Indians take second, Maidens finish third

Girls' and boys' teams from Hawley took championship titles in the annual Haskell Kiwanis Club Invitational Basketball Tournament here last weekend.

The Bearcat boys' team defeated Haskell 53-45 in Saturday night's finals while the Lady Bearcats defeated Seymour for the girls' crown.

Haskell's boys' team took second-place honors in that division while the local Maidens captured third place. Each Haskell team posted a 3-1 mark during the three-day event.

The Indians lost the championship after allowing Hawley to pull away in the fourth quarter. Haskell had led 14-10 at the end of the first quarter. The teams were tied at 24-24 at halftime and the score was knotted 34-all at the three-quarter mark. But the Bearcats scored 19 points in the final period while the Indians were getting only 11.

"It was the little things that beat us," Coach Jim Raughton, whose team now stands at 11-3 for the season.

Sammy Baker scored 26 points against Hawley, while Mark Young added 10.

The Indians had reached the finals with a 60-58 win Friday over 6-AA rival Stamford. The score see-sawed back and forth during the most of the contest until Tim Johnson hit a jumper in the final five seconds. Baker's 22 points paced the Indian scorers. Young added 17 and Ponciano Lopez 11.

Haskell had reached the semifinals with a couple of Thursday victories, 69-41 over Rule and 87-45 over Goree.

Young scored 17 points against Rule and Baker scored 15. Against Goree, Young scored 30 points while Baker had 14.

The Haskell girls won their first two games of the tournament, over Rule and Goree, before dropping a 54-53 heartbreaker to Seymour in Friday's semifinals. They then defeated Hamlin 56-50 in overtime to take third-place honors.

In the third-place game Saturday, the Maidens outscored Hamlin 6-0 in the overtime period after the regular game had ended in a 50-50 standoff.

Patricia Henry's 12 points topped the Haskell scoring. She was followed closely by Lori McGee with 11. Tamala Randle, Julie Roewe and Denise Young each had 10.

In the semifinal game against Seymour, the Maidens had jumped to a 14-11 first-quarter advantage, but were outscored 18-13 in the second period to fall behind at halftime 29-27. Haskell gained a point by outscoring Seymour 13-12 in the third period and the two teams each scored 13 points in the last period.

McGee, Roewe and Randle topped the scorers with 14, 12 and 11 points, respectively.

The Maidens had reached the semifinals with an 82-14 romp past Rule and a 39-33 victory over Goree in Thursday's action. McGee scored 19 points against Rule and Tiffany Moeller pitched in 14. Against Goree, Roewe topped the scorers with 13 points, followed by Henry's 9.

Coach George Martin said that he was well pleased with the Maidens' overall effort. "Everyone got in a lot of playing time," said the coach.

Mrs. Couch ends 36-year bank career

By Janet Wilke

Pauline Hines Couch, vice president and cashier at Haskell National Bank will retire from banking on Dec. 31. She will have served with HNB for the past 36 years at her retirement.

Mrs. Couch is the wife of Raymond Couch and the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Will Hines, early Haskell County pioneers. Mrs. Couch received her education at Rule Public Schools, and attended McMurry College in Abilene.

Mrs. Couch began her banking background at the Farmers National Bank in Rule in 1942, then served with the State National Bank in El Paso for a year prior to working with the Haskell National Bank.

In 1957, when the bank opened its new facilities in its present location, Mrs. Couch became the bank's first drive-in teller. In 1976, she was promoted to her present status as vice president and cashier.

As well as her duties in the banking industry, Mrs. Couch took time out to raise two daughters, Pamela, who was born in 1945, and Andrea, who was born in 1947.

Pauline's children are grown with children of their own now. Pamela is now Mrs. Philip Norton and she and her husband are parents to two daughters, Whitney 18, and Erin, 15, all of whom live in Arvada, Colo. Andrea is married to Bobby Whorton, and they are parents to 17-year-old Robert Jr. and 13-year-old Emily. The family lives in San Saba.

When asked what plans she had for the future, Mrs. Couch grinned and with a twinkle in her eye said, "Well, one thing is for sure, I am not going to be sitting around the house all day and watching soap operas." She said that she had plans to study piano, catch up some on her reading, and "be Raymond's number one flunkie." She also admitted to hoping to see her children and grandchildren more often since she will have more time now.

Mrs. Couch said that she

foresees many great things in the banking industry for the future.

"With the coming of the computer age, I really don't think there is anything that cannot be done now. They have given us the potential to do so much more than we ever could do before," she commented.

Mrs. Couch has seen banking come from hand posting and posting on slow machines, to the age of computer automation.

She predicts that in the next 10 years, we will see more usage of electronic funds transfers, and much of the banking industry will be using this method of payment, instead of the check-writing method.

When asked if she would feel a little sad upon retiring from a job which she held so long, Mrs. Couch had to reflect for a moment. "Well, I suppose when you have done something for the past 36 years, it becomes a part of your life, but life goes on and I'll be there to go on with it." Then, she added with a laugh, "I may show up there some mornings just out of habit, because my car might not know how to go any other place except Haskell National Bank."

Even if she decided at some future date to show up "just out of habit", Pauline Couch will always remain a vital part of the HNB family even after her retirement on Dec. 31.

100 years

Free Press reaches milestone

The Haskell Free Press turns 100 with this issue.

It was Jan. 1, 1886, that the first issue of the Free Press came off the press in Throckmorton. It has been published every week since.

The Free Press was founded by H.C. Leonard of Throckmorton who contracted with a half dozen local merchants to run display advertisements in the newspaper. He also sold about 100 subscriptions to the newspaper and hired Oscar Martin as editor at $20 a month.

At the beginning the printed newspaper was delivered to Haskell from Throckmorton by horseback. The rider would take back copy for the next week's issue.

Printing continued in Throckmorton until May of that year when the plant was moved to Haskell.

Martin and his brother-in-law, Judge J.E. Poole, owned and published the newspaper for the rest of their lives. Martin died July 9, 1915, and Poole died Feb. 20, 1920.

Later this year, the Free Press will publish a special historical edition, commemorating the 100th birthday of the newspaper and the 150th birthday of Texas.

Letters to the Editor

Editor: We would like to take this opportunity to thank the people of Haskell.

The last few months I have found out who are my friends. I have lived in Haskell 27 years. I have friends, but the last few months they have showed me and my boys more love than we have ever known. We would like to thank Lucy Clark for taking care of me and the boys while I had my leg in a cast. And for the love she has given us. We want to thank Jo Camp for sharing her mother with us. If not for them and the rest of the people in Haskell I would not have made the last few months.

We would also like to thank the Young Homemakers for the shopping tour they took the boys on. Would like to thank Laura Miller, Barbara Roberts and Johnnie Carroll for their gifts for me and the boys. Also to Tammie and Tommy Roberts for their gift to the boys.

To Dollie B. and Skeeter Feemster for their groceries. To Laura Andress and her Sunday School class for the groceries that they gave us. And to Velma Campbell and Stella Steele for their gifts. To the Goodfellows for their groceries and toys.

There is a special thanks that goes to Sue Campbell and her family. Don't know where we would be without their love and support.

Thank you for making our Christmas one to remember. We love each and everyone of you. There is not a better town to live in. All our love to each and everyone. A special Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Resolved: Better health

A New Year's resolution worth making—and keeping—is one that adds a number of healthy, productive days to each year of one's life. This resolution, according to the American Heart Association, involves making lifestyle choices that will help you look better, feel better, and live longer.

The first choice is to not smoke. By not smoking, you significantly reduce your risk of death from heart disease, chronic bronchitis, emphysema, and cancer.

Within twelve hours after you have your last cigarette, your body will begin to heal itself. The levels of carbon monoxide and nicotine in your system will decline rapidly, and your heart and lungs will begin to repair the damage caused by cigarette smoke. Within a few days, you will begin to notice some remarkable changes in your body. Your sense of smell and taste return. Your smoker's hack will disappear. Your digestive tract will return to normal.

Most of all, you will feel really alive—clearheaded, full of energy and strength. You will be breathing easier. And you will be free from the mess, smell, inconvenience, expense, and dependence of cigarette smoking. Although some withdrawal pangs may be present, these are only temporary and signal the beginning of a healthier life.

The American Heart Association recognizes the difficulty of quitting the smoking habit, and has developed an important tool for smokers to use in making the choice not to smoke. It is titled, "Calling It Quits," and contains two guides, "The Good Life" and "How to Quit."

These guides offer important tips on becoming a nonsmoker, including the use of support groups, positive thinking, relaxation techniques, dealing with stress, anxiety, cravings, and depression. Based on the concept of developing the habit of not smoking, the guides provide tips for developing a plan based on your individual situation.

"Calling It Quits" is available at no charge from your local American Heart Association office.

The second part to your New Year's resolution may be to change your sedentary lifestyle. Like most Americans, you probably get little vigorous exercise at work or during leisure hours. You do not get enough exercise from golfing, bowling, or vacuuming the house. A more aggressive exercise plan can be easily accomplished.

There are many ways to get exercise. Activities such as swimming, brisk walking, running, jumping rope, dancing, and so forth, are most beneficial. These exercises, performed regularly, not only make you look better and feel better, but often contribute to more productivity at work, build stamina, increase muscle strength, and help your lungs and heart work more efficiently. The benefits of a well-conditioned heart can help you enjoy life more fully.

Again, the American Heart Association provides a useful tool, titled, "E is For Exercise," available from your local AHA office, free of charge. The third aspect of a worthwhile New Year's resolution is to develop better eating habits. Both the amount and type of food you eat may affect how your body functions. Medical experts have found that the heart is affected by a diet that contains too many calories, and is too rich in animal fats and a fatlike substance called cholesterol. This kind of diet contributes to atherosclerosis, a fatty build-up on the lining of the arteries.

The American Heart Association offers advice on developing an eating plan that is low in saturated fat and cholesterol and also provides the essential nutrients and is appetizing. In a booklet titled, "Help Your Heart Eating Plan," all of the main food categories are addressed, showing which foods are "heart healthy" and which are not. This popular brochure will guide your food-buying and eating choices, and is also available free of charge.

Beginning the New Year with a resolution for a healthier lifestyle is a good first step. But without action, it will be meaningless—simply another resolution that goes unheeded. The key is to not do it alone. Obtain the American Heart Association guides and develop a plan. The AHA is on your side and will steer you to the resources you need.

Selling Haskell Co. for over 25 years

REACHING AGREEMENT ON PP&P!

PRICE, POSSESSION and PERSONAL PROPERTY! Those are the three key ingredients to be negotiated during the sale of real estate. Although many topics are discussed between buyers and sellers, the three mentioned above head the list.

Naturally, price must be agreed upon. The buyer and seller each have different money requirements, and the final price will more than likely reflect a fair solution to the needs of both, creating a win/win situation.

Possession is a topic which may provoke some unreasonable expectations on the part of both buyer and seller. The purchaser may want possession immediately upon closing the transaction, since it belongs to him and he begins paying taxes on the first day of ownership. The seller on the other hand may say "I'll need three weeks after closing to move, since I absolutely refuse to move before being paid."

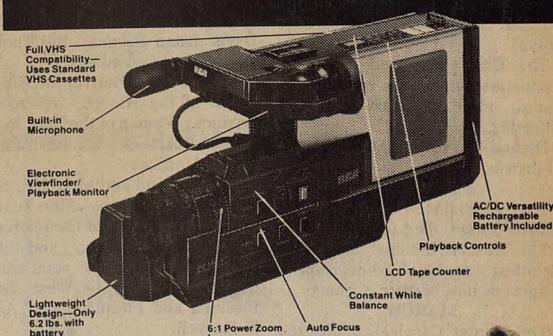

The last major negotiating point is personal property. This topic may become an emotional one. The buyer is willing to pay full price for the home, but insists that the seller leave the microwave oven (which was an anniversary gift). The seller's wife becomes infuriated.

Each of the three important points discussed above must be settled in a manner which creates fairness and balance to all parties.

If you need information to help you solve a real estate puzzle, call us at 864-2665. We'll be happy to share our knowledge with you at no cost or obligation.

Women eligible for vet benefits

A much smaller percentage of female veterans are applying for Veterans Administration benefits than their male counterparts.

According to C.H. Herren, Veterans Service Officer for Haskell County, women veterans are entitled to the same rights, privileges, and benefits as men veterans who served during the same period in the Armed Forces of the United States.

A woman is a veteran for all benefit purposes if she served on active duty with any of the Armed Forces of the United States and if she was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable. - (1) Disability compensation or pension.
- (2) Admission to a VA Hospital for medical care.
- (3) GI home loan.
- (4) Veterans preference in Federal employment.
- (5) Texas State Veterans Land Program and Housing Assistance Program.

Women veterans are invited to contact their local Veterans Service Officer for additional information concerning their entitlement to benefits.

Cotton Bowl parade features Six White Horses

The Hardin-Simmons University Cowboy Band and Six White Horses and their coed riders will be one of the featured groups at the nationally televised Cotton Bowl Parade in Dallas on Jan. 1.

The parade through the streets of "Big D" will be televised nationally by CBS-TV and shown locally over KTAB-TV.

Bandsmen and the coed riders of the Six White Horses were at the Cotton Bowl Parade last in 1983 and have been part of the select group several times in the past.

It will be the first time for W. Scott Mather, director of the university bands, to lead the Cowboy Band during a Cotton Bowl Parade as he is in his second year as director. Veteran Dr. William O. (Bill) Beazley, coordinator of the White Horses, will accompany the coeds and transport the horses to Dallas.

Upon the band's return to the campus in mid-January, members will begin final rehearsals for their upcoming trip to Nice, France, Feb. 6-13.

The Six White Horses participated in the recent Christmas parade in Haskell. Among the coed riders is Sharon Gray of Haskell. Riders are chosen by tryout each fall and are required to maintain high academic averages.

Best farm bill possible: Stenholm

Congress approved the final version of the 1985 Farm Bill in the waning hours of the current session in the nation's capitol last week.

The House-Senate Agriculture Conference Committee submitted a compromised, five-year bill that will help protect farm income, promote trade and push acreage conservation programs, said Congressman Charles Stenholm, a member of the House Ag Committee. In addition to carving out a bill that includes a safety net for farm income, he said this legislation came in $3 billion under budget.

"When you consider all the philosophies involved in producing such an imposing piece of legislation, we came out with the best bill possible," said Congressman Stenholm, who was one of four lawmakers chosen as a conferee for certain sections of the farm bill.

"This bill will not satisfy everybody. It is not a magic wand that solves all our problems instantly. But among its positive characteristics is a move in the direction that helps efficient farmers survive today's hard times, while staying within the bounds of fiscal responsibility."

Stenholm, who was the only Texan on the conference committee besides Chairman Kika de la Garza, said this bill mandates the Secretary of Agriculture to sell surpluses. The legislation should encourage better trade policies that will allow farmers to meet foreign competition. The Stamford Democrat said it also has the most effective supply-management program in recent history.

Major points in the legislation include:

*It offers a safety net of farm income with target prices for cotton at 81 cents, wheat at $4.38 and grain sorghum or corn at $3.03 a bushel. It offers this for one more year.

*A dairy program which maintains an effective price support price through 1990 and a farmer-financed "while-herd" disposal program to cut milk surpluses.

*A sodbuster program designed to discourage shifting fragile land to crop use and conservation programs including a long-term Conservation Reserve to shift 40 to 45 million acres of fragile cropland to less intensive use.

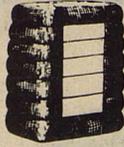

*Extension of domestic food assistance programs, including Food Stamps, with modest restoration of some past benefit cuts for the needy.

*Extension of agricultural research authority with some new research priority guidelines; steps to assure the availability of leaded fuel for old farm engines until at least the end of 1987.

Included in this farm bill were several Stenholm provisions. Along with clear Title and Bases and Yields sections, the area's Representative was responsible for changing the nation's farm program time table from four years to five. "I did this to avoid writing the next farm bill during the first year of the newly-elected administration. This will allow the new administration to get their folks on board and give them time to decide which way they think legislation should go," he said.

Stenholm added that passage of this legislation may not be the last word in farm policy over the next few years. Because of the newly-adopted deficit-reduction legislation in Gramm-Rudman, Congress will continue reviewing all areas of expenditures, especially the commodity support programs.

Property taxes total $8.2 billion

Local governments across Texas levied a total of $8.2 billion in property taxes during 1984, according to the State Property Tax Board's (SPTB) annual report for the 1984 tax year. "Over half of the property taxes in 1984 went to the public schools," said Ron Patterson, SPTB executive director.

The statewide property tax levy increased by over 13 percent from 1983, when the total levy was $7.2 billion. By comparison, the 1983 levy rose by nearly 10 percent from 1982.

"The property tax is still the most important revenue source for school districts, cities, counties and special districts such as utility, junior college and hospital districts," said Patterson.

The annual report shows that school districts increased their tax levies by about 15 percent from 1983 to 1984. Cities raised their tax levies by almost 12 percent in the same period while special districts increased taxes by almost 16 percent. Only county taxes, which went up by nine percent in 1984, grew at a slower rate than in 1983.

At $4.1 billion, school district property taxes made up close to 51 percent of all property taxes in 1984, while the city share of the levy was 20 percent. Counties levied 17 percent of total 1984 property taxes and special districts accounted for the remaining 12 percent.

Cities levied a total of $1.6 billion in property taxes in 1984 while the county total was $1.4 billion and the special district total levy was $970 million.

The per capita property tax levy in 1984 was $450.47, compared to $416.86 in 1983. Local property taxes made up over 41 percent of the total state and local tax burden in 1984. Patterson noted that this percentage was virtually unchanged from 1983.

Using information reported by the state's school districts, SPTB calculated the portions of the 1984 school tax levy generated by various types of property.

The figures show that business taxpayers, including mineral producers, paid 52 percent of the school taxes in 1984 while owners of single-family residences paid over 30 percent. Farm properties, including rural acreage, bore less than eight percent of the school tax burden while other classes of property paid the remaining ten percent.

Marriage fraud brings many aliens to U.S.

Cahit Canagir sits proudly on a worn chair in his custom tailoring and alteration shop near the University of Michigan campus. Cahit talks freely, in halting English, about the good life he has made for himself and his family in America since emigrating from Turkey nine years ago.

"In this country, life is better than in that place," he says, comparing the prosperity of Ann Arbor with the poverty of Istanbul. What Cahit will not talk about quite so freely is how he came to America in the first place.

But his first wife, Cheryl, who asks not to be identified by her real name, admits the two defrauded the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) by entering into a sham marriage overseas so that Cahit could come to America and remain as a permanent resident.

"I was young when I went abroad the first time," she begins. "I lived with a family in Turkey." Anxious to repay them for their hospitality, Cheryl, then 23, offered to marry Cahit, their 22-year-old son.

Cahit could not speak English and Cheryl could not speak Turkish, so they needed a translator to communicate. "I was not tricked," she says. "We had no intention of staying married. It was a humanitarian move.

The wedding ceremony was performed in 1976 in the town of Bogazliyan and afterward, the two went to the U.S. consulate in Istanbul to apply for a visa so Cahit could return with Cheryl to the United States.

The couple returned to America and Cahit eventually received his green card. After two years, Cheryl filed for divorce and later remarried. Cahit returned briefly to Turkey four years ago, took a second wife, Lese, and brought her back to Ann Arbor.

In retrospect, Cheryl admits her first marriage was wrong. "It was done for what I thought were good reasons," she says, "but it probably wasn't the right thing to do."

Perhaps even worse are the cases in which the American spouse does not realize the alien is only marrying to get a green card. Every year thousands of American women marry foreigners in good faith—and later discover that they were victims of a fraud.

During the marriage, the American women often suffered beatings, harassment, emotional trauma and loss of personal property. In some cases, the aliens skipped town with a newly acquired green card and also took the furniture, car and bank account. The American spouses left behind often ended up paying off the debts and with the added burden of child care.

In Andrea's case, after her June 1983 wedding, she quit school so she could work to support alien husband Maroun and herself and pay for his education. She would have attended Maroun's graduation last December but one week after he received his green card in November 1984, she says, he told her the marriage was over and he no longer loved her.

He used to beat me every week because he was trying to get me to ask for a divorce. Finally I left and went back to my mother.

After consulting with immigration officials in Detroit, Andrea filed for a divorce, which was granted last April. By that time, she says, Maroun had taken all the furniture and had returned—green card in hand—to the woman he had lived with previously.

"What hurt me the most was facing my friends and family who advised me not to get into it," she says, trying hard to maintain her composure. "It is such a bad experience. I want to hold my head up high, but as a divorced Catholic woman I cannot. I have been used and betrayed."

Her efforts to get the justice she seeks—having Maroun's green card rescinded and getting him deported—have been thwarted. Detroit immigration officials have told her there is little they can do because at the time Maroun applied for permanent resident status, he met the necessary marital requirements. Congress has refused requests by INS officials to change the law to allow deportation in such cases.

"Maroun married me just for the green card and since we're no longer married, he shouldn't get to keep it. He took me for a ride. But I'm not the only one. There are thousands of American girls who are being used like this."

U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) officials estimate that 50,000 sham marriages take place each year in the United States.

Filing period open for Silver Hairs

Prospective members of the first Texas Silver Haired Legislature will begin filing petitions for candidacy Jan. 1, 1986, in anticipation of this spring's election.

The filing process, which will continue until February 28, 1986, will take place through area agencies on aging throughout Texas. Balloting will be held in May.

Any Texan who is over 60 years of age prior to January 1 and is a registered voter living in the area from which he or she is applying for candidacy may run for the Silver Haired Legislature. Candidacy forms can be obtained at West Central Texas Council of Governments in Abilene and Senior Citizens Centers within the region.

The address of the area agency in this area is 1025 E.N. 10th Street in Abilene.

The Silver Haired Legislature (SHL), which was authorized this year by the 69th Texas Legislature, is an elected, non-partisan body of seniors who will meet in Austin next year to draft and propose suggested legislation for consideration by the 70th Texas Legislature in 1987.

The concept of a senior legislature has been adopted by many other states, and has proven very successful in fulfilling its goals, which include:

1. Providing seniors with a chance to gain understanding of the legislative process through direct involvement.

2. Developing a forum for older citizens to discuss issues that are meaningful to them, transform them into legislation, and present these bills to the regular state legislature.

3. Providing advocacy training that will allow senior legislators to offer informed assistance to policy makers.

Paula Johnson of the Texas Department on Aging, who helped develop the Texas SHL, observed that "The Silver Haired Legislature has the potential to be a powerful ally of seniors in this state, but it can't succeed without participation by people who represent a true cross-section of political viewpoints."

Cattle prices to improve

"Guarded optimism" might be the watchword for cattlemen as 1986 looms ahead.

Cattle numbers should continue at a low level in 1986 and that should help bring some strength back to market prices, says a Texas Agricultural Extension Service economist. However, cattlemen must deal with a number of factors that will have a direct bearing on market prices in the year ahead, a major one being the declining demand for beef.

Dr. Ernie Davis outlines five factors that he feels will have the most effect on cattle prices in 1986:

1. Poultry supplies and prices. Expansion of the poultry industry probably has had the greatest impact on beef demand. Davis expects per capita poultry consumption (75 pounds) to surpass per capita beef consumption for the first time in 1986. In addition to the growth of the poultry industry, broiler prices relative to beef prices were only 15 cents per pound higher than retail poultry prices. Currently, beef prices are $1.50 to $2 per pound higher than poultry prices, and this has caused a lot of consumers to switch from beef to poultry. At the same time, beef production and marketing costs have far outpaced these same costs for the poultry industry.

2. Cheap grain. In 1985 cheap grain impacted the beef market more than any other factor. Feeders were expecting fed cattle prices to improve so they kept feeding them cheap grain. This produced carcasses that were too heavy and wasty and led to price discounts of up to $18 per hundredweight.

3. Overfinished cattle. If feeders continue to pump cheap grain into cattle in 1986 at levels that will produce overfinished carcasses, the same price discounts will continue.
4. The retail marketing argin. Retail marketing margins reached record levels in 1985 while retail beef prices remained relatively stable. These stable prices were actually a problem because they did not decline as prices to producers fell. Thus the retail marketing margin increased to $1.09 per retail pound.

5. Beef supplies. Although cattle numbers will be down in 1986, beef supplies could increase if cattle feeders continue to feed cattle to heavier weights. Also, if the liquidation phase of the cattle cycle continues, more and more cows and heifers will be moving to market.

So what does 1986 hold as far as cattle prices are concerned?

"Fed cattle prices for the fourth quarter of 1985 should average $61 to $64 per hundredweight. For the first quarter of 1986 fed cattle prices should average $2 to $3 higher. The second quarter should see fed cattle prices continuing to inch up. However, I do not expect fed cattle prices to reach the $70 level by mid-year despite cheap grain prices," says Davis.

Cotton Council disappointed

The National Cotton Council has expressed disappointment at President Reagan's veto of the textile trade bill, saying the measure could have saved thousands of jobs and strengthened the severely depressed U.S. cotton industry.

Council President Sam Hollis said the textile import problem is so serious that, if left unchecked, the domestic cotton market will be reduced to zero in just five more years.

"Responsibility for assuring a fair playing field and fair rules for international competition rests with government," he said, "and it's time for the government to meet industry halfway and do its part."

"Only government is equipped to deal effectively with unfair trading practices, circumvention of trade agreements, mislabeling of products, subsidized raw fiber and manufacturing abroad, and the effects of an overvalued dollar."

The Council president added that both industry and government bear responsibility for achieving relief from the devastating import problem. He said the industry will continue steps already underway to assure that, given a fair international playing field, it can remain competitive.

"Already in place and receiving enthusiastic support are investments in new production technology, research to enhance product quality and further boost productivity, market development programs to promote textile product consumption, and programs such as the "Made In U.S.A." campaign to promote allegiance to American-made products."

Hollis said survival of the American textile manufacturing industry is at stake in the textile import issue.

"The cotton industry remains committed to solving the problem and will continue to work through the Council and other organizations to encourage government to accept its responsibility in this critical matter," he stated.
