Indians travel to Knox City

Having tasted victory for the first time last week, the Haskell Indians travel to Knox City Friday night in hopes of making it two in a row as the 1986 season reaches the half-way

The Greyhounds of Knox City are not being taken lightly by the Haskell coaching staff. Although the Hounds are 1-3 on the season, the three losses have been at the hands of Seymour, Munday Throckmorton, all excellent teams. And the lone victory was a 78-20 whipping of Petrolia.

Coach Harold Hill said that any team which can score 78 points has to be taken seriously.

With a 24-21 win over Quanah last Friday, the Indians brought their record to 1-2-1. A win over Knox City would give the Indians an even record as they enter district play here next week against Hamlin.

Haskell's victory over Quanah was made possible by good showings by both the defense and the offense. Hill singled out Marty Martinez, Mark Young and Paul Harvey as defensive standouts. On offense, he had praise for Poncanio Lopez, Andy Griffith. and Joey Thomas who opened the path for Haskell's winning 62-yard touchdown drive.

Friday's game begins at 8 o'clock. After this one, all Indian games will begin at 7:30.

Frieda Fly retires from USDA position

Things are different around the county ASCS office in Haskell this week. A familiar face is missing.

Frieda Fly, chief program assistant, put in her last work day Friday. She retired after 30 years, two weeks and two days of employment with the U.S. Department of Agriculture facility.

Mrs. Fly, who began work at the ASCS office Sept. 10, 1956, lives in Rochester and commutes daily to her office in Haskell.

She started to work for Lloyd Feemster when he was county executive director. Later bosses included Wayland Shurley, Jerry May and the present county director, Glenn Brzozowski.

She started as a planimeter operator and then moved up in the ranks over the years.

Mrs. Fly says the 10-person staff in the ASCS office is considerably smaller today than it was when she began; although the work load is much greater. Computers, copiers and other machines are now doing a lot of the work that people once did. "I've enjoyed working with all the farmers," Mrs. Fly said as she put in her last day of work. "I'm going to miss them and the people I work In retirement, she says she hopes to be able to improve on her golf game and spend more time cooking. A native of Haskell County, Mrs.

Fly graduated from Haskell High School in 1946. Her husband, Edwin L. Fly is a farmer. She has a son, Johnny Adkins. Johnny and his wife, Leonna, have two children, John and Christi. They live in Potosi.

She is a member of the Methodist Church in Rochester.

Aggie 'Mom'

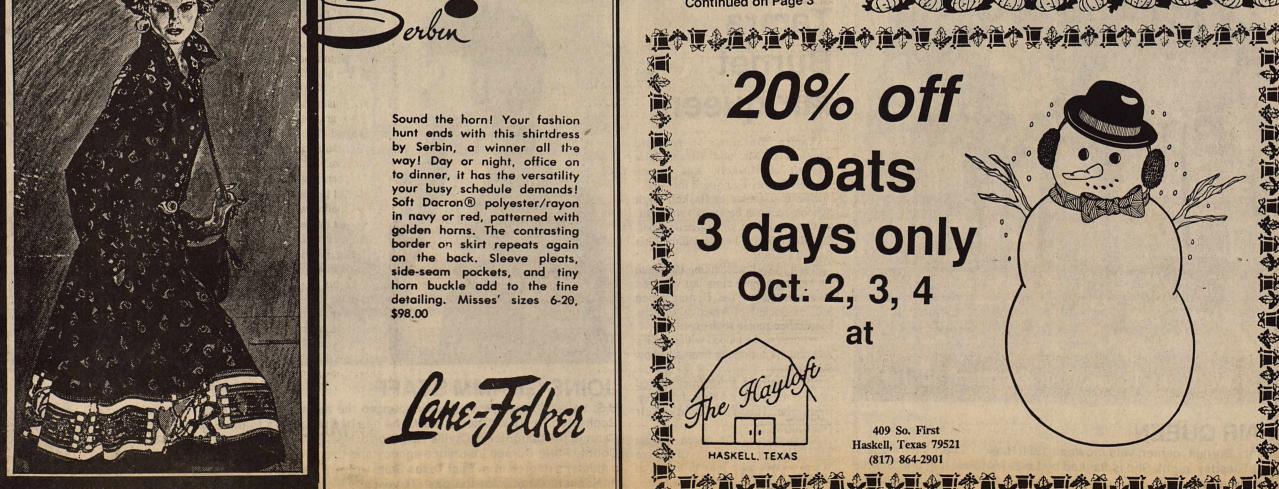

Mrs. Gene Overton has been calling the write-up of their 50th anniversary their "obituary." Now, she says it very well may be her obituary unless she adds that in 1966 she was named "Mother of the Year" by the Corps of Cadets at Texas A&M.

Her daddy, the late Lennis W. Jones, was class of 1910, her husband was class of 1937. Two sons, Wallar and William entered A&M as freshmen in 1957 and Wallar was class of 1961, while William graduated from NTSC where there were more English and drama courses. Son Mike was class of 1966 and following Vietnam, was class of 1977 Veterinary Medicine school.

Mrs. Overton considers the "Mother of the Year" award as her highest honor and she says she will be forever grateful to her sons for nominating her and to Company A-3 and the Texas A&M Corps of Cadets for choosing her, and for her very own pass by. She said she apologizes to all her Aggies, past and present, for not mentioning it in the anniversary story.

TAX PLANNING

Written By Richard E. Rodgers, CPA

WHAT SMALL BUSINESS WANTS

With tax legislation in the spotlight, little attention was paid to a very important conference held during August in Washington, D.C. It was the White House Conference on Small Business attended by 1,823 businesspeople from all over the country.

They met to choose, from more than 2,000 proposals, a small business legislative agenda of 60 recommendations to present to Congress and the White House. These recommendations are taken seriously in Washington because as one Senate aide stated, they provide "a fairly accurate summation of what are the dominant small business issues." Of the 60 recommendations made by the 1980 White House Conference on Small Business, 38 have since been enacted into law.

Here are the top five 1986 Conference recommendations:

1. End the current liability insurance crisis through federal and state legislation, making certain the businesses can get liability insurance at

2. Keep government from legislating what employee benefits must be.

3. Act to keep government and non-profit organizations from competing with small business.

4. Get the federal deficit under control and balance the federal budget.

5. Set up a Department of International Trade.

Other priority items named by the delegates included reforming the social security system and repealing the Davis-Bacon Act which requires contractors on federally financed projects to pay prevailing (usually union)

You may not have attended the White House Conference, but you can still have some input into what business legislation Congress enacts. Contact your Representatives and Senators and let them know where you stand on the Conference's recommendations and on other issues that are important to you and your business.

Frozen fruit bars are not low calorie

Frozen fruit bars have become the latest dieter's delight. But are they actually a "low-calorie" alternative to regular frozen fruit-flavored bars?

According to a Texas A&M University nutritionist, the answer is

Dr. Alice Hunt points out that national brand frozen fruit bars contain from 50-80 calories per 2 1/2 ounce bar. The regular frozen fruit confections contain about 60 calories per 2 1/2 ounce bar.

"Frozen fruit bars contain up to 30 percent fruit juice, which improves their nutritional content over frozen confections," she says. "But they are also no lower in calories than real fruit."

For example, a 1/2 cup serving of canned sliced peaches in extra light syrup, or frozen sliced peaches without sugar has only 50 calories and adds fiber to the diet that is removed when fruit is made into

The frozen fruit bars, like frozen confections, also contain added sugars or corn-sweeteners.

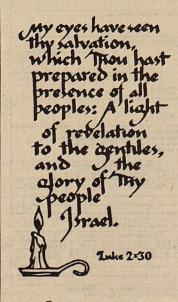

If calorie-conscious people use frozen fruit bars to replace higher calorie snacks, such as ice cream bars, they could be cutting back on their total calories, Hunt notes.

"For someone on a serious weightloss diet, however, fresh fruit will still provide more nutrients and fiber for fewer calories than frozen fruit bars," says the nutritionist.

Gifts to HSU reach record high

More gifts came to Hardin-Simmons University in the 1985-86 fiscal year than any time in the history of the school.

Dr. Jesse C. Fletcher, HSU president, says that $7,649,562 in gifts had been received by the school in the fiscal year, June 1, 1985, through May 31, 1986.

This did not include the $2,051,000 cash gift announced Sept. 18 from the Jack and Adele Frost

A. C. Richardson, center, of Richardson Truck and Tractor, receives a plaque from Kenny McCastlain of Abilene, territory manager for Case IH, in recognition of the Haskell firm's selection as one of the top Case IH dealers in the five-state area of Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas and Missouri. At left is Gil Richardson. The award, one of 55 presented in the area containing approximately 250 dealers, is based on excellence in sales, parts, service, business systems and the overall operation of a dealership. Personnel, training, facilities and community involvement also were factors.

Cotton industry can't let up

Even though the immediate future looks bright, the cotton industry can't become complacent, Cotton Board Chairman Tommy Funk of Harlingen, Texas, said in Memphis at the group's 20th annual meeting where the Cotton Board approved Cotton Incorporated's 1987 budget of $18.4 million, down from $18.5 million in 1986.

"The market share numbers and offtake prospects look great for cotton," he added. "But there's no question that this industry faces problems. Each sector must deal with serious financial problems."

For the 1986-87 crop year, Funk stated that domestic mill consumption of U.S. cotton is expected to reach 6.8 million bales. And some market analysts are predicting that exports of U.S. cotton may reach 7 million bales.

Cotton's share of the retail market is also going up. During the first six months of 1986, cotton commanded a 44 percent market share at the retail counter, up from 42 percent in 1985.

Plaster trash harmful to fish

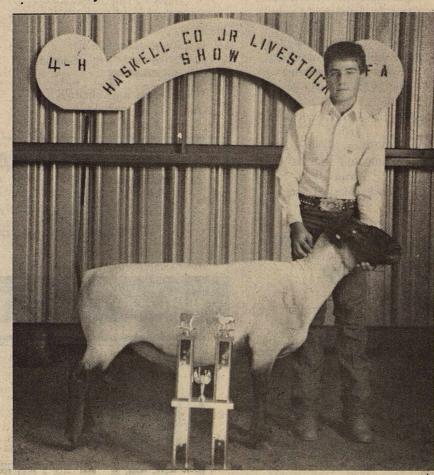

Many experts believe that plastic trash thrown into oceans may be as big a problem, if not bigger, than oil spills.

International Wildlife magazine reports that non-biodegradable plastic waste is killing up to 1 million seabirds, 100,000 sea mammals and countless fish each year.

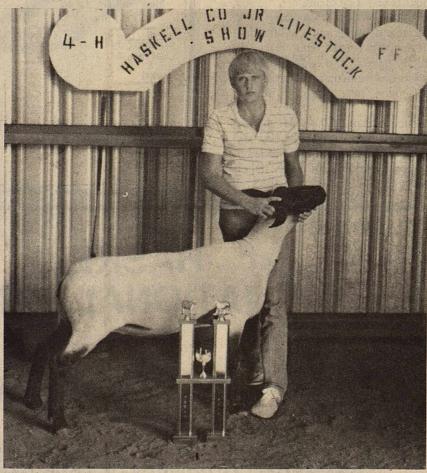

Part of the problem is that seals, turtles, fish and birds become entangled, and then die, in discarded fishing nets and strapping bands.

Indians hand first loss to Quanah, 24-21

Dan Reeves will have to forgive Haskell coaches just this once. It was impossible to keep from sweating.

As the final gun sounded while Quanah was attempting a last-ditch field goal, the Haskell Indians hung up their first 1986 victory Friday night, a 24-21 win over the visitors from Hardeman County.

And they won it the old-fashioned way--they earned it.

They did it by coming from behind with two last-quarter touchdowns--one on a 64-yard aerial bomb from Mark Young to Derrick Billington and the other on a classic 62-yard ground

These two scores, coupled with a 52-yard romp by Stephon Brockington late in the first period and a second-quarter. 22-vard field goal by Joel Torres provided the scoring as the Indians handed Quanah its first defeat of the season.

It was easily the improving Indians' finest performance of the year. Offensively, Haskell had a season-high 241 yards rushing and added 64 more yards on the one pass

The Indians held Quanah to 141 rushing yards, but did give up 225 yards passing as Quanah's Trent Tabor riddled the air defenses with 14 completions in 22 attempts.

Quanah opened the game as though the Indians were going to be blown out of the park. The visiting Indians clicked off 19 plays to Haskell's three up to the time Quanah went ahead 7-0 with just 24 seconds left in the first period. The touchdown came on a 2-yard run by Rusty

Haskell answered quickly. After Torres returned the Quanah kickoff to the 33 and Quanah was penalized 15 yards to the 48, Brockington went wide to his left, turned up field and tight-roped down the sideline for a 52yard touchdown run. Torres' extra point tied the score at 7-all with just 4 seconds left in the opening period.

After the two teams exchanged fumbles, Quanah wound up with the ball at the Haskell 37. Tabor hit Troy

Young rambled for 17 yards and Torres picked up 7 in two carries. Torres then booted his 22-yard field goal which put Haskell out front 10-7 with 2:47 remaining in the half. That score held up through intermission.

Quanah started the second half just as it had the first. The visiting Indians marched 48 yards on their first possession for a go-ahead touchdown. Brawley got the score from the 2-yard but the Quanah receiver fumbled at the goal line and Haskell recovered in the end zone for a touchback. Since the projector was not usable to watch the Quanah game, some time was used to pass out thanks:

(1) to the cheerleaders and their moms for the fine signs placed in front of the varsity players' homes,

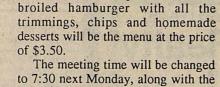

(2) to the varsity players for their great game against Quanah Friday night. Head Coach Harold Hill commented that he felt it was the first time our boys had been mentally prepared to play. They showed they had determination, and it made the coaches proud. They were doing some hard hitting on the line.

Coaches urged those present to follow the team to Knox City Friday night. He said the Greyhounds have a fine football team and could be called a sleeping giant. They have been beaten by the good teams of Seymour, Munday and Throckmorton, and beat Petrolia 78-

New cotton program big help to industry

The farm law's new cotton program is accomplishing its primary objectives and has dramatically reestablished U.S. cotton as a price-competitive industry at home and overseas, National Cotton Council economist Dean Ethridge told that organization's board of directors in Memphis.

Ethridge said projected U.S. cotton exports for 1986/87 are 6.5 million bales or nearly triple the amount for last year. Projected offtake is 13.3 million bales - - - up 59 percent from last season and 21 percent above the average of the past five years. He said prospects for a larger offtake conceivably could result in ending stocks of around 6 million bales as compared with 9.4 million bales last year.

The Council economist said the cotton program has succeeded on three fronts: (1) it has moved cotton out of the government loan and into the market, (2) it has accelerated foreign production adjustments to lower world carryover stocks, and (3) it has helped maintain farm income.

Council President Lloyd Cline called the cotton program which emerged from the 1985 farm law "the right move at an extremely critical time."

"It's working just as our industry designed it to work," said the Lamesa, Tex., grower. "It's helping our farmers maintain income while making our cotton price-competitive at home and abroad."

The Council president, however, warned that if the program is to maintain its momentum it must be allowed to continue in its current form. Cline said the battle to retain the farm program without further changes could be as difficult as the one fought to achieve the original bill.

In another report, H. L. Hodges,

Greenwood, Miss., president of Cotton Council International, told the board that the Council overseas' arm will expand trade servicing activities next year aimed at promoting U. S. cotton's competitiveness and maintaining or increasing its market share. The CCI president said three new activities--- U.S. cotton siminars in key foreign markets, special market review trips, and the addition of foreign market consultants - - will be undertaken in 1986/87.

Plans were also announced for a National Cotton Textile Conference in Myrtle Beach, S.C. The meeting, sponsored by the National Cotton Council and The Cotton Foundation in cooperation with USDA, Cotton Incorporated, and ATMI, will present the latest research findings on processing to the textile industry, according to Dr. Andrew Jordan, the Council's director of technical services.

Jordan also said the boll weevil eradication effort in the Southeast and Far West continues to be an economic and technical success. He said every dollar invested in the program by a typical Carolina grower has returned nearly $2.50. He further noted that only 35 weevils were caught in the eradicated South Carolina zone, while none was found in North Carolina. Jordan said eradication efforts started in the southern desert valley of California, Arizona, and Mexico in 1985 already have reduced weevil populations on the U.S. side by 98 percent from preprogram levels.

An update on agency regulatory efforts in cotton dust standards for oil mills, formaldehyde regulation in textile mills, and textile/appareal flammability was outlined to the board by Dr. Phil Wakelyn, Council manager of environmental/safety technology.

The Council's efforts to help moderate new sodbuster land regulations which could adversely affect growers in Mississippi and Texas were explained by John Maguire, the Council's Washington operations director. He also reported on the current state of agricultural credit legislation.

Dr. Arlie Bowling, executive director of The Cotton Foundation, reported that corporate funding of the Foundation's 23 special projects now totals $1 million. The research and educational projects are funded by cotton supplier firms in addition to their Foundation membership contributions.

Preliminary reports also were given to the board on the new five-month pilot cotton information network, which began Sept. 1. Joe Wyrick, Council manager of information systems, said 150 cotton industry members are currently participating in the program. He said participants will have access to an electronic mail exchange, information retrieval function, and telecommunication link with USDA. The project is aided by a $53,000 grant to The Foundation from American Cyanamid Company.

4-H program to be recognized

No one can question the fact that young people are the future of America, and the 4-H program is continuing to play a vital role in preparing youth for the future by providing training in leadership, citizenship and coping skills.

Thus the theme of the upcoming National 4-H Week, Oct. 5-13, "4-H for Youth of America," points to this country's richest resource, its young people, says H.T. "Tom" Davison, state 4-H leader with Texas A&M University. The Extension Service is the parent organization of the 4-H program, an informal, out-of-school educational program for youth between the ages of 9 and 19 that is based around local clubls.

"Through 4-H we try to provide youth with opportunities to learn and experience what life has to offer, Davison points out. "We also lay the groundwork to help 4-H members explore opportunities for personal growth and to gain skills that will be useful in later life."

Texas boasts 203,585 4-H members. Nationwide, 4-H is more than 4.3 million members strong. Looking at the Texas 4-H enrollment, there are 105,541 girls and 98,044 boys. Some 37,000 members live on farms, with almost 100,000 residing in suburbs and cities with a population of more than Adult volunteer leaders are the backbone of the 4-H program as they provide the organizational leadership for local 4-H clubs as well as training and resources in a host of subject-matter areas. Some 600,000 volunteer leaders support the 4-H program nationwide, with more than 16,000 of those in Texas. Davison estimates that the time, travel and support contributed by these volunteer leaders across the U.S. is valued at more than $1 billion a year.

Looking at the 4-H program in Texas, Davison notes that the most popular project area is foods and nutrition, which boasts 43,700 members. Other popular project areas include energy, 30,500 members; embryology, 20,300 members; health (eye care), 16,700 members; and safety, 15,300 members.

John Alex and LaVern Mayfield of Weinert proudly announce the arrival of their first grandchild, a little girl, Adrienne Wyn, born September 16, 1986 at 9:48 p.m. to Alexia Wyn and Duane Rimmer of DeSoto. She weighed 6 lbs. 12 ounces and is 19 1/2 inches long. She looks forward to meeting her cousins, aunts and uncles in this area.

Time running out on latest session

AUSTIN—The Texas Legislature, spurred by rumors of a third special session, expects to pass a sales tax increase sometime this week and go home, thanks to an extraordinary maneuver by the Speaker of the House.

Speaker Gib Lewis, suspicious that the Ways and Means panel meant to bottleneck the tax bill indefinitely, reassigned the tax bill to the State Affairs Committee. The bill cleared the panel vote that afternoon.

Lewis explained the maneuver was needed to protect the state's bond ratings. It also avoided a full-scale blood-bath for legislators who had blood in their eyes the night before.

The anti-tax forces aren't pleased, because they lost out. But Lewis was faced with an angry, pro-tax Senate and a growing number of pro-tax House members who wanted to be done with the teeth-pulling business of raising taxes in

Mattox and Barrera

The attorney general's GOP opponent charges he is keeping two sets of budget books to deceive the Legislature. The AG denied the charge.

A spokesperson for Atty. Gen. Jim Mattox said Republican state district Judge Roy Barrera had copies of old working papers, rather than the budget itself.

Last week, Barrera released copies of two versions of the budgets for Mattox's antitrust division, both dated Oct. 3, 1983. He said one version was a falsified document submitted to the Legislature, the other was Mattox's own spending

Mattox's office explained it was common to prepare budgets based on various scenarios and then submit a final

But Barrera said "the Attornev General is falsifying what is being spent." The AG's office responded Barrera "clearly doesn't understand the budgetary process or he's just Dale Carnegie and some of those others who teach you how to remember things stress association and the use of memory pegs.

Don said the other day that he can always remember when Fire Prevention Week is. "It's that week in October which has the 9th in it,"

He went on to explain that the 9th of October is the anniversary of the great Chicago fire.

I should be able to remember that from this day forward.

Lisa pointed out that Darold Roberson's first name is spelled just like "Harold" except for the first letter. I shouldn't have to ask her

A woman in another office told me that she learned to spell the word geography by using the first letter of each word in the sentence: "George Elliot's oldest girl rode a pony home yesterday."

I mentioned that to a colleague. He said he learned it differently: "George eats old gray rats and paints houses

I may not be very good at dates but if I'm ever on one of those quiz shows and am asked the year that Shakespeare died, I'll bark off "1616" without batting an eye.

This fabulous knowledge goes all the way back to when I was in the eighth or ninth grade. When the English teacher said something about Shakespeare dying in 1616, a fellow in the back of the room was confused by the answer: "Did you say 1660 or 1616?" he asked. When she repeated the date, he said, "Oh, you're saying two sixteens?"

So now when anyone wants to ask me when Shakespeare died, I can remember that it was two sixteens. Only trouble is that in all those years, I don't think I've ever been asked. But I'll be ready when the question comes.

Editor: The Haskell Rotary Club would like to take this opportunity to express our deep sense of loss in the death of Carl Anderson.

Carl was a long-standing member of our club, having been part of the group who obtained our original charter on June 5, 1957. He had continued to be a faithful member since that time. He served in many capacities during his more than 29 years of service and was always in support of Rotary projects and always willing to do his part.

Carl loved Rotary and all that it stands for. The fellowship of our members was very dear to him. On numerous occasions we can recall him saying, "I always look forward to Thursdays and meeting with my friends at Rotary."

People had picniced on those steps, sat on them and watched programs and performances. Some will remember sitting on the steps and watching Rex Felker with his beautiful trick roping. Those steps were even featured in the movie, "History of Haskell County," with Raymond Andrada standing on

Last year at homecoming, a lot of exes were ready to wring necks because of the wanton destruction of trees and steps. By next homecoming, they may have calmed down or gotten more riled up. Daniel Alvarado Velasquez recently spent his 28th birthday doing the same thing he probably did for his 27th birthday--running from the Texas law.

Velaslquez, a native of El Salvador, is wanted on a murder warrant issued out of Lufkin in connection with the Christmas Eve 1984 killing of 58-year-old Jose

Police reports indicate Rojas was attending a small neighborhood Christmas party when the incident occurred.

Witnesses say Velasquez drove up to the get-together and jumped out of his vehicle hollering and brandishing

Investigators say the party-goers scattered quickly as the suspect swung the machette and cut one of the victims across the stomach. Fortunately, the injured person was able to escape.

However, Jose Rojas was not so lucky. He was stabbed in the abdomen with a black-handled utility knife, then staggered to a neighbor's house where he collapsed on the front porch.

He died about an hour later in the emergency room at a Lufkin hospital. Detectives say witnesses identified Velasquez as the offender.

The killing has left investigators rather perplexed. According to a Lufkin Police Department spokesman, no one seems to know why Velasquez was upset when he drove up to the party, or why he allegedly acted in such a violent manner.

In an effort to learn the answer to that question, Daniel Alvarado Velasquez has been added to the Texas Most Wanted list.

A reward of up to $1,000 is being offered by the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council for information leading to the capture of Velasquez. He is about five feet tall, 120 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes.

After fleeing from the crime scene, the suspect reportedly went to Houston and still may be in that area.

Anyone with information concerning his whereabouts is asked to call the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council toll free at 1-800-252-8477. Callers do not have to identify themselves to be eligible for the award.

Three more Texas Most Wanted fugitives are now in custody.

The arrests of James Neil Hartman, Steve Coleman and Roberto Trevino bring to 32 the number of fugitives who have been featured on the Texas Most Wanted list who are now in custody. A total of 76 fugitives have made the list.

Daniel A. Velasquez

'We are delighted with the success of our Texas Most Wanted program," said Gov. Mark White.

The governor said the program's success rate is "even more dramatic when you consider that most of these fugitives have been running from the law for at least six months."

The Texas Most Wanted program is featured in daily and weekly newspapers and television stations throughout the state. IIIIIt is a cooperative effort between the Department of Public Safety and Texas Crime Stoppers.

Household inventory helpful

Having an inventory of household items can save the stressful and frustrating job of having to piece together what was stolen or destroyed in a natural disaster.

"People tend to remember conspicuous items, such as a chair, television or videotape recorder," says family economics specialist Dr. Mariorie Marman of Texas A&M. "But most homes also have dozens of small items whose value adds up to a considerable loss."

After a fire or theft, it may also be difficult to think clearly enough to remember everything that was lost or stolen, adds the Texas Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

According to the Insurance Information Institute, policyholders typically end up telephoning their insurance agents or company days and even weeks after a loss to add items which they had forgotten onto the insurance report.

The specialist advises taking the following steps to establish a household inventory before an accident or theft occurs:

*Walk through each room of the house and list every item. Be as descriptive as possible about the

*Take pictures to supplement discriptions.

*Keep original receipts on all purchases and get appraisals on jewelry and silverware.

*Update your inventory regularly to include new purchases.

*Store the inventory, pictures and receipts in a safe-deposit box or some other location away from your home. If you keep your inventory on a home computer, make a copy of the disk to store in a separate location.

Having a household inventory will not bring your goods back, but will make it easier to file an insurance claim and receive compensation.

Baptist Men to meet Sunday

The Baptist Men of the First Baptist Church in Haskell will have their monthly meeting and country breakfast at 7 a.m. Sunday.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Ken Branam, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Snyder, who will be guest evangelist during the church revival Oct. 5-8.

'Meals for two' require planning

You can spend 10 to 20 percent more per serving to feed one or two people than to feed a family of four. That's because there are economies when you buy in larger quantities. So, keeping food costs under control these days can be hard when you are fixing meals for only one or two people. It's also tempting to buy the many convenience foods on the market. Unfortunately these foods, although easy and fast to fix, are not easy on your pocketbook.

But, with planning and shopping know-how you can serve nutritious, economical meals for two. "Thrifty Meals for Two", a booklet from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, shows you how. The booklet includes sample meals and menu suggestions to help you plan nutritious meals, spend less money on food, and save time in the kitchen. And to make sure the food you are serving is safe to eat, send for "The Safe Food Book." For your copies of both, send your name and address to M.B. Woods, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Co. 81009. Please specify items numbers and include the appropriate fee.

Low-cost meals do not have to be dull. There are many nutritious lowcost foods from which to choose. More often than not, high cost foods, such as soda pop, candy, and alcohol, are low in nutrients. So by choosing the lower cost foods, you can not only save money, but improve your nutrition as well.

You can also save money by stretching certain foods. For example, meat is high in several nutrients, but can be expensive. Combining meat with bread, cereal, rice, pasta, or potatoes in casseroles takes less meat and saves money. And, contrary to what a lot of people think, bread, rice, potatoes, and pasta are not that high in calories. It's the toppings on these foods - - such as jelly, butter, margarine, and sour cream - - that raise the calories.

Another way to save money when fixing meals is to plan for leftovers. Since many foods don't come in packages for one or two people. some food could go to waste. You can avoid this by carefully incorporating leftovers into your weekly menus so that all food is used. And they don't have to look like leftovers. "Thrifty Meals for Two" tells how.

Once you have planned a menu, make out a shopping list so you will buy only what you need. Shop carefully. Take time to compare brands. There may be an unadvertised special on a certain brand. Three things to check when comparison shopping are: the unit price of the item, which is the price per pound, ounce, quart, or other unit; the cost per meal or serving, which is figured by dividing the number of meals or servings you can get from an item into the total cost; and the food label, which tells you what amounts and nutrients you are actually getting. "Thrifty Meals for Two" contains sample menus and recipes that use low cost, nutritious foods.

When shopping for those good buys and serving those low-cost dishes, remember to follow the basic rules of food safety. Keep hot food hot, cold food cold, and all food and your hands clean. It won't matter how much money you saved if the food is not safe to eat. "The Safe Food Book"describes how to assure food safety and what the symptoms are food poisoning are.

For more information on saving money on food and keeping that food safe, send for your copies of "Thrifty Meals for Two" (176P, $2.50) and "The Safe Food Book" (534P, free). At the same time you will also receive a free copy of the "Consumer Information Catalog". Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration, the "Catalog" lists more than 200 free and low-cost government consumer booklets on a wide variety of topics.
