6 PAGES, PLUS SUPPLEMENTS

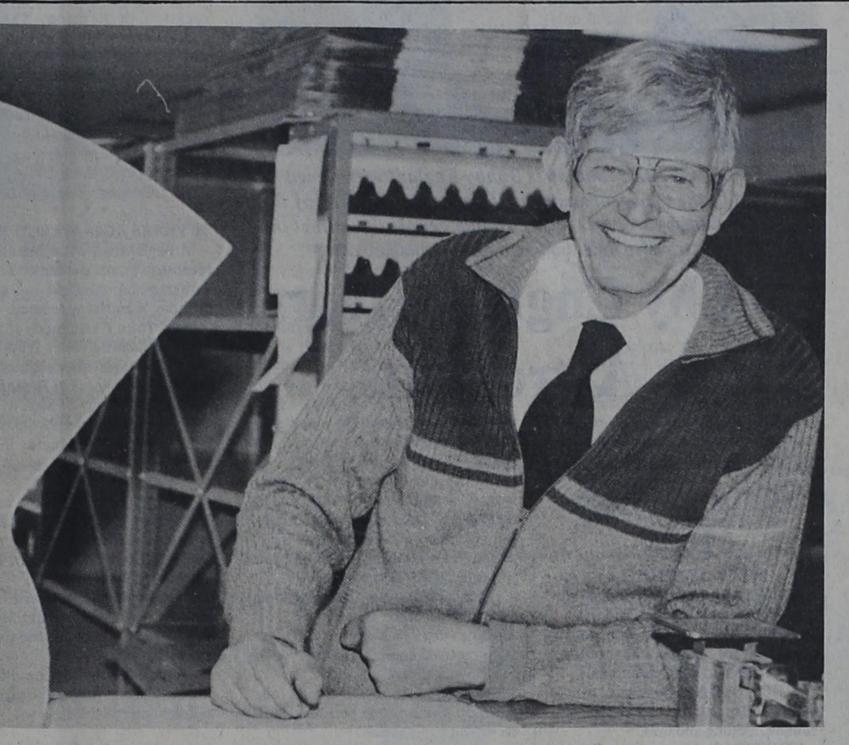

AS WE SAY IN our feature story in this issue of the Blade concerning the retirement of Bovina postmaster Gene Ezell, it is really the passing of an era.

When you stop to consider that except for a 12-year period (1935-47), the Ezell family has handled the postmaster situation in Bovina for the past 62 years--that is an exceptional record.

Ezell has served as the local postmaster as long as many of his postal customers have lived here. And, he is a second generation postmaster.

Having this type of continuity in the postmaster's job has been good for Bovina, and it also is something of a rarity, considering the political nature that the job had for so many years. Plus, having a local native in the position, who grew up knowing the residents, is a bonus when it comes to delivering the mail to the proper people. We personally have dealt with Gene for over 20 years, and his courteous, prompt service is the same today as it was the first time we met him. We're sure that with Flossie and Laura, our mail service will continue to be good. But one thing's for sure-we'll miss Gene's smiling face around the post office. We wish he and his wife Genevieve the very best in their retirement.

Area Getting Some Moisture

The Bovina area was getting some good moisture Tuesday as the Blade went to press.

About mid-morning, the rain began falling, and before noon it had changed into snow, buffeted by a north wind.

An estimated half-inch of moisture had been received as of 2 p.m., which would be the best moisture at one time in a number of months. The area had received around .3 inch of moisture early last Friday morning, so things may be beginning to "pick up" in the moisture department.

The moisture might be the salvation for the area's dryland wheat and barley, which has been badly needing a boost. The area had not received nearly as much winter snow as it usually does, and conditions have been exceptionally dry.

A FRIEND has shared a copy of "Comings, Goings & Doings," which is "published occasionally" by O.R. Stark at the First National Bank at Quitaque. We wanted to share a part of this newsletter with you:

THE FARMERS'S SHARE Have you ever wondered how much money the farmer receives for the cotton he grows that eventually ends up in a pair of blue jeans? Or from the wheat he produces that ends up in a loaf of bread? You plant the cotton, harvest it, have it ginned, then eventually sell it for whatever price the buyer wants to pay you. Then you buy a cotton shirt, and you feel the REAL PINCH of low farm prices. The price you pay for the shirt, or for any other agriculturallyrelated product, is COMPLETELY OUT OF PROPORTION to what you're paid for the product you've grown.

A cotton shirt that costs you $15.95 at the store nets the farmer only 56 cents for his cotton. That's only 31/2 per cent of the retail price. A $4.98 bath towel earns the cotton grower only 57 cents and the farmer's share of an $18.95 pair of blue jeans is only about $1.68, a mere 8 per cent of the total value. Dr. O.A. Cleveland of Mississippi State University explained how a 65 cent pound of cotton ended up in an $18.00 pair of jeans. To that initial 65 cents you add 11 cents for ginning and 8 cents for marketing, making it worth 84 cents by the time it gets to the mill. Textile processing costs boost the price of the cotton to $2.50 and making it into a finished fabric adds another $2.40. You now have $4.90. Wholesaling and retailing

EYES RETIREMENT....Friday will be the last day on the job for Bovina postmaster Gene Ezell. Ezell has served as postmaster locally since 1947,

AFTER 37 YEARS

Gene Ezell Retiring As Bovina's Postmaster

By BILL ELLIS

When Gene Ezell retires as Bovina's postmaster on Friday, it will more or less be the end of an era.

Ezell has served in the position for almost 37 years. He assumed duties as the postmaster here on May 30, 1947.

He explained that when he returned from the service after World War II, the postmaster's position was open. In fact, an examination had already been given. "I asked to take, and was given the exam, but didn't think too much about it," Ezell says.

He had just bought his farm 3¹/₂ miles east of town, and had moved out there, when in late May of 1947 he was contacted and offered the postmaster's position.

"We thought about it, and decided that the postmaster's pay would help supplement the 'cream money' for a little while, so I took the job," Ezell said.

The 'little while' turned out to be almost 37 years, as Ezell has served continuously since that time.

But it was not his first association with the post office, as Gene had more or less "grown up" in the local post office. His father, the late Roy B. Ezell, served as Bovina's postmaster from 1923 until 1935.

At one time, the post office was located in the hardware store, and when the store burned, the postal officials convinced his mother, Della M. Ezell, to establish the post office in the front room of the Ezell home. Mrs. Ezell had also served as Postmistress for a time, so the postal job was really a family affair. "I was about four years old at the time, and I can remember having the post office in our home," Ezell says. Ezell pointed out that since the postmaster position had political ties in the early days, that during the Hoover administration, his father was "bumped," and a man by the name of Gib Flato served in the position. But the elder Ezell continued with the post office as a mail carrier in the interim. Then, in 1934, Roy Ezell ran for County Clerk, was elected and served the next 17 years, until his death. E.T. Caldwell became postmaster when Roy Ezell resigned in favor of the County Clerk's position, and served until 1945. He thus served in the capacity between the elder Ezell and his son, Gene.

the job, Ezell has his "appointment papers," which were signed by President Harry S. Truman.

The postmaster position is no longer a political "plum," that it once was. "I had to weather a couple of Republican administrations, but managed to keep my job," the likeable Ezell says.

Asked about the biggest change he had seen in his career with the post office, Ezell says it involves the way the mail is received each day.

For years, the mail was delivered by the passenger trains, and each community on this branch of the Santa Fe Railway received four mail deliveries each day--two from each direction, plus a truck at night which brought parcel post.

There were clerks on the trains who worked the mail while the trains moved. They didn't even have to stop to pick up the outgoing mail pouches, but would snatch them from their perch at the station, with the train "moving on."

"If you had a letter you needed to get from here to Friona, you could get it there right quick," Ezell said.

Today, the mail is delivered once per day, in the mornings, and goes out once--in the early afternoon. In our particular county, there is a division for sectional centers, so that mail going from here to Farwell must travel over 320 miles, to Amarillo, to Lubbock, and back to Farwell, and

Also injured in the collision, according to officers, were three members of a Friona family, Patrick M. White, 27, his wife, Carmen, 22, and their nine-year-old daughter, Jennifer.

All three members of the family were taken to the High Plains Hospital in Clovis. Reports from the hospital Monday morning were that all three were in good condition.

White was driving east with his family and Ruiz was alone and driving west on U.S. 60 when the two vehicles collided in the eastbound lane.

The White family suffered internal injuries and broken bones.

Bands Set Concerts

All groups of the band, according to band director Bill Dyer, will be having a pre-contest concert on Monday, April 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the High School Auditorium.

There will be no charge and everyone is invited and urged to attend.

Commissioners Give Okay To Money Items

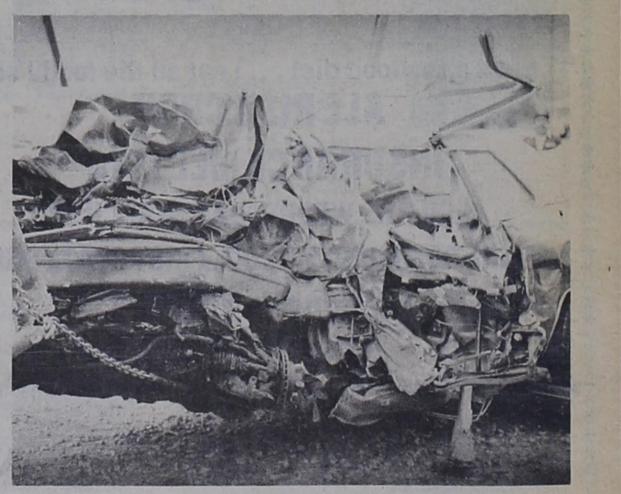

The Parmer County Commissioners held their regular meeting Monday, March 12, with mostly routine business to conduct.

The court approved paying boarding care bills for the county's foster children, in the amount of $1,769. This amount is re-imbursed the county.

A bill for attorney ad item, from Richard Collard, was approved in the amount of $438. This was in connection with a juvenile's hearing.

At the suggestion of County Treasurer Benna Felts, the court voted to re-invest a certificate from Farm to Market road funds in the amount of $100,000 for a new period ending March 30, 1984.

Re-investment of the funds earns money for the county while keeping County Commis- the funds available when needed.

Sheriff Bill Morgan met with the court to discuss the establishment of a policy for the county jail. The sheriff's department plans to bill any city in the county for actual meal costs for prisoners held in the county jail on city charges.

A representative of Bravo Pipeline met with the court telling about a pipeline that is to cross part of the county, projected to cross nine county roads. The pipeline official is to meet with the court again on details for the road crossings.

Soil conservation work was approved for five farmers in Precinct 1, five in Precinct 2, four in Precinct 3 and ten in Precinct 4. Work is to be performed when machinery is not needed for road work, and costs are re-imbursed to the county.

It has been reported that Agri-Sprayers was burglarized on Wednesday, March 14. At that time, several items valued at $10,000 were stolen.

Some of the items taken were: tools, drills, gloves and a typewriter. Upon investigation by sheriff's department officers, over $2,000 worth of the missing items have been recovered after a search of a house south of Bovina.

One suspect has been arrested and is in the county jail charged with burglary. The case is pending action of the Parmer County Grand Jury. Vines High School in Plano, Texas. Upon Gene's retirement, longtime postal clerk Flossie Rhinehart will become "Officer in Charge." Laura Bartlett will become clerk.

It may be some time before the postmaster's position is filled, as the position will be made available to other postal workers in this area.

The Ezells, meanwhile, plan to do some travelling as time allows. They plan to take a trip to China in May, and will be able to stop off and visit their daughter and family in Japan during the trip.

Both Gene and Genevieve enjoy travelling. "There are a lot of places here at home that we would like to see, or go back for a second visit. We hope to be able to do some of this while we have our health," said the longtime postmaster.

WHERE ONE DIED....Juan Ruiz-Guerro was killed in a two-car accident near Bovina early Sunday morning. Three Friona residents were injured when Guerro's car swerved into their lane. Guerro had lived here only about two months.

South Plains College Sets Country Caravan

Country Caravan, the eighth edition of South Plains College's summer country music traveling shows, will feature for the first time this season a Nashville-style brass section and a gospel quartet.

This year's edition also features the largest contingent of vocalists, instrumentalists and dancers in the show's eight-year history, stage director for the road show and SPC assistant instructor in speech.

Five veterans are returning to the show. They are John Hartin, general director of the show, lead guitarist and an eight-year veteran of the road show; Tim McCasland, instrumental director and multi-instrumentalist, SPC bluegrass music instructor; and Randy Ellis, bass player, supervisor of the sound system and SPC sound technology instructor. Students returning to the show are Darrell Thrash of Levelland, saxophone and vocals; and Kathy Tutt of Muleshoe, vocalist and dancer.

Newcomers include Debbie Adams of Bentonville, Arkansas; Ann Allison of Gorman; Metta Amos of Lamesa; Denise Ehlers of Tahoka; Joe Van Valentine of Ropes, all vocalists and dancers; Randy Beck of

Volleyball Tourney Set

The Body Connection is sponsoring a volleyball tournament this weekend, Thursday, March 29 through Saturday, March 31 at the Bovina High School Gymnasium. The tournament will begin on Thursday at 6 p.m.

Deadline for the entries was Allison also will be featured on keyboards. The Caravan Cloggers, a dance troupe, will perform four dance segments.

Country Caravan, a 90-minute show, spotlights both current country music hits and standard classics in a three-month tour throughout West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

The road show will kick off the 1984 season May 21 with a performance in Sundown. The show schedule will include stops May 24 at Slaton, May 25 at Crosbyton, May 26 at Floydada, May 28 at Smyer, May 29 at Plains, and May 31 at Morton.

The June schedule of performances will be June 1 at Littlefield, June 2 at Brownfield, June 3 at Anton, June 7 at Fort Sumner, N.M., June 8 at Friona, June 9 at Hereford, June 14 at Seminole, June 15 at Andrews, June 16 at Lamesa, June 18 at Ropes, June 21 at Abernathy, June 22 at Shallowater, June 23 at Sweetwater, June 28 at Jal, N.M., June 29 at Artesia, N.M., and June 30 at Alamagordo, N.M.

Final two performances will be July 3 at Roswell, N.M. and July 4 at the SPC campus in Levelland.

"This year we are going to include more gospel numbers in the show and add a Nashville brass sound," explained Mrs. Ellis, the show's stage director for the second year. "During two days of auditions, we screened performers first for vocal ability in lead and harmony. Harmony will be extremely important this year with the addition of a gospel quartet. We also looked for instrumental capabilities, stage presence, personability toward an audience, general "aliveness," she said. What's in store this season for Country Caravan audiences? "Pure entertainment," says Mrs. Ellis. "Everything we do in the show, planning which song goes next, where the dances fit in, is geared toward the audience's enjoyment," she said. "We want to include the top 40 country hits and the standards that people can readily identify with in a fast-paced, flexible format."

We have a group of our students who are presently involved in an activity that is worthy of our recognition. This is our one-act play cast and their fearless leader, Margaret Durben. Their play is a district winner and has won the right to participate in the area contest tomorrow in Petersburg. They have put in many hours of preparation time and it has paid off for them. If you saw them perform in Farwell last week you would be as proud of them as I am.

This is a UIL Contest and falls into that area of "extra" that Mr. Perot seems to want to ban. I personally believe that this activity is of extreme educational value. The people involved not only have to research the era from which the play comes, but they also have to research the character they are portraying. If you have ever participated in this activity you can appreciate the work that has gone into it. Let's all get behind Margaret and her one-act play cast as they go to represent Bovina in the area contest. Regardless of the results of this next contest this group has already done a commendable job of which we all can be proud.

THE NAME QUITAQUE--About the time we think there will be a lapse in the misspelling of Quitaque, then in pop some of our customers with spellings that are new and different. A few days ago Don Taylor had a letter from New York addressed to him at "Claritague" Texas, and James Cathey had a letter from Dallas that spelled the town a little like it is pronounced--"Kittyguay." We still contend that Quitaque is more difficult to spell, and certainly harder to pronounce than Nacogdoches (Editor Victor B. Company (SPS) is redoubling efforts to help customers prevent waste of electrical energy.

The SPS program supports the "State of Texas Residential Energy-Cost-Control Program" announced by Texas Governor Mark White last week in Lubbock. Goal of the program is to help Texans control residential utility costs.

State of Texas and local government agencies, energy suppliers such as SPS, and community organizations are joining the statewide, voluntary, cooperative program. Staff members of the Governor's office and of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT) are coordinating the effort. The PUCT regulates electric utilities in Texas.

"The most effective way to control costs of energy in a home," said Gary Gibson, SPS vice president, marketing and administration, "is to avoid waste of energy. We at Southwestern Public Service Company have always encouraged our customers to use all of the electricity they need--but not to waste it.

"We're hoping that the new Texas Residential Energy-Cost-Control Program will help us spotlight that message."

Gibson noted that the State of Texas will promote the program. Texas Governor Mark White will be featured in the promotional effort.

As a complement to the state's advertising, Gibson said, "SPS is developing special public service announcements that will offer tips on using electrical energy wisely, and on avoiding waste of energy.

"We're also offering various programs on energy-cost-control. The presentations will be available to civic groups, schools, senior citizens, church groups, etcetera. For instance, the SPS speakers' bureau has prepared a new program on conservation. Its theme, 'Wraping Up Your Home,' emphasizes proven SPS home economists and marketing representatives also will present informational programs on preventing waste of energy, Gibson said.

Customers who see the SPS presentations will be given "energycost-control packets" containing "draft stoppers" that fit behind electric outlet covers and prevent air infiltration. The conservation "starter kits" also will contain shower-water "flow restricters," Gibson said.

Southwestern Public Service also will offer "walk-through audits" of homes the company serves. The "walk-through audits," by either SPS personnel or volunteers from local community groups, will help residential customers identify energyloss trouble spots in their homes.

Let the new generation of hybrids do for your sorghum acres what Pioneer has done for Plains corn.

8222 Big yield potential under full irrigation. A widely adapted hybrid, 8222 has produced a superior record under many different environmental conditions. But it's especially adapted to fullseason production in this area. Provides outstanding stress tolerance. plus excellent resistance to MDMV and head smut. It's an attractive, medium height hybrid with semi-open heads of bright red, hard-textured grain. Leaves that are above average in width help provide first-rate shading. And outstanding root and stalk strength keeps plants standing for maximum 8493 Especially adapted for dryland or very limited water conditions, this is a fast maturing hybrid with exceptional drouth tolerance. It has the ability to take full advantage of normal early season rainfall; then it makes efficient use of available ground moisture to produce all that the season allows. Under tough growing conditions, the standability of many hybrids often suffers. But not 8493. Strong stalks and roots keep medium height plants standing straight for easy harvest of dark red, high test weight grain. It's the standard for resistance to greenbugs.

8333 Pioneer plant breeders developed this great new hybrid to make the most of what the growing season has to offer. This one has outstanding drouth tolerance, too - but you should plant it on good dryland or under limited irrigation to take full advantage of its maturity and yield potential. In irrigation tests throughout the Plains, 8333 has produced exceptional yields. The field appearance of the bronze, hard-textured grain is most attractive. Harvesting is made easy, too, by excellent head exsertion and very good standability. For late season plant health, 8333 is highly resistant to MDMV, head smut, and Biotype C greenbugs

Choose the combination best suited to your land and your conditions and get ready for a great sorghum crop.

Another key topic during the school was the Massey-Ferguson Harvest Brigade, which has provided mobile parts and service to custom cutters since the harvest of 1944.

U.S. CONGRESS Thomas M. Richards

George Mahon served the 19th Congressional District for 44 years; Kent Hance replaced him; the man to replace Hance is Thomas M.(Tom) Richards.

The Thomas M. (Tom) Richards for Congress campaign is rolling along toward a May 5th victory faster than a blue norther can roar through West Texas in January.

Richards, his wife, Polly, and their 10-year-old daughter, Christy, already have been in every town and city in the 19th District at least twice during the campaign.

"And most of them more than that," said Richards, who is seeking the Democratic Party nomination.

Tom heads in one direction in the morning and Polly goes in the other—meeting people, shaking hands and listening to the voters.

Then, when school is out, Polly often doubles back to Lubbock, picks up daughter Christy and it really becomes a family affair.

"This has been the greatest experience of my life," said Tom, "because only in campaigning do you have the opportunity to actually meet people, look them in the eye and listen to their problems. You get to make new friends you'll never forget, and you get to see old friends you may have lost track of temporarily."

The Richards Family: Christy, Polly and Tom

There's no doubt the Tom Richards campaign has stirred the people and there's no wonder that people are increasingly saying he is the front runner in the Democratic primary.

That came about because early last fall, when he made the decision to run, he first got into his old suburban and drove from Odessa to Hereford, stopping at every point along the way to visit with folks to seek out their opinions and asking if he should run.

"When that first tour was completed," Tom recalled, "Polly and I were extremely gratified at the response we got.

"It seemed to us that people wanted a Congressman who would listen and would always be available and who would be young enough to stay in Congress time enough to achieve some seniority."

Running for Congress didn't just happen over night, he recalled.

"I'm a native of this part of the country and grew up farming and ranching over in Cottle County. I'm still active in farming and ranching and in the oil and gas business.

"This area has been good to me and to my family. I owe it something and for many years I have sought a way to pay it back. I decided that becoming the 'hired hand' for all the people of the 19th District would afford me the opportunity to pay back in some small manner what it has been my good fortune to enjoy," he said.

In this official announcement statement Tom made this statement: "I'm not a professional politician nor do I ever intend to become one. If elected I will give up my law practice and devote fulltime to being a Congressman.

Tom Richards Talks Issues

Thomas M. (Tom) Richards has not been afraid to talk issues and the truth as he has gone from county to county and city to city in his campaign for Congress.

Five generations of his family have lived in West Texas, and he is uniquely qualified in this race to see who will replace Kent Hance in Congress.

Here is how Tom feels about some of the more pertinent issues and problems:

• WATER: Five generations of my family have watched our part of West Texas change from cattle country to the greatest agricultural area in the world. The changes have brought miracles, but they have cost heavily in water use. We must search for new ways to preserve and rebuild our precious water for our children and grandchildren.

• ENERGY: We must provide tax breaks and other incentives for new oil exploration so that we never become dependent on foreign oil and gas. I believe that de-regulation of natural gas must be implemented immediately.

• FEDERAL DEFICITS: Congress is going to have to get serious about deficit spending. We simply are going to have to learn to say "NO" when bloated and over-staffed bureaucracies hold out their hands for more funds. • AGRICULTURE: Farmers want to be let alone to make a living, not to rely on charity. I'll lead efforts to find more and better markets and to get a workable farm program, whereby producers will be assured of fair prices for their production.

• SOCIAL SECURITY: Our parents and grandparents made this country great. I will work to make sure all of our senior citizens get a fair return on what they paid into the system.

• NATIONAL DEFENSE: The United States must never be second in defense. Our very lives depend on it. At the same time, I will lead the fight to eliminate waste and overpayment by the Department of Defense.

• TAXES: I don't believe in higher taxes. You never solve a problem in government simply by throwing money at it.

• ECONOMY: The pocketbook issue is a key issue. Things seem to be getting a little better. There are more jobs now. I will work to maintain our economic growth and for a more stable economy so the average citizen can better plan his budget at home.

Those Who Know You Best

Somebody once said a person is without honor in his own country, or, put another way, those who know you best may know you too well! Not so for Thomas M. (Tom) Richards.

Tom Richards Is No Stranger to Farm Work

Thomas M. (Tom) Richards will actively seek a seat on the powerful House Agriculture Committee when he goes to Congress.

"There's no doubt that this committee's activities are of vital interest to everyone in West Texas," Richards said.

"I want to get to the heart of where the action is in a hurry, because I want to express the views and concerns all of the people of this District have to other committee members and make our collective voices heard."

Richards pointed out this current session of Congress is going to attempt to write a new farm bill.

"We don't know what Congress will come out with this year, but there are bound to be mistakes and changes that will need to be made. If the new bill is not fair to us in West Texas you have my word that I will lead the changes next year that will give us some relief and some help," Richards pledged. "Dear Tom,

I was excited when weeks ago I read in the paper of your intention of running for Congress.

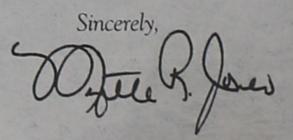

"I clipped the item and stuck it in my 1958 Zephyr (school yearbook) beside your picture and intended to write you a note right then, but I procrastinated.

"Then, the other day your Mother confirmed your intentions, and I promised to electioneer for you! I'm real excited, and I surely want you to win for I think you'll be a fine voice in our Nation's capitol.

"Who knows—you may be the first of my students to become President! That's not all joke, tho' I'll probably not be living to gloat 'I knew him when. . . .' unless you go awfully fast.

"Work hard, stay honest and clean, learn all you can, take God for your partner, keep the common touch and expect to win—as I expect you to.

"Love to you and Polly and Christy."

Tom said he "really appreciates her support. It means so much to me, and I just wish she lived in the 19th District so she could vote for me.

"But," he added with a laugh, "I can assure her I won't be running for President. All I want to do is be Congressman for all the people of this District for as long as they will have me.

"I don't have any political aspirations beyond that, he concluded.

Politics Is A Family Affair

Polly

or, put

's high

and

for as

"I had no idea what I was getting into," laughed Polly Richards, looking back over the early days of her husband's campaign for Congress, "but I'm loving every minute of it."

Polly had always been a very active homemaker before Tom decided to "make his run", but she had never been extensively involved in politics.

A native of Wichita Falls—her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Baber still live there—Polly graduated with honors from high school there and then attended Texas Christian University in Fort Worth before transferring to Texas Tech in 1962.

She was graduated with a bachelor of science in education and made the Dean's Honor List.

That transfer to Tech came after she and Tom were engaged. They met on a "blind" date one summer when both were home from school.

After graduating she taught elementary school in Waco, Kenner, La. (where Tom worked for Shell Oil) and then in Lubbock.

But that didn't keep her from being very active with the Tech Museum and Ranching Heritage Center, the YWCA, serving on the Civic Ballet board, working with the Heart Association, the Cancer Society, Easter Seals and the United Way.

She was active in the Junior League 11 years and currently is a sustaining member of the League.

Polly said the greatest thing about the campaign is getting out and meeting people and hearing what's on their minds.

She is extremely supportive of her husband, and, naturally, believes he's going to make a good through when people talk to him. He honestly wants to help people. I saw that the first time I met him," Polly recalled.

With pardonable pride, Polly declared "Tom Richards will make one of the best public servants West Texas has ever had. He was born to want to be helpful to others, and that's his greatest quality." Well said, Polly!

Christy

Don't be surprised if you call the Thomas M. Richards campaign headquarters late in the day and a pert young voice answers the phone.

That's 10-year-old Christy Elaine Richards (Christy for short), the candidate's daughter.

Christy, voted "best personality" by her 4th grade peers at Murfee Elementary School and vice president of the Student Council (she's now in 5th grade), tells Dad, "I've already won two elections, you better work hard so you can catch up."

She likes snow skiing and bike riding, but right now her main interest is going campaigning.

"That girl," her Father said, "never meets a stranger, and she will give them a five minute speech about my campaign anytime they will listen. She really enjoys handing out campaign literature in front of Furrs Cafeteria in Lubbock and Plainview."

Christy's natural talents lie in music. She has been in several local musical productions at the First Methodist Church, is a member of a Youth Choir, and takes classes in ballet, tap, jazz and twirling.

She is also a member of the Future Problem Solving team at her school.

Decision To Run Made By Family

From the moment the possibility arose that he might want to run for Congress Thomas M. (Tom) Richards consulted his family.

"I didn't talk to another person about it until Polly and Christy and I sat down back last fall and first discussed it together, Tom recalled.

He found not only enthusiasm from the family but full-fledged promises to help—and sure enough, the campaign has become a family affair.

"I wasn't about to get into the race without their complete endorsement, and I didn't have to ask twice," he recalled.

Tom's mother may have been the only one in the family who wasn't too surprised.

"I guess he's a born politician," said Mrs. Ruth Richards of Paducah.

She said "Tom never gave us a bit of trouble growing up, and he was always very popular."

She said proudly "he would get 100 per cent of the votes in Paducah today, I do believe."

Growing Up

While Thomas M. (Tom) Richards was growing up and during his high school years he not only lettered in five sports—he was an All-State end in football—he also worked after school and on weekends.

"The first job he had, as I recall," said his mother, Mrs. Ruth Richards, was as a life guard at the swimming pool in the summers.

"He got paid 50 cents an hour," she said.

Tom also worked sacking groceries in Hanks Brothers Food Store.

During the summer months he also worked on highway crews and worked cattle on the Richards' ranches in Cottle and King Counties.

Thomas M. (Tom) Richards Is Five Generations Strong In West Texas!

Richards' Family History Is Colorful

Although Thomas M. (Tom) Richards himself has never before run for public office, the tradition of this fifth generation West Texan's family has deep roots in politics.

Thomas Jefferson Richards, Tom's great-great grandfather became one of Cottle County's leading ranchers back in the late 1860's.

Quoting from an early history of the area, "Mr. Richards was a Democrat and took a warm interest in politics . . . he is held in high esteem over this region, and they are regarded as public spirited citizens." His brother-in-law was a veteran of the Confederate Army and served as Cottle County treasurer before the turn of the century.

Thomas Jefferson Richards (how could he not be politically minded with a name like that!) was described as "for many years a towering figure in the cattle industry who built up a fortune from very small beginnings."

Tom's father, M. B. Richards, said family history has it that when the legendary Quanah Parker would travel with his Comanche raiding parties into the Llano Estacado (South Plains) they would always stop by the T. J. Richards spread. "The story is that my great-great grandfather would always cut a couple of cows out of his herd and give them to the Indians when they spent the night," Tom recalled.

The Indians were always hungry so even back then the Richards family began its tradition of helping out people. That's the tradition that Tom carries to this day.

Since that first Richards came to West Texas the family has continued with the cattle and farming business and always has taken an active interest in public and civic affairs.

"This is the first time I have ever sought public office, and if I am successful I can promise you right now that I will stay your Congressman until I retire or the voters retire me."

"I meant those words then and I mean them even more now," Tom recalled recently.

"I want to work for the people. That's the job I want and I don't want to go to Congress with some axe to grind or just so I can add it to any list of accomplishments I may have had in my life.

"And I'm certainly not on an ego trip!" he stressed.
