Camp Verde Letter.

Here is another colder snap. Now if those spare ribs are not forthcoming we will know there is something wrong.
Jack Rees of Center Point was a Verde visitor Friday.
Mrs. C. F. Bonnell left Friday for Washington county to visit her grand-daughter, Mrs. Dickey, for a while.
We are sorry to report Miss Annie Bureson not doing well. She had a serious spell Wednesday but is reported better today.

We are very sorry to lose our blacksmith, Chas. Landry. He moved to San Antonio Monday.
A. D. McBryde was a Kerrville visitor Tuesday.

Methodist Church Notes

Our hearts rejoiced at the large attendance at all the services last Sunday at the Methodist Church. We were officially informed that there was an increase in the Sunday School attendance over that of the preceding Sunday morning to the tune of twenty-five students. That is indeed a big improvement, and we want to still push up by an "all pull" movement. We are anxious to see which class will be in the lead next Sunday.
The attendance both morning and evening at the Church services was the largest we have had since the beginning of the new year. We are so much pleased to see the men attend church. It is a sad day in the history of any town or community when the men get too much tangled up in business to attend church and worship God on the Holy Sabbath day. We want still a larger attendance, therefore we give you all a great big welcome, and we promise not to keep you all day, also to keep you from going to sleep if 'tis within my power to do so. Come with us, catch the "Go-to-Church" spirit and we know it will do you good.
We have decided to begin a series of revival services beginning at 11 o'clock Sunday November 29th. God willing we will continue at least a week, perhaps longer. To these services we invite all to come, and feel at home. We want you to come sing, to talk, work and pray; if you love God you should want others to love him. We are heart, life and soul with the church, the man, woman and child that wants sinners saved and God's Kingdom to prosper. God bless the sinners of our little city, and may they prosper in righteousness as they have done in material things. Don't say: "This is no time for a meeting," just remember that, "Today is the day of Salvation; if ye hear His voice harden not your hearts." The devil never quits, neither should we. Forces of all evil are well organized and united to destroy our sons and daughters. Should we not unite in an effort to help save them? God help us to do it with all our might, and with faith in the God that longs to bless and save. May we even pray, now, that we may see the salvation of our loved ones and friends. S. C. DUNN.

Sad Death of E. M. Newton

E. M. Newton, familiarly known as Elmo Newton, died at the Kerrville Sanitarium and Hospital Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock as a result of a serious accident which befell him Saturday while at work drilling a well on the Hart place 12 miles from Fredericksburg on Bear creek. The circumstances of the accident are substantially as follows: Mr. Newton and his assistant were letting the large drill down in the well early in the morning and the brakes being moist from the dew failed to hold it and the large fly wheel was broken into pieces, a piece striking Mr. Newton in the face, terribly mutilating it so as to expose the brain. He was brought to Kerrville as soon as an automobile could get to him and though given the best surgical attention he passed away at the time named.
The deceased was born in Guadalupe county Oct. 1, 1872 and had lived in Kerr county for 30 years. He was unmarried and leaves five brothers and three sisters, as well as many friends, to mourn his sad and untimely demise.
The funeral was held from the Wesch residence at 10 o'clock yesterday morning conducted by Rev. S. C. Dunn of the Methodist church, after which the body was interred in the Mountain View cemetery.

Foot Ball on Thanksgiving

One of the hottest contests ever staged on a local gridiron will be fought out on the Tivy High School Athletic Field on Thanksgiving morning between Tivy High School eleven and the local "All Stars."
Although Tivy High has had no hard games this season they will work hard to avenge the defeats of their Alma Mater who have gone down for several successive Thanksgiving games before the terrific onslaught of this tremendous horde of pigskin artists who know no limit to their gridiron possibilities.
Their opponents who now feel that their little machine will be in perfect working order by Thanksgiving and needs only the shrill sound of the referee's whistle to bring into action even the most delicate parts of its powerful mechanism.
To the fans of Kerrville and all lovers of good clean athletics this game will surely be a rare treat.

Thanksgiving Service

In response to the call of our President and because of the many national and local blessings that we enjoy, it is most becoming that we should enter heartily into the spirit of thanksgiving on the twenty-sixth of this month.
That we may most fitly and helpfully enjoy this occasion, the Pastors Association of Kerrville has arranged a Union Thanksgiving service to take place at the High School Auditorium at 7:30 p. m. Thursday the 26th of November.
The music will be arranged by Mrs. Geo. M. Doyle and Mrs. L. E. King in cooperation with the singers of the various churches.
Otherwise the program will be as follows:
Invocation.
Reading President's Message—Rev. B. Schleifer.
Scripture Reading and Introductory Address—Rev. W. P. Dickey (5 minutes).
Thanksgiving Topics—America.—Judge H. C. Geddie (fifteen minutes.)
Our Home Land.—Rev. J. B. Riddle (15 minutes.)
Our World Opportunity.—Rev. S. C. Dunn (15 minutes.)
Closing prayer—Bishop Johnston.
All the citizens of Kerrville are cordially invited to attend this gathering to voice our loyalty and gratitude to God who has so signally blessed us.
W. P. DICKEY.

Baptist Church Notes

The pastor preached morning and evening to good sized audiences. The morning subject was, Paul's Moral Qualities, and at night, Christ Slighted was the theme. At the morning service two were received by letter.
The attendance at Sunday School jumped to 145 last Sunday exclusive of visitors. The Primary class, as usual, was the banner class with an attendance of 32; the adult Bible class came next with 23, and V. O. V., or young lady's class, third with 17 present. Let's make it 150 next Sunday.
The collection for State Missions amounted to $200. The church sent as messengers to the Baptist State Convention the pastor, Rev. J. B. Riddle, and Deacon M. M. Hagens, who left Monday for Abilene where the convention convenes today.
There will be no preaching at the church Sunday but the other services will be held as usual.

Henry Beckman Badly Hurt

Henry Beckman was thrown from a mule at the road camp down the river Sunday afternoon, falling on his head and apparently breaking his neck. He has been lingering between life and death all the week and it is thought positively he can not live many hours longer. We are not prepared to give the details of this sad occurrence.

Presbyterian Church Notes

Bishop Johnston, read the marriage service. Miss Minnie Lowrance acted as brides maid and Mr. Earl Denton as best man.
The rooms were prettily decorated with white chrysanthemum and autumn leaves. The Wedding March was played by Claude and Leonard Denton, brothers of the bride.
The bride was beautifully gowned in crepe-de-chine, with trimming of real lace. Her veil was dropped from a lace cap and she carried a bouquet of Brides-Roses.
The brides maid was dressed in pink silk messaline. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and roses.
The cutting of the Wedding cake was a pleasant feature. Punch was passed throughout the evening.

SPEAKING OF TURKEY

THE TURKEY HUNTER

The turkey is truly an American bird. It existed on this continent with the Indians before Columbus landed. Only a few years ago among the caves of Arizona the mummified remains of a turkey were found. Practically every cave once occupied by the cliff dwellers of that region contained the bones or feathers of the turkey, but this specimen is intact. Its age is a matter of speculation among the scientists of the National museum at Washington, where the specimen is on exhibition.

Another interesting fact resulted from a scientific expedition which Dr. C. Hart Merriam made among the mountains of Arizona; he came across a living species of bird identical with the one found mummified and which is now known to the scientific world by his name.

Another recent discovery in connection with the turkey was a Maya hieroglyphic which mentions along with other things ten turkey hens and five turkey cocks. This is thought to be the first record of the turkey in this country and antedates the expedition of Cortes to Mexico in 1519.

But the turkey goes back further among the Indians than even the probable date at which the specimen found in the cave existed. Among the Zunis, for instance, there exist many legends, handed down from time immemorial, which have for their subject the turkey.

Perhaps none is more interesting than the one which tells why his tall feathers are dark, showy, and does not only the place he held in the imagination of the Indians, but also a noticeable similarity to the flood story of our Bible.

When the world was young, so the legend runs, there was a flood and the face of the world was covered with water. And the turkey, weary of continually flying, decided to seek some spot on which he might light and rest. But the other birds and animals advised him not to; and the very gods themselves warned him.

He refused to heed either advice or warnings and set out in search of land. After much effort he discovered a single spot not covered by water and alighted. But he found it only deep mud. So he decided to hunt farther for some dry place on which to rest. But, alas, when he came to fly, he found his tall feathers stuck fast in the mud.

He pulled and pulled, but could not get them loose. Finally, after a gigantic tug, he managed to free himself. But bits of mud stuck to the end of the tall feathers! And to this day turkeys have dark spots there—a sign of their disobedience to divine command!

The turkey plays a more important part in the life of the Indian than in his legends alone. Not only is it regarded as a choice article of food, but in many tribes it is held sacred. In the parts of the country where the turkey was worshipped it was never eaten except when other food was unobtainable. And even then separate portions were divided among various tribes, so that the religious custom would not be violated.

Turkey feathers rank next in importance to those of the eagle with all tribes, while the Apaches, the Pamunkeys, and Cheyennes chose the turkey's feathers for all ceremonial head-dresses and ornaments. The Pamunkey tribe also used turkey feathers for ornamental purposes on their clothing, as well as for their headdresses. To this day, when they don their native costumes, the turkey feather is preferred as ornament.

If Benjamin Franklin's words had been heeded the turkey would have been the national bird of the United States. The eagle is a first cousin to the species known of old in the eastern hemisphere. Furthermore, it has appeared upon the banners of many nations. It was a symbol of the Roman empire. It was known in China for ages, and today it appears upon the banners of Russia, Germany and several other nations.

The turkey is indigenous to America. Wherever the early European adventurers and settlers arrived they beheld great flocks of turkeys, and arrived hence known that they were a favorite food among the Indians. After a while turkeys were proudly sent home as trophies of the chase. In this way the turkey became practically a world-favorite as a food.

When Cortes, in 1519, ascended to the plateau of Mexico, he found a social life developed to a high degree of refinement. He was entertained with oriental magnificence. All the delicacies to which oriental empires were set before him; he found game was abundant, the turkey held and thought game among the fowl. This was the place of honor among the Spaniards had eaten turkey.

They also saw great tame flocks of the birds. In fact, since prehistoric times, the turkey has been domesticated and raised for market. Today in Mexico many of the quaint customs then in vogue are still kept alive. And so it is that the vogue of today may select his choice of a purchaser of the village street. Or if he prefers the fowl in the village street.

SHOOTING WILD TURKEYS

FINE FLOCK OF TURKEYS

TURKEY PICKING IN 'OLD KENTUCKY'

But a short distance from Richmond is a small island inhabited by a tribe of Indians, the Pamunkeys. They are part of the Powhatans, and under an old colonial treaty they pay no taxes and have their own government. They must, however, send to the governor of Virginia each year a gift of game or fowl; and very often this gift takes the form of several large plump turkeys.

Many have been the explanations made as to how the bird now so popular at Thanksgiving came to be called the turkey, most of which, to the scientist, are nothing but fanciful. One such is the explanation that it comes from the East Indian word "toka," which, in Hebrew, takes the form "tukki," the peacock. As the Jews in South Europe were acquainted with this fowl, it is assumed that they naturally applied the word turkey wherever it was introduced in Spain.

Such a roundabout explanation, say those who know, is entirely unnecessary. The bird was called turkey because it was supposed to come from Turkey, where it was known as an Egyptian hen.

In France the bird was called "dindon," or in the feminine "dinde," as though it were the fowl of India—from India. The Mexican name for the bird is "hualolote," which, scientists say, indicates the old Aztec knowledge of the turkey.

But whatever dispute has arisen as to the name of the turkey, the fact yet remains that the turkey is indigenous to America. Although scientists believe it is possible that there was a species, the original of the present turkey, indigenous to the West India islands, it is generally conceded that all turkeys have descended in some way or other from the three forms known today as the North American, the Mexican and the Honduras, the ocellated varieties.

The Mexican turkey is found wild throughout the republic. It is short in shank, with feathers on its body of a metallic black shaded only slightly with bronze, while all its feathers are tipped with white.

The Honduras turkey today is scattered all over most of Central America and is extremely wild. The bronze turkey, that variety which today holds the place of honor in the North American group of turkeys, is outdone by none when it comes to beauty or size. Black, beautifully shaded with a rich bronze, the breast plumage being dark bronze illuminated with a lustrous finish of coppery gold, its plumage gives full warrant for the name by which this bird is known.

The full-grown, healthy bird is a beautiful picture of bronze, black, copper and gold, and sometimes weighs 40 or more pounds. Other varieties known in the barnyard, and even recognized among dealers as having distinctive markings, are in reality only highly developed fowls with preserved peculiarities.

In the United States there are six standard varieties recognized and grown. These are the bronze, Narragansett, buff, slate, white and black. The chief differences are in size and color of plumage.

The bronze and Narragansett are the largest, the buff and slate medium, while the white and black are the smallest. Within late years, however, the white variety has reached such a point of popularity that it has increased in size until with some dealers it occupies third place.

Whatever the turkey may have missed through failing to secure that place of honor suggested for it by Benjamin Franklin—as the national bird—it has nevertheless found a place in the regard of the American people which is held by no other fowl.

Time was when a turkey, or as many as could be carried, might be had for the asking. Then came the period when 50 cents would buy a plump young fowl. Even so short a time as ten years ago turkeys could be purchased for from $ to 20 cents a pound, dressed.

Considering Oddities in Fur Sets

A LOT of odd shapes in muffs add something to the spice of life by way of variety this season. An occasional complaint is voiced regarding too much "sameness" in gown models, and even in millinery, one hears that there is a lack of variety in shapes, but in furs there is no chance for discontent on this score.

The most noticeable of the new shapes is the melon muff. Then there are the barrel muffs, and in their class the plain, round muff, which has shown that it can "come back." Among the oddest shapes is a triangular muff with the apex—which happens to be the bottom—slashed into four silt-lined points. The base of the triangle, the top of the muff, is curved downward. The opening at each end is bound with contrasting fur.

The combination of two kinds of fur, of fur and velvet or fur and plush, in the season's offerings is worth considering. The dark, soft furs, such as seal, broadtail, and others, make a rich background for fitch, skunk, ermine, fox, etc. Velvet serves the same purpose, and the various plushes or "fur cloths" are considered quite handsome enough to be decorated with the richest of real skins.

A combination of Hudson seal and mink is shown in the picture. In this the very ample square, flat muff is gathered up in plaits at the center.

where mink skins encircle it. The narrow scarf is of the seal with mink skin decoration. Hudson seal, in broader scarfs and plainer muffs, is shown having fitch skins posed in bands on it, and this combination has proved very successful.

The vogue for monkey fur is conspicuous. Odd, close-fitting collars of the long hair, and round muffs, are the most pleasing models in this long, silky fur. Collars are high and sometimes fastened with a metal rose.

Small, swagger waistcoats of velvet support wide collars of the soft, long-haired furs, like fox, and are something very new. Little vestettes of brilliant brocade or cloth of gold or silver are set in these waistcoats, and the combination of velvet, brocade and luxurious furs is irresistible. Long, soft muffs of velvet with ruffles at each end are banded with a broad band of fur at the middle and narrower bands where the ruffles are gathered in at each end. These muffs look generously warm, reaching up to the elbows when the hands are in.

These are only a few of the many shapes and combinations to be found in fur sets. But they serve to show that it is allowable to "go as you please" and as far as you like in the selection of odd creations in neck pieces and muffs.

Shoes for the Out-of-Doors

SHOES for the promenade in fair weather and on paved walks are quite different from those that must meet sterner demands, like the tramp on country roads, rain or shine, or the daily walk to business. Now that women demand so much in appearance and have grown so discriminating as to style and fitness few shoes are designed for all-round wear.

There is economy in having three pairs of shoes for anyone who is much out of doors. If one of these is simply for dress the other two pairs, worn alternately or according to weather conditions, may be kept in perfect repair and will give better service in this way.

Just now the most fashionable boot for the street has a cloth top in fawn color tan, or gray cloth with patent colt vamp. Sometimes the heel is covered with cloth, but oftener it is a smart Louis heel of leather. The model shown here is laced up the front, where each side is faced with a narrow strip of leather. The stay at the back is trimmed in points and the shoe is exquisitely made. With the very short, narrow underskirts (now so much worn with long tunics) this shoe is elegant and is worn with all the fashionable dark colors in suits. There are similar shoes that button at the side instead of lacing up the front.

A neat, inconspicuous and serviceable shoe for daily wear is made of fine, dull mat kid with a wide toe and Cuban heel of medium height. It is substantially put together and is very comfortable. It is designed for both style and service, and deserves to be described as sensible. Two pairs of this kind will prove a good investment.

For the hardest wear the second pair of shoes might be like those shown in the central figure. With dull calf vamp and kid top, a slight extension sole and low heel, one can defy weather and all sorts of roads in this boot and cover good distances unconscious of feet. It laces up the front, but similar models are made to button.

Every one should try to become informed about quality in shoes. Thanks to the excellence of American manufacturers we wear the best-shaped and most stylish footwear in the world. We can have both style and comfort and know when we are getting these. But as to leather, most buyers must take the word of the seller, because one cannot rely upon one's own knowledge.

MAKES HANDY SPOOL RACK

Excellent Idea for Woman Who Has Much Sewing to Do and Little Time to Do It.

Take a smooth pine board about an inch thick and about nine or ten inches square, cover with cretonne, plush, felt or any desired material. From the under side of board drive through wire nails two and one-half inches in length and about two inches apart. Make a hole with gimlet part way through, as then board will be less likely to split when nails are being driven through. Place spools on nails, number side up. A thread can be easily cut from spool without removing it from rack and one is saved the bother of having one's thread in a tangle.

If you wish to take your work to the piazza or another room you have all the different sizes, colors, silks, bastings and darning cottons with you in this rack.

THE KERRVILLE ADVANCE

Published Every Thursday at Kerrville, Texas, by T. A. Buckner.

SUBSCRIPTION $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Entered in the U. S. Mails as second class matter at Kerrville, Texas, on Oct. 17, 1912, according to act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Boys, if you take Old Booze as a side partner he'll get the best of you sooner or later. Better let him alone while you can.

In Texas and nearly all the other States candidates are required to file statements under oath of all expenditures and promises made in the campaign. C. S. Robinson of Roxbury, Mass., a defeated Republican candidate, filed the shortest one on record, so far: "I received nothing, promised nothing, spent nothing and got nothing."

While the effect of the great war is being felt here to some extent in the tightness of money matters the fact that our resources are so diversified makes conditions much better than in many sections of the State. Our splendid crop of wool and mohair coming in just now and the fat stock on the range ready for market gives us an income that eases up the situation at a time when most needed.

In New York, Chicago and other big cities many children of the different nationalities made orphans by the terrible war in Europe are being adopted by American families. The poor orphans are neutral and they are innocent of war or wrong. The sufferings and devastation of war is visited most heavily on these buds of humanity.

The sloppy and filthy mud puddles standing in the street gutters after every rain are unsightly, unsanitary and unhealthful. The postoffice and several other public places of business at times are almost unapproachable from the street owing to the slimy mud holes in front. It seems that with our $20,000 street improvement fund this condition could have been avoided, or at least could be remedied.

The farmers should not fail to raise hogs and hopy next year. One man on a small place on the head waters of the Medina sold this year to a Kerrville buyer nearly $1,000 worth of hogs which he had raised and fattened on his small farm. Had he planted cotton he would probably not have made more than $150. And hogs should be raised to supply the home consumption of bacon and lard the importation of which is such a great tax on our people.

The cotton exchanges in New York, New Orleans, Galveston and other cities are open again, and the new Federal currency system, with twelve reserve banks, was put in operation Monday the 16th. Dallas is the Federal reserve city for Texas and parts of Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico. Cotton is going up and is now being shipped to foreign countries, notwithstanding the war. There is some prospect of peace in Mexico. On the whole things look brighter for our country.

FROM THE FARM TO THE FIRESIDE

The farm-to-table delivery instituted by the Postmaster General has been established in twenty-seven cities in the United States. The institution is part of the parcel post system and the arrangement is designed to establish direct trading relations between the producer and consumer and to bring the two in direct communication.

The postmasters are acting in the capacity of clearing house managers, in furnishing price lists of the articles of produce which farmers and truck growers are prepared to send to city customers.

The results which must be obtained before the plan is proved a success are the standardizing of products so that there may be no misunderstanding of the ability of the post office to handle packages so as to be received in good condition and, last but not least, an honest purpose and patient persistence of each party to the bargain to insure satisfaction to all concerned.

THE VISION OF VICTOR HUGO

"A day will come when the only battle field will be the market open to commerce and the mind opening to new ideas. A day will come when bullets and bomb shells will be replaced, by votes and by the venerable arbitration of a great sovereign senate. A day will come when a cannon will be exhibited in public museums just as an instrument of torture is now, and people will be astonished how such a thing could have been. A day will come when these two immense groups, the United States of America and the United States of Europe shall be seen placed in the presence of each other, extending the hand of fellowship across the ocean."

KERRVILLE

Is the county seat of Kerr County, has a population of about 2500, is situated 70 miles northwesterly from San Antonio, and is the terminus of the Kerrville branch of the S. A. & A. P. railroad. It has two daily trains to and from San Antonio, and daily mail route, carrying passengers in hacks, to Ingram, Junction, Rock Springs Harper and other places north and west of Kerrville, and also a daily line to Fredericksburg. From Kerrville to Fredericksburg is 25 miles; to Bandera and Medina City, 25 miles; to Junction 60 miles; Rock Springs 80 miles, Harper 21 miles.

Kerrville has electric lights and a splendid system of water works. The sum of $20,000 is being spent on the streets and $10,000 has been voted for road improvements in this precinct.

The elevation at Kerrville is 1750 feet. The Guadalupe river, which heads 30 miles north of Kerrville, runs through the city. On the east side where the city is located, there are high bluffs on the river, and on the west side is a fertile and beautiful valley, and mountains surround the city on the east and west. The Guadalupe valley is occupied by thrifty farmers and ranchmen, and the mountain regions, among which there is considerable valley, creek and arable land, there are large ranches of cattle, horses, sheep and goats, all of which do well in the Kerrville country. The land generally is well wooded, principally with live oak, Spanish oak and cedar, and the range is good, and water excellent.

Our farmers grow wheat, oats and all other small grain, cane and alfalfa, cotton and corn, and fruit and vegetables do well. Kerrville is one of the largest wool markets in the state, and large quantities of wool, mohair, cotton, oats, cattle, etc., are shipped from this point.

The climate of the Kerrville country is unsurpassed. The winters are short and generally mild and invigorating owing to the dryness of the climate and the prevalence of sunshine. The summers are cool and delightful, and the mountain air is pure and bracing. Game abounds in the Kerrville country, and fishing in the Guadalupe, especially north of Kerrville, is good. Kerrville and the adjoining towns are popular resorts for health and recreation.

The Kerrville Commercial Club, any of the different Realty Companies or any of our citizens, will be pleased to give prospective residents or visitors further information.

Will Your Christmas Present Stand the Test?

Scores of people have brought into this store cuff links, watches, brooches, etc., which had been given them for Christmas or birthday presents and asked a question like this: "Is this thing any good? It is a present to me, and I just wanted to satisfy myself as to its quality."

We are prepared to supply you with presents of which you need not be ashamed. Every article bought with the thought in mind: "This can be sold at such a price that the buyer will get his money's worth."

We do not put a big price on an article simply because it LOOKS like it will bring it--the quality must be there.

Buy early. We began, even last month, to lay aside Christmas presents for certain of our customers.
