A KANSAS OUTRAGE.

An Innocent Man and Woman Nearly Killed by a Mob.

A special dispatch from Eldorado to the Kansas City Times says: The details of the mob trial under lynch law of Alonzo Edwards and his wife at Rosalia of the alleged murder of Henry Bloomer's 2-year old child, as detailed in these dispatches on Saturday night, are of the most revolting character, and reveals a story of human treatment seldom, if ever, heard of even on the borders. The child, it appears, was left in the care of Mr. and Mrs. Edwards. while Bloomer and his wife went to work in the fields last Tuesday, and that evening the child was missing and a search by the neighborhood on Wednesday and Thursday failed to reveal any trace of its where. abouts. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards were not sufficiently active in the search to satisfy the minds of some and consequently suspicion was aroused and finally a mob took charge of them, one portion taking Edwards and the other his wife. Mrs. Edwards is a woman of very nervous disposition, and when commanded to confess the crime, under penalty of hanging if she did not, finally said she bad killed the chi d accidentally and that the body was in the creek. A search failed to reveal it, when she was again taken to the nearest tree and, having no statements to make, was pulled up and kept suspended in the air until her face was black. She was then lowered, and injured by an electric car running off the when brought to the leader he told her that if she didn't tell the truth she would be hanged until dead and her husband burned at the stake. The woman was too badly frightened to Spokane Falls have been robbing the fund speak and assuming her silence to be volcontributed for the relief of the sufferers > nearly dead. After reviving her they were about to draw her up again, when the father of the missing child interfered, saying if they had killed her the body of the child could not be found. She was then placed in charge of a goard. In the meantime that portion of the mob which had Edwards in charge attempted to extort a untary, the mob again suspended her until confession from him. He, too, protested his innocence and was strung up twice until nearly dead.

Friday night the prisoners were placed in the jail. From that time until this morning a mob varying from 500 to 150 has continually surrounds the jail clamoring for the lives of the accused, but the sheriff has kept them at bay. Early this morning the missing child was found alive and well sitting on the doorstep of a farmer near Rosalia. Where it had been all this time is a mystery. It is supposed that it was kidnapped and returned when it was found that the excitement of its disappearance was causing a mob.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards have been released. They are still suffering from the effects of the harsh treatment received, and an attempt will be made to prosecute the leaders of the mob.

Wyoming Notes.

The engineers of the Wyoming, Salt Lake & California railroad, which is a Union Pacific short cut from Evanston, Wyo., to Salt Lake have nearly finished making up the road's profiles. The heaviest grade is near Evanston, where it is eighty-two feet to the mile. The grade for the rest of the way is thirty feet. A 3,500 foot tunnel will pass under the summit of the dividing range. Five months' work is calculated upon to drive it.

The Boulangists Crushed.

The Paris correspondent of the London Times says the election in France Sunday resulted in a crushing defeat to the Boulangists, who returned only 21 members and whose representation in the new chamber, after the re-ballotting, will not exceed 36. The Conservatives elected 131 members, and they will get 30 more. The Republicans returned 218, and will secure over 100 more, making their total strength between 325 and 360, against 220 or 223, representing the whole reactionary Boulangist coalition. The success of the Republicans and defeat of the monarchy and Cæsarism is a happy fact. The result of the election puts an end to the Boulangist-monarchist conspiracy.

Report of the Acting Commissioner of the General Land Office.

A BIG YEAR'S WORK.

The annual report of Acting Commissioner Wm, M. Stone of the General

Land Office has been submitted to the Secretary of the Interior. During the year 70,161 agricultural pa tents were issued, covering 11,791,119 acres of land, an increase over the preceding of more than 3,000,000 acres. Mineral patents to the number of 913, covering an acreage of 17,096 were issued, There were patented for the benefit of railroads under the law 425,046 acres of land and under swamp land grants to the States 259,721 acres. State selections under educational grants were approved to the extent of 132,330 acres and lands to Indians patented under the various acts in the amount of 159.: 9). The to tal cash receipts of the office from sales of land and fees were $9,270,225, a decrease of more than $3,000,000 as compared with the previous year. During the year surveys were accepted to the amount of 4,544,372 acres, principally in Dakota, Montana and New Mexico. Commissioner Stone calls attention to certain allowances made to deputy surveyors by the First Comptroller of the Treasury in the years 1886-7, which, in his opin ion, were grossly irregular and a palpable usurpation of the powers and duties specially belonging to the Conmissioner of the General Land Office. The report refers to the unsettled condition of private land claims in New Mexico and Arizona, and the urgent need of Congressional action to settle titles in these Territories. Referring to the act of March 3, 1889, which authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to adjust each of the railroad grants and if any of them have been erroneously certified or patented, to commence proceedings to cancel them, the report states that of the pending selections 21,660,846 acres have been suspended, awaiting action

Attention is called to the fact that more than 80,000,000 acres of land have been claimed under the swamp act in various States, Florida alone, while having a total acreage of but 37,931,520 acres, having lists filed for 22, 221,469 acres as swamp land.

"There can be no doubt," says the report, "that large quantities of land amounting to millions of acres have been patented to the States erroneously as killed. swamp when in fact they were and are good agricultural lands.

The report recommends the repeal of all laws relative to public timber and the enactment of a general law, plaip, concise and unmistakable in meaning.

Fewer fraudulent entries have been made during the year than for many years past, owing to the increased vigilance, but sev. eral cases are mentioned in the report where syndicates sought to obtain coal lands by fraudulent means, and in one case had they succeeded, the commission alone would have amounted to $55,000. The opening of Oklahoma is referred to as the most important event for several years in the administration of the land of-

The St. Joseph Fair Building Destroyed by Fire.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 15 .- The main building of the New Era National Exposition was burned to night. There were 5,000:people in the structure when the flames broke out, but there are no fatalities or serious injuries reported. The fire started just after the entertainment in the great amphitheater had closed.

The building is situated about two miles from the city, and the fire department were anable to be of much assistance. From present indications the loss will reach hearly $250,000, as this building contained all the valuable exhibits of the fair, in cluding the steel car works, machinery of various kinds and costly works of art. The loss is irreparable, and will seriously cripple the success of this great undertak

Crushed to Death.

A late telegram from Quebec says several thousand tons of rock slid from Cape Diamond, at the end of Dufferin Terrace, to Champlain Street, 800 feet below, demolishing in its course seven dwellings. Up to midnight six bodies have been taken from the ruins, Thomas Farell and two of his children, also two children named Burke and one unknown child. Farrell's mother-in-law, Anen, and her husband are still in the ruins. About twenty-five persons have been removed from the debris badly injured. Some have broken arms and legs and others are badly crushed and multilated. It is supposed that at least fifty persons are yet under the ruins. The debris covers the road in a solid mass some 300 feet in length and fifteen to twenty-five feet in height. It is impossible to say at present how many are dead and wounded. Everyone is working heroically and under difficulties as the night is intensely dark and the electric light wires have been pros.

The mass of rock detached from the cliff's side left a vacant space of extraordinary dimension under Dufferin Terrace and that great promenade is now unsafe. Thirteen corpses and sixteen wounded have been taken out. The pecuniary damage will be large. A force of 600 men are now working on the debris.

Later-Rescuing parties are hard at work at the scene of last night's catastrophe, but they are meeting with accidents, as huge masses of rock still continue to fall from the cliffs.

The loss is very great. Some of the workmen who were deprived of their homes, also lost their furniture and other effects, even their summer earnings. Many are left virtually penniless at the commencement of a Canadian winter.

The shipping office in the Dominion Government building has been turned into a temporary morgue. Over 20 bodies are lying in it. It is difficult to identify some, so much have they been disfigured, and crushed. Several persons who were reported missing have turned up, but it is thought that there are ten or more victims still under the rocks. A complete list of the injured cannot be made as yet, as they were removed to the different hospitals and their friends' houses.

The citizens are sending in money to relieve the immediate distress among the homeless women and children.

Tue site of the landslide of last night is almost identical with that of the one which occurred in 1841, when eight buildings were demo ished and thirty-two persons

It is thought the King's bastion on the citadel will have to be removed, as it is now near the edge of the rock, with unsafe crevices in front of it. As a precautionary measure all communication with the bastion has been cut off and morning and evening guns will no longer be fired from

About 20,000 persons have visited the scene of the disaster during the day. Thousands crowded into the morgue and siezed every point inside and outside the building where a glimpse could be had of the bodies of the victims. Many women who obtained entrance had to be removed in a fainting condition, the mangled bodies being a sight to try the nerves of the strengest men. It has been decided to use small charges of powder to break up the huge boulders covering the roadway, as it is certain there can be nothing living be-

While the workers were busy clearing away the debris of crumbled buildings faint groans were heard at intervals from under a huge pile of rocks. Volunteers were concentrated at that point, and after three hours' hark work the bleeding body of Joe Kemp was extricated from the mass of rock. The poor man is in apitiable condition. Both legs are broken at the knees, the left arm is fractured above the clbow and several ribs are fractured. He cannot live man hours. Later his wife's body was taken out of the wreck, her head being almost severed from her body.

Farther away another hideous spectacle was offered to the sight-the corpse of a young woman (Mrs. Lawson), who had been admired in life for her beauty. Her body had been crushed almost flat, her abdomen ripped open and her entrails scat tered about. Shortly after viewing her remains her husband became a raving ma niac, and it is doubtful if he will ever re-

MEETING OF BLUE AND GRAY.

Organization of the Chickamauga Memorial Association.

A grand barbecue and the permapent organization of the Chickamauga Memorial Association took place last week at Crawfish Springs, Tenn., on the edge of the famous battlefield, fully 25,00) persons being present. The blue and gray were together and the past forgotten.

Governor Gordon, of Georgia, made an address of welcome in an eloquent vein. In the course of his speech he said:

"Speaking for those I am called to represent, I pledge their earnest co operation in the sacred mission which convenes you and in all things which pertain to the peace, welfare and unity of the American people. In their name I proclaim their eternal fealty to the American Constitution, to the American Republic, to the American Union of Stars, from which they withdrew for their safety, but which now, that causes of dissensions are gone, they will loyally and brave y defend for their future protection. We are here to unite with you in a final and eternal sepulchre of sectional hostilities."

The address was repond to by General Rosecrans, who spoke feelingly of the grand sight presented by old Confederate and Federal soldiers sitting side by side en. gaged in friendly converse. He prayed God that the day would soon come when the last vestige of feeling over the war would be eradicated, and believed the scene was the augury of the glorious success of a project to make the Chickamauga battlefield a national park.

A permanent organization of the association was then projected. The officers are: President, General J. T. Wilder of Tennessee; vice president, General Joseph Wheeler of Alabama; secretary, General Mascus J. Wright of Washington; treasurer, General J. S. Fullerton of St. Louis. A board of directors was elected with an equal number of members from the Union and Confeder.

EXCITEMENT IN OKLAHOMA.

An Attempt to Hold an Election Prevented by Troops. A special from Oklahoma City, I.T.

says: To-day was one of the most exciting days in the history of this city. About six weeks ago a faction of citizens, after failing to induce the co meil to call a convention for the purpose of framing an amended charter, framed one themselves nd called and election for the people to vote on it. As it plovided for the immediate ousting of the present city government, the United States troops, under authority of General Merritt, prevented an election. Two or three weeks ago the charter prepared by a committee authorzed by the council was voted down. The original charter faction then cal ed an election for their charter for to day again without the consept of the mayor and council. General Merritt again sent orders to Col onel Snyder to prevent the election, and this morning Captain Skiles, in command of the troops here, carried out the command at the point of the bayonet. Polls were opened early in the morning and s large crowd assembled. A number of persons endeavored to vote, when Captain Stiles threw his company across the street and gave the command to charge. T. 6 company encountered no opposition to their progress. The leaders of the charter faction then rushed to another place and declared the polls opened again. Captain Stiles repeated the charge and again cleared the street. R. Glasgow then mounted a box, called the crowd around him and advised them to disperse. Continuing he cen ured the interference by the military, when Captain Stiles charged the crowd for the third time and brought the speech to an abrupt close.

The second ward polls were then de clared open in another part of the city. Captain styles proceeded to the new voting places. The leaders of the charter faction after consulting with Captain Stiles, advised the crowd to disperse. The advice was followed and the exc tement subsided. Nine of the leaders were afterwards arrested on a charge of conspiracy against the United States and the city government.

In the vicinity of Monte Vista, San Luis Valley, there are this season 250,000 bushels of wheat. The north and south farms of the Travelers Insurance Company have over 10,000 bushels between them. The Cheyenne fair last week was well attended and generally successful, but the Denver News correspondent writes that the exhibition of agricultural products was not large, but the samples were very good indeed. It is to be regretted that Wyoming farmers and gardeners do not evidence more interest in the Territorial fair. There were many strangers here did not give the Territory deserving credit in the line of agriculture. In India one cubic foot of water per second is made to irrigate 250 acres. This is one seventh the amount of water that the average Colorado man requires, or rather uses on his fields. In Italy one cubic foot. of water goes over 81 acres, which is also are economical than our system demands. Talk about the economy of water in Colorado and what does it amount to? The Carbondale correspondent of the Denver News writes as follows: Patsy Rogers has the finest oats raised in this part of the country, twenty acres yielding him 1,600 bushels, which weigh forty-five pounds to the bushel. Everyone pronounces them the finest ever raised in this district. Harris Brothers have just finished thrashing. They have 2,500 bushels of oats which they will put on the market in a few days. Farm hands are scarce in this section now. Trashers are offering from $2.50 to $3.:0 per day. Considerable fruit has been raised in this vicinity this year and no one has trees over three years old. The follow ng is some of the fruit produced to some extent in this neighborhood: Apples. peaches, pears, plums (blue and red), Siberian crabs, grapes, raspberries and strawberries. The latter are raised extensively. Nearly every farmer has an orchard and some have very large ones.

One feature which has brought Larimer County prominently forward is her blooded stock, a large and general display of which was made on the ground, at the sixth annual meeting of the Larimer County Fair Association, which opened on Tuesday of last week, and closed on Friday night, having held the most successful fair ever given by the Association. As usual the live stock was a credit to the county. The herd of Holstein-Friesian cattle, property of Birks Cornforth, of Denver, manager, A. G. Cornforth, consisted of seventeen valuable animals; and the large number of blue ribbons proved the merits of the stock. L. R. Rhodes of Denver won sweepstakes for the best ten head of cattle, on his Galloways from "Iverness" stock farm. In Agricultura! Hall the display was very creditable to the farmers of Larimer County, and brought crowds to see the large "lay out" of garden truck and pantry sto.e. A. N. Berlin, Sept. 22.-The maneuvers at Hanover terminated yesterday. The Post published a report on the maneuvers, which is conclusive as to the necessity of smokeless powder henceforth for the artillery and infantry. The corps using smokeless powder got within 200 yards of the enemy without the latter being able to determine the distance. The latter were often taken on the flank and were unable to guess whence the fire came. Had it been a real battle they would have been annihilated. The war office is preparing a supply of smokeless powder for all the troops, including the second class landwehr. The latest per-fected smokeless powder leaves no sign after firing by infantry and only a slight gray mist after the firing of the artillery.

Mr. Richard J. Hinton, of Professor Powell's geological survey, in speaking of the irrigation question in New Mexico, says that it was shown by evidence given in Santa Fe before the senate committee that there are about 700,000 acres of land in this territory under cultivation chiefly by the small ditch system, wasteful even of the limited surface supply in vogue among the native farmers. It was also shown that even without storage a large part of the present supply goes to waste. If water was obtainable, it was agreed by all the competent witnesses that at least 40 per cent. of the total area of New Mexico could be reclaimed to agriculture, and all agreed that one acre of irrigated land would produce at least four times as much of all-round crops as an acre of arable land within the humid sections of the country.-Optic.

Cost of Sinking Artesian Wells.

From the Santa Fe New Mexican. The actual cost of sinking artesian wells, it may be of interest to know, is small. A well 250 feet deep costs but $500 to $600 where improved machinery or hand power is utilized. Beyond that depth the cost increases rapidly. A 500 foot well will cost $1,500 to $2,000, and even $3,000 where difficulties of any kind are encountered.

In those parts of the state where the sinking of artesian wells is a regular business the rates charged are uniform. first 100 feet, 50 cents a foot; for the second 100 feet, 75 cents a foot; for the third the depth reached. The cost of the casing depends entirely upon the size of the well. Some are but two or three inches in diameter, and from that they vary to ten inches. The pipe will cost from 20 to 50 cents a foot, according to size and the material of which it is constructed. OASES IN THE DESERTS.

It would not be fair to dismiss the subect of artesian wells without some mention of the marvelous work accomplished Colorado and Mojave deserts.

This has been amply demonstrated at Indio, in the heart of the Colorado desert, the company referred to is reclaiming where an artesian well has been sunk and lies in the southeastern part of New by the aid of its water a tract of desert Mexico. It enjoys a semi-tropical climate has been reclaimed upon which luscious and possesses a soil which, by irrigation, fruits and vegetables are produced far could be made very productive. The in advance of any other portion of the Mojave desert, and by the aid of artesian | will be a paradise for Rocky mountain water several thriving settlements have fruit growers. It would seem to be exbeen commenced. Other wells are being sunk, and those who are behind these enterprises are confident that there is an abundance of water to be had, and that it is only a question of the depth which must be attained. They are prepared to sink anywhere from 1,000 to 2,000 feet in the search for water, and are fully confident of success.

PROBABILITIES IN NEW MEXICO.

Other numerous instances of success, and, mark! scarcely a failure, can be given not only for California but other places as well, but too lengthy for the scope of any newspaper article.

The question that interests us is: Can the same thing be done in New Mexico? Unhesitatingly the answer is yes.

The many ranges of mountains, their high peaks collecting enormous quantities of vapor and forcing condensation in the shape of rainfall and snows, giving be estimated.

The constitution is made and signed, and it is our hope that congress, where it will be submitted the coming session, sinks quickly to the bed rock in the porous sands, while the evaporation in our dry air is something enormous, to be driven again to the mountain ridges, again condensed and fall upon the upheaved declivities that are the prime sources of the underground flows that thus seek their way to some large river far below or to the sea.

In short, possessing all the character istics of "arid lands," which, however great may be the annual rainfall, always do mainly an undergeound business. WHERE TO SINK.

The answer to this which in the major ity of instances will prove true, is, anywhere! The elevation of any locality above the sea level cuts no figure at all Thus, near Alamosa, in Colorado, at an elevation of 8,000 or 9,000 feet above the sea level, artesian flows are found at less than a depth of eighty feet, while in California in some cases artesian wells are flowing whose mouths are below the surface of the sea level. A general rule has been found by experience, that the nearer the source of the supply the deeper must be the well. But this does not al-ways hold good. One rule does always hold good, if you go deep enough any-where water flowing to the surface will always be found.

The Las Vegas Optic had a picture in its columns the other day which it claimed was a likeness of Judge Long. The picture looked something like the patients of the Chinese doctors displayed in the Rocky Mountain News, only very badly scared. In fact it looked like anything else but the pleasant countenance of our worthy chief justice, who writes the editor the following:

An examination of a map of Colorado and New Mexico would show that the Pecos valley lies nearly directly south of Denver. A railroad running from Denver to the point where the Pecos river crosses the southern boundary of New Mexico would be a very nearly direct north and south line, and it would folby them in that region known as the low the river from near its head to the point named.

A Plowing Match.

The following plowing match held at Wheatland, Ill., recently, is not only interesting, but we suggest that a similar arrangement would be a good thing for this valley. Good plowing is necessary to successful farming. The ladies ought to share in the premiums for cooking and needlework; a meeting of that kind would be quite interesting and beneficial:

The annual plowing match was held at Wheatland, Will county, yesterday. Fully 5,000 people were in attendance. novel feature, instituted by James Patterson a number of years ago, has grown from a small to a gigantic affair. The plowing to-day was superior to any heretofore done, and showed much science throughout. Requirements of the Homestead Law. TYLER, Texas, Sept. 19, '89.

Ed. Register, Roswell, N. M. Dear Sir:—I wish to ask you, for my own information and on behalf of friends how a person can acquire a homestead on the public domain, and what are the requirements of the law after filing has been made.

The land laws of Texas are so different from those of the United States, that one who is a resident of this state must send out of it for information.

Yours Etc., JAMES B. OWEN.

We have received several applications from residents of Texas for such information as is sought by this correspondent, and deem it best to give it to the public through the columns of the

Any person who is a citizen of the United States, (or has declared his intention to become such,) and who is the head of a family, or is 21 years of age, is entitled to enter lands under the Homestead Laws. Unmarried women and widows may enter lands under this law.

Each entryman is entitled to enter 160 acres of land, (non-mineral,) by sub-divisions which must be contiguous-thus chinery for the working of the ore in that he may enter 40, 80, 120 or 160 acres.

Fees on 160 acres, $16. On 120 acres, $14. On 80 acres, $8. On 40 acres, $6.50. This fee to be paid upon making appli-Entryman must establish actual resi dence, (in a house,) upon the land, within six months from date of entry, and such residence must be continuous and actual for a period of five years, following settlement. Proof may be made at the termination of five years, or two years further time will be allowed; but proof must be made within seven years, or the entry will be held for cancellation.

After the first payment, above stated, there is no other, or further, expense to the homestead claimant, except clerk's fee for taking testimony, at time of proof -say $3 to $6.

The law requires actual and constant residence and cultivation. The law construes cultivation to mean raising crops, of any kind, raising stock or dairy pur-

The law provides for "leave of absence" from a homestead claim. Such leave may be obtained to any settler, to be granted by the register and receiver of the local land office of the land district wherein the land is situated, upon application under oath, and corroborated by two witnesses, showing that, by total, or partial, destruction, or failure of crops, sickness, or other unavoidable casualty, he is unable to secure a support for himself, or those dependent upon him, upon such lands. The absence must not exceed one year. Desertion or abandonment, of an entry for more than six months works a forfeiture of the claim. DIGAN JACKET, Woolen, Cot-"Building a shanty and staying in it over is not, under any circumstances, a com pliance with the homestead law," reads the rulings of the Secretary of the Interior. The law does not recognize two homes to the homestead settler, and especially where the greater portion of his time is spent away from his claim, and he merely visits it occassionally to acquire a right to prove up and acquire land. The law looks upon these practices as attempts to defraud the government. punishable with the pains of perjury, both in case of claimant and witnesses. in case final proof is made, and such tescinity of Roswell told a certain young timony is elicted as will secure title to the claimant.

> An Immigration Agent on Wheels. From the Las Vegas Optic.

The people of Dona Ana county have been for some time preparing a carload of horticultural and agricultural products to be taken to various western fairs as an advertisement of the resources of the county, and the car passed through Las Vegas this morning in charge of J. K. Livingston as the representative of the New Mexico bureau of immigration and Eli Newsom as the representative of Dona Ana county. The car was well filled with a highly attractive display of grapes, apples, pears, wheat, corn, and in fact specimens of all the different varieties of fruit and agricultural products of the county, that could be obtained at this season of the year, tastefully and conveniently arranged on shelving and tables. On one side of the exterior of the car and extending its full length, was painted in large black letters on white cloth the legend: "A carload of arguments in favor of statehood," and on the other: "Dona Ana county's agricul-tural exhibit." The car goes first to the abdomen, passing through the groin Denver.

SOCIETY GIRLS AT TENNIS.

Wealthy New York Beautles and Their Skill With the Racket.

The Bewildering Way in Which They Manipulate It-"Striking Out" in a Style That Would Make Mike Kelly Envious-Gay Costumes on the Tennis Court.

"She's a decidedly awkward creature. Just see how clumsily she handles her racket. One would almost think she had never been in a tennis court before."

And the fair but critical matron indicated with a wave of her fan, a young girl who was taking part in the game and certainly not without embarrassment. She missed play several times and her partner, a tall young fellow with a high-bred air about him, had all he could do to keep her from "faulting" at every stroke. It was evident she was a beginner.

"I should hate to give my partner so much trouble," resumed the critic by my side, as she rocked her chair lazily on the piazza from which we overlook ed the players. "Every young lady ought to know tennis and indeed almost all do. I make it a point with my own daughters to have them fairly proficient in whatever amusement is popular in society during the season, and tennis is the rage just now you know. Everybody plays.

"Rather intricate for a beginner, isn't it?" I ventured to suggest.

CHIC COSTUMES.

"Not a bit more so than any other game in which young people, particularly young girls, can appear to advantage. Croquet was too ridiculously slow, you know. Besides it didn't allow any freedom of movement as tennis does. One doesn't get tired handling a racket, especially if one has a clever player for a partner."

can manipulate a racket with a dexteribegan to be affected by American girls. It was the rage in London and all through England when the first American Lawn Tennis Convention was held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel here in 1881, and when the National Association was organized. Since that time tennis clubs have sprung up everywhere, the best known among them being the New York Tennis Club, which is now three years old, and among whose members are many well known society ladies. including some of the shining lights of the Four Hundred.

Almost any fine afternoon "the Meadows," on One Hundred and Second street, immediately west of Fifth avenue, are made a centre of attraction by the brilliant play of the young uptown fashionables who turn out in droves to share in the sport. With their striped dresses of bunting, their cute little shoes and Scotch caps, they enter the field merry as crickets, swinging their racket bags and prepared to capture the honors of the court from the gentlemen who are. marshalled around in "blazers," canvass shoes and the loosest and coolest of flannels, to oppose them. And they make a pretty picture moving about swiftly and gracefully on hither and thither in the exciting intricacies of the game. Other favorite grounds of the "upper ten" are Mount Morris Park, at One Hundred and Twenty-first street, the Central Park Common, the New York Athletic Club grounds at Traver's Island, and the splendid new grounds of the Country Club at Throgg's Neck-the latter being the most exclusive of all. There are also well patronized grounds at St. George on Staten Island, where the elite of Richmond county and many fashionable parties from this city play when the heat of town drives them to seek the sea breezes. The New York Tennis club has its own grounds in Weschester county near Baychester villiage, and there game is played, not as a mere dilletante amusement, but in true scientific style, all the rules of the national Association being rigidly observed by the players. The different armories are used by some of the clubs as winter grounds.

Notable among the experts is Miss Hargous, who was interested in the recent performance at Millionaire James M. Waterbury's amatuer cirque near Baychester, when five hundred of New Yorks' best known society people witnessed the extraordinary show given by a number of versatile and fun-loving young maidens from Fifth and Madison avenues. Miss Hargous plays a remarkably strong and well-balanced hand at tennis, is the coolest in the "court," delivers the ball with the facility and strength of a crack pitcher on the diamond field and "strikes out" with the unerring accuracy of the fam-ous Mike Kelly himself. She is not strikingly handsome, but is finely proportioned and is exceedingly graceful in her movements.

MISS PERKINS AND MISSBREESE.

The Misses Remsen are also known as specially skilful with the racket and seldom lose a stroke. Both are distinguished by their easy carriage and grace in the field. They wear the regulation tennis suits, which show off their fine physique to advantage. Sir Ronald Cameron and sister are both noted for their will at play and when here seldom miss an opportunity to enoy the game. They play in the English style, which differs in some minor details from the rules laid down for American players, but they are both regarded as strong additions to any side of the 'court.'

Miss Mariquita Serrano, the hand some daughter and heiress of the rich Cuba sugar merchant, is one of the finest players in New York and is a most attractive figure in the field. Slender and seemingly delicate, yet as agile as a kitten, she never lags in the game, and is a keen sportswoman and dangerous opponent. She is equally elever either in a three-handed or a our-handed game, and when the field is large she shines by contrast with the weaker players.

The Misses Potter, daughters of Howard N. Potter, and near relatives of Bishop Potter, are both brilliant players and are beautiful girls, be-

Miss Griswold, whose brother is a noted amateur horseman and patron of athletic sports, is another remarkably handsome figure in the tennis court. Miss Breese, a rich young heiress, with the contour and physique of a Cleopatra, great lambent, dusky eyes, and a soft, peach-like complexion, is one of the queens of the field and is a most attractive figure behind a tennis net. Her playing is a combination of rare skill and gracefulness. The Tennis is, in truth, the pet fad of the Misses Hoyt and Morgan, Miss Bronupper ten just now. It would almost son, and ex-Mayor Hewitt's daughters seem as though society had gone wild are also notable players. The Misses over it. The fashionable young girl of Hewitt are equally at home with the the period is a crack tennis player and violin or tennis racket. Still another young lady who plays a remarkably ty equal to the society young man and strong game is Miss Perkins, the with infinitely more grace. It is just a daughter of a wealthy retired merlittle over eight years since lawn tennis | chant, whose sweet face and winning ways and trim lithe figure, while not conspicuous in the field, nevertheless hailed by the party on whose side she is enlisted for the tourney.

MISS SERRANO.

One of the crack players of the New York Tennis Club is Mrs. H. G. Badgeley, the handsome wife of a prominent Wall street broker. She is possessed of a splendid physique, is a tireless player, and as fine an illustration of the perfect development of the femithe smoothly mown grass, or darting nine figure by outdoor exercise as could be imagined. She has captured several prizes at different tournaments during the past three years. Other noted players in the same club are Mrs. Brock, a pretty blonde; the two Misses Hobart, Miss Voorhees, a slightly-built girl but a capital sender and striker, and Miss Bailey. The best record at play has been made for the ladies by Miss Platt, a Poughkeepsie girl, who is both remarkably hand-some and enormously rich. Naturally she is much sought after wherever the lime-dust is spread for the sport.

> None of these ladies affect the extreme style of dress at tennis. "Blazers," while they are intended to be worne by either sex, have thus far been confined almost exclusively to masculine use, in fashionable sets, on account of their conspicuous appearance. The popular toilet for the ladies is a dress of blue or striped goods or fiannel. surmounted by a snug-fitting Norfolk jacket or a neat cutaway of the most gossamer materials. The dress is "kilted" up, permitting the short, em-broidered skirts to be seen, beneath which one gets just the merest revelation of a cool-looking silken stocking above the dainty little rubber-soled tennis shoes, or canvas slippers. The dress must fit snugly, yet so as to permit the freest action of the limbs.

The game of lawn tennis is now so popular that it does not need description here. Complete equipments vary in cost from $12 to $50, the latter including everything necessary for the enjoyment of a four-handed game in the most approved way.

VISITORS TO THE FAIR.

French People from the Country Who Wearthe Costumes of Their Provinces.

Those who go to the exhibition now will rarely see a Parisian there, says a Paris letter to the Boston Transcript. The crowd is made up of provincial French and foreigners from all parts of the world. These provincials are not of the hungry, energetic, keenly competitive sort who come here to seek every description of employment, but are people who intend to return to their distant towns and villages when they have spent the money which they have set aside for their amusement in Paris. Many of them are very comfortably off, even wealthy from the middle-class French point of view, but so simple in their ideas and so conservative of their local customs that they come here in their provincial dress, which is always more picturesque and often far more becoming than the Parisian style of costume, which, with slight divergencies, is that of the civilized world. The differences of costume in France are nowadays almost entirely confined to women, who are more conservative in this respect than men, notwithstanding all that has been said about the society woman being a slave of fashion. The Bretons, however, are an exception; they will adhere in the main to the dress which was worn in their province 200 or 300 years ago; but they are so tor-mented by artists that it is hardly to be expected that they will persevere in making themselves peculiar far into the next century. A farmer from Finistere or the Morbihan in short blue jacket, braided with gold thread and bearing the additional ornament of large brass buttons, is an attractive figure at the exhibition. Everybody has seen him in pictures and can easily recognize him. Of all the provincial costumes worn by women in France the prettiest and most graceful is that of Arles. In that little town at the mouth of the Rhone, Greek Roman, and Arab blood, well mixed, reproduces sometimes one ancestral type, sometimes another, and gives France very beautiful women. They must be looked at, however, when in their first youth, for when they are 60 they are apt to be as yellow as a kite's foot. To be seen at its best the costume must be worn by a young bourgeoise, who can afford to put good material into it. The most characteristic feature is the little pointed coif, standing up on the back of the head like an extinguisher. Arlesiennes in full dress, which includes a great deal of silk, a dangling fan, and plenty of jewels, are to be frequently seen there now.

Symbolism of Flowers.

In all ages, and among almost every people, flowers have been adopted as symbols, types and emblems of human combination, affection and loyalty. The reader need scarcely to be reminded of the red and white roses which were the badges of the Lancastrian and York rivals to the English throne.

But the symbolism of flowers dates back to periods far older than the time of the war of the roses, The ancient nations had their emblematic flowers. The special flower of the Hindoos, for instance, has always been the marigold. The Chinese display, as their national flower, the gorgeous chrysanthemum.

The Assyrians for ages proudly wore the water hly. Egyptians delight most of all in the heliotrope; though the papyrus leaf, used by the ancient Egyptians in place of paper, may also be regarded in a high sense as the symbolic plant of the land of the Nile. The Greeks and Romans were in the habit of distributing the flowers in their luxurious gardens among their gods and demigods, just as in yet remoter times the sweet basil and the moon flower were sacred to Asiatic deities.

In the Roman custom, to Juno was devoted the lily, to Venus the myrtle and rose, to Minerva the olive and the violet, Dianna had the dittany, Ceres the poppy, Mars the ash, Bacchus the grape leaf, Hercules the poplar, and Jupiter, naturally, the monarch of trees, the oak.

So we may infer that among the Romans the lily and the oak were the emblems of power; the myrtle and the rose of love; the olive and the violet of learning; the ash of war, and the grapeleaf of festivity.

Even the days of the week, as we use them now, are named from deities who had each his special flower. The sun (Sunday), sunflower; the moon (Monday), daisy; Tuesday (the god Tui's day), the violet; Wednesday (the god Woden's day), the blue monkshood; Thursday (the god Thor's day), the burdock; Friday (the goddess Frea's day), the orchis, and Saturday (Saturn's day), the horse tail.

We also find that in our time the sacred days in the calendar of the English Church have all their flower or plant emblems, the principal of which are the holly for Christmas, the palm for Palm Sunday and the amaranth for All Saints' Day.

Monarchs and nations have often had their symbolic flowers. The thistle is the emblem of Scotland and the shamrock of Ireland. The fleur de lis is the badge of the royal house of France, and the amaranth of that of Sweden. The rose blooms forever on the royal coat of arms of England .- Florist.

A Raid Worse than Solomon.

A Pennsylvania paper tells of a man who was gored by an angry bull and severely injured "while passing through a cow pasture with a red flannel shirt on." We have been telling the farmers of this country for years that if this foolish and expensive decoration of cow pastures in bright colored flannel shirts wasn't stopped, somebody would get hurt. Now see what we told you.—Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

PRINCESS CHYKA. The Widow of a Celebrated Prime Minister Dies in an Alms-House. A princess and the widow of a celebrated prime minister has just expired at Gratz as an inmate of the city almshouse, says a Vienna letter to the New York Tribune. Twenty years ago the fame of Princess Marie Ghyka's beauty extended from the shores of the Danube to the banks of the Seine. Napoleon III. was one of her most fervent admirers, and there are doubtless many of those who took part in the festivities at the Tuileries and at St. Cloud during the closing years of the empire who will recall to mind the grace and leveliness of the wife of the Rumanian premier. A Tyrolese by birth, and of humble parentage, she had first attracted the prince's attention while acting as governess to the children of a wealthy nobleman at Bukharest. Finding that, as in the case of the Empress Eugenie, "the only road to her heart led through the chapel," he married her, much to the indignation of his relatives. The latter obtained their revenge in 1872, when the prince died very suddenly and unexpectedly, leaving his affairs in the most terrible confusion. By dint of an immen se amount of bribery and of political influence, the unfortunate widow was deprived of any participation or benefit in her husband's estate. Finding herself penniless, she in a moment of recklessness and despair forgot what was due to her rank and station and gave way to the temptations which her beauty caused to be held out to her from every side. She lived in turn with several of the bestknown members of the Austrian "jeunesse doree." Dissipation and increasing years caused her charms to fade, and a couple of years ago she was found starving in a tenementhouse of the suburbs here. A small sum of money was collected in her behalf and a room secured for her in the alms-house at Gratz, where she has just expired. Among those who lavished their wealth on her and who ruined themselves for her sake, while her beauty still lasted, was an Italian named Morelli, who was stated at the time here to have acquired in New York the fortune which he spent on her.

The Dread Unknown.

A patrolman on Rivard street came along to a grocery on his beat about 11 o'clock the other night and found a large watermelon on the platform, while leaning against a post a short distance away was an aged colored man. The street was deserted, and the officer could not understand what kept the melon and the negro apart. "Isn't that a temptation to you?" he asked the man. "I dun reckon it is, boss. I'ze bin lookin' at dat mellyum fur de last half hour." "And why didn't you take it?" "Bekase, sah, I'ze had some sperience wid white folks in my time. Might possibly be dat de grocer dun forgot to take dat mellyon in when he closed up, but it's a good deal mo' possibler dat he poured in a dose of jalap an' left it out yere to be walked off wid." "But how are you going to know?" "Dat's what makes my heart ache, boss. If de mellyon ar' all right, den I'ze lost a golden opportunity. If it's bin dosed, den I hain't bin played fur a sucker. It's de onsartinty dat's kept me around yere till my knees ache an' I feels like hevin' a chill."-Detroit Free Press.
