Two Lively Contests For County Offices Result in Favor of Incumbents. Fairly Full Vote Is Cast In All Boxes

THE USUAL ORDERLY ELECTION

Prevailed Through Kerr County. Not a Single Disturbance Of Any Kind Reported From Any Part of the County

Election day passed quietly in Kerr county. The usual orderly conduct of the people prevailed. Not a disturbance of any kind was reported. The day was exceptionally fine, even for this section and this season, when the days are always fine.

There were two contests for county offices, that of county judge and sheriff, both of which were won easily by the present incumbents who stood for re-election. In the race for county judge Wallace's majority over his opponent, J. L. Vining, is unofficially announced as 81. J. T. Moore was re-elected sheriff and tax collector over J. T. Ligon, by 188 majority.

The only change in the commissioners court of Kerr county is in the election of J. J. Denton, who defeated his opponent, J. M. Howell, for commissioner of precinct No. 4 by a majority of 8.

E. H. Turner was elected Justice of the Peace without opposition, and Henry Staudt defeated Frank Baker for constable by a majority of something like two to one.

The only other contest in which considerable interest was taken was the race for state senator between Senator Julius Ral and Carlos Bee. of San Antonio. Real's majority in the district is unofficially announced to be something over 100, and he is elected if the official count does not disclose an error in returns. Real's majority in this, his home county, was 115, Bee having carried three Center Point and Ingram. This is precincts in the county, Turtle Creek, the closest race in the district in many years, pluralities usually exceeding 1000.

THE SEASONS AND THE PEOPLE

Four times each year Nature changes her robes. In Spring the lace-like early blossoms and the tenderly clinging tendrils make a gay and gentle garb for the world. In Summer the rich, tall flowers and gorgeous fruits proclaim fruition. In Autumn the red and purple and gold disclose the royal robe of maturity and the kingship of the year. While winter puts on heavy clothing and the blossoms go back into the earth and the leaves fall to make a mantle for the daisies and the hyacinths. As the seasons change people change their garb. We keep up with the seasons. You can get what you want in style, texture and quality at our store, and feel assured that it is the latest and the best.

We have made a specialty of causing our store to be the Mecca of women buyers, and we extend a cordial invitation to the ladies and children to visit us.

DEMOCRACY TRIUMPHANT THE IN EAST

DEMOCRATS WIN LOWER HOUSE

Nobody Knocked Over Ropes in New York State. The Knockers Fell Out of Ring With Dull Thud In Empire State.

Connecticut, Baldwin, 35,000.
Massachusetts, Foss, 33,000.
New York, Dix, 66,000.
New Jersey, Wilson, 30,000.
Ohio, Harmon, 100,000.

No such Democratic landslide has occurred in recent years as that which befell Tuesday. In the north and east a veritable political revolution took place. The lower house of congress will have a Democratic majority of 20. Several seats in the Senate have been forfeited to Democrats by election of Democratic legislatures in doubtful states. Governor Judson Harmon swept his state with a majority of more than 60,000, and looms large on the political horizon for President in 1912.

There has been some question in late years as to whether the solid South still exist, but there is now no question as to the solid north and east.

Democratic leaders everywhere jubilate over outlook for a Democratic victory in the presidential campaign of 1912. Champ Clark of Missouri will be next speaker of the national house of representatives. In speaking of the situation since the election the Nestor of the Democratic party said:

"The first and greatest proposition the Democrats should stand for is a reduction in the tariff to a revenue basis. I would reduce it scientifically and gradually, and put into a sliding scale like the tariff bill in 1902."

"Democrats now have a golden opportunity for constructive statesmanship, and should seize it and demonstrate once more their fitness for legislating wisely and patriotically."

COMPLEXION OF CONGRESS CHANGED.

Complete returns of the election of Representatives in Congress indicate that the Democrats will have a good working majority of twenty-nine in the next House. The number of Democrats elected to Congress, according to the latest returns, which are of an unofficial character, is 225. The Republican representation will be 164 or 165, or eight seats less than the Democrats now have in the Sixty-first Congress.

TENNESSEE GOES REPUBLICAN

The only cause for sorrow in the Democratic ranks is the loss of Tennessee, which went Republican for governor by several thousand but will not show apparent change for other state offices. This apostasy from the true faith was due to a family quarrel in the party dating back several years, which is little more than house-cleaning preparatory to 1912. The chief lamentable feature of the Tennessee loss is that the noble and lovable Bob Taylor was caught in the maelstrom while trying to save the day, and was defeated for the governorship of the state that he has made famous in song and story.

TEXAS IS STILL SAFE.

As returns continue to come in from the forks of the creek, the saw mill camps and cattle ranges of the state, Colquitt's majority continues to mount into figures that make Terrell's pre-election statements look like sleeping on the ground and covering with a wet rope compared to a goose hair bed and home made blankets. Terrell has fallen far short of Simpson's vote two years ago, and the result would indicate the wisdom of Elbert Hubbard's advice, "wait until after an event to prophesy in regard to it."

The democratic party in the United States had suffered such overwhelming defeats for the last sixteen years that the partisans had in many sections, become lethargic, but this victory has put the scent of war into their nostrils and the lust of battle in their eyes, and the cry henceforth will be "on to victory in 1912."

AS USUAL MISSOURIAN MUST BE SHOWN.

A dispatch from St. Louis under date Nov. 9, says: The official count will probably be required to determine whether the Republicans or the Democrats carried Missouri for the State ticket in yesterday's election. The result is still in doubt with both sides claiming victory.

With only three-fourths of the precincts in the State heard from the anti-prohibition victory seems greater than at first reported. Indications now point to a majority in excess of 175,000 against the proposed amendment.

ALMOST PERSUADED.

In Iowa the county precincts saved the day for republicans, which looked from early returns very doubtful. The republican majority for governor of that state of 60,000 two years ago reduced to 16,402.

DEPEW'S SEAT TO BE OCCUPIED BY A DEMOCRAT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—With a safe Democratic majority assured in the next State Legislature, which will select a United States Senator political prophets are picking a probable successor to Chauncey M. Depew. Several candidates are expected to seek the position and in the opinion of political observers the race promises to be interesting.

Already the names of four men in New York City have been advanced as having performed party services meriting this reward. They are William F. Sheehan, Judge Alton B. Parker, Edward M. Shephard and John B. Stanchfield. In view of the fact that many of the changes which made Democratic control of the legislature possible, occurred up state it is considered certain that the claims of men residing outside of New York City will be advanced. So far, however, no names of up-State Democrats have been mentioned.

GET BUSY IN THE CENTENNIAL STATE.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 10.—Thirty-six hours after the close of the polls in Colorado returns were still incomplete owing to the enormous number of scratched ballots, but figures so far compiled point to the election of practically the entire Democratic state ticket and the three Democratic candidates for re-election in Congress.

Democratic headquarters claim the election of the entire state ticket, but republicans claim the election of Jas. E. Garrigus to the supreme court, Helen M. Vixen as state superintendent of schools and Anna Wolcott, a sister of the United States Senator Edward Wolcott as regent of the state university and these claims appear to be justified. The republicans also claim the election of Benj. Griffith, over John T. Barnett, for attorney general. The re-election of Governor John F. Shaffroth, Democrat, is conceded by the republicans. The democrats claim a majority of 18,000 for Shaffroth. In 1908 his majority was 12,000.

The next general assembly will be overwhelmingly democratic.

MEXICANS RESENT AZAS LYNCHING

Students in Mexico Cities Lead Mobs In Demonstration Against American Residents. Better Class Do Not Participate

NO AMERICANS ARE INJURED

Rioting Is Confined to Student Bodies and the Rabble Whom They Lead in Alleged Repudiation Of American Mob.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 9.—Through insults to the American flag and assaults made openly upon American citizens in the streets, the anti-American demonstration, which began last night with the stoning of the Mexican Herald office, developed into an affair of international importance.

A vigorous protest was registered by the American ambassador with the Mexican Department of Foreign Relations and at the same time the facts were telegraphed to Washington and instructions asked for.

Tonight the attacks were renewed. Windows in a dozen American business places were smashed. All about town shutters were hurriedly drawn and establishments closed. Forces of police appeared in the streets and kept the crowds moving.

An attack was made upon the plant of El Imparcial and the mailing and distributing departments on the ground floor were wrecked. For twenty minutes the mob battered at the heavy doors leading to the editorial and composing rooms above with heavy timbers and fired the wreckage. Then the mounted police charged with drawn swords. One of the attackers was run through and killed. The others fled. An alarm, turned in from the offices of the paper, brought the fire department to scene before the flames gained headway.

While the police looked on, and seemingly made no effort to prevent it, an American flag, floating in front of a candy store in the center of the business district was torn down this afternoon by a crowd of several hundred medical students and others, trampled and spat upon and torn to bits. Later photographs of the crowd were taken before the offices of the Diaro del Hogar, a Mexican newspaper, with many individuals waving bits of the tattered banner.

The demonstration today was a continuation of the attack of last night, caused by antipathy aroused among the people by the burning of the stake of Antonio Rodriguez at Rock Springs, Texas, on the night of November 3.

Publication of violent attacks upon Americans today by several Mexican papers tended to still further incense the medical students, who were the promoters of last night's demonstration.

THE SAD FEATURE.

In all wars, both of bullets and ballots, there is a pathetic vein as well as blare of trumpets and beat of drums. As in this case witness following telegram:

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 10.—

Approximately 4000 positions in Cook county, now held by republicans, will be handed over to democrats as a result of Tuesday's election.

"The newly elected officers feel that the people want a house-cleaning," said Jno. McCarthy, chairman of the democratic committee yesterday, "otherwise they would not have voted for the democratic nominees. It now becomes the duty of the new county officers to extend the house cleaning to every nook and corner of the county building without loss of time."

KERRVILLE, TEXAS

El Diaro del Hogar was particularly violent in its expressions of animosity toward the people of the United States, characterizing them as "giants of the dollar pyramids of culture and barbarous whites of the north," and asking, "Where is the boasted Yankee civilization?"

Shortly before noon the crowd assembled before the new Jaurez monument in the Alameda and proceeded to the municipal palace, where several of their number who were arrested last night were being examined by the authorities. A company of mounted police followed it.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 9.—This city resembled an armed camp tonight following an exciting day and evening of anti-American and anti-government demonstrations in the course of which an American flag was torn down and trampled upon, American citizens were assaulted or insulted in the streets, windows of a dozen American business places were shattered and an attempt was made to destroy the plant of El Imparcial, the leading Mexican daily, and the exponent of the government policies.

Quiet was restored only after squads of mounted police with drawn sabers had repeatedly charged the mob, killing three of the disturbers, roughly handling scores of others and arresting more than 200.

Late tonight companies of mounted police were stationed in every block and hundreds of gendarmes were patrolling the streets.

The demonstrations were confined to the business portions of the city, no disturbances having been reported in the residence districts.

An American, whose name could not be learned tonight, was reported to have been captured by the rioters, to have had his clothes torn from him and a beating administered.

Of the fatalities, one occurred in front of the offices of El Imparcial and two during a charge of police near the Alameda, a public park near the center of the city. The only explanation forthcoming of the attack upon El Imparcial was that political malcontents, fired by the student activities over the Texas lynching, seized upon the opportunity to wreak vengeance upon a government organ.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, Nov. 10.—For three hours tonight a mob of several hundred men and boys of the lower class, incited by the inflammatory speeches of students of some of the state schools, paraded the streets of this city in imitation of rioters in the national capital yesterday, in a manifestation against Americans and intended as a protest against the Rock Springs lynching.

Considerable property was damaged but so far as known no lives were lost. The city is practically under martial law, and it is believed the riot is well in the control of state and federal troops.

Police detachments and the Tenth Federal Cavalry are guarding the American consulate, where Consul Samuel McGill was threatened with violence. Four squadrons of the same troops are patrolling the American residence section and downtown police are guarding the American business houses.

Gen. Clemente Villanor, commander of the Fourth federal zone, together with the state government representatives, anticipated trouble early by calling out their entire armed forces.

In the absence of Governor Miguel Ahumada, who is ill, Manuel Cuesta Gallardo, who will be governor next year, has spent the day and night addressing different groups of men who are bent on making trouble for Americans.

The better class are keeping close to their houses.

Windows were broken by the mob in a dozen American business houses. The financial loss will be considerable. Commercial houses in the center of town are barricaded with shutters.

SEVEN DIE IN EXPLOSION.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 6.—Two explosions occurred within a few minutes of each other this morning and resulted in the death of twelve men in the Lawson mine at Black Diamond thirty miles southeast of Seattle.

Seven men going down on shift and five men coming up were caught between the first and sixth levels and it is almost certain that all perished. Natural gas combustion is assigned as the cause. All of the men were foreigners.

The force of the explosion was terrific, showers of earth, timbers and bits of clothing being blown up from the slope of the mine. Timbers sixteen inches thick and eight feet long were blown half a mile.

As far as known the sixteen men in the tram were the only ones in the mine at the time of the explosion.

The coal mines at Black Diamond are owned by the Pacific Coast Company.

Taft "Overflows" the Booth.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 8.—President Taft arrived here at 10:20 o'clock to cast his vote in his old precinct in the O'Brienville district of Cincinnati.

The president motored out to the voting place, an empty store at 2024 Madison Road, from his brother's residence. Only the usual loungers about the place where ballots were cast were on hand, and there was a faint ripple of applause as the President's car came to a standstill. Accompanied by three Secret Service men the President entered the store where the voting booths had been placed. The judges of election were idle when Mr. Taft arrived. He was ballot No. 15,232, and was voted No. 322 in the precinct.

The President then attempted to disappear in one of the rough board booths, over the front of which a short blue curtain dangled. The booth was not large, and one, however, dropping into the place, would have been quickly aware of the fact that that particular voting stall was fully occupied. Mr. Taft's silk hat lowered above the top of the partitions.

Entering the booth at 11:33 o'clock the President did not emerge until 11:37 o'clock. He then stepped to the ballot box.

"Your name, please?" inquired the presiding judge.

"Wm. H. Taft," responded the President.

Without further ceremony the ballots were deposited.

There was some talk that the President may have split the ticket as to some of the county officers, but this was due entirely to the length of time he spent in the voting booth and not to any declaration of such intent on his part.

SHERMAN LAW IS NOW UNDER FIRE

Final Contest in Sugar Case is on Supreme Court.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—A final contest over the interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law as a criminal measure began in earnest today in the United States Supreme Court.

Noted lawyers filed with the court a brief in support of the holding of the United States circuit court for the Southern District of New York that the statute of limitations prevented the prosecution of Gustave E. Kissel of New York under an indictment charging him, together with the American Sugar Refining Co. and others, with conspiracy to drive the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company out of business, in violation of the Sherman antitrust law.

The Federal Government had already filed a brief in support of the indictment. It was prepared by Solicitor General Bowers just before his death, but not submitted to the court until several weeks later. Oral argument of the case has been set for next Thursday.

Crippen's Wife Found?

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—That the woman supposed to be Belle Elmore Crippen, for whose murder Dr. Hawley Crippen is under sentence of death in London, has been under surveillance for the last five days, somewhere in the Middle West, was stated by the head of a private detective agency here today. He refused to state the place where he had located her, but said she could not be interviewed and gave the impression that she is being detained in a sanitarium.

"I will be able to tell by Thursday whether our clue amounts to anything or not," he said.

It is further declared that affidavits have been forwarded to Washington by persons who have seen Mrs. Crippen in this country and that the London authorities have been informed of the facts in the case.

Country Should be Thankful.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—The vigorous growth and progress of the country as reflected by the records of population and the general conditions of the international peace are things for which Thanksgiving is especially due for the year 1910, according to the annual Thanksgiving day proclamation issued by President Taft today. Thanksgiving day is Nov. 24.

Gilmore is plaintiff and William C. Kocher, Mary A. Kocher, Frantz Falder, Elizabeth Falder, James C. Thompson, Sallie C. Thompson, Vincent Terry, Mary C. Terry, Robert Lynn, Alice S. Terry, deceased, and the unknown heirs of Robert Lynn, deceased, and the unknown heirs of Alice S. Lynn, deceased, are defendants.

Plaintiff sues in trespass to try title to premises hereinafter described and to remove cloud therefrom, and alleges that on or about the first day of January, 1910, she owned in fee simple and was lawfully seized and possessed of 640 acres of land, situated on Privilege Creek in Kerr County, Texas, known as Survey No. 1327, made by virtue of Certificate No. 30, issued by Burr and Caswell and granted by the State of Texas, to defendant, Mary A. Kocher, by patent No. 513, Vol. 32, of date September 18, 1880. That on said first day of January, 1910, defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom, and unlawfully withheld from plaintiff the possession thereof to her damage One Hundred Dollars; that the reasonable annual rental value of said premises is One Hundred dollars. That the State of Texas by letters patent No. 513, Vol. 32, of date September 18, 1880, granted unto defendant Mary A. Kocher said above described premises. That said premises were by defendants William C. Kocher, and Mary A. That said premises were by defendants Robert Lynn and Alice S. Lynn, conveyed to plaintiff Amanda J. That plaintiff claims title to said premises by, through, and under said above described patent and deeds. That plaintiff is unable to state the source, nature, or evidence of defendants' claim to said premises, but says that defendants' present assertion of some character of interest and right in and to said premises adverse to plaintiff's title thereto, is a cloud upon plaintiff's said title and materially impairs the value thereof.

Plaintiff prays that defendants be cited by publication, as prescribed by law, to answer this petition, and on hearing that plaintiff have judgment against defendants and each of them for the title to said premises and possession and restitution thereof, and that plaintiff be quieted in her title to said premises and that all cloud by reason of defendants' said claim thereto be removed from plaintiff's title to said premises. AGGRAVATED IMAGINATION.

"We are all of us imaginative in some form or other, for images are the brood of desire."—George Elliot.

Kerrville is not a railway "common point?" Kerrville should be a "common point," and if the business men of the town are as wide awake and aggressive in their fight for it as they are in other matters, it shall be. Several weeks ago the Kerrville Business Men's Club petitioned the San Antonio & Aransas Pass railroad Company to make Kerrville a Texas common point. The head of the company replied to the petition that the head of the freight department would make an appointment to come to Kerrville and take the matter up with Business Men's Club. The appointment was made, and on Saturday night last General Freight agent J. C. Mangum came to Kerrville and met the business men for the purpose of discussing the matter.

The discussion was chiefly carried on by the distinguished visitor, who, early in his remarks informed the meeting that that their alleged grievance was a case of aggravated imagination, and that the deferential on inbound freight shipments, which he admitted would amount in the minimum to approximately $10,000 per year, would be of little benefit to them in the matter of meeting the competition of other towns that have the advantage of being common points. Upon its face the meeting appears to have accomplished very little for the business men, but it is to be remembered that oak trees grow from acorns. The business men have no intention whatever of abandoning the fight until the battle is won. Their cause is just, they are asking for no more than common fairness, and "right" has a habit of prevailing in the end.

There are a lot of people who will ask, what is a "common point?" There is quite a volume of rhetoric used by the agents and attorneys of railroad companies to explain the matter in such a way that the layman will not understand it when they have finished, but the whole story is that a common point is a place where sharp railroad competition exists, or else where the business men of the town are aggressive, wide awake for the interest of their community, and get fair treatment by fighting for it, just as most such things are gotten in this world of ours.

Now, this paper is not always aching for a chance to jump on to somebody or somebody. We have not a lot for attempting to walk on some acres service corporation every gust before breakfast, just for the joy of the thing.

We will be at the departments of KERRVILLE MOUNTAIN SUN, The Home

The Sun has never harshly criticized the San Antonio & Aransas Pass railroad but one time in the twelve years of the present management, and in that instance it was because an injustice had been done the people of Kerrville, our neighbors, the people who make a modern newspaper possible in this town. There is in this article, therefore, no intention of harsh personal criticism of Mr. Mangum. We fully realize that making every possible effort to hold on to differential freight rates is a large part of the service for which he draws a salary, and it is his duty to render good service to his employers. The facts in this case are that there was little else for him to say except that the business men of Kerrville merely imagined that the little matter of $8,000 or $10,000 annually would be of considerable value to them. Mr. Mangum did go on to say, however, that the chief reason why he would not recommend or consent to a waiver of the differential on the Kerrville branch, was that the railroad "needed the money." A somewhat trite expression, it is true, but none the less forcible. He also stated that this railroad has been operated at a loss almost continually for the last twenty years. At first blush one is nearly persuaded to vote the management of the road a Carnegie medal for heroic fortitude and persevering bravery in the hour of adversity. But wait a bit. When asked what constituted operating a railroad at a loss, Mr. Mangum said, "A railroad is operated at a loss when there is not a surplus left after all expense of operation, salaries, maintenance, improvements, extensions, etc., have been paid. The fact is that people don't lose money until they have it, and the management of the Sap railroad and their employees, and the bond holders of the road, are not the only people in the world who work and do not get any more than a living for their labors, who have no surplus at the end of the year over and above a living and expenses. The bondholders of the road are not the only investors in the world who have not realized as large a rate per cent on their investment as the "Dutchman's one per cent." All this twaddle is a striking object lesson in the theory that there is a pronounced difference between mere words and intelligent argument. If the enhancement in value of the Sap railroad property in the last twenty years does not represent by itself a profit on the investment, then is it indeed in a class by itself among Texas enterprises, and is perhaps the only property in the state that has not increased in value many fold during that time, unless it should be a "bee course" in a forest that has since become a "clearing."

Railroads and the people who reside in a country that is tributary to them have a mutual interest. The business men of Kerrville have realized this, and have asked very little of the railroad. We are reliably informed that a private citizen of this town practically built the last eighteen miles of the road. The business men of the town have been liberal in their expenditure of money in various publicity campaigns, all of which have also benefited the railroad. Our people have not had the habit of running to the Railroad Commission on every pitiful little pretext. We put up for years with a passenger depot that would have been a disgrace to Deadwood during the daring dashes of desperadoes in ancient days of Bill Cody and the stage coach, and in truth that depot is no paragon of beauty and luxury to-day. The town has borne with all these things, because the road "needed the money," but the Sap has almost reached its majority, and cannot much longer be considered an "infant industry." Kerrville has a large territory to the westward from which she draws her trade. Other railroads are building into that territory, and on those roads common points are being established. Merchants of those towns have the advantage of lower freight rates, and consequently the advantage of Kerrville merchants in the matter of competition. When the business men of Kerrville appealed to the Sap for relief from this differential, this tribute that the State of Texas allows railroads to collect from communities that either cannot or will not help themselves, they were curtly informed that their grievance was imaginary, an hallucination if you please. The representative of the railroad lost sight of the fact that, homely though the expression may be, "it is the fellow with the splinter in his toe that does the feeling." The business men of Kerrville are not visionaries. The men who were present at that meeting were fair representatives of the men who have labored the last quarter of a century to make Kerrville what it is today—one of the best towns on the entire Sap system. They know when they are hurt, and they know what they want and why they want it.

TO THE VICTOR THE SPOILS; TO THE VANQUISHED THE HONORS OF WAR.

Among men there is perhaps no nobler precept than that expressed in the head of this article. Since the dawn of civilization when men have striven together for a principle, it has been the custom that no man of gentle birth and human principle should strike a fallen foe. The "Father of our country" perpetrated the custom when upon surrender, he refused to take the sword of illustrious general, whom he respected, because he fought bravely for a principle in which he believed, and said to him, "To the victor the spoils; to the vanquished the honors of war." Even when men have met in some great internecine and sanguinary strife, wherein brother dyed his hands in brother's blood, and where the bitterness of love for a principle racked men's souls, and lips that had nursed the same breast commanded men upon opposing sides of the conflict. "The vanquished were allowed the honors of war." All through the ages the custom has prevailed. In the days of ancient Rome the victors would not permit the striking of a fallen foe. In the days of heraldry no true and noble knight would assail his unhorsed and overthrown foe. And so the principle has lived on, as principle of right, fairness and human justice shall continue to live, and today, as ever in civilized history, "To the victor the spoils, to the vanquished the honors of war."

The entire country, on Tuesday of this week, passed through a contest in which men struggled on opposing sides for principles. The political map of America was changed in a day. In local matters, of this great nation, wherein the great Democratic principle of the right of local self government prevails, men have contested for preferences, for principles and policies. The battles that were fought were only different from ancient warfare in that we did not resort to arms because modern civilization has taught us that it is not the wiser, better way, but still, "to the vanquished the honors of war."

It is to be hoped that no man who has led a political host in Tuesday's campaign will forget that precept. When such a contest is closed, when a battle of ballots has been waged, and one side admits defeat and in so doing claims compassion under the white flag of truce, whose folds of purity proclaim justice and protection, it is common decency to allow "to the vanquished the honors of war."

Many men can bear defeat with Spartan bravery and heroic fortitude, few indeed are there who can bear themselves nobly in the hour of victory, and say in their hearts "to the vanquished the honors of war." An army that would accept the surrender of a stronghold under the snowy folds of a flag of truce and then proceed to insult and murder the vanquished foe would be worse than heathens, and without the pale of human decency. If such is human judgement upon men who so conduct themselves when the red blood of their fellows is still warm upon their hands and the lust of battle still flaming in their hearts, how much more deeply should it indict that man who, coolly, designedly, and after ample time to consider his acts, with victory perched upon his political banners, shows continued contempt, and heaps insult and contumely upon a fallen foe. No true man should allow himself to stoop so low.

THE MAN BEHIND

We don't mean the man behind times, nor the man behind in his dayments. Julius Caesar was "the man behind" Rome. Washington was "the man behind" the United States at a crisis in its history. Every successful business venture, no matter how humble, has "a man behind," the man who shoulders the responsibility and plans the campaign, who possesses those qualities that bring success to him and to those associated with him in business.

Young man, if you wish to be "the man behind" a successful enterprise, attend the Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas, America's largest school of bookkeeping, Business and Telegraphy. With such an equipment as this school will give you the time will come when you will become a factor in the business world, and your name a synonym of success, again exemplifying the fact that with educated head and skilled hands young men and women can carve their names upon the tallest towers of fame. We can place you in a good position just as soon as your course is finished. Write for catalogue and make your arrangements to enter at once. We have now more students in daily attendance than any other four commercial schools in the state combined. This shows the overwhelming popularity of the Tyler Commercial College. It shows that the people appreciate the advantages of the famous Byrne systems, which save the student, while qualifying himself to hold a good position, almost $200 a year and board over what it would be in a school teaching other systems.

SANTA'S COMING.

Got another letter from Santa Claus and this is what he said: Dear Children:

I am going to be at Kerrville Nov. 15. Last time I tried to come to Texas in my sleigh I ran into a stump and broke one of my runners, and one of my reindeer stubbed his toe and did not quit limping until the next summer. So as I said, I am going to make my first trip in an air ship. I have it already. It is tied to the north pole and my fur coat is already under the seat. Mrs. Santa Claus' thumb is almost well now and she thinks she will be able to write the names on the labels for me when Christmas comes. She didn't whip the cat for biting her. She was busy knitting a cap for a little orphan boy and let her chair down on the kitty's tail, and so he bit her, it was an accident and she forgave the cat and said she expected his tail hurt as bad as her finger did. Now don't forget the day, Nov. 15. Its Tuesday, and as soon as school is out you must come to the Kerrville Mercantile Company's Store. I can't stay but one day because I have to hurry back and feed the reindeer. The big white one won't let Mrs. Santa Claus feed him.

BILL SANTA CLAUS.

Wright not in Favor of Air Fund.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Wright announces that he is not in favor of the efforts now being made to obtain a huge appropriation from Congress for aeronautic experiments.

"I would not try to do too much in a new field like this," he said in reply to a question.

"Large appropriations would encourage waste and careless expenditure. I think it would be safer for the signal corps to get to work actively and show Congress what it can do with what it has got. Then ask for a smaller sum, say $50,000, instead of half a million or more to begin with."

DAANGEROUS WOODEN BUILDINGS

Europe Has Learned Lesson America Is Now Learning.

August has been an unusual fiery month in Boston, and we shall continue to have get-away fires until we cease depending wholly upon powerful remedies of cure in our efforts to solve the conflagration problem and turn our attention to preventive measures. These are the fundamentals in every country. Abroad, they have learned the lesson, and until we learn it here we need not expect our "National ash heap" to be very appreciably reduced. The action of the building commissioner in refusing a permit to the owners of the burned Broadline Hall in the lumber district to reconstruct the building of wood deserves the approval of the public. None but fire resistant structures should hereafter be allowed in that section.

Nevertheless, it would not be necessary to carry one's investigations very far to find only new buildings, but nests of them, now going up of the flimsiest and most inflammable material. We already have serried ranks of such conflagration risks in different parts of the city, outside the present all-too-limited fire districts, and unless a halt is called we shall have them extended to still more hazardous limits. Building has been active in the outlying sections this season, and while perhaps more than usual attention has been given to the fire factor, there are still too many buildings of mushroom construction in which that feature seems to have been almost entirely ignored.

This may not be the fault of the building department. That can not make its own laws, even were it so disposed. It has to conduct its business under those provided for its government, which in some respects are much better than they were twenty years ago, but still far short of what they should be. There is need of much stricter regulation with respect to materials, spacing and details of construction. There should never be another roof of wooden shingles allowed in the city. A few sparks from a neighboring fire start them eating their way downward into the habitation which they cover; nor should buildings of light lumber be allowed except where they are so far separated from other buildings as to reduce the hazard to a minimum.

It may be urged that this would be a hardship for many and check improvement of vacant land. That contention has less force now than it had a few years ago. Buildings of wood cost from 30 to 40 per cent more to build now than they did ten years ago. The reduced labor product, at former prices, partially accounts for that, but the increased cost of lumber is still a larger factor. On the other hand, concrete construction is tending toward reduction. The fires in the northwest will raise the lumber dealers' prices, though they may not immediately affect the supply. These tendencies are on the whole rather reassuring. Economic considerations may accomplish what short-sighted legislation has failed to bring about.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Comfort Boy is Shot.

COMFORT, Tex., Nov. 7.—Henry Steves, a 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steves, was accidentally shot in the mouth. Several teeth were cut out and the bullet sunk downward.

Henry Steves and his chum, Guido Ransleben, left the house right after dinner to go hunting, each carrying a 22-caliber rifle. Just below Frederick Weber's house, near the Guadalupe River, the boys were kneeling on the ground, when Guido Ransleben's gun went off, shooting Henry Steves in the mouth.

Mr. Weber was called, and brought the boys into town to a physician, who dressed the boy's wound and took him to his home. The boy's mother went to San Antonio Sunday morning on a visit, while the father was on a deer hunt, and only his sister, Miss Ella Steves, was at home. Neighbors assisted in nursing the lad, who is suffering a great deal of pain. If blood poison does not set in, the boy's life will be saved. The bullet has not been found.

Many school children suffer from constipation, which is often the cause of seeming stupidity at lessons. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are an ideal medicine to give a child, for they are mild and gentle in their effect, and will cure even chronic constipation. Sold by all dealers.

His Last Words.

Carpenter—"Didn't I tell you to notice when the glue boiled over?" Assistant—"I did. It was a quarter past ten."

When a Woman Worries.

With the thermometer attempting the high jump act and one's patience almost melted after a dripping summer, the slightest suggestion to the worried housewife must be a blessing. It is too warm to originate attractive menus.

Has it ever occurred to you to substitute for boiled or baked custard the same quantities of ingredients, similarly mixed, but frozen? No flour, cornstarch or other thickening need be used in the ordinary batter. For a peach custard the following directions may be of some assistance: Prepare a quart of peach pulp by pressing peeled peaches through a sieve and sweeten with a cupful of sugar. Prepare a thin custard from sugar and four egg yolks. Heat the milk to the boiling point, beat up the egg yolks with sugar and add to the boiling milk. Let it cook until it coats the spoon, but not until it boils. Stir almost constantly while heating to prevent curdling. Remove it from the stove and when cold mix with the peach pulp. Set the whole where it will become perfectly cool and freeze it like ice cream.

A thin custard frozen is very nice if peaches are sliced thin and added to it while it is freezing, or better yet, after it has frozen, but before it has become hard. If slices of fruit are added at the beginning they will probably turn into icy lumps unless soaked in brandy or wine. The flavor of the fruit is better preserved if it is added at the last.

The flavor of caramel is very attractive in frozen deserts. For a frozen caramel custard have ready a quart of milk and the yolks of six eggs. Let the milk gradually heat in the double boiler. While it is heating melt three tablespoonfuls of sugar in a quart of a cupful of water. Let it cook to a dark rich caramel, stirring constantly to prevent burning, then stir it into two cupfuls of boiling water and a cupful of sugar. Let the water and sugar boil rapidly for fifteen minutes. Mix it with the boiling milk, and when it boils again, add the egg yolks, beaten together. Stir thoroughly to prevent curdling. When cold freeze it and serve with white sponge cake, prepared from the whites that were left over after using the yolks in the custard.

Poor Mary.

Mary had injured her knee. She was very modest and despite the recommendations of her parents that a doctor be called to attend her, Mary kept putting them off by saying that the injured knee would be all right in a day or two.

A few days later, however, the young woman was seized with a violent pain, her cries so aroused her father that he rushed out of the house intending to call the family physician. Rushing down the steps, Mary's father noticed a man passing with a black bag in his hand. Rushing up to the man he said: "You're just the man we want. Come right into the house with me," and saying this he took the man by the arm and hustled him into the house and right up to Mary's room. "Show him your knee, my daughter," said the father.

Mary exhibited the injured knee. "What do you think of it?" said the father.

"Pretty bad knee," said the stranger.

"Well, what are you going to do about it?" said the father.

"Better call a doctor," said the stranger.

"And aren't you a doctor?" said Mary's father.

"No, sir, I'm a piano tuner," said the stranger.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for testimonials.

Is Mrs. Crippen Alive?

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 6.—Belle Elmore Crippen, for whose murder Dr. Hawley Crippen is to be hanged on Tuesday next in London, is declared to be alive in this country by Francis Tracy Tobin, a lawyer in this city, according to an interview which the Philadelphia Press will publish to-morrow.

Mr. Tobin declares in the interview that he "has received letters from those who have seen her," and says he knows that "she is living and is hiding in this country not far from Chicago."

CHURCH CRISIS ARRIVES.

MADRID, Nov. 4.—The Senate tonight, by a vote of 149 to 58, passed the "padlock bill," which prohibits the creation of further religious establishments in Spain until the revision of the concordat with the Vatican has been completed.

The conciliatory attitude of Premier Canalejas toward the ecclesiastical Senators during the debate in the Senate today on the bill led to the impression in official circles that a way would be found to resume the negotiations between the government and the Vatican for a revision of the concordat when the bill was passed.

The revision of the concordat of 1871 long has been the cause of diplomatic negotiations between liberal governments in Spain and the Vatican. The modifications sought affect chiefly the clauses relating to liberty of conscience and education and the limitation of religious orders. With the advent in February last of the present ministry, Premier Canalejas announced that the negotiations begun by his predecessors with the Vatican would be continued, but this program, which called for the abridgement of the influences of the Catholic churches and the inauguration of a broad system of public education, would be proceeded with, regardless of the wishes of Rome.

Much opposition to the part of the Clericals has been brought to bear against the Canalejas program and especially the "padlock bill," which prohibits the creation of further religious orders until the question of the revision of the concordat has been settled. The Vatican made frequent vigorous protests against the bill.

The debate in the Senate on the measure was heated, and on October 28 Canalejas declared that if it were not passed he would resign. The critical hour had sounded for the church in Spain, he said, and he asked the aid of all the Liberals that an equitable and definite settlement of the relations between the government and the Vatican might be held. The "padlock bill," the Premier declared, was necessary in order to help solve the clerical problem.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The Explorers Club here has been notified that a Japanese expedition to the south pole will leave Tokio November 15.

The expedition will use a 200-ton vessel, equipped with sails and auxiliary power, and expects to be three years in making its long journey.

The scientific work of the expedition will be in charge of two specialists from the Waseda University, one of whom will devote himself to the study of astronomical and nautical phenomena, while the other will take care of the necessary topographical work, meteorological observations and study of natural products of the regions visited.

Quarantine Will Not Change.

AMARILLO, Tex., Nov. 7.—With 200 delegates and a number of visitors from out of state points, a meeting of prominent cattlemen of the Panhandle was held here, beginning this afternoon and continuing in the night, responsive to a call from the officers of the Panhandle Stockmen's Association, to take action on the threat of the Bureau of Animal Industry to place all Texas below the federal quarantine line.

A special committee was appointed by the chairman, including W. B. Slaughter, of Dalhart, William Harrell of Amarillo and Pat Landergin of Vegas to consult with Mr. McClure to determine the needs of the board in the way of assistance looking to a more perfect enforcement of the quarantine regulations.

This committee, after the entire convention had partaken of a sumptuous luncheon as guests of the Elks Lodge at its new home, conferring with Mr. McClure, found that an addition of ten inspectors is needed to properly enforce the law. The meeting readily voted to stand the expense of this addition, and also to make such further expenditures as were needed to insure the non-removal of the quarantine line anticipated.

When a cold becomes settled in the system, it will take several days to cure it, and the best remedy to use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will cure quicker than any other, and leaves the system in a natural healthy condition. Sold by all dealers.

Cotton Ships Are Leased.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 7.—In order to handle more effectively the large cotton trade between the Southern States and Italy, and to provide direct transportation for Italian products to ports and interior points in the South, a new steamer service has been arranged between Genoa and ports of the Gulf of Mexico, according to United States Consul James A. Smith of Genoa.

A contract for this service has been entered into between the governor of the board of Genoa and the Alta, which a regular service will be maintained by the combination of these two lines under the name of La Creola.

The company obligates itself to arrange with American railways so that through bills of lading to American interior points could be issued at Genoa.

Fourteen steamers with a combined tonnage of 86,865 will be operated in the service. Several other steamers will be added, bringing the tonnage to 100,000. The new lines will offer better facilities than heretofore have existed for exporters of cotton and other merchandise from Southern States to Italy and adjoining countries.

WORK OF MARINE POSTMEN.

Delivering Mail to Passing Steamers no Easy Task.

From an armchair on the deck of a ferryboat I watched the performance hundreds of times with mild interest, never regarding it as much of a feat.

Hence, as I stepped gingerly over the rail of the tub C. F. Bilman, Jr. and into the row boat that bobbed about with the abandon of a skyscooter bucking a gale, there came a new appreciation of what it means to deliver mail to these great steamers that plow through the river at top speed at all hours and under all conditions.

It was a decidedly strange sensation; and as soon as I discovered it was just in the making.

There was something uncanny about the setting. Darkness so dense as to make objects a few yards away indistinguishable, enveloped everything. Far off the shore lights gleamed like a myriad of will-o'-the-wisps. High up on the sky the irregular row of roofs faintly outlined against the reflection, was the ruddy glow from thousands of lights over where the city's pulse throbbed unceasingly.

Here was putting but gloom, the soft wash of water against the boat, the hoarse bark of a steamer's whistle seemingly almost overhead, the muffled response from a vessel further off. Then from out the darkness came a green and red light, like the eyes of some great monster creeping silently up on its prey.

"That's a hot dog," volunteered eeeeeeperrrh / a cmfwy hr eeeeeee Clerk Randall, casting off the line that held us to the tug, and settling astern.

"A hot dog?" I repeated wonderingly.

Randall laughed as he pulled at the oars and our boat moved out into the direction of the approaching lights.

"It's a package freighter," he explained, "a steamer belonging to one of the railroad lines. They never slow down for us, but keep right on going at full speed, so we christened 'em hot dogs. The name fits, too. Just watch the speed of this one."

Even as he spoke there loomed up out of the gloom a towering mass that threatened to crush our tiny craft. Yet in spite of the seeming danger there was a strange fascination in watching the bow of the boat as it glided onward, the white foam pushed back on either side, the rhythmic splash of water falling on the ear with a soothing softness that banished fear and gave rise to curiosity as to what the sensation would be if swept into this maelstrom.

From the darkness above a hoarse voice shouted the name of the steamer. With an intuition that comes only after long experience in this line, Randall had already made out the identity of the vessel. Now he dug into a box in the bottom of our craft, and by the light of a lantern brought forth a bundle of letters. Then with a quick pull at the oars we swung clear, and there was a sickening surge as the bow of the steamer shot by.

There was a few moments respite then more strokes at the oars and the performance was repeated, this time with a 600-foot or carrier as the object of our attentions. After this the mail boat moved up quietly and we were taken aboard to await the appearance of another vessel.

"Oh, yes, there is a certain element of risk," admitted my companion when we were once more aboard the tug, "but if a fellow knows enough to handle a boat and keeps his head he isn't taking so many chances."

There are risks in plenty, although you seldom hear of these. It requires a high degree of seamanship to bring a rowboat alongside a steamer traveling twelve miles an hour and sending out great rollers, without capsizing, and it takes quick work to deliver the mails and get away safely. A single false stroke at the critical moment and there would be an involuntary plunge into the river, if no more serious consequences followed.

Business at the marine post office is conducted identically the same as the main office, save for the unique manner in which the mails are delivered. Marine men all along the lakes regard the local office as their clearing house. The first thing a man does after shipping on a different boat is to notify the Detroit marine post office, from fifty to seventy-five orders to change an address or forward mail being received daily.

The amount of mail a steamer receives varies, but it is not an uncommon thing for 100 pieces to be consigned to a single vessel. These range all the way from newspapers and circulars up to letters from the owners giving the captain instructions on which port to proceed to.

TEXAS INDUSTRIAL CONGRESS.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 8.—That the farm is the real source of Texas prosperity, that every other vocation of the State is subsidiary to and dependent on it, that every citizen of Texas, regardless of the particular activity in which he is engaged, is interested in the welfare of the farmer, and should, therefore, as a matter of self interest, co-operate with and assist the farmer to increase his production and get better prices for it, will be the "key note" of the great convention of the Texas Industrial Congress which will be held at Houston, Nov. 15, 16, and 17, during the No-Ten-Oh Carnival week.

Since the organization of the Congress several months ago, its officials have been busily engaged in an effort to enlist the sympathy and support of the business men of Texas in the idea of co-operation between the business and farming interests of the State. The response has been enthusiastic and the indications are that the Houston convention will be one of the most largely attended gatherings in the history of Texas.

Every commercial, trades and agricultural organization of importance has appointed delegates on the basis of one representative for every twenty-five members, and this alone assures an attendance of more than a thousand. Mayors of scores of cities have also elected delegates, the basis being one delegate for every five thousand population or fraction thereof. The various farmers institutions of the State have likewise appointed delegates. In addition to the regular delegates, a cordial invitation is extended to all patriotic citizens to attend and participate in the meeting.

The program itself will be of surpassing interest. Addresses will be made by men prominent in State and National affairs. Business men and farmers will control the program, the politician and agitator having been tabooed by the organization. Besides the set of speeches, frequent opportunity will be given the delegates to indulge in general discussion on subjects under consideration, the only condition being that such talks be limited as to time. In fact, the convention will be a great business meeting where the material interests of Texas, bankers and farmers, merchants and professional men, in fine the representatives of all vocations of the State, will assemble to discuss questions and issues that pertain to their common welfare. It will represent an effort to make the productive forces of the state the dominating factor in determining vital questions that affect the material welfare of Texas.

Sources of "False" Hair

In view of the return of the aging custom of supplementing the normal supply of female hair by reinforcements drawn from outside sources, the following inquiry into the nature of those sources, published by the British Medical Journal (London, August 27), does not come amiss. As a starter it gives an illuminative extract from a book by Francis Trollope entitled "Summer in Brittany." The press dispatches say that the styles of the outer world are now invading Brittany and the women are declining to sell their tresses, so that this source of supply can no longer be depended upon. Speaking of a fair in Colenne, at which what may fairly be called a "hair-market" was held, this author says:

"What surprised me more than all, by the singularity and novelty of the thing, were the operations of the dealers in hair. In various parts of the motley crowd there were three or four different purchasers of this commodity, who travel the country for the purpose of attending the fairs, and buying the tresses of the peasant girls. They have particularly fine hair, and frequently in the greatest abundance. I should have thought that female vanity would have effectually prevented such a traffic as this being carried to any extent. But there seemed to be no difficulty in finding possessors of the beautiful heads of hair perfectly willing to sell. We saw several girls sheared, and as many more standing ready for the shears, with their caps in their hands, and their long hair combed out, and hanging down to their waists. Some of them operators were men, and some women. By the side of the dealer was placed a large basket, into which every successive crop of hair, tied up into wisp by itself, was thrown. No doubt the reason of the indifference to their tresses, on the part of the fair Bretonnes, is to be found in the invariable 'mode' which covers every head, from childhood upward, with close caps, which entirely prevents any part of the hair from being seen, and, of course, as totally conceals the want of it. The money given for the hair is about 20 sous (about 20 cents) or else a gaudy cotton handkerchief—they net immense profits by their trip through the country."

Supplementing this, the writer in The Medical Journal goes on to say: "Like hair comes mostly from the provinces. It is sometimes stated that the color of the hair is an index of character; if this be true, it is obvious that character can be disguised by art. Queen Elizabeth was probably singular in her preference for a red wig, but the color did not belie her temper. The color most in demand, however, changes with the fashion at a given time. A fashion which we can characterize only as disgusting seems to prevail at present in certain places. This is the wearing of 'rats,' structure of which we confess we know nothing, but which we presume to be intended to be decorative. They are, it seems, made sometimes of wire, sometimes of human hair, sometimes of flax or other vegetable which presents a more or less close likeness to human hair. In connection with this matter, we recall darker mysteries than those of the French or German hair-markets. We have recently seen it stated in an American paper that the hair-dealers of London, from whom large supplies of 'rat' hair are received for the market, 'rats,' have been discovered exhaling corpses for the sale of the pig-tails. The Chinese government is said to be taking steps to suppress the kind of burking. We have been successful in its efforts, which traffic in dead hair is dangerous, from a hygienic as it is from an aesthetic point of view. But what will not the votes of fashion risk in the pursuit of their crazy cult? The trade in human teeth used to be highly profitable, and Bransbury Cooper in his biography of his famous uncle gives an account of resurrection men who followed the troops in the Peninsula to get the teeth of the fallen soldiers, for which they got high prices in London."

A recent press dispatch quotes official figures from Washington showing that large quantities of human hair are being exported from Japan: "Last year Kobe alone exported to the United States $27,608 worth of human hair. This hair has steadily risen in price and now commands $70 per hundred pounds. Fashion's decree has increased the demand in this country, and the purchase price has jumped $15 per hundred pounds within the last twelve months."

Revolution Costs 61 Lives.

LIBBON, Nov. 9.—It is officially announced that sixty-one persons were killed and 417 others wounded at the time of the revolution.

FIFTY MINERS ARE DEAD.

DELAGUA, Col., Nov. 9.—Through two openings nearly 200 yards apart the dead and living were taken from the Delagua mines of the Victor-American Fuel Company at the same time today, but the dead far outnumbered the living. Tonight fifty-one are known to be dead as the result of the explosion yesterday, while eighteen escaped alive.

R. Aayi, a Japanese, after being insensible from the effects of the after-damp all last night, recovered his senses this morning, and found his way to the surface at No. 2 entry. He was dazed and unable to tell through what passage he had come, but was certain that others still lived in the part of the mine he had crossed. The rescue crew followed back from No. 2 entry, and soon brought thirteen others to the surface. Aayi was greeted by salvo of "banzais" by his countrymen as he staggered down the hill. Scarcely had the line of rescued men begun to trickle from No. 2 mine when carpenters were called to No. 3 entry to make rough stretchers, and it became known that thirty-five bodies had been found piled in No. 4 entry. Later other bodies were found in the same section of the mine, which brought the total to fifty-one. At 10 o'clock tonight thirty-five bodies had been brought out of the morgue, established at the machine shops.

Both living and dead found today were foreigners. Twenty-nine Mexicans were found in one heap. Seven of the department heads of the mine are known to be buried in a cave-in 400 feet long, which blocks the main slope. The debris is being cleared away, but it may be days before the bodies are rescued.

Edwards County.

Everything is moving along smoothly out here we have had all the rain we need for the present. Stock of all kinds are doing fine and are expected to winter very well notwithstanding the dry summer. All the ranchmen have finished shearing and realized a fair price, local buyers paying 26 to 29 cents. An unusually heavy clip was shorn this season and the goats will winter nicely. Hogs are getting fat the mast being exceptionally good.

The pecan crop came as ablesing being the first in several years and is very heavy. They are worth 7 to ten cents a pound. The crop is almost harvested.

Will A. Morris, of San Antonio, was in Edwards County this week looking after his extensive land interests in this county and reported several land sales but did not mention any names or prices.

Adam Morris, of Faint Creek, was on the Nueces this week and sold 640 acres of land to H. R. Perkins at $2.50 per acre.

Edwards County land is in great demand and is steadily going higher. All we need now is a railroad and we expect to get it in the near future.

Texas in October Gins 987,333 Bales. AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 9.—The State Department of Agriculture gave out the October gin report, this morning.

It shows that there were ginned during the month of October 987,333 bales of cotton, against 671,329 bales for October 1909. The total bales ginned during August, September and October is 2,909,844, against 1,606,802 bales for the same period in 1909, being a gain of 1,303,042.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 5.—"Break rock for 100 days or go to church every Sunday for six months."

This is the way William Volker, president of the board of public welfare, sentenced three boys yesterday after they had been convicted of throwing eggs at pedestrians. When the boys appeared in the municipal court two of them were fined $50 each and the third $25.

The lads were arrested Oct. 31 on a charge of having thrown eggs at men who passed near their home, and their parents refused to come to their aid. After sentence had been passed upon them all chose to attend church. In case they miss a service without a reasonable excuse they will be sent to jail.
