The Poindexter Speaking.

The Poindexter Club of McCulloch County has made all arrangements for the reception of the distinguished visitor next Friday. He will be met at the train and escorted to the Queen for dinner. The speaking will begin at 2:30 p. m., and will take place in the courthouse park where suitable arrangements will be made for the accommodation of a large crowd. Brady suffers the embarrassment of having no public hall of any kind large enough to meet the demands of ordinary gatherings, and therefore Mr. Poindexter will speak in the open air, weather permitting. Shortly after he has concluded he will go by auto to Rochelle where he will address the citizens of that thriving little city, concluding his speech in time to catch the night train north.

Remember the date, the hour and the place, and hear Hon. Wm. Poindexter, in Brady next Friday.

Workmen are busily engaged now in remodeling the Gibbons building on the east side for the new dry goods store of S. A. Benham. The store will have a frontage of 25 feet with a 25-foot ell fronting on Main Street. The partition wall will be removed, a handsome glass front installed to match the bank building adjoining, and the entire store will be overhauled and remodeled. Mr. Benham will open his store in time for the fall business.

Lee Quicksall had the pleasure of entertaining three of his classmates in the State University last week, the young men being Russell Callan, of Menard, Robert Clark, of Galveston, and Kurt Martin, of Mason. Also John Bigham, of Menard. The entire party went over to Menard Friday to be the guests of Russell Callan for several days, among the attractions being a dance tendered by Mr. Callan.

The city council was in session Monday. About all the business of interest transacted was the appointment of a board of equalization which will meet and begin its labors on the first Monday in July. Messrs. J. R. Stone, J. T. Baker and L. G. Callan were named.

The fixtures and furniture for the new Searcy drug store came in Saturday and were installed the first of the week. Mr. Searcy will have one of the handsomest stores in West Texas.

UP-TOWN OFFICE SURE

Western Union Telegraph Company Notifies Commercial Club of Important Move for Brady.

Secretary Frank Bennett and Director Thos. Bell, of the Commercial Club, returned the first of the week from Fort Worth and Dallas where they went on business for Brady and the club. That their trip was worth while is evidenced by the report brought back that the manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company, after giving them a hearing, authorized them to say to the citizens of this city that they would establish an up-town office here prior to September 1st. The exact date was not named, but it was intimated that no time would be lost in making the change, and Mr. Bennett thinks it will probably take effect in July, certainly not later than August.

This is decidedly the best news of its kind that Brady people have heard lately. For months and years we have put up with an inferior telegraph service, due to the handicap of having the Western Union office located a mile from the business section. Many attempts have been made to remedy the matter, but to no effect until now, and it required a trip to Dallas and a personal interview to show the officials the absolute necessity and justice of the up-town office.

If the trip of Messrs. Bell and Bennett had been productive of no other results, this would suffice, but they also report having landed the establishment of a branch of the famous Draughton Practical Business College in Brady. The State Superintendent of this chain of colleges, after hearing the club's ambassadors, agreed that Brady was the very town they were looking for, and authorized the statement that a branch of their institution would be located here at once. All previous requests of bonus in the way of guaranteed scholarships were waived, and the college will be established at once. Indeed, their representative has already been here, spending Saturday in this city, and it is announced that he will return in a few days and make arrangements for a suitable building in which to conduct the work.

Mr. Bennett also interviewed the officials of the Texas Commercial Secretaries Association, and gained much valuable information from that source. Other business matters were attended to on the trip of which more will be said later.

Farmers' Union Meeting.

The Farmers' Union of McCulloch county will meet in regular session with the Lone Star Local on Friday, July 1st, at 2:00 p. m. All unions are requested to send delegates to attend this meeting as election of officers for the ensuing year will take place.

Dr. J. B. McKnight and brother, Sam McKnight, returned last Wednesday from Eldorado where they were called by the illness of their mother. We are glad that the lady is reported improving.

June Is the Happiest Month of the Year

FOR CENTURIES June has been celebrated as the month when summer is fresh and young.

June is the month of good omen.

From the entire year, June is chosen throughout the world as the favorite mating time—when new "nests" are being prepared by thousands of undaunted young folks "for better or for worse."

To those of you young people with the "light of courage sparkling from your eyes," there is a message from this store which concerns your happiness.

Begin your housekeeping with a high ideal of home, and life will be sweeter all the way. In the words of an old man "it will be for better and for better."

You are puzzled perhaps, over the problem of your early housekeeping. The comforts, such as you have enjoyed in your own homes, are beyond your purse maybe, for even if you have a good sum saved now, it isn't sound sense to spend it all in gratifying your ideal of a happy home. The solution is here.

In few of the larger cities, is there a more comprehensive display of furniture and furnishings of the right sort than you will find in this spacious store.

You select the outfit you need—good, substantial furniture that will wear, and grace your home all through your happy married life.

We will figure with you on the small amount you can spare each week. Your bank account will be undisturbed, and in a little while your cozy, cheerful home furnishings will be all your own. That's the easy way—our way—which you are cordially invited to enjoy.

Home Talent Plays at Rochelle.

The Standard is requested to announce that two home talent plays will be given at the Air-dome near the Tabernacle at Rochelle Thursday and Friday nights, for the benefit of the Methodist church at that place. The title of the play for Thursday night is "The Brand of Cain," and that for Friday night is "Joe, the Waif. Acordial invitation is extended the citizens of Brady and the surrounding country to attend these plays, and lend their aid to a good cause.

Austin Benham is the champion dog killer of Brady. His record is two-at-a-click this week, having sent two canines to dog heaven at one fell swoop of his big automobile Tuesday morning. Mr. Benham was just starting off across the square, when two bird dogs ran in front of his machine and before they could yelp the juggernaut had 'em. One was the property of Chas. Tupmap, who isn't grieving much, as he has seven more, but George Yantis is inconsolable over the loss of his fine registered Irish setter, and says he will import another immediately.

A telegram from Mrs. Ema Perkins at Muskogee, Ok., last week announced the death of her sister at whose bedside she had been in attendance for several weeks.

To the Voters of McCulloch County.

By the earnest solicitation of supporters and friends throughout every voting box in the county, I have been induced to become a candidate for the office of County Judge of McCulloch county, Texas, subject to the action of the democratic primary to be held on July 23rd, 1910. If you can see your way clear, I shall appreciate your vote and influence for the same.

SAM W. HUGHES.

Brady now has a firm of expert sign writers. J. A. Hayes of Dallas, and V. H. Owen of Austin, have located here and will devote their time and talents to sign writing and scening work, ornamental decorations, etc. Mr. Owen is said to be one of the best in his line in the state.

Texas North and South.

Mason was visited Wednesday evening by L. E. Collins, president, and W. H. Stephens, secretary of the Texas North & South Railroad. Our local railroad committee met with them and came to some understanding with them in regard to building their line into Mason. The company proposes to build to Mason by Jan. 1, 1913, for $40,000, right of way through the county and depot grounds, and will give an indemnity bond to the committee to make good any loss upon their part in securing right of way, etc. The railroad people are ready to sign up this contract at once and it now awaits the approval of the committee. That we will get a railroad in two and a half years from this time is some encouragement.—Mason News.

FRISCO BOOK ON TEXAS

Will be Out in Sixty Days—C. W. Strain Talks About the Prosperity of the Brady Country.

Fort Worth, Texas, June 17.—The Frisco Railway about six years ago published a book which gave a fund of reliable information about Texas, along the lines of the Frisco in Texas more particularly. That book is now out of date and lately the company sent a competent man from the St. Louis headquarters, John C. Small, to get a new stock of information that could be embodied in another book on Texas to be styled "Texas." Arriving here he was taken in charge by C. W. Strain, the general passenger agent of the Frisco in Texas. Their party went over the lines of the road from the Red River to the Menard country and for ten miles on either side of the road, interviewing farmers and others interested in the husbandry of the State in all of its branches. The book is to be published in about sixty days.

Mr. Strain, talking of the newer country that the Frisco is opening up by the extension of its Brady line, said it was simply impossible to exaggerate the wonders of that new land from the agricultural point of view. It is new only in the sense that heretofore it has been cut off from the possibility of transporting its products to a market except by wagons. Now with the penetration of that fertile region by the Frisco lines it has a marvelous advantage in the marketing of the crops which may be grown there. The land is a rich, dark loam that will grow almost anything to perfection that is adapted to this climate. There is a greater diversity of farming done there than ever before and everything is doing well. Wheat of the best quality twenty-five to thirty-five bushels to the acre. Oats with yields of sixty to eighty bushels not uncommon. Corn already in tassel and cotton so far advanced that it is almost a crop now. As an example: One man near Stephenville experimentally planted a half acre in onions. His crop this season netted him $140. Another in Brady country was asked if there were any bees out that way. He has an irrigated farm of about 230 acres in San Saba Valley, to which he said he gave but little attention just now, the explanation being that last year he made $4,000 off his bees.

The Newspapers Get 'Em.

When a handbill is dropped at the door do you see three members of the family rush for it at once? Do they clamor good naturedly for the first perusal of a dodger? Does mother divide it into parts, give one part to father, another to Willie, still another to Susie, and keep the adv. part herself? Do they drop into easy chairs and read that handbill through from the northeast corner to the southwest angle? Not on your tintype.

The first that finds that handbill utters an imprecation of dissatisfaction, crumples it into oblivion. Don't they? You know they do because you have been angry yourself at finding your front porch all littered with various colored papers. No use talking, no use arguing against the gospel. The man who puts his ad in the home paper is the man who gets there.—Mason News.

To The Voters.

I hereby announce my withdrawal from the race for tax assessor of McCulloch county. I am a farmer, and depend upon my farm for support for myself and family, and the situation faces me now of either neglecting my crop to win the office or renouncing the chance of office to win my crop, and common sense decides in favor of the crop. I am deeply grateful for the support I have received, and wish to thank all who contributed thereto, assuring them that my appreciation will ever endure. Thanking one and all, I remain,
Yours truly,

John B. Kerr Out of Race.

To the Voters of McCulloch County:—I hereby announce my withdrawal from the race for sheriff and tax collector. My reasons for so doing are that the doctors say my son, George, must be taken elsewhere at once on account of his health, and I expect to leave at once with him and could not, therefore, look after my candidacy as it should be done.

I appreciate highly the many kind words of encouragement given me by my friends, and assurance of support which I have received, and desire to thank one and all for the interest manifested.

Yours truly,
JOHN B. KERR.

Bud Crawford and family have returned from a ten-days visit to relatives in Brown county, stopping on the way home to see their married daughter at Mercury. Mrs. Crawford, who is in delicate health, received considerable benefit from the trip, while Bud developed a good appetite himself. He reports the crop conditions in McCulloch county much better than in Brown county.

J. M. C. Cain returned from Eden and Melvin where he has been engaged the past week or so on some painting and papering contracts. He reports Melvin as quite flourishing, and rapidly coming to the front. Among the improvements are a 13 room hotel now nearing completion; the complete overhauling and improving of the Utsey gin and installing of machinery in the new gin, which now gives Melvin two as fine gins as can be found anywhere; also the erection of a handsome bungalow by H. H. Kilpatrick, work on which will begin at once.

Jeff Meers Withdraws From Race.

To the Public:—In view of the fact that when a county has a population of 8000 inhabitants the constitution provides that there shall be two different, distinct offices made from the County and District Clerk's office, and realizing that this county has passed the 8000 mark, and with the offices divided there will not be sufficient remuneration to justify me to remain in the race, and knowing that the offices will be so divided by the time the general election rolls around in November, I have decided to withdraw from the race entirely and do hereby so announce my withdrawal.

I wish to say that I really believe I would have received the nomination at the primaries, but the reasons above stated are sufficient to explain my action here. To all who have assured me of their support, and all others whom I have every reason to believe would have supported me, I wish to express my heartiest thanks and to say that I will ever remember you and accept your intentions as the deed itself and appreciate it accordingly.

Respectfully,
JEFF MEERS.

Sebe Goen.
About two years ago the writer had occasion to pass through the gap in the range of Brady Mountains, which is known as Salt Gap, in company with Mr. Jack Beasley, and when reaching a point when the Mountains on either side of the gap come closest together he turned aside a few yards from the road to the root of an old live-oak tree and pointing to a collection of stones, hardly distinguishable from any other place, and said: "There is where Sebe Goen is buried."

As all of the older settlers know there is nothing unusual for graves to be found in unexpected and unmarked places throughout our entire country and many graves have been made and a body covered by the pioneers forming the caravans of the early settler, and then the journey resumed, and the place left unmarked and the grave and its silent occupant forgotten. In these cases, generally, sickness or accident brought about the death, but not so with Goen; he was a citizen of San Saba county, and resided near where the town of Richland Springs is now located, and the story of his death, as told to the writer by Mr. Beasley, is as follows:

Goen with two companions were in the Salt Gap country attempting to corral some wild horses known to range in that section and after a day of travel when they were fatigued from the journey, and wet from a rain which had fallen, they struck camp on a high point of the mountain, west of the now unmarked grave, and not suspecting the presence of hostile Indians in the vicinity they kindled a fire and after night they lay down to sleep wrapped in their blankets, one of which was used later as a coffin and winding sheet for Goen, their camp fire having betrayed them. At what hour in the night the Indians made their raid upon these sleeping hunters I did not learn but was informed that the first knowledge of harm was an arrow shot nearly through the breast of Goen as he lay sleeping and though mortally wounded he arose, pistol in hand, and cried out to his companions, and then attempting to defend himself he began snapping his pistol at the Indians, but wet powder prevented him avenging his own death which occurred a few moments later. Goen's companions managed to escape from the savages, leaving horses and everything to be taken away and walked to the nearest white settlement where a body of men was made up to return and bury the dead. Goen, it is said, was a Choctaw Indian by birth, but was a man of good education and splendid physique, having raven black hair and a mustache long enough to pass over his ears and tie at the back of his head. This the Indians cut off close to his lip and carried off as a trophy of the raid. Of those now living who composed the party who selected the site by the old oak in the Salt Gap and there make a shallow grave to bury the man who dared to face death in the wild west, the writer knows of none now living except Mr. Warren Hudson, of Mercury, and few if any save Mr. Hudson and Jack Beasley know the facts or could find the grave as it is now. This condition caused the writer to suggest (in an article contributed to the Brady Enterprise two years ago) that a monument be erected to the memory of Goen either at Salt Gap and over the grave or at some suitable place at Brady, preferably the courthouse yard, and while the suggestion met with much favorable comment no action has been taken and this article is submitted with an earnest hope that it may in some way lead to action and that he who has slept neath the silent oak in Salt Gap in an unmarked grave for near fifty years may be shown a respect now and his deeds and death commemorated. One dime from each citizen of McCulloch county would be sufficient to place a monument to this man. Can we not donate a dime? Will not some one give a dollar or more? Or shall we wait another fifty years for others to do this service?

A CITIZEN.

The baseball game last Friday between the Bankers and Merchants resulted in a tie game, the score standing 15 to 15 at the end of the sixteenth inning. Such ball playing was never before witnessed in the United States, Great Britain or Menard county, and the players played till they gave out. The tie will be played off as soon as the bunch recovers.

Captured Burt Thurman.

Sheriff T. L. Sansom returned Friday from Eldorado, near which place was captured Burt Thurman, the young fellow who escaped from Mr. Sansom a couple of months ago while the sheriff was in the act of taking several prisoners from the jail to the courthouse. Thurman broke and ran, and before Mr. Sansom could return the other prisoners to their cells he was out of sight. It seems he continued his journey up the creek, and out to Waldrip, crossing the river there. Sansom was on his trail and would have caught him there but for a rise in the river which prevented him from crossing for several days.

Thurman was captured about 25 miles southwest of Eldorado, and was lodged in jail there. When Sansom got him he made another desperate attempt to get away, and did break loose and run, but was captured again and placed in jail. On the same night in an attempt to escape from jail he damaged the jail to a considerable extent, getting hold of an implement of some sort and tearing out a big section of the rock wall.

He is safely ensconced in Hotel de Sansom now, however, and will hardly cause any more trouble. His offense was small, and his escape really of little consequence, but Sheriff Sansom desires to leave his office with a clean record and didn't want an escaped prisoner to mar that record. He has caught every man who has escaped, and there were a number of them, owing to the fact that Brady had no jail worth mentioning until a few months ago.

15 INNINGS, NO SCORES

The Crack Five Baseball Team Gives Brady Buccaneers the Hardest Fight of the Season.

By long odds the most interesting, the most exciting and the best baseball game ever played in Brady was pulled off at the ball park Saturday when Five with Baldrige pitching held the Buccaneers with Straub on the slab absolutely scoreless for fifteen innings, in the meantime gathering to themselves a similar array of goose eggs.

Both pitchers were at their best, and every player on the field was on his toes throughout the game. Balls that ordinarily would have been hits were fielded in big league style, and home-run batters were held as in a vice by both slab artists. The score at the end of the 15 innings was "nothing to nothing," and they might have been playing yet.

Baldrige yielded 7 hits and struck out 17, while Straub gave 8 hits and fanned 14.

The Buccaneers left Sunday night for Comanche where they will play three games, then to Granbury for three more. If the boys keep up their present stride they ought to take at least five of the six. They will return home next Sunday and on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday their old, only and original enemies, the Longhorns of San Angelo, will be the victims. And victims is the word, too, for Manager Hail says his boys are simply unbeatable, and they have an old score to even up with San Angelo anyway, and consider that this is the time to do it. Westmoreland, pitcher, and second baseman, of Brownwood, has been signed by Manager Hail, and if he is as good as he looks the locals have at last filled up the gap at second.

The Granbury team will be here for three games on July 4, 5 and 6.

CARE OF SACRED MONKEYS

Hindu Fakir Who Lives in Comfort on an Indian Hilltop with His Charges.

In the very top of Jakko, the hill that rises above Simla, there lives a solitary Hindu fakir, an old man clothed in yellow, with saffron plastered cheeks and caste marks on his forehead. He's the guardian priest of the sacred monkeys.

Like the inhabitants of ancient Egypt, who worshiped cats and crocodiles, the Hindus of to-day hold many animals in superstitious reverence. Indeed the Hindu of to-day is even more fanatical than formerly, and resents more passionately the smallest injury or insult offered to the creatures he worships.

Among this hierarchy of animals the monkey holds a place of honor second only to the cow; for in the "Ramayana," the sacred epic of the Hindus, it is written how Hanuman, the monkey god, allied himself with Vishnu the Preserver, helping him to overcome his enemies and recover his lost wife Sita.

So the monkey, especially the common red monkey, says the Wide World Magazine, is worshiped throughout the length and breadth of India. His images in brass are sold in every bazaar, and many shrines are dedicated to his worship.

People say that there has always been a fakir on Jakko, and it is possible that one has lived there ever since the hill tribes were admitted within the very elastic limits of the Hindu religion. Priest has succeeded priest, living alone on the mountain top, and sharing with his little red gods the food which pious worshippers provided.

In former times there must have been a fakir on Jakko, and it is possible, for the hill folk in the villages around live poorly even when the season is good, and nearly starve when there is famine. But now he lives in comfort. Not only has the number of Hindu merchants in the bazaar increased but many English visitors come to see his charges and give him money when they leave.

TEACHER TREED BY A MOOSE

Young Woman Fortunate in That She Had Cultivated Ability to Climb.

The oft-repeated statement that "the wild animals of the New Brunswick forests are comparatively harmless," was convincingly disproved a few days ago when Miss Milburn, a teacher at Upper Mills, about eight miles from Chipman, was attacked by a large bull moose, says the St. John Sun.

Miss Milburn had finished her school-room trials and tribulations for the week, and on Friday evening set out to visit Mrs. Isalah Langin, whose home was some three miles distant.

The road that Miss Milburn traveled on the way to Mrs. Langin's has the reputation of being the haunt of bears, and Miss Milburn was keeping a sharp lookout for those animals when suddenly a sound resembling the low of a cow broke upon her ears.

The startled woman, thinking discretion the better part of valor, repaired to the roadside and took lodging among the branches of a tree. The expected bear turned out to be a bull moose, which approached the tree in which the teacher sat. It was not until the antlered monarch was attracted by the call of another of his species that the traveler was permitted to descend from her uncomfortable quarters and proceed to her journey's end.

Cold Bath of Sparrows. I watched a pair of sparrows recently out in the country, take their morning bath in a roadside pool of melting snow and ice. One little rascal would hop joyously into the icy water, all the others waiting their turn, splash around, duck his head under and throw up sheets of water to come down upon him as a shower. There was no flopping in and scrambling right out, like shivering boys from the tub, but ever, sparrow stayed to the limit, having the time of his life. Then he would flit up to a branch above, buttering and shaking his feathery clothes while the sun dried him, another bather taking his place the instant he was out of the pool and re-emerge in the same cold bath. I make the guess that not a hundred people out of New York's 4,000,000 population stay in a cold bath any morning as soon as these sparrows did.—New York Press.

About Pure Food. The department of agriculture has just issued a bulletin on "The Care of Food in the Home." Mrs. Mary Hinman Abel is the author of the pamphlet, and it seems as though most things we eat were better let alone. It is interesting to know that dried figs and dates have stood so long that they are probably full of germs. Vegetables must be washed finally in warm water, and each leaf must be separately searched. Oranges and lemons should be washed before they are taken to the table. Wash nuts also before cracking; even eggs should be washed.

What Pop Said. "Now, my little boy, I suppose your father said he would give you something if you pulled out all those weeds?" asked the old gentleman, over the fence, to the lad in the garden. "No," was the feeling reply, "but pop said he'd give me something if I didn't pull 'em out!"

What a Question! The Missus—Norah, how many families have you ever worked for? The Maid—Wurraked, is it, ma'am? I'll have you know, Mrs. Pa-arker, I've wurraked for every family I ever lived with!

MAKE AN ARTIFICIAL CAMPHOR

German Chemists Have Produced Article That to a Certain Extent is Good Substitute.

During the war between Japan and Russia the price of camphor had a surprising rise, since Japan prohibited the exportation of the gum, the manufacture of which is a state monopoly. The reason given was that the nation needed the camphor for the making of smokeless powder.

Of the 8,000,000 or 10,000,000 pounds annually produced, the making of celluloid absorbs the greatest part, about 70 per cent.; explosives require about 2 per cent., and other industries account for the remainder.

Camphor is produced by the distillation of a certain kind of wood grown in Japan, Formosa and southern China. The exports vary greatly from year to year, and the price has violent changes, such as $7 a hundredweight in 1868, $130 in 1907 and $40 in 1908.

What the future of the camphor industry will be no one knows. In India, Ceylon, Florida and Texas immense groves have been planted, but it may take 40 or 50 years before they are sufficiently matured to produce the gum. Meanwhile German chemists are making artificial camphor, which already has its place as a substitute for certain purposes.

AUTOMATIC BANKS IN ITALY

Government Has Unique Way of Encouraging Thrift Among Poorer Classes.

Every postoffice in Italy is a savings bank, but not every laborer in the sunny kingdom can get a chance to go to the postoffice during business hours. The Italian government is, therefore, encouraging thrift by setting up automatic banks all over the peninsula.

These are simply hollow, cast-iron pillars, with three slits opening into them. In the top one a man who begins to save money inserts a 10-centime piece, which is equivalent to about two cents of our money. If the coin is counterfeit it is promptly rejected, and falls out of a lower slit. If good, a receipt drops from the third opening, at the bottom of the pillar.

As soon as one has collected five or more receipts he can exchange them for a passbook at a regular postal savings bank, and the government begins to pay him interest on his savings at the rate of 4 per cent.

The device is about three years old, and many a laborer turns to the automatic bank when he gets his day's wages, pleased with the thought that when he has saved 10 cents he will have his bank book, like any capitalist.

First Game Forty Years Ago.

Last Sunday saw the fortieth anniversary of the first game of intercollegiate football played in America. The initial contest was between Princeton and Rutgers and was played at New Brunswick November 6, 1869. Rutgers won by 6 goals to 4. Princeton's captain was Gammere and Leggett led the Rutgers team.

Leggett won the game by solving Princeton's strong play of batting the ball with the fists whenever it appeared above the shoulders of the men. Princeton could do this because of her tall forwards. Leggett ordered the Rutgers men to keep the ball close to the ground, and on this style of play, having the shorter and more compact players, was enabled to crowd the winning points over amid great excitement.

Tripping and holding were barred in the rules of the first game, as in modern play. No throwing or running with the ball was allowed. There were four judges and two referees.—Boston Herald.

A Peeress' Day.

Never perhaps since the Hastings trial have happenings at Westminster attracted the peeresses as did the debates on the finance bill. The trial of Hastings of course was a society function. An attendance at the hall was quite in the day's work of the lady of fashion. The duchess of Gordon's round of duties on a day in 1791 gives the illustration. For the duchess "went to Handel's music in the abbey; she then clambered over the benches and went to Hastings' trial in the hall; after dinner to the play, then to Lady Lucas's assembly, after that to Ranelagh, and returned to Miss Hobart's faro table, gave a ball herself in the evening of that morning, into which she must have got a good way, and set out for Scotland the next day." The scurry and rush of society folk is not so modern a feeling after all.—Westminster Gazette.

Afraid of the Girls.

The stranger in the public playgrounds noticed that the little boys were giving the little girls a wide berth on this particular morning.

"That's queer," he mused. "Say, sonny, I thought you little boys and girls played together?"

"We do sometimes," enlightened the youngster on the sandpile, "but not to-day."

"And why not?"

"Cause it is as much as we can do to keep out of their way. They are playing suffragettes and making believe we are policemen."—Chicago News.

A Card of Thanks.

As Wednesday, June 22nd, will be my last day in Brady I take this means of expressing my sincere thanks to the entire buying public of McCulloch county for their liberal patronage of the Conley Mer. Co. while their sale was under my personal supervision, and I assure the citizens of Brady that I shall ever have a good word for Brady, the coming city of the Southwest. In conclusion I also wish to thank the competing merchants who have assisted me most generously in my sale through their advertising which has been of more real value to the Conley Mer. Co. than that issued by myself, and I sincerely hope that in the future I shall always have the motto: "Woe unto him who first hollers enough," and their number 11 put on me while conducting a sale.

Very truly,

Brownwood Wants Sanson.

Sheriff T. L. Sanson of Brady was here last night enroute to Eldorado, where he goes after a prisoner by the name of Thurmond, who is wanted in his town on a charge of "boot legging." Thurmond escaped from Sheriff Sanson while he was being worked on the roads and the Brady sheriff has been very anxious to re-capture him. This makes the eleventh man who has escaped from the old jail in the county that has been returned by Sheriff Sanson. He is voluntarily retiring from the office of sheriff and wants to have a clean record. He says he was persuaded to let Thurmond go but wanted to return him to keep the record straight.

Mr. Sanson when he retires in the fall will probably move to Brownwood where he can have the advantage of the excellent schools. He says he don't know of a place he likes better than Brownwood and that he is surely coming this fall. Brownwood will extend a hearty welcome to our old friend Sanson and he shall have no cause to regret the move.—Brownwood Bulletin.
