Socialists Stand Pat.

Texas is a queer state. Senator Julius Real of San Antonio is openly announced as a supporter of Da Mont Slator for the nomination in the Democratic primaries for congress. Slator is making the race against Congressman Slayden. Senator Real, who is a Republican, is reported as saying: "I recognize that Mr. Slayden has strong support which will be difficult to overcome. You can depend upon it, however, that we will do it if we can." Colonel John N. Simpson of Dallas was the Republican nominee for governor two years ago. Now he's advising the Democrats as to the proper thing to do in a political way. The only standpatters in Texas are the Socialists. These martyrs refuse to invade the Democratic primaries.—Fitzgerald in Fort Worth Record.

FACTS ABOUT TEXAS CITIES

(Editor's Note—This is one of a series of articles dealing with Texas cities, their past history, present advantages and future possibilities.)

GALVESTON.

Galveston, whose building is closely allied with the history of Texas, was named in honor of Count Bernardo De Galvez, a Spanish Viceroy of Mexico, who founded a small settlement on the island in the early part of the last century. The colony was known as "Galveston." One of the early overlords of the island, and who occupies a considerable renown in Texas history and romance, was the Baratarian Pirate, Jean Lafitte. In 1836, barely twenty years after the sway of the Gulf buccaneer, the site was purchased by Col. M. B. Menard from the Republic of Texas for the paltry sum of $50,000.

As early as 1837, Audubon made his home here. During the same year, Gail Borden, who constructed the first cotton gin house, Galveston then became a port of entry. A year later the first Galveston wharf was built by Col. Amosa Taylor. During the Civil War, Galveston played an important part in the struggle. It was here that the battle of Galveston in which the Union soldiers were defeated, was fought in 1863.

Calamities, sudden and terrible, some time bring fame. This is the case with Galveston. Before the great storm of 1900, the port was known, but the knowledge was confined to a restricted circle. From this catastrophe, Galveston gained a universal fame. The attention of the whole civilized world was turned upon a community that to reduce the terror of storm raised its city to a new level of nineteen feet; constructed a $1,500,000 concrete battlement over five miles of seashore, and linked the island to the mainland with a $2,000,000 causeway.

Galveston is the leading cotton exporting sea port in the world. Ninety regular steamship lines enter Galveston, while 250 tramp lines center here.

For 1912-13 its exports and imports were valued at $289,278,496. The per capita value apportioned out among Galveston's 50,000 population would therefore, be $5,800.

The island is reckoned among the pleasure resorts of the world. Last year a total of 600,000 pleasure seekers visited there.

Methodist Meeting.

Rev. I. T. Morris, pastor of the M. E. church announces a protracted meeting to begin here Wednesday, July 22nd, under the auspices of his church. The place for holding the service has not yet been definitely decided upon but will either be held at the Christian tabernacle or under a big tent near the business section of the city. This matter will be definitely decided at a meeting of the church board to be held tomorrow night.

The services will be conducted by Rev. C. L. Browning of Dallas, one of the foremost evangelists of the Methodist church. The song service will be in charge of C. H. Hendon of Georgetown. Mr. Hendon arrives next Sunday to begin work of rehearsing a choir for the meeting.

Full announcement will be made in Friday's issue of The Standard.

With the boundless enthusiasm of his kind, the food faddist arranged the mob on the marionette to be obtained from chewing soap and eating butter.

"Friends," he cried, swelling sibly and clapping his chest, two years ago I was a walking skeleton—a haggard, miserable wreck. What do you suppose I thought about this great change in me?"

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught.

Theford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, and has been found to regulate weak stomachs, aid digestion, relieve indigestion, colic, wind, nausea, headache, sick stomach, and similar symptoms.

FEWER FLIES AND MORE BABIES.

By Dr. Ralph Steiner, the State Health Officer, Austin, Tex.

Flies killed more than a thousand Texas babies last year. We still have more than a half-million babies in Texas, and it is the duty of every citizen to help save their lives. The fly is baby's worst enemy. He is the forerunner of pestilence and the undertaker's traveling salesman. To save the babies means to swat the flies. The most effective way of exterminating the fly is to eradicate his breeding places. Remove all filth and trash from the premises and screen all doors and windows. Flies are a disgrace and a deadly menace. Organize a clean-up club in your home and make each one of the family a charter member. Fewer flies means more babies.
