Rotary Hears Selective Service Program

Muleshoe's chapter of the Rotary Club met Tuesday, May 14 with about 40 in attendance. Lt. Col. Ken D. Olson spoke to the group giving information on the Selective Service System. Olson is Commander of Detachment 4-5 at the Reese Air Force Base. He has 23 years experience in the U.S. Army Reserves and has been with the Selective Service System since 1983.

As commander of Detachment 4-5, he and his unit are responsible for three area offices Abilene, Amarillo and Lubbock and for the military entrance processing station, Amarillo. Part of Olson's job is to speak to civic groups about registration with the Selective Service.

Young men aged 18 are encouraged to register. "It's quick, easy and it's the law," Olson said. The first step in registration is to go to the post office. Then, the registrant fills out Selective Service form No. 1. After that, he is furnished an ID card and he is considered registered. An 18-year-old must be registered with the Selective Service System to be eligible for certain jobs.

PVT McGaga Returns From Saudi Arabia

"It's really hot over there" said Pvt Kelly McGaga, who recently returned from Saudi Arabia. "We think it gets hot here, but it is nothing to compare with Saudi Arabia. We had to wear a scarf around our neck to protect us from the heat and we wouldn't have thought of rolling up our shirt sleeves, due to the heat. Pvt McGaga visited at the Journal Wednesday morning with his cousin, Linda Francis.

He was stationed on the front line during the war. Although he seemed a little reluctant to talk about the war, he did say that he was put on the front line by coincidence. "I learned not to balance my check book in the middle of the night, about 2 a.m." He and another soldier couldn't sleep.

His unit was notified that two men had been injured on the front line. As his sargeant was headed to where they were being housed for replacements, he saw a light under their door. And that was how he found himself on the front line.

Pvt McGaga has only been in the Army eight months and he was sent to Saudi Arabia right from boot camp. When ask why so many young men and women were sent to the front, he replied "I think it was because we had recently had such intense training they thought it would still be fresh on our minds."

To a lot of people these young men and women are just kids but as Pvt McGaga said "you grow up fast over there."

While talking about the lines of prisoners of war we had seen on TV, he said "their men (Iraq) were glad to be taken as prisoners, they didn't have any shoes and were literally starving. After being taken prisoners they had food and shelter. Some of their people were fed poisoned fruit."

Honor Graduates Named

Steve Garcia gave the opening ceremonies and John Gulley served as master of ceremonies at the Muleshoe High School awards assembly Wednesday, May 15.

Gulley presented the Delta Kappa Gamma Outstanding Future Teachers Association Member of the Year to John Orozco.

Donations Needed For Fireworks

"FIREWORKS! The 4th of July just wouldn't be complete without them! said Nelda Merriott, chairman of the fireworks project for the Jennyslippers. "Everyone enjoys them...friends and visitors come from miles around to enjoy the 4th of July in Muleshoe and to see the exciting climax to a wonderful celebration of our independence...the FIREWORKS!"

The Jennyslippers host a Walkathon and/or Skateathon each year to help the Chamber of Commerce finance the fireworks. This year only about one-fourth of the funds needed were raised.

The Jennyslippers are asking the help of everyone in raising the balance. You've seen those big glass jars in the stores around town...Those are for your donations to the FIREWORKS FUND! And if you'll drop something in each time as you pass by...it will all help and we'll all have a part in continuing the tradition...the best place to be on the 4th of July is right here in Muleshoe! Mrs. Merriott continued.

The Jennyslippers will also be sponsoring a concession stand at the New City Park when the Country Caravan will be bringing their musical concert on the evening of Friday, May 31.

All Jennyslippers are encouraged to take a freezer of ice-cream, brownies, cookies and other refreshments to sell. (And if anyone else would like to donate a freezer of ice-cream, it would be greatly appreciated!) All proceeds will go to the FIREWORKS FUND for the 4th of July. "Everyone come out! THANK YOU" Mrs. Merriott added.

Three Local Bands Will Present Concert

Once again it is time for the Spring Band Concert. It will be at 7 p.m., May 21 in the High School Auditorium. The Cadet Band, the Watson Junior High Band, along with the Muleshoe High School Band will all be performing. There will be no charge to see all these kids playing many pieces of our favorite music.

Along with all the music, awards will be presented to students. THE JOHN PHILIP SOUSA AWARD for Outstanding Musician; THE LOUIS ARMSTRONG AWARD for the Jazz Band; also awards for OUTSTANDING BAND MEMBERS in the 9th, 10th, and 11th grades. There will also be a DIRECTORS AWARD going to someone in the High School Band. New Officers for the upcoming year will be announced.

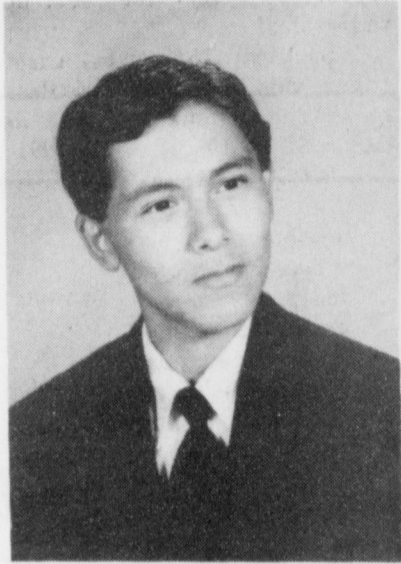

The FINE ARTS BOOSTERS wish to invite everyone to come and hear all the talent that will be on stage. We always need to let them know that we are behind them 100 percent.

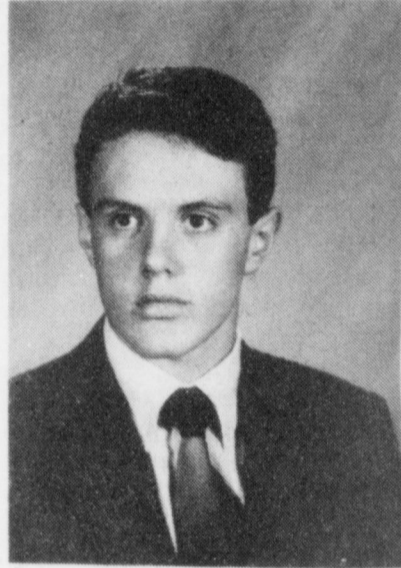

FIREWORKS! NEED HELP!--The Jennyslippers came up short, in their Walk-A-Thon, for money to purchase fireworks for the July 4th celebration. Nelda Merriott, project chairman, holds one of the jars that will be placed in local businesses, seeking donations for the fireworks. (Journal Photo)

There is a penalty for not registering. It is a felony not to register if you are 18, he comments.

"Defense in a democracy is a shared responsibility," Olson says. The young man who doesn't register at age 18 may receive a "birthday card" from the Selective Service System. There are cross references with the Driver's License bureau. These try to catch all 18-year-olds. Violators will probably receive a letter.

"The Selective Service System is committed to a fair system in which everyone participates," says Olson. No women are required to register, however, he notes, some women in medicine are being considered for registration in the Selective Service System at this time though.

Students who register and are called are allowed to finish the school year they are in.

A major function of the Selective Service System is to provide replacements for the reservists who are called into active duty during times of military crisis nationwide.

The Rotarians asked several questions of Lt. Col. Olson.

He said that he went to Kuwait a couple of times. He was stationed on the border between Iraq and Kuwait.

"Once we were chased on foot by some of their (Iraq) soldiers," he continued. When asked about the danger he laughingly said "They didn't have any weapons."

When asked how he felt when he heard the war had ended he said "happy and relieved." He stated that he couldn't really believe it was over until he was on the plane coming home on April 30.

Ms. Francis told the Journal, McGaga received a Bronze Star for Bravery, "or something like that," he modestly said.

Pvt McGaga was sent to Saudi Arabia on Feb. 16 from Ft. Lee, Virginia, where he was stationed. He returned home April 30. Following his leave, he will be stationed at Ft. Stewart, Georgia.

At the present time, he is visiting in Muleshoe with Ms. Francis. He was initially from Lubbock.

He said that he probably joined the service "to see the world. He now feels that he has seen enough and asked to be stationed in Texas upon returning home, but it didn't work out that way.

Heart Disease Should Not Deter Healthy Habits

By Sandra Avant

A recent study indicating that eliminating heart disease would increase an average person's life span by only three years should not discourage good health habits.

A healthy diet is important for all, especially for those at greater risk of heart disease, said Dr. Mary Kinney Bielamowicz, nutritionist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"The research also reportedly showed that individuals could dramatically increase their life spans with healthier habits," she said.

The study, published in the April issue of the journal Circulation, noted that average life spans would increase by a few months or years if some major ailments were eliminated.

However, the researchers said that even though average increases were small, the gains for individuals could be greater, especially if healthier habits prevented occasional deaths from heart attacks at age 40 or 50.

The study, authored by Dr. Joel Tsevat of Boston's Beth Israel Hospital, was based on a computer simulation developed by Dr. Lee Goldman of Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston and Dr. Milton C. Weinstein of Harvard School of Public Health. The researchers cited controlling blood pressure, reducing cholesterol, losing weight and eliminating smoking as ways to increase longevity.

The number one killer in the nation --heart disease-- claims about 500,000 lives each year. More than 40,000 Texans die from heart disease annually.

"Complications from uncontrolled high blood pressure can lead to heart disease and stroke," Bielamowicz said. "May is national high blood pressure education month, so it's a good time to get that blood pressure checked."

According to the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, some 58 million Americans have high blood pressure (140/90 mm or higher) that warrants monitoring, some form of therapy or antihypertensive medication.

High blood pressure is a particular threat to minority populations, especially black Americans, Bielamowicz said. One in every three blacks has high blood pressure, and less than half of those are on high blood pressure medication.

The prevalence of high blood pressure increases with age, she said. For example, 14 percent of Americans age 25 to 34 have high blood pressure, compared to 65 percent of those 65 to 74.

"More men than women suffer from high blood pressure, but women are more likely to be aware of their condition and have it under control."

More recently, cigarette smoking and excess weight have been identified as risk factors for stroke, she said.

In most cases, high blood pressure can be controlled by following diets low in sodium, cholesterol and fat, taking medication (if prescribed), losing weight, exercising regularly and limiting alcohol consumption.

High blood pressure has long been established as the key risk factor for stroke--the third leading cause of death in the United States. "However, unlike some illnesses, hypertension has no visible symptoms, which is why it's so important to have your blood pressure checked," Bielamowicz said.

Adults with normal blood pressure should have it checked at least every two years. People with high blood pressure and those on antihypertensive medication need to get checked more often.

When having your blood pressure measured, the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute suggests following these steps to get a more accurate reading:

- Sit five minutes with your arm resting on a table and feet flat on the floor.
- Make sure your arm is supported at the level of your heart.

- Avoid eating, drinking anything other than water, or smoking 30 minutes before your blood pressure is measured.

- Empty your bladder before the measurement is taken.

- Inform the doctor of any medications you are taking.

- Take two readings, then average them, as national standards suggest.

- Keep a record of your readings to learn your usual blood pressure.

- Learn how to control your blood pressure by diet, exercise and medication.

Poems Wanted For Contest and Anthology

Poems are now being accepted for entry in Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum's new "Awards of Poetic Excellence" poetry contest. Cash prizes totaling $1,000 will be awarded, including a $500 grand prize. The contest is free to enter. Ten percent of the contest's net profits will be donated to three organizations: American Heart Association, American Cancer Society, and the Sierra Club.

Poets may enter one poem only, 20 lines or less, on any subject, in any style. Contest closes July 31, 1991, but poets are encouraged to send their work as soon as possible, since poems entered in the contest also will be considered for publication in Poetic Voices of America, A hardcover anthology. Anthology purchase may be required to insure publication, but is not required to be eligible for the prizes. Prize winners will be notified by September 30, 1991.

"If you are a new or emerging poet, we especially want to see your work," says Jerome P. Welch, Publisher.

"We are looking for sincerity and originality in a wide variety of styles and themes. In fact, many of our contest winners are new poets with new ideas."

Poem should be sent to Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum, Inc., Dept. G, 203 Diamond St., Sistersville, WV 26175.

To the People of Muleshoe:
In the early 1960's Bill Bradley was the band director at Muleshoe High School. In 1984 while teaching in Big Spring, Texas, Bill passed away. This July the Texas Bandmasters' Association will induct Bill into the Texas Bandmasters Hall of Fame. A portrait of Bill along with a file about his accomplishments will be on display at the Texas Music Educators Building in Austin.

I would appreciate anyone in the Muleshoe Area having any old programs or letters directly relating to Bill's tenure that would like to donate these to be kept in this file or future generations to see to send them to me. If you have a personal note you would like to write about your friendship with Bill, please feel free to do so.

I do need to have all materials by June 15th.

Thank you in advance for your help.

Sincerely,

Computer Model Helps Improve Pesticide Testing

A new computer model developed by two Texas A&M researchers may help reduce pesticide runoff and leaching into water supplies.

That's good news for anyone concerned about the environment, especially chemical companies that pour millions of dollars into their searches for environmentally safe compounds one of the model's developers said.

PRE-AP, a synthesis of computer programming and agricultural databases, should help chemical companies meet ever more stringent standards for agricultural chemicals, said Ray Griggs, an assistant research scientist at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Pesticides can leach into groundwater supplies or run off into surface water at varying rates, depending on a number of factors. Not all pesticides will run off or leach, and the federal government regulates others to make sure they have what it considers acceptable rates of leaching and runoff to avoid harming humans, fish or wildlife.

Current pesticide labels specify on which crop, at which rate and in which period a pesticide may be used, but future labeling will likely have specific soil-type and precipitation requirements, Griggs said.

For instance, a label might specify that a pesticide could be used only on soil with at least 20 percent sand, 3 percent organic matter and an annual precipitation of less than 800 millimeters.

"A tool like this will allow us to look at more specific registration, and almost everybody agrees that's the direction we're going in," Griggs said. "It will become a much more specialized market."

Griggs and Jan Estes, a computer programmer at the station, put together PRE-AP to help test the rate at which various chemical compounds run off soil or leach into groundwater. PRE-AP is both an acronym for Pesticide Registration and Environmental Assessment Program and an abbreviation for the concept of preapplication testing of pesticides.

The program contains databases on 10 major U.S. crops and simulates the "fate" of pesticides over 15 years of random weather for the 20 most common U.S. soil types for each crop.

Griggs said PRE-AP may be the first such computer application that takes into account the effects of weather, chemical half-lives, time, crop types and crop management, and varying soils at multiple sites on pesticide runoff or leaching.

The model is unique because it uses existing sets of data on various factors--which would be difficult for one researcher to gather--and in its ability to present simulated results graphically, he said.

The model allows simulated testing of new pesticide compounds with less expenditure of time and money. That should please chemical companies, which usually spend at least seven years and between $20 million and $40 million testing various compounds before bringing a single new registered pesticide to the market, according to the National Agricultural Chemical Association.

Built around a widely used program called the Groundwater Loading Effects of Agricultural Management Systems, or GLEAMS, PRE-AP combines data that normally would be collected by experts in several fields, including agronomy, hydrology, meteorology, chemistry and plant physiology, among others.

"With this, one person doesn't have to have the expertise to sit down and come up with numbers or data for the entire system," Griggs said.

Chemical companies might start with several hundred potential chemical compounds when beginning development of a new pesticide. That's why a simulation of chemical runoff or leaching before chemical synthesis and field testing is so valuable--it can help rule out many compounds, some of them potentially harmful, before they are developed further and produced.

Development of PRE-AP took place mostly at the experiment station's Blackland Research Center in Temple, where Griggs and Estes are based. It was funded primarily by Sandoz, a Swiss-based multinational firm with interests in pharmaceuticals, pesticides, chemicals and dyes.

Dr. Rakesh Jain of Sandoz Crop Protection of Gilroy, Calif., which received the first copies of PRE-AP in November 1990, has been working with the model to develop a new herbicide. He said the company started with more than 1,000 compounds from a single series of chemical compounds and has narrowed the group to 30 for more extensive testing with PRE-AP.

PRE-AP tests will help select a half-dozen or so compounds for field testing, Jain said.

It helps us select the environmentally safest compounds from the 30. We can't test all 30 in the field, because we have limited quantities," he said, adding that large-scale testing is very difficult to manage.

Seeking the most environmentally compatible compounds has become the norm in a business which, in the past, focuses primarily on pesticidal effectiveness, he said.

The model could still use even more development, Jain said. If it took into account soil pH levels, clay contents and how temperature and moisture affect pesticide degradation, it would be both more sensitive and useful, he said.

But the company is pleased with PRE-AP, because it has saved both time and money, said Jain. Although the company can't be sure exactly what it has saved, he said, "It's definitely going to improve our selection process."

Undetected Bone Infection Can Be Serious

Undetected bone infection associated with pressure ulcers in spinal cord-injured patients can lead to serious complications and, in rare cases, death. A detection procedure, known as bone biopsy, is currently being investigated at the Houston Veterans Affairs Medical Center.

Researchers are studying ways to accurately determine whether patients who have had pressure ulcers for more than one month and who have not responded to treatment have bone infection.

"Pressure ulcers are erosions in the skin and soft tissue that usually affect the buttocks, thighs, and lower back. Two-thirds of all spinal cord injured patients develop them," said Dr. Rabih Darouiche, principal investigator at the Houston VAMC and an assistant professor in the departments of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation and Medicine at Baylor College of Medicine.

If left untreated, ulcers that are complicated by bone infection may grow larger and the infection can spread throughout the blood stream.

In diagnosing bone infection, tests such as bone x-ray, bone scan, or blood tests are generally prescribed.

"The problem with these tests is that they do not specifically detect bone infection and may give a false reading,"

Darouiche said.

The only way to assure an accurate diagnosis is to perform a bone biopsy; a procedure that requires sticking a needle into the bone and removing a small piece for evaluation. If there is infection, patients may be treated with antibiotics.

If surgery is needed to close the ulcer, it may not be successful if the bone infection is not cured," said Darouiche.

Half-way through a two-year study, Darouiche has found that bone biopsies help to improve the healing of pressure ulcers and that results from tests other than bone biopsies are often inaccurate.

So far Darouiche has followed 20 patients in the study, found by the Department of Veterans Affairs. He plans to examine 20 more participants in the next year.

Ribbon Cutting For Blackwater Draw Historic Landmark

The public is invited to attend the ribbon cutting for the Blackwater Draw National Historic Landmark archaeological site at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday, May 28.

Blackwater Draw is the type-site for the Clovis culture which is the earliest documented record of man in North America. A tour of the Research Building and site will follow the ceremony. A walking trail is available for those wishing to hike the one-quarter mile to the South Bank and view an archaeologist at work taking conservation measures to protect the archaeological deposits.

The site is located on New Mexico State Highway 467 between Portales and Cannon Air Force Base. To get to the site, travel one mile east of Portales on U.S. Highway 70 to and turn north and proceed five miles. The entrance to the site, located on the west side of the road, will be indicated by a sign. From U.S. Highway 60-84, turn on State Highway 467 between Cannon Air Force Base and Clovis, and proceed 12 miles to the entrance gate.

Some believe today's dresses are too flowery and it might be wise to stick to more classic or conservative dresses--for BEACHED... and forgotten!

This old forgotten boat is almost buried in the reeds. Can this boat in any way be compared to our talents? What of these talents that God has given us? Have they been beached, forgotten, buried?

Heaven expects us to help in this matter of creating a better world where brother helps brother by using to the fullest extent the talents He has bestowed upon us. God always provokes and prods mankind to do good works, and accomplish great things. And He says that if we dedicate ourselves to this matter He will help. But the decision to use our talents and develop them is our choice.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH

THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Eat At Mom's

Saturday night with the gang at the neighborhood diner. Your favorite song plays on the jukebox, as you dig into a basket of golden fried shrimp and a plate of hot, fresh fries smothered in ketchup.
Suddenly...you're a successful business person with a home, a family, two cars, a health club membership and a leather attache case. But, you must confess, you've never outgrown your appetite for those wonderful deep fried diner foods.
Relax. You're not alone! Generations of Americans count crispy deep fried foods among their all-time favorites. There's something about these restaurant treats we all find absolutely irresistible.
But it isn't necessary to trek back to the corner diner to satisfy those cravings. Everyone can enjoy authentic-tasting restaurant favorites right at home, with Presto electric deep fryers specially designed for convenient, accurate and safe home use. They range in size from the small, single-serving FryBaby® to the family-size FryDaddy® and the GranPappy®--perfect for entertaining.
With these handy appliances anyone can serve up popular "eat out" foods in short order, while enjoying the luxury of staying in. The proper frying temperature is automatically controlled for perfect results every time.
Home deep fryers also make it easy to adapt this popular cooking method to the creation of some sophisticated take-offs on traditional diner foods. Imagine, for example, a Sunday brunch of piping hot French Toast Sticks dipped into homemade Strawberry Butter. What a heart warming way to take off the "big chill" on a wintery weekend!
Next time you get a craving for great deep fried foods, don't head for the diner, head for the kitchen and a fast, easy Presto electric deep fryer. The jukebox and the old gang may be missing, but you certainly won't miss out on the tastes you love when you stay home and "eat at Mom's!"
