VOL. XVIII.

KERRVILLE KERR COUNTY, TEXAS, SATURDAY, MARCH 8, 1902.

NO. 38.

Killed His Wife and Himself.

Houston, Texas, March 4.—Crazed by the prospect of separation Frank P. Jacobs yesterday afternoon at Lynchburg, a little town 25 miles from here, killed his girl wife and cut his own throat.

Lying side by side in each others blood, they were found immediately afterward, and in the man's pocket was found the following letter:

Dear Mother and Brother and sister, March 3, 1902: I want you all to not let Mr. Jacobs in my house for he would not let me in his'n. Please bring May and me together and put one of Mays pictures in my hands. Dress May nice and lay us out side by side. I want you all to have my things don't grieve over me. Frank P. Jacobs. On the back was scrawled the last good bye and a blessing.

The couple had been married about a year and had been living since that time in the town of Lynchburg. Mrs. Jacobs was formerly Miss May Francis Crum, and was about 16 years of age. Frank Jacobs was about 25.

Wife Murder.

Richmond, Tex., March 4.—Sheriff Briscoe arrived here last night with the young negro Charley Starks, who is charged with the murder which occurred on the Juliff place in the southern part of this county last Sunday. It is alleged that during a quarrel with his wife he seized a musket loaded with mustard seed and discharged it at close range, tearing off nearly half of her head and scattering portions of her brains on the ceiling. He was arrested at the time by several of his own color and lodged in the convict building on the House place. Yesterday while the prisoners were being mustered out preparatory to going to their work he made a break for liberty and received a volley of shots from the guards stationed outside. Only two shots took effect, both in the back of the head, neither of which inflicted serious wounds.

Killed at Calvert.

Hearne, Tex., March 4.—Mr. Lewis Glass, a young man 19 years of age, of this place, was killed at Calvert last night, while trying to board No. 12, a fast freight train on the Houston and Texas Central Railway. He tried to get on, but it was running faster than he judged it to be. He was thrown against one of the rails, so his companions say, and his skull crushed. He was picked up, put on the southbound passenger and died while en route home. His companions, Fred Wood and Herbert Lewis, are heartbroken over the untimely death of their comrade. Deceased has been attending school at the A. and M. college this year. A father and two brothers survive him.

Frisco Survey.

We learn from Capt. Chas. Schreiner that General Superintendent Yoakum, of the Frisco Railroad Company, has given out the assurance that a survey for Southwest extension of the Frisco, will be made from Mason to Kerrville. There is no doubt that the survey will be made, and it is highly probable that the route will be found feasible and the new road, when built, will be via Kerrville.

Woodmen Festival.

Centre Point, Texas, March 5.—Last Saturday night, Centre Point Camp Woodmen of the World held their regular meeting. After the routine business and new applications were acted upon, the Camp Commander declared the camp open for social entertainment.

A committee of four were appointed to bring in the oysters, stewed and etc., another committee in the meantime, setting the tables. About the time the members were ready to sit down, the sentry reported an alarm at the outer door, which upon investigation, proved to be the ladies of the Woodmen Circle, loaded with several fine cakes, and demanding admission. Of course they were admitted. Everybody then seated themselves at the tables and enjoyed the good things provided.

When all were feasted, Mrs. J. W. Nelson entertained the members with some very fine classical music on the piano. Several Woodmen songs were rendered by the members with piano accompaniment, and a very pleasant evening's entertainment closed, with the Woodmen's closing ode.

NOTES.

Sovereign H. C. Griffin was sick Saturday and could not come to the supper, which accounts for the surplus left over.

Sovereign H. C. Moore was at the supper, and was sick next day.

Sovereigns Leonard Witt and George Crotty have shown no bad effects as yet.

Mother Pleads.

A widowed mother who came all the way from Texas, arriving yesterday, to plead with Governor Orman in behalf of her imprisoned son so moved the heart of his excellency by her homely eloquence that her son will be pardoned and returned to the old home in the Lone Star State.

Several years ago Mrs. Heiman, of North Galveston, Texas, lived happily with her only son, who was an honest hard-working boy and followed the trade of a butcher with success. He was possessed of a powerful physique, and that was the cause of his downfall. His friends would come into the store and tell him that if they had the muscles that he had they would not work for a living; they would enter the prize ring. John Heiman heard that so often that he came to believe it, and in June, 1900, threw down his cleaver and started out to be a prize fighter. He met with great success around Galveston, winning several fights and a good pile. From Texas he went to Indian Territory, thence to Kansas and finally he came to this state. His training was not the best, but his strong arms stood him in good stead and he was so successful in the ring that when he arrived in Colorado he was enjoying great prosperity.

He fought first in Leadville under the name of James H. McCormick and winning several mills there, came to Denver, where he was taken up by Jack McKenna, and for a time flourished. Later, however, the tide turned against him and he soon found himself in Pueblo on his well worn uppers. There he fell in with new-hatched, unfledged comrades, who preyed upon his verdant good nature and credulity. Learning that he was "broke" one of his new companions generously offered to loan him money, which proffer he had no talent to refuse. Accordingly he was staked with several bright new silver dollars, which he spent, and soon found himself in the clutches of the law on the charge that he belonged to a band of notorious counterfeiters.

He was tried, convicted, and on March 27, 1902, sentenced from Pueblo to a term of from seven to eight years in the penitentiary. Along with him was sentenced W. E. Sayers, one of the friends who gave him the money. This man was also known as W. E. Davis.

Among the papers is a statement from Sayers, who swears that Heiman did not know that the coin was spurious when he received and spent it.

When everything else failed the son, though he had not been mindful of the mother in the days of prosperity, turned to her, the unchanging friend of his other days, for comfort and succor. She did not fail him nor does she even blame him but declared dramatically to the Governor that he was a good boy and had been led away by evil companions. She told her story with such earnest simplicity that the Governor was moved to action and has taken the necessary steps that will result in the freedom of the son and he will be taken back with the mother to the old home, which is not as comfortable as it was before the son left it.

The mother has gotten along poorly without the help of her boy, and besides she spent nearly everything she possessed to secure the means for the long trip to this state. But she will return after March 7 with her son and she says that with him to help her again she is not afraid of the future.—Denver Times.

Junction City.

EDITOR MOUNTAIN SUN:

Junction is recovering from her small pox scare. The sixteen men who were held in camp, having been exposed to the disease, were turned loose yesterday, no new cases developing. They were all vaccinated and held in camp the required time for all danger to be over. The one case has about recovered, and will be turned loose in a few days. Nearly every man, woman and child in town are nursing a sore arm, the result of vaccination.

There are still a few cases of pneumonia in town. Mr. Roy King is quite ill with it. Mr. Felix Harrison, who has been so seriously ill, was glad to say is able to sit up and is rapidly recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dauby are the proud parents of a little baby daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Thomas, Jr., have a little son to brighten their home.

Sheriff W. W. Taylor has returned from a business trip to the Alamo City.

Mr. Jas. Baker's new residence is completed. J. H. Martin's business house and residence is nearing completion. Work has begun on T. W. Fraiser's residence and Alex Hamer & Co. are building an addition to their store building.

Nearly every residence in town is receiving or has received lately a new coat of paint. Bissett & Graham are doing the work.

Chas. Schreiner Co. are putting in a lumber yard at this place, which is a great improvement to the town.

The high winds and dry weather still prevail and crop prospects for this year are very gloomy.

Hear Evidence at Corsicana.

Corsicana, Tex., March 5.—The special Legislative investigating committee, composed of Trav Henderson, chairman, Representatives S. R. Boyd and W. T. Shannon, met at 9 o'clock this morning in the Malloy hotel parlors for the purpose of hearing witnesses on matters concerning the State Orphan Home. Most of the testimony this evening was brought upon claims made that the boys were mischievous and that their pranks were not confined to the home. The committee will begin taking testimony again tomorrow morning.

Death of a Sojourner.

Rockport, Tex., March 4.—G. S. Wentworth, who came here about a year ago from New Orleans, was found dead in his room at Tarpon about 12 miles south of here yesterday. He left a letter to Captain White of the Life Saving Station, saying he had taken poison and asking that he be placed in a box and buried in the sandhills; also that certain letters he left be forwarded after he had been dead three months. When Wentworth first came here he seemed to have plenty of money, bought a yacht and spent money freely. He was originally from Connecticut.

W. N. Barton, a popular knight of the grip, whose home is in Austin, was registered at St. Charles yesterday.

SNOW STORM RAGES.

Atlantic Coast States Visited by Terrible Blizzard, Heaviest Fall of the Winter. Delays Traffic and Stops Trains.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 5.—The heaviest snow storm of the winter set in about midnight last night. It is now several inches deep and the indications are for continued snow to-morrow. Street car traffic is almost at a standstill in both Pittsburg and Allegheny; while the cars to and from the suburbs are making but few trips. The railroads are also suffering to some extent and trains are all delayed.

The storm following the flood has created a heavy demand on the Allegheny department of charities and the officials had great difficulty in supplying the sufferers with coal and provisions.

Bethlehem, Pa., March 5.—This vicinity has been swept by the worst storm of the winter. Snow has fallen to the depth of fifteen inches and the gale is terrific. Traffic is at a standstill.

Roanoke, Va., March 5.—A heavy snow fell throughout southwest Virginia this morning.

To-night there are from twenty-two to twenty-three inches of snow on the ground at various points. Heavy drifts have closed up mountain passes, blocked railroads and closed down coal mines.

Snow, sleet and high winds were the conditions that prevailed in this city and vicinity the past twenty-four hours.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 5.—With the exception of the extreme southeastern section of the state the entire commonwealth of Pennsylvania is to-night in the grasp of the heaviest snow storm of the winter. Railroad travel is practically tied up in many places, and the indications for to-morrow are not encouraging.

Louisville, Ky., March 5.—The heaviest snow storm of the season fell yesterday afternoon and last night in the eastern, southeastern and central portions of the State, the fall ranging from four to ten inches.

New York, March 5.—Another snow storm which threatens to do much damage started at 4 o'clock this morning. The snow was wet and heavy and caused much inconvenience and considerable delay to traffic on elevated surface lines.

On the river the weather was so thick that ferry boats were unable to run at more than half speed. The snow was accompanied by a moderate wind.

York, Pa., March 5.—The heaviest snow storm of the season set in here last night and the ground is covered to a depth of twelve inches. All trains have been annulled.

Horned Rabbit.

Mr. Simon Eckstein was in the city Monday with a freak of nature in the way of a horned rabbit. The animal had several horns about its head, from two to three inches long. The horns had the appearance of being an unnatural wart-like growth, but very much resembling real horns.

Weeping Over Mrs. Gilbert.

There is a fine old lady in New York over whom a hundred or more people weep regularly every night at half past 8 o'clock, Victor Smith says. 'She is Mrs. Gilbert, at the Lyceum theatre, and the tear-do not come because of anything in the play. But the minute she sets foot on the stage and stands there bowing at the plaudits which greet her and are never hushed for at least five minutes, then the handkerchiefs pop up in every row, and if you look around you will see the tears on the lashes and cheeks of men and women all over the house.

Gracie Saw the White House.

Gracie Merriam, a 12-year-old girl from Ciciniati, as visiting friends in Washington last week. She was anxious to see the White House, including the rooms where the president lives. None of her friends could get her the desired permission, so she wrote this letter:

"Dear Mr. Roosevelt:—I am a little girl from 'Cincinnati, and I want to go through the White House so much. I don't know anybody to take me there, and I thought I would write you and ask if you would let me see it. Your true friend, Gracie Merriam."

A day or two later Gracie received a letter from the president saying he would be glad to see her, and that she could go through the White House from top to bottom if she would come and bring his note with her. She came and was given a special escort and went through the historic old mansion from top to bottom.

Red-Haired Maiden—White Horse.

"Yes," said Alexander J. Linn, in answer to a New York inter-viewer's question, "I acknowledge I am the man responsible for the 'red-headed woman and white horse' craze, but I suppose that the time for running me down had gone by long ago. You see it was this way: I was sitting with two friends at a window of the New York Union League Club, a good many years ago, when one of them said: 'See that coal wagon? By Jove, but there are three fine white horses hitched to it, in a row. You don't often see that.' 'No,' I answered. 'Nor do you often see three handsome red-headed girls like those on the sidewalk.' Then as a joke of the moment I added, 'But then you never see a red-headed woman without seeing a white horse near her.' The statement was unchallenged. We watched. Along came an open carriage. One of the horses was white, and in the carriage was a woman with auburn tresses. The next white horse was attached to a Fifth avenue stage. A red-haired girl was among the passengers. One of the editors of a New York newspaper came in just then, and we told him of the joke. He wrote a funny article about it, and in less than a week people all over the United States were engaged in picking out white horses and red-headed girls. There you have the true story, told by me for the first time." "Does it always hold out true?" "My friend," said Mr. Linn, solemnly, "go read the history of America for the last twenty-five years."

DEALERS IN

General Merchandise.

Our co-operative supply store is now ready for business. Our intention is to make this a model business organization, of which this community may be justly proud of. We solicit a share of the public patronage, and guarantee fair and square dealings, no deception of any kind will ever be permitted. We shall handle nothing but pure and good goods, something that we can recommend. We shall have but one price, which will be the lowest for which goods can be sold.

There is one thing in particular to which we wish to call the attention of the public in general, namely: That this is not a money making, but a money saving institution. After paying expenses of conducting the enterprise, which includes interest on capital invested, the remaining net profits are returned to patrons as a dividend on their purchases. Members receive full dividends. Non-members receive half dividends on purchase checks issued with us, every patron becomes a participant, a profit sharer. We also take the place of an investment company, outside of membership certificates this Association issues interest bearing certificates of stock, redeemable on short notice.

Now let every farmer come right out, like a man, and identify himself with this grand and glorious movement. It is a duty you owe to yourself and family, as well as to the farming interests in general that you should join.

Co-operation makes you strong and powerful, co-operation enables the people to do their business collectively for mutual benefit and advancement, so brother farmer give us your hand, and your heart will beat in sympathy with this world wide movement, which stands for progress and prosperity and the welfare of all human endeavor.

Respectfully,

Would Tax Posters.

Francis Griswold Landon, member of the New York legislature, has introduced into that body a bill to tax advertising posters. The idea is to put some limit to the defacement of town and country scenery by inartistic and unsightly billboards.

Do Soldiers Shoot Themselves.

Casualty lists from South Africa have reported so many accidental woundings, some of them fatal, as to give rise even in England to the idea that there must be many men entrusted with arms who do not know how to use them and unwittingly injure themselves or their comrades. As many as four or five cases of this sort have been reported in one day.

Was Joseph a Golfer?

The latest golfer's yarn is the statement that Joseph of old was the original golf player. In the first place, we are told that he wore a coat of many colors, which certainly must have been a golf suit and the statement that he was put into a hole by his brethren is declared at St. Andrews to be merely a figurative expression, and signifies that they beat him at his own game.

Spring Lamb?

A Sunday school superintendent of San Francisco was making a fervid prayer a few Sundays ago, and asked the divine blessing upon each and every enterprise in which the school was interested. He closed his petition to the throne of grace in the following words: "And now, Oh, Lord, bless the lambs of this fold and make them meet for the kingdom of heaven. Amen."

Good Things in Queen's Album.

A London paper gives an interesting account of an album owned by the Queen of Greece, to which many royal personages have contributed. Some of the opinions expressed in the book are decidedly amusing. To the question, "What is your idea of happiness?" the King of Greece replied: "Always to have a sovereign without a crown." The King of Sweden was asked what was his conception of real unhappiness, and answered that he could think of nothing worse than tight shoes, a corn and a heavy foot on it. When Edward VII was requested to reveal the person against whom he bore the greatest grudge, he answered, "The man who insists upon pointing his umbrella at me and exclaiming, 'There he is!'" The Emperor of Austria gave a different answer to this query, and said he could think of no person whom he disliked more than the man whose customary greeting was, "Good heavens, how old you do look!" The Empress of Russia answered the same question as follows: "For me there is no person more disagreeable than the woman who considers her children the healthiest in the world and who looks upon other children as being very intelligent, but fearfully weak and delicate."

"Red Vest" Woodruff Reformed.

Representative Shattuc, of Ohio, heard that Lieutenant-Governor Woodruff was in Washington, relates a correspondent, and hurried up to the Arlington hotel to see him. Shattuc is an expert on highly-colored vests. He contracted the habit when he was the general passenger agent of a railroad and brought it to congress with him. His vests light up the gloom of the house on dark days. What Mr. Shattuc wanted to tell Lieutenant-Governor Woodruff about was a new vest he had just received from Paris. "It was a dark wine-colored groundwork," he said enthusiastically, "with bright red game roosters embroidered on it. I shall not wear it often. Once or twice will be enough, and then I shall paralyze the house with it." Lieutenant-Governor Woodruff listened with languid interest. "I gave up the vest habit some time ago," he said. "My vests are now so black that charcoal would make a white mark on them."

Admiral Farenholt's Distinction.

Rear Admiral Oscar W. Farenholt, United States navy, who was inspection officer at Charlestown navy yard up to about a year ago, and who is now on the retired list, is the only officer in the service who reached from the position of enlisted man. Admiral Farenholt is now living in Malden, Mass. His last duty was in the Far East, where he commanded the double turreted monitor Monadnock. He entered the navy first as a volunteer during the civil war and has a record of more than sixty years' sea service.

"Beefy" Suited Him.

They had been talking of nicknames and a New York teacher, whose school is on the East side, said: "A boy of 7 came into my room. 'What is your name?' I asked him. 'Stub Williams.' After long questioning, I discovered that his name was Arthur. 'What is your father's name?' I asked.

'Beefy Williams,' was his response. 'There his knowledge halted. He could not tell me more, because he did not know. 'Beefy' was the only one he had ever heard. I told him to get the name for me. The next day he brought a note, scrawled on the margin of a newspaper. 'My name is James W. Williams,' it said, 'but what in h— is the matter with Beefy?'"

Boy Got His Tickets Free.

The New York courts have decided that theatre tickets are not among the necessities of life required by a boy of 16 while at college. The young man ran in debt for certain bits of pasteboard, and when sued set up the claim that he need not pay for them, because they were not among the things that "an infant" in law had to have. The courts sustain this view.

Perry Heath's Poker Edition.

Perry S. Heath has established an afternoon edition of his paper in Salt Lake City. He calls it the Telegram. In the first issue he had a complimentary sketch of Senator Kearns, of Utah. The writer rhapsodized: "How truly it may be said of Mr. Kearns, as it is said in Scripture, 'He that is diligent in business shall stand before kings.'" Things were in confusion in the office that first day, and perhaps the proofreader did not get to the Kearns sketch. At any rate, the Scriptural quotation came out, "He that is diligent in business shall stand by four kings." Rival papers are saying that if Senator Kearns has to get his poker knowledge out of the Bible, Washington is no place for him.

A Phonograph Wedding.

Miss Nellie Stone was married by phonograph the other day to F. J. Duncan in Oswego, N. Y. The regular ceremony could not take place because the house in which she was living was quarantined for smallpox, and the delay made her so nervous that her physician advised a phonograph marriage, which is asserted to be perfectly legal. In her room at the house where she was quarantined Miss Stone, in the presence of witnesses, repeated into the phonograph the words: "I, Nellie Stone, do take this man, James F. Duncan, to be my lawfully wedded husband, for better or for worse, till death do us part." The register was then removed, fumigated and taken to the Duncan residence, where the bridegroom and the clergyman performed their part of the ceremony.

Beidler's Odd Fad.

Representative Beidler, of the Cleveland, O., district, has a fad. He is interested in the raising of tailless dogs. After many experiments Mr. Beidler has now a fine litter of dogs which have no tails. They are odd-looking little animals and bear the same relation to other canines as a human being does to a monkey. Mr. Beidler does not say what advantage is gained by thus improving upon nature, being apparently satisfied with demonstrating that tailless dogs are a possibility.

Monitor's Only Living Officer.

Captain Louis N. Stodder, at present supervisor of anchorage at the port of New York, and a veteran of the United States revenue service, is the last surviving officer of the Monitor. He was in the gunnery school at Brooklyn when a call for volunteers was made to work the guns of the "cheesebox on a raft" and immediately offered his services.

We have received Vol. 1, No. 1, of the "Crank," a new paper published at Mullin, this state, by T. F. Harwell. This new departure in the world of journalism is a freak of its kind. It is a prohibition journal and goes to such extremes in its advocacy of temperance as to be intemperately temperate.

The newspapers of the Senatorial district speak very favorably of the candidacy of Judge W. W. Burnett for State Senator. Judge Burnett will receive a strong support from the Democrats of Kerr county for the nomination, and if honored, will appreciate the office and make an earnest effort to discharge its duties in a matter creditable to himself and his constituents.

KERRVILLE'S Ice Plant is assured. Now let every citizen of this town do his duty toward this new and much needed enterprise. It is highly probable that other ice makers will attempt to ship ice to this city and freeze the new concern out at the start. If the people of Kerrville are loyal to the interests of their town, there will be no market for foreign ice in Kerrville at any price, and every person who purchases it to save a few cents is a traitor. We have no personal interest in the new ice plant in Kerrville, but we have a deep interest in this city and its welfare. It is easy to see that if such competition should come into the field, the low rate would only last a short time. We don't know that any such competition will arise, but we speak this caution to our people. Don't allow anything to influence you against home enterprises. Make your motto "Kerrville and her institutions first, Southwest Texas next and the rest of it afterwards."

Judge W. W. Burnett, of Kerr county, is favorably mentioned for State Senator from this district. Judge Burnett is an honorable and able man, and we hope that Bexar county, which has the preponderance of voters, will concede this office to the small outside counties and that Judge Burnett will have his ambition gratified.—Bandera Enterprise.

Tom Thumb Wedding.

The Tom Thumb Wedding was performed at Pampell's Opera house on Friday night, February 28, and Saturday Matinee, by home talent, under the direction of Claddia Hazen White, for the benefit of the Ladies' Cemetery Association. The performance was creditable, the program elaborate and each part well executed. The cake walk at the close was a perfect success. Mrs. White's recitations displayed merit as an elocutionist, and her training of the children for the wedding is worthy of favorable comment.

Mr. Cooke appears in San Antonio for two nights this season under the auspices of the San Antonio Lyceum. Read what Mr. Shaw has to say of him in writing to a fellow course manager:

"If you want something fine Edmund Vance Cooke is your man. We had him last year in his entertainment 'Pot Luck with a Poet,' and our people liked him so well that we have called him for this year. He is one of the finest entertainers of his class that it has ever been my privilege to hear and I am sure that you will make no mistake in closing an engagement with him. With best wishes, I am,

Yours truly,

Why Musicians Tune in Public.

It has often puzzled the uninitiated to give a reason why musicians tune their instruments in public, and not before they enter the theater or concert room, the temperature is very apt to be different in the place of performance, and, therefore, the instruments would not be in tune. A piano which is in tune in a cold room would get out of tune if the room were suddenly heated.

"Mountain Sun March."

Prof. R. H. Keck, the well-known mandolin artist and music composer, has the thanks of the MOUNTAIN SUN for having composed and dedicated to its publisher the "Mountain Sun March." This new musical production, which is a composition of much merit and great credit to its distinguished author, was played for the first time to a public audience at the Tom Thumb Wedding, at Pampell's Opera House, February 28, by composer Keck and Prof. Chas. Kyle. It is a production of much real merit and met with warm applause from the musical critics.

The name of Hon. W. W. Burnett of Kerr county, has been mentioned favorably as a prospective candidate for State Senator. Judge Burnett is an able lawyer, and if he receives the nomination, he will meet with the hearty support of the people in this section of the district.—Gillespie County News.

Election Notice.

On this the 4th day of March 1902, come on to be considered the petition of H. Renschel and other legally qualified voters and property tax payers, residing within the limits of Kerrville Independent School District, praying for an election to be held in said district to determine whether or not the City Council of Kerrville, Texas, shall be authorized to levy a school tax for said independent school district, not exceeding one half of one per cent; and it appearing to the city council that said petition is duly signed by the requisite number of legally qualified petitioners and property tax payers; it is therefore ordered by the City Council of Kerrville, Texas, that an election be held at the court house in Kerrville, Texas on the 8th day of April 1902 for the purpose of determining whether or not said city council shall be authorized to levy a school tax not exceeding one half of one per cent, for said Kerrville Independent School District and J. M. Hankins, sr. is hereby appointed manager of said election.

Those favoring said tax shall have written or printed on their tickets "For Increase of School Tax." and those opposing said tax shall have written or printed on their tickets, "Against increase of school tax."

Attest J. H. HUTCHISON,
A. R. JONES Sec. MAYOR.

Cattle Doing Well.

In an interview with Mr. G. F. Schreiner, a well-known West Texas stockman whose home, Cedar Lodge, is near this city, a Sun reporter asked Mr. Schreiner how cattle were doing on his western ranches? "I have just returned from a trip west. I found cattle on the ranches I visited doing very well. Range cattle are, of course, thin as is usual at this time of the year, yet cattle are strong and able to rustle for a living. The winter has been open and dry, and cattle have not contracted colds and fevers, as is the case in rainy or snowy winters. No blackleg or other dangerous disease has broken out in this section of the country, as yet, and I do not anticipate anything of the kind. ## "THE LONG TRAIL." OF THE CATTLE RANGE has given prominence in history to the now world famous Texas Panhandle. But a few years ago the wonderful possibilities of this region as a wheat country became known, and great things were prophesied for "The granary of the South," which subsequent harvests justified. Comparatively recent is the demand of good livers for "Vernon Cantaloupes," but it's come to stay. Those acquainted with this section and its wealth as a producer of feed-stuffs, corn and cotton have long believed in it, nor have they been moving away. When northwestern Texas remained conspicuous for excellence in the face of almost universally discouraging crop conditions, people began to see reasons for the faith of those inviting them to enter and possess the land; and now, with farms and ranches being bought daily by new settlers coming in by wagon and rail, three new railroads now building and four more projected, seeking a share of the general prosperity, good reason is evident for the favor with which the territory along "THE DENVER ROAD" is regarded by prospectors.

Almon's Remarkable Tale.

James Almon, who died in Washington last week, had long declared that he was once offered $100,000 to poison President Lincoln. Almon kept the dairy that supplied the White House with milk and cream. This is the way Almon told the story: "One morning in April, 1865, not two weeks before the president was assassinated, I was driving along in my wagon when two men stopped me, and one of them asked if I didn't want to make $100,000 easy and quick. I told him I guessed I did if it could be done on the level. He then asked me if I could keep a secret, and I told him I thought I could. Then he got right close up to me, leaning over the side of the wagon and said: 'Well, my man, here's $100,000 in good money. Every cent of it is yours if you will take this little box of powder and put it in the cream you serve to President Lincoln this morning. Nobody will ever suspect anything and the $100,000 is yours.' He showed me a tremendously big roll of money, and it looked mighty nice, but I didn't want that kind. If it had been as large as the treasury building it would not have tempted me. I told the men I wanted and needed the money, but I would have nothing to do with any such business. They tried to argue with me, but I wouldn't listen to them and drove away, while they cursed me. At the time I could not believe that the men were in earnest and thought they were simply trying to play off a joke on me. I kept the transaction to myself for a long time."

Russia Leads in Butter.

Russia is making her entry as a competitor in the European butter trade, and is carrying everything before her. In 1899 the Russian product in the London markets was too small for separate classification; in two years it had jumped to the second place, Denmark holding the first, as she has long done. The trans-Siberian butter trains, one a week, leave Ohi; stop at six other centers of the industry and arrive at the Baltic port of Riga after a journey of seventeen days. A steamship line with cold storage service conveys the product on to London, where it competes successfully with the best European brands, those of Denmark, Ireland and Normandy. The trade is only begun, but its promise for the future is enormous.

Less Swearing Over the 'Phone.

"No, there isn't nearly so much swearing over the 'phone as there used to be," said a girl recently in the telephone exchange. "I've been at 'central' now for a good many years—more years than I like to think about sometimes and I am in a position to speak with authority of this apparent change for the better in public morals. I don't think it is because men are less addicted to profanity, but because they are getting used to the 'phone, and are more patient. It used to be that business men would brook no delay, and would not understand why they shouldn't be treated with the utmost consideration. Then they would swear. Now they are educated up to the thing, and are more inclined to be patient."

Sweldest of All Banquets.

P. A. B. Widener, the traction millionaire, will give, Wednesday evening, the most sumptuous banquet ever held in America. The affair is to come off at Mr. Widener's magnificent country place near Ashbourne, Pa. J. Pierpont Morgan, Marshall Field, August Belmont and a number of other enormously rich men will be among the guests.

Poor Opinion of Asiatics.

"The King of Siam, who has been mentioned as a possible visitor to this country, is really good fellow," remarked General John A. Haldeman, ex-minister to Siam, from this country, to a Washington interviewer the other day. General Haldeman, a well-known former Kansan, represented this country in Siam six years, the office of minister there being created for him during the administration of President Arthur. "Yes," resumed the general, "the king is all right, even if he is a polygamist. Polygamy over there, you know, is not seriously frowned on. It is not generally practiced by the people, but the king follows it. I never knew an Asiatic who was much of a man. Whenever I make this statement, people always say, 'What of Li Hung Chang?' Well, 'What of Li Hung Chang?' is always my reply. Li certainly was a man of parts, and was superior to most other Asiatics of his time, but still, he wasn't such a wonder as he was credited with being. General Grant knew Li Hung Chang, and I once asked his opinion of the Chinese statesman. The general agreed with me that Li was overrated. The difficulty is that the Asiatics lack stamina of character. They are given entirely too much to procrastination and falsehoods to be really great and noble men. Yes, I have looked into the missionary question to a considerable extent," resumed General Haldeman, "and can say that I believe the missionaries do some good. In Siam, they claim to have several thousand converts. I doubt the statement very much. The people of that country have a very good religion—Buddhism. The king is an absolute monarch. He administers justice with a soft hand, and the people like him."

Secretary Gage's First Job.

The first job Secretary Gage had was as clerk in a wholesale grocery house that made a specialty of flour. He had to load the barrels of flour on the delivery wagons. He developed great lifting muscles and today probably is as strong as any other man in public life in Washington, unless it should be Senator Heitfield, who is a giant. A few days ago Secretary Gage was walking down Pennsylvania avenue with some friends. Two men were loading barrels of flour on a wagon. "I used to do that," said the secretary. He stopped and lifted a barrel and placed it on the wagon, and he did it easily and expeditiously, to the great astonishment of the loaders. No one else in the party could get a barrel higher than his knees.

The Dear Things Make Baskets.

The latest craze among fashionable women in New York is basket making. It has entirely supplanted lacemaking, bookbinding, leather work and some kindred occupations which but a short time ago were so popular. All the up-to-date girls are either making baskets or talking about—generally both, of course. Some excuse themselves by saying they are learning how in order to "teach the poor," others simply take up the art because it is the novelty of the hour and is considered "the" thing to do.

The King's Off-Doffed Hat.

When "progressing" through the streets to perform some ceremony, King Edward takes off his hat on an average twelve times a minute, that is the almost incredible number of 700 times an hour. The king requires a new brim to his hat every fortnight. Being very economical in his headgear, he does not buy a new hat every time the brim requires renewing.

A Lesson in Actresses' Lines.

"It seems to me that stage struck girls who think life behind the footlights is one round of pleasure, might learn something from studying the photographs of celebrated actresses," said a noted Eastern photographer who caters to the theatrical profession. "The actresses who are always smiling and looking frivolous in their pictures are almost invariably of minor importance. Even Lillian Russell, who has for years posed as a professional beauty, is seldom photographed smiling. There is a sadness in the expressions of most of the great actresses that even the camera can not overcome. Duse, Bernhardt and Ellen Terry, to mention three foreign artists from three different countries, are never smiling in their photographs. Julia Marlowe wears a perpetual frown, and Fanny Davenport's mouth had a droop that suggested weariness and care. I might also mention Ada Rehan, Annie Russell, Julia Arthur, Minnie Maddern Fiske and a host of others to illustrate my point that the famous women of the stage look far from being happy."

Odd Mission on the Side.

There is a new Philadelphia restaurant that is unique. In addition to catering to the wants of the inner man, it aims to provide a club for servant girls on their Thursday afternoons out. The proprietress has had a lot of handbills printed calling attention to the fact that her restaurant "is for a good purpose and is much needed, for it is grand of itself, for our young ladies and gentlemen." An extract from this circular that is worthy of preservation as a literary curiosity is as follows: "Let us Notice that there are same one at service in this city, and especially Up-Town, who have no certain place in disagreeable weather, to spend their Thursday Afternoon, when absent from their occupation. Such persons and others like-wise can have the use of my Sitting Room, where they can read or sing, and enjoy themselves, while the beautiful Piano Music will be heard during our supper. No charge to sit and enjoy yourself until you are ready to return at the proper hour to your occupation."

A Versatile Auctioneer.

Mr. Henry Lumley, the well-known London auctioneer, who died recently, was a man of varied tastes and considerable attainments. In spite of the cares of a large business, he found time to dabble in literature, and produced several clever stories, besides a novel or two. He planned the water supply of Jerusalem, and invented a new kind of ship's rudder, which in one case at least proved of remarkable utility. It is constructed on the principle of a fish's tail, having a curling-up movement simultaneously with the movement from side to side.

Free Bread and Milk for Children.

The distribution of bread and milk among children up to six years of age has been inaugurated in Budapest. The distribution takes place morning and evening in a by street. The milk is first boiled in four large boilers, whence it runs into a cooling apparatus. Fifty children are allowed to enter at a time, while the others wait for their turn in a neighboring Warmestube, another charitable institution.

A Straight Talk.

It has long been the custom for big stores, who send a buyer to the big wholesale markets, to give a brilliant recital of their adventures in "the busy marts of men," however that is not our purpose at this time. Our's is simply a case of neighbor talking to neighbor. Every one who reads this, perhaps, knows us and knows our business method. We buy our goods for cash and buy in the best markets. Our Mr. A. C. Schreiner has just returned from St. Louis, where he bought a big spring stock for our stores. He knew what the people in this section wanted and he bought for our trade. He found the market in a condition that he could buy right, and he bought heavily. The goods are fine quality, late styles, good honest articles that will be sold at living prices.

Mr. Schreiner, while in St. Louis, also bought a very fine stock of Millinery, and secured the services of Miss Helen Cooke, the expert St. Louis trimmer, who had charge of our millinery department during the fall and winter season. Our Spring Opening, the date of which will be made known soon, will be an affair of the kind, the like of which Kerrville has not heretofore had.

The new goods for every department will begin to arrive now in a day or two and we invite you to come and see them. We have no fire sale story, or hot air blast to tell, simply a straight business talk to introduce our spring goods—the main argument will be made by Messrs. Price and Quality.

Yours truly,
CHAS. SCHREINER CO.

Plenle.

Last Sunday was a perfect spring day and a party of young people spent the day on the river near the beautiful home of Esch-riff Frank Moore. The party was composed of Misses Alice Lockett, Bertie Stewart, Amy Vann, Tina Gardner, Jessie Hughes, Annie Hadden, Clara Herzog, Rosa Enderle; Messrs. Elgin Brailey, Henry Cravey, Don Hodges, Howard Keck, Chas. Kyle, Joe Gardner, Louis Enderle and D. H. Hughes. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Lockett. An elegant lunch was spread and greatly enjoyed by all. Messrs. Keck and Kyle had their mandolins with them and treated the company to some excellent music, which was much appreciated.

Good Customers.

Friend—"How is that?"

Horse Dealer—"Why, when we see a fellow advertising for a wife we know he's a good thing to stick on a horse!"—From Puck.

Look 27 Years.

A letter mailed in 1874 in the Metropolitan hotel, Chicago, which used to stand at State and Washington streets, has just been delivered at the Palmer house. This journey of two blocks was made in the remarkable time of 27 years and four months, and the post office officials have no explanation to give concerning the matter. They say, however, that the time taken for transmission wins the prize in the slow race, and that is something.

Public Notice.

The Raw Recruit.

General Hughes, who recently returned from the Philippines, tells a story about an Irish volunteer private, who was acting as guard over a captured Spanish storehouse, and had received orders to pass no one without a special order from the provost marshal of Manila. General Hughes was provost marshal at the time, and when he drew near the storehouse he found his stomach very close to a triangular Springfield bayonet and heard in rich Milesian brogue:

"Halt! If yez come a step furdher I'll jam this inter yez!"

"Why not?" asked the General.

"Niver moiad," said the private.

"I know me orders. 'Tis a pass yez must have from the provost marshal."

"Well, I'm the provost marshal," said General Hughes.

"'Tis I that don't care if yez be the President. Divil a foot ye'll sit inside there till yez show me yer pass." The general drew out a blankbook and scribbled a pass.

The private surveyed it and passed General Hughes with the remark:

"Why didn't yez do that with out all this palaver?"

New Work for Women.

"A new industry has opened up for the gentlemoan in reduced circumstances," said an Eastern society leader the other day. "I know at least one woman who has taken advantage of it, and I don't see why there should not be a lot more. I suppose you might call them house cleaning contractors. The idea is that a lot of women who have large establishments do not care to be bothered with the supervision of house cleaning, so they give out the contract for having this done. The woman I know who has gone into this business is a widow, whose husband lost his money and then in considerably died. She had always moved in good society, had a positive genius for household affairs and was blessed with a host of friends. So when her reverses came she conceived the idea of supervising the household details of other people, and she now has any number of clients, for I dare say you might call them such. She has a force of women working for her and makes out very well indeed."

Alcohol As Fuel.

The recent competition at the Grand palais in the Champs Elysees, Paris, has shown that alcohol can hold its own against petroleum generally and coal itself in some cases, as an economical source of light, heat and motive power. All kinds of motors, both stationary and portable, were shown working with alcohol in the same manner as they might have been by petroleum; and in the various systems of lighting alcohol affords the same intensity, while for domestic warming and industrial firing it possesses over coal and petroleum the great advantage of being clean, of burning without smoke or smell, and of not fouling the appliances. At the present prices in France, from 50 to 60 cents per litre (.55 of a gallon, debased alcohol, mixed with a caloric power, is practically on a par with petroleum; and M. Sabatier asserts in the Matin that the price might be reduced to that reigning in Germany, or by more than 50 per cent.

Appianded His Prayer in Advance.

At a recent sectarian convention in New York the chairman of the evening arose and said: "The Rev. Dr. Blank will now—" but at the mention of the doctor's name a tumult of applause drowned the speaker's voice. The reverend gentleman stood gravel waiting until the noise subsided. "Now let us pray," he said.
