

COUNTY COURT JURORS.

For Term of Court Beginning Monday, January 20th.

First Week, January 20th.

Axel Youngquist, J. V. Chandler, Elmer Baze, W. L. Bradford, A. H. Broad, Henry Carlson, C. P. Gray, J. R. Harrell, C. H. Longley, T. W. Case, T. A. Dial, J. F. Kiser, E. Pool, Ben Anderson, D. S. Cox, S. A. Benham.

Second Week, January 27th.

W. H. Adkins, R. F. Pearson, Edgar Beakley, W. S. Lee, Tom Heath, G. A. Russell, L. M. Wynn, C. Blomstrom, J. D. Griffith, J. W. Burk, Asa Bell, Ed Jackson, O. L. McShan, V. B. Deaton, Nat Randals, G. W. Fry.

O. D. Mann & Sons are following their usual custom of presenting their friends and customers with handsome calendars for the new year. The calendar with which they are remembering the business firms of Brady is a work of art, being a reproduction of Karl Kohler's famous painting entitled "The Winners." The painting portrays two thoroughbred horses bedecked with blue ribbons held by a maiden who is herself a "winner." The picture is mounted upon a handsomely lithographed four foot hanger, and the calendar pad contains figures of a size so that "he who runs may read." Nothing could have been more useful or acceptable, as well as ornamental, and Mann Bros. are to be congratulated upon their rare judgment.

Mrs. S. J. Durnett has been confined to her bed for the past two weeks with what appears to be a light form of pneumonia, and is making a very slow recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams were in the city yesterday morning returning to their home at Lohn from San Antonio, where Mrs. Williams has been visiting several weeks, and where Mr. Williams went last week to accompany her upon her return. Mr. Williams says everything was warm and pleasant when they left San Antonio, and they were quite unprepared for the northern that struck them at Temple.

Paris Williams has moved his tailoring shop to the east side barber shop, where he will occupy the building jointly with Sellers & Jeter.

Oysters sold in bulk at 10c per dozen. Brady Cafe.

Our friend and fellow citizen, A. J. Kinney, exhibited a real U. S. Government silver certificate last week, and told us if we could tell what it was he would renew his subscription. We rose to the occasion like a bass after a piece of red flannel, and were handsomely rewarded by Andrew Jackson for our excellent judgment.

Tom Whalen of Melvin advertised last week for some mules that had strayed, and the first man to get a copy of The Standard was S. S. Graham in whose pasture the mules were located.

Mrs. R. C. Doell of Mason has The Standard keep her informed about her Brady friends, and also sends it to Oscar Doell, who is now with the Gautert drug store at Yoakum.

Mac Allman writes from Bonham that he must have the good old Standard to keep up with Brady friends.

THE PARCEL POST LAW

BRIEF FACTS REGARDING NEW DEPARTURE.

Parcel Post Stamps Must Be Used—Ordinary Stamps Are Not Valid for Parcel Post.

The parcel post law became effective January 1, 1913.

The parcel post law makes it possible for the housewife to telephone the grocer and have fresh meat, eggs, vegetables, etc., sent out by mail.

Any person residing within fifty miles of Brady may order perishable foods from the city and have same delivered promptly by parcel post.

The new law permits of eggs being sent through the mail if packed according to regulations. Firearms, explosives and infernal machines are among the articles barred.

Books and printed matter are third class and cannot be sent by parcel post.

To find the size limit: Take a piece of string seventy-two inches long and wind it once completely around the parcel crosswise and then around the parcel lengthwise. If the ends of the string meet the parcel comes under the limit.

No package weighing in excess of eleven pounds will be accepted for transmission under the parcel post law.

The country is divided into eight zones. The first zone embraces 50 miles; the second, 50 to 150; the third, from 150 to 300; the fourth, from 300 to 600; the fifth, from 600 to 1000; the sixth, from 1000 to 1400; the seventh, from 1400 to 1800; the eighth, all distances over 1800 miles.

The local rate is 5c for the first pound and 1c for each additional pound.

Parcel post packages may be insured for their full value up to $50 for a charge of 10c additional.

No parcel post package will be received for registration.

The 4th-class matter weight limit is increased from 4 to 11 pounds by the parcel post law.

Only parcel post stamps will be accepted by the postoffice authorities for the transmission of parcel post matter.

Each parcel must bear the name and address of the sender, otherwise it will not be accepted for mailing.

It is expected the mail order houses and all lines of retail trade will use the parcel post extensively in the delivery of small orders.

After the parcel post law goes into effect fourth class matter can be mailed to the Philippine Islands, Alaska, Republic of Panama and Cuba at the rate of 11c per pound.

Salted, dried or smoked meats are available under the law.

Queen bees may be sent through the mail under the parcel post law.

Poisons are barred from being sent by parcel post.

Articles sent by parcel post must not be sealed.

"Merry Christmas," "Happy New Year," "Best Wishes," and other similar greetings may be written upon the wrapper of parcel post packages.

The department agrees to furnish the sender of an insured package with a receipt from the addressee.

Certain liquids and oils may be sent through parcel post if properly packed for mailing.

The parcel post law does not create a new department, it merely amends the previous regulations pertaining to the handling of fourth class matter.

AT MASONIC LODGE.

F. M. Adams Conducting School of Instruction.

F. M. (Fuzzy) Adams arrived Monday from London, and is giving instructions in Masonry at the Masonic lodge hall this week. Mr. Adams is always a welcome visitor with the Masonic fraternity in Brady, and many of the members are taking advantage of the opportunity to attend the school of instruction.

Prospecting in Brady.

D. M. Anderson of Duncan, Okla., has been in the city the past several days prospecting, with a view of locating here. Mr. Anderson says the cold spell was the worst he had encountered in a long time. He was very favorably impressed with the Brady country.

PARENT-TEACHERS CLUB.

Will Meet Hereafter First Friday Each Month.

The Parent-Teachers club met at the high school building last Friday and held an interesting session. On account of a misunderstanding as to the date of the meeting arising from a confusion of the school month with the calendar month, the attendance was not as large as was expected, but those who did attend were fully repaid in the program rendered. One of the most noteworthy features of the meeting was the reading of an excellent paper upon "Co-operation" by Mrs. J. H. White.

It has been decided to hold future meetings of the club on the first Friday in each month, and the program for the meeting will be published in the local papers a few days prior to each meeting. The parents of Brady and the patrons of the school are cordially invited to join the club and take part in the meetings.

Hollingsworth-Wolf.

J. T. Hollingsworth, traveling man out of Omaha, Neb., and Miss Juanita D. Wolf, daughter of Mrs. Callie Wolf of 87 West Hickory street, were married at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Rev. A. D. Rogers performing the ceremony.

Mr. Hollingsworth travels over the entire United States, and working back to Omaha each year, and a wedding trip was planned that would take them via Stephenville, Texas, and New York to Omaha.

Miss Wolf is a member of a family lately come to Denton from Brady, and held a position in Brady, from where she came to be married.—Denton Record-Chronicle.

Elect Officers.

The Christian Sunday school last Sunday held an election of officers for the coming year, naming the following: J. O. Wallace, superintendent; S. H. Mayo, assistant superintendent; Miss Willie Duke, secretary-treasurer.

J. R. Harrell, one of our Broadmoor friends, wants the '13 Standard twice every week.

COLDEST OF THE SEASON

SUMMER WEATHER SATURDAY—COLD MONDAY.

Thermometer Drops and Shivering Blasts Hold Sway—Moderating Only Slightly.

Saturday was as balmy as a summer day, and so pleasant was the weather that winter clothes gave way to those of lighter weight, and even short sleeve dresses were worn by some of the fair sex who shopped in town. Saturday night was likewise mild.

The old citizens who had shaken their heads and said such weather was sure to indicate a sudden change had their inning when a brisk norther sprang up about seven o'clock Sunday morning and the mercury began falling rapidly until it registered close to the freezing point. Monday morning the thermometer registered 22 degrees above zero practically all day, and water in all exposed places and even in buildings was frozen over solid. Tuesday morning was even colder, 13 degrees above zero being recorded, and the weather continued below freezing until about noon yesterday when the sun shone forth brightly and gave indication of the return of milder weather.

A fine, powder-like snow fell nearly all day Monday, and by night the ground was covered with a thin white blanket. The continued cold, however, prevented any great snow fall or rain.

As a result of the blizzardly weather nearly everyone has remained safely at home, and only those who are compelled to do so have come to town the past two days. The farmers in general are rejoicing over the freeze, hoping that it may kill out the grass hopper and insect pests, and incidentally they are killing hogs and living at home.

R. E. Luhn Jr. & Co. are remembering their patrons with calendars in a variety of designs all of which are attractive and quite ornamental. Another attractive remembrance given out by the firm is a convenient wall pocket and combination mirror and match box. Mr. Luhn is an enterprising young business man, and believes every method of keeping his name before the public is a good one, providing careful judgment is used in the manner of attracting attention. The attractive advertising of this firm is sure to bring results.

Tom Case orders The Standard sent to Ed Head at Corpus Christi, so Mrs. Case can have the Brady news during her visit there.

Brady National bank is again making their friends and customers timely gifts of handsome calendars. For the business men there are the ever-useful daily calendar pads with the day, date and month printed in figures that may be readily distinguished the full length of a business house, and which are consequently a distinct convenience and practical necessity to any business concern. The Brady National has been putting out this form of calendar for the past three years, and find them most appreciated of all forms of calendars.

BRADY, TEXAS, Jan. 8, 1913.

THE PARCEL POST AND THE HOME MERCHANT.

A mail order house 300 to 600 miles away must pay 62 cents to get a ten pound package mailed. Your home merchant, serving the same article to a fifty-mile territory, can deliver the same thing to you for 32 cents. He can send it for local delivery, including such rural routes as start from the home post office, for 14 cents. A mail order house 1000 miles away must pay 91 cents to get such a parcel mailed. In view of these facts, it should be possible for the merchants of this city to develop an immense trade in the outlying districts for material to be delivered by the parcel post. Verily the possibilities for the development of this business are unlimited, and in the outlying country around this city there is thus a great potential trade waiting for some one to step forward and get it. That trade will go to the merchant who reaches out for it with advertising.—San Angelo Standard.

The merchants of Brady can well take home the truths in the above article, for what applies to Angelo, is equally applicable to Brady, or to any other trade center as well. The merchant who does not meet the mail order houses with their own weapons—advertising—their own down the barriers to a foe who never relinquishes his foothold, or ceases the fight against the community merchant.

Brady boosters boast of the best roads in Central West Texas. If you are a skeptic, take a drive.

Claude Callan admits that at least one of the married ladies of Menard donned the trousers the day after she was married. Now every man in Menard accuses Claude of having referred to him.

Strange how some men's childhood dreams come true. There's Claude Callan, for instance. When he was a boy Claude yearned to wear long pants—now he wears them longer than anybody.

We are anticipating serious trouble from an overdose of backbone, spare ribs and pickled pig's feet. Whenever the weather turns cold and McCulloch county citizens kill about 3,000 of our registered hogs, they think all an editor has to do is eat.

Latest Newspaper Laws

The following is the decision of the United States Supreme Court and the latest Postal laws as regards newspapers. Few readers of newspapers fully and clearly understand the laws governing the subscriptions.

The following are decisions of the United States Supreme Court on the subject:

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew subscriptions.

2. If subscribers order a discontinuance of their periodicals, the publisher may continue to send the same until all dues are paid.

3. If the subscriber refuses to take the periodicals from the postoffice to which they are directed, they are responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered the periodical discontinued.

4. If subscribers move to other places, without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former address, the subscriber is held responsible.

5. The court having decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

6. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking the periodical, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice with payment of an arrearage is sent to the publisher.

The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can arrest for fraud anyone who takes the paper and refuses to pay for it.

You save all worry over the above rules and laws when you subscribe for The Brady Standard. YOU PAY IN ADVANCE. WE STOP WHEN THE TIME IS OUT.

A LIVE PAPER FOR LIVE PEOPLE

THE PISTOL TOTER.

The greatest menace to a civilized community is the wholesale toting of pistols. In almost every community there are a number of boys who are blood-thirsty, or else they are cowards. I rather suspect the latter, for I notice they always select the cover of darkness to disturb the quiet citizens by the showing of their 22-calibre, rim-fire popguns. I believe it ought to be made a penitentiary offense to carry deadly weapons without a lawful right.—Lost Creek Correspondent.

Don't doubt for a minute that the pistol toter will eventually get what's coming to him. We quote from the McKinney Courier-Gazette to show what has happened to that element elsewhere, and our own court records, no doubt, tell similar stories. The McKinney paper says: "If you don't think you will get what's coming to you, just try carrying a pistol. Only yesterday two were convicted of this charge in county court here, and were fined $100 and costs, which in all made a total of nearly 200 bucks each. Young man beware of the habit."

AS YOU LIKE IT.

The Bulletin's ideas of proprieties may be distorted, but somehow white shoes and stocking look out of place in a snow storm.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Which would you prefer: white shoes and black stockings or black shoes and white stockings? Anyway, what do you know about striped stockings?

Pay your poll tax.

The San Saba News has just rounded out its 39th year of life, and lays claim to being the "nestor" of the business institutions of San Saba. The News is a good reliable family paper, and Smith & White are a team of newspaper men who are a credit to San Saba. The Standard is hoping the News may continue to flourish and prosper, and that the publishers may continue to sing the praises of San Saba county for another 39 years.

SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE CASH.

A year ago we adopted the cash basis of conducting our subscriptions, and results have been entirely satisfactory to us and, we hope, to our subscribers. This system enables us to place your account before you once every year, so that the chances for a mistake are reduced to the minimum, and should one occur, it can easily be corrected. During 1913 we will continue our subscriptions upon this basis. Unless otherwise instructed, subscriptions will be discontinued promptly upon expiration. We give two notices of expiration—one in the month preceding date to which you are credited, and the second the last week of your credit. You can avoid the annoyance of missing a copy by responding promptly when notice is received.

Prairie dog hunting is a popular sport in Menard county during the winter months. The oil rendered from a fat p. dog makes excellent candles, and the meat, when cooked for two or three days, is said to be vastly superior to the Menard citizens' ordinary diet of fricasseed sole leather.

We're not opposed to woman suffrage as many of our readers suppose. That is, we have been in favor of it ever since we read where three women who served on a jury that acquitted a man were kissed right in court by the defendant when the verdict was announced. We're for the ballot and jury service for women teeth an' toenail, and if we ever are tried in open court, we want twelve good and true McCulloch county ladies on the jury—they're all good looking.

The Standard is in receipt of a copy of the Grand Prairie (Ark.) Herald, which has just been leased by Geo. N. Appleby. Brady and McCulloch county citizens will remember Mr. Appleby as having at one time been associated with W. D. Cowan in the publishing of the Brady Enterprise. He is a good newspaper man and a dyed in the wool booster, and his many friends here confidently expect success to crown his efforts, even though he has strayed from the greatest state in the Union—Texas.

FOR MAN OR BEAST.

I have opened up a restaurant in the—blacksmith shop, which I have remodeled and neatly arranged, and expect to serve the public with the best things to eat. I expect to treat you right, and ask you to give me a trial.—May Messenger.

Marvelous, indeed, that none should have made such a convenient discovery sooner. While the smithy is paring the corns in old Dobbins' hoofs, Farmer Jones can be enjoying most delicious horseshoe (s) nail soup. In the summer time while Dandy is getting clipped, the restaurateur can make convenient use of the bellows as a substitute for an electric fan, and thus make friends of his customers, and customers of his friends. Surely the May discoverer has earned a tablet in the hall of fame.

Stockholders' Meeting.

An annual meeting of the stockholders of the Commercial National bank of Brady, Texas, will be held at their bank on Tuesday, January 14th, 1913, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year.

A Priceless Memento.

Dr. W. M. Burgess is rejoicing over the recovery of a memento which he values above all price—a five dollar gold piece given to him by his mother when he attained his 21st year. The coin had been engraved with his initials, W. M. B. and the date of his 21st birthday, June 13, 1880, there being no statute at that time prohibiting defacing of coins. A lug had been placed at the top of the coin to enable it being worn as a pendant on a watch chain. About three years after receiving it, Dr. Burgess lost the memento, and no trace of it could be found.

Quite as a surprise, therefore, came the news a week or so ago from his sister, Mrs. C. B. McClure of Wayne, West Virginia, a place about twelve miles from his old Kentucky home, to the effect that the coin had been found about two feet underground by a workman engaged in digging a trench for the laying of natural gas pipes. After some corresponding, the doctor succeeded in having the coin returned to him. Apparently the 28 years it mingled with the dust has wrought no change in the little gold piece, it being as bright and untarnished as the day he last possessed it, and the only change is that the lug is missing, it evidently having been filed off by the finder.

G. W. Vierling Believes Cannot Have Too Much.

G. W. Vierling has been in Brady several days on business, chief among which is the purchase of some engines to use in pumping water to irrigate his Kimble county ranch. Mr. Vierling has already completed the purchase of a big pump, and is preparing to irrigate an immense tract the coming season.

In order to get a good seed bed for alfalfa, he has put 100 acres in oats, and after this is harvested will put the same land in June corn. This will enable him to get the land thoroughly worked and in fine shape by fall, when he will seed the 100 acres in alfalfa. He is also putting another 100 acres in milo maize and will get two cuttings from this crop. At present he has 2000 bales of alfalfa stored in his immense barn, and while offered 70c per bale at the barn for the same, he expects to realize 75c.

Mr. Vierling's pet hobby is the raising of hogs, and he is already starting in the business on a large scale. He has purchased some fine registered hogs in the North and will place them in his herd in the near future. He says that perhaps many Standard readers thought our article some months ago relative to his putting in 1000 acres of alfalfa and raising 2,600 head of hogs was a big "windy," but if he lives he expects to make his dreams come true within the next several years, and will then be able to boast of the finest ranch in Texas.

"Is he, this green tie, isn't this the one I knitted you?"
"I am sure I don't know, I borrowed it from the conductor."
"Don't you remember? I did knit you one."
"Did you? I believe you did! I think I wore it out."
"Oh, you fickle boy. But see what I have. What's this?"
He stared through the glassy eyes of complete helplessness. "It looks like a bracelet."
"Don't tell me you don't remember this—the little bangle bracelet you gave me."
"Did I give you a bangle bracelet?"
"Of course you did. And the inscription. Don't you remember it?"
She held her wrist in front of his aching eyes and he peered as if it were his own epitaph, what she read aloud for him. "From Harry to Kitty, the Only Girl I Ever Loved."
"Good night!" he sighed to himself, and began to mop his brow with Snootleums.

"You put it on my arm," said Kathleen, with a moonlight sigh, "and I've always worn it."
"Always?"
"Always! no matter whom I was engaged to."
The desperate wretch, who had not dared even to glance in Marjorie's direction, somehow thought he saw a straw of self-defense. "You were engaged to three or four others when I was at West Point."
"I may have been engaged to the others," said Kathleen, moon-eyebing him, "but I always liked you best, Clifford—er, Tommy—I mean Harry."
"You got me at last."
Kathleen fenced back at this: "Well, I've no doubt you have had a dozen affairs since."
"Oh, no! My heart has only known one real love." He threw this over her head at Marjorie, but Kathleen seized it, to his greater confusion: "Oh, Harry, how sweet of you to say it. It makes me feel positively faint," and she swooned his way, but he shoved a chair forward and let her collapse into that. Thinking and hoping that she was unconscious, he made ready to escape, but she caught him by the coat, and moaned: "Where am I?" and he growled back: "In the Observation Car!"
Kathleen's life and enthusiasm returned without delay: "Fancy meeting you again! I could just scream."
"So could I!"
"You must come up in our car and see mamma."
"Is Ma-mamma with you?" Marjorie stammered, on the verge of imbecility.
"Oh, yes, indeed, we're going around the world."
"Don't let me detain you."
"Papa is going round the world also."
"Is papa on this train, too?"
At last something seemed to embarrass her a trifle: "No, papa went on ahead. Mamma hopes to overtake him. But papa is a very good traveler."
Then she changed the subject. "Do come and meet mamma. It would cheer her up so. She is so fond of you. Only this morning she was saying, 'Of all the boys you ever were engaged to, Kathleen, the one I like most of all was Edgar—I mean Clarence—or—Harry Mallory.'"
"Awfully kind of her."
"You must come and see her—she's some stouter now!"
"Oh, is she? Well, that's good."
Mallory was too angry to be sane, and too helpless to take advantage of his anger. He wondered how he could ever have cared for this molasses and muddle girl. He remembered now that she had always had these same cloying ways. She had always pawed him and, like everybody but the powers, he hated pawing.

It would have been had enough at any time to have Kathleen hanging on his coat, straightening his tie, leaning close, smiling up in his eyes, losing him his balance, recapturing him every time he edged away. But with Marjorie as the grim witness it was maddening.
He loathed and abominated Kathleen Llewellyn, and if she had only been a man, he could cheerfully have beaten her to a pulp and chucked her out of the window. But because she was a helpless little baggage he had to be as polite as he could while she sat and tore his plans to pieces, embittered Marjorie's heart against him, and either ended all hopes of their marriage, or furnished an everlasting rancor to be recalled in every quarrel to their dying day. Oh, etiquette, what injustices are endured in thy name!

So there he sat, sweating his soul's blood, and able only to sper for time and wonder when the going would ring. And now she was off on a new tack:
"And where are you bound for, Harry, dear?"
"The Philippines," he said, and for the first time there was something beautiful in their remoteness.
"Perhaps we shall cross the Pacific on the same boat."
The first sincere smile he had experienced came to him: "I go on an army transport, forty—unfortunately."
"Oh, I just love soldiers. Couldn't mamma and I go on the transport? Mamma is very fond of soldiers, too."
"I'm afraid it couldn't be arranged."
"Too bad, but perhaps we can stop off and pay you a visit. I just love army posts. So does mamma."
"Oh, do!"
"What will be your address?"
"Just the Philippines—just the Philippines."
"But aren't there quite a few of them?"
"Only about two thousand."
"Which one will you be on?"
"I'll be on the third from the left," said Mallory, who neither knew nor cared what he was saying. Marjorie had endured all that she could stand. She rose in a tightly leashed fury.
"I'm afraid I'm in the way."
"Kathleen turned in surprise. She had not noticed that anyone was near. Mallory went out of his head completely. "Oh, don't go—for heaven's sake don't go," he appealed to Marjorie.
"A friend of yours?" said Kathleen, bristling.
"No, not a friend," in a chaotic tangle. "Mrs. — Miss—Miss—Er—er—"
Kathleen smiled: "Delighted to meet you, Miss Ererer."
"The pleasure is all mine," Marjorie said, with an acid smile.
"Have you known Harry long?" said Kathleen, jealously, "or are you just acquaintances on the train?"
"We're just acquaintances on the train."
"I used to know Harry very well—very well indeed."
"So I should judge. You won't mind if I leave you to talk over old times together?"
"How very sweet of you."
"Oh, don't mention it."
"But, Marjorie," Mallory cried, as she turned away. Kathleen started at the ardor of his tone, and gasped: "Marjorie! Then he—you—"
"Not at all—not in the least," said Marjorie.
At this crisis the room was suddenly inundated with people. Mrs. Whitcomb, Mrs. Wellington, Mrs. Temple and Mrs. Fosdick, all trying to look like bridesmaids, danced in, shouting:
"Here they come! Make way for the bride and groom!"

CHAPTER XXX.

A Wedding on Wheels.

The commotion of the matrimony-mad women brought the men trooping in from the smoking room and there was much circumstance of decorating the scene with white satin ribbons, a trifle crumpled and dim of luster. Mrs. Whitcomb waved them at Mallory with a laugh:
"Recognize these?"
He nodded diamally. His own funeral baked meats were coldly furnishing forth a wedding breakfast for Ira Lathrop. Mrs. Wellington was moving about distributing kazooks and Mrs. Temple had an armload of old shoes, some of which had thumped Mallory on an occasion which seemed so ancient as to be almost prehistoric.
Fosdick was howling to the porter to get some rice, quick!
"How many portions does you ap proximate?"
"All you've got."
"Bolloed or fried?"
"Any old way." The porter ran forward to the dining-car for the ammunition.
Mrs. Temple whispered to her husband: "Too bad you're not officiating, Walter." But he cautioned silence: "Hush! I'm on my vacation."
The train was already coming into Ogden. Noises were multiplying and from the increase of passing objects, the speed seemed to be taking on a spurt. The bell was clanging like a wedding chime in a steeple.
Mrs. Wellington was on a chair fastening a ribbon round one of the lamps, and Mrs. Whitcomb was on another chair braiding the bell rope with withered orange branches, when Ashton, with kazoo all ready, called out:
"What tune shall we play?"
"I prefer the Mendelssohn Wedding March," said Mrs. Whitcomb, but Mrs. Wellington glared across at her.
"I've always used the Lohengrin."
"We'll play 'em both," said Dr. Temple, to make peace.
Mrs. Fosdick murmured to her spouse: "The old Justice of the Peace didn't give us any music at all," and received in reward one of his most luscious-eyed looks, and a whisper: "But he gave us each other."

"Now and then," she pouted.
"But where are the bride and groom?"
"Here they come—all ready," cried Ashton, and he beat time while some of the guests kazooed at Mendelssohn's and some Wagner's bridal melodies, and others just made a noise.
Ira Lathrop and Anne Gattie, looking very sheepish, crowded through the narrow corridor and stood shamefacedly blushing like two school children about to sing a duet.
The train jolted to a dead stop. The conductor called into the car: "Ogden! All out for Ogden!" and everybody stood watching and waiting.
Ira, seeing Mallory, edged close and whispered: "Stand by to catch the minister on the rebound."
But Mallory turned away. What use had he now for ministers? His plans were shattered ruins.
The porter came flying in with two large bowls of rice, and shouting, "Here comes the possum—er—possum." Seeing Marjorie, he said: "Shall I perambulate Mista Snootleums?"
She handed the porter her only friend and he hurried out, as a lean and professionally sad ascetic hurried in. He did not recognize his boyish enemy in the gray-haired, red-faced giant that greeted him, but he knew that voice and its goating irony:
"Hello, Charlie!"
He had always found that when Ira grinned and was cordial, some trouble was in store for him. He wondered what rock Ira held behind his back now, but he forced an uneasy cordiality: "And is this you, Ira? Well, well! It is years since last we met. And you're just getting married. Is this the first time Ira?"

A PHYSICIAN'S DIAGNOSIS OF KIDNEY TROUBLE.

A Seemingly Common Disease which Becomes Fatal through Neglect and which May Be Readily Cured by Prompt Attention.

More than two-thirds of the annual death rate, physicians of the world directly traceable to kidney trouble.

Interested by this remarkable assertion and desiring to acquire a better understanding of the origin of the disease, a prominent physician was recently interviewed as to the symptoms of such troubles.

"To what do you attribute the great destructiveness of kidney disease?" was asked.

"The hold which the disease gains in the body before the victim becomes aware of his true condition, and the rapidity with which it cuts its way into the vital organs."

"Would not the proverbial 'ounce of prevention' check the progress of the disease?"

"There is no doubt of it. The trouble is that victims of this disease mistake the symptoms for some trifling ailment in the stomach or bowels, therefore they do nothing to arrest the course of the disease until it is well advanced."

"What is the origin of kidney trouble?"

"Almost invariably bad digestion, followed by torpid liver and a constipated habit."

"What are the symptoms?"

"Headache, dizzy spells, sluggish brain, restless nights, pale or sallow skin, bad breath, lack of appetite, heart-ache."

SPECIAL AT LYRIC.

"Victim of Mormons" Feature Film Friday Night.

Manager Levy of the Lyric theatre announces a feature film for Friday night in the sensational drama entitled "A Victim of the Mormons." This is recommended as one of the greatest human interest stories ever presented, and portrays most realistically the practices of the Mormon missionaries in securing converts in foreign lands. This feature will be presented in addition to the regular program, thus giving two complete shows in one.

The story requires 3,000 feet of film, and 60 scenes are presented. On account of the length of the program but one show will be given Friday night, and the picture will be shown but the one time in the city. General admission will be 15c, reserved seats, 25c. Seats will be placed on sale during the day to assure advance purchasers of good seats for the show.

MARRIES HIS NURSE.

Son of Dr. A. P. Terrell Weds Woman Who Saved Him.

Dallas, Jan. 4.—A romance which had its beginning in the meningitis epidemic here a year ago ended today in the marriage of Dr. A. P. Terrell and Mrs. Catherine Chamberlain, a nurse. Dr. Terrell was working as a quarantine officer when stricken with meningitis and Mrs. Chamberlain nursed him back to health.

Dr. Terrell, mentioned above, is a son of Dr. A. P. Terrell of this city. The junior doctor is one of the prominent physicians of Dallas, his skill having come to be recognized among the profession. For three years he was with the hospital corps of the U. S. army in the Philippines and since retiring from government service he has located in Dallas.

It affords an inexpensive and effective method of boosting Brady and McCulloch county, if you only do your part.

Discussing available men for the part of ambassador to Mexico for Uncle Sam, the newspaper reporters at Washington are putting the name of James L. Slayden at the head of the list. Congressman Slayden has an enviable public record and this, with his border residence, peculiarly fits him for this post.

Last Saturday Judge James Flaack came over from Llano and filed with the district clerk one of the most interesting suits that has been on the docket for a long time. The plaintiff is J. G. Dismukes and the defendants are the members of the San Saba school board—O. D. Kirkpatrick, John Seiders, W. A. Smith, W. H. Kimbrough, T. C. Henry, W. V. Dean and W. F. Sullivan. Plaintiff alleges "many unlawful and wrong misapplications and diversions of the funds belonging to the school district, not meaning thereby to charge that said board is guilty of criminal misapplications of such funds, but that the same have been applied to uses and purposes other than demanded by the school laws of the state." The specific allegations are that the secretary, a member of the board, has been paid a salary for his services as such and also assessor and collector of taxes for the district. And further, that the board has bought desks and seated the new house. The petition prays that the board be restrained from paying for the desks which are being used in the building. An auditor or auditors is asked for to audit the books the past three years.

MRS. MCGILL BROKE DOWN

Gives the Real Facts in Regard to Her Case and Tells How She Suffered.

Jonesboro, Ark.—"I suffered a complete break down in health, some time ago," writes Mrs. A. McGill, from this place. "I was very weak and could not do any work. I tried different remedies, but they did me no good. One day, I got a bottle of Cardui. It did me so much good, I was surprised, and took some more."

"Before I took Cardui, I had headache and backache, and sometimes I would cry for hours. Now I am over all that, and can do all kinds of housework. I think it is the greatest medicine on earth."

In the past fifty years, thousands of ladies have written, like Mrs. McGill, to tell of the benefit received from Cardui.

Such testimony, from earnest women, surely indicates the great value of this tonic remedy, for diseases peculiar to women. Are you a sufferer? Yes? Cardui is the medicine you need. We urge you to try it.

well for 1913 in a substantial way. Mr. Archer is one of the bright, hopeful citizens of the Hall community who were always glad to see coming. He now has a force at work putting in a dam across the Richland creek on his farm and will store a large lake containing over 2,000,000 gallons of storm water. From this lake he will irrigate a part of his field. This is a good suggestion to many other of the farmers of the county. There are many fields which could be partly irrigated by building a small, inexpensive dam across some creek or draw and thereby store enough water to successfully irrigate several acres of land at a handsome profit.
