BIG FALL CLIP KERRVILLE MOHAIR HAS BEEN SHIPPED

Stokes Bros. were the Buyers. Amount Exceeded One Third of One Million Pounds Fall Clip. Kerrville Gets Third.

LARGEST MOHAIR MARKET IN SOUTHWEST.

Annual Mohair Production of State One Million Pounds for Fall Kerrville Handles One Third.

Stokes Bros., of Lampasas, bought the fall clip of mohair from Chas. Schreiner's warehouse, and the shipment was made last week. The clip comprised a little more than 350,000 pounds, slightly more than one-third of the entire fall clip of mohair for the state of Texas, which aggregates about one million pounds. The product was of excellent quality, and very satisfactory prices were received. The production of mohair has gradually increased in this section of Texas until it is now an important factor in the resources of the country. In 1904 there were 80,000 pounds of mohair shipped from Kerrville, this year the entire shipments from this market, including the spring and fall clips, amount to about 800,000 pounds, showing a gain in the last 7 years of 720,000 in annual shipments. A severe cold rain immediately after shearing-time last spring caused a loss of something like 150,000 pounds of mohair from death of animals. Had it not been for that the 1910 clips would have aggregated approximately one million pounds for this market.

The ranch and grazing industry of the world has developed no factor that equals the Angora goat as a frontiersman. It requires very little food, and does not feed particularly upon the succulent grasses necessary for the sustenance of horses and cattle, nor must it have even the short grass and weeds essential to the successful growing of sheep. In the roughest ranges, where the grass is too sparse for cattle, and where the brush are too thick and wild animals are too numerous for the successful operation of the sheep industry, goats prosper. They feed upon the brush and leaves, and require little attention except in case of severe weather immediately after being shorn, when they are peculiarly susceptible to cold and pneumonia.

The Angoras of Kerr and adjoining counties are among the finest in America. Many animals of pure South African strain are to be found on the ranches of this section, and some ranchmen have even imported males from the native home of the animal, Angora, or Engour, (the ancient Ancyria) a town in Asiatic Turkey about 215 miles from Constantinople. The province of which this ancient city is a kind of suburb, has long been famous for its goats, many of which have long heavy fleeces of fine silky hair. The reason that animals of pure Angora strain are so high priced is that there is a practically prohibitive export duty imposed by the native country of the animals. There is no other domestic animal known, except it be the pure blooded Arabian horse, that is so jealously guarded by the people of its native country.

The goat is the forerunner of the sheep, eting out and destroying the brush and permitting weeds to grow in the open places, just as sheep destroy noxious weeds from the range and permits succulent grasses to grow for the grazing of cattle. Each year the further development of the sheep and the goat industry of this section of Texas makes more forcible, and patent the statement that, "The sheep and the goat are the hope of the Hill Country."

Election Bet is Carried Out.
NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—John Gear, who thought Henry T. Stimson would be elected governor of New York, early this morning took off his clothes, put on a bathing suit and jumped into East River. With a rowboat following close behind, he swam across the river to Randall's Island, thereby carrying out the provisions of an election bet.

Great Furror in Mexico Turned Out To Be Result of Revolutionary Movement That Had Been Hatching Some Time.

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT ACTIVE

In Suppressing Instigators. Rock Springs Incident Opportune For Filibustering Movement, But Fails to Win

As contended by the more conservative citizens of both countries from the first, the great furror and fanfare over the Edwards county lynching was a "tempest brewed in a teapot."

The Mexican government never at any time considered serious action in the matter. The murder was a frightful thing, and the punishment of the confessed murderer by burning at the stake was most unfortunate, and is greatly to be regretted, but those who most rigidly criticize the men who meted the awful punishment to the confessed murderer, while the blood of his victim was still almost warm on his hands are men who have probably never been confronted with a like situation. All lynchings are a violation of the law, and any should not occur. It turns out that no definite knowledge has been secured that the murderer was a citizen of Mexico. His actions prior to the time he committed the crime indicate that he was an outlaw, whatever his citizenship may have been, and his confession of that heinous crime brands him as a dangerous man. Should a citizen of this country go across the Mexican border and commit such a crime he would be entitled to no consideration, and would be shown none.

From the very first the federal government of Mexico assured this country of its friendly assistance in arriving at the facts in the premises. All kinds of reports were circulated, emanating from what source no one could tell. Stories of armed invasion from Mexico, and other equally ridiculous reports gained circulation, and were even published in reputable newspapers of this country to gratify the insatiable desire of the public for sensational reading. The facts, as far as a careful (Continued on last page)

Kerrville Concern That Does Business Strictly on Business Principles Nothing But Truth in Advertisements is Rule

BELIEVE IN MODERN METHODS

Reliable Newspapers the Cheapest and Most Effective Way of Telling the Public of the Merits of Your Wares.

There is one firm in Kerrville that knows no dull season in business. They make business. Realizing that there is a certain amount of buying that must and will be done at all times, and also aware of the fact that the successful merchant is one who gets more than his natural share of that trade, more than would come to him by chance, this company conducts intelligent business campaigns, just as do the big department stores of the great cities. This concern is the Kerrville Mercantile Company.

Recently an advertising solicitor of this publication called on W. G. Carpenter the senior member of the firm in regard to some advertising, and in discussing the matter asked the question, "how do you figure on your advertising expense, and who pays it?"

"Well," replied Mr. Carpenter, "there is no more figuring to do on the matter of advertising than on any other kind of buying for the store. We buy advertising just as we buy goods—on our judgment. We do not buy advertising of any kind from anybody out of friendship we attempt advertising that doesn't bring returns, just as men occasionally buy goods that do not sell at a profit. As a general proposition we confine our advertising to the kind that appeals to the intelligence of the buying public, almost exclusively to newspapers, to occasional high-class souvenirs and to direct personal correspondence. As to who pays the expense of our advertising, and here the jolly mercantile smiled, "we try our best to make competitors pay it, at least we try to take enough business away from them for profits to pay the advertising bill, and so far we have succeeded."

After some general discussion of advertising and the success that it invariably brings when it is intelligently and persistently followed, and of the success that it has brought to this company, Mr. Carpenter continued, "Yes, we have been successful in a small way. We have even tried to be successful in as large a way as this field of mercantile exploitation will permit, and I am sure we will succeed in that. There is no other factor of success in which we have more faith than in intelligent advertising. I have heard men say, 'I never could see any returns from advertising,' well I want to say that I see direct returns from my advertising, and the moment I fail to see them I shall quit that kind of advertising just the same as I would fire a man that could not sell goods, or quit handling an article that could not be sold at a profit, or that would not give my customer good, honest service after he had spent his hard earned money for it. The days of four-flushing in business are past. An advertisement that contains a statement that a salesman could not make in my store without doing violence to his conscience, is valueless to me. Advertising is just like any other reading matter, if the reader knows at the first glance that it is a lot of unreasonable twaddle, and that no intelligent merchant would try to back up the statements made, he is not going to read it, or if he does it will be merely out of curiosity to see just how far in the tracks of Baron Munchausen and Old Oild Dilldock that merchant will go.

"To make an advertisement bring returns it must be given three strong points: Well worded, well printed and neat in appearance, contain nothing but the absolute truth that can be verified by a visit to the store, and backed up to its last syllable and punctuation mark by the house it represents. This is the kind of advertising we do. When we publish a statement in an advertisement touching the quality or the price of our goods it means exactly what it says in plain English, and we try to make it as plain and free from frills as we can. Four-flushing in advertising has taken its place in the commercial scrap heap along with the "strikers" who ran out and attempted to drag people into stores.

When asked as to the fall trade Mr. Carpenter said: How is it? Why, it's a hummer. We are busy, we are selling goods. Best fall business we have ever had. Have to hustle for it, but we are getting it. People come in to see about the goods we advertise, we sell them something, and then they come back again. Just now we are making a big special drive on Santa Claus stuff, and say, "ughed the good-natured merchant, "if some of these fellows that think folks don't read advertisements could have seen that multitude of happy children at our store when school let out Tuesday afternoon, the whole street null of them they would have taken a second thought. We are advertising the biggest and best line of Christmas goods ever shown in Kerr County, and just like all our advertisements, it is the truth."

As a parting admonition the merchant said, "If you value my friendship don't ever try to induce me to publish a lie in an advertisement, or in other words to advertise a car load of fish hooks and hair pins. The plain truth in every transaction, whether it involves a penny or a pound, and the same price to everybody that comes to the store to the fraction of a cent, and making good on every promise are the things we use to boost our business with."

This firm has made the most remarkable progress since its establishment that has ever been made by a business concern in Kerrville, and is one of the leading stores of the town. Its policy is one that is appreciated by the people, and their appreciation has been shown in an unmistakable manner. The advertisements of this house have attracted attention throughout the country for their forceful statements and freedom from exaggeration.

Prohibition is Losing.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 16.—Asserting that others besides Democrats have cause for rejoicing over the recent election, the National Model License League tonight filed over the signature of their president Theodore M. Gilmore, a statement declaring that, in a large majority of the states where the liquor question was an issue the people had pronounced themselves "weary of prohibition agitation." The league, which favors a restricted license, extends its congratulations to Oregon and adds:

"What was done in Oregon can be done in Maine, Oklahoma, Kansas, and the Southern 'dry' States when the people realize 'hat they can get the legalized sale of whiskey under proper legislation."

Decedent was 77 years old, and resided in Kerrville many years prior to going to the home of Mr. Reinhardt about two years ago. Death resulted from paralysis, with which decedent had long suffered, and to which the weakness of age succumbed.

Mrs. Pfeuffer was confined to her bed eight weeks in an entirely helpless condition, during which time every possible care and attention was given her, but the ministrations of physicians could not avail against the ravages of disease, and death resulted. The funeral took place at Glen Rest cemetery, Kerrville the following day at 10 o'clock a.m. Decedent is survived by three children: Mrs. Nick Pfeuffer of Kerrville, Mrs. J. P. Reinhardt, of Comfort, and Jos. Pfeuffer, of Grangeville, Idaho.

Willing Will.

The daughter of an old Southern family had married a Chicago man and set up her house there. She brought with her one of the family retainers for a butler, Will by name. Chicago was too much for Will. He had not been there a month before he was mixed up in several tangled matrimonial affairs and was embracing the Demon Rum at every opportunity.

Will was packed back home. Two months later he arrived in Chicago again, sober and penitent, and asked for his old place.

"Will," said his mistress, "I do not think I can take you back again. Your conduct was scandalous when you were here before. How do you intend to act now?"

"Miss Lizbeth," replied Will solemnly, "from this time on it's six on Cupid and the booze."

OLD SANTA CLAUS CAME.
The Jolly Old Fellow Was Seen by Hundreds of Happy Children.

True to promise Santa Claus came to Kerrville Tuesday afternoon. Report has it that his airship landed in the timber somewhere near Mountain View cemetery. He then secured an automobile and came to his Kerrville headquarters, at 4:30 o'clock. After an hour with the little folks Santa left hurriedly for Fredericksburg to see about some gifts for the people of that town. The good saint returned to Kerrville that night and was seen again at the Kerrville Mercantile Company's store. Just before taking his leave Santa said:

"Well, I never saw so many happy boys and girls in a town the size of Kerrville. I see now that Mrs. Santa Claus will have to make me another pack. I left a lot of feed in the barn for the big white reindeer, and I think he will be all right when I get home. Mrs. Santa's thumb is as well now and as soon as I get home she will go to writing the names of Kerrville boys and girls to be placed on the Christmas presents. I bought her a new fountain pen at the Kerrville Mercantile Company.

While I was at Fredericksburg this afternoon a little girl walked up to me and said "S. rein-deer sie Deutsch?" I laughed and told her yes, I could speak the language of all the people on earth, and I find out what they want.

"Texas is such a big old state that it is going to take loads of presents this year. I have finished visiting now, and am going straight home to feed the reindeer and polish the bells and get everything ready for Christmas. Tell the boys and girls I will be sure to come. I have not failed for nearly two thousand years and this will be the happiest Christmas of the whole 1910.

With a merry, merry Christmas, goodbye.

R. Fesenden is plaintiff and THOMAS TIEDEMANN and the unknown heirs of Thomas Tiedemann, deceased, are defendants.

Plaintiff sues in trespass to try title to premises hereinafter described and to remove cloud therefrom, and alleges that on or about the first day of January, 1910, she owned in fee simple and was lawfully seized and possessed of 640 acres of land, situated on Privilege Creek in Kerr County, Texas, known as Survey No. 1327, made by virtue of Certificate No. 39, issued to Burr and Caswell and granted by the State of Texas, to defendant, Mary A. Kocher, by patent No. 513, Vol. 32, of date September 18, 1880. That on said first day of January, 1910, defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom, and unlawfully withheld from plaintiff the possession thereof to her damage One Hundred Dollars; that the reasonable annual rental value of said premises is One Hundred dollars. Drastic Action is Necessary.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—Alleging that cattlemen in Texas are lacking in appreciation of the efforts the Government is making to eradicate the tick, a cattle quarantine inspector said today that this fact was responsible for the State-wide quarantine of cattle in Texas. Continuing, the inspector said: "Naturally the Bureau of Animal Industry should arise, but at times drastic measures seem necessary to prevent the undoing of the work of the past several years which steadily has grown in scope and effectiveness. As the forthcoming report to be issued in December will show, in the four years that the Federal Government has been working on tick eradication, in a territory aggregating 120,000 square miles, equal in extent to Tennessee and North and South Carolina, has been brought about the quarantine line, which means that in that area ticks have been exterminated. In Texas alone the territory placed above quarantine totals 11,335 square miles, and it is to prevent carelessness and lack of sympathy undoing all this work that extreme measures at times appear necessary."

THE POLITICAL LANDSLIDE.

Just at this time, when the leaders of the political party of America that has been in nominal control of the affairs of the United States for more than forty years, and in absolute control during that time with the exception of eight years, are up in the air on account of the recent political upheaval, comment is rife upon the subject of what caused the landslide. Newspapers, practically all of which are dominated to a degree by their partisan leaning, are commenting upon the matter from opposite viewpoints, and are consequently reaching widely divergent conclusions.

Half a century ago it may have been possible to hoodwink the people after they had rebelled against an administration of public affairs that in their judgment was unjust and inefficient, but today that can not be done. The public utterances of men of affairs are now recognized as public property, and properly so, for are not a man's servant's words and actions in regard to his master's affairs matter for the knowledge of the master? So, recognizing a public official as a public servant, is it not proper that the master, the people, know where his heart is in the premises? At any rate the press of the country, that great conservator of the weal of the masses, see to it that they do know all the comings in and goings out of the public servant, and the people of this tenth year of the twentieth century have become exacting masters to a degree that has not heretofore been possible.

The landslide that took place last week, and that is creating so much comment and conjecture, was due to one thing alone. There may have been many things that were each of sufficient magnitude to have caused a political upheaval but with many facts before the people as there were that interested parties could not hide from the eternal vigilance of the press, a general summing up results in the conclusion that an outraged public arrived tardily at the conclusion that the affairs of this government were not properly conducted, and that the servants had not given a good account of their stewardship. Just as when a business man finds that some employee is not giving proper service he lets him go, so the people have become convinced that there is something amiss with the system that their public servants have been using, and they are trying new men and are now ready for a new system. It became apparent more than a year ago that there was something radically wrong with the administration of the affairs of a nation when, in the midst of a term of years of the most unprecedented prosperity that any country has known in the history of nations, a laboring man could not meet the meager requirements of his family's support, although his daily wage had been greatly increased. Graining under the frightful burden of the high cost of living the minds of the people became fallow ground for germinating seeds of discontent. And when the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill became a law, its provisions were so obviously framed for the protection of the classes, and the expense and discomfiture of the masses that no amount of bolstering, after the crime had been committed, could save the political organization that had perpetrated it from the just indignation and resentment of the great mass of American bread winners.

Thus we see the greatest men in the ranks of the dominant party lining up in the thick of the political battle, hoping by dint of the most strenuous effort to stem the tidal wave of popular indignation. But naught could avail against it. Too truly, and too surely have the masses been educated in matters of statecraft and political economy. Too steadily have they become rooted in the policy of a government by the people, and for the people, to ever again relinquish to an organized band of looters under the banner of any political party, whatever may be its avowed tenets, the sacred trust of administering the affairs of government, when that same band has been caught red handed with the goods. It will require many years of penance and much "purging with hyssop" before those millions of voters who overturned the tables of the money changers in American politics on Tuesday of last week will again trust the men whom they defeated and whose policies they repudiated. It is more than probable that this is the beginning of much "wandering in the wilderness" for a generation or more until "the old men have passed away", until they have "ascended Pisgah and viewed the promised land" of the fatness of public office, and have died and been "buried in a valley" before the American people will again trust their tribe to be leaders in political Israel.

This is no new thing in matters political. There was a time when the masses of the Roman Empire echoed the cry, "Upon what meat doth this, our Caesar feed!" And it was the beginning of the end. For more than forty years the United States government has been dominated by a band of men who have exploited its administration for self and for profit, and like Caesar they became corrupt, tyrannical and oppressive, until a little while ago a band of new troupees arose in the persons of Harmon, Wilson, Dix, and their compatriots, and said we will no longer be slaves to illegitimate graft and the unholy greed of gold and usurpation of the nation's power and the people of the country cried, "Lead on, we follow to the wars," and it was the beginning of the end.

Democrats of the south have been called fetich worshippers. They have been accused of nursing the putrid corpse of a dead issue, but no such cry can now be raised against the millions of voters in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois. The issue of the right of the people to rule, of the right of every man to enjoy the fruits of his own labor, of reasonable expenditures in public affairs, of a tariff for revenue only, and of common honesty in the administration of government cannot be called fetiches. They are the basic principles upon which all sound government must rest. The light of twentieth century intelligence is showing them to the people plainer from day to day, and day by day the great masses are turning to those principles as an only salvation from a burden of oppression that is becoming too great to be longer borne with patience.

Arizona's new constitution will comprise Bryan's idea of initiative and referendum. W. J. Bryan has run his race in American politics, but as a constructive statesman he has had no contemporaneous peer. As a student of political economy America has had none, and the world few, so great.

People are peculiar. A lot of folks think the chief reason the Sap railroad will not waive the differential freight rate on the Kerrville branch is because the Frisco owns the Sap and does not care to help Kerrville compete with Brady and other Frisco points. Well, who knows. There are stranger things

Some fool is saying now that the world powers consider the United States army a joke. If England will ask her "grampaw" he will tell her that it is a joke that ain't fitten to fool with.

Uncle Joe Cannon says he wishes to get at conditions that confront the Republican party. Help yourself, Joe, they seem to be piled around profusely, and very gettable.

There is a rumor afoot that the Sap railroad is about to lease the Kerrville cotton platform to an airship company for wharfage and build one nearer the earth.

If a man does not think, he is but a removed from the level of cattle. A little independent thinking is a mighty good medicine for discontent.

If you say the "sucker" and get stuck, you should blame yourself for being a fool, instead of blaming the other fellow for being a rascal.

The freedom of the Coopers has cost Tennessee a mighty political battle, and millions of blues, as she stands among her sister states.

The Thanksgiving Spirit.

DR. SPOTTISWOOD LEIGHMON

WHENCE springs the feeling of thankfulness? Where sleeps the hidden spring in that wonderful animated mechanism, the human form divine, that makes men glad and thankful?

Ask a hundred men this question and you will probably get as many answers as you have asked questions. The spirit of thankfulness exists in every human heart. It matters not whether man be pagan or saint, he is thankful. He may not call it thankfulness, he may call it gladness, or satisfaction, but the feeling is the same, the underlying principle that causes it is identical. The most persistent misanthrope and pessimist in the world possesses the characteristic of thankfulness. He may strive ever so hard to disguise the feeling, even to himself, but it is present.

Thankfulness is not the direct result of any moral or spiritual training, it is not the result of the teaching of creed or dogma. Thankfulness is not the peculiar property of Jew or Christian, Saint or Pagan. It is a hidden well, whose waters sometimes sink from view in hours of adversity, and become congealed at its bottom in days of sorrow and discontent, but there are continually recurring seasons of gratitude, of thankfulness, when they gush forth and will not bide their narrow confines.

The student of Theosophy, whether he confine himself to some narrow dogma that would damn all who seek not light by its candle, or whether he admit that the Great Light may shed its all-pervading rays upon all mankind where'er dispersed, whether kneeling in a cloister or bowed under a burden of woe as he heaves in the quarries of life under the keen lash of that cruel task-master, passion, let his theory of divine wisdom be what it may, no one other thing, perhaps, is a more potent factor in determining the Divine origin and the Universal Brotherhood of man, than the Spirit of Thankfulness

Seasons of thanksgiving have been customary among men since the dawn of human history. Never has there been record of heathen tribe that did not, upon its return from wars, give way to feasting and thanksgiving. They may not have known that it was thankfulness, but they were glad that they had been victorious, or that they had escaped the enemy with their lives. How sad the life of that mortal who does not at any time feel the wells of gladness and of thanksgiving bubbling up in his heart. Thankfulness is a divine attribute of man. It is that hidden spring that at times and seasons lifts him out of the depths and causes his spirit to look up, to laugh and to wonder at the beauties of the world, and to rejoice in the goodness of its Creator to him. No matter what he may do, no matter what he pretends to think or believe, no matter by what title he may designate the feeling, all men have seasons of thankfulness, because God made them to be thankful.

He who says 'I have nothing for which to be thankful,' deceives himself. At the approaching season of festivity and thankfulness we have, all of us, much for which to be thankful. We can put aside our own petty, selfish affairs, and we have the prosperity and the peace of a nation, its freedom from strife and from the scourges of disease and disaster, for which to be truly and deeply thankful. Personally, while we may have met with disasters, with adverse winds and shipwreck upon life's sea most of our misfortunes are because of our own poor reading of the chart of life, and we may in all wisdom feel truly thankful that we have not veered further from the true course.

The good and wise men of our nation have made Thanksgiving Day a season of universal observance, and it is well that we perpetuate the custom in addition to the bursts of thankfulness that bubble from our hearts from time to time, and make the day of national observance a day upon which we school our hearts and minds to sincere thankfulness for Divine blessings and protection.

Great rains that have fallen over this section during the present week have greatly benefited growing crops of small grain, and the outlook is most promising at this time for a bumper yield next year. The advanced state of the crop is also highly valuable for the purpose of winter pasture.

Final results of the Rock Springs excitement shows to what an extent such occurrences can be exaggerated. It is also an object lesson in the rapidity with which news and rumor can be spread by modern methods. Long distance telephones make it possible now to reach practically the entire country in an amazingly short time.

COURT

Affairs of Kerr Session and Business.

County in the renal term of the Kerr county
sioners' court for the present was held this week. All the of-cers were present. The business of the court was confined almost entirely to routine matters, and the things always needful to be done at the close of an administration.

The vote of Kerr county in the recent election was canvassed. No important change was discovered in the election returns from the unofficial returns given last week. The official count developed the fact that Senator Real's majority in Kerr county was 96, instead of 115, as reported in the unofficial announcement.

The quarterly reports of A. H.
Moore, county and district clerk, J.
T. Moore, sheriff and tax collector,
A. B. Williamson, county treasurer,
Otto F. Dieter, assessor, and E. H.
Turner, justice of the peace for precinct No. 1, were examined and approved.

An order was issued by the court authorizing F. A. Karger, commissioner of precinct No. 1 and County Judge Lee Wallace to employ a janitor for the courthouse.

Other matters of minor importance were attended to. All of the accounts allowed by the court will be published next week.

REVISION FIRST ON THE SLATE

Money Starts a Harmon Boom For Presidency in 1912.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—That Governor Judson Harmon is the most available man for the next Democratic nomination is the opinion of Senator Hernando D. Money of Mississippi, Democratic leader in the Senate, who arrived here today from New York. The Senator discussed the recent election results, and said the Democratic party was moving forward to a great national victory in 1912.

Speaking of Governor Harmon of Ohio, Senator Money said: "He combines the essential qualities of leadership. His honesty, integrity, his courage and the sterling soundness of his democracy, his unparalleled personal triumph in sweeping Ohio, the President's own state, and the inspiration which his great victory has given Democrats everywhere, are a few of the things that make him an ideal candidate. He is a strict constitutional and state-rights Democrat."

Senator Money says he thinks the Democrats of the Sixty-second Congress should revise the Payne-Aldrich tariff at the earliest opportunity, without reference to the tariff commission. The Senator said that in New York the Democrats were discussing Harmon, and Woodrow Wilson as the next Democratic nominees for President and Vice President.

Cooper is Held Not Guilty.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Robin J. Cooper, charged with the murder of Senator Edward Ward Carmack, was given a verdict of not guilty in the criminal court this morning on recommendation of Attorney General A. B. Davidson. Thus was brought to a close the final chapter in one of the most celebrated cases known to the annals of the courts of Tennessee.

Vernon H. Sharp, clerk of the criminal court, called the case of Robin J. Cooper about 9:30 o'clock after several minor matters had been before the court.

Attorney general Anderson stated that he would like to have a jury for the disposition of this case and jury number one was called. The twelve men filed into the jury box. There was complete silence in the court room as the Attorney General arose to address the court and said he had a recommendation in this case to make to the court.

"Your honor is probably familiar with this case," said the Attorney General. This defendant, Col. Duncan B. Cooper and John Sharp were indicted jointly for the murder of Senator Carmack. The case came up for trial and resulted in the acquittal of Sharp. Colonel Cooper and this defendant were found guilty of murder in the first degree. The supreme court affirmed the case of Colonel Cooper but as to this defendant there was a reversal.

Judge A. B. Nell then stated to the jury that in view of the statement of the Attorney General, the sworn officer of the state, and in view of the further fact that there is no further effort made to prosecute the case, the jury would return a verdict of not guilty, which was accordingly done.

Counsel for the defense had nothing to say during the proceedings and at the conclusion, General Washington arose and stated to the court that they would retire. The defendant left the court room with his counsel.

Senator Carmack was killed on Seventh Avenue in this city on the evening of the 5th of November, 1908.

The Sign That Came True.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—Twenty automobiles, twenty-five motorcycles, a motor horse and an open automobile truck filled with pall bearers and flowers, made up the funeral cortege here yesterday of Walter Linde, a bicyclist, who was killed Wednesday in a collision with a tombstone wagon. The procession was two blocks long and moved at a steady speed of fifteen miles an hour to the cemetery. Across the street from the undertaker's chapel where the procession started, is a motorcycle shop. In front of it leaning against the curb as the cortege passed, stood Linde's damaged machine. On the rear fender of it hung the sign, "Good-bye, boys!"

It had been intended as a notice to any bicyclist who might attempt to keep up with Linde in the race which led to his death. It had a different meaning to the funeral party.

A Century of Ballooning.

Philadelphia was considerably excited in 1784—not that that was the last time either. A project was then afoot to send up the monster balloon, sixty feet high. The first ascensions in France had been made the year before and the new art excited men's imaginations. Philadelphia was told that by aerial navigation the waste places of the earth might soon be made accessible; plagues and sieges would lose some of their inconvenience when a well-to-do citizen could simply inflate his gashag and sail away; communication would be quicker and surer; dispatch boats, hitched to balloons, might be drawn at lightning speed.

We do not find just how far this Philadelphia balloon sailed; but it came almost as near crossing the Atlantic as Mr. Wellman's dirigible did, and as a dependable means of travel it could not have been far behind Count Zeppelin's monsters. "Of what use is a new born child?" said Franklin when a skeptic asked the use of this new invention. After a hundred and thirty-seven years the child can only creep a rod, which is nearly as apt to be away from its destination as toward it. True, we now have heavier-than-air flying machines, which may be indefinitely developed.

About the time Philadelphia sent up her first balloon an exceedingly alert and inquisitive American mentioned incidentally in the prospect of a letter from Europe that one James Watt had made some improvements on the steam engine which were attracting quite a little attention among scientists. Airships may be still interesting toys when some discovery made year before last, which hasn't yet got into the newspapers, is multiplying the world's power.—Saturday Evening Post.

WILSON PREDICTS CHEAP FOOD.

Only Thing That Will Prevent Cost of Living Getting Lower Is a Combine of Dealers, Says Federal Secretary of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 13.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson joins Charles W. Armour in the prediction that falling prices soon will give the American consumer cheaper foodstuffs. "We have had bumper crops and meat prices should come down," says Secretary Wilson, "that is, if no combine is formed among the dealers. I look for a falling price of all kinds of meat. The crops have been such that a falling in the prices should be an inevitable result. The one thing that can defeat this will be the too great a toll is taken after the products leave the hands of the farmer, and before they reach the consumers. The big decline in the price of grain is regarded as the keystone of the supply problem. The abundance of the corn crop, in the opinion of the department experts, means that the price of meat must come down. They are also of the opinion that with the marked increase in the number of cattle, sheep and hogs and with teeming cribs of corn it will be difficult, if not impossible for any combination effectively to turn back the strong natural pressure towards lower prices.

Banquet in Whale.

A banquet inside of a whale! This is what Captain Cot Plummer of Sabine Pass, owner of the only mounted sperm whale in existence, gave last night to fourteen friends at the foot of San Jacinto street.

The whale was the "Port Arthur whale" captured personally by Captain Plummer on March 8 off Sabine Pass. After three weeks of exhibition, in which over 40,000 spectators attended, the whale was taken to Harrisburg, five miles from Houston. For the past six months a Houston taxidermist, R. G. James, has been working on the hide and bones of the whale. A week ago the whale was delivered, perfectly mounted, to Captain Plummer, and also were the monstrous bones taken from it. Last week the whale was towed to the foot of San Jacinto street, where from today through carnival week it will be exhibited.

The party last night was in honor of the launching of the whale's new career. A company has been formed to exhibit the curiosity, and a tour has been planned which includes a trip up the Mississippi river to the great lakes and down to the Atlantic Coast.

Last night was the first time any but the owners had seen the completed work. Fourteen friends were sent invitations. Tables were placed on the roomy interior of the monster, and a light luncheon with refreshments served. The only odor was from the cigars and the establish. Not a vestige of any discomforting smell could be found by the visitors, who "whiffed and sniffed" every section of the mammal.

The luncheon was a delightful affair besides being uncannily novel. It was very probably the first like affair in the world. Marriage in an aeroplane or divorce in a submarine were not in competition. It was unique beyond expression.

The whale was measured for the benefit of the visitors. The tape showed seventy-eight feet from nose to tail. Around the biggest part was thirty-six feet and one inch. The monster blunt nose and a height of nine feet and three inches. The horizontal tail was eighteen feet wide. Each fin was six feet long. From fin tip to fin tip was fifteen feet six inches. Other measurements were proportionally monstrous.

The whale, mounted with utmost care, lies in the hull of the Olga, a three-masted schooner, dismantled and rebuilt especially to receive it. The visitors inspected every side from two decks, and then entered the whale through its mouth, stepping carefully between the teeth. Exit was through a door in one side. The interior could accommodate between fifty and seventy-five persons standing.

Alongside the whale are the huge bones. The skull bone, from which thirty barrels of sperm oil were taken, is shown complete. It weighs over three tons, and is the largest one-piece bone in the world. The seventeen-foot, six-inch jawbones are shown.

The sight is a wonderful one and more instructive than a dozen books on the subject. The whale, in perfect form, stands before one—a seventy-foot whale, the largest ever exhibited.—Houston Post.

When a cold becomes settled in the system, it will take several days to cure it, and the best remedy to use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will cure quicker than any other, and also leaves the system in a natural healthy condition. Sold by all dealers.

The Man With the Gun.

A traveler going through Breathitt County, Kentucky, in 1896, found a man sitting on the side of the road with a gun across his knees. "Belong here?" he asked the man. "Yes." "How's politics?" "Tol'able." "Who you going to vote for?" "Well, stranger," said the man with the gun, peering down the road. "If I see Bill Smith before he sees me I'm goin' to vote for McKinley."

Wise Johnnie.

"Johnnie." "Yes'm." "Why are you sitting on that boy's face?" "Well, I—." "Did he tell you always to count one hundred before you gave way to passion and see another boy?" "Yes'm, and I just settin on his face so he'll be here when I get done countin' the hundred."

He Says it is Anti-Diaz
 Asserting that the riots in Mexico are manifestations against the Diaz government and are not evidence of ill-will toward Americans, Francisco I. Madero, refugee from Mexico and recent candidate for the presidency of that country on the antire-electionist ticket, says that the burning of Antonio Rodriguez in Rock Springs, in connection with the killing of Mrs. Lem Henderson, has been seized upon as a pretext by certain Mexicans to vent their spleen against President Diaz.

"These riots simply show the feeling of political unrest in Mexico," said Mr. Madero, when seen by an Express representative Friday, "and if it were not for the censorship on the press dispatches you would hear that the cry of the mobs is 'Down with Diaz!' and is not 'Down with the Americans!' That is my opinion. I have received no information directly about these troubles. All letters and telegrams to me from Mexico are held up. My only means of getting word from Mexico is by persons coming from there.

"There is no such thing as expressing a free opinion at the ballot box in Mexico; there is no freedom for the press and there is no constitutional liberty. The masses resent this, and the rioting is an illustration of it. They cannot get recognition at the polls and they have only one means of showing their displeasure. They are beginning to believe they cannot change the present form of government except by revolutionary measures. President Diaz can quell them by force but he does not pacify them.

"These are anti-Diaz movements more than anti-American demonstrations. The masses are willing to take any pretext for such demonstrations. The Mexican Herald and the El Imparcial are subsidized by the Mexican government and they defend the Diaz Government. The Herald office demonstration was not against the paper because Americans manage it, but because of its policy. Editorials in that paper last May were considered insults to the masses and I and my associates prevented a demonstration against it shortly after the editorial criticism appeared.

"Some papers in Mexico have advocated peace at any cost, for, if a revolution comes, they say, the Americans will take over the Mexican government. There is some anti-American feeling among the ignorant, no doubt, because of a belief that the Americans in Mexico are helping to sustain the Diaz rule. However, the American ambassador, Mr. Wilson, is very popular with the masses, because of a speech he delivered at a banquet given him by the American colony in the City of Mexico when he succeeded Ambassador Thompson. He defended the rights of the people and favored constitutional liberty. Because of these facts I placed no credence in the report published in San Antonio from Laredo, which said it was reported there that an attack was made on the ambassador's home.

"I do not believe the Mexican disturbances will mar the friendly feeling between Mexico and the United States. Americans realize that the Mexican government will punish the persons who insulted the American flag and did damage to American property, and Mexicans should realize that the United States will punish the persons who burned a Mexican at the stake at Rock Springs."

Bible Study in the University.

Nearly all the prominent religious bodies of Texas have in the last few years erected buildings adjacent to the University of Texas campus mainly in order to take care of members of their churches who are students of this institution. The Texas Bible Chair of the Christian Church and the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, offer courses of Bible Study that are open free to all University students. During the present session arrangements have been made by which, under certain restrictions, University students who complete thorough courses in Bible Study may have such courses credited on their University degrees. In other words, at the option of the student himself, he can include in his course of study the Bible, and receive the credit therefor.

Wall Street Democratic.

The economist remarks: "Curiously Wall Street for once in its life Democratic." Other trustworthy financial journals have made the same observation lately. Which presumably arouses in the apprehensive mind of Mr. Bryan a question as to whether the party of which he is the most conspicuous member is about to experience another change of front.

Thus far in the history of the United States it has been impossible to keep the same front on any party very long. Federalists espoused the cause of Aron Burr, who killed their founder. Democrats started as the special champions of humanity and presently became the special champions of slavery.

The American manufacturer's ideal, broadly speaking, is to produce an article that can be sold in the same package and at the same price from coast to coast. We try as hard to standardize our politics as our breakfast foods and shoes. The ideal of both parties is to put up a package equally adapted to Newport, Rhode Island, and Red Dog, Arizona.

In trying to cover so vast a territory with the same cloth, accidents happen. In 1904, New York pulled the Democratic blanket so violently its way that the West was left bare. Recently, when Mr. Roosevelt edged the Republican coverlet eastward to accommodate the Empire State, there were shouts of protest and hasty grabbings at the quilt in Iowa.

The political manufacturers, we believe, misunderstand the market. There are packages equally adapted to Newport and Red Dog. A party consistently radical and a party consistently conservative could stand squarely on its two feet everywhere. The radical party would sell fewer goods in Wall Street and the conservative one might not get the larger share of the trade in Iowa, but each would have a package that really satisfied its own patrons.—Saturday Evening Post.

TERRIBLE FLOODS IN FRANCE

Suburbs of Paris are Already Suffering Much Damage From Flood.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—There has been no abatement of the flood from the river Seine, which continues to rise. The gauge at Point Royal tonight marks a height of 5.93 meters above normal and higher than estimated a few days ago for this date.

The river authorities estimate the rise will continue until Thursday, when it is expected the flood will reach a maximum of 7.20 meters, a little more than two meters short of the disastrous floods of last January.

The low quarters at the eastern end of the city and part of the Jardin des Plantes, or the Museum of Natural History, are inundated and Austerlitz station are flooded, gang ways being improvised for passengers. The cellars of the Palais de Justice, the Conciergerie and the prefecture of police are full of water. M. Lupine, the prefect of Paris, has installed traction engines and dynamos in the courtyard to supply electricity for the offices.

The suburbs are suffering immense damage. The river at Asnières is over its banks, flooding the lower floors of houses. The poor in the eastern suburbs, who were so severely stricken last January, are again suffering almost as severely. Many of the residents have already moved out their furniture. It is feared that several factories will be forced to close tomorrow, throwing thousands out of work.

The river Marne is falling, but several of the smaller places along its banks are inundated.

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeated over and over again for the last 36 years, but it is always a welcome story to those in search of health—There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Sold by all dealers.

The Ways of Wool.

When the present tariff law was under discussion, Representative Ralph Cole, of Ohio, received many letters and telegrams asking him to see that there was a good stiff tariff on wool.

One man in particular in Cole's district was most insistent and persistent. He sent in some kind of a message every day, such as "Protect the wool grower!" "American wool growers must be protected!" Don't overlook the claims of the wool growers!" and so on.

Finally Cole wrote to this man that he was for highly protected wool and intended to work for it and get it, and that it might be just as well if the telegrams ceased.

Cole heard nothing for three weeks. Then he got a letter from the man who had been pestering him. It read: "As regards the tariff on wool, act on your discretion. I have sold my sheep."

TOBIN DEHYMEL
AUTOMOBILE DRIVER
KILLED IN RACE

Most Famous Auto Racer in Texas
Loses Life in Speed Contest at San Antonio Fair

CRUSHED BENEATH MACHINE
Winner of Many Contests is Taken
To Hospital and Expires in Very Short time.

From the San Antonio Express of Nov. 13, we take the following account of the death by accident
of Tobin DeHymel, the well known
and popular race driver:

"A front wheel of DeHymel's car dish. His car wobbled, and in the twinkling of an eye all of the spokes were ripped from the wheel. If I recall correctly, it was the left front wheel of his car; that is, the wheel on the inside of the track. I was working on the gas generator at the time. When the car was almost opposite me it took its first header.
The driver held on and I saw his chest and body crushed as the steering wheel came down upon him.
When the car made another half turn DeHymel seemed to have loosened his hold on the steering wheel and he shot out feet foremost. He landed on the embankment with his feet near the top of the mound. His right arm was doubled under his head as he fell. His lightning instinct seemed to hold on to the end
and that was in protecting his head.
The car made another complete somersault and then landed squarely
across the track, its radiator pointing directly to our camp. It all happening else to say. But that's how the poor fellow died."—Statement of Ralph Freeman of the Strobel airship camp, who was charging the gas generators at the time, and the man nearest to DeHymel when the accident occurred.

Crushed terribly amid the grinding metal of his big Stoddard-Dayton car, Alfred DeHymel yesterday afternoon on the motor-race track at the Fair Grounds, received injuries
from which he died within an hour,
never regaining consciousness.

DeHymel known to the racing game as "Tobin DeHymel," was at the wheel of his car, the largest entered in the contests here, in a handicap race which had seven starters, with six still in the race and victory already in sight, the big Stoddard
which had started behind the balance on scratch, was seen by those in the grand stand to crash into the south banking in a cloud of dust.
The car was then taking the turn farthest from the grandstand at full sixty miles an hour.

Those first to arrive at the scene
judged the still furiously driven cars carried the injured man to the top of the bank. In turning over the car righted itself, thus throwing its driver clear.

The race stopped as soon as the other contestants could be flagged down, and within a short time a crowd had pressed around the victim. With the car lying badly wrecked diagonally across the track and attracting only passing scrutiny from the keen personal interest of the lookers, the terribly mangled form of the popular driver was gently straightened out. Dr. L. T. Wolfe shortly arrived and rendered every assistance in his power.

DeHymel was crushed to a pulp internally, when his shoulder was broken and there was a jagged gash,
six inches long across his forehead.
A towing car was summoned and the tonneau was filled with men who bore in their arms the unconscious form of the injured man wrapped in a blanket. An ambulance was required and he was rushed to the Rosa Infirmary. He died there most as soon as he arrived.

At the exact point where DeHymel yesterday came to his death last year in the six-hour race his car was wrecked and came to a stop, after throwing its flywheel about twenty feet immediately opposite the grandstand
from the place where Burman was wrecked and escaped death by a miracle, and only about thirty yards from the spot where Clark went over the bank last fall in that same race.
Hymel's car yesterday was the same as that in the six-hour race last year.

When DeHymel flashed past the grandstand just before the accident a number of people noticed that one front wheel was wobbling but he was past before he could be warned and before he came around again
his car came to grief.

The machine had both front wheels thrown off at the hubs, the front of the frame was broken and the steering wheel smashed to a mixture of aluminum and wood splinters.
Aside from this and a general damage to alignment the machine appeared little hurt. It had swung completely around and was facing the track. Now the other three cars missed it appeared difficult to say, except that the wreck

was somewhat higher on the bank
than it was necessary to go.

The accident occurred toward the end of the race, which was a handicap of twelve miles. DeHymel's car had to make up one minute and forty-eight seconds on the Hudson, the big car being the last to start. The accident occurred exactly at 5:10 o'clock.

Leo DeHymel, a brother of the dead lad, met with a slight injury
Thursday morning when he fell left the track in practice. This caused the withdrawal of that machine from the races.

The dead driver was widely known both locally and all over the United States. His most recent victory before the local races was in Fairmount Park race at Philadelphia,
where he took third place in a big field. His daring driving became a byword in the automobile contest
game, and he was called the "Aztec Indian" by Eastern followers of the game, although he has no Indian blood in him.

He always has been identified with the Stoddard-Dayton team of G. A. C. Half, of the Alamo Automobile Company of this city, and has won more first places and more money than any driver in the Southwest, frequently beating faster cars than his by his great driving on circular tracks. Between race meets he has acted as chauffeur to various parties
in this city.

He was under 21 years of age, and is survived by his father, Frank De-Hymel, a Bexar county civil engineer, his mother and a number of brothers and sisters, besides other relatives. He was born near this city.

It was learned tonight that Wagner had two ribs broken when his car overturned.

ROCK SPRINGS EXCITEMENT HAS SUBSIDED.

of existing circumstances in the sister republic at this time reveals them,
are substantially as follows:

A revolutionary movement, the work of an anti-Diaz faction in Mexico, has been going forward for some time. Emmissaries of the revolutionary movement had been in this country, probably many of them are here now. The plot was hatched to a fledgling and its originators were just about ready to spring it when the unfortunate occurrence at Rock Springs transpired. The filli-bustering mob immediately saw what they thought to be their golden opportunity, and proceeded to make capital of it. They incited the rabble to riot, ostensibly against Americans, but in reality against the Mexican government.

Just when they had started a nice row and hoped to make a tragical presentation of their revolution the Mexican authorities unearthed the whole plot and nipped the revolution
in the bud.

Many columns of contradictory reports, and conflicting rumors have been published in the public press, practically all of which have been traced to unwarranted rumor, and unfounded surmise.

Peace reigns at Rock Springs. The Mexican citizens of the town and community are law abiding, have never been molested, and were as active in the punishment of the crime
as were the Americans. The Edwards county grand jury will presumably have jurisdiction in the case,
and in view of the fact that the matter has not yet come to trial, comment upon the probable outcome is hardly wise or prudent.

ALL QUIET AT ROCK SPRINGS
AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 16.—While State officials received no direct information today from Rock Springs, Adjutant General Newton had a long-distance telephone conversation with Captain Rogers of the Rangers at Rock Springs.

Captain Rogers was on his way to Rock Springs and at Uvalde conferred with the Sheriffs of Uvalde and Val Verde counties, who reported the situation at Rock Springs as quiet.
The Rangers are due to arrive
at Rock Springs tonight.

foundation for such a rumor in any particular. Thorough investigation fails to find trace of any such report leaving Del Rio. There is and has been no activity here at any time.
