SUPPOSED THIEVES ROBBING SAENGER'S STORE CAUGHT

Two young men, supposed to be soldiers, named Lester Hertzberg and Claude C. Newton, were arrested the latter part of last week at San Angelo, on the charge of having stolen an auto at Mason. They have been returned to the latter place, where they are in jail.

It is stated that a considerable quantity of the goods missing from the store of Mosel, Saenger & Co. were found in the possession of these two young men.

Sheriff Moore has talked with the authorities at Mason and they insist on keeping them there for trial on the charge of auto theft. Our term of court comes first, and it may be that the Mason County officers will consent for the young men to be brought here and tried for the charge of store robbery and then returned to Mason for trial on the auto charge.

LAW APPLYING TO GAMES OF CHANCE AND GAMBLING

The Sun considers it pertinent that the law applying to games of chance and gambling be published, for the information of the public, and especially the officers, which is as follows:

Art. 551. Gaming Table, Bank, etc., keeping or exhibiting: If any person shall, directly or as agent or employe for another or through any agent or agents, keep or exhibit, for the purpose of gaming, any policy game, or any gaming table, bank, wheel or device of any name or description whatever, or any table, bank, wheel or device for the purpose of gaming, which has no name, or any slot machine, any pigeon hole table, any Jenny Lind table, ten pin alley or table or alley of any kind whatsoever, regardless of the name, or whether named or not, or of the number of pins, ball or rings used for gaming, shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction, shall be punished by confinement in the penitentiary not less than two nor more than four years, regardless of whether any of the above mentioned games, tables, banks, alleys, wheels, devices or slot machines are licensed by law or not; provided that any such alley, table, bank, wheel, machine or device shall be considered as used for gaming, if the table fees, alley fees, or money or anything of value is bet thereon.

Slot Machine: This article prohibits the keeping of a slot machine in which checks may be drawn for merchandise, even if no blanks are drawn (Lytle vs. State, 100 S. W. Rep. 1161).

Any person interested in the keeping of any of the above mentioned games or devices, or who shall knowingly permit his premises to be used for the purpose of keeping or exhibiting any of the above devices, is guilty of a felony, and any person betting on any of the devices is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Any Justice of the Peace or other magistrate or peace officer who knowingly permits violations of law as described above, are guilty of a misdemeanor.

AN INTERESTING CELEBRATION WAS HELD AT LAKE SIDE PARK

The barbecue and various forms of amusements advertised to take place at Lake Side Park on Tuesday, the Fourth of July, went off according to schedule. There was quite a crowd to partake of the excellent barbecued meats, while the kiddies enjoyed the sports indulged in.

Mr. McClellan, the manager of the Park, had it in neat condition, and has a fine dance pavilion where people can sit as well as dance.

The various contests between the boys and girls were quite spirited and much enjoyed by the participants as well as the onlookers.

Rev. J. Grady Timmons and Judge Lee Wallace made appropriate and short talks between 12 and 1 o'clock, which were much enjoyed, as both are entertaining speakers.

In the afternoon and evening dancing was generally indulged in to the strains of excellent music furnished by local talent.

The celebration was in charge of R. A. Franklin, superintendent, and Guy Moses, principal, of the Kerrville Public Schools. The proceeds are intended for the Tivy High School athletic fund.

CLUB BOYS ANNUAL EN- CAMPMENT BIG SUCCESS

On June 26th, twenty-five Kerr County Club Boys met with thirty Club Boys from Bexar County at O. E. Fischer's pecan grove on the Guadalupe River near Center Point, in what is known as a Joint Club Encampment. Many fathers of the boys were with them from both counties.

The one big feature of the encampment was the stock judging, especially the dairy cattle judging under the direction of J. L. Thomas, dairy specialist of the A. & M. College.

In addition to the dairy cattle, a class of hogs were judged by the boys, and Mr. Alvord, County Agent of Bexar County, gave a very interesting and valuable talk on seed corn selection.

The amusements were amply taken care of by Messrs. Calvin and Goodwin of Camp Rio Vista.

In the first ten high scoring boys in the stock judging Kerr County had four boys.

The scores of the ten high scoring boys and that of all the Kerr County boys follows below. A perfect score for the contest would have been 250.

Ten Highest Scoring Boys
Chas. Montgomery, Bexar	223

It must be remembered that this is the first stock judging that the boys from Reservation have had, and they will do a good deal better next time. J. A. OSWALT, County Agent.

SUCCESSFUL DRESS FORM AND CANNING DEMONSTRATIONS HELD

Miss Campbell and Mrs. Barnes, both of A. & M. College, were in Kerr County Wednesday and Thursday of last week, conducting demonstrations in canning and making dress forms. The dress form demonstrations were held at Center Point, Hunt and Sunset, while the canning demonstrations were held at Hunt and Sunset.

The ladies were shown how, with a little co-operation, to make a dress form for the small cost of about one dollar. The interesting thing about this dress form is that it is exactly like the person's body for whom it is made.

In the canning demonstration the use of pressure cooker for both tin cans and glass jars was demonstrated, also the Burpee sealer for sealing tin cans. Articles canned were chili, steak, corn, beans and squash.

A total of 151 persons, representing seven communities, were reached with these demonstrations.

At Hunt there was a picnic dinner and at Sunset a barbecue for the occasion.

More work of like nature, such as making hats, fancy needlework, etc., can be secured by a little co-operative effort, and filing the wants with the County Agent. J. A. OSWALT, County Agent.

NEARLY NINETY THOUSAND DOLLARS PAID ON HIGHWAY

The Highway is progressing very well, and with the dry weather now expected the speed will increase and more show made for the preliminary work done.

The County Board allowed claims for the work done the past month. On Section A, the amount was $5,304.72, and on Section B, $7,095.69.

The total amount paid out on the Highway construction is $87,937.84, divided as follows: Section A, $46,144.59; Section B, $41,793.25.

Quite an increased force has been added to the first stretch over the Divide and that part of the work is getting along better. That is the hardest part of the whole line, and when it is completed, the remainder will be easy sailing, comparatively. It will also interfere less with the travel, as over the Divide there isn't much room left for the vehicles where construction is going on.

TWENTY KILLED IN U. S. DURING CELEBRATIONS

San Antonio, Tex., July 5.—Twenty persons lost their lives throughout the United States on the occasion of the celebration of the Fourth of July, the deaths in the main being due to drowning, about a dozen being accounted for in this manner.

Two were reported killed from the use of firecrackers, but numerous injuries and fires were attributed to this cause.

Automobile accidents claimed three, while one was killed during a sham battle in celebration of the Fourth, and another died in a fight during a Louisiana celebration.

$30,000.00 WORTH OF COUNTY WARRANTS SOLD FOR ROADS

The County Board, composed of Judge Lee Wallace and Commissioners Real, Wiedenfeld, Gibbens and Peril, met Wednesday, and in conference with Special Road Commissioners Remschel, Schreiner and Duderstadt, agreed upon a plan by which $30,000.00 worth of county warrants were sold to J. E. Jarratt & Company of San Antonio. Par and accrued interest was received, less fiscal agent's fee. Warrants bear 6 per cent interest.

This additional sum of money to be realized from the sale of county warrants will be used to complete the road work that had been proposed and promised in the general plan of road building.

These warrants are to be issued against the road and bridge fund and will not cost the taxpayers one cent in the way of increased taxation, because the interest on the Schreiner Fund will take care of the maintenance of the roads and the regular road and bridge fund will pay the warrants as they mature.

These warrants are to expire as follows: First three years, there will be paid off $2,000.00 each year, for four years following, $3,000.00; for next three years, $4,000.00 each year. The warrants are to be issued in denominations of $1,000.00.

The County Board and Special Road Commissioners are to be congratulated upon formulating and carrying out this plan to complete the road work that has been proposed and promised, while the crews of road workers, machinery and material are concentrated.

LEE WALLACE ANNOUNCES FOR RE-ELECTION AS COUNTY JUDGE

Judge Lee Wallace announces for re-election in The Sun this week. He has held this position for some time and his work is known to the people of Kerr County.

Judge Wallace is not an apologist. He does his duty as he understands the needs of the situation to require, and if it is not satisfactory that is the other fellow's fault for not being able to see it in the light that the Judge does.

It is generally conceded that Judge Wallace has made an excellent record for economy. Kerr County has not had sufficient revenue to properly meet the demands of the changes and growth here, but mainly through the financing of Judge Wallace the county warrants have been kept at par and the county's credit maintained.

Judge Wallace has taken quite a pride in getting the road work started in Kerr County, and by aiding in conciliating various perplexing interests has made it possible to insure for the county an excellent system of improved roads when all the contracts have been completed.

In the school interests, Judge Wallace has worked to get a larger tax levy where most needed, so as to give longer terms of school. He is anxious to have the youth of Kerr County get all the benefits possible from our school system.

Judge Wallace submits his candidacy subject to the Democratic primary election.

SHEEP AND GOAT MEN REQUEST TARIFF ON SOUTHERN PRODUCTS

San Angelo, Tex., June 29.—Declaring that tariff is as vital to wool and mohair growers as rain is to grass, George W. Thurmond, Del Rio, Wednesday appealed to members of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association of Texas, of which he is secretary-treasurer, and attorney, to sign petitions urging Congress to put a duty on Southern products. Assent was general.

Thurmond reported that the Association's annual receipts were $10,224.68 and disbursements were $10,892.46, with an indebtedness of slightly over $4,000.00.

Gus Reinger of New Braunfels, secretary of the State Tax Assessors' Association, said that West Texas counties pay $1,000,000 more each year for taxes than is their just share, due to the lack of system providing for equal and uniform levying, for which he is campaigning the State. He asserted that 50 counties last year paid in over $1,500,000 more in taxes than they received for schools.

W. F. Freelaevan, Kansas City, General Live Stock Agent for the Santa Fe, explained the live stock increases, asserting that his company was assenting to the stockmen, but that all railroads were yet virtually under Government control. When questioned, he was unable to ascribe any reasons as to why stockmen have to pay full car rates on interstate shipments of one or merely a few animals.

SHEEP AND GOAT RAISERS NOW NUMBER THOUSAND

San Angelo, Tex., July 1.—The newly appointed executive committee of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association of Texas at its first session Friday night accepted the resignation of D. T. Jones of San Angelo, secretary-treasurer, and elected James T. Elliott as successor. Mr. Jones was elected by the association yesterday, but was unable to make arrangements to take over the work. Mr. Elliott is publisher here of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Magazine, the association's official organ.

George M. Thurmond, retiring secretary-treasurer, and C. C. Belcher, both Del Rio lawyers, were appointed association attorneys. Mr. Thurmond has served in that capacity previously. S. L. Humphreys of Comstock, T. R. Owens of Mertzon and J. E. Pruett of Barksdale, were reappointed inspectors with Humphreys as chief, succeeding Nat B. Jones of Del Rio, who resigned Friday.

Roy E. Aldwell of Sonora and R. H. Martin of Del Rio, retiring president, are the only new members of the executive committee, succeeding Claude A. Broome and E. J. Favcett of Del Rio; these men having been elected president and vice president respectively. All other committeemen were reappointed. The list follows:

Sam Oglesby, Mertzon; W. C. Bryson, Sonora; J. P. Murrah, San Antonio; R. E. Taylor, Carlsbad, N. M.; Sam Witt, Brackettville; F. O. Landrum, Laguna; Robert Real, Kerrville; Moss Slaton Jr., Brackettville; W. C. Gay, Coleman; A. V. Livingston, Talpa; W. O. Schultz, Paintrock; Fred Earwood, Sonora; F. C. Bates Jr., Mertzon; A. B. Whitehead, Del Rio; Joe B. Blackney, Ozona; Jim Moore, Cleo; Oscar Oppelt, Sonora; Mont Noelke, Mertzon; Bob Davis, Rio Frio; Frenk Greenwood, Del Rio; Hal Hamilton, Del Rio; V. A. Brown, Rock-springs; J. B. Moore, San Antonio; F. E. Stricklen, Juno, and B. E. Wilson, Juno.

During the convention here, about 100 producers joined the association, increasing the membership to around 1,000.

KERRVILLE, TEXAS

KERRVILLE ATHLETICS WIN TWO MORE, 6-5 AND 11-5

Last Sunday, Pleasanton came back for the third and deciding game and started in with a one-run handicap, which was immediately taken from them by Bob Barry hitting a homer with Rowton on ahead of him. Bob then held the visitors helpless until his team-mates drove Navert from the mound in the fifth. Wilkins, who took up the pitching job, was given erratic support besides falling a victim to a bombardment of hits and smashes in the sixth and eighth, bringing the Athletic's total to six.

In the sixth, Kuesel started the trouble with a hit. An error put on base Henke drove them around. In the seventh with two down, Remschel hit and Wilson followed his lead, but "Slim" was tricked off second, Garrett rendering the decision. In the eighth, Kuesel was hit, Garcia singled, Holchak got on by accident or otherwise and Henke hit 'em around again, to be caught later at second when Rowton hit straight to that station.

Pleasanton staged a comeback in the ninth and through an error followed by two hits, one a two-sacker, and still another error, put three runs over, but three were not enough.

Barry Pitched one of his best games while the boys, though steady in the pinches, appeared to be suffering from the effects of their race meet with the Fredericksburg Giants the previous Sunday. The ninth inning rally against them, however, put the locals on edge for the Soldiers Tuesday.

It was not intended that Barry should pitch both games, but the recruit whose services were promised for Sunday failed to show.

Bill Garrett appeared in his familiar role as "Umps," assister by a Pleasanton man, and the game was handled smoothly.

At Tuesday's game, the Headquarters brought the choice from the Fort and started off with the usual donation of one run, which the Athletics seem determined to give regularly to their guests. A double play, after Kuesel was out on a long fly to center, killed the local's chances in that inning.

In the second the home team also pulled a fast double to even matters. In this round Holchak came around with the tying run, and in the third Barry was out at the plate, but Kuesel brought Remschel home with a hit, as "Slim" had been passed. In the sixth, Holchak opened with a hit and McCarty and Barry drove him home, making the score 3-1 in our favor.

The seventh gave the Soldiers an opportunity. With one out, two hits, followed by a homer by Gramith, put the score 4-3 in the visitor's favor.

The eighth was the old story that has happened so often this year that it has become stereotyped. Starting with McCarty fourteen men faced two pitchers, as Lamanski soon relieved Spots, who had started the game. Eight runs were scored from eight hits, one a two-bagger by Wilson, a base on balls and an error. McCarty and Remschel each made two hits in this frame.

During the game the home boys accumulated fifteen hits, with extra base clouts going to Kuesel and Wilson. Three bases on balls and seven errors by the visitors were also effective.

Barry allowed but nine hits and but two errors were registered against the Athletics. Due credit is given to Barry for pitching two winning games against such strong teams, in three days.

A close decision at the plate in the first half of the eighth brought out such a demonstration of protest from the fans, mostly, that a change of umpires resulted. This decision made the score 5-3 in favor of the Soldiers. From the stands the play at the plate was plainly visible and the runner was out by inches, though an umpire might easily judge otherwise from a position in front of the play.

Richerson worked throughout the game as umpire, and Scholl replaced the retired ump for the finish.

Next Sunday the Joske Brothers bunch return here to attempt to repeat what they were allowed to get away with on a previous trip. Our boys have not been beaten since they were here. It will be the last home game for some weeks, so come out and see it. PODGER.

BLACK ATHLETICS DEFEAT BLACK ACES AT LLANO

Kerrville has a Black Athletic baseball team that is also making quite a record. Tuesday they journeyed to Llano and defeated the Black Aces of that place by the decisive score of 23 to 6. Butler and Ware were the battery for the Kerrville Blacks.

A return game will be played in Kerrville next Sunday at the Fair Grounds.

Kerrville to Junction: W. C. Benton, contractor; three times a week; salary, $1,705.00.

Kerrville to Rocksprings: W. T. Petmecky, contractor; three times a week; salary, $2,880.00.

FRIENDS, LAWYERS AND COUNTRYMEN

Saturday Evening Post: In politics a man's friends have a tendency to turn into liabilities. It is quite as important to get good ones in. Usually, the greatest proof of friendship that the intimate of a President can give him is to refuse an appointment at his hands.

A personal friend may be the best man for a public office, but the odds are strongly against him. The taint of favoritism, the suspicion of private rather than public considerations, always lies against such an appointment. Its burden is a heavy one to bear, for while the failure of an official who has been selected on his character and public record may be viewed by the country as a pardonable error of judgment on the part of the appointing power, the faults and blunders of a friend in office are, in the estimation of the public, personal to the man who chose him for the place.

President Harding applied the test of supreme fitness to Secretary Hughes, and he has proved to be the biggest asset of his Administration. But in appointing Daugherty—no doubt an able man, but not, in the judgment of the public, a happy choice for the place he occupies—the President allowed personal considerations to sway him, and his Attorney General has proved to be a heavy liability.

Americans have been disposed to applaud the politician of every rank who "stands by his friends." That, of course, is a fine thing to do, so long as it is not done at the expense of the public service. But no official should pay his personal debts of friendship, even when they have contributed to his own political advancement, with public office. This has been more or less customary and the voter has accepted the practice as a necessary corollary to our political system, but it rarely works out to the advantage of the country or to the glory of the appointing power.

It is only human to wish to be surrounded by old friends, and it is easy to believe that the man who helped boost one up has unusual qualifications for the job into which he, in turn, wants to be boosted. But when it comes to his friends, an official should distrust his judgment, unless there is an independent and overwhelming demand for these friends to hold office. A President, a Governor or a mayor is kept fairly busy explaining his own mistakes. To shoulder those of his friends, as he must when his appointments are purely personal, is too much of a burden for even the most popular of executives.

It seems impossible for the average American, in office and out, to get any concrete conception of his Government as a great business, needing experience, expert knowledge, special aptitudes and, above all, business brains in its many departments. We run to lawyers in government, forgetting that lawyers are not primarily business men and that the conduct of their own profession is, on the whole, dilatory and unbusinesslike, and that the courts are almost inextricably cluttered up. The leaders of the bar, from Chief Justice Taft down, are aware of these conditions and are striving to correct them, but the fact remains that they have persisted for years, and still persist. Today the National business, as well as the courts, is lawyer-run, lawyer-delayed, and, like them, functioning too slowly, too cumbrously and too expensively.

Pennsylvania has just nominated two lawyers for the Senate, both able men and distinguished leaders of the bar, but the greatest industrial State in the Union should be represented in the Senate by one business man, at least, with first-hand and expert knowledge of manufacturing and commerce. Why, too, a preponderance of lawyers in both Houses, instead of a majority of business men? And why, in nine appointive positions out of ten, are men taken from lines of work that have not the remotest connection with the Government jobs for which they are slated? Even when we pick business men for business departments we rarely select those who have special experience in the particular line of work with which the department is concerned. The theory on which we proceed in government is that a legal training fits a man for any and every kind of office.

Now we do not underrate the importance or the need of a fair proportion of lawyers in government, doing the work for which lawyers are best fitted by training and experience. But we should retire the great surplus of lawyers now in office to private life, until such time as they have proved, by introducing clean-cut, expeditious business methods in their own profession and by reforming judicial procedure, that they are as a class better fitted than any other to manage the business of the Nation.

Of course, government is wasteful and inefficient and always will be until we apply to it a fraction of the common sense that we use in our personal affairs. President Harding has done much to correct the waste and sloppy methods of the departments, perhaps as much as he can do under present conditions, but there is still a long way to go. Primarily the blame for governmental methods and abuses rests with an uneducated, indifferent and lazy electorate, that has a double standard, one for private and another for public business, not grasping the fact that they are one and inseparable, and that our business ills—and they are made concrete for us in our tax bills—are the result of highly infectious political diseases. No group needs education so much as those business men who go along with corrupt organizations on the theory that they can profitably exchange public advantage for private gain.

Once Americans fought because they had taxation without representation. Today we stand for taxation with misrepresentation. Nor can we have lower taxes until we remove the causes of high taxes, which means the removal of a lot of incompetents from office. Half-asleep voters have always been ruled by wide-awake spenders. There is no magic in the polling place that transmutes second-rate candidates into first-rate officials. But the men who work at politics are entitled to the rewards of politics. And the man who is too lazy to protect his pocketbook has no real cause for complaint when the bill is charged to him. There is nothing to prevent his organizing before the primaries, to interfere with his putting up candidates who will protect his best interests, except his dumb indifference. So long as this lasts, not even the best-intentioned President, Governor or mayor can do much to improve present conditions.

Before politics can be reformed the average voter must reform. On the whole, he is now getting rather better government than he deserves. When he wants something different he can have it, provided he is willing to work to get it and fight to keep it. The average voter, including the run of business men, is a hick in politics, gaping open-mouthed at the performing elephant; exclaiming "if swan!" over the trick donkey; munching political peanuts and persuaded by the barkers and ballyhoo men to accept as genuine the freaks and fakes of the political midway. Even when he finds that he has been frisked by the light-fingered and free-handed followers of the circus he runs around aimlessly, emitting loud cries of rage, instead of starting in methodically to clean out the show.

Politics begins in compact organization before and careful selection at the primaries, and it ends in keeping alive and watchful before and after elections. There are no seasons, no slack times in the business of getting and keeping good government.

Edwards County Echoes

Leader, June 30: According to the Del Rio papers the First National Bank last week disposed of 290,000 pounds of short wool to a Boston commission house at 37 cents and 70,000 pounds of long wool at up to 44 cents. The Del Rio Wool and Mohair Co. did not sell their large wool holdings, deciding to wait for higher prices.

It seems right now that nothing is going to prevent Edwards County from having a complete system of good roads. The citizens are for them and the money to pay for the work will soon be available, the bond money, and we have so far been allotted $118,500 of Federal and State aid. We can turn all our main roads into highways.

rattlesnake Thursday of this week. The little boy was hurried down to Barksdale for medical treatment. The news that came Thursday evening was to the effect that there was not much hope for the child, but a later report comes Friday morning that the little fellow is recovering. It is said the big reptile crawled onto the porch and bit the boy on the toe.

Jensie Nelson, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mart Nelson, happened to a painful accident Wednesday morning of this week. While at play she fell on a needle and the head of same went into her little arm near the shoulder and penetrated the bone about three-quarters of an inch before breaking off. Dr. Rogers, who was summoned, tried to pull the needle out of the bone with his surgeon's pliers but could not do so, but finally when a big pair of garage pliers was used the needle came out. Of course there was grave danger that the needle would again break off in the bone so it couldn't be gotten out. As it is Jensie is getting on all right.

Independence Day Observed

The anniversary of our declaration of freedom from the thralldom of Great Britain was commemorated patriotically at Notre Dame. At sunrise the Stars and Stripes were raised to greet the golden orb and keep it company till dusk. After the morning chapel exercises, all Notre Dame students who were present, arose to recite the American creed and the stronger pledge of loyalty taken by the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus.

Our National anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," was sung by the entire congregation. After this followed a poem written in the Knowing Nothing days by Father Pise, who was chaplain of the U. S. Senate. Rev. Dr. Pise was the author of many American patriotic hymns, but the particular composition selected was the one that begins with the well-known lines: "They say I do not love thee, flag of my native land; they say I would betray thee to serve an alien hand."

Most of the Notre Dame children spent the day at Lake Side, but a number of Knights of Columbus joined the annual picnic of the local council, which this year was held in Boerne. Free barbecue, pickles, bread and coffee were provided abundantly. The Caseys also had their own band for the dancing, and the prize sports, chief among which was the baseball game between the Third and Fourth Degree members.

Ware's Black Powder Relieves Indigestion, Gas, Bad Taste and Other Stomach and Bowel Troubles

Do you have that uncomfortable "full" feeling after eating? Are you troubled with bad taste in your mouth or "sour mouth"? Have you dyspepsia, "heartburn," or plain old-fashioned stomach ache? Are you constipated or bothered with dysentery, colic, diarrhoea and sometimes headache, nausea and other ailments that come from stomach trouble? If so, use Ware's Black Powder. It is a scientific preparation formulated by the celebrated Dr. James Ware, one of the South's best known physicians. Ware's Black Powder neutralizes the acids of the stomach, overcomes the poison of auto-intoxication in the bowels and keeps the alimentary canal in good condition.

Ware's Black Powder is often prescribed by physicians. Besides helping ordinary cases of indigestion, it often is of benefit in serious cases. Read this unsolicited testimonial recently received from a minister of the Gospel (name on request):

"About five weeks ago, I began using Ware's Black Powder for Intestinal Indigestion, with which I had been troubled for about three years and six months, having taken treatment of seven doctors in three states but was no better. After taking about 14 bottles of the family size, I feel quite well and suffer no more as I did so long. Several who have seen the good it has done me have inquired where they can get it."

Ware's Black Powder contains no harmful drugs. It does not purge. The same ingredients used in Ware's Black Powder are also combined in a convenient tablet form called Ware's Black Powder Tablets. The Tablets are especially recommended when only one or two doses are required to check a case of indigestion coming on, to relieve a slight heartburn or to sweeten the breath. Used for 40 years. Sold at drug stores, 50c and $1.00 the package. Send for booklet on the care of the stomach—free. The Ware Chemical Co., Dallas, Texas. Adv-1

Academy in San Antonio, has joined our staff for the rest of the summer.

On Tuesday we were honored with a visit from Sr. Mary of the Divine Heart, who belongs to the nuns of Our Lady of Refuge.

Madeline Sinn and Mary Louise Ahnert made their way stealthily into the Convent on Saturday midnight. They had gone with John Ahnert and family on an auto excursion to Dallas and vicinity. Mr. Ahnert stayed here long enough to give his Lizzie more gas and go on to Granger, where he has prospects of locating in the bakery business. He intends, however, to leave his daughters complete their education in our High School.

School Forecast

Several newcomers have taken time by the forelock and arranged to reserve a place at Notre Dame for the next session.

Samuel Rabalais brought his children here from Louisiana so they could enjoy our scholastic advantages.

Mrs. Jessie Bullard is also figuring on sending her daughter, Lottie Marie, to our school. It has been two years since Mrs. Bullard, at Dr. Thompson's Sanatorium, has seen her baby girl. The youngster was brought here on Sunday by her aunts, Mrs. R. Kunitz of Sinton, Texas, and Miss Caroline Bomba of Havana, Cuba. Miss Bomba has been in the West Indies the last five years as secretary for the Portland Cement Company.

Old schoolmates were glad to welcome Freddie Nyc for the week-end. He has become a booster for Herbert Crate's encampment at Rio Vista. Other Catholic boys at this recreational center are Raymond Duffin of Houston and Jack Coggins of San Antonio.

Cecilia and Imelda Boudreaux, boarders at the Convent, were glad to have with them their aunt, Miss Victoria Watkins, a trained nurse from Beaumont. Miss Watkins joined the campers at Notre Dame.

Preceding Miss Watkins came Miss Agnes McAllester of Fort Worth and Miss Rosita Applewhite of Laredo, but these two found board and lodging in town.

Four young ladies from the Sacred Heart Parish and one from St. Cecilia's are scheduled to join the Notre Dame campers at the end of this week. Transient vacationists can be accommodated for lodging, but all the dining rooms are engaged for the remainder of the summer season. Although the crowd is a slight inconvenience, we feel repaid to think that Kerrville and Notre Dame Institute are becoming so widely known throughout the Lone Star State.

CATHOLIC CHURCH NOTES
By Father Kemper

PREMIER SOCIAL

The Auxiliary luncheon served at St. Mary's Park on last Friday night far exceeded any similar event during the past decade, and netted almost twice as much profit as the general average of all previous ice cream socials. This ought to be evidence enough that the lawn party was very successful not only from a financial viewpoint, but also as a factor in cementing the bonds of acquaintanceship among transient and resident parishioners, as well as numerous non-Catholic citizens who had the kindness to participate.

The officers of the Catholic Benevolent Society feel very grateful to all who made donations, offered their services, and came with their friends. As chairman of the entertainment committee, Mrs. Frederick Nyc had charge of the undertaking, and was ably assisted by Mesdames Henry Kuhlmann, W. G. Carpenter, John Power and many other willing helpers. These ladies wish also to thank the Dixie and Play House managers for their efficient advertisements. All the sandwiches, salads, cakes, candies, ice cream and cold refreshments met a ready sale on such a warm and clear evening.

Towards nightfall the young folks flocked to Washington Hall, where they were treated to good music by Prof. Charlier's Orchestra. Bernard and Annie Whalen and their mother, Mrs. John Whalen, are members of this splendid musical troupe. Later on the Fisk Orchestra held the stage and the dancers occupied the floor. Their congenial exercise aided the disposal of all unsold refreshments.

This Friday evening the Parish Auxiliary holds its monthly assembly to discuss several urgent charitable cases for which the treasury has been augmented. Over twenty-one hundred pieces of clothing have been distributed among the poor during the first half of the current year.

Children of Mary

All members of the Sodality of the Children of Mary held their gathering on the first Sunday of the month, and approached the Eucharistic Table as a unit, arrayed in the regalia of their organization which has been canonically affiliated with the Roman headquarters.

The congregational singing is becoming better every Sunday, both at the American and at the Mexican church. This progress is largely due to the interest manifested in the choir rehearsals scheduled for every Monday evening at 7:15 o'clock.

The weekly over-crowded condition of our congregation has brought one drawback and that is the swaying southward of our lumber building, which has survived thirty-one years of hard usage, including the moving from the original site on Jefferson Street to its present location. Bruno Schott has been given the contract to strengthen the structure and prolong its usefulness until a large enough fund will justify the erection of a monumental edifice.

Legion Notes

Peter Herbert, an ex-service man, has been granted a brief vacation to his folks in Plaquemine, La.

Lawrence A. Trudeau of Springfield, Mass., has moved to Legion with his entire family.

Mrs. Fred Robinson of Temple is also camping in the tent colony.

From San Antonio we have the following workmen: Jack Howlorn and Dan Riegel of St. Mary's Parish, Frank Nitsch and Henry Tarrillion of St. Joseph's and John Duffin of St. Gerard's. John and Dan Collins, also of St. Gerard's, had the pleasure of entertaining their sister, Margherite, during the past week, and their younger brother, Tom, during the current week. Rev. Printen, a grammar school classmate of Father Kemper, is stationed at the new St. Gerard's Church in San Antonio, which was solemnly dedicated by Archbishop Shaw on the Fourth of July.

Vacation-Seekers

One of the veteran editors of Texas is with us for the present summer, namely Wm. Campbell, who has made the Southern Messenger one of the best known diocesan weeklies in our country.

Capt. L. H. Hanley and wife of Camp Travis are renting a bungalow at the Encampment grounds.

Ambrose R. O'Malley, the only commissioned officer in San Antonio, is exchanging the comforts of the Gunter in the hot metropolis for the hospitality of the St. Charles in our cool mountain resort.

Other guests fleeing from the oppressiveness of the Mission City are Miss Annie Sharp, on a visit to E. Schwethelm and family, and Miss E. Obadal and Jacob R. Hartmann. The last-named is staying with his aunt, Mrs. Rudolph Staudt, who has with her also her daughter, Mrs. Max Vogt of Boerne.

Arthur Mosel accompanied his daughter, Hilda, to the Alamo City on the conclusion of her vacation period.

E. G. Wood, construction engineer on the Old Spanish Trail, went to Waco to visit his wife and mother to our delightful climate.

Mrs. Werner Lochte is entertaining her relative, Mrs. O. F. Raaz.

Personals

The hot weather of San Antonio drove Mrs. John Power back to our hills and made her prolong her stay here with her family.

Joe Bauer hurried back from Louisville, Ky., after a short visit with his mother.

Dr. L. Gatz and Marcellus Carrico motored to Austin on Saturday.

August Frenzel had to go to Vinton, La., to start a new rural mail route for his son. He brought to our city his neighbor, Raoul J. Nacquin.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
J. GRADY TIMMONS

Last Sunday was a happy day with us in every respect. Sunday School, leagues and services of worship were up to standard. At the morning hour the congregation was delighted beyond measure of expression with the beautiful contralto solo, sung by Miss Hattie Garrett. Her pleasing voice added so much to the devotional atmosphere of the service, and we were so glad to have her with us. The evening service was well attended and reverential throughout.

On next Sunday the program will be as follows:

Sunday School will meet as usual at 9:45 a. m. Let us be on time and boost the Sunday School to the very highest point.

At 1 o'clock we will have our morning hour of worship. Last Sunday we had a large crowd, and so this Sunday we extend you a most cordial welcome to be with us and join in a common worship. At this service we shall also be pleased with a solo. Miss Nellie Smith will sing for us.

The Junior League meets at 3:30 p. m.

The Senior League meets at 7:30 and at 8:15 p. m., we will have our evening worship. These evening services are attracting splendid congregations; will you not be with us?

The subjects for discussion at these services are the following: At 11 o'clock, "The King in His Glory and the Land of Far Distances." At the 8:15 evening service, "The Pleader and the Plea."

The Eternal Habitation—A Sermonette

"We have a building of God, eternal in the Heavens." This text is taken from Second Corinthians, fifth chapter and eleventh verse. The animal and the savage, who are low down in the scale of civilization do not mourn for very long over their dead. "Out of sight, out of mind," is an adage that becomes a glaring reality in this realm of low brows and small gray matter. Just in proportion as manhood raises in the scale of intensified delicacy of sense perception, his aspirations and belief in a future life have increased until they burst forth into the full blossom of reality.

The loss of friends means reunion at some time and in a newer and more gorgeous world. Our memories of the departed grows brighter as we draw nearer to the undiscovered country. We find that we belong to two worlds, the physical and the spiritual, and that we must enter this spiritual world if we are going to complete the happiness and glory of our well being. Christianity means the union of the present and the future. Christ stood as the middle link between the past and the future, Himself the Eternal Present. Life in this sense becomes to us like that of our Master, seamless and one throughout. Eternity in the soul of every being, and we must cultivate those roots into a full grown plant. At this time there shall be one change in our social relationships, the wicked shall be separated from the good, like the tares from the wheat. There is one thing we must not forget and that is that man cannot succeed in his fight against God. He may win the first few rounds, but God will draw the last blood that means victory, not for us but for God. He cannot even harm nature and her laws, stop the flow of gravitation, or control the winds and the sea. Never! Man is a pigmy before the power of the Most High.

But who shall separate us from the love of God? No human power, or creature or devil or things to come can ever remove a single child from the breath of God, if we choose to live in this Eternal Mansion.

SOLONS SEE IMPORTED NIGHT GOWN, OH SO SOFT!

Washington, D. C., June 30.—A pink silk night gown, very soft and fluffy, was displayed to the House Friday by Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee to support his charge that home manufacturers could not compete with foreign dealers because of a low rate tariff.

Lifting it high, Mr. Fordney shouted above the laughter that he hardly knew how to describe it. "Atta boy," a member shouted back.

"I suppose you gentlemen would like it better if there were something in it," said the veteran tariff builder the women in the gallery joined in the laughter.

The gown, made in Belgium, cost $13.40, the landing cost raised it to $21.69, and it was put on sale for New York women who like luxuries at $60, said the chairman.

An unbroken flint arrowhead was found imbedded three-quarters of an inch in the dorsal vertebra of an Indian skeleton, found near Dublin, Ohio, recently. This is proof that Indian arrows were fatal and caused more than flesh wounds. Another example found in this region showed that an arrowhead had penetrated an Indian's brain one-half inch.

Pullmans for women are being run on the Chicago & Atlaton and the Wabash Railroads out of Chicago and on the main branches. This is an innovation and is meeting with the approval of many.

CHILD BORN TO FRENCH WOMAN IN AIRPLANE

Paris, June 30.—Madame George Breyer, a French woman of Lyons, Friday achieved the distinction of being the first woman to give birth to a child in an airplane.

Madame Breyer was at a remote seashore resort in Southern Italy when she became ill. She immediately chartered an airplane for Naples and when forty miles south of that city, 6,000 feet over the Mediterranean, she gave birth to the child.

Steadily the plane, the pilot drifted slowly to earth and landed near a tourist hotel where first aid was given.

How to Help

One of the most difficult things in the world is to help men. How to do it, in the most effective sense has been the burden of human philosophy since ancient days and is the purpose of all modern philanthropy.

The business world believes that men are really helped only when they are aided and encouraged to help themselves.

And this is the business philosophy of the First State Bank.

PROGRESS

San Antonio Express: Americans who are serious in nothing so much as in their passion for strikingly novel display, must thank Mr. Bertelli for his pen-picture of what is going on at French beaches. Mile. Werz, France's woman swimming champion (he writes), has achieved this all by herself: She paints her face in oil which hardens invisibly, permitting rouge and powder to show through. Inestimably a benefactress! "The day of the wet, bedraggled beauty at the seashore is over, as a result of my invention," said she. "It permits any woman to look lovely, even in her bath." If anywhere there be a "Goldsmithian fair female, unadorned and plain, secure to please while youth confirms her reign," doubtless she has not been worrying about looking lovely in her bath. But she should worry about it. Let her write to Mile. Werz for red, white or blue prints.

Those who are devoting sufficient work to poultry, truck farming and dairying, are making a success of these things.

A big yield of corn is assured by the recent general rains. This will go far toward making up for the shortage in the wheat and oat crops in this section.

This country is fine for fruit if people put in the requisite amount of work. This is demonstrated by the exceptionally fine nurseries and orchards belonging to Mosty Bros., located near Kerrville and Center Point.

Keep the West Texas Fair in mind—August 29th, 30th and 31st. There will be all kinds of amusements, baseball, rodeo, good music, and the best of racing, while the stock exhibits are expected to excel anything ever seen in this section.

Kerr County needs a better grade of hogs. Of course, there are some people raising the better grades, but there are too many of the razor-back variety. It requires as much feed to keep inferior stock as the good kind, while the prices for the better are worth more than the extra trouble in caring for them.

MARKETING SWEET POTATOES

Fort Worth Star-Telegram: It is announced that the Farm Bureau Sweet Potato Growers' Exchange will market between 400,000 and 500,000 bushels of sweet potatoes in Texas this year. The exchange now represents an acreage of approximately 5,500 and five-year contracts have been signed by member producers.

That's a fine beginning and unquestionably it will accomplish much toward stabilizing the market. But the campaign to awaken the producers of this and other products to the importance of co-operative marketing should be continued until a greater percentage of the annual crop of all our chief products is marketed in this way. The sweet potato crop of Texas should run between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 bushels, which means the exchange will control from 8 to 10 per cent of the crop. That will have a greater effect than most people imagine, and all the benefit will not go to the members alone. It's a fine start. But let the good work go on.

The shopmen of the various railroads struck Saturday of last week because the United States Labor Board had ordered a slight reduction in their war-time wages. Since then, the Board has issued an order "out-lawing" the strikers and promising the protection of the Government to those workers who take the places made vacant. The railroads are also hiring men and giving assurances of permanent work. This is another evidence of the bad management and selfishness of the organized working forces. During the war they secured wages in excess of their ability to earn, but the high cost of living required it. Now, the Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered freight reductions, and to enable the railroads to meet these, labor must accept a smaller pay. The people of the country cannot afford to keep up the high wages of war times, and any body of workers who attempt to keep up such a condition are going to lose out, and ought to do so. Union leaders and the majority of membership seem to have lost their heads.

Thursday of last week, the editor had the pleasure of accompanying County Agent Oswald to Hunt, when he took the A. & M. Demonstrators there. The trip was an enjoyable one. Quite a number of the Hunt people gathered at the school house, where the demonstrations took place. There was also an excellent dinner served, the proceeds going into a fund for supplying benches for the new Baptist Church. The editor, in company with Judge and Mrs. H. C. Geddie, dined at Kamp King, where Mr. and Mrs. J. E. King of San Antonio spend their summers. It is a delightfully cool, cozy place, and the dinner was superb. We enjoyed the day very much. The Hunt people have lovely scenery surrounding them, and along the river valleys raise a variety of things. The North and South Forks of the Guadalupe unite at Hunt, and in either direction up and down the streams are lovely homes and inns, where sojourners can enjoy life and rest in comfort the hottest days. The people of Hunt are to be congratulated upon their fine well equipped school house, and the new Baptist Church recently completed, and there will soon be improvements made to another church building there.

FRIENDLY CRITICISM

In no spirit of captious criticism, The Sun desires to call attention to the concessions granted for the Fourth of July, at Lake Side Park, during the barbecue and amusements. It seems these people accidentally dropped in here, because of postponement of the Barbecue and Celebration at Junction. However, that is immaterial. They were granted a concession to conduct games of chance, with the warning that they should not indulge in any gambling devices. Of course, these kind of people do not care anything about warnings of that kind, because they are accustomed to ignoring them, as well as violating the law.

One of the games conducted was the betting of money, the loser putting up cash and if he won, got cash. Of course, this, as other such skin games, have the much larger per cent in favor of the fellow operating the gambling device. In this instance it was a wheel contraption with wires stuck in and a rubber ball rolled around it, and numbers on the wheel to correspond to numbers on a table, where the money was placed. It is stated that women and children bucked this game during the day. About 5 o'clock in the evening the attention of Mayor Adkins was called to the gambling device and he had Deputy Sheriff Staudt close it up. However, it had operated about all day, and the fellow had no doubt made quite a sum off his victims.

In the first place, no concessions of games of chance should have been granted at a celebration that was mainly intended for women and children, and for the benefit of public school athletics. These concessions were certainly not expected to instruct, elevate or furnish a moral influence for the children, when they afforded them an opportunity to develop the gambling spirit that exists in all of us, to a larger or lesser degree.

It is to be trusted that Superintendent R. A. Franklin and Principal Guy Moses of the Kerrville Public Schools, who were in charge, will be more careful in the future in managing such celebrations, if they should pull off any more.

Cotton jumped $8.00 per bale in price after the Government's report last Monday. Of course, this rise mainly benefits the speculators. Most of the spot cotton raised by the farmers has been sold some time ago.

The Free State forces in Ireland are gaining the ascendancy and may be able to pull that turmoil-troubled land into the harbor of peace and safety, but it is some job, because if the Irish can't find anybody else to fight, they usually scrap among themselves.

The heavy rain Monday prevented our citizens greeting the Old Spanish Trail Caravan on its way to Fort Davis. No notice was received as to the hour the cars would arrive, and as it was only expected to remain here a few minutes, no formal reception was possible. However, the rain was too valuable to regret its visitation.

The Sun desires this early to enter a protest against the West Texas Fair having any such a crowd of hoochie-cochie and immoral women, and open fraudulent gambling, as was the case in some instances at the last Fair. Chas. Real, the secretary at that time, stated that he felt ashamed of what occurred, and that if he retained his position as secretary, there certainly would not again be anything of the kind permitted. It is to be trusted that Ally Beitel, the new secretary, will do as Mr. Real stated he would, and The Sun believes that he will. We can have an interesting Fair without such a bunch of immoral characters and gamblers.

A RIDICULOUS RESOLUTION

Daily Oklahoman: Representative Connolly of Texas has introduced a resolution providing for a joint congressional committee to investigate the recent seizure of Americans by rebels in Mexico. It is a ridiculous resolution.

The handling of the American side of any probe of outrages against Americans in Mexico should be left in the hands of the executive branch of the Government, where it properly belongs. This country has consuls and other representatives in Mexico who started investigating the seizure of the Americans, as soon as they learned of it. These officials have already done something real toward obtaining the aid of the Mexican government in securing the release of captured Americans and the pursuit of their captors.

A congressional investigating committee would achieve nothing. Adoption of the resolution calling for the appointment of one would be of no benefit to anyone except to the members of the committee who might thus obtain a free trip to Mexico.

Congress should keep its fingers out of the Mexican situation and let President Harding and his Cabinet handle it. Certain Representatives and Senators should abandon their favorite sport of slam-banging the Mexicans. It does no good and it wastes valuable time which Congress should spend on many important matters of domestic concern.

If Congress must have its investigations of seizures and murders, to maintain its peace of mind, there are a number of cases in the United States which deserve its attention much more than do the seizures in Mexico. For instance, the massacre of the non-union workers at Herrin, Ill.

County Commissioner A. J. Gibbons of Center Point favored The Sun office with some fine peaches Wednesday to use for peach cobbler.

"Hey, you Buck an' Charley, you go an' lay down for a time while I get to the deep bottom of this big bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes an' fruit for my lunch! Fishes have got to wait for me when I eat Kellogg's—you jes' betcha, boy!"

Health and happiness in every spoonful of Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

For tomorrow's breakfast—treat the family to Kellogg's Corn Flakes and fresh fruit! See that there is a big pitcher of cold milk ready! And, urge each big and little family member to eat plenty, for Kellogg's are the perfect warm weather food!

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are not only delicious in crispness and flavor, but they're wonderfully nourishing and refreshing. They give stomachs a chance to rest in warm weather because they digest so easily. Eat Kellogg's regularly and get away from so much heavy foods and see how much better every one in the house feels!

Insist upon Kellogg's Corn Flakes in the RED and GREEN package that bears the signature of W. K. Kellogg, originator of Corn Flakes! None are genuine without it!

MAY BE PEAKS OF ATLANTIS

Azores, Madeira, Canary and Cape Verde Islands Possibly Mountain Tops of Vanished Continent.

There is a theory that the Aztecs and Incas of America, who had developed a civilization on this continent many centuries before Columbus came, were descended from the Atlantians, the people who inhabited a continent which set out in the Atlantic ocean, between Europe and Africa and the American coast.

History seems to reach back to Asia and Africa about 5,000 years before Christ and in the earliest historic times there was a tradition of a land far west of Africa having high mountains, valleys, plains and splendid cities. That land might have existed 10,000 or 20,000 years ago. It is thought possible that the Azores, Madeira, Canary and Cape Verde islands were some of the highlands and mountain tops of the old and vanished continent, the name of which has come to us from the early Greeks as "Atlantis."

Oceanographers, sounding and surveying the bottom of the Atlantic ocean, find deep valleys, mountain ranges, towering peaks and wide stretches of table land deep beneath the surface of the sea. There was a tradition in Asia and Africa at the time recorded history begins that the Atlantians were about to invade Africa and Asia, when their land was submerged. It might have been a vast disaster due to volcanic action. The bottom of the sea in that part of the world and the islands that rise out of it are volcanic and there are still active volcanoes in the sea and in the Azores, Canary and Cape Verde islands, which are supposed to be fragments of Atlantis.—Milwaukee Journal.

DIFFER AS TO GIANT RAY

Naturalists Divided in Opinion Concerning Structural Makeup of Monster Fish.

The great devilfish or giant ray, which abounds in the waters around Beaufort, S. C., and Captiva Inlet, Fla., has occasionally been found off New York and New Jersey. The furthest north it has ever been taken is Block Island, where one was caught last year.

This was 14 feet wide between the tips of the pectoral fins, 7 feet long from head to base of tail, and weighed 1,886 pounds. This is the only specimen known to have been weighed, but there are stories of fish that are said to have weighed 10,000 pounds.

Dr. E. W. Gudger of the American Museum of Natural History writes of the giant ray in science, and says that naturalists who have described it differ as to whether it has a large spine or sting on its tail. The one caught at Block Island had none, but there was a wound on the tail where a spine was said to have been torn off. The late Theodore Gill, dean of American ichthyologists, doubted the spine, as have other writers, although some naturalists picture it with one.

Moon Cake Day Chinese Festival.

September 11 is a great day for all good Chinamen, for then occurs the feast of the Moon Cakes. The festival lasts all day and all night, and is celebrated by the eating of cakes made in the shape of the moon and liberally sprinkled with all sorts of seeds. All the Chinese grocers in the United States sell packages of these cakes, and the very poorest resident of Chinatown considers himself bound by the faith of his fathers to purchase at least one package.

The greater number of cakes purchased the greater is considered the purchaser's respect for the night's chief luminary, and some very black fate is believed to be reserved for the Chinaman who fails to eat a cake before the festival is over. This doom is expected to fall upon him before next Moon Cake.

Kipling as a Street Musician.

Kipling's verse, even where it is not slang, is rarely poetry, but it is, for the most part, clean and neat in its rhythmic swing, well adapted for the purposes of the music halls, easy to remember, even without tune, praiseworthy in its control of the means of clarity, and, in short, a genuine article of its kind. Kipling is like a practised musician in that strange orchestra which we sometimes see in the street, clinging around one performer; he nods his head, and the bells tinkle about his pagoda-shaped hat; he stamps his foot, and the drumstick bangs the drum and sets the cymbals clapping on his back, and all the while he is playing the concertina with both his hands and perhaps blowing into a panpipe with his mouth.—Arthur Symons, in London Quarterly Review.

Quaint Custom.

A quaint custom is still maintained in one of the old streets of the Strand, the London Times reports. This is the burning of a light in the hall of one of the houses all through the night when everybody is abed. This light has a history, and marks an ancient privilege and bygone right-of-way. The light is maintained by the Westminster council and not by the tenants of the house. The lamp-lighter enters at twilight and kindles the light, and on his round in the early morning he re-enters with a latchkey and extinguishes it. The light is the remaining symbol of a right-of-way formerly enjoyed by residents in the street to proceed to a spring of water in the basement, which was once their sole water supply.

SURELY WAS POTENT STUFF

Some of Us Would Prefer Hardships of Insomnia to Experience This Man Had.

Jones had been troubled with insomnia. He tried several alleged cures without success. One day he told his trouble to his friend, Brown. "Why, I know the very thing for you," Brown said, after Jones had concluded. "Meet me tonight, I have some stuff out home which will fix you up in no time."

That night the two met and Brown handed Jones a bottle filled with a murky white liquid, instructing his friend to take a "good drink" before going to bed.

"That will make you sleep if anything can," he said.

Two days later the two met again on the street.

"How was that stuff I gave you to cure your insomnia? Was it any good?" Brown asked.

"Good?" replied Jones. "I should say it was. Listen here! I took it as you suggested, and went to sleep soon after retiring. Then a friend with his head under his arm came along and asked me if I wanted to buy his feet. I was bargaining with him when the dragon on which I was riding slipped its skin, and left me floating in mid-air."

"While I was considering how I should get down, a bull with two heads peered over the edge of a wall, and said he would haul me up if I would first climb up and fix a windlass for him. So as I was sliding down the mountain, the inspector came in, and I asked him when the train would reach my station."

"We passed your station two hundred years ago," he answered, calmly folding the train up and slipping it in his waistcoat pocket. At this moment I woke up and found that I had been asleep ten minutes."

GROWN FROM STOLEN SEEDS

Rubber Trees Still Standing in Equatorial Forest Have Had Remarkable Adventures.

When the value of rubber was first being exploited, British interests made an expedition to Brazil with the view of securing specimens and acclimatizing the rubber plants to the lands of India. The Brazilians, appreciating the value of their monopoly, refused to allow the export of seeds or plants, but by some underhand methods 70,000 seeds were secured and smuggled out of the country.

Rubber seeds are perishable, and lest they should spoil on the way to Ceylon they were taken the shorter distance—to London.

On landing in London, the guardian of the seeds drove in a hansom cab to Kew gardens. It was the middle of the night when he arrived there, but the seeds were planted at once. Out of ten germinated, and a year later 7,000 of the plants were sent in miniature hothouses to Ceylon.

A botanical garden was opened for their reception at a little place called Heneratgoda in the equatorial forest. There the survivors stand today. You look at these large old trees with a sort of wonder when you think of the adventures they went through in the early days, and that from their progeny the great rubber industry of the East has sprung up.

Flattered the Minister.

An amusing anecdote in Lord Frederick Hamilton's "Days Before Yesterday" concerns a fresh draft of Gordon Highlanders, who shortly after arriving at Calcutta were marched to service at St. Andrew's church.

The most optimistic mosquito had never imagined such a succulent banquet as that afforded by 400 bare kneed, killed Highlanders, and the mosquitoes made the fullest use of their opportunity. Soon the church resounded with the vigorous clapping of hands on bare knees and legs as the men endeavored to kill a few of their little tormentors.

Hearing the loud clapping, the minister paused and said: "My brethren, it is verra gratifying to a minister of the word to learn that his remarks meet with the approbation of his hearers; but I'd have you to remember that applause is strictly out of place in the house of God."—Youth's Companion.

They Blushed.

Smith tried to board a crowded bus, but the conductor waved him back, announcing gruffly that there were no vacant seats.

"Be a sport and let me on," Smith said. "My sweetheart's on board."

"Oh, well, in that case—" said the conductor, with a smile, and Smith scrambled on.

Just inside the door an elderly man was sitting beside a very pretty girl. He rose and waved his hand toward the vacant seat with a smile and a look that said: "Here's your place."

The girl looked up as Smith seated himself beside her, and both blushed vividly. You see they had never seen each other before.—New York Mail.

India Rubber.

Few articles seem more strangely named than India rubber. It gets the "rubber" from the first use to which it was put—that of erasing pencil marks by rubbing. Nor should it be associated with India. The tree was first mentioned by an explorer among the Mexican Indians, three centuries or more ago, and the first account of the substance occurs in connection with Columbus' visit to Haiti on his second voyage. Most of our present importation comes from Brazil.

NEW SOLES FOR OLD could be the title of a book on shoe repairing as we do it. Don't throw away your old shoes, no matter how much worn. Bring them here and have us see if we cannot make them serviceable again. It's wonderful what our machines can do and how well they do it. Better have us renew your old shoes than to pay present prices for a new pair. Slogan: "This shop lives by the shoe service it gives." Mail orders solicited. GEO. A. NO RECORD OF PAINE'S GRAVE

What Became of Body of Famous Political Writer and Freethinker Is a Mystery.

One of the completely unsolved mysteries of modern history is what became of the body of Tom Paine, the famous Anglo-American political writer and free-thinking philosopher, who exerted such a powerful influence on the American public during and subsequent to the Revolution.

According to one story, the bones were left in a trunk on Corbett's farm in England, where they had been forwarded by the committee. After Corbett's death, when an auction was held of his effects, the trunk was removed from his other possessions, and, after passing through numerous hands, was returned to the keeping of a member of the republican committee who was to hold it pending a public funeral, which never took place.

POSERS PUT TO JAP EDITORS

Readers in the Land of the Rising Sun Ask an Astonishing Variety of Questions.

Japanese newspapers are called upon to answer a variety of questions that might well stump a lawyer. The Yamato came up against the following recently:

"Last month I married a certain man, but he has now divorced me. His unreasonable excuse is that my eyebrows are a pale color and that I must therefore be a leper. Can I sue him for the damage he is causing to my reputation? A Subscriber." The answer was: "Yes, you can sue him for breaking off the marriage, as he cannot use a pale-colored eyebrow as a cause for divorce."

More of a poser was submitted to the wisdom of the Yomhuri in the following: "I am a woman of twenty years. I was born with a round face and my friends make fun of it. Please tell me some way that I can change the shape of my face, for persecution to which I am subjected is more than I can bear. A Subscriber."

The editor deserves credit both for the truth and sympathy of his answer: "I am very sorry, but I do not know of anybody who can change the shape of your face. However, be encouraged, full-faced lady, as you are the personification of the health of humanity."

His Wife.

"I am used to her," Manuel said forlornly, "and I do not like to hurt the poor, foolish heart of her by going against her foolish notions; and besides I am a little afraid of her because she is always able to make me uncomfortable. And above all, of course, the hero of a famous love affair such as ours has become, with those d-d poets everywhere making rhymes about my fidelity and devotion, has to preserve appearances. So I get through each day, somehow, by never listening very attentively to the interminable things she tells me about. But I often wonder, as I am sure all husbands wonder, why heaven ever made a creature so tedious and so unreasonably dull of wit and so opinionated. And when I think that for the rest of time this creature is to be my companion, I usually go out and kill somebody. Then I come back, because she knows the way I like my toast."—From "Figures of Earth" by James Branch Cabell.

First American Mint.

A watchmaker, Henry Voight, assistant to John Fitch in the manufacture of machinery for the first steamboat, was the first chief coiner of the United States.

The first United States mint was established in Philadelphia by an act of congress April 2, 1792. Washington selected David Rittenhouse, the astronomer, as the first director.

First Iron Steamboat.

Who remembers the name of Aaron Manby?

It is one hundred years since the first iron steamboat left the dockyards of Tipton, in England, and, after being tested on the Thames, was employed in a direct service between London and Paris. A return was made to the house of commons showing the time consumed by steamers as compared with sailing vessels on some 30 coasting routes; the average speed given for steamers in the best of these was from eight to nine knots, while the average time taken varied from one-half to one-sixth (or even less) of the time taken by sailing vessels.

After the first sea voyage the Aaron Manby was employed solely on the Seine, where it navigated as late as 1846.

DANISH MAIDENS HAVE CHARM

Pretty Girls in Profusion to Be Seen on the Famous "Streak" in Copenhagen.

Nowhere except on Fifth avenue, New York, do you see so many pretty girls in the space of a short walk as you do on the "Streak." The maid of Copenhagen is nothing at all like one's preconceived notion of what a Scandinavian girl should be. Up in Norway you encounter the flaming red cheeks and yellow locks and robust forms which Anders Zorn has immortalized on canvas. But the maid of Copenhagen, the typical one, the kind that you will always remember when your thoughts dwell on the Danish capital, is not like any of these. She is petite and trim, neatly dressed, with hair that is copper brown as often as yellow.

No wonder a visitor to Copenhagen can never get too much of afternoon promenading! How sincerely does he growl a curse when dusk begins to shroud the fair metropolises of Denmark and put an end to his enjoyment of the beauty parade on the "Streak."—The World Traveler.

WORDS OLD AS HUMAN RACE

Sounds Indicative of What They Describe Were Probably the First Forms of Speech.

When your baby first begins to talk, it uses instinctively the oldest words in creation, words as old as the human race itself.

They are words whose sound is an imitation of what they describe. A chair falls over in the nursery. "Bang!" says baby, just as her greatest great-grandmother said when her father dropped his club in the cave that was their home.

Baby calls the cow a "moo," because that is the noise it makes. To primitive man the cow seemed to say "koo"—a name that has stuck.

What does imitation of the crow's croak could you have than the Greek word "korax?" Crow (really corow) is derived from the same idea. Hundreds of animals—birds, in particular—retain their ancestral names. The cuckoo has always been so called; he imitated himself.

A whole host of other words describe noises—crash, slam, thump, whack, splash, boom, prattle, and so on. One of the most beautiful of these is murmur, which means the sound made by a gentle breeze among the trees—mur-mur-mur.—Exchange.

Chief's Position Not Envidable.

The position of chief of an Indian tribe in the days when the red man roamed the western prairies was a precarious one at the best, according to the account of Francis Parkman, Jr., in his "The California and Oregon Trail."

The chief dared not assume any of the outward aspects of rank, for fear of incurring the displeasure of his braves. Many a man in the village lived better, owned more squaws and horses, and went better clad than did the chief. He must needs ingratiate himself with his young men by making them many presents, often to his own impoverishment.

The happiest chief was he who was at the head of a large family. With a group of relatives to avenge him in event of his murder, his position took on some semblance of security. One of the most powerful Dakota chiefs was secure in his position by his family of 30 stalwart sons.

How She Helped Mamma.

A teacher at a certain private school strives to instill filial devotion in her pupils. Recently she asked her class in what way they had been helping their parents. Various answers were given of a more or less to-be-expected nature, till she reached a little girl who had been casting rather contemptuous glances at the humdrum reports. When her turn came the eyes of the others were fixed on her as she lives in an opulent home that boasts a staff of servants. "Well, Gracie," the teacher asked, "what have you been doing to help mamma?" "Oh, lots," was the scornful response of Gracie, "but mostly I go to the Country club and get cigarettes for her."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Peculiarities of the Whale.

The whale is able to hold his breath for a long time, sometimes for 45 minutes, and he is able to open his mouth under water when eating, because his nostrils connect directly with his windpipe and not with the back of his mouth, as in most other animals. When he comes to the surface he blows the air out of his lungs. It has by this time become so heated that it forms a column of vapor when expelled into the cool air of the surface and this is what happens when he is said to "spout." Incidentally the most famous whale of history—the one which swallowed Jonah—was not a whale at all, but is called in the Bible "a great fish."

THREE WAYS OF EMBALMING

Methods Followed in Ancient Egypt Differed According to the Rank of the Deceased.

There were three different ways of embalming in old Egypt. The most magnificent was bestowed only upon persons of distinguished rank. When a person of distinction died the body was put into a coffin, the upper exterior of which represented the deceased, with suitable embellishment. The coffin itself was usually made of sycamore wood, which is said to be almost incorruptible. Sometimes deal was used, in which case it was brought from abroad. The embalming of the body occupied 40 to 70 days. It consisted mainly of the introduction of astringent drugs and spices into the body, anointing it with oils of cedar, myrrh and cinnamon, and saturating it with niter. It was then washed and wrapped in linen bands dipped in myrrh and gum—these bands in some instances being 1,000 yards long—commencing at the head and terminating at the feet, avoiding the face. The body was then restored by the embalmers to the relatives, who placed it in the coffin.

A less expensive method of embalming was simply to inject into the bowels a liquid extract of cedar, and wrapping up the body in salt and niter; others were soaked, or as some think, boiled in a kind of bitumen made of mixed resinous substances. They were then placed, without any other covering than the bandages saturated with these substances, in sepulchres, and there deposited in rows by thousands.

PECULIAR FORM OF SEA FOOD

Ghianchetti, Offspring of the Sardine, Greatly Relished Along Parts of the Italian Coast.

The Italians along the Italian Riviera are passionately attached to a form of sea food known as ghianchetti. Ghianchetti, Kenneth L. Roberts explains in the Saturday Evening Post, are the offspring of the sardine. They are about one inch in length, and their bodies are about as robust and shapely as an ordinary piece of string. They are transparent and their eyes are black and dissipated looking; and when the Italians pile them in baskets and trays they have the appearance of lemon jelly full of flyspecks—the flyspecks being the eyes. The approved method of preparing ghianchetti is to roll them into a ball or a fritter, fry them in olive oil and eat until either the ghianchetti or the eater is exhausted.

Every good Italian, however, finds it hard to resist them in their raw state. A fisherman walking along with a tray of ghianchetti on his head usually keeps reaching up in an absent-minded manner, removing half a handful of the little fish from the tray, and tossing them abstractedly into her mouth, a dozen or two at a time. When the ghianchetti season is at its height, in February, no two ghianchetti fishermen can get into an argument with each other without spraying each other with ghianchetti fragments whenever they begin to shriek with emotion.

Eleusinian Mysteries.

The Eleusinian Mysteries were annual secret religious ceremonies which were instituted in Athens more than 1,000 years before Christ. It is unknown who was responsible for their institution, but it is generally believed that they were in honor of Demeter, the goddess of the harvest, and that their effect was an exceedingly good one. Great secrecy was observed, death being the penalty imposed on anyone who revealed the nature of the rites.

They were afterward brought to Rome where they endured for about 15 centuries, and were abolished by Theodosius in 389 A. D. Cicero has declared in his writings that the Mysteries tended to promote civilization. Their laws were to honor parents, to honor the gods with the fruits of the earth, and not to treat dumb animals with cruelty.

Fighting Giraffe.

The giraffe has neither claws nor sharp teeth with which to defend itself or to attack its enemies, so when it is out of temper with one of its own kind it does not attempt to disembowel its adversary, as a rhinoceros might, or tear it, as a tiger would. But nature has given it a long and pliable neck, which terminates in a very solid head, and it uses the upper part of itself like a flail, swinging its neck round and round and bringing its head down at each swing with a thump on its antagonist.

The other combatant uses precisely the same tactics, and the two animals, planting themselves as firmly as possible by stretching out all four legs to the utmost, stand opposite to each other and hammer away with their heads until one or the other has had enough.

Truly, Puck Was Right.

A club this writer belongs to has been ready for a year or more to put up a new building—but it hasn't. Three friends have been for over a year in a position to build three new residences—but they haven't. What's the trouble? The reader can easily guess. It's a bit discouraging. God has given us a beautiful world and we don't know how to run it, any more than Adam did to run Eden—and we have several thousand years of experience over Adam, at that. We ought to be ashamed, luncheads that we are!—Boston Transcript.

James Branard returned to his home in Houston Friday last after a very pleasant two weeks' stay in Ingram, being the guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. S. Callaway.

James Eckhardt and Hugh Jewett of Austin are late arrivals at Riverside Inn. This is the fifth summer James Eckhardt has spent in the Hill Country and he hopes to spend many more.

Rev. J. B. Holt and daughter, Miss Marcia Holt, of Kerrville, are comfortably located at Riverside Inn. Rev. Holt is conducting the revival at Hunt, assisted by Rev. J. M. Earls of Ingram.

The lucky holders of tickets drawing the premiums given away at Callaway's Store Saturday last were: Mrs. Snow, who drew first prize; Mrs. George Baldwin, second, and H. E. Hatch, the third.

Mr. and Mrs. Barron of San Antonio were dinner guests at Riverside Inn July 4th. These are newly-weds, who are occupying the Russell cottage near Sherman's Mill and enjoying an ideal honeymoon.

Mrs. Georgia Peters and daughters returned home Wednesday of last week from a three weeks' visit in Orange Grove and Corpus Christi. They were accompanied by Miss Lois Ragland, a niece of Mrs. Peters.

Charlie Leinweber and family, Emil Leinweber and family and Fred Klein and family stopped here Thursday of last week, returning to their homes on the Divide after having attended the funeral of Dee Leinweber in Kerrville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morriss and little daughter, Marcia Jane, and Miss Kate Frazier of Kerrville, accompanied by Miss Emily Siddy of Chicago, a guest at the St. Charles Hotel, motored up the river July 4th to view Camp Rio Vista, making a very pleasant stop in Ingram on their return trip.

Miss Elizabeth Nichols, who has been associated with Joske Bros. of San Antonio for several years, came up Saturday last for a two months vacation to be spent with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Nichols, at Hillside Farm. Miss Nichols will also visit relatives in the Big Paint community while here.

Rodger Locke entertained a number of his San Antonio friends with a house party Monday and Tuesday of this week at their attractive summer home, "Casa del Gallo," on the Kerrville-Ingram Road, this being his farewell visit to the Hills, as he expects to sail for Bolivia the coming week to be absent two years.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Clark of Waco, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Heskins of San Angelo and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Norris of Galveston compose a party of relatives who met in Kerrville recently, and then drove over to enjoy camp life on our beautiful stream.

They are at present very comfortably located about four miles above town, and report fish and squirrel plentiful, and altogether having an ideal outing.

A very quiet and sane Fourth was spent by those in the village remaining at home, a large majority having driven over to Kerrville to take in the festivities at Lake Side Park and elsewhere.

CENTER POINT COMMENTS

W. G. Bradford, a business man of Dallas, is spending a week here enjoying our climate and scenery. He is a guest of his brother-in-law, Frank E. White.

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Saigh spent the Fourth in Center Point with relatives. Mr. Saigh returned to San Antonio, while Mrs. Saigh will remain a few days enjoying the cool breezes of our mountain climate.

Capt. Joel Burney, after an extended visit here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Burney, left Tuesday for New York, where he will join his regiment which is now stationed at Fort Hamilton near Brooklyn.

News has just been received of the death at Smiley, Texas, of J. E. Mauldin, who was a former citizen of this place. He was a great sufferer, having been afflicted with partial paralysis for many years. His funeral was held there Wednesday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

A pretty home wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Burney last Sunday at 2:30 p. m., when their daughter, Miss Verna, became the bride of Eric Ernest Otto of Kenedy. Rev. F. A. White, pastor of the First Methodist Church at Floresville, read the ceremony in the presence of a few relatives and friends. After refreshments were served the contracting parties left for a brief visit to Galveston, after which they will be at home at Kenedy.

The Center Point Commercial Club, the Ladies Civic League and other citizens were hosts to the Old Spanish Trail Good Roads Caravan with an old fashioned barbecue dinner on Monday. The committees had planned to have the dinner at the camp site on the river near the dam, but the rain which fell all the forenoon prevented. A hall was secured in town and the spread was moved under roof. Too much credit can not be given the committees who worked all morning in the rain, determined that we should have the dinner any way. The dinner was given for the general public as well as for the visitors over the Old Spanish Trail, and many availed themselves of the opportunity and came in spite of the downpour. Rev. W. L. Skinner acted as toastmaster, and in a few well chosen words welcomed the visitors in behalf of our little city. Judge William Pierson of the State Supreme Court responded to the address of welcome on behalf of the members of the caravan. Judge W. W. McCrary of the State Highway Commission spoke on the work being accomplished by his department throughout the State. Dr. J. C. Hardy, president of Baylor College, spoke on the value of good roads to education. Lon A. Smith, State Comptroller, and president of the Jeff Davis Highway, and D. E. Colp, secretary of the Old Spanish Trail organization, spoke on the value of good roads to the towns and villages through which they passed, and also of the very great value to the farms along their route. Our people were glad to have these distinguished visitors with us for this brief period, and are only sorry they could not have remained longer.

Mrs. M. M. McCoy is very ill with appendicitis. Marvin Bode made a business trip to Harper last week. Mrs. Henry Priour is visiting her mother, Mrs. T. J. Moore, this week. Rev. J. W. Orr and family spent last Sunday with W. H. Page and family. Miss Bertha Bode of Reservation visited her brother, Same Bode and wife, last week. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Priour of the Divide visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Sublett, last week. Miss Lois Sublett returned home last week from a visit to her sister, Mrs. Tom Priour, on the Divide. Mrs. Sam Bode and little daughter, Frances, returned home after a visit to her sister, Mrs. Roebuck, near Cotulla. Miss Lourina Mayhugh returned home last week from Devine, where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Raymond Howard. We were visited by a fine rain this week which was greatly needed, as corn and other crops had begun to suffer for moisture. A lake, rich in carbonate of soda, has been discovered near Kulumda, Siberia.

The Cuban Dancer

By CALVIN HENDRICKS

It was in the splendor of the Florida sunset that Ned Murdoch told Dolores of his love.

He was resting upon his oars, half way between the mainland and Cypress Key. Under their boat the blue tides ran swiftly.

"Dolores," said the young planter, "will you stay here and marry me?"

She started and looked at him intently.

"Your wife!" she murmured, and her fingers clutched the rowlocks convulsively for a moment. "No!" she continued hurriedly. "You don't know who I am or anything about me."

"I don't care," Murdoch cried. "I know that I love you."

She had drifted into Big Cypress in May, when the last of the tourists had left Florida and the hotel was closed. She had come from Tampa, she explained languidly; a touch of fever, a need for rest, for change.

Since then two weeks had passed, and on the morrow she was to go. She would never come back, they knew, that brilliant bird of passage who had lingered there, talking with the fishermen, petting the fat children upon the wharves, or reclining lazily in the shade of a palmetto tree, puffing at her cigarette.

"No," she answered Murdoch in agitation. "I must go home. It is impossible."

Ned Murdoch rowed her back and left her at the cottage door. Next morning she left Tampa. He did not see her again.

She was gone, and Big Cypress swiftly forgot her.

Then the event occurred which changed his life. One evening, at the hotel, a tourist offered him a cigar from the box. He took one and then snatched the box from the man's hand and stood staring at it like a man hypnotized. For there on the inside of the lid was Dolores.

All night he paced the beach in an ecstasy of happiness. He would find her now—why had he never thought of going to Tampa before? He would find her and bring her back to be his wife.

He took the morning train for Tampa and made his way to the cigar factory. There, having obtained an interview with the manufacturer, he stated his case boldly.

"You are under a mistake, señor," said the Spaniard. "However, I think you are sincere, and, as I happen to know where you can find the Senorita Dolores, I will tell you. Go to number 192 Avenida Otranta at nine o'clock this evening and you will assuredly meet her there."

He bowed and, with a cynical smile, passed into his office, shrugging his shoulders.

In Bull's cabaret, No. 198 Avenida Otranta, the usual throng was assembled at nine o'clock that evening. Senor Bull, an enterprising Yankee from Philadelphia, certainly knew how to cater to the tastes of his patrons. As for Senorita Dolores, he had picked her up in an obscure music hall, and it was shrewdly said that the ten days' scandal which had brought her into the limelight had been actually engineered, if not invented, by Senor Bull himself.

When she came forward on the stage that night the attendance at the little tables broke into a storm of bravos. Attired as a matador, in short scarlet skirts, holding her dart with its fluttering banderole, she bowed and kissed her hands to the audience and capered forward and began her song.

It was a fine song and it went to the hearts of the Cubans who heard her. And whirling in the play of colored lights, until she seemed like a sea fairy entangled in masses of filmy drapery, the senorita spun.

Then, all of a sudden, she stopped. She stopped and stood perfectly still, her eyes fixed on the audience—no, one of the audience; on a man who came forward, elbowing his way through the crowds and pushing forward toward the stage. That was all that the audience saw, for the curtain fell and hid them.

But Murdoch knew nothing save that he had found her again. He drew her into the wings, and, holding her hands, stood gazing at her triumphantly.

"Come!" he said.

"Come? Where?" echoed the senorita, for the first time finding her voice. But it was broken with tears and filled with shame.

"Why did you come here?" she sobbed indignantly. "Why couldn't you have forgotten me? You have no right to judge me because I am just a dancing girl."

"I haven't judged you," said Murdoch quietly. "I want you to come with me. Answer me one question, Dolores. Do you love me—or rather did you love me that day when I asked you to be my wife?"

"Yes, I loved you," she said. "But how could I tell you what I was—you, who would never have understood? You have never met women like me. I couldn't bring dishonor upon you. Now leave me."

Murdoch laughed rather grimly as he found her cloak and folded it about her.

"Come, Dolores," he said. "I haven't found you to lose you again. Perhaps you never had a chance to be anything else. But there's happiness enough in my heart just now to fill yours, too." He raised her hands and pressed them to his lips.

Country Bacon, per pound20

Fancy Santos Peaberry Coffee (I guarantee it's Fancy Santos)28

Louisiana Syrup, in barrel, per gallon65

Well, my time is limited. I will just say my goods are all bargains.

I have just received some awful nice pants for men; bathing suits for children at $1.00.

Army Goods, hob nailed shoes, harness and Kelly boots. Oil Stoves, the Simmonds, the best.

Big store full of good bargains. Prices—that's where I shine. My plan—the Plain Truth.
