TMF defends position

(The following article, clipped from the Feb. 21 issue of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, was submitted to The Free Press by Charles Chapman.)

> By Carolyn Poirot Star-Telegram Writer

DALLAS--The Texas Medical Foundation defended its role Friday in protecting elderly patients from inadequate medical care and denied responsibility for the collapse of 25 small, rural hospitals last year.

Spokesmen for the foundation said hospitalized patients are the least able to judge the quality of care and suggested that patients might be better off without a doctor in their immediate community than with one of the 14 who were denied Medicare privileges last year.

The Austin-based foundation has a two-year, $19.1 million contract with the U.S. Department of Human Services to act as Medicare's watchdog over hospitalized patients in Using peer review, it has recommended that 14 doctors, mostly from small towns, be excluded from Medicare. The foundation has been blamed, in part, for the economic problems that closed many of the 25 rural hospitals that turned in their licenses in 1986.

"TMF has not been responsible for any hospital closings," Dr. John Meyer of Hondo, chairman of the foundation's San Antonio-Central Texas Regional Quality Assurance Committee, told the news conference

The foundation is denying payment for only about 4.9 percent of all hospital admissions---because they were later judged to be medically unnecessary---and has sanctioned less than one-half of one percent of the 27,000 doctors practicing in Texas, Meyer said.

The point of consideration here is whether TMF's utilization and quality review programs create a financial crisis in a hospital---whether that hospital is rural or urban," he said. 'We do not believe that is a fact."

Robert L. King, executive director of the foundation, said the foundation disagrees with many doctors, and the Texas Hospital Association and some in the Texas Department of Health who have blamed the reviews, in part, for the financial problems of many rural Texas hospitals.

Texas has 486 hospitals, more than half of which have 50 beds or less, he said. "With that many facilities...it's no big deal (if a few close), but don't say I said that," King

"Transportation may be a problem, But, really, what's 24 miles?"

Dr. Charles Cain of Dallas, chairman of the foundation's statewide quality assurance committee, said the foundation "must assess the risk to the patient of traveling for medical care against the risk of leaving the physician in the Medicare program."

Cain, King and Dr. Allen Fain of Dallas, chairman of the foundation's Regional Medical Directors, called the statewide press conference Friday to answer recent public criticism about he peer review process, which is being focused on as many as 100 doctors.

The foundation is working with the Texas Medical Association to increase the supply of doctors in rural areas, but is not legally responsible for replacing doctors who are denied Medicare reimbursements, King said. He also said they are not responsible for providing transportation for lderly patients forced to seek care in towns 25 and 30 miles away.

King said the medical foundation tries to save some doctors through education in seminars and consultations.

Of the more than 300 doctors they cited as having problems delivering quality care, the foundation helped 286 and sanctioned only 14 "so certainly there has been some ducation effort," King said.

But he and Fain said doctors who have been sanctioned are usually not offered education.

"Well, if we need to sanction them, we don't try to educate them," King said.

Fain added, "If they're salvageable, we try to save them."

He said the peer review process is to determine who is salvageable.

TEAMS Test Results

Haskell students do well on tests

Haskell high school juniors scored well above area and state averages in the TEAMS tests given earlier this

In the mathematics portion of the test, 94 percent of the local students mastered the test, compared to 89 percent in Texas and 90 percent in region 14.

Ninety-eight percent of the Haskell students passed the English language arts portion of the test. This figure compares with 87 percent for the state and 90 percent for the area.

Broken down into reading and writing categories, Haskell students again excelled. The mastery rate locally was 56 percent in reading, compared to 46 percent for the state and and 49 percent for the region. In the writing portion, Haskell's percentage was 64 percent, while the state average was 56 percent and the region average 58 percent.

TEAMS tests are criterionreferenced tests (CRTs). A CRT measurement instrument relates test items to specific learning objectives or levels of proficiency in skills which students have been taught. The student's performance on each objective is measured.

Since CRTs measure specific objectives, they are useful in instructional planning. Areas of high and low student performances are easily identifiable.

Haskell woman to model dress

Cotton, wool and mohair will be the "stars" of the Natural Fibers Fashion Showcase to be held at the Southwest Farm and Ranch Exposition in Fort Worth at 4 p.m.

But playing important supporting roles will be the farm, ranch and agribusiness women who will display their fashion and sewing skills on garments they made from these Southwestern natural fibers.

Anita Payne of Haskell will be representing Haskell County in the Showcase by modeling her creation for the competition, a 100-percent wool dress topped with a 100-percent cotton jacket.

Those planning to attend the Exposition are invited to stop by the Showcase. It will give them plenty of ideas and a chance to see some beautifully crafted clothes.

Showcase entrants will compete for first-, second- and third-place awards in four divisions: custom sewn garments, knitted and crocheted garments, coordinated mother and child ensembles, and a category for former grand award winners.

Each garment entered in the show will be made of a minimum blend of 50 percent cotton or 50 percent wool and/or mohair.

Sponsors of the event include the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Southwest Hardware and Implement Association and Progressive Farmer.

Comptroller's plan finds tough sailing

AUSTIN—The Legislature passed a $20.4 million emergency prison bill last week in an effort to avoid federal contempt of court fines, but it may not be enough.

In other happenings:

• Gov. Clements decided not to bust some of his predecessor's last-hour appointments;

• The Texas Supreme Court decided the state could legally test the literacy of teachers; and

• Attorney General Jim Mattox told The Dallas Morning News it may have violated the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act.

The $20.4 million prison bill will expand halfway house programs and parole and probation services to help the prison system speed up the early release of non-violent prisoners.

Prison doors remained closed for most of last week due to overcrowding, and Texas still faces federal court fines of more than $800,000 daily. Mattox questioned whether the bill was enough.

More Tax Talk

The Comptroller's proposal to widen the base and lower the sales tax rate isn't finding easy sailing, according to Ways and Means chairman Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen.

Schlueter advised that legislators generally agree they won't go through an emotional, perhaps bloody, battle over a new tax plan unless it produces more revenues than outlined.

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Comptroller Bob Bullock tailored his bill to meet a fiscal lid imposed by Clements, but many lawmakers want to go higher, according to Schlueter.

The next day, in a speech to dairymen, Clements retorted to pro-tax lawmakers, "If you want to raise taxes, just say so. Come forward in the full light of day and tell Texans what you mean and don't hide behind flowery oratory."

Lame-Duck Taps

Clements was considering busting seven last-hour appointments by lame duck Gov. Mark White, but last week he gave up the effort.

Faced with more important items on the agenda and a Democratic Senate which would probably win, he let it go by.

Literacy Testing

The Supreme Court unanimously ruled constitutional the 1984 law requiring teachers to take a literacy test as part of the reform package enacted by White.

Ink By Barrel

An old political maxim goes, "Don't pick a fight with a man who buys ink by the barrel," but Mattox wasn't fainthearted when he told The Dallas Morning News he is prepared to file a deceptive trade practices lawsuit against it for inflating circulating figures.

The newspaper responded by asking a state district judge to declare that its circulation figures are accurate and that no figures have been falsified.

The newspaper claims Mattox's probe is retaliation for its articles on his office, but Mattox said the facts are there for a lawsuit.

In other action, Mattox said he will send a lawyer to London as part of the probe into allegations of antitrust activities by some in the insurance industry. The Lloyds of London insurance firm has been linked to problems of premiums costs.

Texas Supercollider?

While Clements goes to Washington, D.C. to draw the billion dollar supercollider, or atomic particle accelerator project, to Texas, legislators also urged Congress to build it here.

West Texans want the project at the Garden City site, but Clements wants it near a metropolitan area. The project would employ 3,000 people with a yearly budget of $270 million.

Other Legislation

An East Texas lawmaker, Rep. Billy Clemons, filed a bill to levy a tax on illegal drugs, similar to a tobacco stamp, to add tax evasion as another option to prosecute drug dealers.

Houston Sen. Craig Washington went for humor by filing a bill spoofing the Aggies and pro-choice forces. Washington's bill makes it illegal for a man to have a vasectomy without the consent of his wife and unless he donated to a sperm bank for ten years.

One exception: vasectomies are allowed on students who attended Texas A&M University for four semesters or more.

Speaking of Aggies, they are a much more dominant force in Texas politics, ever since The University of Texas disbanded its student government in the '70s.

With the breeding ground gone for UT politicos, the Aggies filled the vacuum with such elected officials as Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, Railroad Commissioner John Sharp, state Sens. Chet Edwards and Kent Caperton and many more.

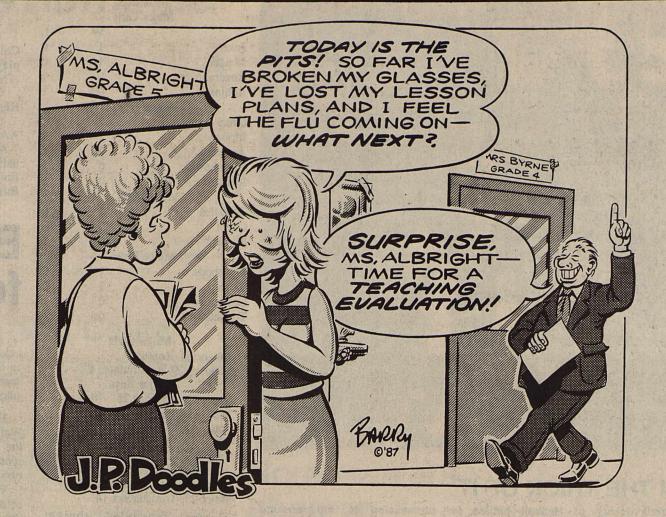

Fewer accidents

Through the first 10 months of 1986, the number of rail accidents in Texas dropped more than 42 percent, compared to the same period in 1985, according to Railroad Commissioner James E. Nugent, who said the trend represents a "coming of age" of the Texas rail safety program.

Editor: One of the most controversial issues facing the Texas Legislature this year is tort reform, the movement to reform our state's civil justice system. It is interesting to examine the players on either side of the issue and their motivations.

Doctors, hospital

Editor: Is this happening in your community?

Due to recent circumstances in our rural community of Archer City, our attention has been drawn to the questionable sanctions imposed upon the doctors of rural areas, in particular, by the Texas Medical Foundation's Peer Review Organization. The criteria set down by this organization is so stringent that no physician could possibly be in compliance with all aspects included

These sanctions in many cases will result in the closing of many rural hospitals, leaving a large percentage of our population without immediate medical care.

I am interested in finding out how many other communities share our same problems.

Only by cooperation of all Texans and their legislators can something be done to rectify this situation. Many of the legislators are aware of the problem and are investigating the workings of the federally funded Texas Medical Foundation.

Due to the stigma this imposes upon the physician the public is not always aware of the situation until it is too late.

We're fighting for our doctor, R. D. Schlomach, M.D., and our hospital, Archer County Hospital. I hope you will be equally as concerned because this could also be pertinent to you, your physician, and your hospital.

The number of hospitals closed Jan. 1, 1986, through Dec. 31, 1986, is 25. A large number of Texas doctors have been sanctioned and many more are waiting official sanctions. If the hospital in your

Arthritis Management

By Lou Gilly Haskell County Extension Agent Home Economics

For the next few weeks I will be having a series of articles on arthritis management. To begin with I'll answer the question, "What is arthritis, anyway?"

Perhaps you're experiencing aches and pains in certain joints and muscles. Activity seems to increase the pain and rest relieves it. This often is symptom of osteoarthritis. It is caused principally by the wear and tear of joints that come with age.

At every joint, a cushion of cartilage keeps the ends of bones from rubbing against each other. With osteoarthritis, this cushion gradually wears away---allowing the bones to rub together. And this is what causes the pain and swelling.

You might be interested to know that an estimated 16 million people in the United States suffer from some form of osteoarthritis. And its occurence seems to increase with age. In fact, if we lived long enough, we would all probably develop some degree of osteoarthritis sooner or later. Another 20 million people suffer from other, more severe types of arthritis.

But remember: No two cases of arthritis are alike.

Next week I will discuss some steps to help control your arthritis symptoms.

Highway funds

Editor: Gov. Bill Clements has successfully pushed a plan through the Legislature to divert $32.5 million in highway funds to bail out prisons and the workers compensation

The plan was sent to the Legislature as emergency legislation, was passed that same day by the House, and the following day by the Highway officials were caught by surprise as they were not consulted and were not given the opportunity to comment on the proposal.

The State Highway Fund is the repository of state and federal funds intended to build and maintain the state's highways. The money comes from "user fees" paid by Texas motorists. User fees include the fuel tax and vehicle registration fees. Most motorists pay the user fees willingly with the understanding they will have better roads to drive on.

Gov. Clements is quoted as saying the highway funds were "just sitting there" and that the funds diverted were placed there by 1984 legislation rather than being constitutionally dedicated fuel taxes and vehicle registration fees. It remains for the lawyers to argue whether this action is legal. Is is certainly immorral if not illegal.

In 1984, the Legislature increased the fuel tax, vehicle registration fees and vehicle sales tax to repair and upgrade the state's deteriorating roads. Part of the money came from the vehicle sales tax, a tax paid by motorists, but not dedicated to roads in the constitution. Nonetheless, the commitment was made that the money would be used for that purpose.

To say that the money is "just sitting there" is misrepresentation of the facts. Under the pay as you go system under which the Texas highway program operates, the money has to be there before contracts are awarded for highway construction. Outstanding obligations exceed the balance in the fund.

The raid on state highway funds could not come at a worse time. Failure of Congress to pass a highway authorization bill is holding up $941 million in federal highway funds. The state dollars are critical to keep the program moving. The fund dipping episode underscores the need to make the "temporary" five-cent per gallon fuel tax permanent. This will make the Texas highway program totally supported by constitutionally dedicated user fees.

-Weinert News-

By Myrtle Phemister

On Feb.25, 1913, the Income Tax Law was adopted. Perhaps it was supposed to eliminate a small national debt, and be discontinued by the next session of Congress. Does that sound familiar? Aren't many taxes imposed "just for a season?"

As you pay your income tax in 1987, be thankful for the fact we live in the greatest nation on earth, and we pay the least taxes of any country, for the privilege of living here!

We had two days of beautiful snow, and tho it hindered the harvest and caused the livestock some discomfort, delayed garden planting and left a host of dirty cars in the Big Country, it was nice.

I treasure your remarks about this column! They truly keep me going. If anyone has had complaints they have been directed to the editor (Thank you for that, too).

A telephone call from Pearl Monke Hinncke was a day brightner. She sent regards to each Weinertite, and sent her "Thanks" to each one who took time to write her a note or call by telephone. She is well, and tho more feeble than when we knew her, she gets around some, keeps up with the world events, enjoys reading and watching TV and especially enjoys The Haskell Free Press.

Sallie Sanders is in Daingerfield, Texas, this week spending some time with her daughter, Sue and Butch Cox, and Junior and Edwin Brazzell, grandsons.

Mattie and D. I. White were in Fort Worth to see Jim and Sue Hackney, Todd and Talanda.

Francis Mahan was in Hamilton and took some tests in the clinic there. She reports they were favorable, and she could then enjoy a visit with Margie and Pete Jordan, her daughter.

Helen Boykin was in Abilene to attend the Sing-Song held at ACU, in which her grandson, Michael Boykin, was a participant. Doyle, Rita and Tommy Boykin of Texas City were up to Abilene to attend, also.

Ted and Faye Jetton were in Denton to visit a daughter and family, Don and Sandra Stafford. They returned via Dallas to see another daughter and family, Jackie and Earnie Frantz.

Several members of the Church of Christ attended the lectureship held at Abilene Christian University this week.

Rene Vojkufka, a Christian "Darcas" in our community, is sharing her time and talents by teaching several young homemakers how to quilt. They meet at her home on Thursdays at 5 p.m., and anyone is welcome to attend. Those who attended last week were Sarah and Cindy Guess, Donetta Hudgins and Doris Carroll.

R. S. and Betty Sanders were in Winters to visit Betty's parents, The Rae Gideons. Mr. Gideon is in poor health Sympathy is extended to the Ted Boykins family upon learning of the death of their son's father-in-law, Ben Lloyd of Andrews.

Charles Baucom of York, Neb., is a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Phemister and attended church services in Weinert on Sunday. Charles is the library director of York Christian College and is down our way to attend the lectureship at ACU.

Shirley, Wayne and Cindy Offutt were in town for the day and spent some time with both sets of parents, Bud and Mildred Offutt and Eddie and Myrnie Sanders.

Clyde and Otie Bell Mayfield were delighted with a visit from their daughter and husband, Couella and George Cunningham of Ransom Canyon, Texas, grandson Jeff Teague and wife Lisa of Haskell and greatgrandchildren Justin and Missy Teague.

Weinert's third through sixth grade classes have a trip planned to Safety City in Abilene. All the students will attend, accompanied by their teachers and sponsors, Debbie Crump and Alice Yates.

Our sick of the community are all improved in health, with new ones being added to the list. Eddie Sanders will be in Wichita Falls on March 2, with probable gall-bladder complications, and possibly undergo surgery for it

R. S. Sanders will enter Hendricks on Feb. 29 for further chemotherapy treatments. We solicit your prayers.

The First Baptist Church is looking forward to a revival they will host March 1 through 8, with Bucky Faggard of High Island, Texas, as visiting evangelist. Randy McLelland of Haskell will direct the music.

Worship services will be at 7 p.m. each night, and visitors are always welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Saddler with Mallori and Tabitha of Novice visited her parents, the Leonard Mahans, and attended worship services at the Church of Christ on Sunday.

Raymon and Janie Boykin, Randy and Shelly of Vernon spent their day off from school in Weinert with Raymon's mother, Helen.

Cancer detection focuses on women

KTXS-TV and medical facilities in Abilene, Brownwood and Eastland will be cooperating in a joint effort to alert women to the value of early detection of breast cancer during the American Cancer Society's 1987 TX Breast Screening Project.

The project is a state and nationwide effort to help save lives from breast cancer by offering reduced-price ($50) mammograms for a limited time this spring.

On March 2-6, KTXS-TV (Sweetwater-Abilene) will be airing a special series of reports on the project and breast cancer. American Cancer Society (ACS) volunteers will be staffing a phone bank at the Mall of Abilene from 6 to 11 p.m. each night to assist eligible women in receiving information and setting up appointments for mammograms during this project. The project is primarily for non-symptomatic women 35 years or older.

The telephone number, 698-5000, will be open from 6 to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday, March 2-6. Women wishing to participate in the project should call during these times to receive information and be screened for eligibility.

Medical facilities participated in the project are Radiology Associates, an Abilene physicians' group, Humana Hospital, Brownwood Regional Hospital and Eastland Memorial Hospital.

Breast cancer is a leading cancer killer among women in the U.S. This year the ACS predicts an increase in incidence---affecting one out of 10 American women some time during her lifetime, rather than one out of 11 as has been reported in past years. Since the cause of breast cancer remains unknown, early detection offers the best defense. Chances of cure are excellent when breast cancer is detected and treated early while a tumor is still small.

Mammography is one of the best available techniques for detecting cancer too small to be felt by even the most experienced examiner. With an accuracy rate of about 90 percent, mammography can detect breast tumor while they are still microscopic in size.

Screening mammography, or mammography in women who have no symptoms, can provide a "baseline" by which a woman's future mammograms can be compared to detect microscopic changes and possible tumors.

While extremely useful, and in some cases life saving, screening mammograms are not covered by most medical insurance plans.

The ACS recommends a screening baseline mammogram for women between ages 35 and 40 and then annual or biannual mammograms between 40 and 50. After age 50 women are encouraged to have a mammogram every year. Women with a personal or family history of breast cancer should consult their physicians about how often they should be examined and have mammography before age 40.

Mammography, together with monthly breast self-examination by the woman and an annual physical examination by a physician, provides the best means of early detection of breast cancer.

Mammography scored especially high in the Breast Cancer Detection and Demonstration Project, a major study funded jointly by ACS and the National Cancer Institute. Yet a recent Gallup survey indicated that only 15 percent of women over age 50 have a mammogram every year. The poll also showed that 75 percent of all U.S. women are aware that mammography exists.

Major deterrents for getting a mammogram include fear of radiation, high cost and lack of information. These areas of concern will be a major focus of the local screening project and the KTXS-TV series. ACS public education efforts will stress the fact that potential benefits of mammography in terms of lives saved far outweigh the slight health risk from a low dose of radiation involved in mammography.
