TOWN TEAM WINS FROM ARTESIA FRIDAY 27-16 2ND VICTORY OF YEAR

The Hagerman town team emerged victorious Friday night from a tile with the strong Joyce-Pruit team of Artesia by a score of 27-16. At the end of the first half, the score stood 9-11 in favor of Artesia who kept the lead until the opening of the fourth quarter, when the count was 16-15, but was forced to relinquish their advantage while Hagerman held them scoreless to run up the count to 27-16, during the last few minutes of play. Both teams played defensive ball until Manager Collins ran in a group of fresh men for the fourth quarter who livened things up on the Hagerman side to mark twelve points in spectacular playing. Slick Derrick was high point man for Hagerman during this game, with Curly Derrick runner up.

Hagerman team has played superb ball so far in the season and has defeated the mighty Peerless Butter team of Roswell, as well as Artesia rated one of the strongest teams of the valley. Wednesday night, they met Lake Arthur and defeated them by a score of 47-22.

The lineups for the Hagerman-Artesia game follow:

THAT NEW YEAR RESOLUTION

Why cannot we as individual citizens of the town of Hagerman each resolve in the dawn of a new year to make this the greatest year of advancement Hagerman has ever enjoyed? A good beginning would be the reorganization and rejuvenation of a Chamber of Commerce. A forward step would be the construction of a city park with trees, flowers and recreation grounds including a baseball diamond. Just a little effort and thought would make a great change in our little community. Let us resolve to be more friendly to the visitor to our city during 1931, show him the advantages of our irrigated lands, and strive to enlist him permanently on the roster of our citizenship. Let us further resolve to be more charitable toward those in our midst who try to build for community betterment, and to criticise less.

AVERAGES

A few years ago, a small city merchant achieved the headlines because some writer, using population statistics and a map, selected him as the "average man."

In all probability, this man was above the average, for we are told that nine out of ten persons entering business life fail, while this merchant was conducting a successful enterprise. Perhaps he should have been termed a "representative" business man, instead of

Similarly, successful farmers, the true representatives of agriculture, are above the average; but often when figures are quoted on the cost of producing a bushel of corn, wheat or oats, it is the "average cost" that is cited. Yet not even the most ardent supporter of averages fails to recognize their drawbacks or the possibility of such figures being misinterpreted.

According to recently published records, the avland or for marketing the crop. The average in the to be warm and comfortable. Leave one of the windows corn belt was $13.90, although many a middle western opened slightly. farmer is raising his corn for about one-half that; some for less than half.

will not be as bad as was first anticipated.

A TRIAL OF LEADERSHIP

We enter with some timidity on a subject of deliif Mr. Alexander Legge had not boldy led the way. y and peril. Perhaps we would not have risked it,

"One of the most difficult surpluses we find," he told an audience of farmers recently, "is the surplus of leaders or managers of groups that have been trying to solve the problem along different lines . . . It is natural to feel that it is the only basis of attacking the problem, yet . . . it should be evident that to get the best results these several programs should be brought togther so that they would be working to a common

Just the other day Mr. Legge wrote this: "We are enjoined by the Marketing Act not to encourage competition among the cooperatives themselves, and obviously we can not lend support to a lot of different organizations which would use our funds to fight each other, simply because of differences of opinion among them as to what the national set-up should be."

That is plain language, even though politely worded. It invites members of all farmers' organizations to examine the behavior of their leaders and managers, and decide whether they are acting for the best interest of all, or are refusing to cooperate with others through jealousy, personal antagonism, or fears for the old job.

Mr. Legge is right, as usual, and we can do no more than echo his words. An organization of the farming business within which rival cooperatives are flying at each others' throats is not a whit better than no organizations at all. If anything, it is worse.

We have no particular cooperative or individual in mind. But we say to the rank and file members, take a good clear look at your leaders. If they won't or can't play together, it is time to get other leaders.-National Farm Journal.

THE WATER MEETING

Farmers of the artesian basin of the Pecos valley have not generally taken kindly to the idea of the water meeting held in Santa Fe last week, partly because there is a lurking suspicion in the minds of many, that the powers that be, may have had something that they wanted to slip over because the time of the meeting was not very well advertised and partly because they do not understand what it was all about. These suspicions may have been unfounded for that matter, but the proper thing to do is to encourage unity, if we expect to get a really soud state water

The only way to put over a successful conservation measure for the artesian basin is to permit each of the three principal districts in the artesian basin, Artesia, Hagerman and Roswell to have equal representation on the proposed board of control.

THE DEADLY GAS

It might not be inappropriate to caution against the death toll, annually taken by carbon monoxide gas and which is especially prevalent at this season. Hundreds of persons lose their lives each year by trying to start their automobile or by gas fumes from an unvented or an improperly adjusted gas stove.

It is an exceedingly dangerous practice to attempt start the automobile in a closed garage. Protection afforded by the garage building may help to warm up the car, but it would be much safer for the driver to get the car out of the garage and take a little time to warm up the car. Be sure there is plenty of ventilation. Don't take chances with your life to save a few cost of raising corn yielding 38 to 47 bushels an minutes time. The warning also applies to the driver acre was $18.44, not including charges for use of of a closed car, who may keep the car tightly closed

PROGRESS INCREASES IN FARM HOME WORK

The improvement of farm kitchens equipment have been subjects of leading interest among the farm women's clubs in New Mexico during the past year, according to the reports of the state home demonstration agents.

During 1930 a total of 401 farm home kitcehns were remodeled and rearranged for comfort and efficiency in doing the farm housework. Sixty new homes were planned, and forty-seven water systems were installed. Labor-saving equipment was purchased in 667 farm homes, and 209 pressure cookers and 60 tin can sealers were put into use in rural homes for preserving the home food supply.

There were 546 girls enrolled in 4-H cooking clubs and 184 in canning clubs. In the home improvement work, 119 girls were enrolled.

The selection of materials and construction of clothing and the selection of ready made clothing have also been very popular among the rural women and girls during the past year. Organized groups of rural women and girls have been given training either thru meetings or special clothing schools in 21 counties where organized extension work is conducted. A total of 1178 girls were enrolled in 4-H clothing club

Early in the year the "Handbook of Clothing" for women and girls was prepared, and copies of this booklet are available to women who are interested in sewing. This booklet, with instructions for each of the four years in clothing club work, has created a great deal of interest and made successful work with clothing construction much easier.

During the summer of 1930 four farm womens' camps were held in New Mexico, with an attendance of 114 rural women from 19 different counties of the state. At these camps the women were given training for home economics leadership and demonstration work.

CRUDE PRODUCTION DOWN

TULSA, Oklahoma-With California leading the way, daily average crude oil production in the United States tumbled sharply last week. A decline of 58,687 barrels carried the output to 2,144,074 barrels, the lowest since the week ended August

It was the greatest shift in the country's production in many months. Application of a new proration program in California was largely accountable for a drop of 35,500 bar-

Another big drop was registered in the Texas Panhandle, where production was 56,475 barrels, down 19,570 barrels.

The Rocky Mountain area had a decline of 2,186 barrels with an output of 100,024 barrels.

BUSINESS IS GOOD THANK YOU, ON MONT. ANTELOPE RANCH

NEW YORK-Who wants a nice herd of antelope for his back yard? Candidates with the right kind of back yards-containing a few thousand acres of grazing land-are invited to line up at the right and help W. P. Sullivan, stockman and banker of Square Butte, Montana, solve the question of what to do with an oversuccessful game preserve.

Mr. Sullivan took pity a few years ago on the antelope, and in the hope of saving these graceful animals from complete extinction set aside a little 8,000 acre corner of his ranch as an antelope refuge.

There were a dozen or so antelope on his preserve then, but now Mr. Sullivan is getting worried. The herd has grown to 450, and another year or two will probably see it near the 1,000 mark. Then he will face the need of turning the animals out to graze on open prairie where the species is rapidly being wiped out by predatory animals, lack of feed, or human enemies, or else turning the whole of his ranch into an ante-

Mr. Sullivan's dilemma has been brot to the attention of the American Game Protective Association officials, who regard his success with the dainty antelope as proof that game of all kinds can be restored in quantity if farmers and other landowners are encouraged to interest themselves in this phase of conserva-

Sportsmen of the United States extended this encouragement, these officials point out, when the American Game Conference in New York on December 2, adopted a new game policy declaring their belief that landowners who foster the wild life on their properties as a "secondary crop" are entitled to compensation for their efforts.

DEMOCRATS EXPECT TO GAIN CONTROL OF HOUSE in Lea county.

WASHINGTON, D. C .- Democratic representatives are laying plans to capture control of the next house but the republicans are rearing a defensive bulwark which they expect to withstand all assaults.

The 216 democrats elected to the next house have been called to caucus in Washington, February 28, by Representative Garner, the party floor leader.

On the other hand, Speaker Longworth expects the present republican land in adjoining sections. organization to hold over until next December, if an extra session is not called.

With a bare majority, 218 seats republican leaders hope to keep control. Several, however, are inclined to feel their party would be in a better political situation in 1932 if the democrats were permitted to assume responsibility of legislating under a republican president.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

SUITS FILED AGAINST 31 OIL COMPANIES TO

S. A. Schrader of Oklahoma City has filed suit against the Gypsy Oil Company of Tulsa and thirty others to obtain mineral rights on oil lands

Schrader seeks interest in mineral rights in the west half of section 32, township 18 and range 38 east in the Hobbs field. The land in question was obtained by the Gypsy Oil Company under a mineral deed from William D. Grimes and wife in March 1928. Schrader has ten of 320 acres in the west half of section 32 which has to date a potential daily capacity of almost 100,000 barrels. However the Gypsy Oil Company's lease also covers 320 acres of less valuable

Schrader wants a proportionate share of the royalty from section 32 only, while a clause in the Gypsy Oil Company lease would limit him to a proportionate share of the royalty from all of the lands covered in the lease or one sixty-fourth of 640 acres. Due to the vast difference in the present value of the units covered by the lease and the fact that the clause in other Gypsy leases, makes the suit of considerable importance

Colorful Boiler Adds

Nice Touch to Basement The discovery of the basement now takes its place with some of the other great discoveries of history.

In fact, there is a striking analogy between the discovery of a new continent and the discovery by the American public during the last decade of the vast amount of unused space in its

Take, for instance, the average twostory seven room house. If the basement is fully excavated, there is as much room in the basement as there is on the first or second floors.

In other words, the basement space is equivalent to 33 1-3 per cent of the total usable space under that particular roof.

In the case of a one story bungalow with a full basement, the basement space is equivalent to 50 per cent of the total space under the roof.

There were several reasons why the discovery of the basement was delayed until the twentieth century. In the first place, space was plentiful until building costs began to mount. Then, economy of construction as well as economy of space began to be In the second place, the basement used to be dirty. Nobody knew it could be clean until clean fuels proved that it could be.

And the third important factor in the discovery of the basement is radiator heating which makes full utilization of basement space possible. Radiator heating pipes are of such small dimensions that they are not in the way. The boiler can be located almost anywhere in the basement. Furthermore, the boiler itself with a colorful jacket adds a decorative touch to the basement and blends well with window drapes of cretonne, a gayly painted floor, and bright furniture.

Thus, it is not surprising that the thoughts of the American public have turned basement-ward and that innumerable playrooms for children, dens for fathers, social rooms, club rooms, and modernistic apartments have blossomed forth where once were ash cans

Steel Bridging Takes

Place of Wood in Frame For many years wood bridging has been used to re-enforce frame construction, but a comparatively recent innovation has been the utilization of steel for the same purpose. Steel, in its superior strength, is naturally more efficient as a re-enforcement material than wood, and it has the added advantage of doing away with the nails which were liable to loosen or pull out. The average home owner is not acquainted with the necessity for bridging, and it is a subject of paramount importance. Floors which have not been re-enforced develop squeaks and flaws, and bridging possesses an important bearing upon the strength of the entire house.

NEW MEXICO MAY GET SIXTEEN MILLION ACRES PUBLIC DOMAIN LAND

Sixteen million acres of public domain in New Mexico may be deeded to the state by the present congress, Francis C. Wilson, member of Hoover's committee on conservation and administration of the public domain, said Monday.

The land will probably come to the state clear listed as non-mineral lands as other land grants have come. This means the state would receive mineral rights should deposits of oil or precious ores be discovered.

Mr. Wilson, who just returned from a meeting of the committee in Washington, said a tentative report had been drafted and would be approved by the committee at a meeting early in January. He expected the report to go to the president by the end of January.

It is probable, Mr. Wilson said that states will have optional rights to accept public domain. Some states, he found, do not want the public land within their borders.

New Mexico, he declared, has been more successful than any other western state in administering its public land and is ready now to take over administration of the remaining public land.

A few rabid conservationists may oppose the committee's report, Mr. Wilson said, but he is hopeful that it will be accepted by the present congress.

Crafty Andy Carnegie Stirred Up Students

Once when Andrew Carnegie was visiting his sister-in-law on Jekyll island she told him she could not get any letters from her sons who were at Yale. She was anxious about them, Carnegie bet her he would have a letter from them as soon as the mail could reach New Haven and return.

The bet was accepted. He wrote the boys that their mother visiting her; that all were very well at their home; and gave them other news that would interest them. Then he added that he was enclosing $5 for each, and he signed himself their affectionate uncle. But he did not enclose the $10.

As he told the story himself (recalls Mr. Morris), his twinkling little eyes enjoyed the slyness of it immensely. Then, in two or three days, a re ply came. It revealed the atroclous fact that he had forgotten to send the $5 bills. He should send them at once, as the boys were nearly dead broke.

He had outwitted his nephews and won his bet; the power of his money was demonstrated.—Kansas City Star.

"One reason why auto insurance rates are no cheaper than they are," says an auto club official, "is the tendency of most people to magnify minor accidents in the hope of obtaining larger adjustments. WASHINGTON, D. C .- Remember when the darned old measles broke out on you three days before Xmas? Of course, you had been told that you had to have 'em, soon or late, but why couldn't they have chosen a more opportune time for their visit-like just before school open-But the measles is an inconsiderate old thing, and is quite as apt to be a holiday joy-killer as a perfectly splendid alibi for absence from recitations.

Far be it from your correspondent to draw any invidious comparisons between Representative "Jack" Garner, of Texas, and the measles. FIVE HUNDRED ELEVEN AMERICANS PAY AN

WASHINGTON, D. C .- The high tide of 1928 in financial affairs brot the golden harvest of incomes above a million dollars to 511 Americans.

The internal revenue bureau showed this in compilations made public Sunday. At the same time the treasury sent to congress the account of another rich reaping by taxpayers-refunds last year aggregating $126,836,333. This sum included $37,917,711 of interest. Also the treasury allowed as abatement $176,-398,377 and as credits against unpaid income taxes $36,535,245. The total of refunds was way below the 1929 total of $190,000,000.

The 1928 receivers of millionaire income included 74 women, 29 of them single. Twenty-six persons received more than $5,000,000. These were spread over the map from coast to coast but eleven lived in New York.

That rich year showed total net incomes of the nation amounted to $25,226,326,910, more than two and a half billions higher than the preemergency legislation and the rush to get away on vacation the significance of his statement was lost on the rank and file, it gave the republican triumvirate, composed of two and a half million of these were Speaker Longworth and Representa- taxable. INCOME TAX IN 1928 of the New Mexico Agricultural College. The introduction of new and better bean harvesting machinery in the west has probably had a greater influence on the production of this crop than the necessity of a legume in the crop rotation, altho its place in crop rotation is very important.

Most of the pinto bean crop is grown in Colorado and New Mexico, and the estimated production in these two states alone is nearly 5,000,000 bushels. Proportionately larger acreages were planted in other states, and the total crop of beans of all varieties during the past year has increased from less than 10,000,000 bushels in 1920 to nearly 21,000,000 bushels in 1930. This bean crop is the largest ever produced in the United States and one of the cheap-

The consumption of beans in the last few years has increased 75 per cent, indicating that people are rapidly consuming more of this nutritious food as information of its food value and methods of preparation become available.

The possibilities for increased acreage are almost unlimited in the west and unless care is exercised in their plantings by farmers throughout the area where the bean acreage competes with the acreage of wheat and other field crops peculiarly adapted to these regions, prices for the next have ever experienced.

New Mexico has 270 square miles of gypsum beds, which geologists claim contain 33,000,000 tons of gypsum.

We see by the papers (with apologies to the Honorable Will) that certain self styled "dirty crook" down in California, (we don't know whether California is down or not but we won't back up to change the word) has swiped eight million dollars from a couple of bond and loan companies, for which the said gentleman has been sentenced to serve from 10 to 100 years in the penitentiary. Now the aim of most people in life is to make money. This man is going to jail. If he just stays there ten years, the neat little sum of $800,000.00 a year is an acceptable salary. If he stays there 100 years, he will make $80,-000.00 a year, which in itself is a salary not to be sneezed at. So, is he a crook or a hero? Next please.

TEST ON CONSERVATION POLICY LIKELY TO BE MADE WITHIN 2 WEEKS

WASHINGTON, D. C .- President Hoover's oil conservation policy, which has resulted in denial of oil and gas prospecting permits in the west is likely to receive its final test within the near future.

Solicitor E. C. Finney of the interior department, who represented the department and Secretary Wilbur in a recent test case won by the government, was advised informally that opposition attorneys are planning to ask the supreme court to review the case.

Action within the next two weeks is believed probable.

Five western states, in which lie the bulk of the public domains containing oil and gas landgs are expected to join in the action against the government. Wilson was on his way home from the station. When he was about three miles from the village and about a mile from his house he saw a man approaching him from the opposite direction.

"Excuse me, sir," said the stranger when they met, "do you happen to have seen a policeman anywhere about?"

"Good!" snapped the stranger, changing his tone of voice. "Hurry up and give me your watch and pocketbook then."

 The "Spirit Picture"

By JANE OSBORN (Copyright.)

"WHO'S the pretty girl?" VV There was surprise in Mrs. Claverly's tone as she looked first at the small photograph print and then at her nephew, Thomas Slaverly, seated opposite her.

"Pretty girl?" queried Tom.
"Why, in one of these pictures that you gave me to look at here in this envelope that you said contained views of your shack, it's rather queer. There's a girl, big as life and twice as natural standing beside the cabinthat's perfectly clear."

"Let's see," said Tom, stretching a much tanned hand across the table. "To tell the truth, I hadn't seen the prints. I got them on my way home and didn't look at them. But the only pictures I took were of the shack, with one or two of Bob. There weren't any girls there. Good Lord! How the

"Tom!" Mrs. Claverly looked in tently into her nephew's face. "It'sit's-Tom. I never thought you were psychic enough to have anything like that happen to you. You know that medium had some spirit pictures-" To all of this Tom said "Bosh."

And that was all there was to it for several days so far as Tom was concerned. He did not know that the next night, when he was working at the office, his aunt, Mrs. Claverly, went to another of "those fool seances," and that she carried with her, carefully wrapped in tissue paper, the picture of Tom's mountain shack and his soulmate-his occult love, as she called it. She showed it proudly to the medium who made it perfectly clear that the girl in question was still among the living. And she was the soulmate of the man who lived in the shack. Her spirit was haunting him-

On Tuesday night Tom came home from his office in apparent excitement. He hurriedly fumbled through the pic tures in the envelope on the living room table until he found the "spook picture." He studied it carefully, and then looked as carefully at a newspaper clipping that he took from his pocket and then opened and read-or reread-a letter also taken from his pocket.

At dinner he was a little abrupt to his aunt. "Who has had those prints?" he demanded, and the poor aunt hedged, but admitted the truth.

"Did you know the fool medium gave the print to the newspapers, and also gave my name and my business connection? The whole thing came out in a Sunday supplement day before yesterday from the girl-" "The girl in the picture-your soulmate? Oh, do let me have the letter. I must show it to the medium." "Show it to nobody," said Tom.

"You've messed things up enough al-And that was all the satisfaction that Mrs. Claverly got from Tom. The next morning Tom announced he was going to make a call out of town; he

Monday at dinner she was frankly repentant.

You have been so cool to me late ly." she said, a little tearfully. "I am sure it was all because of that snapshot of yours. Honestly, I didn't know what the medium was going to do with it, and I hope you'll forgive me-'

"Don't talk about forgiveness, aunt," sald Tom. "After all I'm much obliged to you and your medium friend. The laugh may be on her after all. But to change the subject, aunt, I want to tell you of my engagement. I feel sure you'll like her. She-"

"But, Tom, how about the spirit

"That's the girl I'm engaged to You see-hut suppose you let Eleanor explain. I've asked her and her aunt to come to 'Indies' night' at the club tomorrow. You join us."

At the club the next night, when the preliminaries of introduction were over with, Mrs. Claverly looked long and intently at the girl.

"Excuse me for staring," she said, "but I couldn't believe that you were really the girl in the picture. you're Tom's occult sweetheart, after all! Isn't it wonderful to feel-"

"Wasn't It the funniest thing?" giggled Eleanor. "And we are so much obliged to the medium, too, because if it hadn't been for the picture never would have been able to find Tom. You know how it was? You see, Tom stopped for the night at the hotel where my aunt and I were stopping. I admit that I was attracted from the first and knew that Tom had noticed me, but of course there was no way of our getting an introduction. playing of Clarke and Spivey. Well, anyway, the next morning, quite by accident, I left my little camera in the lobby.

"Tom must have left his camera in the lobby, too, and when he went back for it he got mine.

"There must have been a picture of me in the camera he took. He took one over it and made a double exposure. Then when my picture appeared in the paper, all my friends recognized it as me and teased me unmercifully about it. So we wrote and right away Tom came out to see us and-well, won't It be rich! When we sent the announcement of our engagement to the papers we'll let the world know that there really wasn't anything spooky about the pictures after all, because of course there

By leading a healthful life and keeping your skin clean you can have a lovely complexion. But soap and water are only a part of the cleanliness story. If soap and water were all you need to keep your skin beautiful, creams and lotions never would have been invented. No, you must use more than soap and water. In those tiny pores of
