Ambulance Service for County Still In Doubt

Little or nothing has changed since last week in the matter of providing ambulance service for residents of Coke County. Interviews with county officials last Monday indicated that they still feel there is nothing they can legally do in providing county tax money to finance the service.

Robert Lee Water Meets Sandards of Health Dept.

In the regular meeting of the Robert Lee City Council June 6 Robert Large, water superintendent, reported that the newly repaired filter system is working proper and the city's water now meets turbidity requirements of the Texas State Department of Health.

In other business the council:

* Heard complaints from citizens concerning law enforcement in Robert Lee.

* Submitted a list of names of persons to serve on the board of equalization.

* Agreed to use summer help on the Council of Governments manpower program.

* Discussed improvements at City Hall and agreed to build curb and sidewalk from the City Hall to the Coke County Library building. Discussed the annexation of Walker Heights, a new subdivision north of Robert Lee.

Backers of the move to request the county to foot the entire cost of the service were hit with a bombshell last week when County Attorney Robert Owen wrote his official opinion that the bills creating the two hospital districts in the county specifically forbid the expenditure of county or municipal tax money to provide medical care.

Petitions with 487 signatures were presented to the commissioners' court last week prior to the request for an opinion of legality from the county attorney.

County Judge W.W. Thetford and Commissioners Jett Hood, Bobby Vaughn and Jerry Parker said Monday that they could see no way for the county to finance the ambulance service without some change in the present situation. Commissioner Bob Fields was not available for comment.

Judge Thetford said he told the commissioners he could not condone going against the county attorney's opinion but would resign his office if they wanted to proceed with furnishing ambulance service at county expense. The commissioners, however, were unanimous in their opinion that they had better leave the matter alone until something further develops. They all felt that a reversal of Owen's opinion by the attorney general's office was the only immediate solution to the problem.

D.W. Sims, Democratic nominee for county judge and a strong proponent of the service, was asked if he thought the county attorney's ruling would block the move to obtain county ambulance service. "I'm afraid that this is true," he said, "unless we can get an opinion to the contrary from the attorney general."

He expressed his disappointment, adding, "I feel the commissioners court's hands have been tied by the county attorney's ruling." Sims mentioned another possible solution as going back to the legislature when it convenes next year and ask to have the statute reworded. "But that's a long time to wait for something we need right now," he said.

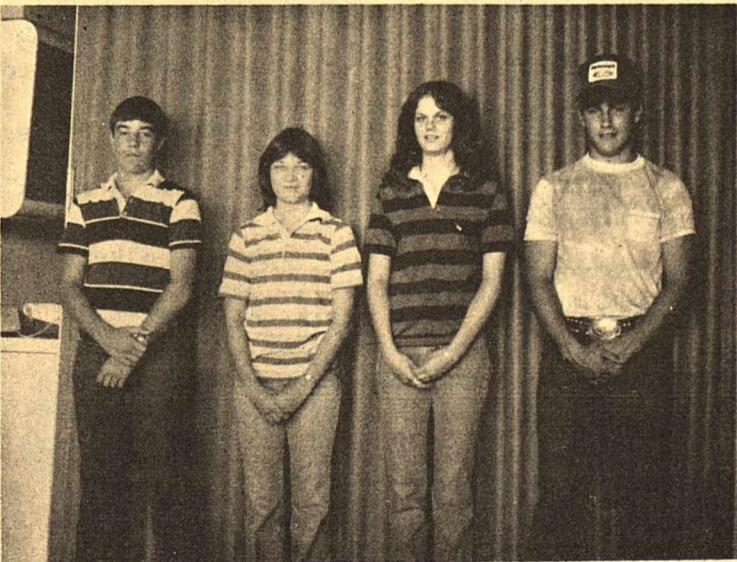

Soil Judges Win Second in State

The Coke County 4-H Club Soil Judging Team placed second in the State Contest held in College Station last week with two members placing second and third high individuals in the contest.

Cindy Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.J. Walker, was second high individual in the State Contest. Kerry Gartman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gartman was next in line with the third high score of the day. Nineteen teams with 76 contestants participated in the contest.

Watches were awarded the top 10 individuals in the contest. In addition to Cindy and Kerry a third member, Scot Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Long, received one of the wrist watches. The fourth member of the team was Debbie Askins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foy Askins.

The team members were awarded medals for placing second. Coaches of the top three teams were awarded pocket calculators.

REAL SOLUTIONS TO HEALTH CARE COSTS

WASHINGTON—"The first wealth is health," noted philosopher Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Unfortunately, nowadays, the rising cost of hospital care makes great wealth a prerequisite for the maintenance of good health. Although good health is invaluable, quality health care carries a high price tag.

The concept of health in America has changed radically since Emerson's time, when the responsibility for an individual's health rested on the individual himself. Physicians and hospitals intervened rarely, usually in the case of emergencies.

Increasing affluence and medical sophistication have resulted in greater use of physicians, and this trend, among others, has improved public health. In 1930, only 36 percent of the population reached the age of 65; today, 65 per cent of all deaths occur after age 65.

However, these improvements have affected the nation's pocketbook, and expenditures for hospital care have increased more rapidly than any other major item in the cost-of-living index.

While the GNP increased six times from 1950 to 1976, the nation's total hospital bill jumped 15 times. This amounts to an average health care expenditure per family of over $2200—almost 15 per cent of the median family income.

As difficult as it may be for families to bear the direct burden of extremely high medical bills, most of this health care cost is paid indirectly, through private health insurance, Medicare and veteran benefits.

Needless to say, the financial drain is just as real whether the bills are paid directly from one's own pocket or through third-party insurance plan companies. For example, General Motors pays more to Blue Cross for employee health benefits than to U.S. Steel for the steel used in its cars. These employer costs are then passed on to consumers in the prices charged for goods and services produced.

The Administration's response to hospital costs is to propose a new set of regulations limiting hospital cost increases to 9 per cent and clamping a limit on new construction by hospitals.

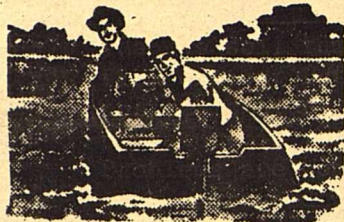

This is a well-intentioned attempt, but could disrupt the nation's health care system. For although the Administration seeks to hold down hospital costs, nothing is—or should—be done to control the prices of goods hospitals themselves must purchase. Controls on prices in only one sector of the economy are unworkable, and controls on all sectors of the economy are highly undesirable.

With the imposition of arbitrary federal controls on the one area of hospital costs, damaging budget slashes made by hospital administrators could result. These could adversely affect the quality of health care, to the detriment of all Americans.

Undoubtedly, hospital cost inflation must be reduced. However, the facts presented so far have not convinced me that federal controls offer the best way to keep these costs in line. We should first give voluntary cost controls a try before Washington attempts to step in with federally-imposed rules. Inevitably, any governmental cost controls on hospitals would entail direct government supervision of the quality of health care, something the American people do not want and from which no benefit will result.

We must search for creative new ways to stop the drain on our treasury caused by escalating health care costs. For example, insurance companies should be given the incentive to compete on the basis of the price of premiums by encouraging hospitals to keep costs in line. In this way, companies could offer policies which provide for lower premiums if the patient utilizes hospitals that provide quality care with reasonable cost controls. We cannot afford to institute federal controls which could impair our nation's health care system.

The protection of our nation's economic health and maintenance of the physical health of our nation's population are not incompatible goals.

Dustdevils Drop Game to Bronte

Bronte brought the fight to Robert Lee May 25, and walked away with a 21 to 1 win. The only hits the Dustdevils could put together came in the second inning. Kyle Gibbs lead off with a single. O.J. Saucedo followed with another single, moving Gibbs around to third base. Quint Anthony then singled, driving in the only score.

BRONCO'S STOP DUSTDEVILS

The Sterling City Bronco's managed to hold the Dustdevils off for a 4 to 1 win. Armando Sanchez got a triple in the third inning but was unable to score. The fourth inning Quint Anthony lead off with a single, but was forced-out when the next batter hit into a double play.

Then Kyle Gibbs with two outs singled. Scot Long followed with another single. But the next batter ground-out thus retiring the inning. The only score came out when Kyle Gibbs singled, then stole second and third base and then scored on Scot Long's single. It was a well played ball game on both sides, managers said.

The Dustdevils would like to thank Bob Wrinkle of Western Auto for donating to the team a new baseball bat and ball.

MRS. IVEY HELPS WITH VOTE CANVASS

Mrs. Cumble (Patty) Ivey was in Austin Tuesday for a meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee. The group met to canvass officially, results of the second Democratic Primary held June 3.

Mrs. Ivey is the Democratic committeewoman from the 25th Senatorial District of Texas which covers a wide area of West Texas.

Mrs. Ivey said there was a large group of horsemen present at the meeting who had come to protest alleged irregularities and miscounting on the pari-mutuel betting referendum which appeared on the Democratic Party ballot used in the first primary on May 6.

The executive committee had to certify only one nominee for a statewide office, John Poerner for railroad commissioner. A few other certifications were required in some races for congressmen and judges in some of the state's high courts.

Celebration Is Planned July 4

A Fourth of July ice cream supper is planned under joint sponsorship of Lions Clubs of Bronte and Robert Lee, 7 p. m., in Mountain Creek Amphitheatre, east of Little League Baseball Park, Robert Lee. It is appropriate that this installation, outgrowth of Bicentennial planning, should experience its first public use with a patriotic observance, said a sponsor.

Coke County Pageant Association officials plan an entertainment, and federated clubs and societies of both towns are asked to activate telephone committees to inform citizens of the celebration.

Every family is invited to bring a freezer of ice cream and/or cake or cookies. Bowls and spoons will be provided.

Those who wish to perform in a miscellaneous program are asked to contact Edna Havins, program chairman. A sampler is expected from the forthcoming historical pageant, set for July 28-29, "OLE COKE COUNTY, Home of the Rabbit Twisters"; group singing; examination of the theatre; and visiting with friends. Those wishing to acquire membership in Coke County Pageant Association may do so at that time.

WTU Against New Rate Structure

West Texas Utilities Co. has urged the Public Utility Commission of Texas not to adopt innovative utility rate structures or new electric use management controls until it is proven conclusively that benefits outweigh costs and that the customer will readily accept the changes.

In a statement prepared for hearings which began Monday in Austin, G. Holman King, A WTU vice president, advised against rate concepts "which might be politically attractive in the short run but which would have disastrous effects on the public in the long run."

Specifically, King said WTU opposes widespread application of time-of-day pricing, mechanical load management techniques, and lifeline rates.

Time-of-day pricing would charge more for electricity consumed during the hours when demands on an electric system's generating capacity is at its peak. By trimming the peak, a utility company could delay capital outlays for new power plants and benefit all customers.

Load management deals with non-pricing methods for changing the level or pattern of demand for electricity. It could involve devices which curtail operation of appliances such as water heaters and air-conditioners at certain times.

The so-called lifeline rates are designed theoretically to help the poor by providing at low cost the minimum amount of electricity necessary to maintain a modest quality of life.

King said WTU's position is that electric rates should be based on the cost of service to all customers, but that it should be recognized that costs of providing electricity vary widely among different classes of customers.

"There seems to be a basic misconception," King said, "that because residential customers on the average pay more per kilowatt hour than industrial customers, the large industries are being subsidized by the smaller residential users."

"This viewpoint is of course, completely erroneous and reflects a basic misunderstanding of electric utility economics," he said.

Time-of-day pricing has been found practical for some of WTU's large electric customers which have flexibility to change their time of use, King said, but is not considered feasible for most residential and commercial customers.

A major objection, he noted, would be the initial cost of special time-of-day meters. Cost of installation throughout WTU's large, sparsely populated territory would be almost $25 million, which is equal to the cost of the company's newest power generating plant.

Another obstacle would be customer resistance. Shifting a desired amount of electric load away from the peak demand period would require customers to turn off their air-conditioners during the hottest hours of the summer. Load curves of WTU's 1977 system peak demand show that to accomplish a significant reduction of electric usage, the period defined as "on-peak" and subject to higher rates would have to be extended from early afternoon to almost midnight.

"This would defeat the purpose of air-conditioning and be completely unacceptable to our customers," King said.

He added that WTU's experience with time-controlled water heaters indicates that customers will not accept time clocks or other devices which drastically interfere with their living patterns.

The primary question to be answered, he said, is "Will it be public policy in Texas to allocate the cost burden as equitably as possible among our customers or will one class be given preferential treatment over the others?"

PLAY DAY POINTS COUNT THIS WEEK

The playday program of the Coke County Rodeo Association which is set for this Saturday night in the Bronte arena, is important to all participants, because they will start counting points toward their season records. The Saturday program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

It was originally planned to start counting points toward the season record on June 3, but playday activities on that date were rained out.

(Editor's note: please join me in hoping we will have a repeat of the June 3 weather.)

Also present were: C. F. Sharp, Mrs. H.C. Murtishaw, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Craig, Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Sparks Jr., Shelly and Lorri, Brent, Charla and Chad Sparks, all of San Angelo; Mrs. J.I. Screwworms Are Found in Many Nearby Counties

The screwworms continue to be a threat in this area of the State. Confirmed cases have now been identified in Coleman, Mitchell, Howard, Midland, Glasscock, Irion and Tom Green Counties. The cases from Tom Green, Irion and Glasscock Counties were identified last week.

All operators are encouraged to remain alert to the situation and check their livestock for possible cases. One case, undetected, could cause large problems before the year is out.

Should a case be found a sample must be mailed to the identification center in Mission before sterile flies will be dropped on the area concerned. Anyone who needs a mailing carton and vial may secure one at Key Feed Store in Robert Lee, the First National Bank in Bronte or at the County Extension Office in Robert Lee.

Young Readers Enroll in Summer Library Program

Young readers in 24 libraries in the 32-county area served by the Big Country Library System will participate in the Summer Reading Club sponsored this year by the Texas State Library and local public libraries. They will be among 140,000 young Texans taking part in the program. Since summer provides a time for recreational reading and for pursuing special interests, it is usually the busiest time of the year in children's departments in public libraries.

Participants in the Summer Reading Club for 1978 will be invited to "Come to Chimera!" Their trip will take them to a fantasy land where any dream can come true. To mark their journey, they will receive a reading log that shows mountains, swamps and castles inhabited by fantastic creatures.

Libraries will also be planning special activities. And while young readers are discovering the Reading Club and these activities, they will have an opportunity to find out that using the public library can be fun. In fact, it can become a lifelong habit that will continue to enrich their lives.

The theme for this year's Reading Club appeals to the imagination and spotlights imaginative literature available in public libraries. Librarians, however, know that reading will not be limited to that. Some boys and girls will read everything available on dinosaurs or horses or volcanoes or some other topic they become fascinated with.

Participants will receive recognition at the end of the summer. Most important, however, they will have discovered that the informal atmosphere of a nearby public library makes reading fun.

Sixty-seven children have enrolled in the summer reading program. Those who haven't enrolled, it isn't too late to join the fun, so contact the library. Librarian Linda Boone reports that circulation is increasing steadily.

Plan now to fight summer's heat. Shade windows with roof overhang, awnings and plantings.

CREEPFEEDING CALVES--- Before creepfeeding calves, cattlemen should look at the profit potential, suggests a beef cattle specialist. Creepfeeding is generally unprofitable unless forage is short, feed is cheap and calf prices are high. The cost of gain is usually high due to the poor conversion of creepfeed to added calf weight. A producer should figure on 1,000 pounds of feed to put on 100 pounds of gain. With that feed costing $60, the break-even price for the added 100 pounds of gain would be 60 cents per pound.

WATER HEATERS: A BAROMETER OF CHANGE

Thermostats on water heaters are being turned down at factories from 155 degrees F. to 130 degrees-140 degrees F. This is being done to reduce burn injuries in showers and baths, and, to limit standby heat loss from a water heater. For example, if water is stored at 140 degrees F. and the room is 70 degrees F., there's a 70 degree F. differential for delta T. If water is stored at 100 degree F. and the room temperature is 70 degree F., there is only a 30 degree F. delta T. Thus, less heat loss during the off cycle.

The Energy Policy and Conservation Act was signed into law in 1976, but mandatory labeling has not yet been established for several reasons. One is, even with efficient water heaters, the ability to save energy is in using the appliance correctly, and that, takes education.

A Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association representative projects new product technologies, for example heat pump and solar assisted water heaters, and encourages other industries to prepare for water heaters which will be providing lower temperatures.

LAUNDRY AND DISHWASHING SYSTEMS -- IMPACTS AND TRENDS

The manufacturer is expected to reduce the amount of energy appliances use... and still deliver the performance expected by the consumer. Reduced chemical, mechanical and thermal energy will lessen laundering and dish washing performance. For example, results of testing on swatches of cotton and polyester, using reduced detergent (chemical energy) and/or reduced water temperature (thermal energy).

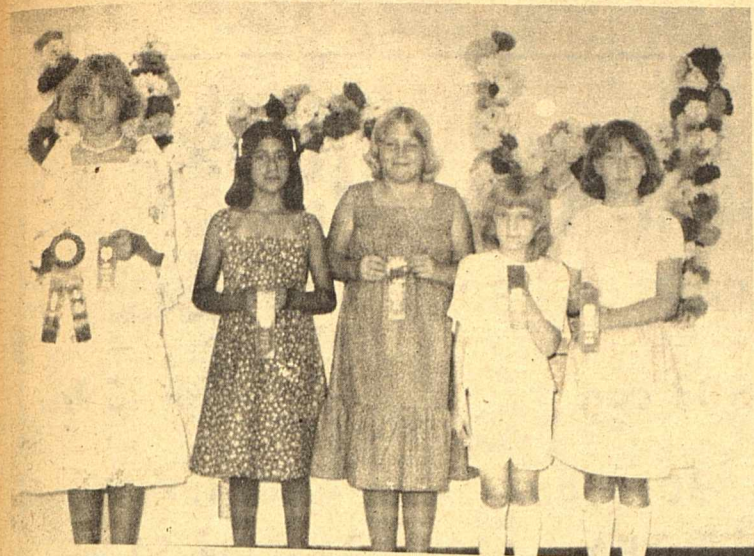

When detergent concentration is reduced, soil removal from polyester is much more affected than is soil removal from cotton. But the opposite is true when temperature is reduced. Problems are compounded with increased water hardness. Increased wash time (mechanical energy) can compensate somewhat for loss of thermal energy, but this will not reduce mechanical energy use.

For dishwashers, the focus is on similar energy issues; for example, suds-saving devices on washers; control holds on dishwashers.

According to the Internal Revenue Service, in 1975, there were 90,836 women millionaires—but only 89,164 men millionaires.

Frances Dunn, Sherri Ebenstein Tops In Coke County 4-H Dress Revue

The Coke County 4-H Dress Revue was held last Friday at 3:30 p. m. in the Robert Lee school cafeteria. There were 12 girls who participated in the event. The girls and their awards are listed as follows:

Blue Ribbon - Melanie Epperson, Jana Gartman, Sheri Ebenstein, Stephanie Robbins, Frances Dunn, and Janet Eubanks.

Red Ribbon - Sue Ann Millican, Patty Bloodworth, Tancie Bell, Carol Longoria, Alma Garza (on record book), and Cathleen Brosh.

VALUE OF HOMEGROWN PRODUCE INCREASES--The value of homegrown fruits and vegetables in the U.S. last year reached $14 billion, up from $10 billion in 1976, according to a recent Gallup poll. This increase has come mainly from larger gardens and improved production practices rather than from an increase in the number of family food gardens.

Frances Dunn was first place winner in the division with Sheri Ebenstein placing second overall.

The girls all did excellent jobs and the judges were very complimentary, said Miss Kathy L. Jobe, County Extension Agent.

Judges were Mrs. Winnie McQueen, Mrs. Jennings, and Miss Rhondy Huckabee of Coleman.

IT'S A RECORD!

The world's largest tomato was harvested in August, 1976 by Clarence Dailey of Wisconsin. He used natural fertilizer and lots of compost, and aerated the roots frequently with a pitch fork. The tomato weighed 6 pounds 8 ounces, and measured eight inches across.

The world's largest squash was grown by Bob Ford of Pennsylvania. From a vine yielding 1,016 pounds of fruit, he picked a 451-pound squash that grew, on the average, 7 1/2 pounds a day.

ARSON IN TEXAS: it should burn you up!

It is believed by some experts that arson accounts for 40% of all fire losses. Some put the national dollar cost as high as $15 billion annually.

Who pays?

We all do through increased insurance premiums to pay fraudulent claims, danger to lives of firefighters, increased burden to law enforcers, and needless waste of tax dollars spent fighting these unnecessary fires.

If arson in Texas doesn't burn you up, it should.
