Bull Town Bulletins

By Bill Ellis

THE RECENT MAYORAL election in Chicago once again has focused attention on a problem that continues to haunt the nation: the black vs white issue.

Although the two participants, Bernard Epton and Harold Washington publicly attempted to deny that the campaign had race as its central issue, the fact remained that in truth, this was the main issue for most voters.

For a number of years, Chicago has been called "the most segregated large city in the nation," and race differences have created more than a few problems.

The election was termed by some observers as a "no win" situation. "If Washington tries to show that controlling city hall means something, the white ethnics will throw him out. If he doesn't, his own black constituency will be even angrier," was one comment.

A lot of racist statements were made during the election, not necessarily by the candidates, but another political observer said "the people who are so worried about having a black mayor will wake up the next day and see that the sky didn't fall."

But Washington, as mayor of one of the country's major cities, has his hands full. Having won a close, bitter race, he immediately has the task of proving to the 48 per cent of the voters who voted for Epton that he can be "their mayor," and attempt to draw the city back together.

The election of Washington has spurred interest by the blacks in having a presidential candidate in 1984.

It may not happen in 1984, but sooner or later it will. And we shudder to think of the type of bitter nationwide campaign that might evolve.

It would be nice if we, as a nation, could face matters on their merits, and not on the basis of color. But unfortunately, this is not always the case, by and large.

Every so often, wife Carol tells me "We're still fighting the Civil War in this country." And in some respects, I suppose we are.

AWHILE BACK, Leon Grissom was telling us about a trip he and his wife had made to South Texas, and in the process had come through San Antonio and visited the Alamo, the "Cradle of Texas History."

"Every Texan should be required to visit the Alamo at least once a year. They also ought to visit the state capital in Austin at least once every five years. If they don't do either, their 'sentence' should be to have to visit Houston," said Grissom, tongue in cheek.

CONGRATULATIONS to BHS youngsters on their fine showing in the spring UIL meets.

Bovina placed second overall in the District 5-AA meet with 151 points.

The school's contest play won district, and these youngsters along with several others qualified for the regional meet.

In addition, we understand that the Fillies' golf team won the district meet.

Hopefully, we will catch these kids for a picture of the regional qualifiers but due to their being involved in so many things, we have missed for the second week.

Sales Tax Check Dips Slightly

State Comptroller Bob Bullock today sent checks totaling $33.7 million in local sales tax payments to 974 cities who levy the one-per cent city sales tax.

The City of Bovina's payment for the period was $578.63, which was down from the payment of $1,063.87 for the same period a year earlier. However, the city has received $6,763.87 to date in 1983, which is a 7.62 per cent gain over $6,284.48, which had been received at the same time a year ago.

Parmer County as a whole received $6,495.75 for the current period, an increase over the checks totalling $5,063.75 a year earlier. But for the year, the county's receipts of $38,731.55 are down 13.5 per cent over the same period in 1982.

"Statewide, these checks are down more than 3 per cent from last year," Bullock said. "This follows the downward trend we're seeing in state sales tax receipts. For the first time in 21 years, we've seen a drop in the number of sales tax dollars collected from year to year. We've found the oil and gas industry pays about 30 per cent of our state sales tax, either directly or indirectly, and the hardest hit areas of our state are where the local economy leans heaviest on oil and gas."

Bullock said studies in his office show as much as 40 per cent of local sales tax receipts in Houston come from oil and gas companies or their employees. "This would explain why Houston's local sales tax receipts are running 11 per cent behind last year," Bullock said. Houston received the biggest check in the state--for $6.6 million.

Other cities that depend heavily on oil and gas, or on trade with Mexico, continue pulling down statewide collection totals. Midland and Odessa receipts are running 27 per cent behind last year and El Paso is now more than 15 per cent behind 1982 totals.

Bullock also sent April rebates to the state's two Metropolitan Transit Authorities. The Houston MTA received $6.9 million, compared with $8 million last April. The San Antonio MTA got $1.1 million compared with $914,000 last April.

The April checks were for taxes collected on sales made in February and reported to the Comptroller by the end of March.

Accident Injures City Man

Jerry Ward, an employee of Parmer Liquid Fertilizer, narrowly escaped serious injuries last Wednesday when the tank on which he was standing collapsed.

According to the managers, Jerry was standing on a steel batcher tank trying to get potash fertilizer out of another tank below.

An air pocket in the potash released and caused a sudden force of 35 tons of potash to fall. The force caused the straps on the braces to break and the batcher tank fell on top of the potash tank.

The impact threw Jerry clear of the tanks and luckily he was not injured much more than he was.

Injuries Ward suffered included a broken leg and both legs are now in braces. He had many bruises and cuts but was treated and released from the Clovis hospital. He is now convalescing at his sister's home in Olton and will be off work for some time, according to friends.

Youngsters Participate In Event

A number of Bovina youngsters participated in the Cystic Fibrosis bike-a-thon and the "Journey for Sight" walk-a-thon last Saturday.

Seven-year-old Wayne Stormes walked eight miles in the walk-a-thon.

Lions' member C.E. Trimble rode his mule 20 miles. All of the participants had sponsors who had pledged to pay a certain amount for each mile walked or ridden.

"We appreciate very much the participation of everyone in the event, because the money will go to very worthy causes," said Harry J. Charles.

TOP PARTICIPANT...Peggy Faulkenburg, right, was honored as the "Participant of the Month" of March, by the Body Connection. Debra Beauchamp of the Body Connection makes the presentation.

Aggie Muster Is Slated In Clovis

Former students of Texas A&M University will assemble in Clovis, New Mexico on April 21 for the annual Texas Aggie Muster, announced chairman Max Crittenden.

The Muster activities will begin at 7:30 p.m. (Texas time) at the Cannon Air Force Base in Clovis, according to the chairman.

Crittenden said the Muster is open to all former students and their families, parents of students and friends of Texas A&M.

Texas A&M is in its "Second Century of Greatness." During the last 100 years, Texas A&M has grown from a small Land Grant college to one of the leading research and educational institutions in the nation, Crittenden reports.

The Aggie Muster dates back to the mid-1880's and has been held annually since. More than 500 Musters will be held around the world this year, Crittenden said, "wherever Texas A&M former students live or work."

During wars, the Aggies mustered in foxholes, on the battlefield, aboard ships, in airplanes and in medical hospitals. In World War II, a Muster was held on Corregidor shortly before the Japanese captured the island.

Every Muster ceremony is the same, Crittenden reported. The Texas Aggies pay their respects to all those who are absent, because of death, since the last Muster. When the names of the honored dead are called from the Muster Roll, a friend of the deceased answers, "Here."

Telephone Co. Starts Long Distance Policy

As of April 1, 1983, coin telephone users wanting to charge a long distance call to a third number will be subject to having the charges approved by someone at the third number.

The verification procedure is being initiated to help eliminate fraudulent billing of long distance calls and ensure customer protection from having unauthorized charges appear on their monthly statements.

Under the new procedure, if an individual at the third number does not answer and approve the charges, the caller will be asked to provide alternate billing, such as another third number that will approve the charges, a valid calling card, a collect call or correct change to pay for the call.

DEFINING COMMUNITY

AUSTIN — Texas is a very large and diverse state. This fact adds much to our appeal but can also provide for some problems. Through the fine judges in the Panhandle and South Plains, it has come to our attention that currently there is a discrepancy in the way in which our state's courts and juries define what is obscene and what is not.

It seems that when defining obscenity, the Texas Penal Code requires juries to use "contemporary community standards" as a benchmark. This sounds very reasonable, as opinions vary between communities as to what is obscene.

However, because this definition is so broad, our appellate courts have decided that the "community" spoken of is the entire state of Texas. A jury of local people must decide if the questionable materials are acceptable somewhere in our community, Texas. If they are, then they must be acceptable everywhere in Texas. Because of this, at a trial in our District when someone is charged with selling obscene material, it is admissible in court to show that similar material is sold every day hundreds of miles away in Houston. We do not feel that this is right. To get back to what we feel is the true meaning of this term, community standards, we have introduced a bill in the Texas Senate which will define community standards as being those standards in the county in which the alleged offense occurred.

This change will allow juries to decide what is obscene in their county and not have to be subject to what is thought elsewhere in Texas. This measure does not in anyway define obscenity or restrict the sale of use of anything; it only allows the people in the individual counties to decide what they want sold in their local stores. We feel that this was the intent of the law and we are trying to get back to it so Texans can decide what type of community they will live and raise their children in.

Texas is large and diverse, and we all share from the many beneficial factors this state offers. However, we feel that the counties should not suffer because of this diversity by having contrary opinions forced upon them. We want to know what you feel about this. Please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, Box 12068, Texas Capitol, Austin, Texas, 78711 or call (512) 475-3222.

On The Farm In Parmer Co.

By SETH RALSTON
 "Check Soil Temperatures Before Planting"

In many cases the early bird does get the worm. But when it comes to spring planting, farmers may want to use a little restraint and take a look at soil temperatures before cranking up their planters.

One of the keys to getting spring crops off to a good start is to heed soil temperatures, cautions Seth Ralston, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Soil temperatures have been shown to have an important effect on how well seed germinate. Planting in cool soils often leads to poor seed germination and poor crop stands. Plants that do come up often lack vigor for early growth. And this opens the door to early season disease and insect attacks.

Ralston advises farmers to begin planting only after the danger of a late frost is past and the soil has warmed to a temperature favorable to the intended crop.

Farmers also need to keep attuned to weather forecasts prior to planting. A sudden change in weather conditions following planting can be detrimental to the crop, particularly a cool, wet spell that can lower soil temperatures drastically.

Just when is it safe to plant what crop?

Average minimum temperatures (at the four-inch depth) for planting are as follows: corn, 50 degrees; sorghum, 55 degrees; cotton,

CEILING FANS. 52-inch. Antique brass. $169 in the box at Wilhelm TV & Appliance, 601 Main St., Friona, Texas. Phone 247-3035. 37-tfnc 65 degrees; and soybeans, 70 degrees.

Hardy vegetables such as onions, cabbage and potatoes can be planted once soil temperatures range between 45 and 50 degrees while warm-season vegetables such as tomatoes, melons, beans and peppers need soil that has warmed into the 60's.

With early season planting, particularly when soil temperatures are still marginal, farmers need to pay particular attention to using high quality seed, fungicides and other seed protectants, and adjusting seeding rates, notes Ralston.

How do farmers keep abreast of changing soil temperatures?

Ralston points out that daily readings are taken at various locations throughout Texas in cooperation with the Extension Service, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and individual cooperators.

As temperatures are collected, they are included in daily agricultural advisories issued by the Agricultural Weather Service Center for each of the regions. The advisories are fed into the NOAA (National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration) weather wire by teletype to be received by the AWSG radio network as well as commercial radio and television stations.

Specific temperature readings for about 50 locations also are distributed daily through regular weather service channels.

Keeping tabs on the weather and soil conditions can help farmers get off to a good start with spring planting, believes Ralston. With the high cost of farm inputs, it's information that should be put to good use.

Around The House In Parmer County

By LAURA JACOBS
"Consumers Important To Economy"

President Reagan has declared the week of April 24 as National Consumers Week. In his declaration, President Reagan states that we must "fully recognize the crucial role consumers play in our economy."

Most of us know what government, agriculture, industry, and labor contribute to the economy. But we don't often recognize how we as individual consumers contribute to the economic health of the nation.

So the theme of this year's National Consumers Week is "Consumers Supply Demand." As consumers, we are important to the economy because we create a demand for products--from homes to housewares; a demand for services--from medical care to auto repair; and a demand for information--from cost comparisons to safety information.

Consider how many stores, businesses and services in our country would close if it was not for the demand of the consumers who live here.

But it is not enough to simply recognize that consumers are important. We need to work at being more effective consumers to make our economy function at its best.

In the kick-off ceremony for National Consumers Week, Louis V. Gerstner, Chairman-Elect of the Joint Council on Economic Education, said there is a "strong need to improve the economic literacy of the American consumer as the country's economic environment becomes more complex and difficult."

Any consumer who has tried to figure out the advantages of different types of bank accounts, read the energy usage labels on major appliances, or understand a warranty, can appreciate Mr. Gerstner's comments. Although consumers now have greater choices in making purchase decisions, the increased amount of consumer information that goes with those choices can be confusing.

According to Virginia Knauer, Director of the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs, the answer to this problem is consumer education which will "help us to function as competent, creative consumers."

For nearly 70 years, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has provided consumer information and education. But you don't need to wait for a National Consumers Week to take advantage of this service.

For more information on consumer programs and materials, contact your county Extension Office, on the second floor of the Courthouse in Farwell, phone 481-3619.
