A Contrast in Banking

Several thousand years ago, agriculture was the chief occupation of the people. Commercial pursuits were limited. Safety for funds was about all the people required. There were no banks with steel safes and thick walled vaults.

Safety for money was had by turning it over to the priests who kept the gold and silver in the temples. The Greeks and Romans considered that religious sentiments kept their money secure under the protection of the priests.

Usually the money was safe in the temples, but frequently the wars and invaders sacked the temples of all riches.

Note the advance in banking today. The people who deposit their money get many material benefits aside from the mere safety—they can issue checks, buy drafts, borrow, come to the banker for advice on their financial matters.

This bank has modern methods in bookkeeping, means to protect funds from fire and burglary are used, mechanical devices operate to give customers promptness and accuracy.

Our service is the acme of hundreds of years of banking experience; the best methods have been selected. The requirements of our customers are studied, their needs are met by satisfactory service.

NEW ALFALFA FARMER

Louisiana Man Buys Tract of Savage Bros. Ranch and Will Plant Big Acreage of Alfalfa.

The sale of 143 acres of the Savage Bros. land eighteen miles west of Brady, to E. L. Boyce of Louisiana, the past week, constitutes one of the best "boosts" for the Brady country which has happened recently. In the first place the land was "raw;" absolutely no improvements, and the price was $32.50 per acre, and was paid in spot cash. This indicates that Mr. Boyce is well-to-do and a most desirable citizen, but the best feature of the deal lies in the fact that Mr. Boyce, with his family, left their former home in Louisiana in a wagon, and traveled the entire distance slowly and carefully, stopping enroute wherever the country appealed to them and examining the lands and pricing same. After covering thus some five or six hundred miles, looking for a suitable place to make their new home, they picked upon McCulloch county as the place of all places, chose their land and bought it immediately. During the entire journey they found nothing that looked as good as McCulloch county, and this, we believe, is a fact that should be heralded abroad. They are here to stay and will build a home and otherwise improve their new possessions at once. The Standard is also informed that Mr. Boyce will seed a large part of his new land to alfalfa. He is an experienced alfalfa grower, and believes this soil peculiarly adapted to the plant, while past experience has taught him that no crop will yield a better profit. The sale of this land was effected through the land firm of W. T. Melton & Co.

STRONG FLOW OF GAS

Rochelle Man Strikes Three Stratas of Gas in Two Hundred Foot Well, With Good Pressure.

The Standard of Tuesday told of C. C. Curry, a farmer near Rochelle, striking gas in a well he was drilling last week. Mr. Curry was in town Wednesday after casing for this well, and gave out the information that the well had reached a depth of 215 feet and that three stratas of gas had been encountered, the last flow being strong enough to lift a man weighing 160 pounds.

The gas was piped up about fifty feet and set on fire Tuesday night, making a brilliant blaze about twenty feet in length. Many people have viewed the well, and some who have had experience in such matters have stated that the flow of gas is sufficient to be of much value.

We understand a company is being formed at Rochelle to make a thorough test of the field.

J. W. Morrow, the Melvin merchant, was in town Monday, and reports Melvin growing right along. Several thousand dollars worth of town lots were sold last week, and every indication is now that Melvin will make a mighty good little town. A lumber yard will soon go in, and a drug store is almost a certainty.

You take no chance when you buy a McCormick mower and rake. They cost a trifle more but think of the saving in the end. Broad Merc. Co.

Graduating Exercises.

The commencement exercises of the graduating class of the Brady High School were held at the tabernacle Saturday night, with a very large attendance. All of the five graduates acquitted themselves with honor, the musical numbers were fine, and the address of Hon. W. W. Hare, of Temple, was one of the most eloquent, forceful and thoughtful ever heard in this city.

DAVIS RANCH (Big Davis Ranch)

10,000 acres, 4 1-2 miles south of Brady. We will sell you any size tract you want from 100 acres up at from $10.00 to $25.00 per acre—one fourth cash, balance in ten years at 8 per cent interest.

You can get a good improved farm or land unimproved, as there are 1,500 acres in cultivation on this ranch.

Brady has a fine creamery and the Davis ranch is close to town. Remember, you can keep a few head of milch cows on this land and make an independent living. The milk will bring 17 cents per gallon, delivered in Brady, or the butter fat will bring 90 cents per gallon, and you can feed the skimmed milk to hogs and make easy money.

We are advertising this ranch in the north and east and it is going to sell. We are selling this land now right along and to farmers that know good land. We sold 160 acres last week to Mr. Kauf from Fayette county, who will put in a store and blacksmith shop, and try to get a post office, also a gin. This is 8 miles from Brady of the London road.

Remember, the price is the cheapest in the country; the cash payments are small; the time is long, and the farm land is the best, black, valley land to be had in the country.

We are exclusive agents for this ranch. Call on us and we will show you over the land and cut you out a farm, stock farm or small ranch to suit you.

If you have land to sell, list with us and we will get you a buyer.

WANT THEIR ANSWER

Texas North and South Railway Promoters
Anxious for Brady to Sign
Up the Contract.

The railroad committee was in session Monday afternoon considering a communication from the Texas North and South railroad people, the promoters of which road are beginning to close up contracts along the route. They wanted to know what Brady was going to do, and the committee authorized the reply that Brady was going to do her dead level best to comply with the requirements of the road. A letter was written asking the Coleman people to send on at once data concerning the exact route of the road through McCulloch county so that the committee could get busy in the matter of procuring right-of-way. It is foreseen that the bonus and right-of-way are going to be hard to get just at this time, and it will be necessary for the people of the county to donate the right-of-way if the road is to be secured for Brady. It is thought that this can be so arranged, as the road traverses a section of country which not only stands badly in need of railroad facilities but wants them bad enough, it is believed, to donate right-of-way and perhaps some money toward the bonus.

The committee expects to get busy on the right-of-way as soon as the necessary data regarding the route is supplied.

SURVEYING NEW LINE

North and South Railway Sends Out Corps With Teams and Supplies.

Coleman, Texas, May 22.—The general office of the Texas North and South Railway Company in Coleman was busy this morning fitting out the surveying corps with teams and supplies, which left this afternoon for Fredericksburg and Gillespie, where they will establish headquarters, putting corps of surveyors in the fields, operating both ways from that city. Engineer Stebbins is in charge of the party, having two assistants and thirteen men under him. The preliminary survey has been run from Seymour to San Antonio, which is very satisfactory, and now the actual survey will be pushed through as rapidly as possible to the north terminal, and it is stated that grading contracts are to be let very shortly.

The surveying party above referred to passed through Brady Wednesday on their way to Fredericksburg. The outfit seemed to be well equipped for the work in hand, and did not tarry long in the city. It begins to look as if this road would be built in the near future.

Brady and the Brady Country

MORE than 50,000 bales of cotton marketed from wagons, season 1908-09, and 100,000 head of cattle shipped from Brady, 1908-09. Center of a trade territory fifty miles square. Finest farming lands in Texas. Brady has been for the past seven years the terminus of the Frisco Railroad, which is now extending to Menard on the southwest, and promises an extension to San Antonio on the south, via the towns of Mason and Fredericksburg. The Santa Fe Railroad is now building a line from Lometa into Brady from the east and on west to Eden, Concho county, and the southwest. This line is now under active construction, and the grades and bridges are being placed as rapidly as men can do the work. This road will give the great Brady Country a direct communication with Houston and Galveston.

Brady is near the geographical center of the state; 195 miles southwest of Fort Worth. County seat of McCulloch county, one of the best counties in Texas. Altitude 1700 feet, climate mild and healthful. Brady's population has grown in a few years from a few hundred to 3000. During the past year hundreds of residences have been built, and new industrial and commercial enterprises secured representing many thousand dollars.

Brady has an ice factory, bottling works, steam laundry, water works, electric lights with 24-hour service, telephone exchange, two National and one State bank with capital and surplus of $300,000, $15,000 school building and $8000 ward building under construction, fine public school system employing 15 teachers, seven churches, four big cotton gins, cotton compress, two fine oil mills, a $20,000 hotel, several big wholesale concerns handling groceries, hardware, furniture, implements and vehicles, one of the biggest automobile establishments in the state, five big lumber yards, two newspapers, and a full complement of all of the various business establishments necessary to a town with a big trade territory. City tax values over one million dollars and increasing rapidly.

The Texas North & South Railway Company, a newly chartered company, will build a road from Seymour, Baylor county, through Coleman, Brady, Llano and Fredericksburg to San Antonio. This road has adopted its survey and has closed tentative contracts with several towns and will close with Brady shortly. This is one of the most important lines that could be built in Texas, as it opens up an undeveloped agricultural country second to none in the state, besides giving access to the immense deposits of coal, oil and gas which are known to exist in Coleman and McCulloch counties, connecting up with the iron mines of Llano county, and giving a through freight service north and south which will be of inestimable value to the entire Central West Texas country.

These roads give Brady seven outlets by rail, all of which will undoubtedly be in operation within the next two years. Furthermore, Brady is situated exactly 'right' to be division point with shops and roundhouses for at least two of the roads. If Brady had no other prospects whatever, these roads would assure us of being a city of 15,000 people within the next five years. In addition to this, however, Brady is surrounded by the finest body of agricultural land in Texas. Land that knows no superior for the production of cotton, and all other staple crops.

Cheap lands surround Brady on every hand, the most productive in the state. The country is naturally adapted to stock raising, cotton raising, cattle and sheep. With such diversified interests, the great Brady Country offers to homeseekers the greatest inducements of any portion of the United States today. Land can be bought at from $10 to $25 per acre. The same quality of land in the north and east is worth from $75 to $200 per acre, and our cheap lands will produce a revenue equal to that produced on those high priced lands.

We desire to call your especial attention to cotton growing in McCulloch county. One man can work twice and three times the amount of land here as in sections further east, with less expense, and the yield per acre is greater here than there. Those desiring to find a location where they can raise cotton to the best advantage, free from the ravages of the boll weevil, are invited to investigate this statement. Brady has two oil mills, each built at a cost of $100,000, and a fine compress, which assures the best market prices at all times for the staple. Brady has already established her reputation as the best cotton market in Central West Texas.

McCulloch county produces cotton, corn, wheat, oats, millet, kafir corn, milo maize and all other farm products. Orchard and garden stuff of all kinds also grows abundantly. This is one of the finest fruit countries in the southwest. Cattle, hogs, sheep, goats, horses, mules and poultry—anything the farmer wants he can have in McCulloch county.

McCulloch county wants more farmers, more home builders, more industries of all kinds. Openings of various character right now. For further information address,

Three Straights From Fife.

Brady took all three games from Fife last week, the Wednesday game by a score of 7 to 0.
Thursday's game was rained out,
but on Friday the prettiest game ever played on the Brady grounds was enjoyed by a big crowd. The game went thirteen innings, Brady nosing out in the thirteenth by a score of 4 to 3.
For several innings the score was tied 1 to 1, and the players were on their toes the entire thirteen innings, playing high class ball.

After the excellent Friday game the fans expected something good for Saturday, but they were badly disappointed, although the score of 5 to 3 in Brady's favor ought to indicate a good game. On the contrary it was the poorest exhibition seen on the local diamond in many months, and there was not a single feature worthy of mention.

Brady, Texas, Friday, May 27, 1910.

BRADY, the busiest, bulkiest, best old berg in West Texas! Watch us grow!

THERE is not a county in the state in better shape just now than McCulloch. The recent rains have been just right for all crops.

BRADY is already receiving some good advertising abroad as a result of the Commercial Club's campaign for good roads, and while this campaign is just beginning we hope to soon have it well launched and under way. The petition will be presented to the commissioners court at the earliest possible moment, and the court has promised to convene at any time to take action. The district in which it is proposed to issue the bonds is now being formed, and all signs at the present time point to a successful election upon the question.

WHILE everybody in Brady wants that 4th of July celebration, no one seems to want to take the lead in the matter, and the time of the commercial club secretary has been so taken up in other things the past week that he could do nothing. The Standard feels that it speaks the sentiment of the entire town and county when we say that the celebration is wanted badly, and we feel sure that by next issue we will be able to say that the preliminary steps have been taken. Let us have the biggest blowout ever held in this section of Texas, give it wide advertising and bring a record breaking crowd to Brady to help celebrate the Nation's greatest holiday.

From Supt. Stallings.

Teachers, patrons, pupils and citizens take this method of thanking Bro. D. R. Hardison and the members of the Christian church at Brady, for the use of their tabernacle for the graduating exercises on the night of May 20th. We appreciate this the more because it necessitated the discontinuance of the meeting in order to accommodate us.

In delivering scholarships to Ernest Clyde Hall for having attained the highest general average, thus winning the highest honors of his class, I failed to award a scholarship in Baylor University, to which he was entitled through our affiliation with that institution. This was an oversight, caused by not having blank properly filed, and will be attended to at once.

SOME LIVE WIRE FLASHES

BY J. WALKER GREEN

Oh! But you should see the spreading fields of corn! And you should see the wide-spreading smile of the farmer as he looks upon them, stretch away in serried furrows, black as a cloud, with out flung arms waving and bending and beckoning, big with promise of a bountiful harvest and plenty of hog and hominy next winter. It is a "sight good for sore eyes," as the saying goes. If a farmer has plenty of corn it makes him as "comfy as comfy can be." He has about everything else that contributes to the creature comforts of farm life; fat horses, fat cattle, plenty of milk and butter, a pen full of fat hogs, and that means ham and red gravy, crowing hens and cackling roosters, and big, heavy, strutting turkeys, that mean a big thanksgiving feast in November and a big Christmas spread in December, which the good housewife takes such pride and delight in preparing, and to which the "sweet hubby" does such complete and perfect justice when he sticks his footy-tooties under the board. To raise plenty of corn is true farming, it is good farming, it is beautiful farming; thus "the true, the beautiful and the good," is written in the green of the corn and the gold of the fast ripening oats, so that those who run may read the "winning of the west" from the dynasty of King Cotton. Possibly the high price of hogs on the Fort Worth market; possibly the high price of meat and bread on the home market; possibly the influence of the Farmers' Union; possibly the sensing—though somewhat tardy—of putting all the eggs in one basket, has at last awakened the farmers to the wisdom of filling a corn crib and smoke-house of their own, instead of depending on the farmers of Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska to supply their families with the absolute necessities of life. The major balances on the merchant's ledgers, against the farmer's crops, are for meat and bread; sugar and coffee are quite minor items in swelling the totals, and clothing is also a comparatively negligible quantity. So when the farmer—the all-cotton man—has sold his crop, paid his merchant, and goes home with an empty, lonesome pocketbook, from which every vestige of hope seems to have taken wings and flown, then it is that he begins to realize that the facts and figures of this year's results are almost exact replicas of last year's methods and carbon copies of last year's results, and sees "as though through a glass darkly" perhaps, but nevertheless sees, that money is but the token of value, and not the value itself. That meat and bread are the real intrinsic values. That dollars are only mediums for the distribution and exchange of values without innate or inherent value in themselves. Mere dollars per se, would not satisfy the appetite of a goat, and a barrel of them could not take the place of a good warm blanket when a stiff norther blows. Farmers are swapping their birthright for a mess of pottage when they trade the possibilities of corn, hogs, stock, poultry and fruits for the cotton obsession. Really they've got the world by the tail with a down-hill pull if they but knew it. Talk about trusts and the high cost of living. Why should the farmer care a continental about the high cost of living, except in so far as it may bring riches to him in selling his surplus food to a hungry world? Given plenty of corn, meat, butter, eggs, fruit and vegetables, isn't he independent of all the trusts that ever were or ever can be? Let the farmers "lay down the shovel and the hoe"—the tools of his industry—and if there were none to take up the work, in a little while every factory would be obliged to put out its fires, every car wheel would be still, every store would be closed, every carpenter would lay down the saw and the hammer, every blacksmith would desert his bellows and anvil, every college, school and church in the land would be closed, the ships of the sea would not be in the harbors, and humanity would revert to predatory savagery for a living. Science, the arts, commerce, mechanics, the whole structure of civilization follows after and is dependent upon the plow for existence. It has been written that "civilized man cannot live without cooks," but to the writer it seems easy in comparison with doing without "something to cook."

Wrant in the depths of reflections like these, and enjoying to the utmost the sub-conscious beatitudes of vine-clad, sunlit lanes, visualizing beautiful pipe dreams of the McCulloch county of the future, I was awakened by an explosion that seemed to shake the earth from center to circumference. My first thought was that Halley's comet had "busted" us wide open and though my eyes were shut my second conscious thought was that I was on my way somewhere and traveling fast, and strangely enough, wondering in the language of Hashimura Togo, whether I had "become deceased" and was sailing 'mongst the spheres. Opening my eyes I saw my horse going down the lane like John Gilpin's steed, hitting the ground only in high places, but everytime he "hit" his hind feet twinkled within half an inch of my nose. I sat back a little out of reach and concluded that there was no immediate danger, as I felt sure I could ride as fast as he could run, and so was saying "let her go Gallagher." "Sam Hell!" (that's my new "boss") soon found out that the joke was on him, so concluded to make things interesting for me by stopping short and kicking everything to splinters. When the jamboree was over he was as naked and innocent of harness as a new born. Then I talked to him like a father, pointed him to the shining example of his distinguished predecessor, "Old Sandy," whose fame was abroad in the land. But Sam Hell is more kinds of a fool than any horse on the planet, and I doubt if I made any impression upon his gray matter (if he has any); however, I herewith promise him that if he attempts to give me another joy ride in celebration of his connection with a great newspaper, or tries to hitch my wagon to a star, without my consent, I will convince him that the facts of practical life are as frosty as the icicles on Peary's whiskers when he nailed the rag to the pole. I have convinced him of a good many things during our short acquaintance, but it took the hot end of a bull whip to work it's way to his intelligence. Still during his tuition I shall keep 22 calibre cartridges out of my smoke until he is sufficiently advanced to understand the damphool ways of newspaper men, and their pipe artillery.

If Sick
Don't risk even one single penny!
And I will tell you why I say this. It is because every package of Dr. Shoop's medicine is absolutely free if it fails. No one need risk even one single penny. Just think what this means to the suffering sick!
No risk, no expense, nothing whatever unless health first returns. For 30 full days, and without the risk of a single penny, you can use either of my two famous remedies—Dr. Shoop's Restorative or Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy. Then why take any chance whatever?
Why purchase any medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?
And besides, I am no stranger to you. My "No Joke" remedy plan has made Dr. Shoop's Restorative a household name in every drug store in the land. The "No Joke" remedy said, "We take no chance whatsoever."
For twenty years Dr. Shoop's medicines have become thoroughly standardized all over America. And I have benefited honest and responsible druggists in every city and village everywhere to accept my medicine and yours. These selected druggists are the only druggists with the sick—and the entire risk is mine alone.
But write me first for an order. I have all agents in almost every community—but all druggists are not authorized to grant the 30 day test.
So drop me a line, please—and thus save all disappointments and delays.
Besides, you are free to consult me by letter as you would your home physician. Do so freely and fully—if you desire. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost. Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan.
Besides, the books will open up new and helpful ideas to you. They tell of my 30 years experience at the bedside in homes and in Hospitals. All phases of sickness and relief are told of here. They tell of the "hidden" inside nerve" no larger than a human hair, but gives to the Heart its impulse. How the Stomach and Kidney each have their inside or power nerve. How these organs steadily falter when those controlling or master nerves begin to fail. How Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to those failing nerves, and rebuilds, and fits the Heart to restore the lost tone and power. I can surely help you—if it is within the power of medicine to do so. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now, while it is fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. A Constipation Remedy Free

There is no action of your daily life of greater importance than to see that your bowels move. They should move at least once a day naturally, and by that is meant without any help. If they do not move at least once a day you can consider yourself constipated and it is time you did something about it.

You will be glad to know there is a way out of the difficulty. Lemuel Landerelle, an old soldier at Quincy, Ill., Elmer McMullan, of Speed, Mo., Mrs. Monahan, of Stonewall, Miss., and many others were as you are now. But one day they awoke to the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin was curing their friends, so they bought it too and it cured them. Today they are loud in praise of it.

What Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin did for them it should do for you. Surely your constipation is no worse than theirs, one of whom had it since '61. It only remains for you to realize that salts are of but temporary good, and what you want is a permanent cure; that purgative tablets, cathartic pills and such violent things make a great show of doing something, but do nothing that is lasting. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific preparation, a laxative- tonic, a mild syrupy liquid that contains ingredients that not only cure the constipation, but tone the intestinal muscles so that they learn again to work without help. A bottle can be bought of any druggist for the small price of 50 cents, and there is a dollar size for families who have already found out its wonderful value in stomach, liver and bowel troubles, in old or young.

Send your name and address to the doctor and a free trial bottle will be sent you so that you can test it before buying.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Four of A Kind

Two American Gentlemen Make Love to Two Peasants In Brittany With Serious Results.

By ALLAN WRIGHT.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

One summer day two maidens of Brittany dressed in the costumes worn by the peasant classes, walking along a country road, came upon two young art students sketching. One was seated on a stool beside a bridge crossing a brook, at work before his touring easel, while the other was lying on his back on the grass near by smoking a cigarette. The two girls as they crossed the bridge gave a sidelong glance at the canvas on the easel. The artist was putting on the finishing touches and had succeeded in making a very pretty picture. One of the girls stopped for a moment and exclaimed under her breath, "How beautiful!" and was proceeding on her way when the artist stopped her.

"Will you not tell me," he called, "what it is in my picture that you like?"

"Certainly, monsieur," she replied in a very sweet voice. "It is the sunlight, sifted through the leaves of the trees, dancing on the water."

These two young men were George Allison of Chicago and Gilbert Wallace of San Francisco. It was Allison who addressed the girls. Wallace arose and joined the other three.

"It seems to me," the girl added, still regarding the painting, "that there is something wanting under the cottage on the bank in the background."

Allison looked up at her surprised. "You are right," he said. "I have omitted to put in the reflection of the house in the water."

This was the beginning of an acquaintance between the two Americans and the two girls. Their conversations were carried on in French, which the young men spoke tolerably well. Both the girls were comely, and it seemed to the men that there was something about them to render them superior to their class. Having been asked their names, they gave them as Jeanne and Fanchette. Jeanne, the one who criticised Allison's painting, was a brunette, Fanchette a blond.

Nothing can be more delightful than a flirtation between two girl friends on the one side and two men friends on the other, especially when there is no clashing in preferences. Allison and Jeanne paired; Wallace and Fanchette did the same. The four met frequently and walked and chatted, most of their intercourse being in company of the whole. The girls, who were circumspect, were not to be found by the young men separated, though when all met they would at times stroll in pairs in different directions.

The time came when the two Americans had entered upon this association with two peasant girls for a bit of pastime began to find that there was a serious side to it. Their communications grew more and more like lovemaking, and the girls gave a willing ear. In time the expression of pleasure and amusement gave way to a thoughtful cast. Were they falling in love? Were the girls giving away their hearts? The men could not marry French peasant girls. Yet would it be honorable, having won their hearts, to desert them?

Allison and Wallace consulted with each other over their position, fully realizing its seriousness, but making no effort to break with the girls before matters should be worse. Preparations were made between them to fold their easels and sketching chairs and go to Paris, from whence they came, and thus cut the Gordian knot. But when one was ready to go the other backed out. And so they drifted as in a boat toward a cataract.

They have a curious custom in Brittany. On certain fete days the marriageable girls appear in red petticoats with white or yellow borders round them. The number of borders denotes the portion the father is willing to give his daughter. Each white band denotes $20 per annum; each yellow band represents $200 a year.

One day when this double pair were together the girls said that one of these fetes was to come off and it would be pleasant for them all to meet there. Neither of the young men realized how far he had gone in his affair till the girl he was devoted to in a roundabout way hinted that he would learn just what dowry he might expect her to bring him. The young men agreed to meet the girls at the fete; then when the former were alone together they compared notes, each admitting to the other the hint he had received as to the information he could get as to the dowry his girl would bring him.

The matter now looked serious indeed. The two men spent much time—indeed, all their time—endeavoring to find a way out of the escapade, neither of them wishing to find such a way. They drifted into the hall as they had drifted into the affair itself, though they made a resolution to show the girls that they did not consider the affair of any serious consequence by doing considerable of their dancing with others. But they had been making such resolutions ever since the affair commenced.

"Dear little things!" remarked Allison to Wallace. "They will suppose us to be especially interested in the stripes on their petticoats."

"And if either of them can show a yellow band she'll regard the matter fixed beyond a doubt. Fancy you, with an income of a thousand, being caught by a dowry of two hundred a year!"

"And fancy you, heir to a big property, being caught by a couple of white stripes representing $20 a year each."

"Do you know what I think we deserve?" said Wallace. "We deserve to be roasted over a slow fire."

"You mean you deserve that. You made eyes at Fanchette the moment you saw her."

"You began it yourself by asking her to criticize your picture."

"Let's cut this fete and take the evening train to Paris."

"We'll take the train in the morning."

"Is that a go?"

"Yes. Here's my hand on it."

These words were spoken as they entered the dancing room. There were the two girls waiting for them.

"By Jove!" exclaimed Wallace. "Your girl has a double yellow stripe—four hundred a year. That with your thousand would enable you to live in this beautiful country and daub at your inclination."

"Yours has but a single white stripe. But it's just as well since you have a cool twenty thousand a year."

Each man walked up to the girl he was entangled with and asked her to dance. As Allison approached Jeanne she looked down to adjust the fall of her skirt and gazed proudly upon her two yellow bands. Fanchette, however, looked upon her single white one despondently.

The music was not bad, the girls looked very pretty, and between the dances there was moonlight outside. Somehow it seemed to each of these two young men that it could not be possible that the girl he was with was a peasant. There was just enough of his own thinking self left to make him understand that he was looking through rose colored glasses. Each man danced inside, then strolled with his girl out into a flower garden. The flowers, lighted by a full moon, did not appear more heavenly than the girl whose warm hand rested on his arm. When the ball was over and the two men friends went away together neither spoke for some time. Then Allison said:

"I've made an ass of myself."

"Same here."

"I've offered myself."

"Same here."

"I wish we could meet the fool killer on the way home."

"It would be the only way out of it."

"What are we going to do?"

"What we agreed last night—take the train this morning to Paris. There, away from these two girls, we may find some solution of the problem."

The next morning they breakfasted in silence, went to the train in silence and rode to Paris in the same unsolvable condition. Each had given his fiancée his address and begged her to write him at once and two or three times a day. On the arrival of the first mail that could bring a letter from Brittany each feared he would get a letter, and each was disappointed because he did not get one.

No letter came the next day nor the next nor the next.

"What does it mean?" asked Wallace.

"Don't know," replied Allison.

"I've a mind to go and find out."

"Like the man who jumped into the bramble bush a second time to scratch his eyes in again."

"You're right there. I won't go."

At the end of a week the two men were in a fever. Though they had probably been let out of the affair comfortably, they would have preferred some other way of being let out.

That's the trouble in such matters—each party prefers to do the breaking off. They were thinking of going back to Brittany to find out what was the matter when they met with a surprise. They received a card. It read thus:

Miss Grace Nettleton and Miss Leola Thorne would be pleased to see Mr. George Allison and Mr. Gilbert Wallace at a musicale to be given at 12 Rue de St. on the evening of Oct. 2 at 9 p. m.

"Who in thunder are Grace Nettleton and Leola Thorne?" exclaimed Allison.

Wallace said nothing for awhile. His eyes were glued to the card. Presently he broke silence.

"George, it seems to me there's a nigger in the fence."

"What do you mean?"

"I have a theory. It's this: Those two girls we have been courting are either American or English girls studying music in Paris. They went to Brittany for a vacation and for some reason best known to themselves—probably to better mingle with the people—assumed peasants' costumes. They just simply wiped the floor with us."

"You don't mean it?"

"I do. Look at their names. Nettleton and Thorne. I feel a prickly sensation all over."

"Well," exclaimed Allison, "my girl has made a bargain, and I'm bound to hold her to it."

"So I will with mine if I can."

The two young men, immaculately dressed, went to the musicale, where they were received by the two girls who had shared them. She who had been "Jeanne" wore two yellow silk bands around her skirt, while "Fanchette's" costume was decorated by a single white one. Jeanne turned out to have $200,000 in her own right, and Fanchette was heir to a million. They were both Americans.

The young men expected to see a pair of dancing eyes in each girl's head, but the triumph was well concealed. Though two pairs of lovers made a long wooing with many set backs, the affair terminated in a double wedding.

YOUR MEMORY.

If It Seems to Fail You Just Give It a Good Jogging.

Memory does not "fail" (except in loss of all the faculties); it simply gets weak and languid for want of use, just as the physical organs do. People often say "My memory is failing" when it is really as good as ever if they would give it a chance.

A word, a date, a name, an incident, comes up, or, rather, falls to come up when you want it. There seems to be no possible way of remembering it. You make two or three efforts, give up and say, "There's no use; it's gone from me."

Nonsense! It hasn't. It is there just as much as it ever was, only there is a lot of things over it. Keep at work, bring your will to bear upon it, try and try and try, and after awhile you can get it.

And, better, you will find that the exercise required in remembering it will help you next time and that a little toil and determination put together will accomplish wonders in the whole range of faculties.

Look over your memory, see where you are most deficient and exercise it in that respect. You can do it at any odd time, while you are walking, riding, resting after a day's work, listening perforce to a dull speaker. Don't let a few failures discourage you. The long corridor of recollection lined upon both sides with valuable material will be opened for you because of your impatience if you use it.—Exchange.

BARGAIN HUNTING.

The Strenuous National Game of the American Women.

There is always something impressive about a crowd that is swayed by a single emotion. You get an impression of force, says Mary Heaton Vorse in Success Magazine. These women, who a few moments ago had been quiet shoppers, formed a mob. They swayed and pushed as though moved by a common impulse toward a table where were the embroideries. From their throats came a little dull growl, a curious noise—the whisper of a mob.

The noise of a mob in joy or in anger or in fright or just its restless murmur as it waits is different from any other noise that comes from the human throat—quite distinct, of a curious animal timber. I heard it once on the occasion of the throwing of a bomb, again from a crowd waiting for a bank to open and a third time in a theater when fire had been called, and now here it was in miniature from a couple of hundred women waiting to buy ten cent embroideries.

They were poor women with shawls and baskets, women with babies in their arms, women with threadbare clothes carefully brushed, who must think before spending each dime in the dollar, but for once indulging in the great sport of American women—bargain hunting.

Edward Everett.

Edward Everett was one of the most purely literary of all American orators. Among the more eminent scholars and statesmen of our land no one has ever been more deservedly honored for intellectual power, purity of character, public and private, and for clearness and perception of judgment than Everett. To the efforts of Edward Everett more than to any other one person is to be credited the raising of funds sufficient to purchase the home of Washington at Mount Vernon. He delivered a lecture on the character of that great man more than a hundred times and gave the proceeds to the Ladies' Mount Vernon association. He personally placed over $60,000 in the treasury. It is probable that his oratory won for benevolent purposes at least $100,000.—St. Louis Republic.

The Oldest Reliable Date.

It used to be supposed that the most ancient civilization of which real records had been found dated from B. C. 3500. This had relation to Peru and its earliest known inhabitants, but Dr. Edward Mayer, professor of ancient history at the University of Berlin, studying the Egyptian calendars on the monuments in the state museum of the German capital, discovered that the date B. C. 4241 is frequently cited as that in which the early Egyptian astronomers first calculated their solar year from the rising of the star Sirius. This is by far the oldest reliable date in the history of the human race.

The Word "Belfry."

The word "belfry" had originally no connection with "bell," an idea which is now intimately associated with the term. The first meaning given is "watchtower," from the middle English "berffry," a watchtower. The first part of this word is connected with "borough," the second with "free." As the practice grew of hanging "bells" in such towers people reminded themselves of the fact by changing the word "berffry" into the modern "belfry."

No Chance.

"Why don't you ask that young man up to tea some evening, dear?"

"I don't believe it would do any good, mother. He's a confirmed bachelor."—New York Journal.

A College Pun.

"Can your horse jump?"

"I don't know. I never asked him."

"Really? Why not?"

"I'm afraid he might take a fence."—Harvard Lampoon.

Appropriate.

"What do you suppose is the song of the desert?"

"I don't know, but I should think it would be 'The camels are coming.'"—Exchange.

Not Sorry for Blunder.

"If my friends hadn't blundered in thinking I was a doomed victim of consumption, I might not be alive now," writes D. T. Sanders, of Harrodsburg, Ky., "but for years they saw every attempt to cure a lung-racking cough fail. At last I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. The effect was wonderful. It soon stopped the cough and I am in better health than I have had for years. This wonderful life-saver is an unrivaled remedy for coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhages, whooping cough and weak lungs. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Jones Drug Co."

WALDRIP WHISPERINGS.

Waldrip, Texas, May 21.
Editor Brady Standard:

That rain came. J. Pluvius was quite a while deciding on the style, but finally decided to eclipse all past records, which he did to our satisfaction.

The smile on the farmers face might be broader, but he would have to build an addition to accommodate it.

Everything looks McCulloch county like—that look of fair promise or contentment of promises fulfilled.

There is a larger acreage of fruit and vegetables for home consumption, in this community than ever before known.

Where only one poor little razor back existed ten years ago, we now find from two to ten good Poland Chinas waxing fat.

Slowly but surely experience is teaching us the most valuable lessons, viz., that self reliance is the most valuable asset in a man's life. I am a firm believer in experimenting with new methods, trying one or two new things at a time on a small scale. If they succeed, enlarge and improve them. If they fail try another plan, but be sure to try at least one new thing each season, if adds variety as well as knowledge to our lives.

Where would the world be today if every one had always followed in the path of his father. The ways of our fathers were all right, but they, like us, were trying to improve on the last generation. There can be no stability to anything. Mother Nature decreed that motion was life, so let us in all things try to follow the admonition of E. E. Hale: "Upward, but not down, forward but not back."

Corn is tasseling. To try to estimate the yield would be nonsense, but I know we will be liberally supplied.

Somebody wailed that the cut worm was in the cotton patch, but alas, for false alarms. Mr. Cut Worm only winked at us enroute to the river to view the new bridge. Not finding it there, they have gone en masse to Coleman City to ask the Commercial Club a few why's.

Messrs. Nat and Clay Randal are visiting their uncle in Hamilton county.

Bob Rabe went to Brady Monday, but owing to heavy rains was unable to return until Thursday.

BROADMOOR BREEZES.

Broadmoor, Texas, May 20.
Editor Brady Standard:

On the 30th day of April the angel of death visited our community, and took our beloved friend and faithful christian, Mr. Widdinger. He was 75 years of age, a loving father and a devoted husband, a man that was loved by all who knew him. He was our Sunday school teacher, and has left a vacant place in the Sunday school and community, that cannot be filled. He died as he lived, a true and faithful christian, and a strong member of the Methodist church. I trust that his advice will long be remembered, and may we live the christian life he lived.

Alanreed, Texas, May 23.

Editor Brady Standard:

I see in the Standard where your correspondent from Voca speaks of having a fish fry on the San Sabra river at the old stand where there was a barbecue and brand dance some thirty odd years ago. He said in his writing he would like to know how many that was there would read this. I was there and I believe it was in 1877 on the 4th of July. I can call to memory things that happened in the past, some forty years ago I think, when my father and family, Noah Taylor and family, and others, were gathering pecans and found bees in one of those pecan trees, and we cut it down and got a lot of honey. This place will long be remembered by people that were there in those days.

I would write more but I am no scholar and not a very good good scribe. This country is looking very good now, the prospects for a crop are good. Wishing the good people of that country health and prosperity I will close. I have friends and relatives there yet.

Another New Departure.

Mrs. Ruby McBride of Waldrip, is about to set the pace for the ladies of McCulloch county, by showing them what an intelligent and energetic farmer's wife may accomplish with the "side-lines" of farming. Mrs. McBride has been quite successful in raising pure bred Barred Plymouth Rock chickens. She also has 24 stands of bees, and has recently purchased a home canner with which she proposes to save all her fruit, instead of allowing a large part of it to go to waste as so many do. This is a move in the right direction, and The Standard would be glad to see all the ladies get busy along like lines of endeavor. Mrs. McBride is one of the most intelligent and accomplished ladies of the county, with both energy and perseverance to match her mental gifts, and what she undertakes she usually carries out. Watch her!

Angelo Takes Three

The San Angelo Standard nicknames the Brady ball tossers "The Buccaneers," but the local bunch didn't buck the Angelo Longhorns very successfully, dropping three games in a row over there this week. Manager Hail brought his men home yesterday, and announces games for all next week on the home diamond. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Comanche will be here, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday the crack Taylor team is scheduled to appear.

Manager Hail released four of his men after the Angelo series, and will strengthen the team by the addition of new blood.

A West Texas League is being talked of now, with Brady, Angelo, Ballinger and Comanche as members.

To the Farmers

We have prepared a large number of letter heads, on good, ruled paper and put up in nice tablets with blotter cover. On the back of each sheet of paper is printed a thorough descriptive write-up of Brady and McCulloch county, each community in the county receiving its proper mention.

These tablets are to be given away to the farmers of McCulloch county with the request that the paper be used for the purpose of writing letters to friends and relatives in other sections of Texas or in other states. We have gone to a great expense in preparing these tablets and we hope you will appreciate their value. It will help advertise McCulloch county and will save you the expense of buying tablets. They are free for the asking, so call at our office and get one, and by so doing help us spread the news of the many opportunities offered to homeseekers by McCulloch county. No matter to whom you are writing, be sure to use one of these sheets of paper. Be a booster; it costs you nothing, and you will be aiding in the settlement of the best county in West Texas.

Now don't procrastinate; come to our office the first time you are in town and get your tablet.

Yours truly,

Beach-Comber's Sad Fate.
The treacherous murder of a beach-comber by West Australian natives and the narrow escape of his companion are reported from Perth, Western Australia. Madison and Jones, the beach-combers referred to, were in their lugger in Yampa sound when a shore party of natives induced Jones to land and accompany them round a promontory in search of shell. A few minutes later his companion observed the natives running over the hill, but Jones failed to return. At supper time Madison was struck from behind by a native, who had remained with him in the lugger, and he threw his assailant overboard and, on the man attempting to regain the boat, fired and killed him. For two days Madison waited, but as it was then clear that Jones had been murdered the survivor set sail for the nearest port.

THE CHRISTIAN REVIVAL

Most Successful Meeting in Progress at the Christian Church Tabernacle
Twenty-Six Additions.

The revival being conducted by Rev. J. B. Boen at the Christian Church Tabernacle is attracting immense crowds to every service and one of the most successful meetings in the history of the local church is in progress. Rev. Boen is ably assisted in his work by Leonard Daugherty, of Louisville, Ky., who has charge of the song service. Mr. Daugherty is a great leader in song and has the local singers well drilled in the short time he has been here. His solos are a feature of each service.

At the Wednesday evening service there were five additions to the church, making a total of twenty-six during the ten days of the meeting. The ordinance of baptism was administered to three converts at this service.

On account of the interest being manifested, the revival will very likely be continued through next week. Everybody is cordially invited to attend all these services, and a special invitation is extended to singers to assist in the song service.

A POOR WIDOW

Your Widow and Your Orphan Children

If you were to drop off this year, next year; would you leave a poor widow with a family to support? It costs very little to provide enough to keep your family where they will not excite the sympathies of a cold and indifferent world.

at a very small cost to you while you live. What is your age? That many dollars will pay for $4000 insurance in the Bankers' Life Association, and that will be the cost per year during your life time—$2000 for half as much. One of the largest, strongest, most solvent companies in America, prompt pay, no discount, and the cost about half, or even one-third what any other company will ask. Let me tell you about it. As cheap as it is, you cannot afford to allow your family to go without the protection.

OPEN BIDS SATURDAY

School Board Will Meet Tomorrow to Receive Bids for Erection of New $8000 Ward Building.

The school board has been busy for some time past in considering plans and specifications from various sources for the new ward school building to be erected on the north side. Plans for one of the neatest buildings that could be imagined were finally adopted and submitted to several firms of contractors, and the board will meet again tomorrow to open the bids and consider same.

The plans adopted will give Brady a very fine building, provided they can be supplied for the money to be invested. The bond issue was only for $8000, and at least $1000 of same will necessarily have to go towards the purchase of site and school furniture. The remaining $7000 looks pretty small to cover the building wanted, but the board, as well as the patrons, are hopeful that the contractors will "get right" in their figures and enable the board to let the contract at once. The building must be ready for the next term.
