Why Not Have a Soda Fountain in Your Home?

Such a luxury is easily and simply obtainable by purchasing bottled soda water by the case. Order a case today and try this:

SODA EGG NOG

I Beat up an egg with a teaspoonful of powdered sugar and add the contents of a half pint bottle of soda water of any desired flavor. Especially good with lemon soda or ginger ale. The entire egg may be used, or only the white of the egg, as preferred. A little lemon will improve it for some tastes.

Watch this space from week to week for directions for preparing other good bome drinks.

This Hannah did, with much mumbling, and deposited it in her chicken 600p.

There Tito would have spent a quiet had not a certain middly-predactous negress answering to the name of Jemima Watson, returned all but emoty-handed to her suburban home. For one of the by-products of this dusky lady's activities as a scrub woman was the gathering of those trifles which find their way to the waste baskets and refuse cans of office buildings. And her only harvest, on this occasion, was a half portion of a time-yellowed code chart and map, which had blown from the dizzy balcony of the Central Tower building.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts,

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which, if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is polsons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and prisoners. badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from any druggist or storekeeper. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the

SYNOPSIS.

--17--Humphrey Van Weyden, critic and dilettante, finds himself aboard the sealing schooner Ghost, Captain Wolf Larsen, hound to Japan waters. The captain makes him cabin boy "for the good of his soul." Wolf hazes a seaman and makes it the basis for a philosophic discussion with Hump. Hump's intimacy with Wolf increases. A carnival of brutality breaks loose in the ship. Wolf proves himself the master brute. Hump is made mate on the hell-ship and proves that he has learned "to stand on his own legs." Two men desert the vessel in one of the small boats. A young woman and four men, survivors of a steamer wreck, are respected from a small boat. The deserters are sighted, but Wolf stands away and leaves them to drown. Maude Brewster, the rescued girl, sees the cook towed overside to give him a bath and his foot bitten off by a shark as he is hauded aboard. She begins to realize her danger at the hands of Wolf. Van Weyden realizes that he loves Maude. Wolf's brother. Death Larsen, comes on the sealing grounds in the sleam sealer Macedonia, "nogs" the sea, and Wolf captures several of his boats. The Ghost runs away in a log. Wolf furnishes liquor to the Wolf furnishes liquor to the

It was no light adventure, this she pleaded, and she disarmed me by trusting ourselves in a small boat to so raw and stormy a sea, and it was mperative that we should guard our elves against cold and wet.

We worked feverishly at carrying our plunder on deck and depositing it amidships, so feverishly that Maud, whose strength was hardly a positive quantity, had to give over, exhausted limp. Having cast off the lashings, I hoisted first on the forward tackle, then on the aft. till the boat cleared the rail, when i lowered away, one tackle and then the other, for a couple of feet, till it hung snegly, above the water, against the schooner's side. I made certain thatit contained the proper equipment of oars, rowlocks and sail. Water was a consideration, and I robbed every boat aboard of its breaker. As there were nine boats all told, it meant that we should have plenty of water, and ballast as well, though there was the chance that the boat would be overloaded, what of the generous supply of other things I was taking.

A few minutes sufficed to finish the leading, and I lowered the boat into the water. As I helped Maud over the rail and felt her form close to mine It was all I could do to keep from cry ing out. "I love you! I love you!" Truly Humphrey Van Weyden was at last in love, I thought, as her fingers clung to mine while I lowered her down to the boat. Cold and cheerless, the wind beat ing on our faces, the white seas roar ing by, we struggled through the day. Night came, but neither of us slept. Day came, and still the wind beat on our faces and the white seas roared past. By the second night Maud was falling asleep from exhaustion. I covered her with oilskins and a tarpaulin. She was comparatively dry but she was numb with the cold I feared greatly that she might die in the night; but day broke, cold and cheerless, with the same clouded sky and beating wind and roaring seas. CARLYLE CALLED US BORES

Equality Developed Monotony of Type in Country's Second Epoch, Was His Assertion.

Prof. Max Farrand of Yale, lecturing on "Américan Traits" as developed in the epoch of 1812 to 1840, said at Lowell institute recently, the Kansas City Star observes:

"Equality of status is, of course, not a characteristic, but a condition; yet it is a factor which has led to the development of important American traits. Here, where, if absolute equality did not exist, at least there was far greater equality than there was anything else; where, if there was not equality of opportunity for all, there was at least some opportunity for all, the European relationship of superior and inferior classes could not ong continue. The 'inferior' of today were too likely to become the 'superior of tomorrow.

"This meant, of course, a great stimulus to independence, and developed the people's self-reliance. Independence is one of the most conspicuous American traits, and it has been not without unpleasant manifestations. It der to get a fair show. has induced a lack of respect for authority and for elders, and the existence of equality has tended to a remarkable monotony among the people who developed these opportunities, till Carlyle could say: 'Americans have begotten, with a rapidity beyond recorded example, 18,000,000 of the greater bores ever seen in the world be-

"Yet in contrast with this deadly equality, the existence of opportunity for all individuals also led to a strong individualism among Americans, giving each man a chance to develop what was in him. Hence our love for the self-made man, and hence the American devetton to leaders rather than to principles."

Importance of Letter "E."

66 1 799 is one of the most important letters in the alphabet. I want to call your attention to the fact that E is is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existance, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life, no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect, and without it there would be no editors, devils, or news. It is in our Faddles that are easy on your horse; in bridle that makes your horse proud, and in blankets of which we carry the best. It is in my name and the prices I make. It is in my Sanitary Buggies, the best in the land, Buy one and end your troubles.

They are unexcelled in quality, design and finish. They are guaranteed to bake perfectly and be economical in the consumption of oil. When you want the best you will buy one. Let us tell you more about them.

PREPARED

We now have in a fine large shipment of 1916 CLARK JEWEL oil stoves. They have the same fine burner construction as last year. The burners are short and close to the top. The blue flame strikes the bottom of the vessel direct and gives quick results with little oil.

No More Sweating

"What are you going to in (or with) your kitchen this summer, Mary? Are you going to sweat over the old wood stove as you have done heretofore?"

"No, John, I am going down to the Fawcett Furniture Store and get myself one of those CLARK JEWEL oil stoves I hear everybody talking about. They save oil and time."

The Convenient Medicine Cabinet

The old saying, "a stitch in time saves nine" is certainly true in case of accidents and sudden illness. Every home should be equipped with a supply of "First Aid Remedies."

Prompt and intelligent action before the physcian arrives often averts the serious results which are apt to follow accidents or sudden ills. Camphor, Ouinine, Mustard, Ginger, Pure Witch Hazel, Arnica, Sweet Oil, Liniments, Salves, Dioxogen, Court Plasters, Cotton, Bandages, Etc., Etc., are among the items which should be kept constantly on hand. Let us fit up your cabinet with a supply of such goods and you will be prepared for any emergency.

Peculiar Fertilizer in Tasmania. Tasmania is a great farming and fruit country and there is a good local market for all the spent oil shale from the distilling retorts. The rock from which the oil has been taken sells at $2 per ton for agricultural uses. The assays do not disclose any rich fertilizing matter in the spent shale, yet when it is pulverized and distributed over farming lands and garden soils it produces such wonderful results as to make the demand for it greater than the supply. It appears to act on the soil mechanically by aerating it and possibly, by condensing moisture from the atmosphere and transferring it to the crops. Smudge pots will protect the fruit trees in the spring. They are used in many parts of the country. There are 10 or more different kinds, with varying capacities from one to six gallons. With 50 one-gallon pots on an acre, about 121/2 gallons of oil will be burned each hour. If the air is still, the heated area will be five de grees above the air outside. The initial investment for a ten-acre orchard will not be far from $500. The cost of keeping up the fires will be about $5 an acre each night.

How to avoid

Hospitals are great and necessary institutions, but they should be the last resort for women who suffer with ills peculiar to their sex. Many letters on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., prove that a great number of women after they have been recommended to submit to an operation have been made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here are three such letters. All Marinette, Wis.—"I went to the doctor and he told me I must have an operation for a female trouble, and I hated to have it done as I had been married only a short time. I would have terrible pains and my hands and feet were cold all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was cured, and I feel better in every way. I give you permission to publish my name because I am so thankful that I feel well again." -Mrs. FRED BERNKE Marinette, Wis.

Detroit, Mich.—"When I first took Lydis E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was so run dewn with female troubles that I could not do anything, and our doctor said I would have to undergo an operation. I could hardly walk without help so when I read about the Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others I thought I would try it. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and used them according to directions. They helped me and today I am able to do all my work and I am well."—Mrs. Thos. Dwyer, 989 Milwaukee Ave., East, Detroit, Mich.

Bellevue, Pa.—"I suffered more than tongue can tell with terrible bearing down pains and inflammation. I tried several dectors and they all told me the same story, that I never could get well without an operation and I just dreaded the thought of that. I also tried a an operation and I just dreaded the thought of that. I also creat a good many other medicines that were recommended to me and none of them helped me until a friend advised me to give Lycia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. The first bottle helped, I kept taking it and now I don't know what it is to be sick any more and I am picking up in weight. I am 20 years old and weigh 145 pounds. It will be the greatest pleasure to me if I can have the opportunity to recommend it to any other suffering voman."—Miss Insura Froelicher, 1923 Manhattan St., North Side, Dellovue, Pa.
