitual litterer, do not approve of littering. But almost all admit to littering from time to time.

"If we can get people to think before they throw trash on the side of the road, we are convinced we can reduce Texas litter," Clark said.

And if litterers are not convinced by the message, the increased law enforcement may help jog their consciences.

"The next time a Texan throws trash before he thinks, we want him or her to remember the price in terms of natural beauty and tax dollars," Clark said.

Besides, the fine for littering has been raised to a maximum of $1,000. For those not worried about the State's budget, a $1,000 hit to the personal budget may be a better incentive to use a litter receptacle rather than the roadside. "Messing with Texas" could get mighty costly.

Letters to the Editor

Editor: Every year I come back to my hometown of Haskell to see your wonderful Christmas Parade. It is well worth the trip from Dallas where I now live.

There is nothing like it, short of Macy's Thanksgiving Parade, so Haskell is to be commended for such a unique endeavor with such high standards. Many people must work very hard to bring this acclaim to Haskell and I hope people who are not involved show their appreciation.

While I was visiting here I learned that there are those who do nothing to help with the parade yet knock its very existence. One merchant griped to me that parade viewers take up all the parking places around the square. Needless to say I didn't buy anything there, nor will I ever again. And where were the merchants' floats in the parade? Some said they were too busy, others said they didn't want to spend the money.

What kind of thinking is this? These people the retail stores are the only ones who stand to profit. Can't they see that it would be a fantastic way to advertise their store! Thank goodness Lane Felker, Kids Dud's and Allsup's have the good business sense to participate, except that's not why they entered. They do it out of Christmas and community spirit. The rest of you negative merchants may have noticed which stores had the most business Saturday. That's right... those three. You might think about it.

The Haskell Band looked good, but I was surprised that Haskell does not have a Junior band.

The Rotary, Kiwanis, Progressive Study Club and Fire Dept. floats were just beautiful and so meaningful, and obviously represented many hours of hard work, as did the City float and the Chamber float. Conspicuously absent was the Lions Club. Have they disbanded?

The bank floats were lovely and so were the other business entries. I was also impressed that mayors of eight neighboring towns saw fit to participate. All of you who made this magic night possible and provided such joy are to be commended. Some of the churches said they were too busy, but a few of them built floats in the name of all of them. That's real brotherhood.

Bless you Haskell!

Color me green

By Wendell Faught

A while back I walked into an office supply store and told the clerk I needed a blackboard.

She didn't even know what I was talking about.

After I explained what I was after, she informed me it was a chalkboard I wanted.

I bought one. It was green.

Very few things are the colors they once were. Time was when telephones, typewriters, most automobiles and hundreds of other things were black. But now, the color black is about to become extinct.

Fire trucks were always red. Today, a lot of them are white. Houses used to be white or red brick. Nowadays, even few bricks are red.

Kitchen appliances were never any color but white in days of yore. From there they went to something called off-white, then avocado, rust, harvest gold, almond and just about any other color anyone can think of.

It's not enough any more to just know the eight colors I learned way back yonder, those eight colors contained in an eight-count package of Crayola crayons.

Even if something is red, it may be described as maroon, wine, ruby, vermilion, crimson, cardinal, scarlet, cherry, rosy or by any one of a dozen or so other synonyms of the word red.

If something is black, chances are it will be called jet, raven, ebony, sable or swarthy. White might be ivory, pearl, snowy, alabaster, etc.

Take a look at a folder for new cars. Then notice the available colors. There might be a dozen or more choices and the average layman can't identify a one of them by name.

A few years ago one of the car manufacturers called on the public to submit names for colors for one of its new upcoming lines. Among the entries which was tastefully rejected was "statutory grape."

While old-fashioned color names are giving way to flashier names, we can take solace in the fact that some of them will be around for years to come, even though they may not describe color at all.

An orange probably always will be an orange even though the name itself does describe the color of the fruit. Likewise for black in describing a race of people. And black always will mean grim, dismal, somber, dim and calamitous. White still means colorless, pale, pallid, blanched, bleached, wan, ashen, pasty, cadaverous, bloodless, sallow and leaden. And green means unripe or inexperienced. We'll still have red lights, green lights and yellow flags even if they change the colors.

And as far as I'm concerned, a blackboard will always be a blackboard—no matter what color it is.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Richard E. Rodgers, CPA

WHAT'S NEW IN TAXES?

Have you been wondering lately what's happened to tax reform and all those promises of a fairer and simpler tax system? First we had the Treasury's proposal, then we had President Reagan's plan, and now the House is working on yet another version of tax reform.

It may be a situation of too many cooks spoiling the stew. As one official said, "It has become clear that whatever happens is not going to look much like tax reform." Special interest groups are lobbying to retain tax benefits for themselves, and politicians are making compromises in an effort to keep tax reform alive. The result so far is mainly a reshuffling of deductions and tax "loopholes" with no fundamental tax reform. Whether Congress or anyone else can still shape a plan that salvages basic reform remains to be seen. Estimates of a date for passage of new legislation vary from before year-end to mid-1986.

However, one bit of good news comes from a provision in the 1981 Tax Act which took effect in 1985. This provision "indexes" tax brackets and exemption amounts, keying them to the consumer price index. Because the CPI showed a 3.7% increase in 1985, 1986 tax brackets and the personal tax exemption will be increased by the same amount, preventing inflation from nudging taxpayers into higher brackets.

This inflation adjustment will give the average four-person family earning $20,000 a year a $32 dollar tax cut in 1986; that average family earning $50,000 will get a $146 tax cut. Singles with $20,000 income will see a $25 tax cut; those with a $50,000 income will have a $190 tax cut.

The bad news is that the social security tax increases in 1986. The rate goes from 7.05% to 7.15%, and the wage base subject to tax increases from $39,600 to $42,000. A person earning $42,000 or more will, therefore, pay an additional $211 in social security tax in 1986.

Naomi Class meets Monday

The Naomi Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church met Monday night, Dec. 9 in the church annex for its Christmas social. The room was decorated with beautiful lighted Christmas trees and other decorations carrying out the theme of the Yuletide season. Each table had a beautiful candle for the center piece.

Iola Henshaw led the group in singing Christmas carols, accompanied at the piano by Mary Martin. After the singing of the carols, Frances Lane, president of the class, introduced and welcomed guests. The pastor, Bro. Densman, led the opening prayer.

Ethel Lou Shelton brought the Christmas Story, "The Utmost for the Highest". From her scripture reading, she read Matthew 2: 1-12. She brought out in one of the O'Henry's short stories, "The Gift of the Magi", how the two young lovers at Christmastime expressed their love by giving their "Utmost for the Highest" and how happy it made them. This same love was expressed by the Wise Men as they brought their gifts to the Christ child of gold, Frankincense and Myrrh. Gold which can represent gifts of substance. This was mentioned first because gifts of substance are so hard to give freely and gladly. Most of the strife of life comes with the clutching of material things.

Another wise man brought Frankincense, which can represent wisdom and influence. She emphasized that these men were the scientists of their times and this is a symbol for us today of the need of knowledge to gain direction and purpose in its use.

The third wise man brought Myrrh, which was used as an embalming fluid and this could represent for us sorrow and suffering. This is the hardest and most bitter to give to Christ. She brought out as the Christmas season moves in, we should give these three gifts and we would know that we have given the "Utmost for the Highest."

She closed by reading a poem, "If Jesus Should Come to Your House."

From a beautiful table, refreshments of sandwiches, cake, candy, nuts, coffee and punch were werved to following members: Vivian Roberson, Helen Oats, Marcus Curtis, Iola Henshaw, Elsie Roberts, Grace McKelvain, Allene Wheatley, Clara Baird, Faye Gray, Nettie McCollum, Thelma Williamson, Mildred Mancill, Frances Lane, Nellie Collins, Claudia Mae Bland, Ermal Bevel, Pearl Walker, Frances Byrd, Lois Sherman, Ethel Lou Shelton, guests, Bro. Densman, Elaine Densman, and daughter, Mary Rachel.

Gilbreth, a native of Abilene, uses his talent to create exciting and lifelike bronzes that evolve the viewer's imagination into an impression of something beautiful and fascinating. His modesty regarding his artistic awards reflect Terry's quest to make each new creation an adventure that surpasses all previous works. Said Terry, "To be totally satisfied with my work would be to give up the struggle, and life without that confrontation would be incomplete."
Mabry Brock, board chairman of the First National Bank indicated that the bank is making prints of "Early Haskell" available to the public free of charge while they last and noted that the bank was fortunate to engage an artist of Kovach's standing to do the first painting in the bank's Heritage Art Series and to commemorate the start of construction of the bank's new building with a display of works by renowned sculptor Gilbreth.

8th grade

By B.J. Mitchell

Monday night the eighth-grade Warriors clashed with the Hawley Bearcats and came out on top, 32-23.

Michael Lane led the Warriors in scoring with 12 and Stoney Trussell followed with 10.

The Warriors traveled to Hamlin last Monday and were defeated by the Pied Pipers.

Lane again led the scoring with 10 and Trussell had 7.

"We pressed the ball well and scored after we stole the ball," Coach Jimmy Lisle said.

"We still need to work on the half-court offense and try to get the ball into Lane or Trussell."

By Tina Lacey

The eighth-grade Maidens edged by the Lady Bearcats 23-18 last Monday in Bearcat territory.

Missy Davis led the scoring with 12 points while Christina Camacho followed with 7.

In the first round of the Knox City-O'Brien tourney, the eighth-grade Maidens battled the Seymour Lady Panthers, 28-24.

Davis was high point with 22 and was followed by Velma Castillo with 3.

In the championship round, the eighth grade lost to O'Brien 31-12. Davis was high point with 8.

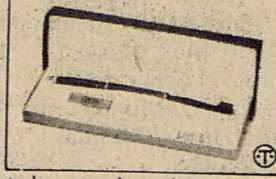

"The team played well," Coach Jim Bob Mickler said.

On Dec. 2, the eighth grade Maidens rolled past Hamlin, 40-28. High point was Davis with 11, followed by Comacho and Holly Reed with 6 each.

The record stands at 5-1 and the team is in first in district, followed by Stamford.

Holiday Hints

Stumped on what to give your status-conscious friends this holiday season? Here's an idea—trend-setters today are saying that throw-away pens are passe while "acquiring" a quality writing instrument is "in." This year, you may want to by-pass those designer ties and earrings and start shopping for writing instruments at your local department, stationery or jewelry store. Jewelry store? Yes, today a quality pen is considered not only a tool of everyday business, but a fashion accessory, as well.

Weinert closes season

By Stacy Hester
 The Weinert Bulldogs' 1985 season was ended Friday night in Stamford by the defending state champion Jayton Jaybirds.
 The Bulldogs had a record of 10-1 going into the game. The final record is 10-2, both losses coming at the hands of Jayton. Jayton has only entered the fourth quarter three times the whole season and two of the times were to the Weinert Bulldogs.
 Trey Richey scored on a 20-yard run with 4:42 left in the first quarter. Ricky Martinez kicked the PAT to give the Jaybirds an 8-0 lead.
 Weinert then came back to tie the score when Shannon Forehand threw a 19-yard pass to Louis Perez with 1:39 left in the first quarter. Kevin White kicked the PAT. This ended the first quarter with an exciting 8-8 ball game.
 Jayton got three scores in the second quarter, all coming from Richey. He scored from 15, 21 and 1 yard out. Martinez kicked two of the PATs to give the Jaybirds a 30-8 halftime lead.
 Richey opened the third quarter when he ran 35 yards for a touchdown with 8:13 left. Martinez kicked the PAT.
 With 7:55 left in the third quarter Martinez intercepted a pass and ran it back 32 yards for a score. The PAT was no good.
 Richard Boswell then got a score as he ran 25 yards for a touchdown. Martinez kicked the PAT.
 Weinert never did give up and with 0:24 left in the third quarter, Forehand hit Edward Perez on a 30-yard touchdown reception. White kicked the PAT, leaving the score at 52-16.
 Then Richey scored on a 54-yard run with 0:15 left in the third. Martinez kicked the PAT.
 With 7:02 left, Billy Scogins scored on a 2-yard run to give the Jaybirds their 66-16 victory. Jayton will now meet Christoval in the state six-man finals this week.
 Congratulations, Bulldogs, on an excellent football season!!

Haskell teams win over Weinert

The Haskell varsity boys basketball team defeated Weinert here Monday night 60-47.
 Sammy Baker scored 21 points and Mark Young tossed in 15 as the Indians coasted to victory. Haskell built up a 22-11 first-quarter lead and was never seriously threatened.
 Walker paced Weinert with 14 points. Louis Perez had 13 for the Bulldogs.
 Against Goree Saturday night, the Indians were victorious by a 62-56 score. Young's 30 points paced the victors. Baker added 17.
 The Indians defeated Seymour last Tuesday by a score of 57-34. Baker and Young again paced the scorers with 20 and 14 points respectively.

Haskell's varsity girls' basketball team spotted Weinert a 13-9 first-quarter lead here Monday night and then came back to defeat the visitors, 58-40.

Roby tourney next stop for Haskell

Varsity boys' and girls' basketball teams from Haskell will play this weekend in the Roby Tournament.
 The Indians will meet Merkel at 5:30 p.m. Thursday. The winner of that game will play the Paint Creek-Roscoe winner at 6 p.m. Friday.
 In the girls' division, the Maidens also open against Merkel at 4 p.m. Thursday. The winner of that game will meet the winner of the Roscoe-Paint Creek game at 4:30 p.m. Friday.
 Girls' finals are slated to begin at 7 p.m. Saturday and the boys' finals will start at 8:30.
 Next Monday night, both boys' and girls' teams, as well as the junior varsities, will play at Roby.

After settling down and beginning to get the good shots inside, the Maidens outscored their opponents 16-4 in the second period.

Lori McGee was leading scorer with 13, while Roewe was top rebounder with 9.
 Haskell hit 50 percent of its field shots, connecting on 25 of 50. The Maidens were 8 of 13 from the foul line.
 On Tuesday of last week, the Maidens lost a close one to Seymour, 50-48. Coach George Martin said he thought his team played a very good game against a team which went to the state semifinals last year.
 Tamala Randle scored 10 points, while McGee, Donice Young and Patricia Henry each had 8. Randle and Roewe had 6 rebounds.

Paint Creek girls win tournament

By Steve Derrick
 The Paint Creek Pirates both played their championship games at the Woodson tournament Saturday. The girls came away with the first-place trophy and the boys won the second-place trophy.
 The "Lady Pirates" played a tough Bryson girls team and barely won by a score of 37-35. High scorers were Rhonda Coleman with 22, Kay Fischer with 10, and Gina Calk followed with 5. Leaders in rebounding were Sharlene Grisham with 8, Fischer with 6, Coleman and Calk followed with 4 each. The "Lady Pirates" shot 34 percent from the field and 42 percent from the line.
 The Pirates played their championship game against the Greyhounds of Throckmorton but were not so fortunate, losing by a score of 58-49.

High scorers were Steve Derrick with 13, Keith Medford with 12 and Jamie Braly followed with 9.

Leading rebounders were Braly and David Hoadley with 8, Derrick with 6 and Medford with 2.

The Pirates shot 45 percent from the field and 56 percent from the line.

The "Lady Pirates" kept their unblemished record of 7-0 and the Pirates fall to 4-3 for the season.

Maidens take third place in tourney

By Andy Griffith
 The Haskell Maidens took part in the Seymour tournament Dec. 5, 6 and 7.

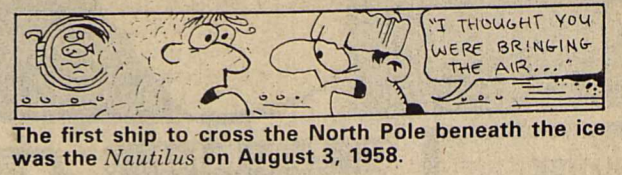

The Maidens had to play two games on Friday. The first game was played against Seymour's JV. Next, it was the Paducah Dragonettes.

The Maidens won the first game against Seymour's JV, 69-32.

The Maidens then played the Dragonettes. The Maidens lost, 35-34. "Too many turnovers cost us the game," Mindy Smith said.

The Maidens played the Electra Tigerettes for third place Saturday afternoon and won 51-26. "We did not perform to our fullest extent," Julie Roewe said. "We didn't play the way we were capable of playing."

"It was a good tournament. A lot of people got to play. I feel like Sheree Dumas, Dana Hale, Patricia Henry, Tina Lacey, Lori McGee, Tiffany Moeller, Tamala Randle, Julie Roewe, Mindy Smith, Robyn Weaver, Pam Weise and Denise Young gave outstanding performances at time. Overall we are getting better and playing better team ball," Coach George Martin said.

Deadline nearing for crop reporting

Wheat and other small grain growers in North Texas counties are reminded that Dec. 31 is the last day they have for reporting their insured crop according to Bruce Hottel, District Director for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC).

"Acres of wheat and other small grains insured by FCIC private agents (or by a private company reinsured by FCIC), must be reported to their insurance agent no later than 15 days after the final plant date of Dec. 15, 1985, in order to receive full crop insurance coverage", says Hottel.

"Producers should realize the importance of filing an accurate acreage report because this is what finalizes the insurance contract in terms of the protection offered and the premium charged. Insured growers are not required to insure all acres in a particular county but only the wheat timely planted for grain. Wheat planted after 12-15-85 or wheat that is not mechanically incorporated into the soil will not be insured. However all acres planted in a county must be reported to your agent, Hottel said.

"When reporting, the producer should have available his acreage planted by ASCS farm number, (and legal description where applicable), dates planting completed, ownership share in the crop, his Actual Proven History (APH) or his established yield on each farm from the ASCS, and where applicable, if the method of planting differs from being drill seeded. To estimate above or below the actual number of planted acres intended for grain harvest or the share in the crop would only cause problems for the policyholder in terms of being under or over insured", Hottel said.

"Increasingly, our insured producers are discovering that with a yield guarantee which reflects production capability, based on actual proven history, crop insurance establishes a farm income floor. Thus, cash flow and the ability to repay a loan may be more accurately projected," explained Hottel.

Weekly cotton report

Local cotton prices were weak to a half cent per pound lower during the week ending Dec. 5, according to B.B. Manly of the USDA Cotton Classing Office in Abilene.

Most cotton sold in mixed quality lots at 45 to 50 cents per pound with trading inactive to mostly slow. Commodity Credit Corp. (CCC) loan entries exceeded spot sales. Demand was light to very light.

Cottonseed prices paid producers were steady at mostly $50 to $65 dollars per ton.

The hard freeze on Dec. 1 completely defoliated cotton throughout the Abilene area. Harvesting gained momentum during the week, and many areas were operating near peak capacity by late in the week. About 54,000 cotton samples were classed during the week ending 5 December, which brought the seasonal total to 257,000 samples classed.

The quality of cotton recently classed has been slightly higher in grade than the seasonal average, but has been about the same for other quality factors. About 78 percent graded light-spotted last week, and 21 percent was white grades. Grade 42 continued predominant at 40 percent, followed by grade 52 at 27 percent. About 37 percent was reduced in grade because of bark or grass content.

Fiber length averaged 32.6. Micronaire was 91 percent within the 35 to 49 range, averaging 39.9. Grams per tex strength readings of HVI classed cotton averaged 23.6 during the past week.

Haskell woman wants second look at comet

A Haskell woman has a very special reason for wanting to see Halley's Comet this time around.

If she does, Mrs. Mildred (Shook) Green will become one of very few people in the world to see it a second time.

She vividly recalls seeing the comet on its 1910 visit from her father's ranch nine miles west of Rochester. She and other members of her family stood in the backyard of the ranch house as they watched the comet pass.

"We got a very clear view of the comet, even though it was traveling very fast," Mrs. Green recalls.

Mrs. Green says that she was very young at the time, but she remembers hearing a lot about it and she was very excited when she saw it.

Mrs. Green, a Haskell native, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M.S. Shook, pioneer Haskell County settlers.

Halley's was named for British astronomer Edmund Halley who first realized that streamy light shows in the skies every 76 years. Halley died 16 years before his true prediction that the comet would return in 1758.

A number of historic events are associated with Halley's Comet.

Mark Twain was born during Halley's 1835 appearance and he believed he was linked to the comet. In 1909, Twain wrote to a friend: "I came in with Halley's Comet in 1835. It is coming again next year, and I expect to go out with it. It will be the greatest disappointment of my life if I don't go out with Halley's Comet." Twain died on April 21, 1910, a day after Halley's closest passage to the sun.

Although the comet will be visible for three months, there are three "windows" which are the best times to see it in the Western hemisphere, according to the Halley Comet Watch Newsletter.

Those dates are Dec. 1-15 (just after sunset), Jan. 1-25 (an hour after sunset) and March 8-21 (an hour before sunrise).

Paint Creek church history published

Paint Creek United Methodist Church—1910-1985. A history of the Paint Creek United Methodist Church, published by the church. Available at $5 per copy from Gene Overton, phone 864-2886.

This attractive publication represents a significant document of the history of not only the church but of the Haskell County community of Paint Creek.

It should be of special interest to anyone who ever attended Paint Creek United Methodist Church or any of its predecessors. It also should be of interest to all Haskell countians interested in local history.

Roots of the Paint Creek church go back to 1889 when it was known as the Haskell Mission. A number of churches sprang from these beginnings, foremost of which were the Morris Chapel Church and the Ketrion Chapel Church.

In 1937 when the Post, Howard, Weaver, McConnell and Rose schools consolidated to form a large rural school, the Ketrion and Morris chapels also consolidated and built a new church near the new school. When the school chose the name of Paint Creek, the new church became known as the Paint Creek Methodist Church.

The history book contains many pieces of information and a number of photographs of ministers, members and church events. Also singled out are Sunday School superintendents, church secretaries, song leaders, pianists, teachers and lay leaders.

Weddings, christenings, baptisms and funerals also are noted.

Presented as a chronicle of historic facts and recollections, rather than as a chronological narrative, Paint Creek United Methodist Church—1910-1985 paints a rather vivid portrait of a community bound together by faith and religion, along with common ideas and ideals.

Monty Moeller in 'Who's Who'

Monty Allen Moeller of Haskell is among 52 students at Tarleton State University whose names will be included in the 1985-86 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Those 52 people who were selected at Tarleton represent just a little over one percent of the enrollment there.

As recommended by the national Who's Who organization, these selections were based on the Tarleton committee's belief that while at Tarleton these students have been outstanding in one or more of the following areas: scholarship, leadership, citizenship, service to the university, promise of future usefulness and participation in extracurricular activities.

They join an elite group of college juniors, seniors and graduate students from more than 1,400 colleges and universities in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Glaucoma chief cause of blindness

One out of every seven blind persons is a victim of glaucoma. Almost all of them had normal sight most of their lives and could have prevented their blindness.

That is easier said than done because glaucoma usually gives little warning to the victim until vision loss occurs, says the Texas Medical Association.

For this reason, persons near or past age 35 should have an eye examination at least once every two years. Glaucoma tends to run in families and strikes after age 35 in most cases.

Rule plans 'Project Santa'

"Project Santa," a program for the Rule Community which will help fellow residents who need a little assistance during the holiday season has been launched by a group of interested citizens of that community.

Plans call for this to be an annual effort.

Donations for families in need are now being accepted. Those wishing to contribute may do so by giving food, canned goods, clothing, toys or money. Food items might include Christmas goodies for shut-ins and elderly citizens.

Cash donations to the project are being accepted at the Farmers National Bank and are being placed in the "Santa" account. Money in this fund will be used for groceries or any special needs requested and brought to the attention of the sponsors.

Those wishing to make donations are encouraged to do so as soon as possible while there still is time to make needed repairs on clothing and toys.

"Drop boxes" have been provided at Tanners Grocery, Rule Grade School and City Hall. Those having knowledge of others in need in Rule are asked to call Debbie Kreger (997-2372), Claire Halliburton (997-2745) or Rule City Hall (997-2214).

Those unable to deliver contributions to the drop boxes may call one of the above. Checks, payable to "Santa Fund" may be taken to the bank, or given to one of the above.

Volunteers still are needed to help in this community project. Help is needed in getting things sorted and checked for repairs and help in the distribution at the proper time.

Members of the sponsoring group say they want every family in Rule to have a merry Christmas. "It's not just for children," they said. "It's for the elderly and anyone in this community who needs a helping hand in order to have a happier Christmas. This is an example of people helping people. Dreams can come true in Rule."

Fire drills help protect children

A home burns every 45 seconds and up to 2,000 children burn to death annually.

A drill called "Get Out Fast" trains youngsters in the importance of a quick escape. A child's first impulse in fires should always be to "get out," even though the glaze may be small, for it can become an inferno in minutes. Fire most often strikes at night while children are asleep, so the most important drill you can give them is this: Have them lie on their beds and then sound the alarm. Time them to see how long it takes to reach the meeting place outside the house.

A first, let them escape the simplest way. Then make them go through obstacles, such as "smoke" and the "hot" door. Block off stairways with a string so they know to use an alternate route. Be sure they practice going out a window. If they use a rope ladder, have them throw it out the window and actually climb down. If they are to wait on a roof until someone comes with a ladder, make them wait while you get the ladder. They must behave exactly as they would in a real fire.

The next drill is called "Call the Fire Engines." Teach your child exactly how to call the fire department; his quick action could save his life or your house. However, impress on him that if he discovers fire, he should act in this order: First, alert everyone so they can begin their escape. Then call the fire department if he can still do so safely. Lives have been lost because someone paused to call the firemen when he should have fled.

Have the children memorize the number of the fire department. Also, write out the number and place it permanently near the phone. Very small youngsters who can't dial long numbers at least can learn to dial "0" for the operator in an emergency.

When practicing, place a strip of tape over the receiver buttons so you can dial without letting the call go through. Have youngsters go to the phone, dial and give this information: "Our house is on fire at (address). The name is (head of household)." Then don't let them hang up immediately, but wait to be sure they were understood.

Hale couple winner of farm award

A grain and cotton producer from Hale County is the winner of the 1985 Texas Farm Bureau Outstanding Young Farmer & Rancher award.

Mike Price and his wife, Debbie, of Plainview, were announced as winners of the Outstanding Year Award here tonight at the 52nd annual TFB convention in the Tarrant County Convention Center.

The other finalists were Ira Roy Akers, Jr. and his wife, Debbie, of Clyde (Callahan County), and John D. McDowell, Jr. and his wife, Lee Ann, of Shamrock (Wheeler County).

The finalists were chosen originally from 27 entries and from 13 district winners.

All three finalists received an expense-paid trip to the 1985 TFB convention and will receive an expense-paid trip to the American Farm Bureau Federation's Young Farmer and Rancher Leaders Conference next Feb. 9-11 at Orlando, Fla.

For winning the competition, the Prices additionally will receive one-year's free use of a 1986 3/4-ton Ford pickup truck. The other two finalists will receive one-year's free use of a 1986 Ford Ranger.

Cuban added to 'wanted' list

Mario Blas Valera didn't waste much time getting into trouble with the law in his adopted country.

A native of Cuba who emigrated to the United States during the Mariel Cuban boat lift about seven years ago, Valera is wanted by Abilene law enforcement authorities for the Oct. 28 murder of Frank E. Henry.

Investigators say the 44-year-old Valera also caught the attention of the Miami Police Department before leaving Florida, primarily over allegations that he was trafficking cocaine and marijuana.

Henry was gunned down on an Abilene street in what detectives believe was a narcotics-related killing. Witnesses told police the shooting appeared to be unprovoked.

An autopsy revealed that Henry was hit with what appeared to be a .32-caliber slug. When investigators searched Valera's apartment in Abilene, they found a partial box of Winchester .32-caliber silver-tipped hollow-point bullets.

Ironically, Valera had been arrested on Sept. 3 in Abilene for unlawful carrying of a weapon.

Detectives say that they received information that following Henry's murder, Valera fled to Odessa where there is a large concentration of Mariel Cubans.

He is also known to travel between El Paso, Odessa and Lubbock.

This week Valera has been added to the Texas Most Wanted list.

A reward of up to $1,000 is being offered by the Governor's Office for information leading to Valera's arrest.

He is described as being 5-6, 160 pounds, with black hair, brown eyes and has a very dark complexion.

Book reveals that old trees serve as reminders of history

All the human veterans of the Texas Revolution in 1836 have long since passed on to their rewards, but there are still living witnesses to the events that Texas is celebrating in its 1986 Sesquicentennial.

These living witnesses can't talk, but their vitality can remind us of the historic events that shaped our destinies 150 years ago.

Many historic events which led to the Texas Revolution and the eventual statehood of Texas were witnessed by trees still living. Their tales are related in a popular hardcover book, in full color, entitled "Famous Trees of Texas."

It is an excellent Christmas gift and mood-setter for the forthcoming 1986 Texas Sesquicentennial year.

First published in 1970 by the Texas Forest Service, a part of the Texas A&M University System, the recently released Third Edition includes 81 Texas trees that were involved in historically significant events in the state's rich past.

The main purpose of publishing the book was to help make Texans and the traveling public more aware of the state's rich historical heritage and of its vital tree resources.

Each tree pictured has a short interesting story about the events that took place beneath its branches. Some served as bowers for early courts or religious rites. Others provided settlers protection from marauding Indians, and some assisted in the dispatch of frontier justice, serving as gallows or whipping posts.

The location of each tree is clearly shown on an attractive map of Texas.

Austin's famous Treaty Oak, the only survivor of a group of live oaks known as the Council Oaks, is one of the trees described. Stephen F. Austin is said to have signed the first boundary-line agreement between the Indians and the Texas settlers under it. In 1927, the tree was pronounced the most perfect specimen of a North American tree by the American Forestry Association Hall of Fame for Texas in Washington, D.C.

About 10 miles east of Gonzales stands another oak under which the General of the Army of Texas, Sam Houston, camped with some 400 Texans on the first night of their historic retreat from Gonzales, a retreat referred to as the "Runaway Scrape". Thirty-nine days later, the Texans defeated the Mexican Army, under General Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna.

In addition to the historic trees, five featured trees are recognized as the largest of their kind in the nation. Sixty-five other National Champion Big Trees (located in Texas) are listed together with their vital statistics and county locations. "Famous Trees of Texas" is a book of a quality to grace any library or coffee table. Copies are now available from Texas book dealers or from the Texas Forest Service, College Station, Texas, 77843, for $14.95 plus tax ($.75) and handling ($2.00).
