GOV. CURRY REPORTED SAFE

Chased Into Jungle When Attacked by Treacherous Puljananes—Many Are Killed in Fray.

Manila, March 27. — Governor Curry of Samar, supposed to have been massacred by natives of Samar, is safe and sound, and reports to the government as follows:

"I had a hard fight in which Captain Jones lost half of his command, but gained magnificent victory against the greatest odds. The Puljananes, fired and attacked us while under a flag of truce we were arranging for them to surrender. With the assistance of the federal troops we will be able to exterminate the fugitives. The natives of Samar are in active sympathy with us. Judge Lobinger and other Americans are safe."

General Wood has dispatched the regulars to aid the constabulary in quelling the trouble in Samar.

Saturday morning four chiefs of the Puljananes, with over 100 men and fourteen guns appeared at Magtaor and lined up in front of the constabulary barracks. Between the barracks and the Puljananes stood the group of American officials.

One of the chiefs expressed a wish that his party be photographed in the act of surrendering and superintendent Hoover, in compliance with the request, was adjusting his camera when the Puljananes leader blew a whistle and gave an order to advance. The entire party of natives thereupon rushed upon the American officers, who escaped to the Magtaor river and swam to the opposite bank. When the treachery of the natives was apparent the constabulary immediately opened fire and a fierce fight ensued, in which the constabulary gained a decisive victory. The Puljananes were chased to the mountains, but the pursuers lost more guns than they captured.

BODY IN TRUNK.

California Baggage Agent Makes a Horrible Discovery.

Stockton, Cal., March 27.—The baggage man at the Southern Pacific station last night discovered the remains of a man about 38 years of age jammed into a large trunk. Officers who have been working on the case assert that the man was placed in the trunk while yet alive.

Developments today show that the dead man was Albert N. McVicar, who has been employed as timberman in the Rawhide mine at Jamestown. The police are now endeavoring to locate Mrs. McVicar, who was in the city with her husband.

TWO YOUNG WOMEN ARE CRUELLY KILLED

ATTACKED AND KILLED IN A BUGGY—ONE STABBED AND THE OTHER SHOT.

Runge, Texas, March 25.—Meager details of a bloody tragedy which was enacted near Couch, eight miles south of here, about midday today, have just been received. Enraged by jealousy, a Mexican overtook or met two young women in a buggy in the road. The vehicle contained the young women and a little boy.

The man climbed up on the rear of the buggy and cut the throat of one of the women, causing instant death. The horse became frightened and began to run, whereupon he pulled his revolver, placed the muzzle at the back of the head of the other woman and fired, also causing instant death. He then took a shot at the boy, but missed. The two dead women are daughters of Alexander McHaney, a well-to-do citizen of this county.

Officers are after the man, but have not yet found him, so far as known.

DETAILS OF THE TRAGEDY.

Alexander McHaney was here this morning making arrangements for the burial of his two daughters whose tragic death occurred yesterday. Mr. McHaney's statement is as follows:

His two daughters, Martha, aged 26, and Ada 14, left home Sunday morning in a buggy, accompanied by a 4-year-old son of the former. This little fellow was the only eye witness to the affair, but he told a remarkably straight story, the same being corroborated by all the circumstances. While traveling along the road Ramon Campos mounted the rear of the buggy and cut the elder woman's throat with a razor. The woman fell out of the buggy, dead. The other girl either jumped, or was dragged from the vehicle and shot in the back of the head, death ensuing at once. In the meantime the horse continued its course down the road with only the little boy in the buggy. The horse was finally stopped by a Mexican woman, when the boy, who was bloody almost beyond recognition, told what had happened. The bodies were found within a few steps of each other and the razor was also found on the scene. McHaney says there are two bullet holes in the buggy. He also said his elder daughter had been receiving attentions from Campos. A coolness had sprung up between them and Campos was desperate through jealousy.

McHaney is of Indian descent, is a tenant on the farm of M. P. Schorre, six miles south of Runge, and is an industrious and law-abiding man.

The arrest of Campos was effected about 10 o'clock last night near Runge by a cousin of the dead woman, Robert Rutledge, and his son. Campos had his pistol in his hand at the time, but the surprise was complete and the arrest made with but little trouble. Campos made a full confession.

Killed By a Medicine Sample.

Kokomo, Ind., March 26.—This morning Mrs. John Jefferson swallowed a supposed headache powder that had been thrown on her porch as an advertising sample. It proved to be poison and the woman died in a few minutes.

LUDWIG MAHNCKE DEAD

EX-PARK COMMISSIONER OF SAN ANTONIO PASSED AWAY TUESDAY MORNING.

San Antonio, Texas, March 28.—Ludwig Mahneke died Tuesday morning, 17th inst., at seven minutes past 12 o'clock after an illness of two weeks. He had been in a critical condition for the past two days, but was reported better Monday evening, and it was hoped he was on the road to recovery. He was surrounded by Mrs. Mahneke, his wife; his son-in-law, Joseph Deutz, and his daughter, Anna and Drs. D. Berry and Adolph Herff, who have attended him during his illness.

Mr. Mahneke was 60 years of age, a native of Mecklenberg, Germany. His illness began with a slight cold, which gradually developed into la grippe. He would not remain at home nor go to bed, however, and only a week before his death was at the hotel, although he was then suffering with a headache and cold. He became suddenly ill the last night he spent in the lobby of the hotel, and could not be taken home, but was moved to a room of the hotel. There his cold developed rapidly into pneumonia. His only children were two girls. The elder married Max Becker, who is at present secretary to the Police and Fire Commission. She died several years ago. The younger is Mrs. Joseph Deutz, the wife of a prosperous hardware dealer of San Luis Potosi. Each of his daughters have two children.

Mr. Mahneke was best known in San Antonio as Park Commissioner. He was always very much interested in landscape gardening and parks. Under one of Mayor Callaghan's previous administrations Mr. Mahneke was elected alderman, and on account of his interest in parks was given chairmanship of the Committee on Parks and Plazas. This office he held until Mayor Hicks' administration, when the salaried office of Park Commissioner was created. This office he filled continuously until he resigned a few months ago.

Mr. Mahneke was a strong man, both mentally and physically. He was a perfect friend. His smile, jovial manner, and genuine interest and sympathy in all with whom he came in contact made him thousands of friends.

In the city of San Antonio Ludwig Mahneke was perhaps best known as Park Commissioner, and in that capacity he left such beautiful evidence of his life work as few men are permitted to leave behind when they pass over the dark river. In the attractive parks and plazas of the Alamo City he left a monument that will cause thousands to hold him in grateful remembrance.

But it was as proprietor of the Mahneke Hotel that his great and generous heart, his kindly bearing and courteous regard for all won him friends by the score. Sincere grief will be felt by thousands throughout the entire country, who as guests of the Mahneke Hotel have and felt his friendly hand-clasp seen his genial, happy smile. These will unite in saying: He was a grand and goodly man—one of nature's noblemen. Peace be to his ashes.

Wireless Telegraphy.

Washington, March 27.—Under the direction of Rear Admiral Cowles, careful experiments were made recently for ten days in sending wireless dispatches between stations at Guantanamo, Cuba, Key West and Pensacola, Fla., and Colon, Panama. Seventy-five per cent of the messages were successful and the rate of success was much higher with night messages than with those sent in day time.

NEGROES HANGED FOR ASSAULT.

This Time it is in New Jersey—Terrible Crime Avenged.

Mount Holly, N. J., March 24 — Rufus Johnson and George Small, both colored, were hanged here today at 10:10 o'clock. Their crime was the assaulting and killing of Miss Florence W. Allison near Moorestown, N. J., on January 18.

Miss Allison lived in a small cottage on the Strawbridge farm, her only companion being a little girl whom she adopted. Her body was found in the barn, where there were evidences of a terrible struggle. Her head had been crushed by a blow with a club, and a strap from a horse blanket was bound tightly around her neck. Johnson was first convicted, and afterwards reprieved in order that he might testify at Small's trial.

Minister Learns Stone Cutting.

Rev. J. A. Dixon, pastor of the Methodist church in Hardwick, Vt., in order to get acquainted with the laborers of the village, and thereby be better enabled to reach them through the pulpit, has donned the apron of a stonecutter and with mallet and hammer is learning the trade of granite cutter in the shops of the largest concern in the village. Previous to entering the ministry Mr. Dixon was a sailor. He begins at the bottom, doing only the very simplest of work, but expresses the hope that some day he may be competent to do fine lettering and carving.

Doctors Are Puzzled.

The remarkable recovery of Kenneth Melver, of Vanceboro, Me., is the subject of much interest to medical fraternity and a wide circle of friends. He says of his case: "Owing to severe inflammation of the throat and congestion of the lungs, three doctors gave me up to die, when, as a last resort, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and I am happy to say, it saved my life." Cures the worst coughs and Colds, Bronchitis, Tonsillitis, weak lungs, hoarseness and La Grippe. Guaranteed at the Rock Drug Store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Punctured His Own Boom.

Friends of Congressman Halvor Steenerson, of Crookston Minn., started an experimental gubernatorial boom for him. On hearing of the matter Mr. Steenerson punctured the boom in this unequivocal fashion: "I am not a candidate for governor, and I would not accept the place in exchange for my seat in congress. I like the congressional field, which is less circumscribed than the governorship, as it deals with national affairs."

Monument to a Cook.

Residents of Nice are about to erect a statue in memory of Nebain Dubois, who for many years was chief cook to the kaiser's grandfather, King William of Prussia, receiving a salary of $75,000 a year. As soon as the Franco-Prussian war was declared he resigned to fight against his former employer.

NOTICE OF FINAL ACCOUNT.
No. 225.

THE STATE OF TEXAS,

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Kerr County, Greeting:

G. P. McCorkle, administrator of the estate of Pharabie Hollaway, deceased, having filed in our County Court his final account of the condition of the estate of said Pharabie Hollaway, together with an application to be discharged from said administration. You are hereby commanded, that by publication of this Writ for twenty days in a newspaper regularly published in the county of Kerr, you give due notice to all persons interested in the account for final settlement of said estate, to file their objections thereto, if any they have, on or before the April Term, 1906, of said County Court, commencing and to be holden at the court house of said county, in the city of Kerrville, on the first Monday in April, 1906, when said account and application will be considered by said court.

Witness J. M. HAMILTON, Clerk of the County Court of Kerr County, Given under my hand and seal of said court, at my office, in the city of Kerrville, this 8th day of March, 1906.

Snubbed Our Carrie.

Carrie Nation was in St. Louis the other day on her way to fill a lecture engagement. Hearing that Miss Phoebe Couzins, the noted woman suffragist, was at one of the hotels here, Mrs. Nation called and sent up her card. Miss Couzins told the bellboy: "I do not want either to see or talk with Mrs. Nation." Carrie departed in triumph saying Miss Couzins was afraid of an interview. The latter dryly coincided in this view on hearing of the saloon smasher's remark.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.
THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Kerr County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon the unknown heirs of Joseph S. Anderson by making publication of this Citation once in each week for eight consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Kerr County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Kerrville on the 3rd Monday in June, 1906, the same being the 18th day of June, 1906, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 5th day of March, 1906, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 670, wherein M. G. Lowry is plaintiff, and the unknown heirs of Joseph S. Anderson, are defendants, and said petition alleging that plaintiff is the owner of 320 acres of land situated in Kerr County, Texas, known as survey No. 141, in section No. 12 on the Guadalupe river, about 55 miles N W from the city of San Antonio, originally granted to Joseph S. Anderson, and bounded as follows: Beginning at a cypress 5 in. in dia., on the lower bank of the river, for the lower corner of survey No. 140 and the upper corner of this survey, from which a cypress 12 in. in dia. brs. THE bill prohibiting e. o. d. shipments into prohibition states has small chance, as the Republicans expect campaign contributions from brewers and distillers.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN is accredited with having once defined law as "the last guess of the Supreme Court," but some wicked people are likely to call the Texas election law the last guess of the Texas legislature. They are guessing now. What do you guess they will guess?

The late S. H. Hadley, of the Water street mission, New York, said: "If a man cheats me nineteen times I shame him out by trusting him the twentieth." He announced his services in the papers as "Everybody welcome—drunkards especially." He had a sublime faith in humanity.

PROFESSOR FOSTER's book against the authority of the Christian religion is full of big words. He says: "The ideal of naturalism is the mathematico-mechanical calculability of all natural connections and sequences, the remainderless rationalization of reality, the transparency and explicability to the intellect of all that is and takes place." The Bible need not fear such wind-bag words. Contrast these polysyllables with Scripture monosyllables, "The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God."

Secretary of War Taft appeared before the Senate committee on army affairs Tuesday and made a strong argument in favor of inserting in the army appropriation bill a provision appropriating $110,000 for the purchase of an eighteen-thousand acre target range near San Antonio.

The snow blockade which has existed uninterruptedly on the Southern line of the Denver and Rio Grand railroad since March 11, was broken by the arrival in Durango, Colorado, of a through train from Denver. After being snow-bound for twelve days on the lofty summit of Cumbers Pass, fifty miles from the nearest town, a trainload of fifty passengers arrived in Alamosa.

Of the 105 counties in Kansas forty-four are without a pauper, twenty-five have no poor houses, thirty-seven have not a single occupant in jail, and thirty-seven have not a criminal case on docket. In what but a prohibition state could such a record be made?—Kansas City Journal.

No prohibition state even, could make such a creditable showing as this except Kansas. It is very probable that most of those favored counties lie in Southwest Kansas, where no building material has been found with sufficient staying qualities to withstand the cyclones. Other counties probably lie along the Oklahoma line, where the population shifts so much from its unsavory reputation that even the women's hats won't stay on.

Card of Thanks.

We sincerely thank the kind friends who gave us their assistance and sympathy during the illness and death of our little son.
MR. AND MRS. CHAS. LEINWEBER.

Death of a Child.

On the 27th of March, 1906, the death angel entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Leinweber and took from them their darling baby boy, after an illness of six weeks.

Although little Louie was only 1 year, 10 months and 27 days old, yet he had entwined himself about the heart-strings of his parents and other loved ones as only a precious darling baby can.

His little body was laid to rest March 28th in Glen Rest cemetery, Rev. J. King conducting the funeral. Dear brother and sister, little Louie is gone, but you can feel that, although

A precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled;
God, in his wisdom, has recalled
The boy his love had given,
Although his body slumbers now,
His soul is safe in heaven.
HIS AUNT.

Died.

The six-year-old son of Mrs. Jennie Limberger, died at the home of its mother in this city Tuesday. The funeral took place on the following day. Interment was made at the private burying ground of Mrs. B. F. Harris, near Kerrville.

FUNNY THINGS

FROM THE PAPERS.

A young Michigan doctor has made the discovery that the ankle is placed between the foot and the knee in order to keep the calf away from the corn.—Ex.

A Chinaman editing a Chinese paper in San Francisco makes the following statement concerning whisky vs. opium: "Whisky raises the passions which transform a man into a beast, and he goes home to kick his wife; opium changes the man to a living corpse and when he goes home his wife kicks him."

The spring style of headgear for women is out. We saw it on the street this morning. It consists of a sort of two-story hens nest with an owl's eyebrow on one side the caudal appendage of a cross-eyed bandy rooster on the other, and a few festooned persimmons forming a picturesque background.—Baltimore Herald.

The editor of a country paper recently apologized to his readers for the lack of news somewhat after the following fashion: "We expected to have both a death and a marriage to announce this week; but a violent storm prevented the wedding and the doctor himself having been taken ill his patient recovered and we were accordingly cheated out of both."

The following incident is recited by the Western Publisher: "It is told that a woman on a windy day had hard work keeping her hat on her head, and used both hands to hold it on, letting her skirts fly. 'Madam,' said the man 'your skirts are above your knees.' 'I don't care if they are,' said the woman. 'I've had these legs for forty years and the wind has never blown them away yet, but I just bought this hat for $18, and I don't intend to lose it.'"

Look at the condition of the working man today; where is he? The tinner is continually going up the spout; the plumbers are always in the gutter; the paper hangers are up against the wall; bakers are compelled to raise the dough; the policeman has to be on the beat to live; the shoe makers have to work on the uppers and get waxed in the end; the clock makers run on tick and are never on time; the wash woman is always in soak and she is the only one you see hanging out on the line.

Why He Was Happy.

He was one of the happiest kids in town. He stood in front of his home and grinned enthusiastically as he saw the others unwillingly wending their way toward school.

"Come on, Harold," shouted a verbal of the boys.

"Not on your life," answered the rejoicing Harold. "No school for me today. I am going to stay home."

"What's the matter? Sick?"

"No."

"Your ma sick?"

"No."

"Well, why?"

"Oh, 'cause. You see, my gran'ma's come to spend the day with mamma, and gran'ma she's awful hard o' hearin'. Mamma's got a cold on her chest and in her neck, and she can't talk loud enough for gran'ma to hear what she says, so I've got to stay home to tell gran'ma what mamma says.—Indianapolis News.

In a chase after a mad dog in Fort Scott, Kan., the city editor of a local paper "was accidentally shot in the pants," says an exchange. If the dog had been shot in the same place, all would have been well.

Be sure to agree with the girl's father's politics, said the experienced man giving hints to the young lover. That night, after he had enjoyed the young lady's society for an hour, her father came in and the youth started conversation by asking: "What is your opinion of the Eastern question?"

"I am in favor of the open door policy," said the old gentleman stiffly, "and this is your hat I believe."

A New York paper has found a lawyer who tells a story of being called upon by a Kansas farmer to bring a suit for damages against a railroad company because his old brindle cow had been run over during the night. On questioning him the lawyer could not find a single peg upon which he could legitimately hang a case. "Well," he said, "I kinder thought ye could fetch it on the sign bein' down. They wan't no sign, 'Look Out for the cars,' so I thought, melbbe, ye could git 'em on that."—Ex.

A gentleman in a strange city, desiring the advice of a lawyer, entered one day an office on the door of which he read the name: "A. Swindle, Attorney at Law." After receiving excellent counsel he ventured to say to the lawyer: "You, sir, are a splendid type of man, and why do you place yourself open to ridicule by wording your sign as you have done? Why not put the first name in full?" "I would, indeed," simply replied the lawyer, "were not my first name Adam!"—Lippincott's.

A young man fell in love with a pretty German girl and sent a note proposing a place of meeting. He wrote: "That my darling may make no mistake, remember I will wear a light pair of trousers and a dark cutaway coat. In my right hand I will carry a cane and in my left a cigar. Yours ever, Jake." The girl's father got hold of the note and sent this answer: "Dot mine son makes no misdakes, I will be dreshed in mine shirt sleeves. I vill wear in my right hand a club. In mine left hand I vill wear a six shooter. You vill recognize me by de vay I bats you on de head a goaple times twice mid de club. Vait for me at de corner, as I have somedings important to inform you mit. Your frent, Henrich Muller." The young man didn't keep the appointment.

Down in Izzard county, darkest Arkansaw, they do things up brown, says Bent Murdock. An editor called a member of the legislature a "lop eared liar" and the member went into the office to lick the editor. After a minute's conversation the editor man threw the "lop eared liar" out of the window onto a shed roof, which was rotten and the legislature man fell through to the porch below, lighting on a sleeping dog. At this moment the owner of the dog, hearing a commotion, rushed around the corner very mad. It is not safe to kick an Izzard county dog, so the owner of the dog kicked the "lop eared liar" off the porch into a convenient horse trough. About this time the member of the legislature concluded that he was a lop eared idiot and went home.

To Breeders:

The only reason why Texas stock of all kinds are not equal to any on earth is because sufficient care is not taken in breeding; especially is this true in regard to horses and mules to the breeding of which the climatic conditions of Texas and particularly this section of the State are peculiarly adapted. Always breed to the best animals available.

VIDETTE

Vidette, a fine Hambletonian stallion, 16-1 hands, weighing 1200 lbs. perfect in every characteristic, will make season at Elm Mound Farm 2 northwest Cen'r Pt.

No Breeder in Kerr county is more interested in the improvement of horses and mules than am I. To this end I have imported these animals and offer their services to the farmers and ranchmen of this section strictly on the merits of the animals

American "Victims."

Some of the wealthiest citizens in the United States will be highly edified by the private letters in which their characters were discussed by the promoters of the gilded society book that was heralded under the name of "Fads and Fancies." General So-and-So "is a very pompous and vain man, very rich, and I think can be captured." Certain eminent names in Boston are suggested at "good victims." Another rich New Yorker was set down as "rich and vain." All of which is coming out into the cruel light of publicity in the libel suit of Colonel Mann, of Town Topics, against the owners of Collier's weekly. Vanity doesn't seem to be on the decline, particularly in America.

A FORTUNE AFLOAT.

MORE than once the happy girl had taken on an air of sadness as she asked where the necessary money would come from to prepare her trousseau, and was always cheerfully assured that it would be forthcoming. The girl knew of but one resource left to them. A diamond brooch had descended to Mrs. McDonald through two or three generations, highly prized and fondly kept as an heirloom. It was finally agreed that they would part with it for a time as security for a loan. On the evening that Mazont Schlatter, the pawn broker, was to call, after having the precious jewel ready for inspection, they were looking over a number of carefully kept mementoes, when Grace asked her mother if she had ever critically examined the papers contained in her little old toy trunk, reminding her that her father had said they might some day be of great value to them. Mrs. McDonald said that she had, but was not able to understand anything about them. Grace suggested that they be submitted to Frank Little for inspection, and the mother readily assented.

At the appointed hour the pawn broker arrived, examined the jewel critically, and told them that he was not willing to risk more than half the amount she had named on it. He was told that they would call on him if they should decide to accept that amount, and departed. As the door closed behind him, Grace languidly seated herself and said:

"Oh, mother, what shall we do! Our little earnings are consumed by actual necessities, and our only hope of raising money is blasted."

Just as Mrs. McDonald seated herself beside Grace and wiped a tear from her eye, there was another knock at the door. When it was opened Mrs. Miller, the landlady, hurriedly entered and excitedly exclaimed:

"For goodness sake, Mrs. Mac, did you let old Schlatter have any of your jewelry? Why, bless your soul, woman, he'd swindle his own grandmother out of her burial robe!"

On being assured that the pawn broker had not secured any jewelry Mrs. Miller seated herself, and continued:

"I'm so glad, for I intended coming to see you on business myself tonight—something I've been thinking about for some time. I've always liked you, and I'm sure Gracie is the sweetest girl I've seen since my own Eva was taken from me. You've told me enough for me to understand something of the situation. Folks call me a miser and a skinflint because I've been careful and saving and have some money in the bank. Let 'em think so—it don't hurt me. I know I've got some heart left yet. I was so lonesome before you and Gracie came here, and now I feel like I was kin to you. Joe's the only child I've got now, and he's well fixed. I ain't no hand to meddle with other folks' business; but I know what you've told me, and a good deal without any telling—and just between us, you know, I want to help Gracie get ready for the wedding—nobody didn't have to tell me she's going to get married. I want to loan you whatever money is needed for the occasion. The good Lord has made her beautiful in person, she's made for herself a lovely character; she's going to have a noble husband—I've known Frank Little from a baby up. She must be fixed up right for the wedding. I don't want any note or security—we'll just make a memorandum of the amount, and if it's ever convenient for you to return it, well and good—if not, all right any way—I'll enjoy it as much as you. Now, Gracie, you'll let me be your friend this much, won't you, dear?"

As Mrs. Miller unfolded the full meaning of her visit, Grace sat as if dazed by some startling apparition, and as the old lady concluded her speech, the girl arose, grasped her hand, and choking with emotion, said, "Oh, Mrs. Miller, you are so good! I fear we can never repay your kindness."

"Don't you worry about the pay, child; you just go ahead with the fixings. Here is a check for three hundred dollars, and if that's not enough, don't be backward about letting me know it. Good night, and pleasant dreams." And Mrs. Miller was gone.

A flash of lightning from a clear sky could not have been more unexpected than was Mrs. Miller's timely proposition, for she had the reputation of being a close-fisted miser and a shrewd business woman. But it was like sunshine after the storm to the troubled mother and daughter, and doubtless their dreams were more pleasant than usual that night.

The following evening Frank called, and during his stay the papers were shown him and he was given a history of their miraculous preservation, and of the father's words concerning them. Frank promised to go over the documents with his uncle as soon as practicable and placed them in his pocket, when the conversation drifted to other subjects.

The following day Frank was unexpectedly hurried off on a business trip to a distant state, being absent for a fortnight. Meantime the preparations for the wedding proceeded, with no lack of friendly suggestions from Mrs. Miller. The evening of the day of his return found him seated with Grace in the neat little sitting room of the McDonalds. When the subject of their nuptials came up, he said:

"You have not yet given me your wishes in regard to the details of the marriage, and before you do I ask the privilege of offering a 'program' and making some suggestions myself."

"They will be gladly heard," said Grace, "for mother and Mrs. Miller have suggested many plans, but we are still at sea, and I feel sure your plan will be the very thing."

"My 'program' is this," said Frank, "and it is not altogether mine, for Uncle George and Aunt Sarah suggested the main points, and they are anxious to see it carried out. It will be necessary for me to take another trip to Europe, starting about the middle of September, and—"

"And how long will you be gone?" eagerly asked Grace, interrupting him.

"No matter how long, I will not be parted from my little sweetheart any more," soothingly answered Frank. "We will go to the church early in the evening, and in the presence of our friends have the ceremony performed, then to Uncle George's, where we will hold an informal reception, and the next day leave for New York, where we will take passage for Europe. We will tour the continent to some extent, and spend time enough in England to transact my uncle's business and investigate matters connected with the papers left by your father. Our mother will spend the time of our absence with uncle and aunt—they are delighted with that part of the program, and I can guarantee that they will make it pleasant for her. When we return we will 'set up housekeeping' with our good mother to keep us company. Now, dear, what do you say?" taking her hand and looking lovingly into her eyes.

"Perfectly delighted!" exclaimed Grace. "But oh, how I dread the sea. Is it absolutely necessary for you to go?"

"Yes, dear, absolutely necessary—and I could not think of leaving my little wife so soon after winning her. And then, on the great ocean steamers that make the trip in a few days instead of weeks and months, as it used to be. Now, wouldn't you be willing to risk it with me?"

"I will go if you do. If you should go down to the depths I would want to go with you," said Grace with a sigh.

The proposed 'program' was duly submitted to Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Miller, both of whom agreed that it was a happy solution of a perplexing problem; though Mrs. Miller said she wanted to see her old home rigged up with flowers and such things as were common on such occasions.

Occupied with preparations for the wedding, the few weeks sped rapidly away, while the town was filled with the usual gossip about such events. At the appointed time Grace was led to the altar by her proud groom. Surprised and somewhat confused by the great crowd, her flushed face, seen through a shadowy veil, added to her natural charm, and the general verdict was that no fairer bride had ever taken the solemn vow at that altar.

The trip to Europe was a most delightful one. Old ocean seemed disposed to make amends for the past, and the white-capped waves bowed a joyous welcome to their old-time friend.

The papers left by Luther McDonald clearly fixed the legal title to a large estate in his wife and daughter, and Frank found that his "little factory girl sweetheart" was in reality an heiress whose riches would have turned the heads of many a titled scion of royalty.

After their return home the success of Frank Little in establishing foreign claims was noised abroad, and in a few years his practice in this line had yielded large returns. His wife accompanied him on other trips to Europe, and had come to feel that old ocean was her friend, as the little toy trunk that was returned to her by the waves when the Minerva went down contained the documents which established the claim of herself and mother to great wealth, and even amid the tempestuous waves was a fortune afloat.

COUNTY JUDGE OWNS IT.

Waring-Fredericksburg Right of Way Is Hung Up as a Bonus.

Fredericksburg, Texas, March 23. The San Antonio Gazette of March 21 said that the Texas Railroad would run from San Antonio to Matagorda Bay and from Waring to Llano via Fredericksburg, and that John Sullivan, from Oklahoma, owned the grade from Fredericksburg to Waring. This is a mistake. The right of way, worth about $100,000, is decided to the County Judge of Gillespie County or his successors; but our people will give right of way and large bonus to any responsible party who will build the railroad. Several capitalists are figuring on building the line, but nothing definite.

Dangers of Prohibition.

A gentleman who lives near Austin, in a prohibition district, says he sent off the other day for some whiskey that was advertised in a magazine. On its arrival he took three drinks, walked down town, bought 10c worth of hot tamales, ate them, shuck and all, and next morning woke up three miles from home in a cotton pen. He says he believes the liquor is too fresh.—Austin News-Tribune.

ROYAL Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR BAKING POWDER

It makes the most delicious and healthful hot breads, biscuit and cake

FREE FROM ALUM, LIME OR PHOSPHATIC ACID

Alum baking powders are unhealthful. Do not use them for raising food under any circumstances. So detrimental are alum baking powders considered, that in most foreign countries their sale is prohibited. In many States in this country the law compels alum powders to be branded to show that they contain this dangerous acid, while in the District of Columbia, Congress has prohibited the sale of all food that contains alum.

Alum baking powders are sold to consumers at from 10 cents a pound to 25 ounces for 25 cents, or 25 cents a pound, and when not branded may generally be distinguished by their price.

JAPONICA FLASHES.

After presenting us with a variety and several new styles of weather, at last, right at her close, March assumes a lamblike mien. And now that spring is nearly here we desire to escape from the busv hum drum of our indoor work, and, assuming the role of a farmer, breathe the soft, mild atmosphere, and note the wonderful changes in progress on the face of Mother Nature.

The Grape Creek Farmers' Union had a meeting last Saturday, when, we are informed, the "proverbial goat" was successfully ridden by several who had asked to be admitted into the fold.

We have heard nothing from our Socialist friends or their club for some time. They should not grow weary. Many great revolutions have had small beginnings. Politics is a puzzle. The rascals are always in the saddle. So aver the unfortunates. Strange it is that patriotism should forever carry a black eye.

Judge Real and Commissioners Karger and Denton made a flying trip to the head of the river on the 20th inst. to inspect the new road in the Stower's pasture.

Uncle Pat Smith and wife of Johnson creek, visited their daughter, Mrs. J. R. Mayhugh, on the 21st inst.

Last Sunday the young people enjoyed a singing at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hope.

Miss Tillie Sublett is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Ed Sublett of Kerrville this week.

Mrs. Martha Hardin will leave in a few days for Travis county, where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. Ed Pearson.

HAPPY CENTER POINT.

Mr. Leonard Witt left Tuesday on an extended commercial trip to Bandera, Medina, Tarpley, Kerrville and Fredericksburg, representing the Center Point Roller Mills.

Mr. James Sellers brought to this office a ripe olive Monday, and knowing this scribe's fondness for that article, tempted us into eating one. Green persimmons are much better, and draw one's mouth far less.

Mr. Norman McLeod is here from Mississippi on a visit to his sister, Miss Ouida, and will remain several days. Miss Ouida will return with him and spend a few weeks.

Mr. W. D. C. Burney was a pleasant caller at this office Thursday of the present week.

Mr. W. E. Pafford was here on business Thursday.

After a year's sojourn in the northern part of the State, Mr. G. W. Hill has returned to Happy Center Point.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cason, of St. Louis, and their son Mack are visiting their daughters, Mrs. G. P., and H. T. McCorkle.

The big church bell tolled 88 times last Wednesday while the mortal remains of Grandma Emeline Coldwell were being placed in the last resting place, the grave. Her pastor has written the following tender words:

"Pale death, with impartial step, knocks at the cabin of the poor and the mansion of the rich." it enters into every habitation, as death, into every heart. It has been the dread and scourge of the world. For ages it was looked upon as the "King of Terrors"; it is generally considered the greatest evil. However, in the light of Divine love and goodness it is shorn of its terrors; the awful dissolution becomes a departure, and the going, the gate that leads to life—the passing from a lower into a higher state of existence.

Not unexpected was his coming to the home of Mr. Neal Coldwell. For some time his mother had been suffering more or less from ill's peculiar to her age. On last Friday she suddenly became alarmingly ill; on Saturday night her life was despaired of, but Sunday she rallied again, and on Monday was apparently better. A change for the worse came that night, and on Tuesday at 1 p. m. her terrestrial course was finished.

Mrs. Coldwell's maiden name was Emeline Moore. She was born in Hawkins county, Tennessee, October 24th, 1817, and at the time of her death was 88 years, 5 months and 3 days old. In 1830 she was married to Mr. Rufus Moore. To them was born one child, a girl. After his marriage Mr. Moore lived but a few years, and on November 14, 1841, his widow was married to Mr. Thomas Coldwell. To them were born four children: Mrs. Inez Reece, of Fresno, California; Mr. Neal Coldwell, of Center Point, Texas; Mrs. Clara Colvin, Douglas, Arizona, and Mrs. J. A. McFarland, of San Antonio, Texas. Mr. Coldwell died in California in 1852. In 1856 Mrs. Coldwell returned to Tennessee to educate her children, and in January, 1860, came to Kerr county, Texas. Her home was with her son, Capt. Neal Coldwell. The aged mother was full of life, possessing more than the average vigor and vitality of one who had lived almost four score and ten years. She was a Christian who patterned her life after the model of the Savior of men. She was prevented from the full enjoyment of the blessings that surrounded her in later years by a partial loss of hearing. But this did not change her naturally sweet and loving disposition. Her long residence in Kerr county gave her opportunities to become acquainted with a large number of people. Her genial disposition, winsome manners, gentleness, kindness and the desire to be helpful to others made her a welcome guest. The home life at Capt. Coldwell's is exceedingly pleasant, and in it no one received more honor than the beloved grandmother.

In early life she united with the Methodist church, and in 1873 with the Christian church. Since then, as before, she has been known by her works. We cannot think that she has passed entirely from us. In our minds and hearts she will remain, an ever pleasant blessing from the past.

"We cannot think that she is far. For near at hand the angels are, And when the sunset gates unbar, Shall we not see her waiting stand, And white beside the evening star, The welcome of her beckoning hand."

She fell asleep in the full assurance of hope. Whatever of shadows may have hovered over her at times, were dispelled by the light of God's love.

CHAUTAQUA NOTES.

Rev. Hugh Hoon, of San Antonio, and Rev. Brooks I. Dickey, of Karnes City, who are members of the Chautauqua Committee, were in Kerrville yesterday. They report the Chautauqua work going forward nicely.

Owing to the recent death of Mr. Mahneke, who had very kindly undertaken the supervision of the landscape gardening of the Chautauqua grounds, other arrangements will have to be made. This of course will delay the work somewhat, but operations along that line will begin in a few days, and be pushed to completion.

Some time in the latter part of May the grounds will be dedicated by a grand Sunday School rally and picnic. All the Presbyterian Sunday Schools of San Antonio, and any others who may desire to join the excursion, will spend a day at the Chautauqua grounds. The exact date of this entertainment has not been fixed, but will be made known soon.
