Miss Olga Kennedy.

The death of Miss Olga Kennedy occurred suddenly Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock on the Shuler ranch, where she had accompanied the family of Judge Harvey Walker on a camping trip.

Miss Kennedy was a ward of Judge Walker's, having been in his charge the past eight or nine years, and having made her home with him almost continuously for the past three years. She was taken ill first in June, and about two weeks ago it was decided by the judge and his family to try camping out in the hopes of benefitting her health. To all appearances she was greatly benefitted by the change and up to this week showed marked improvement. Sunday she was taken with a chill, and Tuesday afternoon, almost without warning, the end came. Death was caused by tuberculosis.

Miss Kennedy was nineteen years of age, and was an orphan, her parents having died about eight years ago.

The funeral took place Wednesday morning, Rev. J. T. King conducting services, and the interment was made in Brady cemetery.

B. McDonald was here from Melvin yesterday. Mr. McDonald is a son-in-law of G. W. Hale and is at present engaged in farming in the Melvin country. Mr. McDonald was for six years and twelve days in the regular U. S. army, doing service in the Philippine Islands, but about a year ago decided to seek more peaceful pursuits.

W. H. (Hatfield) Adkins, who has just returned from Galveston, where he has been for the past several months absorbing knowledge in pharmaceutical terms and formulas, has put his newly acquired knowledge to use at once. He informs us that by taking a gallon of H₂O (water) and compressing it with the 37th part of a cubic foot of hot air one may, without any apparent effort, produce a ten-inch rain. This sounds very reasonable and practical and should be put into operation the very moment we begin to need rain.

PROGRESS AT OIL WELLS

STILL IN LIME ROCK AT W. WHITE WELL.

Messrs. Kiskaddon and Egan are this week completing the moving of their well rig from the Meers tract to the E. W. Harris ranch at Broadmoor and will commence a well as soon as the machinery can be put in operation.

The well on the W. N. White ranch is down to 1145 feet and is still in the lime rock. Good progress is being made and the drillers are hopeful of striking oil at any moment.

Messrs. Kiskaddon and Egan are this week completing the moving of their well rig from the Meers tract to the E. W. Harris ranch at Broadmoor and will commence a well as soon as the machinery can be put in operation.

The Cleo Oil Co. is still fishing for the lost stem in the well at Whiteland.

The rig on the W. N. White ranch will be moved to Mrs. L. Bradley's ranch at Fife as soon as the White well is completed. It is reported that a new company will be at work on a well on S. W. Colton's place within two weeks.

The Lohn Oil Co. has all their machinery in place for operations, but work is at a standstill. J. A. Copeland, manager for the company, having been called to Fort Worth last week on important business.

Deep Water Celebration.

Aransas Pass is preparing to celebrate the opening of Aransas Pass harbor with six days of entertainment, Sept. 7th to 12th inclusive. The U. S. Government has just spent $2,500,000 to secure deep water at Aransas Pass, and several millions more have been spent by individuals in the building of wharves, docks, warehouses, terminals, etc., and the citizens will utilize the occasion to show off the new Texas seaport to the world.

The expenses of the celebration are being defrayed by the citizens of Aransas Pass, and a cordial invitation is extended to all to come and see the ocean steamers loading cotton and all the many other sights of this newest of seaport towns.

GOOD GENERAL RAIN

MOST ALL SECTIONS OF THE COUNTY ARE VISITED.

Good Rains Reported From Eden Through to Coleman and Brownwood.

Good rains Wednesday night is the report from almost all sections of the county. The rain was especially good in the western part of the county and extending through to Brownwood. At Melvin a good rain is reported, the downfall beginning about 8 o'clock and continued to fall slowly throughout the night. At Lohn it also rained practically all night and was still raining yesterday morning. Tucker, Nine, Whiteland, Eden, Stacy, Fife and Waldrip were also visited by good rains, and a like report was had from Coleman and the territory from Rochelle to Brownwood.

The rain at Brady was very light, and although it continued from about 2 o'clock until morning, it fell so slowly as to do no more than lay the dust.

Menard had a very good shower; Mason had a shower, and at Voca a bare sprinkle was had.

During the rain lightning struck the church at Lohn, but fortunately no great damage was done.

Mrs. C. J. Danielson Dead.

The death of Mrs. C. J. Danielson occurred on Wednesday morning at her home in the Melvin community, and the sad news brought sorrow to the many friends of the family. Mrs. Danielson had been ill for about ten days, death being caused by appendicitis and a complication of troubles.

Mrs. Danielson was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malmstrom, and was 29 years of age. She had been married about thirteen years, and besides her husband and parents, leaves four children to mourn her loss. She was a good, Christian woman, a devoted member of the Swedish church, and was loved and esteemed by all.

The funeral took place at Melvin yesterday, services being conducted by Rev. Abner Hanson, assisted by Dr. Howe and Dr. O. E. Olander of Austin, and the body was laid to rest in the Melvin cemetery. The funeral cortege was the largest ever witnessed in Melvin, and demonstrated the great esteem in which she was held by all who knew her.

The Standard extends sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

DUSTY ITEMS.

Voca, Texas, Aug. 16.
Editor Brady Standard:
Hello correspondents and editor! How are you this warm morn'g? I'm fine. We all feel at home now, for the hot, dry winds bring dust, and then this place is named Dusty more so than ever.

We are glad to report that the three Freeman children and Grandma Baze are improving nicely.

A Remedy No Family Should Do Without

No matter how healthy a human being may be it is safe to say that every month or so passed without some obstruction of the bowels, in other words, constipation, even if only temporary. The bloating, the dull feeling, the loss of sleep, the loss of appetite, and you will awaken unrefreshed. Hence, it is important for you and for all the members of your family that a good, reliable laxative be always kept in the house for just such emergency. It is sure to be needed, and when needed you want it at hand. No family that is careful of its health can do without such a remedy. But the question of which remedy to have on hand is also of vast importance.

The laxative most highly recommended by the majority of intelligent Americans as being best for babies and grownups is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a liquid laxative- tonic, mild, and never grips, is effective on robust people and can be given with safety to an infant. Children like it because of its gentle qualities and because it is pleasant to the taste. It is the best all-around remedy you can have in the house for any disorder of the stomach, liver and bowels, and many people like Mrs. F. P. Elliott, 1800 W. Houston St., San Antonio, Texas, and Capt. J. A. H. Hosack, Cleburne, Texas, say they would as soon be without the necessities as without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

SWEDEN NEWS.

Rochelle, Texas, Aug. 13.
Editor Brady Standard:

May I come in, Mr. Editor and correspondents, and spin a few yarns. I am always glad to be in company with such a jolly band. And now as cotton chopping is over, will get to write a little oftener, if welcome.

Miss Alma Prentiss of San Benito is visiting relatives and friends in our busy burg for a few weeks. Miss Prentiss was once our school teacher and during her stay with us gained a host of friends, who extend to her a cordial welcome.

Miss Nina Hurd was the guest of Miss Esther Turn last Sunday.

Messrs. Gustaff Johnson, Eric Swenson, Shadrack Spoonemore and Frank W. Hurd were guests at the S. L. Hurd home last Sunday.

Little Master Garroll McCartney has been on the sick list the past week or so. We wish for the little man a speedy recovery.

Messrs. Freeman Hurd, Paul Johnson and Raleigh Ake attended the encampment at Rochelle last Saturday.

Only a few nights ago Mr. C. J. Hendrickson and his good wife threw open the doors of their beautiful country home to Sweden's fair women and brave men. This was given in honor of Miss Alma Prentiss of San Benito. The arrival of the guests was early, for they well knew what splendid entertainers Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson were. Miss Prentiss was charmingly gowned in pink marquisette and lace. Out-door games were enjoyed until ye host and hostess led the way to the spacious dining room, where punch and cake were served. Immediately after this the guests were invited into that grand old parlor and Mrs. Hendrickson sang some beautiful solos, followed by some quartettes by Messrs. Eric and Hugo Swenson, Irvine Hurd and Shadrack Spoonemore. Especially must I mention the instrumental solo, "The Happy Farmer," by Miss Ellen Hendrickson. It simply was fine. The midnight hour arrived too soon, for the guests were having such a good time they had to go home. In spite of threatening weather, we had a good old fashioned time all right. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson many more such happy occasions.

Messrs. Oscar Hanson and Lloyd Buntin attended services here last Sunday a week ago, they being the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Spears. We are only too glad to have these estimable gentlemen with us; we only wish they would make their visits often.

Mrs. Spears of Brady spent last week with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Spears.

Mr. and Mrs. Ev Simpson of Brady attended services here last Sunday. We are always glad to have visitors at any time. You are welcome, one and all.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hurd, Mr. J. M. Payne and Mrs. D. A. Hurd and little Miss Ruth, and sons, Messrs. Oscar, Willie, Walter and Irvine have just returned from a visit to Kimble and Menard counties. They report a splendid outing, but the land was worthless. They also said that the people out there haven't had any rain since Easter and we should be proud of our "Garden of Eden." They also said that they could sing "Home, Sweet Home" with reverence now.

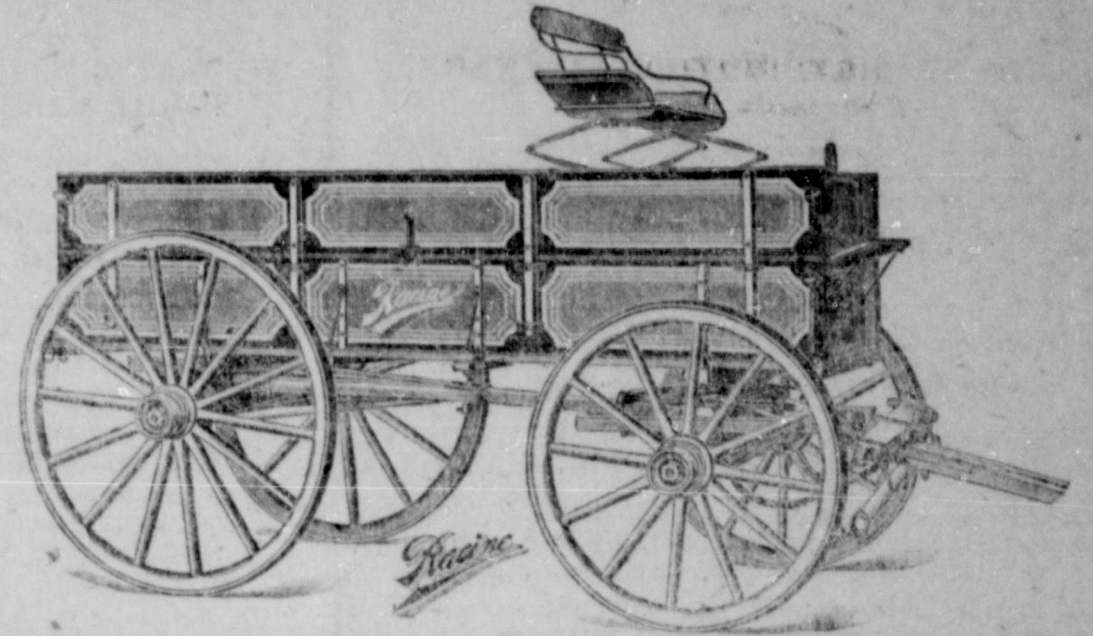

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Johnson and sons, Messrs. Paul and Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dutton and sons, Messrs. Harold and Georgie, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Engdahl and Messrs. Frank and Wm. Hurd, Shadrack Spoonemore and Oscar F. Johnson were among the many people who enjoyed the gulf breezes at Galveston last week. They all report a very pleasant trip. But, be it ever so humble, there's no place like home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Spears, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McCartney and Opal and Garroll, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Wilson and Archer and Fred Burgess and Miss Victoria Johnson were guests at "Sylvania Cottage", the S. L. Hurd home last Sunday.

Misses Ellen Hendrickson and Shirley Ford were the guests of Miss Edna Engdahl last week.

Good bargains for the cash, or will exchange for good, young merchantable horses or mules.

C. W. L. SCHAEG

Miss Segred Johnson spent the week with Miss Ruby Hurd last week.

Misses Pearl and Mollie Green of Midway attended services here Sunday.

Mr. F. W. Ake and wife and Lonette and Calvin, Mr. Ed Ake and wife and Mr. Freeman Green and wife are off on an eight or ten-day fishing spree. We wish for them all good luck and a large catch.

The Ladies Aid society met with Mrs. C. O. Johnson last Thursday.

Come again, all you good correspondents. I enjoy reading your letters. Old Woman, are all your water melons and musk melons gone yet?

As my letter is sorter lengthy, will close. With success, and good luck to all.

CALOMEL SOMETIMES CAUSES SALIVATION

Dodson's Liver-Tone Has All the Medicinal Properties of Calomel With None of Dangerous After-Effects.

You can get along without taking calomel yourself or giving it to your family when you can buy a substitute for it as good as Dodson's Liver-Tone. Dodson's Liver-Tone is a pure, harmless vegetable liquid that starts the liver to action just as surely as calomel does. But, unlike calomel, Dodson's Liver-Tone does not stimulate the liver too much. It cures constipation gently instead of making you more bilious than you were at first, and it can no more salivate you than a tablespoonful of maple syrup can salivate you. Dodson's Liver-Tone has given each perfect satisfaction to every person to whom Jones Drug Co. has sold a bottle that this store will give the money back to any person who buys a bottle and does not find it a perfect substitute for calomel. It is worth something to you to try a medicine with a guarantee like that.

"Brile coup-biclé?" came a voice, like an echo that had somehow become intoxicated in transit. It was Little Jimmie Wellington looking for more sympathy. "Whassa xis about brile coup-biclé?"

"Why, here's Little Buttercup!" sang out young Hudson, looking at him in amazed amusement.

"Did I un'tan' somebody say you're preparing for brile coup-biclé?" Lieutenant Shaw grinned. "I don't know what you understood, but that's what we're doing."

Immediately Wellington's great face began to churn and work like a big eddy in a river. Suddenly he was weeping. "Excuse these tears, zentlemen, but I once—I was once a b-b-bridge myself."

"He looks like a whole wedding party," was Ashton's only comment on the copious grief. It was poor Wellington's fate to hunt as vainly for sympathy as Diogenes for honesty. The decorators either ignored him or shunted him aside. They were interested in a strange contrivance of ribbons and a box that Shaw produced.

"That," Hudson explained, "is a little rice trap. We hang that up there and when the bridal couple sit down—biff! a shower of rice all over them. It's bad, eh?"

Everybody agreed that it was a happy thought, and even Jimmie Wellington, like a great baby, bounding from tears to laughter on the instant.

And then the angelic cheer must have died out as the one great burrah of a crowded ball-ground is quenched in air when the home team's vitally needed home run swerves outside the line and drops useless as a stupid foul ball.

In a shabby old hack, were two of the happiest runaways that ever sought a train. They were not miserable like the young couple in the taxicab. They were white-haired both. They had been married for thirty years. Yet this was their real honeymoon, their real elopement.

The little woman in the timid gray bonnet clapped her hands and tittered like a schoolgirl.

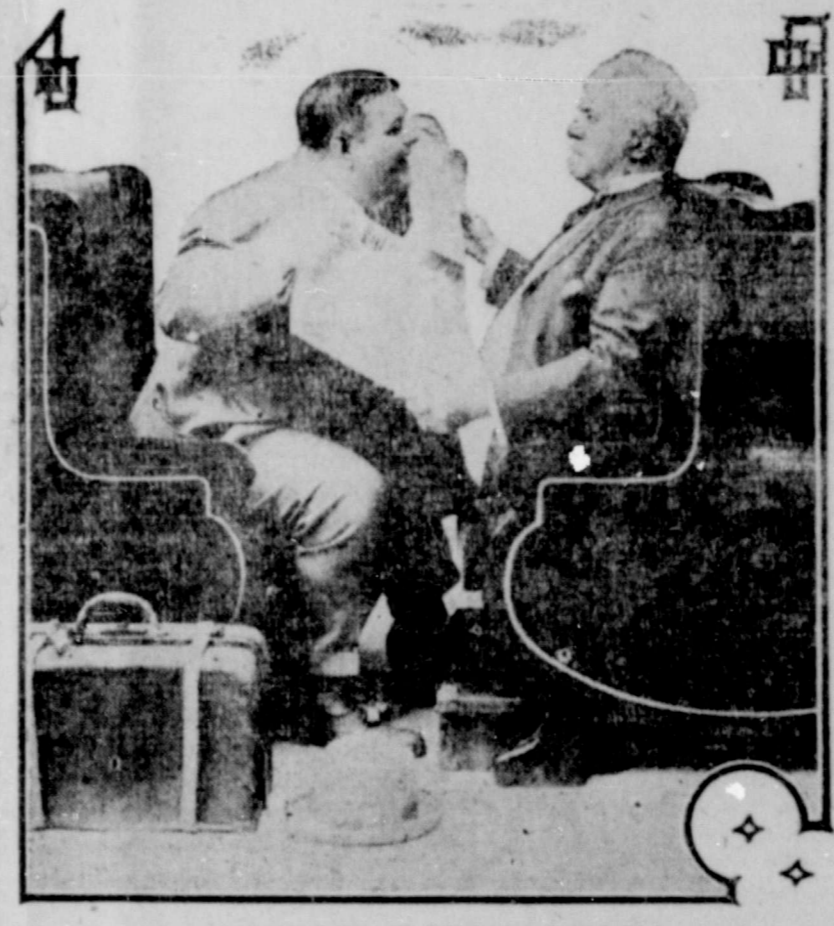

"Oh, Walter, I can't believe we're really going to leave Ypsilanti for a while. Oh, but you've earned it after thirty years of being a preacher."

"Hush. Don't let me hear you say the awful word," said the little old man in the little black hat and the close-fitting black bib. "I'm so tired of it, Sally, I don't want anybody on the train to know it."

"They can't help guessing it, with your collar buttoned behind."

And then the amazing minister actually dared to say, "Here's where I change it around." What's more, he actually did it. Actually took off his collar and buttoned it to the front. The old carriage seemed almost to rock with the earthquake of the deed.

"Why, Walter Temple!" his wife ex-

CALMLY TORE IT DOWN THE MIDDLE.

was exhorting: "A rishe trap? That's absolutely splendid—grees's invensh' modern times. I must stick around and see her when she flops." And then he lurched forward like a too-obliging elephant. "Let me help you."

Mrs. Whitcomb, who had now mounted a step ladder and poised herself as gracefully as possible, shrieked with alarm, as she saw Wellington's bulk rolling toward her frail support. If Hudson and Shaw had not been football veterans at West Point and had not known just what to do when the center rush comes bucking the line, they could never have blocked that flying wedge. But they checked him and impelled him backward through his own curtains into his own berth.

Finding himself on his back, he decided to remain there. And there he remained, oblivious of the carnival preparations going on just outside his canopy.

CHAPTER VII.

The Masked Minister.

Being an angel must have this great advantage at least, that one may sit in the grandstand overlooking the earth and enjoy the ludicrous blunder of that great blind man's buff we call life.

This night, if any angels were watching Chicago, the Mallory mix-up must have given them a good laugh, or a good cry—according to their natures.

Here were Mallory and Marjorie, still merely engaged, bitterly regretting their inability to get married and to continue their journey together. There in the car were the giggling conspirators preparing a bridal mockery for their sweet confusion.

Then the angels might have nudged one another and said:

"Oh, it's all right now. There goes the minister hurrying to their very car. Mallory has the license in his pocket, and here comes the parson."

Hoopla!

claimed. "What would they say in Ypsilanti?"

"They'll never know," he answered, defiantly.

"But your bib!" she said. "I've thought of that, too," he cried, as he whipped it off and stuffed it into a handbag. "Look what I've bought." And he dangled before her startled eyes a long affair which the sudden light from a passing lamp-post revealed to be nothing less than a flaring red tie.

The old lady touched it to make sure she was not dreaming it. Then, omitting further parley with fate, she knatched it away, put it round his neck, and, since her arms were embracing him, kissed him twice before she knotted the ribbon into a flaming bow. She sat back and regarded the vision a moment, then fung her arms round him and hugged him till he gasped:

"Watch out—watch out. Don't crush my cigars!"

"Cigars! Cigars!" she echoed, in a daze.

And then the astounding husband produced them in proof.

"Genuine Lillian Russells—five cents straight."

"But I never saw you smoke."

"Haven't taken a puff since I was a young fellow," he grinned, wagging his head. "But now it's my vacation, and I'm going to smoke up."

She squeezed his hand with an earlier ardor: "Now you're the old Walter Temple I used to know."

"Sally," he said, "I've been traveling through life on a half-fare ticket. Now I'm going to have my little fling. And you brace up, too, and be the old mischievous Sally I used to know. Aren't you glad to be away from those sewing circles and gossip-bees, and—"

"Ugh! Don't ever mention them, it's a shudder. Then she, too, felt a tinge of recurring spring-tide. "If you start to smoke, I think I'll take up flirting once more."

He pinched her cheek and laughed, as the engine loomed up. "As the saying is, go as far as you go."

size and I'll leave the coast clear."

He kept his promise, too, for they were no sooner on the train and snugly bestowed in section five, than he was up and off.

"Where are you going?" she asked.

"To the smoking-room," he swaggered, brandishing a dangerous-looking cigar.

"Oh, Walter," she snickered, "I feel like a young runaway."

"You look like one. Be careful not to let anybody know that you're a"—he lowered his voice—"an old preacher's wife."

"I'm as ashamed of it as you are," she whispered. Then he threw her a kiss and a wink. She threw him a kiss and winked too. And he went along the aisle eyeing his cigar gloatingly.

As he entered the smoking-room, lighted the weed and blew out a great puff with a sigh of rapture, who could have taken him, with his feet cocked up, and his red tie rakishly askew, for a minister?

Mrs. Walter Temple.

And Sally herself was busy disguising herself, loosening up her hair coquettishly, smiling the primness out of the set corners of her mouth and even—let the truth be told at all costs—even peering a pink-powdered puff over her pale cheeks with guilty surreptitiousness.

Thus arrayed she was soon joining the conspirators bedecking the bow for the expected bride and groom. She was the youngest and most mischievous of the lot. She felt herself a bride again, and vowed to protect this timid, little wife to come from too much hilarity at the hands of the conspirators.

CHAPTER VIII.

A Mixed Pickle.

Mrs. Whitcomb had almost blushed when she had murmured to Lieutenant Hudson:

"I should think the young couple would have preferred a stateroom."

And Mr. Hudson had flinched a little as he explained:

"Yes, of course. We tried to get it, but it was gone."

It was during the excitement over the decoration of the bridal section, that the stateroom-tenants slipped in unobserved.

First came a fluttering woman whose youthful beauty had a certain hue of experience, saddening and wiser. The porter brought her in from the station-platform, led her to the stateroom's concave door and passed in with her luggage. But she lingered without, a Peri at the gate of Paradise. When the porter returned to bow her in, she shivered and hesitated, and then demurred:

"Oh, porter, are you sure there's nobody else in there?"

The porter chuckled, but humored her panic.

"I ain't nobody. Shall I look under the seat?"

To his dismay, she nodded her head violently. He rolled his eyes in wonderment, but returned to the stateroom, made a pretense of examination, and came back with a face full of reassurance. "No'm, they's nobody there. Take a mighty small-size burglar to squeeze unda-tha bald-er-berth. No'm, nobody there."

"Oh!"

The gasp was so equivocal that he made bold to ask:

"Is you pleased or disappointed?"

The mysterious young woman was too much agitated to rebuke the impudence. She merely sighed: "Oh, porter, I'm up anxious."

"I'm not—now," he muttered, for she handed him a coin.

"Porter, have you seen anybody on board that looks suspicious?"

"Everybody looks suspicious to me, Missy. But what was you expecting—especial?"

"Oh, porter, have you seen anybody that looks like a detective in disguise?"

"Well, they's one man looks 'a if he was disguised as a balloon, but I don't believe he's no sloop-bound."

"Well, if you see anybody that looks like a detective and he asks for Mrs. Foodick—"

"Mrs. What-dick?"

"Mrs. Foodick! You tell him I'm bedecked!" And she gave him another coin.

CAN'T STOMACH IT.

The reason why Claud Callan cannot stomach Woodrow Wilson as the presidential nominee of the Democratic party is not far to see. When the distribution of postoffices comes off as a result of Woodrow's election, Claude want to stand no chance of indigestion from feeding at the pie counter.

It has rained. Write it in de book.

Who cares that the Menard girls are ugly so long as their daddies are rich?

Just imagine your place looked like the parks around the union depot. would it be worth while?

A little rain goes a long way—at least in cooling the atmosphere and reviving drooping spirits.

Good sidewalks oespears the owner's pride in the appearance of his home and surroundings, as well as his love of comfort and convenience.

Keep everlastingly after the brass heaps, the rubbish pile and the stagnant pools. They are the breeding places of mosquitos, as well as the hot beds of disease.

Brady has several beautiful sites for a park, and nothing could prove more attractive than a sandy spot, where the citizens could gather and enjoy the cool of an evening.

The "Swat the fly" movement needs pushing in Brady. We need by traps in every part of the city, and with little expense in this direction the pest may be practically annihilated.

"Where is Menard," questions the good looking girl from Saituit. Diligent search upon the part of several noted geographers discloses that it is a suburb of Peg Leg crossing.

COMMERCIAL CORNER
By the Secretary.

We suggested some needed improvements in our last article and promised a similar suggestion for this week.

The trees in our court house yard have been the pride of many of our people. They have added much to the looks of the square and the general appearance of the city. At this time they are in great need of water. Already some of them look as if they were almost dead. May we suggest that the custodian of our court house allow the janitor to look after the watering of them.

To improve the looks, help along the line of convenience and especially help the sanitary condition of the square, the hitching posts, chain and fence should be removed from court house grounds. Very few towns the size of Brady permit the crowded scenes we have here, especially on Saturdays around our square of horses and vehicles. There are plenty of better hitching places where the grounds can be regularly looked after. Our square has become the most prolific place we have for the generation of flies and other similar pests. We hope our people will encourage our commissioners to remove the fence and the hitching rack on the square.

Our city health officer should not permit the throwing of empty cans within the city limits. Among those who camp along the creek, there is an accumulation of rubbish that looks very ugly at this time. This kind of stuff has proven good incubators for all kinds of pests and vermin. This needs attention now. It will be too late after typhoid spreads from these piles of refuse.

Last year we had a "clean-up" day that resulted in the taking out of our city several wagon loads of rubbish. That kind of work always pays large dividends in health and immunity from mosquitos and flies and bad health. Why not repeat the dose? We need another very much now.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE RIGHT

If you have been running your store on chance, taking the business which happened to come your way, STOP IT.

The money you spend for rent, for clerk hire, for up-keep and your investment in stock, makes too big an item to hazard.

You can make sure that what you are doing, and the honest bargains you have to offer, will come to the attention of thousands of prospective customers if you will get inside these columns.

A well written advertisement of your business in this paper will go straight to the people you want to reach, and the result will relieve you of the worry you can't help but have, if you are running your business on chance.

The New Platform.

Here are the principal features in the platform Gov. Colquitt's supporters have drafted for presentation to the Democratic convention at San Antonio:

Saloon closing from 9:30 p. m. to 7:30 a. m.

Provisions to enable cities or towns to keep saloons out of residence districts or other specified places.

Privileges for counties to adopt the original package law.

Compulsory arbitration for labor disputes.

Civil service for state employes.

Educational reforms, including better support for schools and an independent source of revenue for them.

A revision of the Terrell election law.

Abolishment of the present state insurance board.

Prohibiting corporations from contributing to campaign funds.

Prison reforms, both in prison practices and finances.

Bonded warehouses for holding cotton.

Revision of game, oyster and fish supervision laws.

Indorsement of Woodrow Wilson.

Favoring 5 cent tax for Confederate veterans purposes.

Laws to prevent extravagance in the management of fraternal insurance companies and similar institutions and laws to prohibit the payment of excessive amounts to promoters of corporations.

A stock and bond law amendment permitting railroads to issue bonds for permanent improvements, etc.

Revision of the laws of Texas.

The Preacher's Last Appeal.

Brothers and Sisters, I have come to bid you good-bye. I don't think God loves this church because none of you ever did. I don't think you love one another because I never marry any of you. I don't think you love me because you have not paid me my salary. Your donations have been musty fruits and wormy apples and decayed cabbage, and by their fruits ye shall know them. I go to a better place. I have called to be chaplain of a penitentiary, and where I go you cannot come now, but I go to prepare a place for you, and may God have mercy on your souls. Amen.—Ex.

We have sold out remarkably clean for this season of the year, but still have numerous excellent values in every department. Wm. Connolly & Co.

CANNOT BE TOO CAREFUL

Advertising Man Could Not Stand for Mixing Religion With Business Announcements.

"I want," explained the advertising man, "I want a picture that has the idea of speed in it—real speed. I want it to go at a regular marathon. But it's got to be new. It's got to have a punch. I'm tired of these here messenger boys and aeroplanes. What I want is for you to draw a picture that has speed in it without messenger boys and flying machines."

"Yes, I see." The artist from whom the drawing was being ordered nodded and picked up a pencil. "How about Mercury? Something like this."

He sketched, rapidly, the figure of the messenger of Olympus, winged sandals, winged cap, symbolic staff, and all. The advertising man watched him in silence, and when the tentative drawing was finished looked it over approvingly.

"Seems all right," he commented. "But what does it mean? Who's Mercury?"

"Oh, Mercury? He was the speediest thing that ever lived," the artist declared. "Mercury was the god of speed, you know."

But the advertising manager gave one long, regretful look at the sketch and shook his head.

"Too bad," he murmured sadly. "Too bad; I liked its looks, but it won't do. It won't do, young man. We can't get mixed up with anyone's religion like that."

SAVED!

Mr. Jones—Ah! 'tis beginning to rain! How lucky, Miss Smith, that I happened along wit' me umbrella!

OLD-TIME SUNDAY GOLF.

Golf appears to have given the seventeenth century Sabbath administrators of Scotland more trouble than any other form of frivolity. In the previous century the fascination of the game had Sunday license, but in the seventeenth the clubs were banned during the hours of divine worship. Here is a typical entry from the registers of Perth in January, 1604:

"The visitors report that guid order was kept the last Sabbath, except that they found some young boys playing at the golf in the North Inch, in the time of preaching afternoon, who were warned then by the officers to compare before the session this day." The half-dozen culprits escaped with a fine of "ane merk" and a public exhibition of themselves to the congregation.

CONFIRMATION.

Miss Oldeigh—What are you looking at me for? You're a rude little boy.

Small Pitchers—My mamma said you wasn't any chick-in.

Miss Oldeigh—Oh, she did, did she?

Small Pitchers—But papa didn't think so.

Miss Oldeigh—Why, you're not rude; you're a nice little boy. Tell me, now, what did papa say?

Small Pitchers—Papa said you were an old hen.

A LEGAL CURE.

"That blind man won his suit for the recovery of his building lot."

"Ah? Then he got his site back, too."

GREAT TEMPTATION.

"Gyglor tells his wife some tremendous yarns."

"Ah, well; you can't blame him. She believes everything he tells her."

THE CAUSE.

"What gives Jack Pointer that dogged expression?"

"I think it is his pug nose."

Senior League Entertains.

Invitations were extended to the Philathea and Baracca classes by the leaguers for a social gathering on Tuesday night.

This gathering was unique and very interesting, for almost all who were present represented either a present day historical or mythical character.

After the greeting of welcome and words of wonder and admiration were exchanged, the tunes of a march summoned the jolly crowd from the lawn into the parlor of the Methodist parsonage.

Here a program consisting of piano and cornet music, singing and short addresses was rendered. Each and every number was greatly enjoyed.

The lawn proved to be a center of amusement after the parlor exercises. Games of various sorts and conversation caused merry peals of laughter to float into the air of the beautiful night. It was indeed a scene reminding one of Fairyland.

Even Fairy folks enjoy delicious cakes and refreshing punch therefore the following welcomed the summons to the dining room, and expressed themselves that League socials are very pleasant features, and wished that these gatherings may occur again from time to time: Mrs. James T. Mann, Colonial dame; Mrs. Dr. Callan, Japanese lady; Mrs. A. D. Wright, English maid; Mrs. J. T. King, Indian maiden; Miss Nell Jackson, Indian maiden; Mrs. R. V. The latter will be their guest for several days. Mr. Stiles left Tuesday to look after some property in the Panhandle.

Mrs. Benham will leave Monday night for St. Louis, where she will spend two weeks inspecting the newest arrivals in Fashion's greatest center. As usual, Mrs. Benham will purchase a large and selected stock for her millinery department, as well as the latest and best for every department of the popular Benham store, and her return will be eagerly anticipated by all the fair sex.

Evangelist Lockett Adair and J. E. Cason and J. C. Cason will leave this afternoon for Greenville, where they will spend a few days at Mr. Adair's home. They will make the trip in the evangelist's car. After a few days spent there, the party will return to Brownwood and about September 1st will go to San Angelo to hold a meeting.—Brownwood Bulletin.

To the Sheriff or Any Constable of McCulloch County, Greeting:— You are hereby commanded to—of 10 per cent. per annum from date when due. It is understood and agreed that failure to pay this note or any installment of interest thereon when due, or to pay any other obligation given or assumed as part purchase money of said land or any installment of interest thereon when due, shall, at the election of the holder of them, or any of them, mature all notes and other obligations given or assumed as part payment of said property.

It is hereby specially agreed, that if this note is placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, or if collected by suit or in probate or bankruptcy proceedings, I, or either of us agree to pay 10 per cent additional on the principal and interest due, as attorney's fees. D. H. Miller.

Said note due on or before January 1st, 1913, is note No. 2 of said series of notes and is in words and figures substantially the same as Note No. 1, except said note No. 2 is due on or before January 1st, 1913. Girl of the Period. Little Girl, you look so small. Don't you wear no clothes at all? Don't you wear a sunny shirt? Don't you wear no petticoats? Just your corset and your hose? Are these all your nateclothes? Little girl, when on the street, You appear to be all feet. With your dress so very tight, You surely are an awful sight, Nothing on to keep you warm, Crazy just to show your form. Little girl, you don't live long, Just because you dress all wrong. Can't you wear more underclothes? Than your corset and your hose? After awhile I do believe, You will dress like Mother Eve. —Austin Statesman.

DON'T EXPERIMENT.

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Brady Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are common symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in Brady. Follow the advice of a Brady citizen. J. D. Blackburn, farmer, Brady, Texas, says: “Six years ago I suffered from a pain across my kidneys so severe that I had to give up and go to bed. My wife rubbed me with liniments and did everything to relieve me of my suffering, but nothing relieved me until I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was in pretty bad shape when I began taking them, but after I took a few doses I felt relief, and my kidneys began to get back to their normal condition. My trouble began to disappear. Since then I always have a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills in the house and they give me the best results when I use them.”

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. To the Public. THIS LADY'S GOOD APPETITE

Mrs. Hansen, in a Letter From Mobile, Tells How She Gained It.

Mobile, Ala.—“I suffered for seven years, with womanly trouble,” writes Mrs. Sigurd Hansen in a letter from this city. “I felt weak and always had a headache and was always going to the doctor. At last I was operated on, and felt better, but soon I had the same trouble. My husband asked me to try Cardui. I felt better after the first bottle, and now, I have a good appetite and sleep well. I feel fine, and the doctor tells me I am looking better than he ever saw me.” If you are sick and miserable, and suffer from any of the pains due to womanly trouble—try Cardui. Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients that have been found to act curatively on the womanly constitution. For more than fifty years, it has been used by women of all ages, with great success. Try it. Your druggist sells it.

Class Affair.

Mrs. S. A. Benham honored the young men of her class with a delightful feast in the way of a watermelon feast at the dam last Friday evening.

The party gathered at this picturesque spot at sunset, when quite a number of iced melons were enjoyed, after which various games were enjoyed until 11 o'clock. This was indeed a delightful evening, the kind that is guaranteed when Mrs. Benham is hostess. She has planned a number of affairs lately for her Sunday school class in order that she might draw the class closer together, thus benefiting its members both socially and spiritually. The coming of another occasion is looked forward to with pleasure.

Those included in the party were Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Benham, Mrs. Arthur Wood and children, Misses Laura Lee White, Ruth Campbell, Marie Cornell, Mary Schaege, Louise Hardison, Maud Sheridan, Nora Sheridan, Olga Schaege, Ruby Wood, Hattie Malloy of Ferris; Messrs. Lee Quicksall, Silas Mayo, A. Reissner, Clarence Snider, Paul Calvert, Oscar Lang, Elmer Baze, U. G. Hardison, Harry Schwenker, Peter Cooke.

Dance.

The ever popular summer dances continue in spite of the warm evenings, and that given on Tuesday evening was indeed as charming as the rest.

The Brady Concert band rendered a program of their choicest selections, which was enjoyed to the highest extent by the gay party.

Those in attendance were Misses Carlita Matthews, Rosa Stallings, Addie Conner, Mozelle Glenn, Maud Sheridan, Gillic Macy, Stella Sayle, Laura Lee White, Ruby Payne of Mason, Estella Bradley, Hattie Malloy of Ferris; Messrs. Lee Quicksall, Jamie Brook, Willie Crothers, Harry Schwenker, Max

Scharff, Charlie Yeager, Steve Ballou, Egan, Kiskaddon, Callahan and Horace Higginbotham of Dublin.

Outing.

The beautiful pecan grove at the dam was the chosen spot for the watermelon feast given on Monday afternoon from 4:00 to 7:30 for the pleasure of the members of the Presbyterian Sunday school.

The balmy summer afternoon was ideal, and some fifty young people were included in this delightful outing.

Games were played to a heart's content, after which numbers of luscious melons were sliced and served. A drive back to town on hay wagons was another pleasant feature to the occasion.

Mrs. A. M. Martin of Waco acted as chaperone for the afternoon.

Girls' Club.

Miss Zuma Long entertained the Girls' Embroidery club most successfully yesterday afternoon from 4 until 6:30 at her pretty bungalow home in North Brady.

Dainty refreshments of chilled fruit and wafers were served at the close of the afternoon.

The club will meet on next Thursday with Miss Esther Anderson.

On Friday evening Miss Sarah Johanson was hostess to a pretty party complimenting Misses Exa Tyson of Rising Star, Katy Wilson of Calvert and Mr. Marion Martin of Waco.

The house was beautifully arranged in a profusion of roses and ferns and lighted by soft shaded electric lights.

Seven tables were set for progressive games, unique hand-painted tallies holding the score.

A delectable course of grape ice and cake was served.

Miss Johanson's genuine hospitality was so thoroughly enjoyed that the guests were reluctant to leave and lingered to the last moment allowable.

Those present were Misses Mary Estella Thompson, Sallie Miller, Gladys Wolf, Lesslie Samuels, Lesslie Bradley, Katy Wilson, Exa Tyson, Ruth Schaege, Flora Schaege, Lucile Benham, Mary Brooks; Messrs. Louie Glenn, Cephus Bumgardner, Charles Koerth, Marion Martin, R. H. Long, Marion Hardison, Orval Jackson, Neil Yeager, Howard Campbell, Joe Satterwhite.

PERSONAL ITEMS.

Mrs. E. A. Jones of Millersview was the guest of Mrs. Mary Jones here all last week.

Mrs. John McGown of Lampasas spent last week with her sister, Mrs. S. E. Goodson.

Miss Ruby Payne of Mason was the guest of Miss Vivian Jordan the first of the week.

Mrs. Mattie Morris of Brownwood has been the guest of Mrs. Wm. Burgess the past week.

Miss Clara Webster returned to her home at Pontotoc Monday, after a short visit here.

Miss Lucile Yantis returned Tuesday from a pleasant visit in Comanche and Brownwood.

Mrs. M. J. Whitfield of Millersview is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Globber, for a few weeks.

Mr. Horace Higginbotham of Dublin came in Tuesday and will be the guest of Messrs Joe and William White for some time.

Miss Carrie Berry and grandmother, Mrs. Mayo, came in Friday from Arp, where they have been the past month visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Globber are enjoying a visit from his mother, Mrs. A. Globber, and sister, Miss Agnes, of Ballinger, who arrived this morning.

Messrs. Wm. Crothers, Joe White, Jamie Brook, William White and Horace Higginbotham of Dublin are enjoying the week end camping on the Llano river near Junction.

Mrs. Mary Jones left Monday for Dallas, where she will remain in the millinery shops some two weeks, when she will assist Mrs. Moore in conducting her millinery department here this fall and winter.

Mrs. A. G. Walker came in Saturday from Kansas City, where she spent a pleasant month with her son, Mr. Lee Walker. Miss Helen, who accompanied her mother, will spend a week or ten days in Austin before returning home.

MORE POWER ON THE PLOW

By Hiram H. Shepard.

The following article has been handed us by J. G. Matthews, who endorses the same, and states that practical experience has taught him the truth of the sentiments expressed.

This morning I went out to plow a small field of new ground that has been in cultivation but two seasons. Originally, two years ago, this field was brushy, cut-over land that had been in heavy timber a number of years ago. It was not only covered with large old stumps but with hundreds of small stumps from the last clearing. The first year the ground was plowed the soil was so full of roots and grubs that it was possible to only "scratch" the surface with the plow. The second year plowing was some easier, as many of the roots had rotted during the first year of cultivation to corn, and some few of the old stumps had been pulled out.

With this season's plowing, nearly all of the roots have decayed except the very largest stumps and grubs have rotted enough to be turned out with the plow, providing there is enough power ahead of the plow to pull them out when the coulter or share strikes them. We are using a regular wooden-beamed stump or new ground plow for this work. It is an 8-inch plow with a straight upright coulter turned back at the bottom to slide over large roots and prevent them from being caught with the nose of the plow. It does perfect work for the place with one who knows how at the handles, and a strong and steady team to pull the machine.

This morning I hitched our main team of horses to this plow to begin work. The plow cut a good furrow, but the pulling was hard. Nothing more than one team had been worked to the plow before, yet now the pulling was so hard for plowing as deep as desired that it was decided to hitch on a third horse. The plan worked out even better than expected. With the third horse a wider and deeper furrow was turned and the work was slightly easier on each horse. Also in striking a stump or heavy root there was more spring to the even and not so much sudden jerking on the horses. The soil is being plowed from 9 to 10 inches deep, which is about twice as deep as was possible with the same plow and two horses when the land was new. Turning new ground soil 10 inches deep means a loose seed bed of from 12 to 14 inches depth, which ought to be deep enough for ideal root penetration.

One reason why we wished to plow this particular field very deep was that it is on a sloping hillside. None of the soil so far has washed down the hill. We are plowing deep so that the water from heavy rains will be absorbed and held instead of washing over the surface. The plowing is done along the hillside on a level as nearly as possible, so that each furrow will act as a trough for catching and holding water.

I believe that the majority of farmers do not begin to realize the immense value of deep plowing on hilly land. Anyone knows that seed planted in soil that has been only scratched on the surface will not produce profitable crops. Plowing 3 or 4 inches deep is better than lightly scratching the surface, but plowing 6 or 8 inches is better, and plowing 10 or 12 inches deep is better still. Our regular average crop yields could be almost doubled by regular plowing twice as deep as we do. The reason that dynamiting the soil is so good for fruit trees and other crops is that the subsoil is broken up for greater aeration, soil disintegration, and deeper root penetration. Plowing deep has similar results.

The business farmer of today and tomorrow must have more power for his plows, not to turn over more soil in a given time, but to turn it deeper and better. Some claim that plowing land deep brings up yellow clay and other deep soil that is not good for the plants. Of course, deep plowing implies other good methods of handling the soil. If yellow clay or other poor soil lies only a few inches below the surface, it is the business of the owners to manure the land and turn the manure together with the heavy clay to make it darker colored, loose and fertile. Make the soil deeper and richer by putting more power onto the plow for plowing very deep furrows and turning surface trash down into the furrow to decay for forming humus and transforming the insoluble subsoil into friable and soluble matter.

Working the soil very deep also means increasing its water-holding capacity, which means very much in the growth and maturity of any crop. Relatively poor land will grow good crops with an abundance of soil moisture for all the growing season. Deeply plowed land catches and stores the water of rains, while shallow plowed land allows the water to run away and lost to the growing crop.

Many in plowing try to cover as much area as possible in a given time. The aim should be to let area take care of itself and concentrate all efforts on depth. Use a strong plow, but one with a narrow share for a small team. A 10-inch plow is fully large enough for the average-sized farm team, while a 12-inch plow is about the right size for the two-horse draft team. The latter team can draw a large plow run shallow, but they cannot draw it easily all day with the plow put down where it should go. A 14-inch plow is plenty large for a medium-sized three-horse team. If you wish to grow large crops instead of telling your neighbor how much land you plowed in one day, use three good horses to a 12-inch plow, and put it down to bring up soil that has never before seen daylight.

Plowing at best is the heaviest work on the farm for the horses. More power must be applied to the plow, for plowing deeper and not faster, if we are to grow the large and profitable crops we read about. Purchase an extra horse or team for your plowing, or use a tractor for the purpose. The time has come when the gasoline engine, the needed power of the farm. The motor car and the gas tractor will aid in furnishing the much-needed horses will have plenty to do. Power is required to do work. We are only beginning to realize that more of it must be used to make the small and large acres produce two tons or two bushels where they have produced only one before. Apply more power to the plowing first, and then more to the other farm operations. Results will tell.
