Texas Bandit Hunted Sunday At Roswell

Snaps Gun At Officer
In Attempted
Getaway

ARE TRANSFERRED TO LUBBOCK, TEXAS

"Cotton" Huddleston, well known Texas desperado and the "singing bandit" was captured at 11:00 o'clock Sunday at Roswell by Roswell officers. Two women companions were getting out of a Huddleston offered no resistance when the officer of the Chaves county jail, he concealed pistol, pressed against the officer's head, but failed to fire, which saved the officer's life.

Huddleston is said to have made a dash for the car as he was being taken to the jail, when he pulled the trigger, but the bullet failed to hit the officer. Huddleston was taken to the jail and put in jail. The officers did not know Huddleston was.

Huddleston were Opal Hurst and Billie Eaton, whom he had up at a carnival, which he had at Roswell during the East-West Texas State Fair.

Huddleston escaped from the Texas jail September 20, while waiting to be taken to the state penitentiary at J. P. White, A. D. Crile, Oleson Ranch, Ellis Whitney, Fred Nelson and L. C. Brown, secretary, met Wednesday morning in Roswell for an official meeting, relative to the 1938 agricultural conservation program.

A resolution was passed favoring cooperation with the balance of the state and other cotton growing sections in a 1938 program, and one to be presented at the special session of Congress requesting a cotton program for 1938 that includes an acreage based on the average yield for the past five years, 1933 and 1937, inclusive, and which also includes newly developed irrigated lands.

Following their business session, they held a conference with Senator Carl Hatch.

Hunters Getting Ready For Two Major Seasons

Local hunters are oiling their guns for the start of two major hunting seasons, the deer and turkey season, which opens on November 1st and the duck season which opens November 1st and closes November 30th. A few pin tail ducks have been seen in the valley, but up until the recent cold spell the ducks have been slow in their migration southward.

Judging from the present interest deer and turkey hunters are expected to take to the hills in larger numbers this year. Good hunting is predicted in the favored hunting grounds.

The dove season, which closes November 15th has been better than usual because of the large number of doves. Most hunters have met with fair success.

The quail season opens November 10th, lasting for thirty days and carries a season limit of forty-eight birds and a daily limit of twelve birds. This is the first year there has been a season limit on quail and officials of the state game department are hopeful that the regulation will increase the supply.

HAROLD CONDITT IN MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT

Harold Conditt, son of Dr. J. E. Conduy, was seriously injured Monday evening in a motorcycle accident. He was returning from Roswell on his motorcycle, when it hit a rough place in the road and overturned. His face was very badly cut and bruised and two teeth knocked out. It was necessary for several stitches to be taken on his face. Mr. Conditt is doing very nicely at the time of this writing.

MOUNTAIN PRODUCE MOVEMENT HEAVY

At the present time there is a heavy movement of mountain produce to Texas and eastern points. Authentic estimates say from 100,000 to 120,000 pounds of produce is moved from the mountain section daily. The produce consists of cabbage, carrots, cauliflower and lettuce.

NEW DEAL CANDIDATE LOSES

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Congressman John E. Miller, Independent, showed a two to one lead over Gov. Carl E. Bailey, democratic state committee nominee and ardent new dealer, on the face of early unofficial returns from Monday's special general election to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Joe T. Robinson.

In 788 precincts out of a total of 1,923 the vote stood Miller 35,636, Bailey 21,908.

REAS LATHROP UNDERGOES OPERATION

Reas, Lathrop, who has been in the Providence hospital in El Paso for some time, underwent a major operation Monday morning. At the time of this writing he is doing as well as could be expected. Mrs. Lathrop has gone to be with him for a few days.

LIGHT FROSTS WILL SPEED COTTON OPENING

Light frosts on both Monday night and Tuesday night will help the cotton to open faster, so state farmers in this section of the valley. No particular damage was done, the top leaves of the cotton stalks were damaged some, but that will aid the bolls on the lower stalk to open better. No feeds were hurt, but farmers are getting their late feeds cut, and up as rapidly as possible.

Ginnings reported from Hagerman are as follows:

Farmers' Cooperative gin, 1000 bales.

Cotton Growers' Association gin, 1298 bales.

Flood Control Measures Prospect For Pecos Valley

Senator Carl Hatch Visits Roswell
And Inspects The Hondo
Dam Site

HOPE REVIVED FOR SOME PROTECTION

Hopes for instituting flood control measures for parts of the Pecos valley were revived with the announcement at Roswell that Senator Carl Hatch had inspected the site of the Hondo reservoir, southwest of Roswell. Residents of the Pecos valley have previously sought funds for flood control projects, following the floods late last May.

Senator Hatch said he would recommend funds for flood control to be sought from the soil conservation service. In the event this source failed, proposed projects would come under the federal government as a flood control project.

Proper dams on the Hondo near Roswell and on Eagle draw near Artesia would not only protect Roswell and Artesia against the menace of floods, but would conserve the underground water.

General News Briefs

Cattle shipments from New Mexico totaled 344,855 head in September, it was reported last week or 3,263 head less than the preceding month.

A case of infantile paralysis was reported last week in Curry county.

Official figures on results of the special election held September 21 indicate the so-called third term amendment was defeated by a majority of 21,923. The amendment was voted down 56,749 to 34,826.

A terrific explosion in the Mulga coal mine near Birmingham, Alabama Saturday killed thirty-two trapped miners. The tragedy was blamed on coal gas.

Game officials have suggested that deer hunters wear red capes and hats. Moderate drinking of strong liquors was also suggested for the hunters.

Piedad Siegal, sixty year old Mexican woman entered a plea of guilty to the possession of marijuana when arraigned at Roswell Saturday and was bound over to the action of the Chaves county district court. Officers are said to have seized $300 worth of the weed in a raid on her home Friday.

Lena Chavez, forty year old Mexican man is also being held in connection with the raids and is charged with selling and bartering marijuana.

Two men arrested in Fort Smith, Arkansas, Sunday, in connection with the death of Ed Hargus, a Portales farmer, on July 28, were en route to Portales Tuesday night in custody of Sheriff R. L. Hollis.

The two suspects—Roy Jackson of Pampa, Texas and A. Marvin McIntire, Portales—were handed over to the New Mexico sheriff Monday night. Hollis said the men would be placed on trial for the slaying.

Fay Guthrie, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, said at Santa Fe Monday that his staff was busy selecting 1,540 New Mexico youths for enrollment in the (Continued on last page, column 1)

Will Celebrate Completion Of Alamo Dam 28th

Invitations have been extended the people of this locality to join in the celebration connected with the completion of the Alamo dam, northwest of Fort Sumner, to be staged October 28th. The program will start at the reservoir at 1:30 p. m. and speakers on the program will include the congressional delegation, the Hon. Clyde Tingley and representatives from several state and federal agencies.

Attendance of several thousand people is anticipated and visitors are urged to provide their own lunch baskets.

N. Y. Stock Market Makes A Comeback

NEW YORK—A broad buying movement swept the stock market yesterday, as traders followed thru on Tuesday's late-hour whirlwind rally after a spectacular decline.

Many stocks of the country's leading companies were from $1 to $7 or more higher by mid-afternoon. Farm implements, retail store, utility, most metal and aircraft issues were in the van, with some steels hesitant. The ticker tape dragged behind the market on the recovery, a sign to brokers that support was strong.

In many quarters the belief was expressed Wall street's jitters, which culminated Tuesday in the heaviest sell-off in years before the late rally began, were about over.

The corporate bond market, which took a beating Tuesday, was stronger, with gains ranging through most sectors. U. S. government loans recovered wide slices of losses.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hammer and Miss Mary Louise Gandy and Bruce Gandy have recently returned from Avoca, Texas where they had visited friends and relatives.

Farmer's Meeting Tuesday Evening

A large assembly of farmers of this section of the valley gathered at the high school auditorium on Tuesday evening to hear W. A. Wunsch in a discussion of plans for a 1938 program of agricultural conservation.

L. C. Brown, county agent, presided. He first introduced Adlai Feather, president of the Dona Ana county farm bureau. Mr. Feather gave a brief interesting review of the work and plans of the members of his organization and stated that his belief is the agricultural sections of New Mexico would accomplish more if they stand united in effort.

Mr. Wunsch was then introduced and his talk gave a resume of economic conditions of America, and a comparative sketch of industries as could be copied in the planning of agriculture, in order that a balance might be reached between production and consumption.

The 1938 program will be a goal program, and all farmers are urged to study it carefully and give it serious consideration.

MORE BASS FOR RED BLUFF

Thirty-five thousand bass were placed in the upper end of the Red Bluff lake this week by the federal government, according to Game Warden Curtis McElroy.

The bass are all about three inches long, and game experts for the government say that they will grow at least an inch a month. By the time the ban on fishing in the lake is lifted by local Red Bluff officials, all will be fair sized.

This swells to 63,000 the total of fish placed in the lake since it was closed to fishing for one year last month, and that of number 42,000 are bass. McElroy said that there was a possibility of additional stocking in the near future.—Pecos Enterprise.

SANTA FE PUTS NEW CAR ON LINE

AMARILLO—Inauguration of of roomette car service on the famous Santa Fe Chief began Saturday with the placing in service between Chicago and Los Angeles of the first car of this new design, heralding the first appearance in the west of this type of equipment, according to an announcement by T. B. Gallagher, passenger traffic manager.

The roomette is radically new in sleeping car construction and embodies comfort and convenience in night and day travel. Built within the space of a standard pullman section, the roomette is a completely enclosed private room and contains a single bed which folds back again into one end of the space with small effort.

CAR LOADINGS UP

Santa Fe system carloadings for the week ending October 16, were 24,930 cars, compared with 24,064 for the same week last year. The company received from connections 7,843 cars compared with 7,428 for the same week a year ago.

OFF ON HUNTING EXPEDITION

Garner Mason and Dalton Keeth left Monday morning on a hunting expedition in the Capitan Mountains. They expect to return after a few days with bears.

J. U. Meador of Lake Arthur was visiting and transacting business in Hagerman Monday.

Authority State Engineer Upheld By District Court

The authority of the state engineer as to jurisdiction and control of the shallow waters of the shallow water basin in Chaves county was upheld by the action of Judge Thomas J. Mabry of Albuquerque in issuing a temporary injunction against two of three defendants named in a suit brought by Lake J. Frazier of Roswell, acting at the request of State Engineer Thomas M. McClure, at Roswell Tuesday.

The temporary injunction followed stipulations, agreed by the defendants through their attorneys, that the waters were subject to the control and jurisdiction of the state engineer, and were issued against Langford Kieth and B. E. Spencer. The stipulations further agreed that the temporary injunctions should continue until such time as they shall have obtained a permit to use the water, as provided for under the laws of the state of New Mexico. Actions are now pending in the district court seeking a permit to appropriate the water. In the event the permits are not granted, the injunction will be made permanent, enjoining use of waters from the wells, which have already been drilled without a permit.

In the action against C. E. Smith, Chaves county farmer, the case was dismissed with prejudice, after a stipulation was entered into which defendant agreed that he will not apply water appropriated to any lands other than the two hundred acres described in the declaration. In this case defendant had an old well, and applied for a new well for use on the original two hundred acres, and an additional two hundred acres, abandoning the old well. In effect, the ruling allowed the new well for use on the original plot of land only.

The appeal cases on the applications for permits will be heard in the Chaves county district court at a later date. There are six such cases on appeal in Chaves county, and six in Eddy county, it was stated Tuesday at Roswell, and the appeals are being taken from the ruling of State Engineer Thomas M. McClure. Defendants contend that there is sufficient water and that the additional wells will not deplete the basin to any considerable extent. McClure had refused to grant the permits on the grounds that the new wells would endanger the present water supply in the shallow field, and would also lower the artesian basin.

Judge T. J. Mabry of the second judicial district, heard the cases, sitting at the request of Judge James B. McGhee. Assistant district attorney acted for the state engineer, and defendants were represented by L. O. Fullen and J. D. Atwood of Roswell.

Estimates Say 100 Pheasants Are Killed During Open Season

Many hunters stated the open season on pheasants in Chaves and Eddy counties was the most successful season ever, while the efforts of others were not rewarded. Several out of town hunters are reported to have secured the limit. Others went out without getting a shot. One estimate said 100 pheasants were killed in this district during the two day hunting period. A deputy game warden is said to have checked out twenty-five pheasant cocks the first day.

Oil Interest Is In Widely Scattered Areas

Two Wells Finished In
Eddy County--Cap Rock
Well Spraying Oil--New
Wildcat Wells Add
Much Interest.

Oil interest is found in widely scattered areas this week with activity slightly slackened due to the industrial outlook. Developments are being followed closely in eastern Eddy county just west of the Maljamar district as drilling is in progress on the Emperor Oil Co., Puckett 3, sec. 24-17-31. Early reports said the well was making fifty barrels daily from 3,650 to 3,665 feet. Estimates on the gas flow are not available, although the test is spraying oil.

Farther west in Eddy county, the W. K. Royalty Company has stopped drilling on its State 1, NE sec. 16-17-31, at 3,678 feet. The State 1 is reported to have swabbed sixty-two barrels of oil in eight hours. Operators are preparing to give the well a shot. A previous acid treatment practically stopped the oil flow, estimated to be sixty barrels daily, but the oil showing gradually increased as the test was carried deeper.

In the Grayburg area, the Premier Petroleum Co., Parke E-1, NW SW NE sec. 22-17-30, completed a good producer at 3,423 feet. After acid treatment the well flowed 170 barrels in twelve hours.

The Vacuum district on the Cap Rock in western Lea county continues to be watched despite the fact that one test southwest of there has been abandoned. The Phillips Petroleum Co., Lea 1, in the NW NW sec. 30-17-34, is being plugged as a failure at 4,952 feet, after an 8,000 gallon treatment of acid failed to make the upper shows of oil respond. Another well in the same district is nearing a crucial depth, this being the Texas Company, State 1-L, SW NE sec. 1-18-34, which is rigging standard tools at 4,200 feet.

Several new tests have been staked in the southwestern area the past ten days, and some may develop into important wildcats. Continental Oil Co., has staked a north outpost to the Monument district in its State 1-A-7, 1,980 feet from the south and 660 feet from the east lines sec. 7-19-37 and in the Grizzell area this company has staked its 3-B-6, 660 feet from the south and east lines sec. 6-22-37. Workmen are reported digging cellar on a wildcat a mile from production in the Eunice area. This test is the Cities Service Co., 1-A Closson in the NE NE sec. 18-22-36. Derrick is being built for the Two States Oil Co., and Southern Petroleum Exploration Co., Morris 1, 230 feet from the south and 1,090 feet from the east line sec. 21-18-38. In Eddy county Red Lake Oil Co., is starting a well in the SW NW sec. 21-17-28, a mile west of production.

In southern Eddy county, W. A. Snyder, Pecos Irrigation 1, NW sec. 15-25-28, is drilling ahead below 1,400 feet. Collins et al., Weiler 1, NW sec. 13-24-26, is cleaning out after test last week, at total depth of 1,962 and workmen are moving on a location to the west of this well.

Seven miles northeast of Lake Arthur, McDonald and Elliott are drilling below 800 feet on their well in sec. 17-15-27. In the southeastern part of Eddy county Weiner and McDowell, Kerr 1, NW sec. 3-24-29, drilling below 2,200 feet. In eastern Eddy county, R. A. Shugart, Coulthard 1, SW sec. 15-18-31, drilling below 3,410 feet.

Drivers Licenses To Be Distributed On First Of December

SANTA FE—John D. Bingaman, commissioner of the bureau of revenue, said Tuesday the state driver's license bureau would establish offices in the police building at Santa Fe late this week.

The type of examinations to be given for the state licenses, made compulsory by an act of the 1937 legislature, has not been determined, Bingaman said, but systems in various states are under study.

Under the new law which abolishes all municipal drivers' licenses, a fee of one dollar will be charged for operators of pleasure cars and two dollars for chauffeurs and truck drivers.

Present plans call for the licenses to be distributed beginning December 1, and examinations to be held in each county in the state, Bingaman said.

SYNOPSIS

Preparing to close her summer home and spend the winter in France with a great-aunt, Anne Vincent, a middle-aged widow, accedes to the pleas of her adopted daughter Rachel, twenty and pretty, that she tell her about her real mother, Anne, an unselfish, understanding soul, finds the task difficult. Rachel learns that her real mother was beautiful eighteen-year-old Elinor Malloy, deserted by her young husband, before Rachel's birth. He was killed in the World War. In desperate financial straits, Elinor had agreed to Rachel's adoption at birth by Anne, whose own baby had died. Elinor subsequently had married Peter Cayne, a wealthy New York business man, and had a son. To soften the story for Rachel, Anne omits telling her that her mother had been callous and selfish. Rachel goes fishing with Bob Eddis, a local boy who runs a library and does wood carving. She refuses his plea to stay in Rockaborn and marry him instead of going to New York to look for a job. Anne decides that it is time for Rachel to learn more self-dependence. Rachel makes arrangements to stay in New York with "Pink," a keen, vivacious girl absorbed in her job. Anne leaves provision for Rachel's finances in case of need and leaves for Europe. Rachel, bent on seeing her real mother, looks up Elinor Cayne's number. Rachel learns the Caynes are not yet in town. Pink takes Rachel to dinner at Tom and Rhoda Steele's where she meets Oliver Land, a shabby genteel young man out of work who suggests that she apply for a job as a photographer's model for advertising illustrations. He agrees to introduce her to the head of an agency. Rachel is not entirely happy with Pink Matthews. Her desire to see Elinor Cayne increases. Through Oliver Land she meets Louis Vinco, is hired as a photographer's model and succeeds on her first assignment posing for furniture advertising. Oliver makes her feel her indebtedness to him. On an assignment, Rachel meets Curt Elton, a young friend of Vinco's. She learns that he is a country newspaper man spending a year in New York. For experience he takes a number of different jobs, planning to return home later to edit the paper his father left. That evening she receives flowers from him. She phones Mrs. Cayne's home but is rebuffed because she will not give her name.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

"I can get almost anyone for anything, but this stumps me. It's a ticklish proposition, the girl's got to set the part perfectly and not let the other servants get on to her—don't lose any time, Miss Vincent, please."

Rachel seized the card and her make-up bag and turned to go, but Curt ran after her. "Will you meet me for a bite of lunch before we go to the auto place? Where we had tea yesterday is handy—I'll be waiting."

Rachel nodded and almost ran out, for Vinco was looking at her sternly. He didn't, she knew, encourage friendships between his men and girl models, saying he'd prefer they hated one another. But she supposed Curt, as an old friend, had certain privileges.

After work he was waiting, as she had said he would be. "You were awfully nice to come," he said. "I went round to Vinco's early hoping I'd see you, but I didn't know I had such a friend in that photographer. A swell guy, that."

"I was glad to come," said Rachel. "I've been so bothered and worried about such a lot of things I need to be with somebody who can get along as easily as you do. But listen here—we must go Dutch on this lunch. We're both working people, it's not fair to—"

"To what? I asked you to lunch, didn't I? And I'm going to pay for it."

"But I mean—that's just a social convention—it really isn't fair."

"I'll discuss that with you some other time. My Lord, do I look like the kind who invites a girl to lunch and tells her to pay her check? Don't annoy me, Rachel. You don't mind if I call you Rachel, do you? Because I'm going to do it whether you mind it or not. Here, what are you going to eat? Let's have minute steak and some mixed salad, and please don't tell me we're dieting, for if you do I'll order the biggest baked potato in the world and force it down your throat."

"I'd like a minute steak. I didn't get any breakfast to speak of this morning and I'm worn out wearing ermines."

"That's the girl!" He gave the order and put his elbows on the table and looked over at her straight. "What's bothering you? A man?"

"Among other things, but he's not the chief bother. Don't let's talk about it, I might cry, I feel so sorry for myself."

"All right. But if I can do anything, here I am and I mean it."

"You can't do anything."

"No, it's an eternal truth of this crazy world that we've got to get ourselves out of our own jams. It's derived the subject there. "Vinco was telling me a queer thing this morning when you came in. One of the big private detectives asked him to find a girl who could go into a rich family as a maid to go, some dope on what's going on in it. It's this way. Somebody in the house is stealing the missis's jewelry—a piece now and then, things she doesn't wear much, and occasionally a piece of silver, goes, a cigarette box or a candy dish. Her husband wants to plant a servant in the house without his wife knowing anything about it; it seems she's nervous and not very well and he thought a woman would be best. Gee, I wish they wanted a man. I'd hop to it like nobody's business. Wouldn't I make a swanky butler!" He grinned over at her ingratiatingly. "Modom, the carriage waits. A've a drop more Scotch, milord!"

"Who are these people?" asked Rachel, idly. "D'you know their name?"

"As a matter of fact, I do, though I don't suppose Vinco would want it noised about. They're fairly hot society numbers, very Park avenue and so forth. The old man's got plenty of what it takes, apparently. Cayne is the name—Peter H. Cayne—why, what's the matter—"

"Say that again," cried Rachel. "Say that name again!"

Curt looked at her in surprise and did not answer, so she repeated her question. "What was their name—not Peter Holbrook Cayne—the people who live at six-forty-three Park avenue?"

"De you know them?" asked Curt, warily.

"No, but I know of them—my mother knows them, at least she used to know Mrs. Cayne."

"Damn it, I ought to be kicked. As if I wasn't old enough never to mention names!"

Rachel thought fast. She must convince him, but tell nothing. "Don't worry, it's all right. I was just surprised—mother was telling me something about Mrs. Cayne only a little while before she said, I won't say anything."

"I talk too much," said Curt.

Rachel laughed. "Please don't worry. I'll never mention it to a soul. But—I was just thinking—"

"So beautiful girls do think! News to me."

She wondered what was the best way to approach the sudden thrill-

Will you speak to Vinco right away, today? Don't dawdle, please, or somebody else will grab it."

Curt looked at his watch. "You order dessert and I'll go phone to Vinco this minute."

"But what do you want for dessert?"

"Anything you like, only I want a large cup of coffee."

Rachel ordered baked apples and the coffee and then waited, rigid with suspense, until Curt came back. "You were gone an age! What did he say, hurry, tell me?" she begged.

"He thinks you're crazy, but he's going to send for the head of the detective agency and talk it over with him. His name's Terriss, by the way, and a very good egg; runs the most reputable business in the city, won't touch scandal-sheet stuff. Baked apples, swell! For such a fussy-looking girl you have nice homey tastes. And listen, we've got to hurry or we'll be late at the auto shop."

"When will I see the detective agency man?"

"Tomorrow morning, half past nine, at Vinco's. And Vinco says he wants you to finish up your next appointments for him, provided, of course, you land the other job."

"Oh, but I will, of course. Oh, it was awfully kind of you, Curt. I'm so grateful."

"Wait till you see what happens before you go too grateful. I'm not a bit sure I ought to have done this. You may come up against something pretty disagreeable, but if you do and you need any co-operation, or connivance, you just remember that I'm on the doormat outside waiting for the signal. Now I'll pay the check and we'll push off."

"I do wish you'd let me pay for my lunch."

"I told you before not to annoy me with such remarks."

They had to work late, for the photographer was grimly set on making no mistakes this time, so there were takes and retakes and adjustments and checking up on each detail between poses. She had to change from the light sport costume needed in the picture to her own clothes, but Curt waited for her and was there in the shadows of the studio entrance. "You poor kid, I know you're dead," he said. "I've got to dash uptown or I'd take you home. Are you still set on this housemaid stunt?"

"Yes, at least I'm going to find out what it's all about."

"Then if you don't mind I'll come round in the morning and join the conference. I want to know what it's all about, too, I feel responsible for getting you into it."

"Oh, will you? That makes me feel heaps better—thanks ever so much, Curt! You're a lamb!"

By the time she reached home she wasn't so tired, expectation had begun to come back and with Curt to stand by she would be surer of herself. The flat was empty, Pink had left a note saying she had gone to dinner with a man from her office, so Rachel put on house pajamas and foraged for bread and milk and fruit in agreeable solitude. Just as she sat down to eat the door-bell trilled.

"Oh damn!" she said aloud. "Wouldn't you know that would happen!"

It was Genie Moore from across the hall and Genie was in a great rush. "Isn't Pink here?" she asked.

"What a nuisance! I wanted to borrow a hat, I've got a swanky date for the theater and Harlem and he said specially not to dress, this frock is all right but I haven't got a thing to put on my head that looks festive or eveningish."

"Neither have I," said Rachel, looking coldly at Genie's selfish blonde prettiness, "and I can't lend Pink's things when she's not here."

"Oh, that's all right. I'll take what I want. Pink won't mind."

She walked into Pink's room and began to rummage, coming out a moment later with Pink's new white beret. "This is just what I want, how lucky she didn't wear it."

"Lucky for who?" asked Rachel.

Genie laughed. "Lucky for me, sweetness and light. Tell Pink I'll bring it back in the morning."

"You can tell her yourself. Pink's not crazy about lending her hats."

"She won't mind," said Genie, undisturbed. "I'll tell her."

"That'll start another row with Pink, I suppose," thought Rachel, returning to her bread and milk. "She'll think I did it purposely because of my evening dress. A good thing I'm getting out of here. Genie's a horrid little moocher."

She ate slowly, thinking of the morning and her own mother, and with this came thoughts of Anne. How would Anne feel about all this, wouldn't it seem as if Rachel had been ungrateful and deceitful! Anne wouldn't want her to go into Elinor Cayne's house, Rachel was sure of that, and she began to wonder if she could avoid telling Anne. But that would be shameful, cowardly. A second ring of the bell startled her.

"I suppose Genie's come back for slippers and an evening coat," she thought, as she opened the door. But Genie was not there, it was someone below at the street entrance who was ringing. Rachel pressed the electric opening button and then went out on the landing to discover Oliver Land coming up.

"I was near by and thought I'd take a chance," he said. "It's been a grief's age since I saw you. Where's the girl friend—out? That's good, I always have a feeling she'd like to spit on me. Those are smart pajamas, very becoming—and look at you, sitting here alone eating bread and milk, funny!"

"What's funny about it?"

"The most beautiful model in the city ought to be out whooping it up." His face was white, his queer gray eyes were bright and malicious and he didn't seem quite steady on his feet.

"Sit down and stop staring at me," said Rachel. "I'm going to finish my humble meal. I'm hungry."

"I'm hungry, too," said Oliver. "It's quite a while since I ate." He sat down suddenly, folding up, thin and broken.

Rachel was terrified, but she ran to his aid, pulled him back in the chair, held his head under his nose and as he stirred and coughed, she brought a glass of sherry, the only liquor in the apartment, and this she dribbled into his slack, half open mouth. As she did it she noticed how very thin he was, his collar loose on his neck, his arm a bone in a flapping sleeve. "He's starving," she thought. "He's starving! Oh, this is dreadful, dreadful!" She tried to lift him farther up in the chair, but he came alive and pushed her away.

"Sorry," he murmured apologetically. "I'm making a nuisance of myself. Don't bother—"

"Lie down on the sofa," begged Rachel. "I'll help you. Come along, it'll be better for you to lie down and I'll get you something hot to drink."

He staggered to his feet and with Rachel helping managed the half dozen steps to the sofa. "It's my head," he whispered, "it's queer."

She left him and ran to the kitchen. Thank goodness she hadn't used all the milk. As soon as it was hot enough she brought him a cup of it.

"Now try to drink this," she coaxed, "it's just what you need. Wait, let me hold it." She supported his head and he sipped the milk.

"I'm sorry," he said again, weakly. "I ought not to have come."

"But what's the matter? Are you sick? Where's Bill? You two are so—"

"Oh, that's all right. I'll take what I want. Pink won't mind."

"You Poor Kid, I Know You're Lead," He Said.

ing idea that had seized her. "Do you believe—do you think I might take the detective job?"

"You! Not a chance! You couldn't make up as a housemaid to save your life! And you—" Curt shook his head and repeated, "Not a chance."

"Look here, suppose I tell you something. I'm not so crazy about this modeling stuff and the girl I live with is pretty well fed up with me and I certainly am with her—and there's a man who, that is, I'd just as soon make it impossible for him to see me—and this would be so exciting! Be sensible. You thought you'd be a good baiter, why wouldn't I be a good maid? I know all about housework. Speak to Mr. Vinco, won't you?"

It was plain that this plea moved Curt, but he hesitated.

"Yes—but they'll have to have a girl who knows something about the detective business, they wouldn't take a greenhorn who's simply looking for a little excitement."

"You could put it up to Mr. Vinco and let them do the deciding."

"He won't want to lose you as a model."

"He probably wouldn't mind, temporarily. And he loves feeling he's important and can get anything for anyone who asks him, you know it."

"What makes you so anxious? You act as if it was jam on the cake. If it's this fellow that's bothering you, I can tell you a dozen ways to settle him without going to all this trouble."

"How very very clever we are with other people's business! Oh, but clever!"

"Don't be fresh to your kind of Unc' Curtis. I suppose it would be sort of fun for you, a job like that. I tell you, I'll speak to Vinco. I'll say I spilled the beans to you and you want to try it. I don't think there's a Chinaman's chance you'll land it—"

"Don't let's worry about that."

"Tomorrow morning, half past nine, at Vinco's. And Vinco says he wants you to finish up your next appointments for him, provided, of course, you land the other job."

"Oh, but I will, of course. Oh, it was awfully kind of you, Curt. I'm so grateful."

Be Chic This Fall in Fine Lace

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

LACE, lace lace! Write it down on your shopping memoranda as many times as you wish and then add a postscript in favor of lace, for lace reaches a new high this season in the matter of importance. Yes, indeed, if you are seeking style distinction, the sooner you turn laceward the better.

What the style creators of our day and generation are doing with lace in the way of daring and ingenious handling leaves nothing to the imagination. For instance, there are the stunning lace trimmed black sheer wool dresses that bear the Paris stamp and carry that "something different" look which we all covet. Perhaps it is the sleeves banded with insertions of fine black Chantilly that bespeak a new lace story, or it may be that befrilled edgings of Val edging (black or white) impart a charming and youthful air to a simple black wool frock for practical daytime wear. The way Val lace is used for neckline finishings and for outlining decorative little pockets, likewise for trimming the new blouses is most enchanting.

Another adaptation of lace is in insets and appliques of individual motifs. These are positioned anywhere on the dress much after the manner that gay print motifs were used on monotone fabric during the past summer. While these insets, which are apt to be bowknot or bouquet cutouts, adorn evening gowns for the most part yet some designers work them discreetly and most attractively into daytime wools and other fabrics. This furor over lace has also resulted in the revival of the dress with a deep lace yoke and sleeves. Leading couturiers are showing some lovely models of this type.

The biggest thrill, however, comes in the acceptance of lace used in a fabric way. The idea, to be sure, is not new for its practicality has been demonstrated without question during the last several seasons. Nor has the advent of fall and prospect of winter retarded the movement to use lace as one would any material

False Flattery

People generally despise when they flatter and cringe to those whom they desire to supersede—Marcus Aurelius.

CARRY YOUR ALKALIZER WITH YOU

IF OVER-EATING CAUSES ACID INDIGESTION—

—HERE'S THE SENSIBLE THING TO DO

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkalizer with you. That's what thousands do now. That genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonsful of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches" are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

HER STARLET BAG

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The movies have a great deal to do with the modern trend in child thought, and when a child sees her favorite star carrying a smart little handbag, as little girls in filmland are wont to do, she wants one too. To satisfy this longing a well-known designer is creating miniature replicas of "grown-up" handbags for aspiring starlets. You can see by the picture that a "starlet" bag carries with it just such movie glamor as delights the heart of any and every little girl.

WOODEN TRIMMINGS FOR FALL COSTUMES

Novelty wooden buttons adorn many of the newest sports frocks while handsomely carved wooden clips, pins and buckles are also featured as trimmings. Polished themes are noted with the real grain of the wood brought out as well as though an antique cabinet maker had been working on it. Plaids, cut-out leaf and flower motifs and many other themes also are introduced.

Belts made entirely of wooden pieces hinged together or of wood in alliance with metal chains are decorative assets to suits as well as dresses while the same ideas are repeated in the designing of necklaces and bracelets.

Pouch Bags Fashionable as an Accessory for Autumn

Pouch bags are back in style for fall and are shown in soft dull leather broader at the base than at the top. Fashioned with round or rectangular caps that fit over the opening of the bag, when it is opened the sides may be spread out so that the contents may be found easily.

Silky antelopes with severe gold and silver trim are the loveliest of afternoon bags.

Tweed Skirt
A tweed skirt which has at least one contrasting panel to match the shade of sweaters with which the skirt is worn is a novelty in campus clothes.

Grade and Variety of Rice Important, Says the Department of Agriculture

When buying rice it is helpful to know grade as well as variety. Variety indicates its choiceness as food and influences length of cooking. Grade indicates quality and influences price.

For nine years the bureau of agricultural economics has graded rice on the basis of official standards promulgated by the secretary of agriculture. Rice usually is sold to dealers by these grades, but the retail purchaser may not always have this information.

There are separate grades for brown rice and white rice of each of the common varieties, and three classes for "broken" rice, which are used chiefly for industrial purposes. When cleaned, however, these broken rice are just as edible as the whole grain, though not so pleasing in appearance after cooking.

For brown rice there are four federal grades: extra fancy, fancy, choice, and sample grade. For white rice there are six grades: extra fancy (U. S. No. 1), fancy (U. S. No. 2), extra choice (U. S. No. 3),

MASKS

—no longer the badge of the evil-doer

ANOTHER "PICTURE PARADE"

THE not-so-dim-and-distant past the mask was accepted as a symbol of evil, the hiding of the face being regarded as sufficient proof that the owner of the face was a person bent on a guilty mission.

In this scientific age, however, the mask is in more general use than at any time in history. In sport in industry, on the stage, in medicine, aviation and the beauty parlor, the mask has its important niche. Here we present a few unusual examples compiled by expert cameramen throughout the United States and Europe.

Once the court gallants of Elizabeth's time wore masks when they illicit love trysts. Statesmen, too, while engaged in intrigue, resorted to this camouflage. Today a steel worker wears a mask to protect him from the glare and super-heat of an oxy-acetylene torch.

Even animals wear masks in Europe to protect them from gas attacks in warfare. At left, a German dog with its mistress, and above, an American military horse.

Throughout history, the mask has been the symbol of the theater. In ancient Greece, all actors wore masks. Theatrical masks of pure gold have been found in the tombs of Egypt's princesses and pharaohs. At the right is seen a Benda mask, used in the theater of the present day. This mask is unusually mobile and, expertly used, appears extraordinarily lifelike.

Nowadays masks protect citizens from dust storms (left), guard football players against facial injuries (center) and protect surgeons and their patients from infection. Even hay fever sufferers can get almost complete relief by wearing masks which filter the irritating pollen from the air.

Masks, once used to thwart society may now save it, thanks to science

STARFISH PRINCESS

She'll star in aquatic events at Long Beach, Calif. No pun intended, but Miss Aileen Zulawnick has been selected as the "Starfish Princess" to preside in fall and winter events at the famous southern California beach resort. She is shown in her starfish costume.

ROSE IN HER HAIR

A rose by any other name—even "chapeau"—is still a beautiful thing to look at. Particularly is this true when its wearer is as chic as Miss Lucy Saunders, society girl of Belmont Park, N. Y., who is pictured here, modeling something different in hats. It is made of robin's-egg-blue crepe, draped to resemble a rose perched on top of her head.

LESSON

Lesson for October 24

CHRISTIAN RENEWAL
LESSON TEXT—Titus 3:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men—Titus 2:11.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Good Shepherd.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In His Likeness.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A New Life in Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Renewed Life Through Christ.

The pastoral epistles, of which Titus is one, were written by Paul to his young brethren in the faith who had been called to the ministry of the gospel to instruct them concerning three important matters—(1) Church order and organization, (2) sound doctrine and (3) holy living. The third chapter of Titus, our lesson for today, deals with the life of believers in Christ in their relation to unbelievers. The great underlying reason why Christians should conduct themselves in meekness and humility toward others is that except for God's grace we who bear the name of Christ would be, and indeed were before our regeneration, just like the unbeliever.

We shall best study our lesson, therefore, by considering first of all v. 3 which indicates the lost condition of man by nature, then follow him through the miracle of redeeming grace, vv. 4 to 7, and finally see him as a living testimony in vv. 1, 2, and 8 to 11.

I. Lost—by Nature (v. 3).
It is not a pleasant picture that is painted in the graphic words of this verse, but, remember, it is God's picture of the unbeliever. He is said to be "foolish"—that is, irrational and senseless in his course of living. He is "disobedient" to the law of God. He is "deceived," literally "out of the way," misled by Satan. He thinks his pleasures and lusts are serving him, but alas, he is only a slave in bondage to and serving them. Such a life can only result in a man's becoming hateful to his fellowmen. They in turn are hateful to him, and so he hates them. Thus the whole world becomes a hateful place where men are "living in malice and envy."

How we thank God that we need not stop at this point. Man is by nature lost in sin—but he may be II. Saved—by Grace (vv. 4-7).
How sweet are these three words in the sinner's ears! Saved by grace, not works, and made heirs of eternal life.

1. "Not by works" (v. 5). Someone has said that man is determined by one means or another to claim salvation by his good works. To do so may flatter the flesh, but it surely finds no support whatever in Scripture. We are to work for Christ because we are saved, and after we are saved, but no man can be saved by works.

2. "By his grace" (v. 7). God shows his unspeakable kindness and love toward man—saving him by grace, through Jesus Christ. Grace has well been defined as "unmerited favor." We deserve but the just condemnation of our sin, and God in his mercy saves us, through faith in his Son.

3. "Made heirs" (v. 7). Saved now? Yes, thank God! Satisfied? Yes, praise his name! But there is more yet to come. We who deserved only God's judgment are now made heirs of an eternal hope. 'Tis indeed no small thing to be a child of God.

Now—we are ready to approach in the right spirit the admonition to live out our salvation as a daily testimony to others.

III. Witnessing, by Holy Living (vv. 1, 2, 8-11).

The young preacher Titus is told to "put them in mind" to be 1. Subject to rulers (v. 1). True patriotism (and we did not spell it "pay-riotism") stands very close to godly living. National leaders would do well to recognize that the decay of our national life will follow the decadence of spiritual life. A man who is right with God will be right with his fellowmen, and a noble and useful citizen. 2. Meek and kind to all men (v. 2). Meekness is not weakness. Gentleness is the attribute of strong men and women. The brawler, the loud talker is a weakling. Truly great men are always simple in their wants, kind in their spirit, gentle toward others. 3. Maintaining good, avoiding evil (vv. 8-11). It is the tendency of man to divorce morals from religion, to profess a faith which does not touch his daily life. Let us affirm "constantly" and "confidently" (as the R. V. has it) that those who believe in God should "be careful to maintain good works"—yes, and at the same time to "avoid" that which is "foolish," contentious, "unprofitable and vain."

Nature's Loveliness

Who can explain the secret pathos of Nature's loveliness? It is a touch of melancholy inherited from our mother Eve. It is an unconscious memory of the lost Paradise. It is the sense that even if we should find another Eden, we would not be fit to enjoy it perfectly nor stay in it forever.—Henry Van Dyke.

To Wash Curtains.—Lace curtains before being washed for the first time should be soaked for an hour or two in cold water to which two tablespoons of table salt have been added. This removes dressing in curtains and makes them much easier to launder.

Orange Fritters.—Separate two large navel oranges into sections. Dip sections in batter and fry in deep fat. Serve as accompaniment to roast lamb or braised pork chops.

A Delight for the Children.—Next time your children want a party, cook a cornstarch custard and fill cones. Alternate every spoonful or so with currant jelly and finish with jelly on top.

Apple Butter and Ice Cream.—Try a scoop of vanilla ice cream topped with a spoonful of rich brown apple butter.

Lattice-Topped Pies.—Fruit and berry pies with lattice-style tops require less baking time than the regular full-crust toppers.

Good Airing.—When you have the windows open in the morning to air the beds before making, open the clothes closet doors wide and let the current of air run through them. It will prevent them from getting that close stuffy odor so undesired where our clothes are concerned.

READY TO BRING YOU RELIEF IN MINUTES

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating. This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

YOU can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Headache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is Bayer Aspirin—15¢ a dozen tablets—about 1 1/2 apiece. Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions. Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time. For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night—ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste
Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered, you fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. TEMPERATURES AGE HAMS IN 6 TO 10 WEEKS

With the present-day tendency to hurry nature, state and federal workers have found a way to produce "aged" hams—Southern hams in six to ten weeks instead of the customary year or two. These were made by the Maryland Agricultural Experiment station in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture.

In rural districts of the South, hams are aged for a year or more before they are cured and smoked. During this time they become particularly dry and develop characteristic flavors. The lean meat has a pungent, cheesy flavor, and fat is modified so that it becomes semi-transparent.

The Maryland workers discovered a method of producing some of these characteristic flavors in a relatively short time—six to ten weeks—by holding them at temperatures from 107 degrees F. to 125 degrees F. after curing and smoking. The aroma and flavor of these hams increased with aging up to ten weeks.

Chemical studies of these quickly aged hams showed that there was an increase in the free fatty acids of the fat; that there was an increase in total soluble derivatives of protein; and that there was loss of moisture from the lean tissues. These changes are characteristic of the aging process in hams.

FHA To Present Ten Point Plan

A ten-point program will be placed before the Farmers Holiday association in a meeting to be held at Portales October 23.

The state group will meet to consider farm legislation to be presented to the senate agriculture committee when it meets in Oklahoma City late this month.

Suggested FHA program follows:

- 1—The plan should be one that can be expressed in terms of constitutional law; one that can be operated within the scope of the American plan of economic and political democracy.
- 2—The plan should be one that provides parity price for all basic farm crops and livestock in order that farm products may have equal exchange value with the products of industry and labor.
- 3—The plan should provide for the storing of the farm seasonal and periodical reserves when, if and as they occur, loans not to be called until cost of production is reached.
- 4—The plan should provide the means for disposing of any reserves that might occur in excess of domestic consumption and normal reserve needs.
- 5—The plan should protect the American farmer in undisputed possession of the domestic market to the limit of his capacity to supply it.
- 6—The plan should contemplate and provide for the development of new uses for the excess reserves of agricultural products and encouragement of new industries to utilize such products.
- 7—The plan should provide the framework for sound land use policies.
- 8—The plan should be one that can be operated without compulsory regimentation of either individuals or land; one that will not subject our farmers to domination by any political party, bureaucratic establishment or farm organization group.
- 9—The plan should give proper consideration to the rights, interests and welfare of taxpayers and consumers.
- 10—The plan should provide a system of commodity credits by means of which the commodities themselves and not gold, silver or other form of monetary device will supply the sole basis for the credits issued therein.

Health Column

Conducted by Charles M. Cree, Director of Public Health Education

I collided with some "nippers" in my brand new Chevrolet. Squashed them out as flat as kippers. In the road behind they lay.

What a nuisance children are! I must now repaint my car!

People in general cannot be considered to be quite as callous as the verse might suggest but there can be little doubt in view of the appalling mortality every year from automobile accidents that a very large number of drivers are extremely careless.

Many individuals pride themselves on their good driving and this pride is only too often based on what they believe to be their ability to handle a car. Handling a car is no more good driving than pushing a baby buggy along a sidewalk.

Good driving is based on courtesy and consideration. It embraces the ability to anticipate the worst that might conceivably happen and the measures necessary to prevent such a happening, together with the margin of safety over and above.

Far too many drivers, including those who believe they are good, are in fact, poor drivers of automobiles. The good driver invariably makes allowances for the idiosyncrasies of other drivers, pedestrians, children, and all other road hazards, for it must be clearly understood that everything on the road and frequently many things off the road are actually hazards.

Intelligent anticipation, therefore, of possibilities or in other words road sense is most important in safe driving.

37,800 deaths from auto accidents in the United States every year is a terrible indictment. Many of these deaths are of children going or coming from school. Delay of a moment or two to enable a pedestrian to cross a road or to insure the safety of a child is a cheap price to pay for a conscience clear of a homicide which which easily have been avoided.

Botulism Taking It's Toll of Ducks

SANTA FE—Botulism, deadly epidemic among ducks, has reached the most severe stage ever known in the state in the current outbreak on the La Joya grant in Socorro county, State Game Warden Elliott Barker said Friday.

Fifteen hundred ducks have died on the shallow La Joya lakes and many others are affected the game chief said. He believes the source of the disease was from infected ducks from contaminated Utah waters.

Five agencies were reported to be working to halt the spread of the plague. Taking part are the Soil Conservation Service, Works Progress Administration, Belen Game Protective Association, U. S. Biological Survey and the state Game and Fish department.

The work is under the direction of the biological survey with headquarters in Albuquerque.

The disease, commonly known as duck sickness, appeared first in Catron county on Cheap John Lake when more than a thousand ducks were reported to have died.

Teeth and Health

Healthy teeth do not cause poor health, but it is their unhealthy condition, which is a contributing factor in poor health, that we consider.

Thousands of people are suffering more or less from diseased teeth. Many are not sick in bed, but they are not up to the mark in efficiency. Of course one can work if he has the toothache, but how well?

A person with a tendency to tuberculosis, if he has septic teeth that are continually throwing out poison into his system, will become a prey to that disease because the bad teeth lower his vitality, slowly poisoning him.

Children affected with carious teeth are more liable to contract infectious diseases, such as whooping cough, or measles, or scarlet fever. Later in life we find these persons afflicted with rheumatism or apoplexy. These and other diseases and afflictions may be avoided by carefully filling and sealing all teeth.

Many times we try to promote health too late in the history of these cases, and wonder why the body does not respond. We wait until tooth decay stamps itself upon the general health of the children, before anything is done to remedy them.

The Artesia school children are given free dental examination each year so that the defects may be found before damaging results have set in. Our teachers give instruction to the children about the importance and care of the teeth. What are we as parents doing to make this instruction most effective? Are we doing all we can to prevent these defects?

A meeting which should be of interest to farmers and ranchmen of eastern New Mexico will be held at Clovis, October 27. This meeting, which is being sponsored by the New Mexico Extension service, in cooperation with J. A. Jackson, project manager of the Clovis Soil Conservation project, will feature demonstrations of approved methods of soil conservation.

The meeting will be in the nature of a tour of the Clovis Soil Conservation project, and an opportunity will be presented those in attendance to see actual practices in soil conservation. This tour will be an all-day affair and lunch will be served at noon by the Farm Bureau women of the Ranchvale community. Representatives of both the staff of the Clovis project and the state extension service will be present and during the lunch hour will discuss the conservation program on cultivated land and the benefits to be expected from conservation practices in eastern New Mexico.

Some of the outstanding practices which will be viewed and discussed will include leveling of sand drifts in fence rows, methods used in retiring marginal land to native grass, contour farming and terracing. In connection with the latter practice, arrangements have been made for the group to observe actual terrace construction.

Of particular interest to livestock men will be a demonstration in pasture furrowing and a demonstration of controlled grazing on sandy range lands.

U. S. to Be Host First Time to World's Poultry Congress

Cleveland Is Site of Exposition in 1939; Expect Attendance of 500,000.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

FOR the first time, the United States, world's largest raiser of poultry, will be host to the World's Poultry Congress and Exposition. Plans are already well under way for the seventh triennial meeting of the big show, to take place in Cleveland, July 28 to August 7, inclusive, in 1939. There will be three days of preliminary meetings in Washington, D. C.

Just how great an interest the event is likely to create is easy to see, when it is considered that there are 5,500,000 farmers raising poultry in this country. Of these, some 400,000 have flocks averaging 200 or more hens and pullets.

American poultry-raising, as an industry, long ago broke into the Meet His Majesty, the Sultan! Sultan is the name of this breed of chicken, to be exhibited at the World's Poultry Congress. All Sultans have crest, beard, muffs and divided comb.

billion-dollar class. For the last twelve years, according to the Department of Agriculture reports, the gross income to farmers has averaged approximately $1,000,000,000.

More farmers are engaged in raising poultry than are engaged in raising any other farm commodity. But the poultry business by no means ends with the farmers.

There are 12,000 commercial and breeder baby chick hatcheries. There are many thousand agencies buying eggs and poultry from farmers, processing and packing these products, and distributing to the various retail, hotel and restaurant outlets. Estimates of these marketing agencies, exclusive of small buyers and hucksters, vary from 30,000 to 60,000.

Thousands Engaged in Distribution.
There are several hundred cold storage warehouses handling poultry products, hundreds of feed manufacturers and dealers, and a large number of equipment, incubator and remedy manufacturing concerns. There are thousands of agencies such as retail stores, dairy and poultry stores, restaurants, hotels and cafes.

Memberships of numerous trade associations use in one way or another the products of the poultry industry. There are more than 400 state, regional and national poultry organizations. In addition to the regular poultry and agricultural press, there is scarcely a daily or weekly newspaper in the United States which does not print, regularly or occasionally, columns or items having to do with poultry-raising.

All of these factors, combined with the holding of two world's fairs in the United States in 1939, one in New York and one in San Francisco, to attract foreign visitors, seem to point to an attendance at the Seventh World's Poultry Congress and Exposition that will shatter all previous records. The Department of Agriculture's own estimate is a gate total of 500,000, with 50,000 visitors participating in the activity and staying over two or three days. Canada is expected to send 2,000 visitors and it is believed there will be at least another thousand from other foreign countries.

Before getting into the details of the program, which should certainly keep the time of the visitors well occupied, it might be in order to sketch roughly the background of the congress.

It was 25 years ago that James E. Rice, then head of the poultry department of Cornell university, and Sir Edward Brown, of England, organized the International Association of Investigators and Instructors of Poultry Husbandry, later renamed the World's Poultry Science association. They conceived an International Poultry congress at which poultry people of the world could assemble to discuss the aspects and problems of the industry.

The World war halted their plans temporarily, but in 1921 the first World's Poultry congress was held in The Hague, Netherlands. Results were so satisfactory that a congress has been conducted every third year since, with many countries participating.

Congress Attendance Records.
Barcelona was host to the congress in 1924; 37 countries took part and the gate clicked off 175,000 admissions. Forty-two nations took part at Ottawa, Canada, in 1927, and 150,000 attended. International interest reached its peak in London in 1930, when 60 countries were represented, but attendance fell off to 80,000. No attendance records were kept at Rome in 1933, but the Sixth congress, at Leipzig, Germany, in 1936, drew 41 countries and an attendance of 70,000. It is expected that the holding of the next congress in the United States, as unanimously decided at Leipzig, will awaken a tremendous revival of interest and attendance.

The congress has ever been a colorful affair. Dignitaries of the host nations have served as patrons. Kings, queens, princes and dictators have paid homage to the humble hen by opening the congresses and participating in their functions.

In addition to holding the scientific sessions and exposition, it has been customary for the host nation and host city to entertain official delegates and visitors with receptions, banquets, concerts and short tours to nearby points of interest.

The congress itself has never included all of the events which attract the nucleus or stimulus for a great many outside activities. Following the congress there are usually tours to points of interest, such as experiment stations, egg-laying contests, poultry farms and marketing establishments and agencies, as well as tours of general scenic and historic interest.

How Show Is Sponsored.
In other countries the congress has been sponsored by the national governments, but here so many interests are at stake that the show will be put on by a general committee co-ordinating the sponsorship of the poultry industry, the federal government, the host city and state, and the various participating state committees. All will contribute to the financing.

James E. Rice, of Trumansburg, N. Y., co-author of the congress idea, is chairman of the national poultry industry committee.

Dr. C. W. Warburton, director of the agricultural extension service of the Department of Agriculture, leads the federal committee of ten members from the State, Agriculture and Commerce departments, Glenn H. Campbell is chairman of the Cleveland host city committee, with Mayor Burton as honorary chairman. A temporary state committee, shortly to be reorganized, is already functioning in Ohio.

An executive board, made up of members of these four committees, will actually direct the destinies of the Seventh World's Poultry Congress and Exposition.

Although the big event is nearly two years away, state poultry congress committees or councils have been reported organized in California, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah and Washington, a total of 19 states. State organizations are expected to be completed by the first of the year.

Government Contributes $100,000.
The federal government will enter the exposition in a big way. Congress has authorized and the President has approved an appropriation of $100,000 for federal participation. This provides for an exhibit, for entertaining delegates at Washington, for printing, and for translators and interpreters.

From requests now being made, it appears that at least 40 states will have exhibits and that the average appropriation will be $7,000.

Foremost on the program of the congress itself is the triennial meeting of the World's Poultry Science association, and a series of five or six sectional scientific meetings. The "everyday" poultry raiser will be interested in the large daily open sessions which will be devoted to practical talks of a general nature. As it is planned, one day may be for poultrymen (farmer and commercial), and another day for poultry breeders, another for hatcherymen and another for marketers. Provisions are being made for meetings of any national, regional or state poultry organizations or allied groups which desire them.

Many more, and colorful, events are still, of necessity, in the planning stage. A national convention

One of the strange sights at the World's Poultry Congress in Cleveland in 1939 will be the Yokohama fowl of Japan, which sometimes has a tail 29 feet long.

of 4-H club boys and girls and Future Farmers' poultry clubs may be held, and in connection with it a national demonstration team contest. There may be judging contests (live poultry, eggs, dressed poultry and baby chicks) for college students and boys' and girls' club teams. There will be a moving picture theater, showing educational films prepared by state and federal workers and commercial agencies. Tentative plans call for a Hall of Youth building to house these activities.

Activities for Consumer, Too.
After all, it is the consumer who keeps the poultry industry alive, and he will not be forgotten. There will probably be a series of discussions by leading nutritional workers, home economics specialists and chefs, in addition to cooking demonstrations showing methods for the use of the industry's products. We'll see if they can show Mrs. American Housewife anything new about the use of eggs!

At least 25 countries other than the United States are expected to have exhibits. These will be housed with the federal and state exhibits in a Hall of Nations and States.

The Hall of Industry will display the commercial aspects of the poultry industry. Here will be shown the products and work of hatcheries, manufacturers, marketing agencies, press and radio.

Many commercial firms doing educational or research work will exhibit. Others will show the history and development of their product. Exhibits of processes of the industry will include hatching, grading and sexing chicks; battery raising of broilers and hens; packing, dressing, grading and packing of chickens; eviscerating fowl; and breaking, canning and drying of eggs. On nearby railroad tracks the various types of railroad cars used in transporting the industry's products will be exhibited.

Large Live Bird Exhibits.
Educational and progress exhibits throughout the Hall of Industry will break the monotony of a purely trade show. Here, also, booths will be provided for the World's Poultry Science association and the Poultry Science Association of America.

Most fascinating for virtually every visitor will be the Hall of Poultry, which will house the live bird exhibits. It may take the form of national government displays of a non-competitive nature, with possibly 15 or 20 countries showing live birds. Consideration is being given to the holding of a competitive live bird exhibit of standard breed poultry.

Utility live bird exhibits by Record of Performance breeders are another possibility. With increasing attention being given to the maintenance of our wild game birds and the desirability of displaying various ornamental fowl, this branch of the industry will likely receive considerable attention.

An international dressed poultry exhibit, particularly to show the various methods of packing poultry, can be provided for in the Hall of Refrigeration, which will be set up in a cold storage warehouse.

A competitive egg show and a baby chick show will help to round out the exposition. Any concerns contacting consumers or various marketing trade associations will be afforded the opportunity to participate in educational exhibits.

The Joke's on Him

WHEN Joe Miller, a famous English comedian of the Eighteenth century, died in August, 1738, it was discovered that his widow received as her legacy naught but memories of an amiable and faithful, but improvident, husband. Thereupon a certain publisher named T. Read, a shrewd fellow of speculative tendencies, engaged a man named John Motley to gather together all the current jests of the day and set them in type.

Soon afterwards there appeared in the bookstalls of London a volume which bore this imposing title: "Joe Miller's Jest, or the Wits Vade Mecum. Being a Collection of the most Brilliant Jest, the Politest Repartees; the most Elegant Bon Mots, and most pleasant short Stories in the English Language. First carefully collected in the Company, and many of them transcribed from the Mouth of the Facetious Gentleman, whose Name they bear; and now set forth and published by his Lamentable Friend and former Companion, Elijah Jenkins, Esq. Most Humbly inscribed to those Choice-Spirits of the Age, Captain Bodens, Mr. Alexander Pope, Mr. Professor Lacy, Mr. Orator Henley, an Job Banker, the Kettle-Drummer."

The book was immediately popular and was followed by an endless succession of "Joe Miller" joke books. As a result, the name "Joe Miller" became firmly fixed in the consciousness of the English-speaking races as a synonym for "joke" and even today many of the wise-cracks of the funny men of the stage, screen and radio are credited to him, especially when their audiences groan instead of laugh!

But the joke of it all is this: This man who, for two centuries, has been regarded as the King of Jest, was a solemn fellow who not only never joked in his life (except when repeating his lines on the stage) but was utterly unable to see the point of a joke when it was told him by other men.

Antiquarian Discovery

ARE you one of those who believe that "the English have no sense of humor"? If so, read this confession which appeared in a London newspaper trade journal back in 1875:

An editor man is very sore (the wound is too new to allow of names being mentioned) at having recently been thoroughly hoaxed. A copy of an ancient inscription was sent for insertion to a local, the original of which was professedly taken from a stone found in excavating the foundations for the new buildings in Queen Victoria street. The following note accompanied it and with the inscription duly appended:

"I enclose copy of an inscription in mediaeval Latin from a stone discovered during the excavations in Queen Victoria street, where, as you doubtless are aware, there formerly stood a church dedicated to a Saxon saint and missionar, of whom many traces and relics still exist. He is known to the monkish chroniclers by the name of Uncatus Ambulans."

"Perhaps a copy might be suitable for your well-known and extensively-read paper and some of your antiquarian readers may be able to supply a translation."

LSABILLI HOERES AGO.
PORTIBUS ES IN AHO.
NOSCE MARL. THERE TRUX
JOTIS INNEM. PES ANDUX.

A metrical translation was forwarded next day, and was inserted with a note that "we knew all the time it was a hoax, but we inserted it as a joke, but those who saw Arthur just after he received the translation, say they cannot reconcile his look of agonized horror and the awful profanity of his language with his public explanation."

"Inspection on stone discovered on the site of church of St. Walker, called by the monkish chroniclers, 'Uncatus Ambulans' (Hookey Walker)."

"I say, Billy, here's a go.
Forty pounds in a row.
No, see Mary! they be ducks.
'Vot is in 'em? Peas and Trucks."

"Massacre at Empire City"

THE silver mining business was booming in Nevada and her neighbor, California, and beginning to be more than a little jealous of her prosperity, especially since so many Californians were investing heavily in Nevada mining stock. So the newspapers in that state began advising the public to dispose of its Nevada stock and invest in California gold mines.

And then one day a shocking story appeared in the Virginia City (Nev.) Territorial Enterprise. It seems that a man in Empire City had followed the advice of the "foreign papers." Then, remorseful over his reason to home town industry and home town prosperity, he had killed himself, his wife and their nine children.

The story caused a sensation not only in Nevada but in every part of the country to which the telegraph wires carried it. Then the newspaper man who wrote the story of this "massacre" revealed that it was all a fake, written solely to point a "trade-at-home" moral.

Years later he confessed, "The idea that anybody could ever take my massacre for a genuine occurrence never once suggested itself to me, hedged about as it was by all those tall-tale absurdities and impossibilities." But such was his genius in telling a plausible story that the public did accept it unhesitatingly. His name was Mark Twain.

Wool Is Going Places

LADY, lady, lady have you anything in wool? Smart women everywhere are clamoring for wool. They're wearing it to work in, to play in, to date in, to go to church in. Yes, wool is going places! Sew-Your-Own is here today (and will be here tomorrow) with three ultra-smooth new models for you to choose from—just to make sure you won't be a poor little lady without "something in wool" for Fall.

Needs Slim Lines.
That "something in wool" might well and easily be the handsome model at the left above. Especially does a weightier fabric need slim lines and here you have them pared down to hairline precision. The zipper from throat to hemline gives this frock additional chic, and the far-reaching collar takes care of that important need for contrast. French wine, black, duck green, and gendarme blue are the popular colors.

Compliment to Youth.
Youth and the blouse "n" skirt have always gone sporting together. That's a compliment to youth and real flattery for the two-piece above, center. This engaging combination has a waist-coatish top and a simply cut, flaring skirt. A singular asset is its size range: 14 to 42. And because it is figure flattering every size is benefited. Acetate crepe is lovely for the blouse; velvet or thin wool is smart for the skirt.

For a Busy Body.
If you're a busy body or a lady of legion labors, you'll thank Sew-Your-Own for the charming new frock at the right. Now is the time to cut two versions: one in gingham for housework, another as your "something in wool" in the long sleeve style for all occasions. Remember then, double your chances for day-in, day-out chic with this one becoming model and save one-third on time and one-half on the price of your new Fall wardrobe assets.

Pattern 1375 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 2½ yards of 54-inch material. With short sleeves, 3½ yards of 39-inch material. Collar

Pattern 1376 is designed for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 14 requires 4¾ yards of 39-inch material. Pattern 1380 is designed for sizes 34 to 48. Size 36 requires 2½ yards of 54-inch material with sleeves; 3¾ yards of 20-inch material with short sleeves.

Special Session Likely

CONGRESS probably will be called into special session before November 8 and November 16. This was revealed by President Roosevelt just after his return to his Hyde Park home.

Mr. Roosevelt also made it clear he has not abandoned his plans to "reform" the federal courts, including the Supreme court.

As for agricultural legislation, it appears the administration will favor compulsory production control for wheat, corn, cotton, rice and tobacco.

Black Joined Klan; Quit

"I DID join the Ku Klux Klan. I later resigned. I never rejoined."

Thus Hugo L. Black, now Associate Justice Black of the Supreme court, admitted to an immense radio audience that since he quit the Klan he has had nothing whatever to do with it.

He cited his record in the senate and in private life to back up his assertion that he was entirely free from religious or race prejudices.

Black asserted that since he quit the Klan he has had nothing whatever to do with it. He cited his record in the senate and in private life to back up his assertion that he was entirely free from religious or race prejudices.

"I realize that I was elected by men who believe in the principles that I have sought to advocate and which are the principles of this organization."

Black emphatically declared his devotion to the principles of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

"When this statement is ended, he concluded, "my discussion of the question is closed."

There was a definite note of defiance in Black's address, but it is fair to assume that the American public was not satisfied with his explanation.

From all parts of the country came renewed protests against his presence on the Supreme court bench, and various large associations "resolved" about it.

When Justice Black took his seat, the chamber of the Supreme court was crowded to capacity.

Albert Levitt, an attorney, was on hand to ask permission to file a suit seeking to force Justice Black to show cause why he should not be declared constitutionally ineligible to sit.

Another motion to the same effect was filed by Patrick H. Kelly, a Boston lawyer.

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Through a Tropic Holocaust"

By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Well, sir, fellow adventurers, people have all kinds of troubles in this bothersome old world of ours. You have your troubles and I have mine. Maybe the old spinning ball would be just TOO nice a place to live on if we didn't have our share of adversity to make the sweet seem sweeter and the bright seem brighter still.

On that fateful day Mrs. Hitchins was sitting in the office of J. Eustace Burke & Brothers, the firm for which she worked. She wasn't Mrs. Hitchins then—just Alberta, the assistant cashier.

When the Earthquake Struck.

At 3:30 in the afternoon, a distant, ominous, rumbling sound startled all Kingston. In the office where Alberta worked, however, nobody paid any attention to these sounds.

At the same time, she felt herself suddenly—inexplicably—slipping from her chair. She jumped to her feet. From overhead a shower of plaster fell, littering her desk.

In the office, there was a moment of tense silence. Then Alberta heard the voice of her boss saying: "My God! An earthquake! San Francisco all over again!"

A Tottering Wall Fell With a Crash.

There were five people in it. Miraculously, not one of them was injured. Alberta heaved a sigh of relief—too soon. At that moment the trembling started all over again.

From outside came the sound of a piercing shriek. A woman in the next building! Alberta started toward the door—felt someone grab her by the arm. It was her sister. "Don't go out there," her sister cried. A tottering wall fell with a crash.

Terrible Scenes in the Streets.

The boss started to gather up the company's books and put them in the safe. The girls turned to and helped. When that was finished, Alberta and her sister made their way out to the street and started to head for home, down by the waterfront.

It was the most harrowing sight two girls had ever seen. They struggled home to find their mother and younger sister alive, but frightfully injured. They had just been dug out from under the wreckage of what had been their home.

Earthquake shocks were still coming at intervals. Alberta and her sister cast about for medical aid for their mother and the little girl. The hospital was miles away—and in ruins.

There were hundreds of other people on that boat—hundreds of refugees from the stricken city. All afternoon they straggled aboard. Doctors—volunteer nurses came from the town. They turned that boat into a hospital ship for the care of the injured.

Tragedies in a Night of Horrors.

Night came—a night that transformed the city into a red inferno rimmed by the cosmic blackness. Fire flamed up anew in a hundred different quarters. Buildings tottered. Walls crumbled.

Terrible scenes were enacted in those grim hours. A father and son were trapped between two walls of a fallen building. Rescuers were striving to get to them. They were almost free, when flame shot through the building, driving the rescuers back.

In the heartrending scenes that went on through that terrible night, Alberta almost lost her mind. Long before it was over, she was a woman moving in a daze.

Now Alberta is married. As the mother of three children she has responsibilities—sometimes troubles. But when she has troubles, she looks back at that awful January day in Kingston and wonders what the people who bled and died in that holocaust would think of her feeble little woes.

What Price SAFETY?

The safety of a bank depends upon many things, not the least of which is the intencness with which the banker scrutinizes each loan application. It is essential that the banker know the purpose for which a loan is intended; that he know it can and will be repaid on time.

As a result of this protection the banker must give his depositors, he is often misunderstood in his community. The price of safety—and your safety as a depositor, not the banker's—is often a high one, but one on which the successful banker cannot bargain.

Social Calendar

Thursday club will meet on October 28th with Mrs. Robt. Conner. Mrs. T. D. Devenport will be leader, and her subject will be "How Science Accounts For the Sea."

The Rebecca circle of the First Baptist church will meet Wednesday, October 27th, with Mrs. Parker Woodul.

The Dorcas society of the Baptist church meets on Monday, October 25th at the home of Mrs. Elton Lankford for a study course. Mrs. Wm. Solomon will be leader.

Ladies Aid will meet Wednesday, October 27th in Hedges chapel. Mrs. C. G. Mason will act as hostess.

STATE PARENT-TEACHER PROGRAM HIGH LIGHTS

On the program of the state Parent-Teacher convention will be matters pertaining to home, school and community. The state program for the improvement of instruction is one of outstanding interest. Dr. L. S. Tiren and Dr. Donald McKay will lead the discussion. Mrs. L. C. Turner, regional director of Parent-Teacher work will conduct a round table discussion on home and school problems such as home work, radio programs, grades, awards, honor rolls, club and moving pictures.

State and national legislation will also be a major part of the program. The Parent-Teacher association is very much a political organization in that it is interested in legislation that affects children and youth. It is non-partisan in that it does not support candidates or endorse any partisan measure. The Child Labor law had the full support of the P. T. A. The state P. T. A. is much interested in a stricter observance of the parole law for criminals. It will oppose any plan to divide the sales tax money to defray expenses other than that of schools. The sales tax is bringing in large sums of money for the schools. The people will be willing to pay this tax only so long as the money is used for schools, and for schools only.

Dr. Joseph Artman will speak on Character Education. The home and the community are the greatest character builders.

The national Parent-Teacher magazine is the official organ of the Congress of Parents and Teachers. It carries authentic information for those interested in children and youth and their welfare.

The program of the state convention will be varied so that everyone will find something of interest. The theme for the convention program is "The Place of the Home in the Community."

October Meeting of Dexter P. T. A. A large crowd attended the meeting Tuesday night, October 12th, at Dexter in spite of the stormy weather. The orchestra, under the direction of Miss Harper, played four numbers. Their selections were well received.

The business session was presided over by the president, Rev. John G. Anderson. It was voted to send a full quota of delegates to the state convention to be held in Roswell, October 28 and 29. Everyone was urged to attend the convention.

The finance committee will have charge of the "Used Clothes Sale," and a school carnival, the dates to be announced later.

The program for the evening was in charge of Mrs. George Wilcox. The topic for discussion was "High School Recreation." Superintendent D. N. Shinkle of the Roswell schools and Mr. Paul Deaton, principal of the Roswell schools, told about the recreational program of Roswell High school. Their talks were followed by a discussion by all present.

Dexter is anxious to have school parties where dancing is a part of the entertainment, and this type of program is being very successfully carried out in Roswell.

Dexter's new gymnasium will soon be ready for use. The P. T. A. is invited to have open house there during their next meeting which will be the first Tuesday in November.

LIBRARY AT WOMAN'S CLUB IMPROVEMENT

Mrs. E. A. White, chairman of library improvement at Woman's club, states that she is very grateful to the merchants of Hagerman, for their generous contributions to her recent benefit party, which was given to get proceeds to improve the library. The library has been arranged, with new hardwood floors and several donations of books have been gratefully received. The library opens into the main auditorium, and is very attractive in its arrangement. Mrs. White stated that she was also helped by other members of the club in getting the room improved and arranged.

BAPTIST CHURCH W. M. S. ENTERTAIN VALLEY MEET

Both circles of the Baptist church, the senior circle Dorcas, and the Rebecca entertained on Tuesday at the church, the Pecos Valley Women's Missionary Society at their quarterly meeting. Mrs. Julian Atwood of Roswell, president of the Valley society, presided at the business session in the morning. Reports were given from the committees of the different churches represented.

At 11:30, Rev. Lee Vaughn delivered a sermon on missionary work. Plans are being made to celebrate the "Golden Jubilee" of the W. M. U. in America in 1938.

A covered dish lunch was served at the noon hour.

In the afternoon the local circles, under supervision of the Dorcas president, Mrs. E. A. White, gave a program. Mrs. Parker Woodul gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "Present Day Conditions in China, and the Latest War News." Mrs. Woodul's talk was so interesting, that she was especially requested to repeat it on Thursday in Carlsbad, when the Carlsbad society give their Royal service lesson.

Mrs. O. J. Ford and Mrs. Lee Vaughn gave interesting talks on mission work in China. Mrs. Wm. Goodwin led in prayer for missions in China.

Mrs. Elmer Lankford led the devotional in the morning. Mrs. F. W. Sadler led the devotional in the afternoon.

Mrs. Luna Vickers gave a very interesting talk on the W. M. U. of fifty years ago.

The meeting adjourned to meet the next quarter, which will be the last Tuesday in January at Lake Arthur.

About thirty-four representatives attended from the Roswell, Lake Arthur, Artesia and Carlsbad churches.

CAPTAIN HORGAN SPEAKS TO DEXTER WOMAN'S CLUB

Captain Paul Horgan of the New Mexico Military Institute and nationally known author, spoke before the Dexter Woman's club at the Lake Van club house, Thursday, October 14th. His subject was "The Little Theatre Movement," for which he is an enthusiast. He spoke convincingly and aroused the interest of his audience. Mrs. L. O. Fullen and Mrs. Chas. Joyce were guests of the club and together with Captain Horgan explained the community concert movement which has been initiated in Roswell for the coming winter.

Mrs. L. Parker, club president, presided over the business session and reported that two prizes totaling $15.00 had been won by the new park which the club is assisting to improve. The club voted to use the prize money for further park improvement.

Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Melhop gave interesting reports from the state convention recently held in Portales. The club octette sang two selections, "Morning Now Beckons" and "Melody from the South."

The teachers from the Dexter public school and other friends from Dexter, Roswell and Hagerman were club guests.

The hostesses, Mesdames Wilcox, Marshall, West, Sharp and Lewis had made the club house very attractive with fall flowers and bright Navajo rugs. They served delicious doughnuts, coffee and cider from a pretty lace covered table. Forty members and guests were present.

LOCAL WOMEN ATTEND DISTRICT AUXILIARY MEET

Mesdames Dub Andrus, Lloyd Harshey, Jeannette Michelet of Hagerman and F. W. Stevens of Dexter attended the 5th District Auxiliary meeting in Artesia last week on Wednesday, and the 1:00 o'clock luncheon at the Legion hut. Mrs. Michelet, who is state president, gave a resume of her trip to New York to the national convention, and outlined her program for the coming year. In appreciation for her work and faithfulness, Mrs. Michelet was presented a lovely "Naval print" plate by the Artesia unit.

THURSDAY CLUB

The club met at the home of Mrs. J. T. West last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. E. A. White was leader and gave a resume of the book, "Man and the Sea." She also gave a reading entitled "Storm At Sea," and a short poem.

Present were: Mesdames Harry Cowan, Robt. Cumpsten, Robt. Conner, T. D. Devenport, W. L. Heitman, C. G. Mason, Sam McKinstry, Jack Sweatt, A. L. Van Arsdol, E. A. White, Hal Ware, E. A. Paddock and the hostess.

BELLE BENNETTS HAVE ENCHILADA SUPPER

The Belle Bennett circle of the Methodist church were quite well pleased last Friday night at the results of the enchilada supper, which they held at the undercroft. The patronage was good, and they stated their proceeds were very good. These young ladies have become expert enchilada cooks, and many compliments were heard on their supper.

Nineteen Killed Airplane Crash

SALT LAKE CITY—A searching party reached the crumpled "main-liner" high in the Uinta Mountains Tuesday and found all nineteen occupants of the luxurious air transport dead.

Ralph Johnson, a United Airlines pilot and one of a group of four that kept going all night long in the snow, informed L. D. Cuddeback, division superintendent of the airlines, that a quick survey of the wreckage by flashlight showed no sign of life.

After Johnson brought out word of the tragedy—the greatest number of persons ever killed in the crash of an airplane—the air line quickly assembled officials, airplanes and ground workers to bring out the bodies.

The Knight Airport in Wyoming, twenty-six miles north of the base of operations.

Cuddeback said Johnson went up to the big airplane "peered in and found that the sixteen passengers and crew of three were dead."

METHODIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Mrs. Guy Robinson's home was made gay with Hallowe'en colors yesterday afternoon, when she and her daughter, Mrs. Carl Ridgeley entertained members and guests of the Methodist Missionary society.

Mrs. Mattie Willoughby was leader, and the subject was "Women In Our Church." She was assisted by Mesdames J. H. Walker, Harry Cowan and Carl Ridgeley.

Mrs. Tom McKinstry gave the chapter from the study book, which she was to have given the last time.

Special music was given by the quartette, friends of Dr. H. T. Willoughby. This was enjoyed very much. The quartette are to give a program at the Methodist church tonight.

Delicious refreshments of pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream and coffee were served to a very large membership and guests. The Hallowe'en theme was carried out in decorations, and refreshments.

DORCAS CIRCLE CHANGES MEETINGS

The Dorcas circle of the Baptist church have decided to combine their Mission and Bible studies and eliminate the first Monday meetings, and meet only on the 2nd and 4th Mondays.

PHEASANT SUPPER SUNDAY NIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Hams were hosts to a very delicious pheasant dinner on Sunday evening. Covers were laid for the hosts and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie McAllister and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Davis and son. The pheasants had been killed by Frankie Davis.

DELIGHTFUL PHEASANT DINNER IS SERVED

On Monday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Williamson were hosts to a very delightful pheasant dinner in their new home in West Hagerman. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Michelet and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bailey and children and the hosts.
