NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED SUNDAY

Dr. Arthur Jones to Make Dedicatory Address—Walter Dunham Will Preside at Pipe Organ.

Next Sunday morning at 10:45 the dedication services of the new Presbyterian Church will begin in the main auditorium of the modern building recently completed on the site of the old structure at the corner of Jefferson and Earl Garrett Streets.

The dedication of this handsome building, made possible by the generous munificence of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Schreiner, is the realization of hopes and plans cherished for years by them, and opens the way for the greater service to the community and to God the pastor and congregation earnestly desire.

The dedicatory sermon will be delivered by Dr. Arthur G. Jones, formerly of San Antonio, but now of the Theological Seminary at Austin. The dedicatory prayer will be offered by Rev. Brooks I. Dickey, brother of the present pastor and at one time himself pastor of the local church.

As the morning service is to be devoted to dedication of the church to its work in the community, so is the evening service to be devoted to a dedication of the organ, the first in Kerrville. A sacred program will be rendered by Mr. Dunham, assisted by the choir, beginning at 7:30, the program for which follows:

Grand Choeur.....Faulkes Song of the Basket Weaver.....Russell Bells of St. Ann de Beaupre.....Russell Caprice.....Johnstone Anthem—Hark, Hark, My Soul, Shelly Choir, Miss Garrett, soloist Paraphrase on a Theme by.....Saul Burlesca e Melodie.....Baldwin Large (from the New World Symphony).....Dvorak Will of the Wisp.....Nevin Offertory.....Hammond Solo—Behold, the Master Passeth By.....Mrs. Doyle Sonata in A Minor (Allegro, Andante, Allegro con fuoco).....Borowski green bring out the beauty of this room in a striking manner. Illumination for night services is furnished by an overhead lighting system that affords a brilliant light without any of the glare so often encountered in church auditoriums.

The main floor of the auditorium will seat 400 people and the balcony 100. On the main floor there is also the choir and pipe organ space, pulpit, pastor's study, one class room, coat rooms, tiled entrance, vestibule, choir room and stairs leading to the Sunday School rooms.

The acoustic properties of the auditorium are as near perfect as possible to be constructed, and one can easily hear in the farthest corner a low spoken tone from the pulpit or the faintest note from the organ.

The organ itself is one that any city would be proud of. It is made by Hillgreen, Lane & Co., of Alliance, Ohio, is two-manual and pedal with nine speaking stops, 507 pipes and 20 electric chimes, all controlled throughout by electricity. An idea of the magnitude of the range of this organ can be gained from the fact that the smallest pipe is 1/2 inch long and 1/8 inch in diameter, while the largest is 16 feet long by 10 inches in diameter.

In the lower story are the main Sunday School rooms and other facilities for the general work of the church. A commodious auditorium for Sunday School purposes is located herein, equipped with raised platform that can be used for entertainments and programs of like nature as well as for the regular Sunday morning services.

The building is heated throughout with steam, and the heating plant is so perfectly arranged that it will afford ample warmth on the coldest days.

Adams & Adams of San Antonio are the architects of the building. W. A. (Continued on Last Page)

This handsome new structure was completed several weeks ago, but occupancy of same was postponed until the arrival of the organ and furniture. Finishing touches on the installation of the organ were completed the latter part of last week, and when the congregation takes charge of the building Sunday they will assume control of one of the handsomest and most perfectly appointed church edifices in the entire country.

CITY COMMISSION SELLS SEWER BONDS AT PREMIUM

O'Neil & Sharp Co. of Dallas Buyers of $78,000 Bond Issue at $1,762 Above Par Value—Work to Start Soon.

O'Neil & Sharp Company of Dallas were awarded the $78,000 sewer bonds recently voted when bids for same were opened by the City Commission last Friday afternoon. The bonds sold for $79,762, bringing a premium of $1,762.

It is thought that practically all of the preliminary arrangements can be completed within the next 30 days and that actual construction work will get under way during the middle of February.

The Commissioners have not definitely decided upon whether bids will be asked on the construction work or whether a contract will be entered into with the engineering company who prepared the plans to build the system on a percentage basis. This matter will in all probability be decided upon before the end of the week or sooner.

Sale of the bonds practically closes up the greater part of the preliminary work in putting over the move for a sanitary sewer system which has been endorsed by the local Chamber of Commerce. Little remains to be done except to award a contract or undertake the work with the supervision of the engineers.

Weather and other conditions permitting, it is believed the sewer system can be put into operation during the latter part of the coming summer.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO HOLD MEMBERSHIP MEETING JANUARY 24

Directors Meeting Held Last Friday Morning and Delegates Named to Convention in San Antonio.

The regular January membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held next Thursday evening, January 24, at the St. Charles Hotel.

Efforts are being made to secure Fred P. Mann of Devil's Lake, N. D., to address the members at this session. This was decided upon by the directors of the local organization at a special meeting last Friday morning called for the purpose of selecting an advisory committee on the sewer bond proposition.

Appointment of this committee was requested by Mayor A. T. Adkins and the Commissioners and served in that capacity at the opening of the bids that afternoon. W. A. Fawcett, Howard Butt and Ally Beitel were named to compose the body.

Representatives of the local Chamber of Commerce were also named by the directors to attend the Retail Merchants Convention in San Antonio February 4 to 13. These delegates are Chas. Rawson, Walter Saenger, Chas. Mason and Ally Beitel.

An invitation has also been received for the president of the organization to attend the meeting of heads of fifty Chambers of Commerce within the San Antonio trade territory. This gathering is to be held in the Alamo City tomorrow, January 18.

Because of inability of E. H. Prescott to attend the convention either Howard Butt or A. B. Williamson, vice-presidents, will be sent in his place.

A cordial invitation is extended to all members of the Chamber of Commerce to attend the meeting next Thursday night at the St. Charles Hotel.

1923 Business Is 19 Per Cent Greater Than in 1922—More Than Double Total of Ten Years Ago.

Reports compiled by Assistant Post Master Mark Mosty show the gross receipts of the local office for the year just closed to be $16,193.54, an increase of approximately 19 per cent over the previous year's business and more than double the total of 1913.

Growth of the local office has been more rapid the past few years than ever before. This is accounted for by the development of Kerrville and the Hill Country and is only another indication of the volume of its progress.

Back in 1913, just a decade ago, Uncle Sam collected from stamp sales and box rents a total of $7,831.92. In 1921 the total was $12,514.24 and in 1922 it grew to $13,709.22. But the past year eclipses them all and that in spite of the fact that an independent office was established at Legion and none of its business comes to the office here.

in the December quarters of the two years for the office there, stating it was believed that was the record increase for Texas.

Kerrville has been eligible for the past several years to a free delivery of mail within the city limits provided certain requirements as to civic improvements were met. The business of the office has been sufficient for a number of years to secure city delivery, but the civic improvements have not been made until recently.

Only one requirement stands in the way of city delivery for Kerrville and that is that good sidewalks must be built. This handicap will in all probability be overcome within the next few months as a move has been under way for some time to make this improvement in the city.

Work has begun, it is understood, on the numbering of houses and the naming of streets and it is thought this will be completed within the next 30 days.

With the building of good sidewalks Kerrville will not only derive the benefits of their use, but may also put them to use in having mail delivered to each home.

MILLER GROCERY STORE SOLD LATTER PART OF LAST WEEK

E. Yarbrough of Devers Assumes Place as Proprietor—Miller to Remain a Citizen of Kerrville.

A deal was completed the latter part of last week whereby Haywood Miller sold the Miller Grocery Store to E. Yarbrough of Devers.

Mr. Yarbrough is an experienced grocer, having been engaged in that line of business for many years. The Sun man did not get to meet him, as he left as soon as the deal was completed for Devers, to make arrangements to move his family to Kerrville. During his absence his brother, J. W. Yarbrough is managing the store.

Mr. Miller says he does not intend to leave Kerrville, but is disposing of his present business in order to rest up. Since assuming charge of the business early last spring both he and Mrs. Miller have devoted their entire energies to building up the business, so much so that they were both threatened with breakdown of their health. They expect to rest up a bit and then embark on some other line of endeavor in this city.

Kerrville and the Hill Country gains all and loses nothing by this business change for by it the city gains another fine family and a good business man and still retains the retiring firm among its citizenship.

The Sun welcomes Mr. Yarbrough to the business circles of the city.

BREEDERS BEING INSTALLED IN KERR COUNTY BASS HATCHERY

Government Takes Charge and Persons Caught Fishing in Ponds Will Get Chance to Explain to Judge.

The latter part of last week Mark Riley, superintendent of the Federal Hatchery at San Marcos, and two of his men, B. G. Jackson and T. F. Nelson, spent two days on the Johnston Fork catching some of the breeders for Kerr County's Bass Hatchery. Due to the cold weather only eighteen of the sixty fish needed were installed in their new home.

As the bass are all in deep water at this time of the year, seining was out of the question, and it was necessary to use hook and line. However, as soon as the weather warms up, the balance of the breeders for the first season will be caught and put into the ponds.

For this work the assistance of local fishermen will be needed as Mr. Riley will be unable to help any further, owing to the rush of work at San Marcos and Medina Lake. Several anglers have already volunteered their services and any others who desire to assist in this work are asked to get in touch with C. E. Salter, chairman of the Hatchery Committee.

While most of the citizens generally understand that the fish installed at the Hatchery are for breeding purposes only, it is well to point out that anyone found fishing in the ponds will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, and the Federal laws at that, as the Federal Bureau of Fisheries is now in charge. Signs to that effect will be posted as soon as same can be secured from Washington, D. C.

Mr. Riley was well pleased with the progress made, as the ponds are holding well and filling up nicely. As soon as the breeders are installed the work of putting in the upper underground flume will be rushed to completion, which will add greatly to the flow of water into the ponds. Two weeks of favorable weather will allow the construction work to be finished, after which the balance of the funds needed will be raised, as the exact amount will then be known.

The following have invested during the past month, several in addition to the generous amounts put in at the start:

*A. C. Schreiner, $50; *L. A. Schreiner, $50; *Robt. Reel, $25; *G. E. Dryden, $25; Schreiner Institute, $25;

HUDSPETH AFTER FEDERAL BUILDING FOR KERRVILLE

Congressman From This District Pushes Up Bill for Post Office—Is Before Public Buildings Committee.

Congressman Claude B. Hudspeth, representative from the 16th Congressional District, has introduced a bill in Congress for the erection of a Federal building here to accommodate the local post office, says a letter recently received from Mr. Hudspeth. The measure has been referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds and if reported out by the chairman Kerrville will stand a good chance of securing the building, it is thought.

Mr. Hudspeth introduced such a bill several years ago, but due to the financial slump which had struck the country at that time, no appropriations were made for new government buildings, hence the measure was not acted upon.

Conditions have improved considerably and it is believed that the new bill will be carried and Kerrville will get a handsome Federal building to cost not more than $75,000. Mr. Hudspeth writes that he is making every possible effort to get the measure through at this session of Congress.

Another point that will probably add considerable weight to the importance of having a government owned building here is the growth of the local post office during the past five years. The gross business of the office has increased from $10,000 in 1918 to more than $16,000 the past year, a growth of more than 50 per cent.

The post office has been moved several times because of outgrowing its quarters and the space in the present location has been increased a

PNEUMONIA CAUSES DEATH OF JOHN H. PARSONS AT SAN ANGELO FRIDAY

Illness of But Few Days Duration Is Fatal to Son of Mrs. M. A. Parsons of This City—Funeral Held Sunday.

John H. Parsons, aged 37, died at San Angelo last Friday evening of pneumonia of but a few days duration. The body was brought to Kerrville and laid to rest in Glen Rest Cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Deceased was a son of Mrs. M. A. Parsons, pioneer resident of this city and is survived by his mother. He was born here May 12, 1886, and grew to manhood in Kerrville. He was a graduate of Tivy High School and a member of the Episcopal Church.

Mr. Parsons had spent a large part of his life in San Angelo and at the time of his death was manager of the telephone company there. He was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

Besides his mother one brother, Bert Parsons of Baird, Ariz., is left to mourn his death. Mrs. Parsons was at the bedside of her son when death came, the brother being unable to get here before he passed away, although he reached Kerrville in time for the funeral.

Funeral services were conducted at the Episcopal Church by Rev. G. M. Macdougall. The Sun joins a host of friends in extending profound sympathy to Mrs. Parsons and Bert Parsons at the loss of their beloved son and brother.

D. S. DAVENPORT ENTERS RACE FOR STATE SENATE

San Antonio Light: D. S. Davenport, member of the 38th Legislature from Bexar County, has announced that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate from the 24th Senatorial District. The 24th embraces the counties of Bexar, Banderas, Kerr and Kendall.

Mr. Davenport states that he is issuing no set platform, but will discuss the various issues as they arise. He declares, however, that he expects to continue the fight he began during the 38th Legislature leading to a reduction in the appropriation bills for the state government, and by that method doing away with the necessity of passing new and heavier tax bills. He opposed all the appropriation measures contending they were too high, and opposed all the special tax measures, being one of the leaders in opposition to a state income tax.

Though a new member of the 38th Legislature, there was not a more active member of the House than Mr. Davenport. He took a leading part from the beginning of the regular session and continued until the fall of the final gavel in the last called session. He was a member of several of the most important committees and a worker who never tired, whether he was on or off the committee which had under consideration a matter in which he was interested.

Mr. Davenport bears the distinction of being the only member of the House from Bexar County since Chester Terrell was speaker, to preside over that body, and his friends were so favorably impressed by his bearing and impartiality as a presiding officer, that more than a third of the membership of the House tendered their support if he would become a candidate for Speaker of the 29th House.

He also bears the unique distinction of passing the first bill over Governor Neff's veto, since the governor took office; that being the measure creating the 94th District court in Bexar County.

Davenport's sane attitude toward business and his record on economy and against increased taxation, it is said by his friends, have entirely allayed any hostility that might have been directed at his candidacy by the business element of the district on account of his strong adherence to the cause of organized labor.

HARMONIE'S LOVE

By MOLLIE MATHER

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

"THE one thing that clouds my happiness," Paul said, "is having to tell Harmonie. We have been engaged since school days, Nanette. Had I not met you I might still be mistaking my affection for her—for love. You had to teach me the meaning of that word—dearest dear."

Nanette laughed complacently. "You were a very apt pupil," she teased. "And I've no doubt your Miss Harmonie would make you a better wife. I shall torment you all your days, and," added the girl under her breath, "you'll bless me for doing it, Paul. That's the way men are made. As for telling your Harmonie of your true love for another woman, why, that will be easy. You know you did not see Miss Harmonie for months and was satisfied. Also," remarked Nanette, with her mischievous smile, "you might show her my photo."

As months passed into years the willful ways which had charmed him in his wife now annoyed. Too, Nanette lost in some strange way her attractive manner of dressing.

Nanette's wavy dark hair was carelessly drawn back; Paul found constant annoyance in straying strands which formed a fashion of falling about his wife's frilled collars. He remembered Harmonie's neatness, the soothing cadence of her low voice. Nanette spoke as she laughed—shrilly.

He met Harmonie one evening in the public library. He could scarcely believe as he wonderingly greeted her, that so many years had severed them. From her youthful freshness the parting might have been yesterday. Harmonie's voice fell softly on grateful ears. She listened with all the old interest to his tale of business ventures and rejoiced in his confessed success. He liked immensely the modestly neat frock that Harmonie wore—like the trimness of her coiffed hair, beneath a dark turban's brim. Here was a woman to be proud of—Paul brought up his thoughts abruptly; he had been about to continue—"and to love."

"And Nanette," Harmonie asked, "is she very well and very happy?" "Well, and happy?" Yes, he could answer that. Nanette would always be happy in her own carefree pursuits. But love may read the shadows in a beloved's eyes. So Harmonie, watching Paul, wondered and was grave as she bade him good-by.

They met again, however—and again—which was not strange, as this evening hour was their free one from business, and the library their chosen recreation. But a friend of Nanette's, who happened also to have been an old acquaintance of her husband, came with the news of these continued chance meetings.

"I see your husband often in the company of his old sweetheart"—the friend joyfully watched the effect of her communication upon the assured Nanette—"You'd better be looking after him."

Paul and Harmonie! Of course Paul could not care for the "sensible" woman when he had chosen the "beautiful" one. So reasoned Nanette in her own mind.

conceit. But she visited the library and saw them there. Harmonie was politely pleased in the meeting. Paul, looking into his wife's fretful face, was disturbed. If she should not understand; if her suspicions should offend the gentle woman whose kindly interest had been so grateful to his weary spirit.

Harmonie put out her hand as she bade Nanette good-night. "May I come to see you?" asked Harmonie. "We should be friends, you and I. I went to school years ago with your husband."

That Harmonie had called he learned next day. To his surprise, Nanette had no sarcastic remark to make regarding the visit. Instead, she seemed thoughtful.

Nanette's handsome eyes lost their mocking light as they rested often upon Paul's face. If such a thing could be possible, he might have thought that Harmonie's own interest was reflected there.

Nanette spoke softly. "Paul," she said. "Tell me about the Cooper transaction. Miss Harmonie made it sound so interesting—like a big adventure. She said you would be glad to tell me, Paul."

Amazed, happy in this new revelation of his pretty spoiled wife's character, Paul talked, eagerly unfolded plans, even as he had done when Harmonie was listener. He came, at conclusion, to stand gazing admiringly at his wife.

"Dear," said Paul, his tone had the old sweet ring of courtship days, "you are very pretty tonight, as well as charming. What have you done to your hair?"

Nanette laughed, still softly. "Harmonie wished to experiment with my hair," she informed him; "she said it was so adapted to arrangement. And my frock, you like that, Paul? Harmonie and I, after luncheon, went shopping. She helped me select it. There is so much, she thinks, in individual style. And I must make a confession, Paul—I was actually jealous of that woman who is trying to bring my charms to the surface for your delectation. I like your Harmonie, Paul."

And in her own home Harmonie stood smiling whimsically. "You always did love, my dear," she told herself, "in an unusual way."

ON NAVY DAY

By POLLY LEWIS

(© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"IT'S this way, Champlain Burgess," said Sailor Dunn, "I'm anxious to get out of the navy because—well, because I—I guess I want to get married."

The chaplain smiled. "Congratulations," he said. "Why don't you bring the lucky young lady aboard some Saturday afternoon?"

"Honest, chaplain, I'm sometimes strong for quitting this job." "The girl objects while you're still in the outfit, I suppose?"

"Well, a fellow's got to have money these days. I'd want to take her on a—classy honeymoon, you know."

Sailor Dunn and Rosamond Kerr met at the Army and Navy club. He told her of life in the navy and of vorages to foreign ports. He talked about his shipmates and of the ship's champion fighter Rollo. How his eyes brightened when he mentioned Rollo! One unforgettable Saturday afternoon he had showed her over the navy yard and after that they had walked uptown to a movie and had a jake time chewing peanuts and salt water kisses. Thus the stream of acquaintance between little Rosy Kerr and Sailor Dunn of the U. S. N. had widened into the river of love.

Two or three days after his little chat with Chaplain Burgess, word was passed to Sailor Dunn that the athletic officer wished to see him. With his heart acting for all the world like a contrary propeller, skipping a few beats and then racing like mad, Dunn walked up to the wardrobe and over to Officer Brown's desk.

Officer Brown was laconic and to the point. "Rollo's sparring partner got sent to the hospital this morning for three weeks and I'm looking for a substitute. Chaplain Burgess suggested we give you a try. You're about the right weight and he says you've done some boxing and wrestling. Do you accept?"

"Thanks, sir. With great pleasure." "You will meet Rollo then on the fo'c'sle deck this afternoon directly after inspection."

"Aye, aye, sir." Dunn's right hand shot outward from his cap rim in a snappy salute. In another minute he was out of the wardrobe.

The practice bout that afternoon, witnessed by several hundred gobs, was the debut of a new ship's pugilist. His shipmates were jubilant at Dunn's surprising success.

"You'll be a champ before this cruise is out," they said. "We never dreamed you had the makins in you. Where've you been all your life?"

So every day for two weeks he practiced with Rollo. He was happier than the proverbial king, and thrice as busy and almost as important. However, every other evening was spent with Rosamond. Each day saw an improvement over the preceding one. The result was a conference at which it was decided to have Sailor Dunn try out for a championship.

A bout was arranged and money raised. "Fighting" Joe Saunders of the army vs. Sailor Dunn of the navy.

On the night of the fight, before he went ashore, Dunn wrote a note to her. "Duty prevents me from seeing you tonight. Tomorrow is Navy day, so come aboard the ship. Will be looking for you."

"Fighting" Joe was a formidable adversary. He had toughened muscles and knowledge of and experience in the fighting game. He had made up his mind to give this plucky new kid a dose and began to administer it in the second round. Dunn barely regained his feet at the end of the count. Things looked bad for the navy blue and a group of gum sailors darkened the ringside.

sent him reeling. Through the half-closed eye came a vision of a placard he had noticed on the wall before. "October 27, Navy day." And underneath the words, the picture of a great American; the man who wouldn't take defeat.

How disappointed Chaplain Burgess and all his shipmates would be! How awful for the navy's representative to be licked on the eve of Navy day! Wasn't it a navy man who had once said those great and inspiring words, "I haven't begun to fight"? Well, Sailor Dunn hadn't begun to fight, either.

With one desperate, mighty, concentrated effort that took his last ounce of energy, his arm shot outward. When Dunn sought his hammock that night he was possessed of three things, not formerly had—a bloody nose, a sprained arm and a victory.

Came then Navy day, and visitors and Rosamond.

"The ship is sailing tomorrow," Sailor Dunn told his sweetheart, as they walked around the ship.

Tears glistened then in her lovely eyes. "You'll—you'll come back—some time, w-won't you?"

Sailor Dunn gazed straight ahead of him. "I might," he answered, "if I had a little wife, with blue eyes like yours, waiting for me. We've got a chaplain on here. He does splicing sometimes." "Let's find him," she whispered. And before the sun had set, Sailor Dunn left the ship with a bride and furlough papers containing orders to report aboard in New York two weeks later. In his leg purse reposed a neat little sum, which would pay for quite a nice little honeymoon.

BOK'S WORLD PEACE DREAM: THE HAND OF ESAU, BUT THE VOICE OF JACOB

Texas Commercial News: A few years ago a well-meaning individual spent a few thousand dollars on an expedition of peace against warring nations. A bunch of idealists went along. Our own people hooted at him and his idealism. He was right. He was acting at the right time. He was suggesting the right practices of individuals for nations. It was the time when peace should have been talked. When my neighbor and I are living in peace and harmony, it is a poor time to offer peaceful amenities: nothing is needed then. The time that oil should be poured on the waters is when they are troubled. This idealist attempted it, and was snubbed by the warring nations, and the neutrals (?) hooted. What they wanted was ammunition. What the "neutrals" wanted was to sell ammunition! We, as nations, talk peace and sell munitions of war. At the present time Uncle Sam is playing the noble role of handing a bludgeon to the weaker of two fighting individuals—we have no right to sell either faction in Mexico ammunition. If we have a work at all in this case, it would be to see that neither faction receive munitions of war! This is the setting of the "referendum" Mr. Bok's peace enjoys. We are enjoying (?) the spectacle of a government abetting internecine strife, in a sister republic, while its people are "voting" on a world peace plan. It is very much like the mother and son indulging in plans to keep peace between neighbors while the father is busy handing bludgeons to one of the bellicose citizens. We are told that Mr. Bok's committee has selected from many proposed peace plans No. 1469, and that they have awarded him or her the half of the $100,000 prize offered, with the promise that he or she shall get the other $50,000 if the people of the United States ratify his or her proposals. No. 1469 is the hand of Esau, but the voice of Jacob. Briefly, it proposes that we meddle in international court affairs, especially in the matter of the League of Nations, but that we refuse to become an obligated member. In other words, we should butt in at will, and bow out at will, always reserving the right to do or not to do, just as our own whims dictate. It seeks to straddle a century and hold on to the over-praised Monroe Doctrine (I believe, they are now discovering that Monroe didn't write it; this may kill it), a piece of "national policy" evolved during the age of international disintegration, and at the same time it is seeking to seize the virtues of a world court, a piece of national policy evolved during the age of world or international integration. There can be no union with reservations: the thirteen colonies tried that, under the Articles of Confederacy. The plan is punk, and the votes of the American people shall be significant, for their vote on this will be as little representative of the American mind and spirit as was the demand (?) of the American people that we enter the world war "to make the world safe for Democracy!" The same fifty minds that covered America with unfair propaganda (like the waters cover the sea), which plunged us headlong into the European war, is back of the Bok peace plan! That point is made conclusive in the plan's declaration that we "accept no responsibility under the treaty of Versailles, unless in any particular case congress has authorized such action." This shows clearly the mind of Jacob and recalls the ambitions of father Isaac to stay out of the foreign entanglements, the mess of pottage, the sale of his birthright, the hand of Jacob clothed in goat's skin, the blessing of Isaac given Jacob, and the suspicious remark that preceded: "This is the hand of Esau, but the voice of Jacob!" We believe that the world is not yet ready for conscious union, that an attempt through articles of confederation that can propose everything and compel nothing, is fratricidal and unwise. We believe that our course at this time should be amicable relations with all nations, based upon a course of justice, honesty and integrity, reserving our overt acts of assistance or interference free to take whatever coloring or course the exigencies of the case may dictate at the time it is made. Let our past course of rectitude be our assurance to the nations of the world that in the future as in the past they shall not feel the tyrant's heel pressed by the American strength; that they may expect American justice, honor and integrity unimpaired. We vote NO on the plan suggested by No. 1469.

W. W. Taylor, son and daughter, D. C. and Miss Laura, of Junction were visitors here last Friday.

Rev. W. P. Dickey returned Tuesday from Edna, where he conducted a revival meeting the past ten days.

H. H. Hough and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hufstader of Junction arrived last Friday and the latter entered Secor Hospital for treatment.

G. P. Avera and son, W. D. Avera, of Bronson arrived in Kerrville the latter part of last week to stay for some time for the latter's health. They are guests at the Williams Boarding House.

Frank Bissett of Junction was a Kerrville visitor Monday, stopping off on his way to San Antonio. Mr. Bissett formerly lived in Kerrville and has a host of friends here who are always glad to see him.

Workmen have been engaged for the past few days in moving the building occupied by the offices of the Kerrville Ice & Electric Co. The house has been moved back from the plant and the interior improved by the installation of wall board.

Mr. Biermann, of the Lane Valley Community, says that he killed out a large bed of cut ants thirty years ago with a gallon of "High Life" and they have not come back yet. He advises the use of "High Life" in the destruction of cut ants, a gallon for the larger colonies and less for the smaller ones, according to the size of the colony.

San Antonio Express: R. L. Schmerbeck, Buick dealer at Kerrville, was in the city several days ago and drove out a seven-passenger Buick touring car for J. Ayala, who operates a bus line from San Antonio up into the hill country. Mr. Ayala already has a good-sized fleet of Buick cars in bus service and finds them giving complete satisfaction.

Ben Surber has sold his barber shop to I. R. Craig of Orange, the deal having been completed last week. The new proprietor is an experienced barber as well as a courteous and pleasant gentleman, and with his family adds to Kerrville's rapidly increasing population. Ben is still holding down the middle chair, however, so the change is hardly noticed.

M. K. Hood, manager of the Center Point Mill & Elevator Company, was a pleasant visitor at The Mountain Sun office last Saturday. Mr. Hood states that his company has abandoned the making of flour and are devoting their entire energies to producing feed stuff of all sorts. Their business the past year ran in excess of $35,000 and prospects are good for a greatly increased business for this year.

DEPARTMENT SAYS EXPANSION NEEDED IN WOOL INDUSTRY

Washington, D. C.—That there is considerable need for expansion of the sheep industry in the United States and that the future holds promise of greater stability for the industry than enjoyed in the past, is declared by the United States Department of Agriculture. It is thought that the expansion of the future will be characterized by less violent fluctuations than heretofore because there is relatively little unoccupied land to which the industry can turn, and the pioneer phase of mutton and wool production is rapidly passing. Though the United States is the third country in wool production and has produced an average of 300,000,000 pounds a year for the last thirty-five years, it has never met the home demand. Imports for some years prior to the war averaged 200,000,000 pounds. They reached a peak at 454,000,000 pounds in 1918. Probably a normal annual amount which must be imported is around 300,000,000 pounds. American sheepsman have therefore, no need to be afraid, says the department, of overshooting the home demand for wool. Since 1921 wool prices have more than doubled. The problem of selling wool is not to create a market, but to take the best advantage of the one that exists.

The ratio of the number of sheep to population in the United States has declined since 1884. From 1899 to 1903 there were about five sheep for every eight people. Ten years later there were only four. From 1919 to 1923 there were only 2.8 sheep for every eight people, or about one-third of a sheep per person. Nevertheless the total production of wool has remained practically constant, owing to increase in the weight of the fleeces. Per capita consumption on wool has been maintained by great increases in imports.

Parent-Teachers' Club Meets

The Parent-Teachers' Club held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, January 9, in the Tivy High School Auditorium.

A Martha Washington tea was planned for February 22 at which there will be a free will offering. The president appointed various committees to carry out plans for same and it is hoped that this function will be well attended.

Beautifulizing the school grounds is a matter that interests the whole community and soon we will have trees planted all around the campus. Pipes are being laid now with a hydrant every 50 feet. The trees will be purchased from Mosty Bros. Nursery.

The following program was rendered: Piano duet, Annie and Edna Saenger; paper, first chapter of "The Child and America", Mrs. Richard Holdsworth. Delicious refreshments of hot chocolate were served in the Domestic Science room. REPORTER.

BIRDS FAVOR DUST BATHS

Creatures of the Wild Are Extremely Clean and Well-Groomed Except When Ill.

Creatures of the wild, both birds and beasts, are extremely clean. Feathers and coats are invariably sleek and well-groomed, unless the creature is unwell. It is a sure sign that something is wrong if you see ruffled feathers or a coat that is tangled and dirty.

Birds use both water and dust for cleaning themselves. Some prefer one, some the other. The sparrow likes a dust bath, though when the weather is very warm he may be seen splashing about in the roadside puddles after a thunderstorm.

It is usually the birds that live on the wing that use water for washing. Birds that spend most of their time on the ground like a dust bath, to get rid of the insects and other irritating creatures which are picked up from the ground.

The pheasant and the partridge never go near water except when they are thirsty, and require it for drinking purposes.

Fowls are the same. Give them access to dust, and you can see them enjoying themselves in it. Feathers are ruffled, so the dust can get to the skin, from which the fowl shakes it when the bath is finished. Then comes a great preening with the bill, for the feathers keep the body warm and water-tight, and unless each is in its proper place the air penetrates to the skin.

Birds that live in the water never take a dust bath. They splash themselves for cleanliness, shaking their wings and working the water up and down between their feathers.

A cat, of course, keeps itself clean by the aid of its tongue, and never seems to tire of making its toilet, the tongue acting as a sponge, brush and comb.

A dog cleans itself by rolling on grass and then shaking itself. In the summer it will take a dip in a pond or stream. Automatically, its coat remains tidy, though a good brushing will always be appreciated.—London Tit-Bits.

RADIO IS HEARD 90 FEET UNDER THE HUDSON IN QUIET OF 200-FOOT TUNNEL

New York, Jan. 6.—Radio broadcasting from station KDKA in Pittsburgh was clearly received Friday on a set installed 90 feet under the Hudson river in the tunnel being driven to connect New York and New Jersey and to be used exclusively for vehicular traffic. Those conducting the tests had slight hopes that radio messages would get by the barrier of water and mud and reach their ear phones.

The receiving set was placed 1,500 feet from the Manhattan shore at a point where there was 50 feet of water and 40 feet of mud above them. Nearby stations, such as WOR, Newark, WJZ and WEAF in New York, were first picked up, and later the program broadcast from Westinghouse Electric Company, Pittsburgh, was heard perfectly.

Messages from the remote stations could be heard in the quiet of the tunnel 200 feet from the receiving set.

TEXAS IS OVER-GOVERNED

Texas Commercial News: We heard a live, energetic banker say the other day: "My son is over-governed; not only his mother and I are busy with him and at him—his grandfather lives with us and has his notions about what the boy should do."

All know what that banker felt; and we equally know how helpless he is in the premises.

All know what the boy's handicaps are—a parent-made vocation is always fatal, and when other generations step in—well, the great army of never-arrived people tells the tale.

The people of Texas are in exactly the same condition that banker's son is in, and the thoughtful citizens are in the same condition the banker was in—or is in.

Willacy, in the second number of his magazine, Facts and Fiction, says: "Increase in number of the state's employees covering 12 years, 152%; increase in cost of traveling expenses state's employees 12 years, 500%; increase of population, same period, 28%; increase of the state's wealth, same period, 35 and eight-tenths per cent."

Thus we find that the number of men who are in the employ of the state has increased nearly five times as much as the population has increased; while their traveling expenses have increased nearly fifteen times.

We do think that we have reached that point when being over-governed seem to be oppressively evident.

We have passed the common sense stage and view of it, and find ourselves in the attitude of having to have a state employ scrutinize every act of the citizen.

We seem to have forgotten that every citizen is supposed to be honest, not guilty, until proven otherwise, and have added the theory that every citizen is a thief and a grand rascal, until he proves himself otherwise—and to the state employ, the citizen can never establish his right to be held as an honest, upright citizen—over and over, again and again, he must come round and check the citizen up with an air of being almost in the possession of evidence that will prove the original contention—and that is that the citizen is a crook, was a crook from the beginning, and always will be a crook.

The oft repeated and more oft violated proverb that "The least governed is the best governed" seems to be in great need of renewed study.

Each in-coming governor declares that he is going to do something about it; and each out-going governor leaves a uniform record of having increased the number of employees.

The present crop of aspirants are declaring for the same retrenchment. Judging the future by the past we can safely wager that the increase will continue, for we are yet a young and virile nation, and while all nations have fallen about the fountain of oversaturation of official interference, there is nothing in the immediate future but continued increase—it seems.

PREPARING THE GARDEN SPOT

Mrs. J. L. Lester, in Farm and Ranch: Now is the time to get the garden spot ready. The land should be plowed very thoroughly. One winter plowing does more towards pulverizing the soil than two or three late plowings. If the land is flat-broke in the fall or winter the rains and freezes help to dissolve all the clods.

It depends upon the nature of the soil as to how deep the land should be broken. If the sub-soil is near the surface, the plowing should not be so very deep. Only a little of the sub-soil should be turned up. Then a little more the next year and so on until there is a very deep, mellow soil on top.

Fertilizing is of very great importance when the garden spot is being prepared. The best fertilizers are those that contain the greatest amount of humus. The manure from the barnyard or poultry roost is the best for the garden.

When barnyard or poultry manure is applied in the fall or winter there is hardly any danger of getting too much. An application of 20 or 30 tons of manure to the acre is usually very satisfactory.

I always like to apply the manure, broadcasting it, just before I have the first plowing done. Then it is mixed in with the soil and goes through the stage of fermenting. By applying the manure in the fall or winter one does not need to be so very careful to have it well rotted as it will have time to decay before the spring planting.

If one has the time, and leaves are convenient, it is well to haul them and spread them over the land and plow them under with the fertilizers. Leaves add much humus to the soil. Some say that if the land is sandy

EPISCOPAL CHURCH NOTES

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Guild was held on the first Tuesday in the month. The lowering skies and muddy streets were forgotten the moment we entered the home of Mrs. H. Weiss where all were cordially welcomed by our charming hostess. Glowing fires, flowers, birds, grandmother and children combined to create an atmosphere of cheer and home, most delightful of all.

The meeting was called to order by the president and opened with a prayer, in which the presence, guidance and assistance of our Heavenly Father was asked for. A very fine report was read of what was accomplished during the last year, under the able and energetic leadership of Mrs. J. L. Pampell, who gave most freely of her time and strength to furthering the work of the Guild.

Besides keeping up all the current expenses, many substantial improvements have been made and best of all, the interest and enthusiasm of the members has been fully sustained. Committees were appointed for the ensuing month, Mrs. A. M. McClelland was appointed chairman of the Calendar, Mrs. J. L. Pampell, Secretary. The first of these will be held in the Parish Room tomorrow, January 18, at 6:30 p. m.

After the business was disposed of, a dainty salad course was served followed by cakes and tea.

Dr. E. Galbraith was greatly gratified at the fine response made by the men of the Church to his invitation to meet with the Vestry at his residence on Wednesday evening. The following officers were elected: Cecil Robinson, Junior Warden, and Milton Pampell, Secretary. Delegates to the Diocesan Council in San Antonio appointed were G. Walther and Dr. E. Galbraith; alternates, Judge J. S. Wheless and Otho Morris.

Interesting and satisfactory reports were read by the secretary and treasurer. The past and the future work of the parish was discussed and the sentiments of all were aptly expressed by Mr. Robinson when he said: "We have done well, but do not let us remain content with that; but keep ourselves constantly keyed up so that the work, so well begun, may show a steady increase all along the line."

IRRIGATION DANGER FOR THE WEATHER

Has the irrigation of arid lands in our Southwest affected the climate of the United States? E. B. Dunn, known as "Farmer" Dunn, and long connected with the U. S. Weather Bureau, asserts that it has done so. He expresses his belief that irrigation in the Rocky Mountain region has swerved the average path of storm-centers across the continent and has thus changed climatic conditions over wide districts, altering temperature and rainfall in a distinct degree. He continues:

"Storms used to enter the United States from the northwest. Now they come from the southwest. This change has caused a change of weather which is felt over the whole country. This is not a matter of opinion, but of official record. It brings us back to irrigation.

"The vast area covered by irrigation in Southern California, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Oklahoma and Texas have made nature change her habits. The storms come in from over Washington and Oregon, but most of them arrive from over Southern California. The great attraction which Colorado and Wyoming used to furnish for drawing storms from their natural path has shifted to the desert lands of the Southwest, principally in Southern California and Arizona. Here we find a succession of low-pressure storms entering and developing over the lowlands of this once arid but now well-irrigated region. The greater part of this land is now kept thoroughly saturated, and the intense heat from a broiling sun steadily draws the water from the soil up the sides of the mountains, which form barriers as if to hold in check the vast areas of depression that swing forth and back from the California coast to Texas. This continues until the storm, which has now attained its full energy, moves slowly away, generally to the northwest, with its major axis pointing toward the lake regions.

"For long time it was a mystery why so many storms should be born or linger over what was supposed to be arid country. Later it was discovered that the great inducement was water. Up to 1890 Colorado had more land under irrigation than any other State. The Geological Survey at the time showed that there were 4,300,000 acres of land in Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas and Utah cultivated by means of irrigation, and it was about that time the charted observations of the course of storms first indicated the connection between irrigation and climatic change.

"In the last thirty years irrigation has increased many fold. Today the water furnished for irrigation supplies 19,000,000 acres of land, extending from Montana and the Dakotas southward to Arizona, California and Texas, and east to Kansas and Nebraska.

"The floods which have so often in the last few years visited Arizona, Texas, Colorado, Arkansas and Utah, causing the loss of hundreds of lives, and destroying millions of dollars worth of property, may then be attributed to man's zealous endeavor to utilize that great arid waste."

NEW YORK AWARDED DEMOCRATIC MEET

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—The Democratic National Convention will be held at New York City, beginning Tuesday, June 24, following the Republican Convention at Cleveland June 10. New York, for the first time in 56 years, was voted the convention Tuesday by the Democratic National Committee after a stirring combat with San Francisco, Chicago and St. Louis.

the deciding ballot after the second vote had given New York 47, San Francisco 29, Chicago 16, and St. Louis 11. The first vote was New York 39, San Francisco 23, Chicago 22, and St. Louis 18. New York's selection finally was made unanimous on motion of San Francisco's spokesman.

Party leaders of all factions said the choice of New York and the battle which preceded it were without significance on the candidates of William G. McAdoo, Senator Underwood of Alabama, or other aspirants for the Presidential nomination.

Although the McAdoo leaders had claimed that a majority of the committee favored his candidacy and several prominent McAdoo workers had declared in favor of a Western city for the convention and against New York, the "McAdoo vote" in the committee balloting apparently was divided, several voting for New York and others for San Francisco and St. Louis.

Some professed to see in the result an indication of the reputed "Murray-Brennan-Taggart" hand, reported as against McAdoo's nomination. George E. Brennan, Illinois Democrat leader, voted for New York after withdrawing Chicago at the close of the second ballot, and the two votes of Indiana, of which Tom Taggart is national committee man stuck to New York, where Charles F. Murphy, Tammany Hall magnate, holds the Democratic political scepter.

Some of the McAdoo leaders said they had not opposed the choice of New York, and pointed to McAdoo's personal telegram Monday disclaiming opposition to New York. Dollars, needed by the Democratic treasury to clean up its deficit of $180,000 from the 1920 campaign, were the big bludgeons of Tuesday's long battle over the convention city.

New York's selection followed an increase to $205,000 for the convention over its original bid of $150,000. This topped the big offer of $200,000 by San Francisco, up to that time the record breaker in American political history. When New York boosted its offer, San Francisco tacked on another $5,000 to equal the New York bid, but this failed to swing the convention to the Pacific Coast.

Many committee members said that with the San Francisco and New York bids equal, they were against repeating the long trek of 1920 to the Pacific Coast and were in favor of giving New York its first political convention since 1868.

Chicago and St. Louis was credited largely to their smaller financial offers. For the first time since 1896 Chicago will not be the scene in a presidential year of any major national political gathering. With the selection of the convention city, most of the Democratic committee's important business was concluded Tuesday, but there will be another session Wednesday for consideration of resolutions, including the formal call, the convention apportionment and other details.

Pending proposals to retain the present delegate roll and a substitute resolution by Senator Glass of Virginia, designated to increase the number of women delegates. The Democratic convention will conclude tomorrow a pilgrimage to the home of the party's former chief, Woodrow Wilson.

clave will conclude tomorrow a pilgrimage to the home of the party's former chief, Woodrow Wilson. He suggested that if possible the members call and arrangements were accordingly made to visit him at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday.

Among other affairs to be considered Wednesday is election of successors to Wilbur W. Marsh of Iowa, treasurer of the National committee, who Tuesday announced his resignation, and to Ed Hoffman, of Indiana, who resigned recently as secretary. Appointment of a committee on arrangements for the New York convention, with headquarters to be established probably at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, also to be made.

Madison Square Garden, the setting for many historic events in American life, will be the scene of the convention. New York's delegation, in raising its bid for the convention, gave a minimum guarantee to the committee of $55,000 for the convention privileges at the garden, such as radio transmission, motion picture and other concessions.

With New York's original check for $150,000 already in the hands of Chairman Hull, the additional check for $55,000 is to be turned over Wednesday. The bulk of the New York delegation, shouting jubilation over their victory, returned home Tuesday night, to prepare, they said, to give the Democratic hosts the time of their lives next June.

Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert led the New York spokesmen in pressing its invitation to the committee. He was supported by Norman E. Mack, New York committee man; Joseph P. Day, chairman of the civic committee; Judge Morgan J. O'Brien and George Edward Smith of the Merchants Association. All emphasized the lapse of 56 years since New York had had a National convention and the advantageous political effects which would result, predictions of a Democratic success in the Empire State this year being made.

Acting Mayor Hulbert said New York had a radio audience alone of 30,000,000 persons and with its 1,500 hotels, 12,000 restaurants, 1,000 theaters and 1,500 churches, together with other attractions, would entertain the Democratic hosts in cosmopolitan style.

The advantages for women visitors in New York also was emphasized by the speakers and especially by Miss Elizabeth Barry, New York's committeewoman. She caused a laugh when she said New York was "surrounded" by water, while Hulbert assured the committee that New York's measure of law enforcement equaled that of Chicago.

Several party precedents were broken in the committee's deliberations Tuesday, one being the public balloting for the convention city. Secret voting was proposed but because of the large throng which overflowed the hotel assembly room, the committee finally took its vote in the open. Also in fixing the convention opening for June 24, the committee virtually precluded, except if a long deadlock over nominations should ensue, the convention's being in session on the Fourth of July, which has sometimes occurred in past party conventions.

FALSE ALARM SENDS FIRE TRUCKS ON WILD GOOSE CHASE SATURDAY

Incomplete Information Causes Much Confusion—Fire Chief Again Asks Motorists Not to Race Trucks.

Incomplete information in turning in a fire alarm sent the apparatus on a wild goose chase about 7 o'clock last Saturday evening. Investigation finally developed that it was a false alarm.

First reports stated the fire was somewhere on Water Street and the trucks made a run down that thoroughfare without locating a blaze. Then further information said it was on Main Street near the Court House and the department rushed over to that address, but found nothing unusual.

Final investigation developed that the alarm was false, the person turning it in evidently being mistaken as no fire could be found.

"Persons cannot be too definite in reporting fires," said Eugene Butt, fire chief. "If everyone would take a little time to be very explicit about the location of the blaze more good would be done than by just phoning in that 'Jones' house is on fire.'"

EXECUTIONS HALT UNTIL FEBRUARY 8, OF THIS YEAR

Austin, Tex., Jan. 12.—In order to allow time for a new warden to learn the mechanism of the new electric chair at Huntsville prison, four executions scheduled for Jan. 16 and Jan. 18 were reset Thursday for February 8, by Governor Neff. No one yet has been appointed to succeed Warden R. F. Coleman, who resigned rather than send the four men to their deaths.

Approval of Section D of Highway 41, extending from Town Creek to Silver Creek south of the city, was given by State and Federal Highway engineers, who made an inspection of the road Monday.

The engineers, headed by Major Hudson of the State Highway Department, spent a large part of Monday with County Judge Lee Wallace and Special Road Commissioners, Remschel, Duerstadt and Schreiner going over the newly completed road and giving it minute inspection. Their report was one of approval, but they suggested several corrections to be made before the work could be formally accepted.

Several places in the road must be rolled again as the gravel topping has worked loose or failed to pack and in another place more gravel must be applied to the surface. As soon as this work has been done to the satisfaction of the county engineer the Highway Department will accept the section.

Democrat-Voice (Coleman, Tex.), Jan. 11th: Commissioner O. H. Kelly stated that maintenance of the Coleman-Abilene road in Commissioners' Prec. 4, which has been designated for State maintenance, was begun Monday at Novice. Chas. Putnam is foreman of the maintenance crew which will be kept steadily on the work.

Grades will be thrown up where needed to lift the road out of the mud and bridges or culverts placed where needed. A State appropriation of $2,500 for a period of six months was made for maintenance of that unimproved stretch of Highway No. 7 to the Taylor County line, a distance of approximately 25 miles.

Several places in the road must be rolled again as the gravel topping has worked loose or failed to pack and in another place more gravel must be applied to the surface. As soon as this work has been done to the satisfaction of the county engineer the Highway Department will accept the section.

FEDERAL AND STATE ENGINEERS APPROVE SECTION D OF HIGHWAY

Formal Acceptance to Be Made Upon Completion of Few Corrections Suggested By Highway Department.

Approval of Section D of Highway 41, extending from Town Creek to Silver Creek south of the city, was given by State and Federal Highway engineers, who made an inspection of the road Monday. Formal acceptance will be given when a few corrections in the construction are completed.

The engineers, headed by Major Hudson of the State Highway Department, spent a large part of Monday with County Judge Lee Wallace and Special Road Commissioners, Remschel, Duerstadt and Schreiner going over the newly completed road and giving it minute inspection. Their report was one of approval, but they suggested several corrections to be made before the work could be formally accepted.

Several places in the road must be rolled again as the gravel topping has worked loose or failed to pack and in another place more gravel must be applied to the surface. As soon as this work has been done to the satisfaction of the county engineer the Highway Department will accept the section.

A contract for the maintenance of the highway through Kerr County by the county maintenance crews has been entered into with the Highway Department. The State has not fully completed its organization for the taking over of highway maintenance and Kerr County, as are many other counties in Texas, will be paid under the contract to keep the highway in good condition until the department can take it over.

It is thought this will be possible within the next six months and at that time the Highway Department expects to be able to purchase county road maintenance machinery and to retain the crews. Until then the work will be done by the county with reimbursement from the State.

It is believed that formal acceptance of Section D will be made within a week.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 12.—In order to allow time for a new warden to learn the mechanism of the new electric chair at Huntsville prison, four executions scheduled for Jan. 16 and Jan. 18 were reset Thursday for February 8, by Governor Neff. No one yet has been appointed to succeed Warden R. F. Coleman, who resigned rather than send the four men to their deaths.

"It would not be fair," said Governor Neff, "to compel a new warden to electrocute four men within a few hours or a few days after taking the position. He must have time to get acquainted and learn his duties."

Warden Coleman's term expires January 15. Governor Neff said he thought by that time a new warden would be appointed.

Execution of Newell Morris, Victoria County, had been set for Jan. 16, and that of George Washington, Melvin Johnson and Mack Matthews, negroes, for Jan. 18. This is the third respite for each of the negroes, other postponements having been caused by delay in installing the electric chair authorized by the last Legislature.

Sid McElroy of Center Point is interested in the building of a sweet potato curing plant. He says that if the sweet potato growers will get together and build a curing plant so they can keep their potatoes in good condition and sell them as the market needs them, they will realize a much bigger profit from their potato crop.

According to Mr. McElroy's judgment, the storing and marketing of potatoes are the big problems of the potato grower and the curing plant is the solution to these problems. Why not join hands with him and solve the problems, thus making the sweet potato crop a good paying crop in this country?

"Dixie," the popular Southern song, was written by a northern actor, the theme, "I wish I was in Dixie" being the actor's desire for a winter engagement in the South.
