Special rodeo features will include a calf scramble for kids 10 years and younger, a steer dressing contest for merchants and the selection of the 1986 rodeo queen.

The queen contest will be on opening night, rather than on Friday as it was last year. Girls will be evaluated on their appearance, attitude and horsemanship by a panel of judges, including Mrs. Joe Boone of Knox City, Mrs. J. M. Emerson of Knox City and Mrs. Howard Hopkins of Haskell.

City sales taxes record slight drop

The City of Haskell this week received a check for $20,723.88 as its share of sales taxes collected during the month of March.

got $5,390.90, compared to $3,724.71 last year. O'Brien's $668.14 was more than double last year's $304.40 and Weinert saw an increase to $461.27 from $425.31. Rochester dropped to $1,394.16 from last year's $1,734.05.

Protein takes biggest part of food budget

About 38 cents of each food dollar goes for meat or protein substitute foods, making them the most expensive part of a family's diet.

The protein food group consists of meat, fish, poultry and beans, says Marilyn Haggard, a nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

These foods are the major suppliers of protein, iron, vitamins B-6 and B-12, zinc and many other vitamins and minerals.

Haggard suggests the following as ways to trim the amount of the food dollar spent on protein foods.

—Follow recommendations for serving sizes and numbers of servings to meet protein requirements. Large servings from this group are not needed. A serving of meat, poultry or fish is 2-3 ounces cooked, one cup of dried peas or beans, two eggs or four tablespoons of peanut butter.

—Learn to determine the amount of lean meat you're getting per pound. A seemingly inexpensive piece of meat may actually be very expensive if there is a great deal of waste due to bones, fat, gristle or skin.

—Learn how to cook less expensive cuts of meat. They are usually tougher cuts and need moist rather than dry heat. Use these in stews or pot roasts. These cuts are very nutritious because they're high in protein and low in fat.

—Include advertised meat specials in your meals.

—Use meat substitutes often. One cup of dried beans or four tablespoons of peanut butter may be substituted for a serving of meat. Serve dried peas and beans with rice and peanut butter with milk to make proteins complete.

—To make sure you get the most from your meat dollar, be sure to store meats properly in your refrigerator or freezer. Use leftovers promptly so you don't waste food through spoilage.

Immunizations are important to adults

If you think that immunizations against "childhood" diseases and other illnesses are strictly for kids, you are dangerously wrong, and may be risking serious illness, even death.

Immunizations and periodic "booster shots" are for everyone. They protect not only against common childhood illnesses, but also for some potentially deadly diseases and infections which often strike adults more severely than they do kids.

The Texas Dept. of Health has warned that adults should be as careful in keeping their own immunizations current as they are with their children's.

Thomas Betz, MD, chief, Bureau of Communicable Diseases, said, "Today's vaccines are responsible for tremendous success in controlling diseases which only a few decades ago, took thousands of lives yearly in the United States. Diphtheria, for example, as recently as 40 years ago, infected more than 1,500 Texans in 1946, killing 104 victims. Now, through tetanus-diphtheria inoculations started in childhood and boosters administered every 10 years, both tetanus and diphtheria can be avoided. Only unvaccinated persons are likely to suffer either of these potentially fatal diseases."

Diphtheria usually spreads when unimmunized persons breathe droplets exhaled by an infected person who coughs, sneezes or even laughs. The illness causes inflammation of the nose, throat and windpipe, and one in 10 victims dies as a gray coating in the throat covers the windpipe or toxins produced by the infecting agents damage the heart muscle.

Tetanus (lockjaw) occurs when tetanus bacteria from the soil or other source enter a break in the skin. Cuts, burns, punctures, even tiny scratches can become infected with tetanus. The infection leads to progressively severe muscle spasms and in 50 percent of the cases, death.

"Because influenza (flu) is almost a yearly occurrence in any office or family, its seriousness is sometimes overlooked," said Bob Crider, director of TDH's Immunization Division. Airborne strains of the flu virus change frequently, sometimes causing only mild symptoms, but complications may incapacitate or kill the victims. Each major change in the virus calls for re-immunization of the persons most at risk of severe illness. Persons 65 and older, and persons with chronic respiratory, heart, or immune system illnesses are urged to renew their flu vaccinations annually.

"Some persons fail to get their flu shots for fear of side effects," Dr. Betz said, "and some have heard untrue stories of persons contracting the flu from the vaccine. Certainly there are a small number of people who should avoid or delay flu shots—those with severe allergic reactions to eggs, those with certain paralytic disorders and persons ill with fever at the time of their appointments," he said.

Dr. Betz added that these few people should seek their doctors' advice, but that most people should have no fear of illness from the vaccination. "They should feel relieved of a potentially serious danger. They should bear in mind that global influenza epidemics before we had vaccines were catastrophic. In the 1918 outbreak, more than 21 million people died," he said.

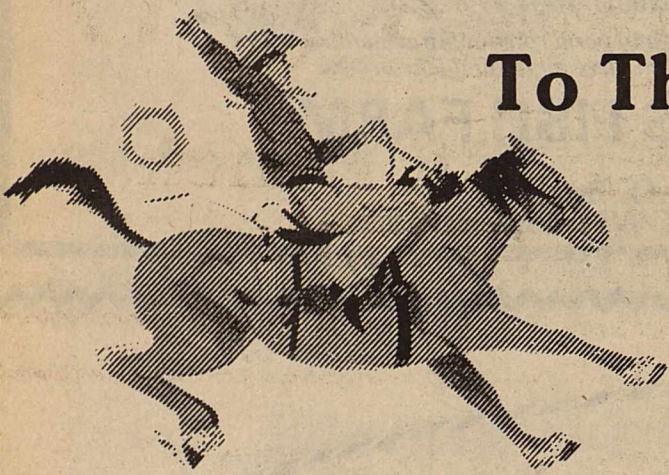

Rubella (German measles) is usually mild in adults, but can be particularly harmful to unborn children. The child of a woman who contracts rubella in the first three months of pregnancy can have serious birth defects. Women of childbearing age who are vaccinated against rubella should not become pregnant until three months after receiving the vaccine.

The first bowling tournament for women was held in St. Louis, Missouri in 1917.

City and for more than 40 years, Oxsheer was a titanic figure in the cattle industry and instrumental in upgrading Texas cattle from rangy longhorns to his famous Lazy Diamond Hereford stock, which buyers would purchase sight unseen.

The forgotten cattle king's story is an eloquent example of how an independent spirit, sacrifice and labor made a harsh wilderness into a civilized home for generations of Texans. The author, Benton R. White, is an instructor at Northeast Texas Community College in Mount Pleasant and is a specialist in frontier and Texas history.

The book is available from local booksellers or from the publisher, Texas A&M University Press, Drawer C, College Station 77843. It is priced at $14.95.

Early Texas cowman subject of new book

Fountain Goodlet Oxsheer was one of Texas' most dynamic cattle ranchers. But few Texans remember him today.

Once the baron of an intricate network of ranches, including the vast Lazy Diamond Ranch between Stanton and Big Spring, Oxsheer was a name known to even small children in many West Texas towns.

A book has just been released that tells the saga of this unusual and fascinating man's life. It is entitled "The Forgotten Cattle King."

F. G. Oxsheer had a desperate childhood on a cotton farm near Cameron, Texas. Broken by the Civil War, abysmal cotton prices, crippling accidents and disease, the Oxsheer family was headed by the surviving son—young F. G.—who at age 19 joined forces with neighbors and began driving longhorns up the trail to the Abilene stockyards. Shunning the gambling and drink that often devoured the earnings of other cowhands, Oxsheer saved enough money to buy more cattle to drive north and sell for a profit.

Paymaster & Lankart are the #1 brands in Texas & Oklahoma.

Here's how we figure...
It pays to plant Paymaster & Lankart certified seed!

For example: say your average yield is 500 lbs. per acre

Could be 15% → x 10% potential yield gain with Paymaster/Lankart certified seed

50 lbs. more lint per acre

x 55¢ per lb. for your lint

= $27.50 more income per acre with Paymaster certified seed

- 8.00 additional cost for certified seed per acre

= $19.50 potential per acre more in your pocket

Just 14 lbs more lint per acre will pay the difference

Plus a cash discount. Paymaster certified seed means certified for varietal purity and genetic identity by U.S.D.A. State inspected and Vitavax treated.

Non-smokers banding together

Americans concerned about the serious potential health risks of breathing air tainted by tobacco smoke have begun to band together, using the democratic process to secure nonsmokers' rights, according to the latest annual report issued by the American Lung Assn.

The two-thirds majority of the adult population in the U. S. which do not smoke have become a very vocal majority indeed, the Lung Association says. Many states, cities and counties across the country, heeding the voice of their citizens, have enacted limits on smoking in public. And a few pioneering states are now regulating smoking in the workplace. Their partners in this effort are the growing number of companies that have discovered limiting smoking on the job makes good business sense.

A recent Gallup survey commissioned by the Lung Association found that 87 percent of Americans want companies either to ban smoking at work or else limit it to certain areas. The Lung Association cites a few of the hardships caused to both employers and employees from smoking:

- Smokers average a 35-to-45 percent higher absentee rate than nonsmokers, which translates into 80 million lost workdays a year due to smoking.

- Lost productivity due to smoking-related illness in the U. S. adds up to a whopping $30.4 billion annually.

- Employers have to shoulder a hefty chunk of the $22.3 billion yearly in health-care expenditures caused by smoking.

"Freedom From Smoking at Work," a new program from the American Lung Assn. offers companies tailor-made stop-smoking programs and customized nonsmoking policies suited to all kinds and sizes of businesses and industries.

For information concerning smoking in the workplace, contact the American Lung Assn. of Texas, 3520 Executive Center Drive, Suite G-100, Austin, TX 78731-1606 or call toll free 1-800-252-LUNG.

Money management skills help families

Rising unemployment rates mean more Texas families are facing a financial crisis.

"This can be a frustrating and stressful situation, but improved money management skills can help families survive these rough times," says home economist Mary Clayton Nance.

She points out that families must give high priority to paying fixed expenses such as rent or mortgage payments, insurance premiums, car payments and installment debt from the income they have available.

That leaves food, utilities, clothing, household operations and other flexible expenses to be cut.

Nance, a resource management specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX), says the following can produce the greatest savings of flexible family expenses:

- Reduce food costs by carefully planning meals and snacks for each day for a week ahead. Plan low-cost protein foods such as dry beans, eggs, peanut butter, turkey and chicken, hamburger or liver. Stretch meat in casseroles and other combination dishes.

- Reduce utility bills by raising the temperature in your house to lower cooling costs. If you have a portable fan, use it in place of air conditioning when possible or along with the air conditioner to make the higher temperatures feel more comfortable.

- Consider selling a second car or recreational vehicle. This will save money on gas, insurance and upkeep. However, think carefully about your future transportation needs before selling, since you may need a second car for transportation to a new job.

- Reduce child care costs by arranging the family's schedule so that an unemployed parent can take care of the children while the other parent works. If both parents are unemployed, alternate child care duties so each will have an opportunity to look for a job or have some personal time. An unemployed single parent may try to share child care with a relative, neighbor or friend.

- Repair or remodel clothing you already have and swap items of clothing with other family members or friends. Investigate local resale shops and garage sales to find good buys on used clothing. These are especially good options for buying children's clothes which are often outgrown before they are worn out.

- Consider cutting out or finding alternatives to all "extras." Depending on the family circumstances, "extras" might include cable television, or several cable hook-ups; gift-giving or donations; expensive habits such as smoking; magazine subscriptions; more than one telephone; and entertainment costs. Make use of free or low-cost resources for entertainment, such as the public library, parks and community events.

For more cost-cutting ideas, Nance suggests contacting the county Extension office.

City of Rule issues statement

This message from the City of Rule:
The City of Rule has been experiencing problems with some customers using the city's cut-off valve in the meter box. A few have been turned the wrong way and twisted off, breaking them.
According to our plumbing code, all customers are required to have their own cut-off valves in case of a leak in their lines. There is an ordinance that states that customers are not supposed to enter the meter box for any reason.
This will be enforced due to the expensive repairs the City has faced lately. Anyone breaking into the meter box will be fined. If something is broken, the customer will be billed for the repairs on their water bill. If it is not paid on time, all their city services will be cut off.
We do not like to take such a harsh stand, but we have been forced to do something to control the destruction of city property.

Older Texans being honored this month

More than 650,000 Texans have lived for at least half of their state's 150-year history and 1.6 million others are 60 or older.
Now these seniors, who helped transform a raw, sparsely populated agricultural state into a world leader in commerce, culture and industry, have been officially recognized for their achievements by Gov. Mark White's designation of May as Older Texans Month.
White, in an official memorandum, noted that, "Without the foresight and dedication of our older citizens, Texas would not be a state where opportunities for growth and prosperity still abound. Senior citizens have placed their signature on every aspect of 20th century life."

Rookie policeman proud of department

Steve Livingston is proud of being a police officer with the Abilene Police Department.

Livingston, 24, was named rookie policeman of the year by the Southwest Kiwanis Club of Abilene.

"I was pleased and surprised," he said of the recognition that goes with the award.

Livingston has only praise for the police department and the people he works with.

"I work with a bunch of good people," he said.

"After I got out of the academy the guys showed me the ropes. That's one reason I like working with this department. If you ask for help you get it."

Livingston said he always wanted to be a policeman because "I like dealing with people."

He began his career by attending Western Texas College in Snyder for two semesters. He took several courses in law enforcement before being accepted for the Abilene Police Academy in March 1985.

He spent from March to July in the academy before graduating.

"It (the academy) was tough physically and mentally," he said.

"I think they have a real good academy here. They trained us and pretty well set the stage for what we could expect," he said.

Livingston also admires the rookies with whom he went through the academy.

"If it hadn't been for all of us pulling together, it would have been a lot harder. That's one thing I'm real appreciative of."

"That's really the way I feel about the whole department," he said.

Driving requires total concentration

Driving along Texas highways for long periods of time without distractions can cause even the most alert motorists to lose their concentration and begin to daydream. Here are some tips to combat driver fatigue from the traffic safety section of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Be comfortable. Adjust your seat so that your knees are at a 45-degree angle. Legs that are extended straight may strain back and hamstring muscles. Sit straight and fasten your safety belt, which will help maintain proper posture.

Medications. If you take medication, be aware that it may impair your driving ability and judgment. Avoid alcoholic beverages, including beer, which are a major factor in at least half of all motor vehicle crashes involving fatalities.

Tired eyes. Use sunglasses to protect against glare from the Texas sun. Move your eyes constantly to help keep you alert. Look in your rear view mirror and side view mirror every 20 to 25 seconds.

Rest. Stop every two hours or less, get out and walk around. Put both hands behind your back, raise arms upward, and pinch your shoulders together. Breathe deeply a few times and stretch.

Sleep. If you continually find yourself dozing off while driving, you may not be getting enough sleep during the week. Don't drive, if you can avoid it, during the hours that you would normally be sleeping. Remember, a little preparation can go a long way to getting you safely to your destination.

Rollmaster memo pad. Uses 3 7/16" adding machine tape. Perfect for telephone messages, grocery lists, game scores, office messages, etc. Haskell Free Press.

Haskell native selected for tour

Attorney Roy C. Brock of San Antonio, who was born and reared in Haskell, has been selected to join a 20-person delegation of American lawyers and judges on a tour of Japan, Hong Kong, Japan and the People's Republic of China.

The delegation, which is made up of lawyers and judges who specialize in tort and insurance law, will make the tour under the auspices of the Citizen Ambassador Program of People to People International.

People to People was founded in 1956 by President Eisenhower for the purpose of promoting goodwill and understanding between countries. Programs are private-citizen efforts working at different people-to-people levels to promote friendly relations. While the program is no longer administered by the State Department, Presidents Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, Ford and Reagan have all served as honorary chairmen during their tenures in office.

The program will allow an informal exchange of ideas and examine concepts and practices of mutual interest with Asian counterparts as they pertain to tort and insurance law.

Brock is the son of Mrs. Roy H. Brock and the late Mr. Brock of Haskell. He is senior partner in the 21-attorney law firm of Brock and Kelfer in San Antonio.

He attended Arlington State University and received his BS from Oklahoma State University. He graduated cum laude with an LLB from Baylor in 1953.

Brock specializes in torts, product liability and general insurance.

In ancient Rome, the first day of the year was given over to honoring Janus, the god of gates and doors and of beginnings and endings—the month of January is named for him.

TAX PLANNING

Written By Gerald Rodgers, CPA

TAX TIDBITS

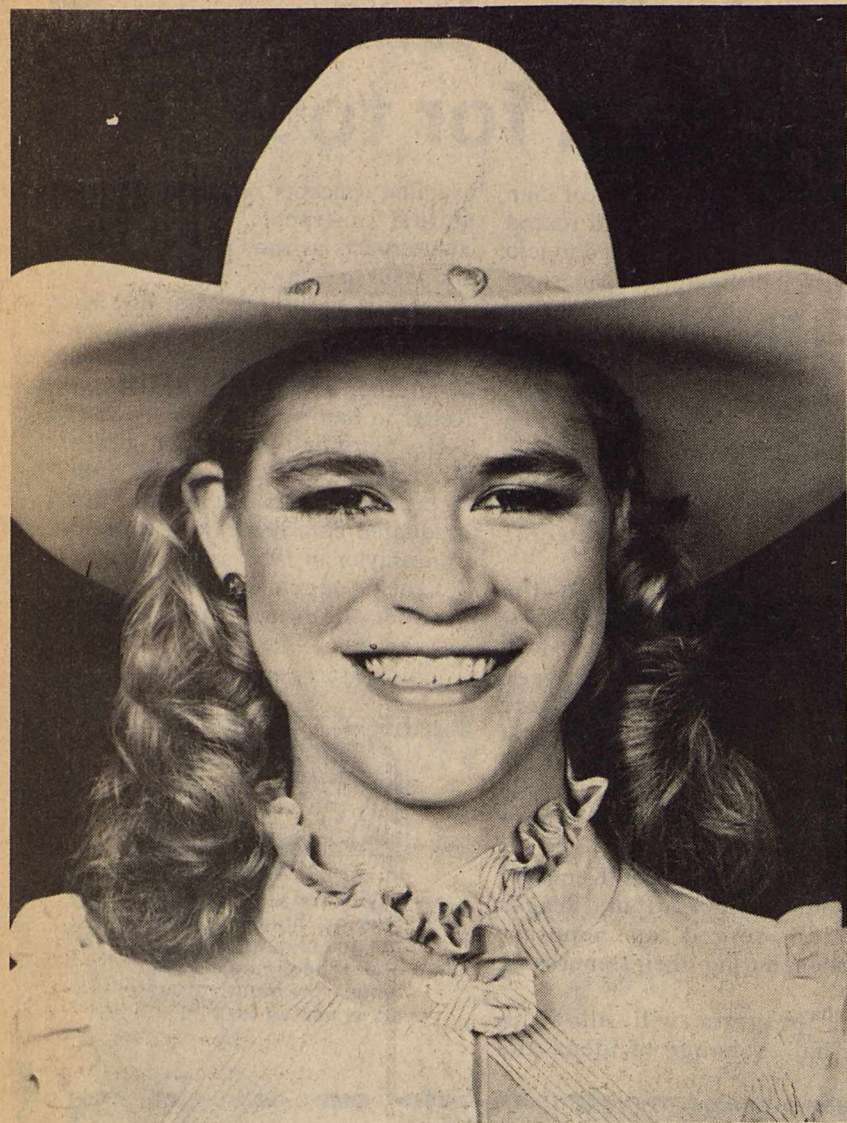

Here's some information on what's been happening with taxes:

- The Tax Court has just decided that shareholders of old AT&T stock did not have dividend income of 39 cents on each share when AT&T was broken up. Taxpayers who reported this amount as income on their tax returns can now get refunds.
- The IRS interest rate on overdue refunds and late taxes drops from 10% to 9% on July 1, 1986.
- President Reagan signed the Consolidated Omnibus Reconciliation Act into law on April 7. Provisions with some general interest include extension of the 16 cents a pack cigarette tax, changes in the coverage employer group health insurance plans must provide to be deductible, and clarification on when January Social Security checks are to be reported as income when they are actually received in December of the preceding year.
- We may not have heard the last on auto recordkeeping requirements. The IRS recently issued clarification stating that contemporaneous logs are not required to prove business usage. Deductions may be substantiated with either adequate records or sufficient written or oral evidence. Since the examples of what constitutes adequate substantiation are all in written form, such as account books, diaries, and trip sheets, taxpayers are left with the impression that written evidence is still the best way to go. There are bills pending in Congress that would change the recordkeeping rules again. Whether new legislation will include revisions in this area remains to be seen.
- Many homeowners have refinanced mortgages because interest rates have dropped lower than they've been in years. The points charged for refinancing may be tax deductible. The tax code isn't clear on this point, and the IRS says it's studying the issue. Be sure you pay any points separately; do not have them included as part of the loan amount or pay them out of an account with the same lender.

Heart disease rate can be decreased

Heart disease is by far the leading killer of older persons. In Texas, where the older population is the fastest growing age group, nearly 40,000 persons 65 and older die annually from heart attacks or related cardiovascular problems. But according to the Texas Department of Health, the incidence of heart disease can be greatly reduced by individuals who take a few, basic precautions.

Dr. Robert Bernstein, commissioner of health, said, "Certain risk factors, physical characteristics and personal habits can create dangerous heart conditions. Diabetes, high blood pressure and tendencies toward obesity usually can be controlled, with the help of a physician. And smoking, high blood cholesterol levels and lack of exercise can be corrected by the individual."

He said young people should be aware that most heart disease in older people is the result of many years' cumulative effects. Any reduction of risk can help lessen the collective wear and tear on the heart. "Older people should know that even if they already have suffered some heart damage, by starting now to properly maintain their hearts, they may minimize future risk," Dr. Bernstein said.

He named six steps each person should take to reduce the risk of heart disease:

—Do not smoke. Smoking is the single most preventable cause of heart disease. Remarkably, people who have smoked for many years can reduce their risk to 10 percent above normal in the first year after stopping. Ten years after ceasing to smoke, a former smoker is no more at risk than a person who has never smoked.

—Have your blood pressure checked at least once a year. If you learn that you have high blood pressure, follow your doctor's orders for reducing salt and fats in your diet, and taking prescribed medications.

—Lower your cholesterol level. Most Americans' diets include too many saturated fats, which in time can accumulate in the blood vessels, forcing the heart to exert more pressure than it should.

—If you find that you are diabetic, follow your doctor's orders for medication and diet.

—Get plenty of exercise. Activity stimulates the entire cardiovascular system and keeps the heart muscle in condition to withstand unexpected stresses.

—Know your family health history. Persons whose parents or other close relatives have experienced heart problems may be prone to develop similar conditions. Such people should be especially careful to reduce their risks.

"You have to wonder," Dr. Bernstein added, "how much longer the human lifespan could be, if everyone minimized their risks as they should. Since heart disease is the cause of death for more than a third of the people 65 and older, those entering that age group might well look forward to many more healthy, productive years than they do now. In medicine, we still don't know how long a well-maintained heart can be expected to last. But wouldn't it be wonderful to find out?"

TAKE A DEEP BREATH... The oxygen in the earth's crust weighs almost as much as all the other chemical elements put together.

New officers for Young Homemakers

The Haskell Young Homemakers and their families met Monday in City Park for a homemade ice cream treat. Five delicious flavors of ice cream were served by Wanda Thompson, Scharlyn Hudson, Janet Thane, Sheila Griffith and Bonnie Neal.

Wanda Thompson, advisor of Haskell Young Homemakers, installed the officers for next year and complimented the outgoing officers for jobs well done.

Outgoing officers are Selina McGuire, Terri Turner, Camin Pittman, Valiene Bullinger and Debbie Glandon.

Officers for 1986-87 will be Jill Harris, president; Valiene Bullinger, vice president; Connie Stone, secretary; Karen Crain, reporter; and Betty Michaels, treasurer. Each of the officers hopes to add some spice to the life of Haskell Young Homemakers in the coming year.

Selina McGuire, outgoing president, was honored as the outstanding Young Homemaker of the Year. She received a beautiful engraved tray as a thank you for her endless labors and support of club projects.

Young Homemakers extended a special thank you to everyone who helped make the recent Texas-size Arts and Crafts sale a success. The sale would not be possible without the help of Melba Howard, Doris Jean McMeans, Ruby Turner and Delight Jones. They were thanked for their decorations and continued support.

Appreciation also was expressed to The Hayloft and the Haskell County 4-H members for the style show during the Arts and Crafts sale.

The evening in the park ended with the final exchange of secret pal gifts. Each Young Homemaker learned the true identity of the nice person who remembered her in special ways all year.

The Haskell Young Homemakers are looking forward to next year with hopes of continued growth and support of the community.

The People's Choice

Seventy-seven percent of Americans oppose higher excise taxes on consumer products to make up for tax revenues lost through corporate loopholes, according to a recent poll by the Citizens for Tax Justice. The labor-sponsored research group's poll was taken after Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., proposed tax reform legislation that would increase prices of consumer products such as gasoline, liquor, telephone service, cigarettes and airline tickets.

State track meet

McKeever, Brockington lead Haskell

Joy McKeever of the Maidens and Stephon Brockington of the Indians lead the Haskell contingent in the state track meet in Austin Saturday.

McKeever, a freshman, will compete in the 100-meter low hurdles, an event she dominated in winning district and regional championships.

Brockington, a sophomore, will be running in the 200 meter race. He won the district in this event and finished second in the regionals.

Also representing Haskell in the state finals will be the Indians' 400-meter relay team. The team won first in district and a close second in the regionals. Brockington is a member of that team, along with Derrick Billington, Fred Shaw and Mark Young.

McKeever, who posted a 15-flat in winning the regional, brings the second-best qualifying record to the state meet. Her record is surpassed only by defending state champion Tammy Rogers of Olney, a senior who qualified for state with a 14.83 timing.

Competing against them will be Cheryl Martin of Greenwood (15.56 in regional), Joy Dutton of Mason (16.07), Gwen Johnson of Hawkins (15.41), Kim Talley of Farmersville (16.54), Donna Williams of Rogers (15.15) and Marilyn Griffin of Yorktown (15.27).

Although Brockington's state-qualifying time of 22.54 places him no better than fifth among the eight state qualifiers, the Indian sprinter has done much better. He was 22-flat in district and 21.78 in a practice meet in Breckenridge between the district and regional meets. He turned in a 22.33 in winning first place in a state qualifiers' practice meet in Abilene last Saturday.

Best time among the state entrants is 20.91 by Steve Lofton of Alto. Other participants and their regional qualifying times include Roy Henderson of Memphis (22.34), Darrell Warwick of Albany (22.26), Beau Platt of Kennedale (22.65), Tyrone Sanders of Rains (21.88), Chuck Ford of Marion (22.46) and Roman Moore of Somerville (22.76).

The Indian sprint relay team reached the state by posting a 43.65 for a close second in the regionals. The team's best time of the year is 42.9 in the preliminaries at Breckenridge.

Competition in Austin will come from Greenwood (43.61), McGregor (42.93), Mart (43.17), Alto (42.14), Tatum (42.14), Skidmore-Tynan (43.75) and Schulenburg (43.97).

McKeever's race will be at 7:40 p.m. The relay team runs at 7 and Brockington runs at 9:05.

The Maidens are coached by George Martin and the Indians by Jimmy Lisle.

Teachers come through on TECAT

Haskell teachers breathed a collective sigh of relief this week when they got word on how they fared on the controversial TECAT administered in March.

Although no one except the individual teacher was notified whether he/she passed the exam, indications are that all Haskell teachers came through.

Dr. James Kemp, superintendent, told the Free Press Tuesday that he had no reason to believe that any local teachers failed.

Statewide, nearly 97 percent of the teachers and administrators passed the exam. Only 1.1 percent of the non-Hispanic white teachers failed. Six percent of the Hispanic teachers failed to make a passing grade and 18.4 percent of the black teachers failed.

The overall failure rate of 3.3 percent was much less than the 10 percent predicted by the Texas Education Agency.

Those who failed will be given a chance to take another exam in June. If they fail that second test, they must be fired under a requirement in the state's 1984 school reform law.

State Education Commissioner W. N. Kirby said the test results proves "once and for all" the competency of Texas educators.

"Teachers prepared themselves well for the TECAT and rose to the occasion admirably," Kirby said. "I am proud of our teachers and I know other Texans share that pride."

Gov. Mark White, who has been under fire from state teacher groups for his support of the testing program, said, "Texas teachers have met the challenge and have passed their test with outstanding success."

Charles Beard, president of the 96,000-member Texas State Teachers Association, said that although he was pleased with the high passing rate, he was not surprised.

"These test score results underscore the fact that we have just wasted some $4.7 million of the taxpayers' money," said Beard, whose organization is fighting the exam in court.

"Moreover, we do not know any more about teacher competency in Texas than we did two months or two years ago," added Beard.

Openhole log course planned in Aspermont

A basic openhole log interpretation school will be offered in Aspermont, beginning June 9.

Emphasis will be placed on mastering basic log calculations, interpreting curve shapes, factors affecting tool response and quality control. Students will work through several actual logging problems.

The school is intended for anyone interested in acquiring a working understanding of modern openhole logs—geologists, operators, engineers and production personnel, as well as individuals with no prior log interpretation experience.

Classes will be from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Monday through July 7. Tuition is $100 per person, which includes course notes.

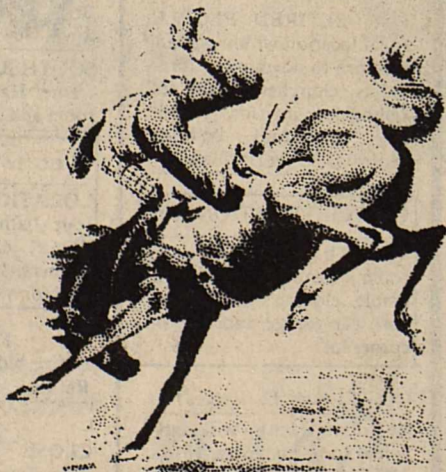

Hughbert Collier, Abilene geologist and assistant professor of geology at Abilene Christian University, will be course instructor. More information is available by calling Collier at 915-672-9824.

STATE BOUND

Kelly Earp, who won second place in the regional golf tournament, will be Weinert High School's first-ever participant in the state golf tournament in Austin. A senior, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Earp of Weinert.

Lines drawn for replay of '82 election

AUSTIN—Trying to save state dollars, Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock warned last week that state spending increased in April for the second consecutive month.

But Gov. Mark White questioned the accuracy of Bullock's report and insisted that his austerity plan would meet its savings goals by September.

White also called himself the most conservative Texas governor "in quite some time," a characterization which amazed some observers by its boldness. White, after all, has raised taxes twice.

His statement was a political reaction to criticisms by his GOP opponent, Bill Clements, who stumped the state last week calling White a heavy spender.

Clements labeled himself as the underdog, which is true since White defeated him in '82. But in terms of campaign spending, Clements has the resources to wage an impressive campaign.

Replay '82

After election results showed both White and Clements winning their party nominations without runoffs, the politicians at the Capitol seemed to settle back to watch the main event: a replay of '82.

On election night, Clements gathered the public support of his two defeated opponents, Tom Loeffler and Kent Hance, in an immediate show of Republican unity.

By contrast, White hasn't announced whether he plans to meet with his opponents, particularly Andy Briscoe and Don Crowder.

Oil Patch Woes

The president of the Texas Research League, an Austin-based organization which conducts private research on state government financing, last week said the Texas Legislature probably will have to raise taxes next session.

Jarred Hazleton told Houston business leaders that costs in education, prisons and state agencies have spurred state needs to outpace the growth rate of state revenues.

Again, the falling price of oil has caused losses in state revenues in severance taxes and oil-related sales taxes.

Teachers Score "A"

Texas teachers performed better than predicted on the controversial literacy exam, with almost 97 percent passing.

The state education agency had predicted five percent would fail, but whether their success will appease the teachers who had hotly protested White's reform remains to be seen.

Conference Clash

The issue of convicted killer Henry Lee Lucas' hoax on Texas as lawmakers cropped up in the political race for attorney general last week.

One of the Republican AG candidates, Ed Walsh, is a former Williamson County district attorney who successfully prosecuted Lucas for one of the many murders Lucas said he committed.

Last week, after Attorney General Jim Mattox issued a report indicating Lucas could not have committed many of those murders, Walsh interrupted the press conference to defend his record.

Walsh criticized Mattox for not supporting Texas law officers, while Mattox said some Texas Rangers should be criticized for being too eager to clear some unsolved murder cases off the books.

"There are killers out there walking the streets today . . . as a result of the unprofessional handling of the Lucas investigation," Mattox said.

Walsh is involved in a GOP primary runoff with San Antonio Judge Roy Barrera, Jr., with the eventual winner taking on Mattox in November.

Other Highlights

Mattox also announced his office obtained a verdict worth over $400,000 in civil penalties against two men whose Orange County company violated state pollution laws.

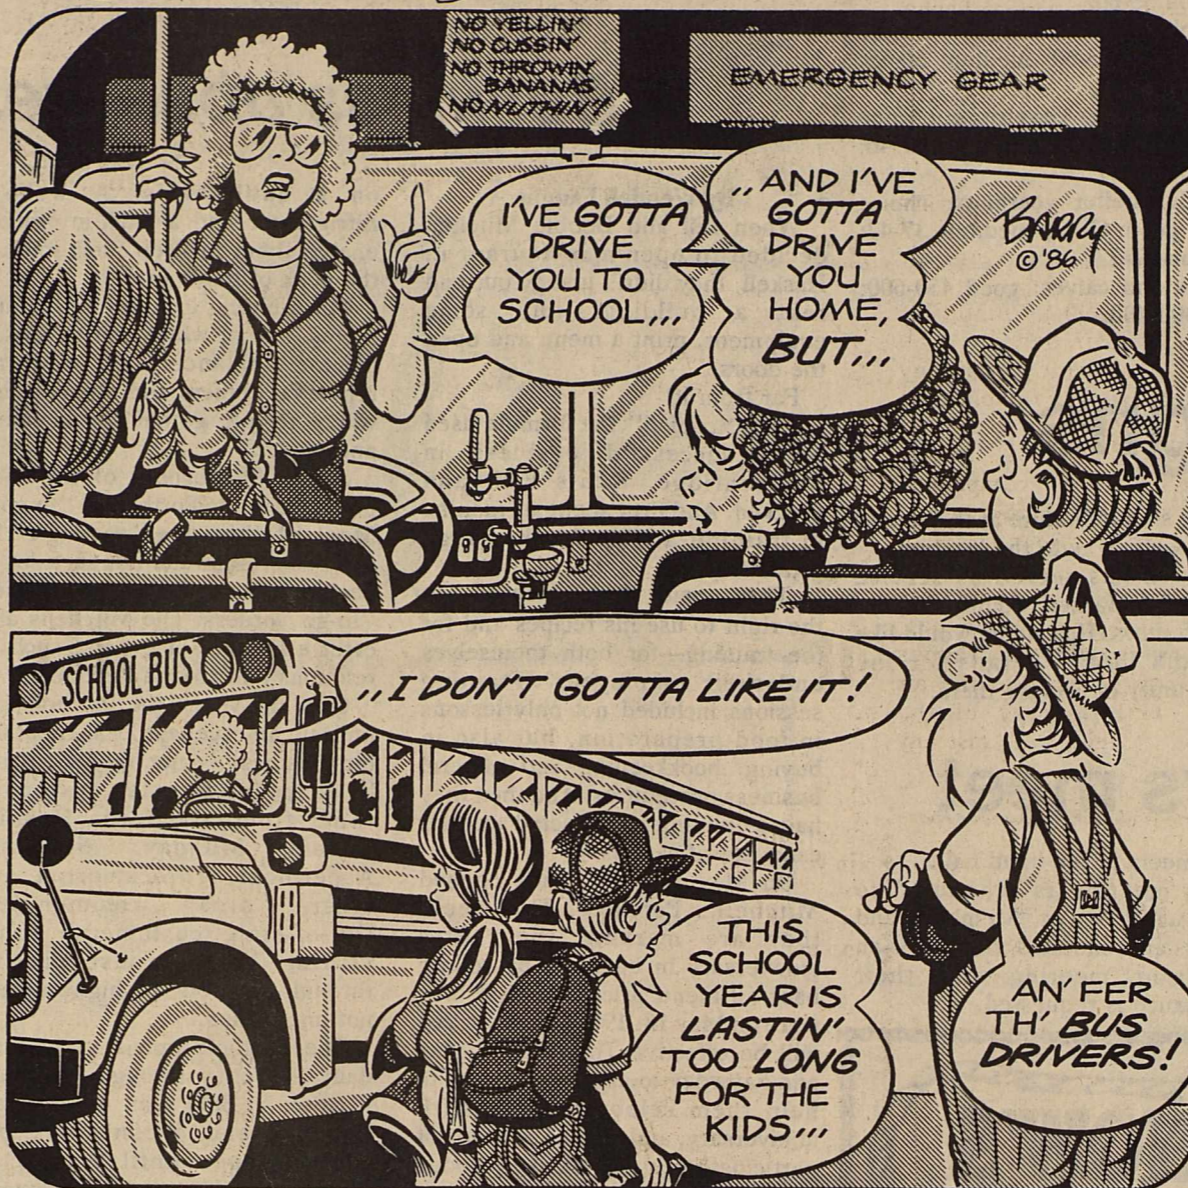

Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro has intervened in a Fort Stockton lawsuit to recover some $41 million claimed owed to the Permanent School Fund.

The state suit claims the surface owner failed to share mineral royalties with the state and took additional minerals belonging to the Fund.

Short Takes

- The Texas Supreme Court last week was urged to protect the Texas Education Agency from an expected rash of lawsuits by teachers failing the competency test. Five suits filed against TEA are pending.
- Goddess of Liberty II is scheduled to be installed on the Capitol dome on May 31.
- The Public Utility Commission has ordered a temporary rollback in rates by Gulf States Utilities Co. in 24 Texas counties to approximately the rates paid by GSU's customers in Louisiana. A final order is expected this summer.

BY WENDELL FAUGHT

I heard on TV the other day that celebrities make up to $10 million doing television commercials.

Michael Jackson supposedly gets that amount from PepsiCo, although the report didn't say whether that $10 million is for a year, a series, or for a lifetime. Any way, it's a lot of money.

Many companies must feel that it's worth a lot to have their products identified with celebrities.

My mind immediately went back to the BTV era (before television). After all these years, it's quite easy to recall a lot of the old radio shows and what they advertised. They weren't so strong on commercials by the celebrities, but the shows were easily identified with the products.

Pepsodent sponsored Bob Hope. Fred Allen was brought by Texaco. Jack Benny's sponsor was General Foods (Jello and Maxwell House). Chase and Sanborn brought someone else—it may have been Edgar Bergen, although I'm not sure.

I can recall other sponsors of popular radio shows without celebrities. Remember Dr. IQ? It was one of my favorites and it was brought by Mars candy. How about the $64 question? The sponsor was Eversharp, that remarkable writing instrument guaranteed not for years, not for life—but guaranteed forever.

As a teenager, I wouldn't miss the Friday night fights (Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports). Don Dumphy was the only boxing announcer in the world in those days and there was the added color by Bill Corum of the New York Journal-American.

Although I still recall these programs and the advertisers who brought them, I really don't think they have had much influence on my buying habits.

I bought Pepsodent on occasion, but I usually brushed my teeth with what ever toothpaste was available to a large family which used the same tube.

I never was loyal to a particular gasoline brand, usually opting to visit the handiest gas pump. Only time I ever bought Texaco regularly was when a Texaco station was directly across the street from the newspaper office and the owner let me park my car there during the day.

I have eaten my share of Jello (what else is there?) and I'll buy Maxwell House coffee when it's on sale. If I buy a candy bar today, it's quite likely that it will be a Mars or a Snicker's or a Milky Way (all Mars products).

I never owned an Eversharp fountain pen—I preferred a Schaefer or a Parker. I wonder what ever happened to all of those Eversharp's which were guaranteed

Letters to the Editor

Editor: How do you help a drowning man? Well, if you're the Census Bureau you might throw him an anchor, as the following tale illustrates.

Stories of the ailing apparel and textile industries are legion. The rising value of the dollar between 1980 and 1984 and other factors made the United States less competitive both at home and abroad.

As recently as 1980, only a little more than 10 percent of all clothes sold in America were imported. By 1984, this had soared to almost 25 percent, throwing more than 200,000 U.S. workers out of their jobs.

Now in steps the government to help.

As if apparel and textile businesses were not having enough problems with overseas competition, low prices and dumping by foreign manufacturers, the Census Bureau wants to throw them the bureaucratic version of an anchor.

The Bureau conducts quarterly and annual surveys of these industries. Participation in the quarterly survey is voluntary while the annual survey is mandatory. The apparel industry—51 percent of whose members employ 20 or fewer workers—has been so busy trying to keep its head above water that it has been ignoring the voluntary quarterly surveys, as it has every right to do.

This riled Census Bureau bureaucrats who dislike being ignored. So they have asked for legislation, already passed in the House, to make it mandatory to fill out the quarterly reports.

The justification for this additional burden on a struggling industry, according to Rep. Robert Garcia, D-N.Y., the sponsor of this legislation, is, "High quality data are essential in establishing an accurate description of the effect of imports on domestic apparel and textile industries."

The fact is that "high quality data" already exist which might help even bureaucrats figure out the status of the industries. These include monthly government employment surveys showing a shrinking workforce in the industries and information collected by Dun and Bradstreet showing a tripling of bankruptcies in the industries between 1978 and 1983.

Just what these businesses need is one more government form to fill out with the threat of a $10,000 fine if they don't.

This little tale shows the truth of the old saw that one of the three great lies is, "I'm from the government and I'm here to help you."

DENTON MARE ...
Horse racing was a popular sport in Denton County in the early 1870s. One of Sheriff W.F. "Dad" Egan's hired hands and the sheriff's younger brother bought a sorrel mare. The horse won consistently and became known as the "Denton Mare." Sheriff Egan was so upset about his brother's activities that he loaned his hired hand money to buy the brother's interest in the famous horse. The hired hand was outlaw Sam Bass.

to last forever. Today's TV commercials use a new twist. Manufacturers still sponsor the shows, but celebrities who are not a part of the shows bring the commercials.

But to me, their value is questionable. I think Coors has one of the best TV commercials going, but I never was a beer drinker, and so far, Mark Harmon has not converted me.

I was probably drinking Lipton's tea before Don Meredith was born and I gave up Cokes before anyone ever heard of Bill Cosby. Bob Hope is now identified with Texaco but I don't think I've bought any of that gasoline since the front of that car ran off and left the back part.

Cliff Robertson takes up a lot of my time extolling the advantages of AT&T, but every time I hear him I just get more confused about the telephone business.

Still, advertising experts maintain that identification of a manufacturer's product is of extreme importance and one of the best ways to bring this about is to associate it with an easily recognizable personality. I guess they don't have someone like me in mind when they're looking for people to lay down their cash.

Talk about celebrities. A news release for the Don Maynard Celebrity Golf Tournament in Abilene lists dozens of names of well-known sports figures who have been invited.

The list includes Sammy Baugh, John David Crow, Bobby Joe Conrad, Bobby Dillon, Mike Geachter, Peter Gent, Frank Gifford, Larry Gatlin, Bobby Layne, Clint Longley, D. D. Lewis, Bob Lilly, Don Meredith, Joe Namath, Charlie Waters and Ray Renfro, just to name a few.

Major insurance companies are taking out that extra bit of insurance and purchasing air bag-equipped automobiles.

More than 2,500 automobiles equipped with air bags will be ordered for insurance company fleets, says Driveline, a publication of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. Some companies, such as Prudential Property and Casualty, are retrofitting cars with air bags.

The Travelers Insurance Company had five Travelers' employees involved in crashes severe enough to activate the air bags in 1985. Not one of the employees was injured or lost any work time.

Quackery can cost in money and health

"Just send $20 and you will receive your first dosage of Dr. Miracle's Wonder Cure, guaranteed to cure aches and pains in your head, in your back, even in your big toe, and at the same time it will help you lose weight and clear up acne!"

It sounds too good to be true, doesn't it? And of course it is. Yet every year Americans spend billions of dollars on so-called "miracle cures" like this one.

However, not all advertisements for medical products are false. In fact, the majority of them are not.

How can you recognize quackery? Sometimes it's easy, but sometimes it's not. To help you out, the U. S. Food and Drug Administration has a pamphlet designed to help you realize whether or not that "miracle cure" is legitimate. For a free copy of "Quackery: The Billion Dollar Miracle Business," write to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 538P, Pueblo, CO 81009.

Exactly what is quackery? Simply put, quackery is health fraud. It is the promotion of a medical remedy that doesn't work or hasn't been proven to work.

Not only does quackery cost money, it also can steal your health and in some cases even your life. Quackery is dangerous because people who are ill will often try a quack cure rather than getting effective medical help. When they waste time with bogus cures, their illness could progress beyond the treatable stage.

Today's quacks offer cures for many ailments, but there are certain areas they seem to target. One is arthritis. Fraudulent medical cures for this, as yet incurable disease, range from snake venom to lemon juice, from the harmless milk of vaccinated cows to the dangerous use of steroids. Many people believe these drugs are effective because of the nature of the disease. Arthritis will often spontaneously disappear temporarily, giving the impression that the fake drug worked.

Probably the best advice for detecting quackery is to read all advertisements carefully. Beware of testimonials that sound too good to be true. If it sounds that way, it probably is. Be careful of "special" or "secret" formulas, available only through the mail and only from one supplier. You should also watch out for "breakthroughs" or "miracle cures" that have been held back or overlooked by the medical community. Check with your doctor before buying any suspect product or treatment.

Thank you for reading The Haskell Free Press.

Most wanted

31 arrests for fugitive

Since his first arrest age the age of 17, the life of John Torres Briones appears to have been heading in just one direction—down.

Briones, 42, has an extensive criminal record that lists 31 separate arrests. He has spent most of his adult life in prisons and county jails throughout Texas.

His life story takes up nine pages of criminal history and includes 13 arrests for driving while intoxicated, two arrests for aggravated assault on a police officer, two for aggravated assault on civilians and arrests on other charges ranging from desertion, to burglary, to delivery of a controlled substance.

Out of all those arrests, he has been ordered to spend 13 years in the Texas Department of Corrections. In reality, his record indicates Briones spent about five and a half years in prison and invariably got into trouble with the law a short time after his release.

Not too surprisingly, Briones is in trouble once again. He is wanted for the Sept. 25, 1984, murder of an Odessa man and the Aug. 14, 1984, aggravated assault of a Midland police officer.

This week Briones has been added to the Texas Most Wanted list. A reward of up to $1,000 is being offered by the governor's office for information leading to his arrest.

The murder charge against Briones stems from the shooting death of Jose Hernandez Perez. Police reports indicate Perez, 26, was gunned down in an Odessa bar around 1:30 a.m. Witnesses identified Briones as the assailant and said the shooting was the result of an argument between the two men.

At the time of the shooting, Briones was being hunted by the Midland Police Department.

Investigators say that at around 11 p.m. on Aug. 14, 1984, officer Dale Seago stopped a vehicle containing Briones and his wife in the driveway of their residence in Midland.

Officer Seago knew that Briones had an outstanding DWI warrant and tried to make an arrest. Police reports show that Briones allegedly hit Seago, then ran inside the garage at the residence.

Seago said he struggled with the suspect, then heard his gun hit the ground. When he went to pick it up, the suspect slammed the garage door on top of him. By the time the officer recovered, the suspect was gone.

Briones is described as a white male of hispanic descent, 5-9, 160 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes. He has numerous tattoos on his body, including one on his chest and others on his arms. Officers warn that he should be considered dangerous.

Anyone with information on Briones' whereabouts is asked to call the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council toll free at 1-800-252-8477. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

REGARDING

REACH OUT™ Texas OPTIONAL CALLING PLAN

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. (AT&T) is seeking approval from the Public Utility Commission of Texas to continue the REACH OUT Texas long distance plan. REACH OUT Texas is an optional calling plan which offers customers the opportunity to save on long distance calls placed within the state of Texas.

The Public Utility Commission has required that AT&T show why the REACH OUT Texas plan should not expire by August 1, 1986. To meet this requirement, on March 7, 1986, AT&T filed an application with the Public Utility Commission, and asked that the August 1, 1986 termination date be removed. This request and the related proceeding have been designated as Docket No. 6761 by the Public Utility Commission, with hearings scheduled to begin June 18, 1986.

Currently more than 39,000 Texans subscribe to REACH OUT Texas service. REACH OUT Texas customers pay a one-time $6 charge to establish the service, and a monthly charge of $14 which entitles them to one hour of AT&T's intrastate/interlata "Direct Dialed" (1+) calling during the weekend and night rate periods. Customers also receive an additional 15 percent discount on the same type of AT&T long distance calls placed during the evening rate period. In addition, an hourly rate of $12, or $.20 per minute applies for weekend and night rate calls beyond the initial hour of calling provided under the REACH OUT Texas basic rate.

AT&T estimates current annual revenues generated by the REACH OUT Texas service to be over $14 million.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Children's cancer poses big challenge

Social isolation, physical discomfort, and fear of death. These are not the typical characteristics of a child's life. But for children with cancer, it is all too typical. Despite the challenges, parents can foster good emotional adjustment in a child with cancer by being realistic about the child's limitations, according to the April issue of Texas Medicine.

Children with cancer face an entirely new way of life. In addition to medical treatments, children face a dependence on doctors and other health care professionals, slowed development in school, and anxiety, depression and withdrawal due to their illness.

According to authors Donna R. Copeland and Frances F. Worchel, "most children master the task of coping with changed conditions and threats to their lives, particularly if they have a well-functioning family to support them."

Writing in the official journal of the Texas Medical Association they add, "but many children run into difficulties. When it seems warranted, the child and family should be referred to a psychologist or psychiatrist who is trained in dealing with emotional and behavioral distress associated with cancer and its treatment."
