P. T. A. MEETING

The final meeting of the local
P. T. A. organization was held last afternoon in Mrs. Palmer's home. There was no program, only a social session. Funds were collected for the primary rooms for necessary supplies.

The first grade gets the picture
this month, but the eighth grade won it the most number of votes for the year, so it will remain
the eighth grade in the future.
Mrs. E. A. White gave a report of the county council held in Dexter last Saturday. This was an inspiring and a very inspirational meeting. Dr. Gossard of Las Vegas
gave a talk on the morning program, and Dean Golden and Del
Sano, art instructor, both of Portales Junior College, appeared on an afternoon program. Special music was furnished by the Dexter
choir on both the morning and afternoon programs.

A bounteous luncheon was served
for the Dexter members and immediately after lunch a motor carriage was made to the fish hatchery
at Lake Van and the Presbyterian church. Those attending the council were: Mmes. M. D. Menoud and Mrs. T. D. Devenport.

ONLY STATE SCHOOLS ASKED

Only state schools have been
asked to attend the Governor's Day
at the Carlsbad Caverns May 9th,
it was announced at Carlsbad last
week. A total of 158 invitations
were mailed to the various public
schools in New Mexico, according to an announcement made by Col.
Thomas Boles, superintendent of the Caverns. Preliminary estimates
indicate that from 2,000 to 3,000 pupils will be in attendance.
Over forty schools have already
answered the invitations, saying
they will be represented.

Governor Tingley has announced
that both he and Mrs. Tingley will
be in attendance on that date.

Deposits In N. M. Banks Increase

WASHINGTON — The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Friday
reported substantial increases in the aggregate resources and total
deposits of insured commercial banks in the Rocky Mountain states during 1935.

According to an abstract of the conditions of the banks in Colorado, Montana, New Mexico and Wyoming, Montana led the list in percentage of increases, recording a 14.5 per cent increase in aggregate assets and a 19.6 per cent increase in total deposits during the year.

New Mexico banks recorded an increase of 12.9 per cent in aggregate resources which stood at $47-533,000 last December 31, and an increase of 17.2 per cent in total deposits which were $43,463,000 at the close of last year.

GIRL SCOUT INVESTITURE SERVICE

Miss Martel Graham of Ros-
well, official captain of the Girl Scouts of Hagerman, was down on Tuesday afternoon and officiated
in the investiture service of the local troop. They met at the home of Mrs. T. D. Devenport and went to the old Felix bridge, from there
they hiked to the Harshey crossing
and searched for flowers, presenting eleven new specimens.

Just at sundown, a beautiful impressive service was held, the girls
stood on the bank, and faced the river, while Miss Graham read the ceremony. Just once in a Girl Scout's lifetime is she eligible to be a part of a ceremony of this nature and this one will be long remembered in the memories of those present.

Following the program, a lunch
was enjoyed.

The investiture service was for
those receiving attendance, tender-
foot pins and included the following girls: Blanche Lane, Polly
Cumpsten, Mittie Jean Miller, Lola
Ridgeley, Marie Casabonne, Jimmie
Wheeler, Lois Jean Sweatt, and Maudine Solomon. Lila Lane received the second class Scout badge. There are now twenty-five registered Girl Scouts in the Hager-
man troops.

Miss Graham was assisted by Mrs. Byrda Dorman Menoud as
lieutenant, Mrs. Mary Alice Rabb
Cumpsten and Miss Maryedna
Burdick as acting patrol leaders, and
Mrs. T. D. Devenport.

SUDDEN ENDING TO STOLEN CAR FLIGHT TUESDAY

A wild flight in a stolen automobile ended abruptly near Monument when the car crashed from
the highway and the driver was in a serious condition in a hospital at Hobbs yesterday.

State Policemen A. P. Winston, Jr., and Charles Eagleton said the man was E. A. Williams, wanted in Wink, Texas, on a charge of forgery.

They said he stole the automobile
in Hobbs Tuesday and was fleeing south when the car failed to make
a curve and hurtled over an embankment.

Hobbs hospital attendants said
the man was semi-conscious, suffering brain concussion and possible skull fracture.

ROSWELL MEN INJURED IN ACCIDENT THURSDAY

H. B. Smyrl and C. M. Farns-
worth, prominent Roswell business men and well known here, were injured in a car accident last Thursday night when their car struck a parked truck south of Artesia. According to T. E. Jackson, state
police sergeant, who investigated
the accident, a truck loaded with wood and driven by T. Oropeza,
was parked beside the highway
without lights. The Roswell men were returning from a fishing trip
and were blinded by lights of another car. The Farnsworth car struck the truck and drove off the highway and careened into the bar pit. Mr. Smyrl suffered a fractured ankle and was given emergency treatment here. Mr. Farns-
worth received cuts and bruises
about the head and body.

ONLY STATE SCHOOLS ASKED

Only state schools have been
asked to attend the Governor's Day
at the Carlsbad Caverns May 9th,
it was announced at Carlsbad last
week. A total of 158 invitations
were mailed to the various public

answered the invitations, saying
they will be represented.

Governor Tingley has announced
that both he and Mrs. Tingley will
be in attendance on that date.

CAMP-O-RAL IS BEST ANNUAL SCOUT EVENT

No more picturesque nor ideal setting could have been chosen for the annual Boy Scout jamboree,
than the beautiful Lake Van at Dexter, with its gentle rolling
slopes and rippling, sparkling water. Thus the boys and their leaders voted that 1936 will long
be remembered as one of the best
Scout jamborees ever attended.

Approximately fifty per cent of the Boy Scouts of this area were in attendance, totaling 530, and representing seventeen communities. Officials voted to recommend to the annual council meeting in September that the event be held
at Lake Van again in 1937.

The rating for the Hagerman
troop has not been received yet,
but thirteen were in attendance
with their leader, Cass G. Mason.
Those going were Johnnie Casa-
bonne, George Casabonne, Phillip Heick, George Goodwin, Clifford
Wimberly, Robert West, Vernon
Ridgeley, Garner Mason, Richard
Lang, Junior White, Bobby Cump-
sten, Howard Dorman, and Lex Key. The Hagerman troop was fully equipped as to wearing apparel and other necessary equipment. They led in both the practice parade on Friday afternoon
and the official parade on Saturday afternoon.

The next camping event will be
the Camp Win-ne-ha-pah in June,
in which plans call for a $1.00 per day per Scout for costs.

RETT TEST STICKERS ARE DUE NOW; GET YOUR CAR TESTED!

Members of the New Mexico
motor patrol here recently have given local motorists tickets for driving without tail lights, driving
with only one light and driving
without an inspection slip showing that lights, steering gear and brakes have been properly inspected.

Motorists are also warned that
now is the time to have a regular inspection made of lights, steering gear and brakes. A red sticker indicates your car has been properly
inspected and will be given by any authorized testing station after the test has been made. Red stickers placed on the windshield now will be good until August 31st, at which time another inspection should be made.

SUTTON SEARCH FINALLY ENDED

SANTA FE—Chief House of the state police said Thursday that a search in the Devil's Washbasin
failed to yield the remains of Ray Sutton, but the bones of two humans had been found.

There was no evidence, however,
to warrant a trial of suspects for Sutton's murder, House said, announcing abandonment of the search.

OIL ALLOWABLE INCREASED

It was announced Monday the New Mexico oil allowable for May
had been boosted 4,000 barrels daily
for a total of 75,000 barrels daily.
The April allowable was set at 71-
000 barrels.

500 Boys Attend Scout Encampment

A total of 530 Scouts and scouters from seventeen communities
and representing approximately
fifty per cent of the enrolled Boy Scouts in the area were in attendance at Camp-O-Ral held at Lake
Van east of Dexter, closing Sunday.

It was voted by officials present
in an official meeting to recommend to the annual council meeting set for September that the event be again held at Lake Van
in 1937.

In events of sporting and craft-
manship nature Roswell Scouts
won eleven of the thirty-two points
and each troop was inspected and
expected to show in final tabulations an all-around higher rating
than ever before on the thirty-two inspection points.

Next on the major camping activities of the Eastern Area Council is Camp Win-ne-ha-pah, announced
for June 7-27, three seven-day
periods, with a record attendance
expected and tentative plans calling for a $1 per day per Scout cost.

SEWER SYSTEM WORK TO BEGIN SOON HERE

Hon. J. T. West, Frank McCarthy
and Perry Andrus returned last night from Santa Fe, on a business trip.

Mayor West reports that help on
the maintenance of the Lovington
highway has been promised, and
that the work on the proposed
sewer system is expected to begin
very soon.

75,000 ACRES LEASED IN ROOSEVELT COUNTY

Unofficial reports say there has been 75,000 acres leased for oil in Roosevelt county since the beginning of the year. Abstractors at Portales are said to be unusually busy and leasing activity is still continuing.

HAGERMAN MEN'S CLUB MEETING

Attendance at the meeting of the Hagerman Men's club on Tuesday evening was smaller than usual, due to several members
being out of town, social functions,
etc. The speaker of the evening
was also absent, due to a misunderstanding. Only twelve members were present to partake of the good dinner prepared by the Baptist ladies, and the program was
of the hit and miss order.

The club voted to sponsor a general clean-up campaign, in which it is hoped to enlist the cooperation
of the churches, civic organizations
and the town officials in an effort
to improve the appearance of the whole town, and bring about better
sanitary conditions. The town council will be asked to set a date
for the campaign, and the cooperation of every citizen will be sought.

The next meeting of the club
will be held on May 12th, at which time important matters will be brought before the meeting. Also a program of entertainment is being arranged.

be open at 8:00 a. m., and remain
open until 5:00 p. m. We will discontinue closing the windows during the noon hour as heretofore and close an hour earlier in the afternoon. However, the mail for both north and south will not be dispatched until 6:00 p. m.

I am sure that after you become accustomed to the above schedule
you will like it even better than
the present arrangement.

R. W. CUMPSTEN,
Postmaster.

Odd Fellow Assn. Session On Monday

The 27th annual meeting of the Pecos Valley Odd Fellow Association was held at Carlsbad Monday.
The association will meet with Ros-
well next year on April 26, 1937.
Howard Glover of Roswell was elected president of the association.
O. M. McCracken of Roswell, Geo.
Johnson of Artesia, and J. B. Stamp
of Carlsbad were elected vice presidents, and W. E. Wheeler of Roswell, secretary-treasurer.

E. M. Brickley of Carlsbad gave the principal address Monday afternoon on Odd Fellowship.

Memorial services were conducted by the Carlsbad Rebekah lodge for the following deceased
associational members: Dorothy Barringer, Nellie Mapes, Mary
Boggs, L. A. McAnally, Grace Cole,
John Martin and Charlie Grammar.

At the night session, presided
over by Clayton Miller, the following program was given:

Invocation, Mack Ingle; duet,
Ellen Burnett and Ellen Hoese; tap
dance, Anita Ann Everts; reading, Nadine Miller; one-act play, Carls-
bad Rebekah lodge; music by B.
Bartlett's string band.

Refreshments were served by the ladies.

GOP DEMAND TO BARE AAA PAY GRANTED

WASHINGTON — A republican
demand for publicity on big AAA
benefit payments was granted Monday by the senate, but not until
democrats had attached a counter
proposal that tariff benefits to manufacturing and other industries
also should be publicized.

The broadscale order for reports
on AAA payments over $10,000 a year and for tariff benefits to the larger industries was contained in the much amended and long pending resolution by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich). Two weeks ago the subject stirred up an exchange between Vandenberg and Secretary
Wallace as to whether such publicity was fair to the farmers.

The resolution finally was passed without even a record vote. But when republicans sought still further to broaden it to include an investigation of the resettlement administration and publicity on the number of salaries employes appointed by this administration outside the civil service ranks, democrats and a few republicans snowed
them under.

GOOD NEIGHBOR LEAGUE FORMED

WASHINGTON — Bearing the endorsement of President Roosevelt, the newly-formed "Good Neighbor League" entered the national picture Sunday.

One of its leaders said it would fight for ideals "opposite" to those of the Liberty League, bitter critic
of the New Deal.

The new league listed several
church, educational and social leaders among its directors.

Dr. Stanley High, protestant
clergyman allied with the democratic national committee, is on the three-member executive committee.
"Some of our ideals are those of President Roosevelt, while some he has not heard of," said Dr. High,
adding that the league is based on
the principle that "human values
come before property values."

Rev. C. C. Hill Of Roswell Is Taken By Death

Heart Attack Is Fatal To Pioneer Minister of the Christian Church; Fun- eral Services To Be Held At Roswell Today.

The Rev. C. C. Hill, aged 70, well known Roswell resident, died suddenly at his home there shortly
after 8:00 o'clock Monday evening.
Death was result of a heart attack.
He had been in failing health for several years. In addition to serving in the ministerial work, during which time he supplied as pastor
of the First Christian church here
at intervals, he had served as probate judge of Chaves county for the eighth year.

In referring to the death of the Rev. Hill, the Roswell Dispatch
says:
There was no preceding illness,
members of the family stated last night. He ate supper and laid down to rest a bit, Mrs. Hill, who is also ill now, heard him speak, but could not understand him.

Those were his final words. He was dead when a member of the family went to his side.

The Rev. Hill was completing his eighth year as probate judge of Chaves county, a position he had filled with distinction. During his residence of some thirty-one years
in this county, he held various positions, including two terms as county school superintendent—the first year New Mexico was admitted to statehood—until 1916.

For his interests in the educational progress in the state he too
became a member of the first state
board of education of New Mexico,
under Governor William C. McDonald. Praise and commendation filled
his life due to his work along this line.

He became the pastor of the Christian church of Roswell immediately after his arrival, and in that capacity, serving for five years, he endeared himself to Ros-well's citizenry.

The Rev. Hill also organized the First Christian church here about 1905. The Rev. Hill was a native of the Laddonia, Missouri, section
and was personally acquainted with a number of local people, who, like the Rev. Hill later migrated to the Pecos valley.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the Ballard funeral home at Roswell this afternoon
with the Rev. D. B. Titus, pastor of the First Christian church, officiating.

Fraternally, the Rev. Hill was most widely known for his associations with the I. O. O. F., of which he was a Past Grand Master, having become grand master in 1914.
He was also an officer in the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the World Oddfellows. He was a member of the Masonic lodge here, too.

In Roswell, the Rev. Hill had become noted for the total number of weddings at which he had officiated. The actual number was not available, but it was said to have been well over 1,000.

The survivors, aside from the
widow, are four children, two sons, Curtis Hill of Roswell, prominent attorney, and Ray Hill, who is residing near Hope now, and two daughters, Mrs. R. D. Jones and Mrs. Ralph Herring.

A brother, the Rev. Claude E.
Hill of Tulsa, Oklahoma, is one of the most famed Christian ministers
which the faith has ever had.

The Rev. Hill was a pastor of the Christian church in Hagerman for several years, and had a host of friends among his acquaintances.

MILLIONS TAKE TO OPEN ROAD SINCE DEPRESSION YEAR

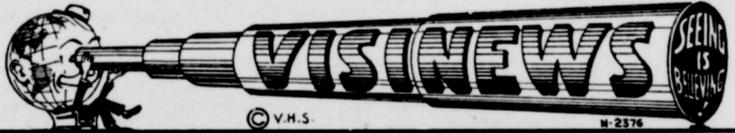

WASHINGTON—Harry Hopkins
reported Thursday one million persons took to the open road since 1929.

He said the wanderers for the most part sought employment. He reported the daily average number of persons sheltered in transient
camps from May, 1934, to April, 1935, was 350,000.

SANITARY PROJECT DEAD

Dr. J. Rosslyn Earp, state health
director, said Saturday the bureau
is "in deep mourning over the passing" of the WPA project for community sanitation.

This project, Dr. Earp said, has resulted in installation of 4,050
sanitary toilets in New Mexico in the last seven months, but now "it is doomed to sudden death" because the allotment for May has been withdrawn and funds on hand
will carry the project only to the middle of the month.

THIS JUDGE HAS THE EVIDENCE!

Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter, of Florida, brought two trunks full of evidence to Washington for his impeachment trial, but the data were ruled out.

CHAPTER IX

FOR a week Kerry Young made maps, sitting in the office with Nan Downer for hours each day.

Sometimes long intervals would pass without a word being exchanged. Again, she would go to him abruptly with some question and her manner would betray her profound respect for his judgment. He had said that he could do many things in and about the woods; she learned the truth of his statement. Intelligent as she was, well as she had been trained by her far-sighted father, flaws had developed in her procedure, errors in judgment had gone undetected.

Young did not force his opinions, did not offer advice. But when she brought matters to his attention in which he discovered flaws he pointed these out.

Daily he assumed stature, and importance to her undertaking.

"You're right again!" she cried once. "You're always right. It's you who should be running this job."

"Me, take root?" he laughed. "Me, settled down in one place?"

"Why not?" she challenged and, curiously, he asked that of himself. Tip rose then from his place beneath the drawing-board and muzzled Nan's knee, which made it unnecessary to pursue that question further.

"I must run down to the mill for a half hour," she said.

The dog watched her prepare to depart.

"Want to go, Tip?" Young asked. The dog wagged an affirmative. "All right, then, go along."

Nan stood in the doorway, watching. The retriever apparently could not believe this order to follow another. "Go on!" Kerry said. "Go with Nan!" And doggishly dogged with Nan he went, close to other heels for the first time since puppyhood.

It became a little game between the three. Whenever Nan went out Tip gave evidence of wanting to go, but always he awaited Young's order before following. And once, when the girl had crossed to the Landing to send a telegram and was urgently wanted by telephone, Kerry scrawled a note, gave it to the dog and told him to find Nan. . . . He did, after much running here and there and snuffling at the ground, and it would have been difficult to determine which was the more pleased, girl or dog.

"You'll finish tomorrow," Nan said, looking over Kerry's shoulder. "Can I get you to make next a new cruise of the stuff northwest of Townline lake?"

"You can get me," he said with odd soberness, "to try to do about anything you want, done."

The words gave him a strange giddy feeling.

"We'll go tomorrow morning, then," she replied, overlooking his inference. With a canoe on a trailer behind her car, they drove to the end of the road which gave access to Townline lake. Then they set off on that body of water to spend the day making a swift reconnaissance of the country in which Young was to work.

A family of ducks swam before them, ruffling the placid surface. The mother's head was raised high, she uttered low quacks of warning and the brood clustered close about her. As the canoe drew closer, the old one took wing and the youngsters, doing their best, skittered along the water, half flying, half swimming, making a great to-do. A little breeze arose and the lake, which had lain like a burnished plate of steel, was touched to life. Lobes of light blue appeared, turned to indigo, and ran together until the body of water lay like a great sapphire, flecked with emerald islands. An eagle soared majestically above and as they rounded a point a deer, having late breakfast in the shallows, lifted its head in quick alarm and loped noisily for cover.

"Water's cold," Young remarked, trailing a hand.

"Like ice! This lake is terribly deep in the channels. The Indians say it never gives up its dead, and Father said that was probably so." Young's eyes held on Nan's competent shoulders, watching their rhythmic swing. Her voice came back to him talking of the job, but he caught only the music of it. Why, he told himself, the thing that had made of him a wanderer was gone! He had at last found an answer to his doubt of responsibility for ruining old Jack Snow. Knowing that, why wander farther? Why not take root . . . and here? Surely Nan Downer was the most lovely, the most . . .

into view. "Moose calf! . . . Why . . . he's coming up to us!"

Indeed, it seemed as if the creature would run them down. It came on, head up, ears stiff, emitting a series of low sounds, picking up its feet awkwardly with the long, gangling legs; great, dark eyes fast on those two humans.

"Why! He'll . . ." Nan caught at Kerry's elbow as the calf kept on, never slackening its pace and so close that in another stride or two they might have touched it.

But on the movement the animal swerved, half turned away, swung off to the right and stopped facing them, standing there all rigid attention and wonder.

The short tail twitched, the nostrils quirked. Young's elbow pressed Nan's hand warningly to his side. They stood motionless as the moose continued to stare at them, making those plaintive, inquiring sounds.

Kerry could feel the girl tremble and that sent a tremor through his own body.

He began to imitate the sound the calf made and on that the creature backed off a few steps, seeming frightened. But when the man did not move it resumed its own grunts, as if doing its best to bridge the barrier between species and talk.

"What the dickens are you?" he seemed to be trying to say. "Where do you come from? Why are you here?"

"I never smelt or saw anything like you two in all my born days! I'm kind of afraid of you, but I want to give you a good once-over before I hit for yonder! There's so much for a young feller like me to run across for the first time!"

For over a minute the calf stood there, using all its sense to size up that man and that woman. And then, probably as an instinctive mistrust of anything so widely at variance with all its other young experience asserted itself, began to back. The retreat at first was orderly, a slow, backward stepping.

"There's No One at All in the Country Beyond."

Then it turned sideways and broke into a trot, went faster. Once it stopped and cast an apprehensive glance over its shoulder and after that, dropped its ears and disappeared at a lumbering but flowing trot.

"Why! Why, of all things!" breathed Nan, withdrawing her hand from Young's arm.

The man laughed. "Never saw it before!" he said. "But in the woods, if you use your eyes, you see plenty for the first time." He laughed loudly.

"His first encounter with man, you see. He wended us from wherever he was and curiously made him come our way. Likely, he's never been molested in all his couple of months on earth and so he doesn't know much about fear."

"Tough, isn't it, that every species has its predator enemies and has to start learning how to defend itself by the law of claw and fang before it has a good chance to enjoy such a swell world?"

"Yes. It's tough," she replied and looked with a peculiar intimacy into his face. "There's so much to enjoy if only all of us would!"

They started on and after a time Kerry spoke bluntly the thing that her last words had left in his mind. "The moose did me a favor. He frightened you a little and made you touch me. . . . That was a downright enjoyable experience."

"Please!"

"But you understand, don't you that I mean that? It's not just a string of words?"

"Yes. And, because of that . . . Please!"

"Right! . . . This is the best stand of maple I've seen in this country. Look at the bird's-eye tree there. Two good veneer logs in it."

It was late afternoon when they beached the canoe on their return. "We've time to look at the cabin now," Nan told him, nodding toward the log structure on the high bank; and she led the way.

Beside the door was a rack of implements for use in fighting fires. The door itself was unlocked. "My father didn't like locks. In the bush," she explained. "Our men use this camp some but they always leave it open so anyone in need of shelter can get in."

The place was amply furnished with blankets on the bunks, insect nets hanging above them; cooking utensils and a goodly supply of unperishable staples on shelves above the stove.

"It's a snug camp," Nan said. "You'll be comfortable here, Kerry." He scratched a temple thoughtfully.

"Do you mind if I use my own outfit?"

"Why, no! Don't you fancy this camp?"

"Oh, it's got shingles and glass in it. I'd rather set up myself on one of those islands."

"Certainly, if you want it that way. I used to come here with my father, but now the place has been a little spoiled for me. . . . You see, Holt stayed here alone the night Father was killed and if it hadn't been for wise old Ezra he'd have been carted in to jail and held there for a while."

"You think a lot of Holt, don't you?"

"Of course! Why shouldn't I? He's the most loyal boy in the world. He's worked his head off for me."

"Anybody would," he said. . . . and wondered why she colored quickly and looked at him almost defensively when she spoke of Holt Stuart.

Other cars were there when they drove up to headquarters. One was Ezra Adams' battered roadster and the old doctor looked up from tinkering with the motor in a way which commanded Kerry's interest.

But Nan, with a wave to Ezra, was more intent on the group about the other.

"Oh, there's Mr. Dexter, up from Chicago!" she said excitedly. "That means he's ready to close!" Her face clouded. "And day before yesterday I mailed Tod West a formal request for permission to deed that section. It's our first chance at a real sale. Oh, I hope it won't be blocked!"

"Who's sick, Ezra?" Young asked, as Nan walked rapidly on to greet the others.

"Nobody" much, except this "tarnal motor!" he said loudly. Then, with caution: "Come close, Kerry! Stick your head down here with me, like you were trying to help me linker at somethin'."

"The bullet that killed Cash," he whispered, "was fired from Tod West's pistol!"

For a moment Young did not reply. A savage triumph swept him, followed by a sinking sensation. Tod West, the slayer of Nan's father and, perhaps, the slayer of her hopes as well! He knew that even despite her misgivings, the girl was hoping that West would be generous enough to permit her to close the deal which this evening seemed to be in prospect. And it was such a forlorn hope.

"Well," he said, "that gives us a course to steer, Ezra!"

"What's the first move?"

"To watch him. What else can we do? If he's started using that money, he'll keep on; anyhow, that's a good bet. We've got to locate it before we tip our hand."

"But suppose he suspects and lights out?"

Kerry twisted his head doubtfully. "He won't light out so long as there's a hope left. All he has worked and schemed and killed for is in this country. A man of his age doesn't run away from it so long as there's a chance of hanging on."

"Now, I can get Jim Hinkle to trail him. He won't suspect Jim. That can be fixed up. With me out of the picture for a few days maybe he'll feel more free to act. I'll see to it that plenty of folks know I'm to be gone for a while."

"I swear it's going to be up to you, son!" the old man said. "I get all fluttery inside, now, think long about what might happen . . . and about what you and I've got to make happen!"

Nan Downer sat disconsolately at her desk that evening. The man Dexter and his companions had gone from the dinner-table down to the river. Soon they would return and want to talk business . . . and as yet she was not able to talk in conclusive terms.

She had an opportunity to bring to realization some of the dreams she had shared with her father, but not yet the legal right!

She had been conscious for a moment of another's presence, but did not look up at once. When she did, it was into the flushed face of Tod West.

"Oh!" she cried, and rose quickly from her chair.

"Surprised, eh?" he asked and stepped closer. "Why surprised? I got a letter from you yesterday."

Now, she caught the reek of whisky on his breath.

"Well, you want my answer now?" he taunted.

About 50 per cent of the spruce grown in eastern Poland (covering about 269,657 hectares) and from 25 per cent to 35 per cent of that grown in the Carpathian regions are used for pulpwood.

FLOYD GIBBONS Adventurers' Club

Hello, Everybody!

"The Pit"

By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter.

YOU know, boys and girls, it isn't at all unusual for an adventurer to run into an experience that leaves him dazed and barely able to stagger along home, but Harry Goldin of Bronx, N. Y., is one upon all those guys. Harry was dazed and barely able to stagger before his adventure started. After it was all over he was a lot worse off.

It all happened in April, 1899, when Harry was down in Cuba fighting the Spanish-American war for Uncle Sam. He was with the Seventh Regiment cavalry, stationed in the field outside Pinar del Rio, and things had quieted down to such an extent that troopers with a good record could get a pass from the officer of the day to go into town, make a few purchases, and have what was widely known as a good time.

Harry was one of the troopers who had a good record. I don't know how he managed to get it, and I know doggone well he didn't deserve it, because the first thing he did when he hit town—he and his buddy—was to head for a saloon. They had a couple bottles of beer, and then they drank some Cuban white mule. They ambled around the town taking in the sights, but to judge by Harry's and his pal's actions, most of those sights were in the bottom of a glass.

A. W. O. L. Is Bad Business in Any Man's Army. Finally it got to the point where they had to do their sightseeing sitting down, because whenever they got up on their feet the sights reeled and wobbled around so fast that they couldn't get a good look at them.

That went on until it became just plain impossible to see a sight or anything else. Then all of a sudden it dawned on them that it was dark—that they had overstayed their leave—and that they had better get the heck out of town before the corporal of the guard came looking for them. They lurched to their feet and started walking toward the camp in three directions at once.

By the time they were half way there it was twice as dark as when they had started. They couldn't see a foot ahead of them and were even having some trouble trying to keep a foot under them. How the two lads got separated, Harry doesn't know. He was walking along talking when all of a sudden he realized he was talking to himself. He yelled for his pal, but he got no answer. On top of that it started to thunder and lightning—and then to rain.

Harry went on alone. Every once in a while a flash of lightning would illuminate the sky, and then he could see where he was going. The third or fourth flash showed a dark object up ahead. That, Harry thought, would be his buddy. He gave a whoop and started towards it. Through the dark he could see it coming to meet him. Just as it reached him Harry stumbled and fell.

Harry's Pal Turned Out to Be a Big Black Bear. He reached out and grabbed hold of his pal, to help himself up again. His pal had grown a thick coat of heavy fur in the meantime, but Harry had had too many tequilas and aguardientes back in town to notice. Again he stumbled, clutched his pal for support, and both of them tumbled into a deep pit.

It was the sort of a pit they use for garbage in Cuba. Something told Harry that, even though he couldn't see. The fall jarred some of the sense back into him, and, for the first time he began to wonder how his pal had happened to grow that coat of fur. He didn't have to wonder long. A sudden flash of lightning lit up the pit. That furry thing wasn't his buddy at all. It was a bear—a huge, black, snarling bear!

For a minute Harry thought he was pipe-dreaming the whole thing. That bear must have come right out of one of those aguardiente bottles back in town. But no. The bear was on him now—had him down—was mauling him like the devil. He couldn't dream those sharp stabs of pain—couldn't dream the bruises the bear gave him as he kicked him around.

Harry Learns That Bears Don't Fight Fair. The bear didn't fight fair. It was the darndest animal Harry ever saw. It was jumping on him. Harry could feel it. Bam! And the brute would land on him. Off he'd go. And, then, Bam! He'd land on him again. What kind of a bear was this that fought like a moose?

Another flash of lightning told the story. Harry looked up just in time to see the bear pawing and clawing at the top of the pit. Then, Bam! He lost his hold and landed on Harry again.

That animal wasn't jumping on him. He was falling on him. He was using Harry for a springboard, trying to get out of the pit. That's about the last thing Harry remembers. Then, Bam! again, and he lost consciousness.

The next thing Harry knew he woke up in the hospital. His friends were all standing around his cot. He thought they'd come to be with him at the end—until he noticed that they were all laughing.

The Laugh Was on Harry, Even if It Hurt. "And when they told me about it," Harry says, "I had to laugh myself. The bear was one that had escaped from a small circus and had wandered out of town. It was just about twice as scared as I was."

But Harry's laugh didn't last long. When he tried to move in his cot his grin faded away. He was scratched from head to foot and had three broken ribs where the bear fell on him. If you want to make him mad now, just ask him about the time he did a Sidney Franklin with old Bruin amid the rose petals and incense of that refuse pit way down there in Cuba in '99.

Training Canaries Is Highly Developed Art

Roller canary breeders who spend time training their young male birds to sing, reap the rewards of their labors. By January or February of their first year roller canaries begin to show what they can really do in the way of vocal development writes Helen C. Loomis in the Detroit News.

From the time they were very young birds, the outstanding young males in any well regulated roller canary breeding establishment are carefully excluded from the company of older birds possessing faulty notes which they might copy. For a number of weeks many of them go through an intense period of vocal training under the tutelage of especially talented adult roller singers.

The young birds, perhaps a dozen of them, are placed in individual cages in a large training cabinet, which is also occupied by one or more "teacher" birds. During a large part of the time they are in this training cabinet, the young birds are kept covered and the adult birds are allowed to sing. The length of time in which the young birds are allowed to try their voices is increased as the training goes on, and the most apt of the pupil birds will have achieved quite a creditable performance by the first of the year. Others may require a month or so longer to reach their highest point of development.

The various rolls, trills and touts which are characteristic of roller canaries are performed by the birds with their little throats all puffed up, but beaks tightly closed.

COOPERATION VS. UNDERSTANDING

If we are to expect cooperation from those with whom we associate and mingle in our daily affairs, then it is up to somebody to put forth a little effort at times to warrant a cooperative spirit. Incidents the past few months have left a bad taste in the mouths of more than have been heard from, some of these because of the wrong kind of propaganda, and then again because there was not enough of propaganda.

Now that they are over, it is hardly worth while to enumerate them; in each event, most of the blame was put upon the wrong parties, and we feel in each event, could have easily been averted if only some one had gone to a little more effort.

We are a community of one big family (of we hope) patriotic Americans. Citizens, of both sexes, are moderately normal enough to dislike being kept in ignorance, and appreciate knowledge of community, state, national and world affairs. And if they are treated as such, it will have a tendency to nourish and nurture their patriotism toward cooperation; otherwise a sullen rebellious mood can grow into open warfare, and all sense of duty toward others is as easily forgotten.

There will be future meetings; there will be future times when it will be necessary to choose some one to take the lead over these meetings; there will be future elections of community officials; there will be numerous other meetings of what should be public-spirited affairs, and in which every one will be asked to take a part, and in fact are needed to make up a well-rounded quota, and thus it will be necessary for due care to be taken toward enlightenment.

TRADE AT HOME?

Certainly trade at home; trade with that individual who is striving so hard to help make this town and your community worth while to live in. That one who is not afraid to brave criticism to forge ahead in his convictions that we want an dshould have that which lifts us to a higher plane of living, and who is willing to give of his opportunities and ideas to help complete that theory. That one who is modern enough to meet the trend of the times, and willing to try to adjust himself to those fast new moving principles. After all, life is pretty much on the 50-50 basis, and if you expect to receive then you should do your part toward the giving. This is your home and if you are a true-blooded American, you are proud of it, SO SUPPORT THOSE WHO ARE WILLING AND DO HELP YOUR COMMUNITY!

25,000 People In New Mexico Move To Farms During Past Five Years

Of the persons living on farms on January 1, 1935, in New Mexico, 24,745 reported that they had lived in a non-farm residence five years earlier, according to a special report of the 1935 Federal Farm Census made by Director William L. Austin of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce. In each of the counties of Bernalillo, Catron, Dona Ana, Rio Arriba, Taos, and Valencia, over 1,500 reported moving to the farm or ranch during the five years preceding January 1, 1935.

This movement account for part of the increase in the state's farm and ranch population from 158,361 on April 1, 1930, to 189,358 on January 1, 1935. Increases of over 2,000 in the number of persons living on farms and ranches were reported in Catron, Rio Arriba, San Miguel, Santa Fe, Taos, and Torrance counties. The state's farm and ranch population on January 1, 1935, consisted of 171,456 white persons (including Mexicans) and 17,902 colored persons (negroes, Indians, Chinese, Japanese, and other non-white races).

Dwellings reported on farms and ranches totaled 49,731, of which 44,679 were occupied and 5,052 were unoccupied on January 1, 1935.

Soil Conservation Program Making Good Headway In New Mexico Now

Good progress is being made in the organization work in connection with the new program in New Mexico, according to W. A. Wunsch of the New Mexico State College. Election of committeemen have been held in twelve counties and the lists of county and community committeemen have been sent to the state office. Educational work is being conducted in various counties by members of the extension service, assisted by Hamilton B. Ralls, representative from the Washington office.

According to present plans, most of the educational work will be completed by the first of the week and actual work in connection with preparation of the work sheets of the producers will be started.

The AAA has released a revised bulletin which supercedes all previous information in connection with the soil conservation and domestic allotment act.

In order that there may be no confusion among farmers, the name of the new program has been changed from "soil conservation program" to "agricultural conservation program." However, no change has been made in regard to the soil depletion or soil building payments.

The following changes have been made in the minimum acreage of soil conserving crops. If the acreage of soil conserving crops on a farm in 1936 does not equal or exceed an acreage equal to the sum of 15 per cent of the general crops or 20 per cent of cotton, deduction will be made from any payment which otherwise would be made with respect to the farm in an amount equal to one and one-half times the rate per acre determined for the farm.

POLITICAL SUIT DISMISSED

A suit in Lea county court by several Lea county candidates in the late Lea county democratic primary was dismissed last week at Lovington by Judge Fred Wilson, acting for Judge J. B. McGhee. Plaintiffs in the suit contended election officials did not observe the primary rules and regulations as made by the Lea county democratic central committee. In dismissing the suit Judge Wilson ruled that the court was without power to compel a political party to conduct its election in accordance with its rules and regulations.

LOCALS

John Garner is acting as pedagogue this week for Miss Katherine Hammock, who is in El Paso to attend the Nelson Eddy concert.

Mrs. I. E. Boyce asked this week that The Messenger be sent to her daughter, Mrs. Clyde Knight, in California. Mrs. Knight will be remembered as Essie Mae Thompson and is a graduate of Hagerman high school.

Miss Grace Cole spent the weekend with home folks and had a rather unfortunate accident as she was leaving Hondo, slipping and spraining her foot. Medical attention revealed nothing more serious than the sprain.

Frank McCarthy, J. T. West and Perry Andrus returned late yesterday afternoon, from a business trip to Santa Fe. They reported some aggravating car trouble, which delayed their trip over, and necessitated a very slow speed on the home trip.

Tuesday's business visitors and shoppers in Roswell from Hagerman were: Mrs. Flora West and Mrs. Elwood Watford, Mmes. Jim Michelet, Johnnie Bowen and Frank McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Hams, Mrs. Martha Hams, Mrs. Frank Davis and Smoky, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bartlett and Hal Bogie.

The eighth grade went to the Bottomless Lakes Monday evening on a picnic and later attended the show in Roswell. Mrs. Jim Michelet, Mr. and Mrs. Sadler, Misses Jessie George, Almetta Growden, Gene Seelye, Bill Alexander, Prof. and Mrs. E. A. White and children accompanied the class on the picnic and to the show.

A fire broke out yesterday afternoon, in the play house of little Miss Dorothy Sue Devenport, the building is to the rear of the main residence. Prompt action of the fire department and others, prevented it spreading to other buildings. No cause could be given for the fire, since there was nothing of that nature apparently in the play-house.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Knoll and Fred of Santa Rosa spent last week with Mr. Knoll's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Knoll, in Hagerman. Mr. Knoll has accepted a position in Curry county for next year as superintendent of a school, which will have twelve teachers. They plan to move to their new location immediately at the end of the present school.

MAKES OFFICIAL VISIT

Mrs. Maude Edna Mulky of Albuquerque, worthy grand matron of the Eastern Star lodge, is making her official visit to the various lodges of the Peecos valley this week. On April 30th she visited the Artesia lodge, tomorrow evening she will visit the Hagerman lodge, Saturday evening the lodge at Lake Arthur, Monday evening at Hope, Tuesday evening at Roswell and Wednesday evening at Carlsbad. The Hagerman lodge is planning on serving a supper in honor of the visiting official.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

LIGHTFOOT DISCOVERS LOVE

WONDERFULLY handsome was Lightfoot the Deer as he stood in the little opening by the pond of Paddy the Beaver, his head thrown back proudly as he received the congratulations of his neighbors of the Green Forest who had seen him win the great fight with the big stranger who had come down from the Great Mountain. To beautiful Miss Daintyfoot, peeping out from a thicket where she had hidden to watch the great fight, Lightfoot was the most wonderful person in all the Great World. She adored him, which means that she loved him just as much as it was possible for her to love.

But Lightfoot didn't know this. In fact he didn't know that Miss Daintyfoot was there. His one thought had been to drive out of the Green Forest the big stranger who had come down from the Great Mountain. He had been jealous of that big stranger, though he hadn't known that he was jealous. The real cause of his anger and desire to fight had been fear that the big stranger would find Miss Daintyfoot and take her away. Of course this was nothing but jealousy.

Now that the great fight was over and he knew that the big stranger was hurrying back to the Great Mountain, all Lightfoot's anger melted away. In its place was a great longing, a longing to find Miss Daintyfoot. His great eyes became once more soft and beautiful. In

A beautiful head was slowly thrust out and Lightfoot gazed into a pair of soft eyes which he was sure were the most beautiful eyes in all the Great World.

He wondered if she would disappear and run away as she had the last time he saw her. He took a step or two forward. The beautiful head was withdrawn. Lightfoot's heart sank; then he bounded forward into the thicket. He more than half expected to find no one there, but when he entered that thicket he received the most wonderful surprise in all his life.

There stood Miss Daintyfoot, timid, bashful, but with a look in her eyes which Lightfoot could not mistake. In that instant Lightfoot understood the meaning of that longing which had kept him hunting for her, and of the rage which had filled him when he had discovered the presence of the big stranger from the Great Mountain. It was love. Lightfoot knew that he loved Miss Daintyfoot, and looking into her soft gentle eyes, he knew that Miss Daintyfoot loved him.

He Wondered If She Would Disappear and Run Away.

there was a look of wistfulness. Lightfoot walked down to the edge of the water and drank, for he was very, very thirsty. Then he turned, intending to once more take up his search for beautiful Miss Daintyfoot.

When he turned he faced the thicket in which Miss Daintyfoot was hiding. His keen eyes caught a little movement of the branches.

"No matter how hot-headed a husband is," says pertinent Polly, "it takes just as much coal to heat the house in winter."

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

VARIED RECIPES

THIS is the time of the year to enjoy a good cake. The following will be one worth keeping on hand:

Orange Cream Cake.

Cream one-third of a cupful of fat with one cupful of sugar, add two beaten eggs, a pinch of salt, two tablespoonfuls of grated orange rind and one-half cupful of orange juice with two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, added alternately with two cupfuls of flour and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder well sifted. Pour into two layer pans and bake 20 minutes. Cool and add:

Orange Filling.

Blend one-third of a cupful of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of flour, a pinch of salt together. Add one-half cupful of orange juice, two tablespoonfuls of grated orange rind, a tablespoonful of grated lemon rind, one egg yolk and one tablespoonful of butter. Cook together in a double boiler, stirring often. Cool and spread on one of the layers. Cover the other layer and spread over it a frosting.

Creamed Cheese on Toast.

Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter and add six tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika. When well blended add three cupfuls of milk and cook until a creamy sauce is made. Add two-thirds of a cupful of good cheese, stir until melted, then add a slice of finely chopped onion—or a little scraped onion is better—two eggs well beaten and two chopped pimientos. Cook just long enough to set the egg. Serve poured over hot toast.

Creamed Oysters.

Melt one-third of a cupful of butter and add one-half cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, and one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika. Mix well and add two and one-half cupfuls of milk, cook slowly, stirring constantly until thick and creamy. Heat a cupful and a half of oysters in their own liquor, add to the sauce and pour over toast or crackers or serve in patty shells.

THE VANISHING KNOT

AN ORDINARY piece of string is the only object that you require for the mystery of the vanishing knot. You start by tying a single knot in the string; but do not draw the knot tight.

Then, to keep the knot where it belongs, you tie the ends of the string in several tight knots that would require a few minutes to untangle.

Every one sees the single knot between the two loops. All know that it is impossible to remove that lone knot without untying the ends of the cord. Yet you have only to

Hats to Match Top Juvenile Coats

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

GRANTED that mother and big sister are looking too chic and charming for words this spring, in their new spic and span stylish tulle or their bolero costumes, if not a redingote outfit that contrasts print with plain, to which there has been added accessories utterly feminine and seductive as accessories must be that would go high-style this season.

However, we are not saying that voguishly attired adults are the whole show, not when a bevy of stylishly arrayed youngsters join the procession. Then does competition become keen and it is the tiny tots in their new spring outfits that will be getting the big applause, we venture to say, be their elders ever so beguilingly garbed. Which they should for children's fashions are as cunning and intriguing as fancy dare picture this season.

As a fashion "first" for spring it is the little coat-and-hat ensemble that is taking precedent at the immediate moment. It adds zest to the mode that children's coats are unusually versatile this season in the matter of styling. Then, too, a particularly wide choice of materials is offered. Tweeds in delectable colorings, camel's hair weaves, navy twills, novelty wool plaids and serge are all-important in the list of juvenile coatings.

Closing attention is being paid to tailoring and styling, with the English trend dominating. Inverted pleats, crisp collars, velvet pipings as well as insets in tailored collars are high style details to consider. Most important to remember is that fashion decrees that every wee coat or suit is to be accompanied by a matching hat.

While grown-ups are going in for daring color to the limit, high colors are not so much in the children's wear picture. As a matter of fact, it is the medium tones that are most generally in use this season. Pastels are also definitely favored in aqua, dusty and skipper blue in the order named. Many all-white coats will be worn.

Full length coats are more popular than the short jackets, although the ever beloved reefer type jacket of navy flannel continues to hold its own. The trio of models pictured were selected for illustration from among a collection of little folk's fashions displayed at a preview style event recently held at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

The clever little coat to the left is one of the new and very much admired Princess Elizabeth types. It carries that convincing air of distinction such as every fashion alert mother covets for her child. Tweed in the popular dusty rose shade fashions it. Cunningly flared lines, the double breast button fastening, and the deftly tailored details of collar, cuffs and pockets are all significant style items. The collar of natural linen is detachable.

The little girl walking hand-in-hand so chummily with her companion has on a very attractive long reefer coat in navy blue. White metal buttons and a white hand-embroidered lingerie collar add chic finishing touches. The perky matching hat is of cloth identical with that of the coat.

The adorable child in the foreground has on a coat of skipper blue novelty weave wool with the Princess Elizabeth lines given to it that are regarded so exceedingly smart for the younger set this spring. Her matching Scotch cap repeats the trim of blue plaid silk used on the coat.

MULTI-DUTY GARB URGED FOR SPRING

There's a lot of talk these days about the "basic wardrobe," which is a good idea for the spring budget.

The idea is to select the spring suit, coat and printed frocks in one color theme, to be worn with interchangeable accessories. Suppose, for instance, you start with one of the smart new man-tailored suits with black jacket and striped skirt. With it, if you shop wisely, you will get an extra skirt to match the jacket.

Then you should choose a top-coat in tailored style, also black, which may be worn over the suit or with a printed silk frock.

Your printed silks should be bright, gay and simply made, so that you may wear various frilly lingerie accents with them, changing their mood with the jabot or collar you select. With these for a foundation, you may achieve endless variety by choice of contrasting accessories.

New Hats Make Striking Use of Ostrich Feathers

Ostrich feathers and gay flowers add the striking effects to new hats.

Black straw bonnets, dipped in a peak over the forehead, are encircled with ostrich feathers curled over one ear or trimmed with bright, shiny flowers perched along the brim.

Veils are an outstanding feature, consisting of coarse, stiff black mesh, sometimes fashioned in a circular cut extending down to fasten under the chin.

WITH A VEIL

A bit of straw, a brim of closely stitched net, a full-blown rose and a fragile, frivolous, flattering veil; and presto! The milliner evolves as seductive a little cocktail hat as the world ever gazed upon. As here pictured this intriguing headpiece is posed by Helen Chandler, who wears it in her newest play. It carries a highly important style message in the tight brim that frames the head, namely, the use of many layers of net closely stitched. Milliners are making many wide-brimmed hats as well as turbans and toques of stitched net this season.

Style Tips

Handbags are all big and roomy. Belts these days show striking designs.

A charming sports set of hat and scarf are made of white pique. Feil, once confined to hats, is promoted to the realm of clothes.

Lesson for May 3

JESUS TEACHES FORGIVENESS, HUMILITY AND GRATITUDE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 17:1-19. GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.—Ephesians 4:32.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Man Who Said Thank You. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Man Who Thanked Jesus. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Three Marks of Christian Strength.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Three Marks of Christian Strength.

I. Forgiveness, a Christian Obligation (vv. 1-4).

Owing to the fundamental fact of human individuality, the perversion by sin, and the power and wickedness of the devil, offenses, or occasions of stumbling, are bound to come. Because mankind is fallen and sin reigns in individual hearts, the results are bound to reveal themselves, but Jesus pronounces "woe" unto those whose evil deeds become a stumbling stone in the way of others, especially "one of these little ones."

The follower of Christ is to take heed that his life be not injurious, but that it be exemplary. The believer is to cultivate the forgiving spirit toward the wrongdoer, while rebuking the wrong. Great skill and grace are required to rebuke one for wrongdoing, revealing at the same time the forgiving spirit, so as to win him instead of exasperating him.

II. Humility, a Christian Quality (vv. 5-10).

Humility is at the heart of this trio of Christian graces. Much faith is required to establish and maintain humility. Human nature impels one to push others aside, to struggle for supremacy, to reach the exalted positions in life. Humility moves one to seek the lowly place, while giving places of honor to others, and being sincerely happy when others are granted the preferred positions. Surely, for this one must have faith in God. We may well repeat the disciples' appeal, "Increase our faith."

III. Gratitude, an Uncommon Grace (vv. 11-19).

The account of the ten lepers is perhaps the most used Bible portion in enforcing the lesson of gratitude as against ingratitude. There are a number of things to be considered. If we are fully to understand the call for gratitude.

1. Their awful affliction (v. 12). They were lepers. In that day no greater tragedy could befall one than to be thus afflicted. It was regarded as contagious and incurable. The afflicted person became a social outcast, and was avoided and neglected. The Mosaic law provided for segregation (Lev. 13:46).

Leprosy has always been regarded as typical of sin, and at times as visited upon individuals because of sin. Examples: the leprosy of Naaman (II Kings 5); Gehazi (II Kings 5); Miriam (Num. 12); Uzziah (II Kings 15:5).

Leprosy may lay long dormant, and then make a sudden appearance; so with sin. And the end of sin is death.

2. Their cry for mercy (v. 13). The ten recognized their great need, and that no human help was available. Testimonies that had floated to their hearing told of a great Healer, and when He came their way they were not slow to make their prayer to him. Nothing can so stimulate the sinner to cry for mercy as the ringing testimony of those already saved.

The faith of the lepers immediately revealed itself in acting upon the instructions of Jesus that they go and show themselves to the priest. While they went they were cleansed. They were to obey the Old Testament requirement for the recording of their cleansing, that they need no longer be outcasts. The sinner may find salvation along the path of daily duty, if he will but believe.

3. Their differing attitudes following healing (vv. 15-19).

a. The gratitude of the one (vv. 15, 16) is beautiful and inspiring. He is referred to as "this stranger," evidently a Gentile, but so deep was his gratitude he hastened back to Jesus to give thanks. The one who might be least expected to show gratitude was the one who sincerely expressed it.

b. The nine who neglected (vv. 17-19), who failed to give thanks, have through the centuries been charged with ingratitude. Their healing was as complete; they had as much reason to recognize Jesus as their healer as had "this stranger." Perhaps, as is true of so many believers of today, they took their benefits for granted and were indifferent rather than ungrateful. Many nowadays take all they can get from Christ and give nothing in return. The noblest blessings of civilization are ours through Christ, yet how few thank him for them.

BEDTIME STORY

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

LIGHTFOOT DISCOVERS LOVE

WONDERFULLY handsome was Lightfoot the Deer as he stood in the little opening by the pond of Paddy the Beaver, his head thrown back proudly as he received the congratulations of his neighbors of the Green Forest who had seen him win the great fight with the big stranger who had come down from the Great Mountain. To beautiful Miss Daintyfoot, peeping out from a thicket where she had hidden to watch the great fight, Lightfoot was the most wonderful person in all the Great World. She adored him, which means that she loved him just as much as it was possible for her to love.

But Lightfoot didn't know this. In fact he didn't know that Miss Daintyfoot was there. His one thought had been to drive out of the Green Forest the big stranger who had come down from the Great Mountain. He had been jealous of that big stranger, though he hadn't known that he was jealous. The real cause of his anger and desire to fight had been fear that the big stranger would find Miss Daintyfoot and take her away. Of course this was nothing but jealousy.

Now that the great fight was over and he knew that the big stranger was hurrying back to the Great Mountain, all Lightfoot's anger melted away. In its place was a great longing, a longing to find Miss Daintyfoot. His great eyes became once more soft and beautiful. In

A beautiful head was slowly thrust out and Lightfoot gazed into a pair of soft eyes which he was sure were the most beautiful eyes in all the Great World.

He wondered if she would disappear and run away as she had the last time he saw her. He took a step or two forward. The beautiful head was withdrawn. Lightfoot's heart sank; then he bounded forward into the thicket. He more than half expected to find no one there, but when he entered that thicket he received the most wonderful surprise in all his life.

There stood Miss Daintyfoot, timid, bashful, but with a look in her eyes which Lightfoot could not mistake. In that instant Lightfoot understood the meaning of that longing which had kept him hunting for her, and of the rage which had filled him when he had discovered the presence of the big stranger from the Great Mountain. It was love. Lightfoot knew that he loved Miss Daintyfoot, and looking into her soft gentle eyes, he knew that Miss Daintyfoot loved him.

them was a look of wistfulness. Lightfoot walked down to the edge of the water and drank, for he was very, very thirsty. Then he turned, intending to once more take up his search for beautiful Miss Daintyfoot.

When he turned he faced the thicket in which Miss Daintyfoot was hiding. His keen eyes caught a little movement of the branches.

THE VANISHING KNOT

AN ORDINARY piece of string is the only object that you require for the mystery of the vanishing knot. You start by tying a single knot in the string; but do not draw the knot tight.

Then, to keep the knot where it belongs, you tie the ends of the string in several tight knots that would require a few minutes to untangle.

Every one sees the single knot between the two loops. All know that it is impossible to remove that lone knot without untying the ends of the cord. Yet you have only to turn your back for three seconds and the knot is gone!

There is a simple secret to this mystery. When you turn your back, draw the single knot to the top, so it joins the tight knots at the ends of the string. Two loops have become one; and the string may be examined.

Hats to Match Top Juvenile Coats

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

GRANTED that mother and big sister are looking too chic and charming for words this spring. In their new spic and span stylish tailcoats or their bolero costumes, if not a redingote outfit that contrasts print with plain, to which there has been added accessories utterly feminine and seductive as accessories must be that would go high-style this season.

However, we are not saying that voguishly attired adults are the whole show, not when a bevy of stylishly arrayed youngsters join the procession. Then does competition become keen and it is the tiny tots in their new spring outfits that will be getting the big applause, we venture to say, be their elders ever so beguilingly garbed. Which they should for children's fashions are as cunning and intriguing as fancy dare picture this season.

As a fashion "first" for spring it is the little coat-and-hat ensemble that is taking precedent at the immediate moment. It adds zest to the mode that children's coats are unusually versatile this season in the matter of styling. Then, too, a particularly wide choice of materials is offered. Tweeds in delectable colorings, camel's hair weaves, navy twills, novelty wool plaids and serge are all-important in the list of juvenile coatings.

Close attention is being paid to tailoring and styling, with the English trend dominating. Inverted pleats, crisp collars, velvet pipings as well as insets in tailored collars are high style details to consider. Most important to remember is that fashion decrees that every wee coat or suit is to be accompanied by a matching hat.

While grown-ups are going in for daring color to the limit, high colors are not so much in the children's wear picture. As a matter of fact, it is the medium tones that are most generally in use this season. Pastels are also definitely favored in aqua, dusty and skipper blue in the order named. Many all-white coats will be worn.

Full length coats are more popular than the short jackets, although the ever beloved reefer type jacket of navy flannel continues to hold its own. The trio of models pictured were selected for illustration from among a collection of little folk's fashions displayed at a preview style event recently held at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

The clever little coat to the left is one of the new and very much admired Princess Elizabeth types. It carries that convincing air of distinction such as every fashionable mother covets for her child. Tweed in the popular dusty rose shade fared best. Cunningly flared lines, the double breast button fastening, and the deftly tailored details of collar, cuffs and pockets are all significant style items. The collar of natural linen is detachable.

The little girl walking hand-in-hand so chummily with her companion has on a very attractive long reefer coat in navy blue. White metal buttons and a white hand-embroidered lingerie collar add chic finishing touches. The perky matching hat is of cloth identical with that of the coat.

The adorable child in the foreground has on a coat of skipper blue novelty weave wool with the Princess Elizabeth lines given to it that are regarded so exceedingly smart for the younger set this spring. Her matching Scotch cap repeats the trim of blue plaid silk used on the coat.

MULTI-DUTY GARB URGED FOR SPRING

There's a lot of talk these days about the "basic wardrobe," which is a good idea for the spring bud getter.

The idea is to select the spring suit, coat and printed frocks in one color theme, to be worn with interchangeable accessories. Suppose, for instance, you start with one of the smart new man-tailored suits with black jacket and striped skirt. With it, if you shop wisely, you will get an extra skirt to match the jacket.

Then you should choose a top-coat in tailored style, also black, which may be worn over the suit or with a printed silk frock.

Your printed silks should be bright, gay and simply made, so that you may wear various frilly lingerie accents with them, changing their mood with the jabot or collar you select. With these for a foundation, you may achieve end less variety by choice of contrasting accessories.

New Hats Make Striking Use of Ostrich Feathers

Ostrich feathers and gay flow ers add the striking effects to new hats.

Black straw bonnets, dipped in a peak over the forehead, are encircled with ostrich feathers curled over one ear or trimmed with bright, shiny flowers perched along the brim.

Veils are an outstanding feature, consisting of coarse, stiff black mesh, sometimes fashioned in a circular cut extending down to fasten under the chin.

WITH A VEIL

A bit of straw, a brim of closely stitched net, a full-blown rose and a fragile, frivolous, fluttering veil, and presto! The milliner evolves as seductive a little cocktail hat as the world e'er gazed upon. As here pictured this intriguing head-piece is posed by Helen Chandler, who wears it in her newest play. It carries a highly important style message in the tight brim that frames the head, namely, the use of many layers of net closely stitched. Milliners are making many wide-brimmed hats as well as turbans and toques of stitched net this season.

Style Tips

Handbags are all big and roomy. Belts these days show striking designs. A charming sports set of hat and scarf are made of white pique. Felt, once confined to hats, is promoted to the realm of clothes.

Lesson for May 3

JESUS TEACHES FORGIVENESS, HUMILITY AND GRATITUDE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 17:1-19. GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.—Ephesians 4:32. PRIMARY TOPIC—The Man Who Said Thank You. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Man Who Thanked Jesus. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Three Marks of Christian Strength. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Three Marks of Christian Strength.

I. Forgiveness, a Christian Obligation (vv. 1-4).

Owing to the fundamental fact of human individuality, the perversion by sin, and the power and wickedness of the devil, offenses, or occasions of stumbling, are bound to come. Because mankind is fallen and sin reigns in individual hearts, the results are bound to reveal themselves, but Jesus pronounces "woe" unto those whose evil deeds become a stumbling stone in the way of others, especially "one of these little ones."

The follower of Christ is to take heed that his life be not injurious, but that it be exemplary. The believer is to cultivate the forgiving spirit toward the wrongdoer, while rebuking the wrong. Great skill and grace are required to rebuke one for wrongdoing, revenging at the same time the forgiving spirit, so as to win him instead of exasperating him.

II. Humility, a Christian Quality (vv. 5-10).

Humility is at the heart of this trio of Christian graces. Much faith is required to establish and maintain humility. Human nature impels one to push others aside, to struggle for supremacy, to reach the exalted positions in life. Humility moves one to seek the lowly place, while giving places of honor to others, and being sincerely happy when others are granted the preferred positions. Surely, for this one must have faith in God. We may well repeat the disciples' appeal, "Increase our faith."

III. Gratitude, an Uncommon Grace (vv. 11-19).

The account of the ten lepers is perhaps the most used Bible portion in enforcing the lesson of gratitude as against ingratitude. There are a number of things to be considered. If we are fully to understand the call for gratitude.

1. Their awful affliction (v. 12). They were lepers. In that day no greater tragedy could befall one than to be thus afflicted. It was regarded as contagious and incurable. The afflicted person became a social outcast, and was avoided and neglected. The Mosaic law provided for segregation (Lev. 13:46).

Leprosy has always been regarded as typical of sin, and at times as visited upon individuals because of sin. Examples: the leprosy of Naaman (II Kings 5); Gehazi (II Kings 5); Miriam (Num. 12); Uziah (II Kings 15:5). Leprosy may lay long dormant, and then make a sudden appearance; so with sin. Leprosy waxes worse and worse; so with sin. And the end of sin is death.

2. Their cry for mercy (v. 13). The ten recognized their great need, and that no human help was available. Testimonies that had floated to their hearing told of a great Healer, and when He came their way they were not slow to make their prayer to him. Nothing can so stimulate the sinner to cry for mercy as the ringing testimony of those already saved.

The faith of the lepers immediately revealed itself in acting upon the instructions of Jesus that they go and show themselves to the priest. While they went they were cleansed. They were to obey the Old Testament requirement for the recording of their cleansing, that they need no longer be outcasts. The sinner may find salvation along the path of daily duty, if he will but believe.

3. Their differing attitudes following healing (vv. 15-19). a. The gratitude of the one (vv. 15, 16) is beautiful and inspiring. He is referred to as "this stranger," evidently a Gentile, but so deep was his gratitude he hastened back to Jesus to give thanks. The one who might be least expected to show gratitude was the one who sincerely expressed it.

b. The nine who neglected (vv. 17-19), who failed to give thanks, have through the centuries been charged with ingratitude. Their healing was as complete; they had as much reason to recognize Jesus as their healer as had "this stranger." Perhaps, as is true of so many believers of today, they took their benefits for granted and were indifferent rather than ungrateful. Many nowadays take all they can get from Christ and give nothing in return. The noblest blessings of civilization are ours through Christ, yet how few thank him for them.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

Amid a perfect bower of green and lovely pastel hued blossoms, and made more enchanting with softly shaded lights, was the scene of the Junior-Senior banquet held last Friday evening at the basement of the Presbyterian church.

Dub Hardin, a Junior, was toastmaster. A toast to the Seniors was given by Miss Sammy McKinstry, and the response by Miss Phyllis Andrews.

Seniors present were: Misses Delores Bartlett, Irene Newsome, Ruth Wade, Nellie Lang, Naomi Jenkins, Lola Ridgeley, Sammy McKinstry and Julia Ferrell, Dalton Keeth, Quentin Bartlett, Vencil Barnett, Garner Mason, Edward Greer, Dub Hardin and Stenson Andrus.

Seniors present were: Misses Grace Wade, Virginia Deter, Charlene King, Phyllis Andrews, Sara Beth West, Alma Sue Boyce, and Wanna Bee Langenegger, Oscar Allison, Charles Weir, Bill Bogle, and Earl Hammons.

The entire faculty with their wives and husbands were guests. Flowers were given by Mrs. Robt. Conner, and the Junior class.

L. C. CLUB

The L. C. club met at the home of Mrs. B. F. Gehman last Thursday with Mrs. C. O. Holloway as hostess. Mrs. E. D. Menoud, the president, was in charge of the meeting.

A lovely refreshment plate of Boston brown bread and white bread sandwiches, pickles, windmill cookies, mints and coffee were served to Mmes. Will Wiggins, M. D. Menoud, E. D. Menoud, Marion Woody, Fred Evans, A. M. Ehret, Ross Jacobs, J. F. Bauslin, W. E. Utterback, L. R. Hinrichsen, Geo. Lathrop, E. G. Lathrop, Alice M. Hedges, Gehman, and the hostess, Mrs. Holloway, and three guests, Mrs. Jim McNamara, Mrs. Jack Menoud and Miss Ruth Wiggins.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Little Miss Anita Jacobson was happily surprised last Sunday afternoon when she returned from a trip to neighbors, to find a party of little playmates assembled to greet her on her eleventh birthday, bringing with them gifts of candy, perfume, handkerchiefs and hose. Games were played and the honoree and guests were ushered in to the served birthday cake and lemonade. Mrs. Arthur Wilhelm was the hostess, and the guests were Barbara Blackwelder, Marilyn Blackwelder, Mildred McKinstry, Dorothy Scantlin, Bobby Williamson and Lawana Scantlin.

PRESBYTERIAN AID MEETING

Mrs. C. E. Lannom and Mrs. B. F. Knoll were joint hostesses yesterday afternoon at the basement of the church to members and guests of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid. The room was made cheerful by beautiful pillows, rugs, Indian vases and spring blossoms.

Delicious angel food cake and sandwiches with iced tea were served, and cookies made especially for the children, were a delight to them. About twenty were present. The next meeting will be on May 13th at the home of Mrs. Robt. Conner.

BRIDGE PARTY-SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Mrs. Ramon Welborne and Miss Frances Welborne were co-hostesses last night with a bridge party-shower for Miss Grace Paddock, a bride-elect of the season. Grouped around the quartet tables of bridge were the players, who held as a surprise until the close of the games, their gifts to this popular member of their crowd.

Cake, fruit salad and coffee were served to the following: Misses Frances Mountcastle, Mary Jones, Gene Seeley, Almarita Growden, Jessie George, Nora Clemons, Virginia Deter, Georgina Silliman, Peggy Harrison, Dorothy Sweatt, Mmes. Dub Andrus, Cliff Hearn, Edmund McKinstry, the honoree and the hostesses.

METHODIST MISSIONARY

The Methodist Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. J. W. Slade April 22nd with Mmes. Slade, Walton and Cowan as hostesses. Mrs. Elmer Graham, in her able way, had charge of the lesson. Mrs. B. F. Gehman gave the meditation, followed by discussions on "The People's House," by Mmes. Harry Cowan, R. G. Campbell and W. P. West. Very interesting accounts of the conference which was held in Carlsbad last week were given by Mrs. West and Mrs. Slade.

METHODIST YOUNG WOMAN'S MEETING

The Young Woman's Circle of the Methodist church met in the undercroft yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Coy Knoll and Mrs. Jack Menoud as hostesses. Mrs. Menoud gave a chapter on the study book, after which a short business session was held.

FAMILY REUNION ON EASTER (Delayed)

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Williamson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Michelet and Bobby Charles went to Silver City, via El Paso, on Friday preceding Easter, to spend the weekend with Mrs. Layton Hunter and Miss Olin Williamson. They were pleasantly surprised to find Misses Mary and Alice Williamson had already arrived from Gallup for the Easter holidays. Thus the family held a joyous reunion, all but one, Mrs. Aline Bailey of Hagerman, being present.

D. D. CONTRACT CLUB

Lovely yard flowers grown at home were used for decorations at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Nail on Tuesday evening when they entertained the Contract club. A delicious dinner was served. The entire membership was present. Dub Andrus was high for the evening.

WOMAN'S CLUB CALL MEETING

A call meeting of the Woman's club was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. W. Curry. Various business matters were dis-
