OCCUPY DEPOT.

Santa Fe and Frisco in New Quarters the 28th.

Agents Bennett of the Santa Fe and Hundley of the Frisco are looking forward to the occupying of their handsome new quarters in the union depot, and expect to be at home there to patrons of the two roads on Sunday, April 28th. The finishing touches are now being put on the building, and everything will be in readiness by the latter part of next week. While every Brady citizen is proud of the new station, none can be more so than either of the gentlemen above mentioned, and no one will be more pleased than they to serve the public in their new quarters.

N. R. Crump threatens us with dire consequences if we stop his paper and to make good his threat he hands us a dollar.

W. R. Rice was in yesterday and told us that he had some of the finest oats in the country—knee high and just beginning to head out. Mr. Rice says S. W. Colton also has some very fine oats planted a little earlier than that of Mr. Rice, but he puts his up against any in the country.

N. A. Kimbrough, one of the prominent farmers of the Deep Creek community believes he has the world beat on big turkeys, and everyone who has seen his flock is forced to agree with him. Mr. Kimbrough's turkeys are full-blooded Mammoth Bronze, and for size and quality cannot be surpassed. One of his turkey hens dressed eighteen pounds at a year old, which is "some" turkey. Mr. Kimbrough raises fine Leghorn chickens, which have an enviable records as layers. It pays to raise good stuff, and if you don't believe it, ask him.

G. R. White, 25 cars from Brady Wednesday.

G. R. White, 20 cars from Brady Friday.

G. B. Awalt was here yesterday from Camp San Saba to receive a fine registered Poll male which he had purchased at Lometa. Mr. Awalt believes in raising fine stock, and Red Polls are his hobby.

The two-weeks-old babe of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Tippy died Wednesday morning at 7:30 o'clock, and was buried Wednesday afternoon in the Brady cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. D. R. Hardison.

J. A. Butler of Nine dropped in yesterday to tell us that he had never failed to get a copy since he subscribed the second issue of the paper, and that he was too old a subscriber to let us stop the paper now. So he gets The Standard some more.

FRISCO OFFICIALS HERE.

Confer With Citizens Regarding Passenger Service.

J. S. Pyeatt, vice president and general manager, and W. C. Preston, general freight and passenger agent, of the Frisco were here Wednesday and met with a number of representative citizens to discuss the abandoning of passenger trains No. 3 and 4, arriving at 5:15 p. m. and departing at 8:45 a. m., respectively. They stated that since the double daily train service was established these trains had about paid half the expenses, and that they contemplated taking them off for the present. However, they assured the citizens that they would re-establish the service as soon as business permitted and by September 1st at the very latest. They also stated that they would put a schedule in operation on No. 6 that would get the mail to Brady at 7:00 o'clock in the morning and would make every possible arrangement to give Brady satisfactory service.

There was some discussion upon the subject, among other speakers being C. K. McFadden, who advocated the continuation of the present schedule and predicted that within sixty days the Frisco would have to put on still another train to accommodate the passenger traffic that the wells in the Lohn oil field would create.

The Commercial club passed a resolution that they would leave the matter entirely in the hands of the Frisco officials, and Mr. Pyeatt announced that, for the present, the service would be continued as before.

The action of the Frisco officials in taking this matter up with the Brady citizens, and consulting their wishes, has been the subject of much favorable comment, and has won them much praise. As a result Brady feels very kindly disposed toward them, and whatever action they may deem best will meet with the approval of the citizens.

Services at Mercury.

Rev. H. P. Wilsford requests us to announce that he will preach at Mercury Sunday at 11 a. m., and at night at 8 p. m. Also the Saturday night before at 8 p. m. An introductory sermon on this subject will be preached Saturday night. If interested in this subject, be sure to be present at both services. All are invited.

Chas. Bogusch has been spending the week here.

Miss Elsie Young of the Prairie View community was in town yesterday.

J. Frank Egan returned Wednesday from Beaumont and Houston where he has been on business the past several days.

C. A. Hodges has removed to Callan where he has located on a farm. Mr. Hodges promises to make frequent visits to Brady however, and will keep up with the best town on the map through The Standard.

The city council held a special meeting Wednesday afternoon to confer with the Brady Water & Light Co. regarding the purchase of the plant now in use. The matter was the subject of considerable discussion, but no agreement was reached, and the matter was passed up to another meeting.

The council also went over the figures submitted by John B. Hawley for the construction of a power plant and filtering plant. They decided, however, to make certain changes in the specifications so as to enable the city to install an additional boiler and engine should, at any time, it be necessary to increase the plant, and have requested Mr. Hawley to submit new figures upon the specifications.

BASE BALL SATURDAY.

Brady and Rochelle High School Will Cross Bats Saturday.

The Brady high school base ball team has matched a game for Saturday with the Rochelle high school boys to be played on the local grounds next Saturday. The game will be called at 2:30 p. m., and everybody should be out and root for the team. An admission charge of 25 cents will be made.

The game promises to be the most interesting of the season. The teams played about two weeks ago at the opening of the season when neither were in good form, the game resulting in a victory for the locals. Both teams have been materially strengthened and have been getting in some good practice, with the result that both are confident of victory. It will be worth the price several times over to see the game.

Melvin, Texas, April 15.
Editor Brady Standard:

Well, we have been blessed with a good rain since our last report. Grass is looking fine and garden truck is looking nice. We won't have to starve long.

Some of the farmers are planting cotton, while others are afraid of frost.

Our farmers have an eye to business; since the rain they can't work, so they all got their guns and went rabbit hunting. They spent three evenings in this pastime. The first evening they killed forty, the next evening, seventy-eight and the next day they got forty-five—a total of 163 jack rabbits. How is that for rabbits?

PERUNA

"I Recommend It Wherever

Mrs. John M. Stabler, Millersburg, Ind., writes: "I have been cured of a very bad case of catarrh of the stomach and constipation, and a complication of ailments that I have had for several years. I doctored with three doctors, who did me not much good, so I quit doctoring. 'I bought a bottle of Peruna and commenced taking it. I found I was getting some better, but thought I was not doing as well as I might. So I wrote The Peruna Medical Department, to see what they thought about me. They gave me special directions and medical advice. To our astonishment I improved and am to-day a well woman and weigh as much as I ever did in my life. My friends that Peruna saved my life. I recommend it wherever I am, and when any of our folks are sick, I give them a box with success.'"

ROCHELLE RUMBLINGS.

Rochelle, Texas, April 15.

Editor Brady Standard:
As we have had so much nice rain and the farmers are in such high spirits, I thought I'd pen a few lines and let you know how we enjoyed the rain. It had been almost a year since we had such a rain; it came from the north and certainly tried the workmanship on all windows, chimneys and that side of the house. People who boasted of good houses found they failed to turn the water, and to say the least of it, there was a great deal of damage done the fields. What crops there were planted were washed or covered up, making it necessary to plant over a great deal. Gardens are doing fairly well, or at least what the rain left.

Bro. Smith was here to fill his regular appointment, but on account of the rain he preached only once and that on Sunday night.

Bro. Hull filled his appointment at Live Oak last Sunday. About six weeks more closes one of the most successful school ever taught here.

The back will ache no more. Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

It's the best proof, for it comes from this vicinity.

Mrs. Mary E. Bourland, 1513 First street, Brownwood, Texas, says: "I received great benefit from Doan's Kidney Pills and therefore recommend them.

About four years ago, while doing my household duties, I was suddenly seized with severe pains in my back which laid me up for two days. I was so bad that I could not move in bed and had to call help when turning to another position. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I obtained a box and began their use. After I had taken half the box, the pains in my back left me and I have had no return attack since. My health has improved in general. I consider this remedy a good tonic for the entire system."

Most everybody is busy planting cotton in this section of the country.

L. M. Baker went to Brady one day last week, returning on Saturday, his wife and little son, Louis, accompanying him home.

Little Louis Baker has been on the sick list this week. Mrs. Baker's mother, Mrs. Fuller, of Brady was called out Sunday to the bedside of her little grandson. Mr. Baker's mother came over Monday.

The Pasche school will close next Tuesday.

Maize and cane are coming up and are looking very well in this part of the country.

Messrs. Will and Skeet Cave of South Brady went to Pasche Wednesday.

All off for this time. Best wishes to The Standard and its many readers.

MILBURN MIXUPS.

Milburn, Texas, April 16th.

Editor Brady Standard:

As it is still winter, I will try to send in a few items just to let them all know that Pug is not dead. I can tell the Old Woman one thing, and that is lettuce and mustard is still good. They beat her four-cent taters.

It is looking like rain today, and a fresh norther is blowing, but hope it won't get cold enough to kill the small and tender plants.

We are sorry to say that Mr. J. H. Bishop accidentally stuck his knife in his leg just above the knee, and it caused him a lot of pain. He went up to Mercury Monday to the doctor, but has been confined to his bed ever since. We are hoping for his recovery soon.

Mrs. John Sanders' baby has been real sick, but is doing nicely now. They called in the doctor Monday night.

Mr. Edd Shank had the misfortune of chopping his foot instead of his wood, but it did not stop him from going.

Cheer up, Old Milburn, it may be that it will come to the front yet, for we have the oil man with us, and he is going to work. He said that there was oil here.

Mr. Mack Dillard, wife and Ruby Beckham started for New Mexico Monday evening. Ruby is going to visit her brother, Gregg Beckham. Hope she has a pleasant trip of it.

There will be preaching here next Sunday evening by the Baptist preacher from Mercury. Everybody come and help to put some life in Milburn.

Come quick, Old Woman, we have some fresh taters.

Knew What It Was.

It was a nice little home, built especially to the owner's plans, and had everything up to date, with a few reminders of the good old days. For instance, there was a sun dial placed at the foot of the garden.

On the first sunny day the owner compared his own reliable gold chronometer with Old Sol's timepiece, and found there was a difference of two hours. Obviously the figures on the sun dial had been misplaced. The builder was sent for and arrived.

"Have a look at that sun dial again," said the owner, significantly. "It makes the time 11:00 a. m., and as a matter of fact the correct time is 1:00 p. m."

The builder looked long and earnestly at his handiwork, and then slapped his leg.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, with a proud ring in his voice. "I see wot it is, sir. There's something wrong with the sun."

A GENUINE HAIR RESTORER.

Did you ever know of any hair preparation which would really grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair?

There are many preparations highly advertised to do the work, but it is probably your experience that none of them will really meet the claims of their manufacturers.

There are many so-called hair restorers which are nothing more than harmful chemical dyes, which do not grow any hair the only result being that they dyed the hair, having no permanency and often causing a streaky appearance.

It has been the aim of the chemists for years to discover a preparation which would really grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair, but heretofore they have met with no success.

Prof. Rembler now claims to have discovered a combination of harmless vegetable composition which is a genuine hair restorer and will grow hair and does not contain any dye of any kind, but will positively restore the color and brilliancy to gray and faded hair.

This is a very strong statement to make and if any chemist without the recognized ability and national reputation of Prof. Rembler were to make this claim we would be inclined to be skeptical as to its truth. It will be remembered by readers that are familiar with scientific discoveries that Prof. Rembler was the inventor of the one fire process for gilding glass and also the Rembler wireless Coherer. Any statement made by Prof. Rembler is entitled to consideration as he would not make any statements which were not true and would injure his established reputation.

The Siloron Mfg. Co., of Pueblo, Colo., have purchased the exclusive American rights to manufacture Sagine, as they have named Prof. Rembler's invention, after having made a six months' test of Sagine and thoroughly demonstrating that it would positively do the work. The Siloron Mfg. Co. have authorized us to make the following remarkable offer to all who need a "Genuine Hair Restorer."

They will send a written agreement with every bottle of Sagine, to the effect that if one bottle of Sagine conscientiously used according to the directions does not give entire satisfaction to the purchaser; if Sagine does not actually grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair, remove dandruff and make the hair glossy and healthy, that they will pay the sum of $5 to any dissatisfied customer.

This is the strongest offer ever made by any manufacturer and one they could not possibly make if they did not know positively from experiment that it would do exactly what they claim for it. No one takes any chance in buying Sagine as it is certainly worth $1 to use a Genuine Hair Restorer that will really grow hair, and if it does not give satisfaction they will pay you the $5 as agreed. Send a $1 bill to the Siloron Mfg. Co., Pueblo, Colo., stating that you wish to purchase a bottle of Sagine with the written agreement to grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair or pay you the sum of $5 and it will be sent to you by express in plain wrapper.

The Siloron Mfg. Co., is incorporated under the laws of the state of Colorado and refer you to the mercantile agencies or any Pueblo banks as to their ability to fulfill any agreement they make.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

Here is a statement of facts taken from a booklet just issued by the Southern States Cotton Corporation, an organization with a capital stock of $1,000,000, and with 6,000,000 participation certificates. The object of the organization is for the purpose of obtaining better prices for cotton, and the plan is to finance a cotton holding. In support of its contention that there is an imperative need for such an organization the statement is submitted:

"The 1910 crop was 12,000,000 bales.

"The 1910 crop sold for $840,000,000.

"The 1910 crop cost to make it $690,000,000.

"The 1910 crop produced a profit of $150,000,000, or $12.50 per bale.

"The 1911 crop was 16,000,000 bales.

"The 1911 crop cost to make it, $920,000,000.

"The 1911 crop sold for $800,000,000.

"The 1911 crop produced a loss of $120,000,000, or $7.50 per bale.

"Had the 1911 crop sold for $12.50 a bale profit, the South would have had $320,000,000 more than it now has.

"The capital stock of the national banks of the South is $237,000,000. We lost the value of all of them and enough extra to run the public schools two years. Does the like of this produce safe, healthy business? Does it produce a contented people? Does it educate the children? We are told the remedy is to economize. Whose business will economizing help? Where does education come in? The profits from the production of cotton since the war has been at the expense of an education to the children who produced it. Not infrequently does this condition exist. Should we as intelligent people make a change?"

It takes "pep" and "ginger" to do things. Load up on it.

Now is the open season for flies. Get your "swat stick" ready.

McCulloch county is a good place to live. The skeptical are referred to the county and city peace officers.

John G. Murphy and Clifton H. Tupper, who have both been identified with the San Angelo Standard since its establishment and who also established the Waco Morning News recently, have dissolved partnership, J. G. Murphy retaining the San Angelo Standard, while C. H. Tupper takes over the Waco Morning News. Both men have been prominent in the development of the West Texas country, and both are among the liveliest and most progressive newspaper men in the state. With the dissolution, each will be enabled to concentrate his energies upon his respective paper, and make things hum in his bailiwick.

MODERN FABLES.

Once upon a time, says the Indiana Republican, a donkey fell into a deep hole, and after nearly starving, caught sight of a fox and implored the stranger to help him out. 'I am too small to aid you,' said the fox, 'but I will give you some good advice.' 'Only a few rods away is a big, strong elephant; call to him and you will get out in a jiffy.' After the fox had gone the donkey reasoned thus: 'I am very weak for want of nourishment, and every move I make is an additional loss of strength. If I raise my voice to call the elephant I will be weaker yet. No; I will not waste my substance that way. It's the duty of the elephant to come without calling.' So the donkey settles himself back and eventually starved to death. Long after, the fox when passing the hole saw a whitened skeleton, and remarked: 'If it be that the souls of animals are transmigrated into man, this poor, deluded donkey will be one of those merchants who can never afford to advertise.'

These are great fishing days. All that is needed is a day off, a hook and a string.

This weather proposition is a peculiar thing. Some days are summer, some're not.

There is only one man who can profit by an unsanitary city—that's the undertaker. But don't swat the undertaker; swat the trash heaps.

If the early settlers had turned back upon encountering obstacles, the great west would still be a virgin prairie. It takes backbone and "sticktoitiveness" to win in any undertaking.

Over Menard way they are using this editor's name to head a quarter-page advertisement of Waterfaucet's Grapeless Granules for People with Perfect Minds and Imperfect Stomachs. At first we were inclined to petition the governor to issue a riot call for the state militia in order to prevent the ruthless desecration of our rhythmic name, but on calmer reflection, we decided that henceforth good old Dr. Munyon would have nothing on us, and anyway it is very distingue (note the perfect use of a new word we discovered in our dictionary) to have your name associated with pills and such like.

The Rockport Enterprise is authority for the story that a man, who was a believer in the atlage, "See a pin and pick it up and all that day you'll have good luck," stooped to pick up a pin in front of the post office in Rockport the other day when his hat fell into the gutter, his glasses fell and broke on the pavement, his suspenders gave way behind, and the buttonhole in the back of his shirt collar burst. The Enterprise takes a pessimistic view of the situation. On the other hand, the man should consider himself lucky, because he could mop the dirt off his hat with a handkerchief, could have borrowed another pair of specs, he still had his suspenders left and he could substitute a shingle nail for a collar button. ## A Permanent Cure For Chronic Constipation

Although those may dispute it who have not tried it, yet thousands of others, who speak from personal experience, assert that there is a permanent cure for chronic constipation. Some testify they were cured for as little as fifty cents, years ago, and that the trouble never came back on them, while others admit they took several bottles before a steady cure was brought about. The remedy referred to is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been on the market for over a quarter of a century and has been popularized on its merits, by one person telling another. The fact that its strongest supporters are women and elderly people—the ones most persistently constipated—makes it certain that the claims regarding it as a permanent cure for constipation have not been exaggerated.

It is not violent like cathartic pills, salts or waters, but operates gently,

Now he is sound and well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for coughs and colds with excellent results." It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. #### COMMERCIAL CORNER

As has been noted by the editor, April 25th has been named by the state secretaries as a day for "spring cleaning." It will be observed by many cities. It is not an inviting job to fight filth, but it pays. We do not appreciate health until it is a little late. It seems that we have not the time to spare to estimate the value of our healthy condition until it is about time to call in the doctor. They say that these clean-up campaigns are hard on the doctors and undertakers and nurses. Still, we find these good folks usually taking the lead along these lines.

Brady should enter the contest for the prize for the cleanest city in the state. Even if we fail to get the prize of money and applause of the state, we have won something better—health. At this time Brady people should pull together. Many a race is lost and many a city is ruined by pulling apart.

Extend the hand of fellowship to both the little and big factories. The little ones of today will be the mammoth ones tomorrow. The building of a city depends upon industrial enterprises.

After you once start the "factory habit" it will be hard to stop. It is one thing above all others for the rapid development of our resources and the growth of the city. With our good agricultural resources to maintain the employees, we have ideal possibilities for growth.

Some real work is now going on in the Lohn fields. The men who are at work there really mean business. The steam is up and wheels will begin to turn. We look for something to happen almost any day. And when it does happen, then we will get busy.

For rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Try it and see how quickly it gives relief. For sale by Jones Drug Co.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Elam Harnish, known all through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 30th birthday with a friendly crowd of miners at the Circle City Tivoli. He is a general favorite, a hero and a pioneer in the new gold fields. The dance leads to heavy gambling in which over $100,000 is staked. Harnish loses his money and his mine but wins the mail contract of the district.

CHAPTER II.—Burning Daylight starts on his trip to deliver the mail with dogs and sledges. He tells his friends that the big Yukon gold strike will soon be on and he intends to be in it at the start. With Indian attendants and dogs he slips over the bank and down the frozen Yukon and in the gray light is gone.

CHAPTER III.—Harnish makes a sensationally rapid run across country with the mail, appears at the Tivoli and there is another characteristic celebration. He has made a record against cold and exhaustion and is now ready to join his friends in a dash to the new gold fields.

CHAPTER IV.—Harnish decides where the gold will be found in the up-river district and buys two tons of flour, which he declares will be worth its weight in gold before the season is over.

CHAPTER V.—When Daylight arrives with his heavy outfit of flour he finds the big flat desolate. A comrade discovers gold and Harnish reaps a rich harvest. He goes to Dawson, begins investing in corner lots and staking other miners and becomes the most prominent figure in the Klondike.

CHAPTER VI.—Harnish makes fortune after fortune. One lucky investment enables him to defeat a great combination of capitalists in a vast mining deal. He determines to return to civilization and gives a farewell celebration to his friends that is remembered as a kind of blaze of glory.

CHAPTER VII.—The papers are full of "The King of the Klondike" and Daylight is feted by the money magnates of the country. They take him into a big copper deal and the Alaskan miner finds himself amid the bewildering complications of high finance.

CHAPTER VIII.—Daylight is buncoed by the moneyed men and finds that he has been led to invest his eleven millions in a manipulated scheme. He goes to meet his disloyal business partners at their offices in New York City.

CHAPTER IX.—Confronting his partners with a revolver in characteristic frontier style, he threatens to kill them if his money is not returned. They are cowed into submission, return their stealings and Harnish goes back to San Francisco with his unimpaird fortune.

CHAPTER X.—Daylight meets his fate in Dede Mason, a pretty stenographer with a spoiled brother, whom she cares for. Harnish is much attracted towards her and interested in her family affairs.

CHAPTER XI.—He becomes an element in large investments on the Pacific coast and gets into the political ring. For a brief time he goes to inspect one of his properties in the country and momentarily is attracted back to the old life on the lonesome trail.

The young man laughed and shook his head.

"No, I'm a telegraph operator. But the wife and I decided to take a two-years' vacation, and . . . here we are. But the time's about up. I'm going back into the office this fall after I get the grapes off."

As Daylight listened, there came to him a sudden envy of this young fellow living right in the midst of all this which Daylight had traveled through the last few hours.

"What in thunder are you going back to the telegraph office for?" he demanded.

The young man smiled with a certain wistfulness.

"Because we can't get ahead here."

"(He hesitated an instant), and because there are added expenses coming. The rent, small as it is, counts; and besides, I'm not strong enough to effectually farm the place. If I owned it, or if I were a real husky like you, I'd ask nothing better. Nor would the wife." Again the wistful smile hovered on his face. "You see, we're country born, and after backing with cities for a few years, we kind of feel we like the country best. We've planned to get ahead, though, and then some day we'll buy a patch of land and stay with it."

Daylight could not persuade himself to keep to the traveled roads that day, and another cut across country to Glen Ellen brought him upon a canyon that so blocked his way that he was glad to follow a friendly cow-path. This led him to a small frame cabin. The doors and windows were open, and a cat was nursing a litter of kittens in the doorway, but no one seemed at home. He descended the trail that evidently crossed the canyon. Part way down, he met an old man coming up through the sunset. In his hand he carried a pail of foamy milk. He wore no hat, and in his face, framed with snow-white hair and beard, was the ruddy glow and content of the passing summer day. Daylight thought that he had never seen so contented looking a being.

"How old are you, daddy?" he queried.

"Eighty-four," was the reply. "Yes, sirree, eighty-four, and spryer than most."

"You must a' taken good care of yourself," Daylight suggested.

"I don't know about that. I ain't loafed none. I walked across the plains with an ox team and fit in jugs in '51, and I was a family man with seven youngsters. I reckon I was as old then as you are now, or pretty nigh on to it."

"Don't you find it lonely here?"

The old man shifted the pail of milk thing.

"What all depends," he said oracularly.

"I ain't never been lonely except cept when the old wife died. Some fellers are lonely in a crowd, and I'm one of them. That's the only time I'm lonely, is when I go to 'Prisco. But I don't go no more, thank you 'most to death. This is good enough for me. I've been right here in this valley since '54—one of the first settlers after the Spaniards."

The old man chuckled, and Daylight rode on, singularly at peace with himself and all the world. It seemed that the old contentment of trail and camp he had known on the Yukon had come back to him. He could not shake from his eyes the picture of the old pioneer coming up the trail through the sunset light. He was certainly going some for eighty-four. The thought of following his example entered Daylight's mind, but the big game of San Francisco vetoed the idea.

CHAPTER XII.

Instead of returning to the city on Monday, Daylight rented the butcher's horse for another day and crossed the bed of the valley to its eastern hills. As on the previous day, just for the joy of it, he followed cattle-trails at haphazard and worked his way up toward the summits. Coming out upon a wagon road that led upward, he followed it for several miles, emerging in a small, mountain-encircled valley, where half a dozen poor ranchers farmed the wine-grapes on the steep slopes. Beyond, the road pitched upward. Dense chaparral covered the exposed hillsides, but in the creases of the canyons huge spruce trees grew, and wild oats and flowers.

Late in the afternoon he broke through, and followed a well-defined trail down a dry canyon. The dry canyon gave place to one with a slender ribbon of running water. The trail ran into a wood-road, and the wood-road emerged across a small flat upon a slightly traveled country road. There were no farms in this immediate section, and no houses. The soil was meager, the bed-rock either close to the surface or constituting the surface itself. Manzanita and scrub-oak, however, flourished and walled the road on either side with a jungle growth. And out a runway through this growth a man suddenly scuttled in a way that reminded Daylight of a rabbit.

He was a little man, in patched overalls; bareheaded, with a cotton shirt open at the throat and down the chest. The sun was ruddy-brown in his face, and by it his sandy hair was bleached on the ends to peroxide blonde. He signed to Daylight to halt, and held up a letter.

"If you're going to town, I'd be obliged if you mail this," he said.

"I sure will," Daylight put it into his coat pocket. "Do you live hereabouts, stranger?"

But the little man did not answer. He was gazing at Daylight in a surprised and steadfast fashion.

"I know you," the little man announced. "You're Elam Harnish—Burning Daylight, the papers call you. Am I right?"

Daylight nodded.

"Well, I'm glad I wrote that letter this afternoon," the little man went on, "or else I'd have missed seeing you. I've seen your photo in the papers many a time, and I've a good memory for faces. I recognized you at once. My name's Ferguson."

"Do you live hereabouts?" Daylight repeated his query.

"Oh, yes. I've got a little shack back here in the bush a hundred yards and a pretty spring, and a few fruit trees and berry bushes. Come in and take a look. And that spring is a dandy. You never tasted water like it. Come in and try it."

Walking and leading his horse, Daylight followed the quick-stepping, eager little man through the green tunnel and emerged abruptly upon the clearing, if clearing it might be called, where wild nature and man's earth-scratching were inextricably blended. It was a tiny nook in the hills, protected by the steep walls of a canyon mouth. Here were several large oaks, evidencing a richer soil. The erosion of ages from the hillside had slowly formed this deposit of fat earth. Under the oaks, almost buried in them, stood a rough, unpainted cabin, the wide veranda of which, with chairs and hammocks, advertised an out-of-doors bedchamber. Daylight's keen eyes took in everything. The clearing was irregular, following the patches of the best soil, and every fruit tree and berry bush, and even each vegetable plant, had the water personally conducted to it. The tiny irrigation channels were everywhere, and along some of them the water was running.

Ferguson looked eagerly into his visitor's face for signs of approbation.

"What do you think of it, eh?"

"Hand-reared and manured, every blessed tree," Daylight laughed, but the joy and satisfaction that shone in his eyes contented the little man.

"Why, d'ye know, I know every one of those trees as if they were sons of

Announcement

To you, Madam—and to you, Mr. Grocer—

Actually, for five years, we have been studying beans—their selection, their cooking and their seasoning—with a view to putting up a dish not only superior to all others, but also good enough to meet our own standard of quality—White Swan quality—"better than the law requires."

At last we are satisfied—we've caught that elusive deliciousness, that simple goodness that is so infinitely hard to arrive at in canned goods—"that home cooked flavor." We're proud of

White Swan PORK AND BEANS WITH TOMATO SAUCE

Honestly, we've never tasted any beans so close to perfection in every particular of goodness. It is hard to see how they could be otherwise.

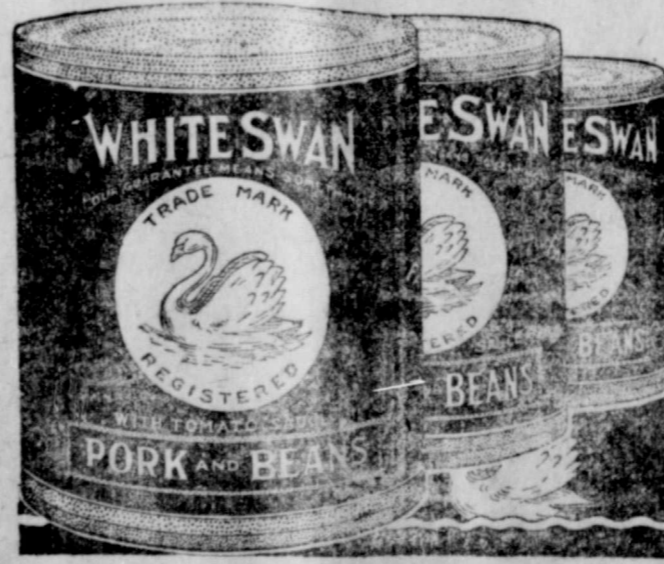

The beans are hand picked—all fat, large, perfect and of a uniform size—no broken beans, no "culls," none but the best. And cooked with such positive science that every bean is a regular little bag of meal in a skin that melts in your mouth—not a husk or hull left behind. Yet, mealy as they are, they're not dry, but rich with the delicious tomato sauce that's cooked with the beans; not just spread around them, thick here and scanty there—it is evenly distributed throughout.

And the fine, juicy pork adds its delicate touch to the flavor of the whole.

As to cleanness—if you expected to entertain company in your own clean kitchen, you could not be more immaculate in your care than we are in every detail of preparing and cooking White Swan Pork and Beans.

Positively, you must taste this luscious dish—you'll agree with every good word we've said, and more. And besides this deliciousness, think of the trouble saved—they're ready to serve; cold, or just heat them and eat them; that's all.

Your Choice of Three Sizes.

Ask Your Grocer

—he will be glad to serve you.

And now, Mr. Grocer—if you have not yet put this latest arrival into the White Swan family in stock, do so—we will back you up in every good word you say for it; further, if the customers to whom you've recommended White Swan Pork and Beans fail to agree with this enthusiastic endorsement, return their money and come back on us with every blessed can you have in stock. That's how sure we are of quality.

mine. I planted them, nursed them, fed them, and brought them up. Come on and peep at the spring."

"It's sure a hummer," was Daylight's verdict, after due inspection and sampling, as they turned back for the house.

The interior was a surprise. The cooking being done in the small, lean-to kitchen, the whole cabin formed a large living-room. A great table in the middle was comfortably littered with books and magazines. All the available wall space, from wall to ceiling, was occupied by filled bookshelves. It seemed to Daylight that he had never seen so many books assembled in one place. Skins of wild-cat, coon and deer lay about on the pine-board floor.

Daylight found himself charmed and made curious by the little man. Why was he hiding away here in the chaparral, he and his books? So it was, when between them they had washed and wiped the dishes and put them away, and had settled down to a comfortable smoke, that Daylight put his question.

"Look here, Ferguson. Every since we got together, I've been caving about to find out what's wrong with you, to locate a screw loose somewhere, but I'll be damned if I've succeeded. What are you doing here, anyway?"

Ferguson frankly showed his pleasure at the questions.

"First of all," he began, "the doctors wound up by losing all hope for me. Gave me a few months at best, and that, after a course in sanitariums and a trip to Europe and another to Hawaii. They tried electricity and forced feeding and fasting. I was a graduate of about everything in the curriculum. They kept me poor with their bills, while I went from bad to worse. The trouble with me was twofold; first I was a born weakling; and next, I was living unnaturally—too much work, and responsibility and strain. I was managing editor of the Times-Tribune in San Francisco, and I wasn't strong enough for the strain. Of course my body went back on me, and my mind, too, for that matter. It had to be bolstered up with whiskey, which wasn't good for it any more than was the living in clubs and hotels good for my stomach and the rest of me. So I quit, quit everything, absolutely, and came to live in the Valley of the Moon—that's the Indian name, you know, for Sonoma Valley. I lived in the lean-to the first year; then I built the cabin and sent for my books. I never knew what hap-pleness was before, nor health. Look at me now and dare to tell me that I look forty-seven."

"I wouldn't give a day over forty," Daylight confessed.

"Yet the day I came here I looked nearer sixty, and that was fifteen years ago."

They talked along, and Daylight looked at the world from new angles. Here was a man, neither bitter nor cynical, who laughed at the city-dwellers and called them lunatics; a man who did not care for money, and in whom the lust for power had long since died.

Proctor-Selle.

The most beautiful wedding of the season was that of Miss Beatrice Proctor to Mr. Bernard M. Selle on last Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at the Sacred Heart church, San Angelo, Texas, Rev. Nichols officiating.

The center altar was elaborately arranged in Easter lilies and ferns, with numbers of tiny electric lights and wax tapers. The altars on either side were decked with white roses and ferns, while large box plants were effectively placed along the chancel rail.

The bridesmaids, Misses Mary Turner and Fannie Reimers, accompanied by Messrs. Charlie Gungelman of Temple and John Reimers, led the way to the altar and were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Estella Bradley of Brady and the best man, Mr. Joe Proctor. Immediately after these came the little flower girls, Little Misses Agnes Turner and Marguerite Corkery, and they were followed by the bride and groom. The wedding ceremony was performed at the chancel railing, after which came the effective ring service.

The bridal party knelt during the solemn nuptial mass, while Brittan's high mass was sung by the choir, with Mrs. E. L. Mallory as organist.

The Ezell orchestra rendered Lohengrin's Wedding March as the party entered and as they left the altar Mendelssohn's Wedding march was softly played.

The bridesmaids wore blue chiffon voile draped in beaded net, caught at the waist and at the sleeves with pink satin rose buds with picture hats of white lace and pink and blue rose buds and white maline and carried arm bouquets of pink carnations and ferns.

Miss Bradley was clad in pink chiffon cloth over messaline, with trimmings of crystal fringe and pink rose buds. She wore a large pink picture hat and carried an arm bouquet of cream roses and asparagus fern.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white silk messaline en traine, with an orange wreath and veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The groom wore the conventional black.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Proctor, where the happy couple received congratulations from the many guests who attended. The bride and groom, amid the best wishes of a number of friends who bid them goodbye at the depot, departed in the afternoon for several points in the state. On their return they will be at home to their friends at 211 Avenue E.

LIVED ON RAW EGGS

Mr. Richard's Experience With Different Diets. Peaches and Buttermilk for Three Years.

Cecilton, Md.—Mr. George Richards, of this place, during the past 12 years, has probably tried more different diets than the average person would ever use in a lifetime.

What he has to say about his experiments, must therefore be highly interesting to anyone suffering from indigestion or stomach troubles of any kind.

He says: "For more than 12 years, I suffered with stomach troubles, and paid hundreds of dollars for doctor bills and medicines. I was also operated on for piles.

I lived on dried peaches and buttermilk for nearly three years. The only thing that would not give me pain was raw eggs. I was a physical wreck. I could not sleep, and was as near crazy as a man could well be.

I must say that after taking two 25-cent packages of Theodor's Black-Draught, it did me more good than all I ever spent for other medicines.

I have been working daily on the farm ever since, and I am as hard as iron. This purely vegetable remedy has been in successful use for more than 70 years. Try it. But be sure that it's Theodor's.

FOR AGED PEOPLE.

Old Folks Should Be Careful in Their Selection of Regulative Medicines.

We have a safe, dependable, and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorders. We are so certain that it will relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer it with our personal guarantee that it shall cost the user nothing if it fails to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Three sizes, 10c, 25c and 50c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. Jones Drug Co.
