Meeting Closes.

Rev. J. W. Shirley was here Saturday from Pear Valley to attend the farmers and business men's mass meeting and reported the closing Sunday night of a very successful protracted meeting for the Baptist denomination at Doole, where he is pastor. He was assisted in the meeting by his brother, Rev. E. D. Shirley, of Llano.

There were eleven accessions to the church, nine of which number were by profession, and the church generally was thoroughly revived.

BIG MASS MEETING

MORE THAN THREE HUNDRED FARMERS ATTEND

Conference of Business Men and Farmers Is Enthusiastic and Harmonious

One of the most representative gatherings of business men and farmers ever assembled in Brady was that on Saturday afternoon, when the business men of Brady and the farmers from all sections of the county, as well as a number from neighboring counties, met in the district court room for the purpose of taking some definite steps to relieve the stringent market conditions which have been brought about by the European war. Men representing every line of business in this city were present, and all evidenced their willingness to co-operate with the farmers in securing funds with which to handle the big cotton crop now almost ready to gather.

A conservative estimate of the number in attendance is placed at 300, every seat in the big court room being occupied, and all available standing room being taken up some time before the gathering was called to order.

Judge J. E. Shropshire, one of the most ardent advocates of the mass meeting and conference, acted as chairman and called the meeting to order at 2:00 o'clock. In a short talk, he stated the object of the meeting. He stated that now that a bumper cotton crop was assured in this section of the state, that one of the most serious problems now confronting the farmers was the matter of securing sufficient pickers to gather the crop, and that in view of the fact that there was no market for the cotton at present and no likelihood of settled conditions prevailing in the near future, it behooved the farmers to set a reasonable and just price for pickers and not allow all the profits from their year's labors to go to the men who were brought in here to gather the crop. He said that it had been currently reported that a number of farmers had been offering as high as $1.00 per hundred for picking, and as no one knows what the staple will bring when the markets finally open, and as there is assurance of plenty of pickers, such a price is entirely out of reason, and that the banks would be unable to furnish the farmers sufficient funds to handle the crop if that price prevailed generally.

Enthusiastic talks along the same line of thought were made by Judge F. M. Newman, Sec. T. P. Grant of the Commercial Club, J. F. Tindel, J. C. Wiggins of Pear Valley, Col. Rufus J. Lackland and Prof. H. B. Sutton of Thorp Springs.

Judge Joe A. Adkins introduced a motion calling for the appointment by the chairman of a committee of seven representative farmers from different sections of the county to formulate a schedule of prices for cotton picking for the months of September, October and November. The motion was carried unanimously, and Judge Shropshire announced the following appointments: J. E. Samuelson, Brady; Carroll Gray, Tucker; R. W. Johnson, Lohn; E. B. Baldrige, Fife; D. J. Malmstrom, Melvin; J. C. Woodward, Doole.

This committee reported as follows:

"We, your committee, appointed to recommend a price for cotton picking in this county, respectfully recommend that, in view of the fact that there is at this time no market for cotton, it is very uncertain as to the amount we can pay for cotton picking, but we recommend as follows:

- "For the month of September 60c
- "For the month of October 65c
- "For the month of November 75c

"We would further suggest that the people in their different communities call meetings at the school houses and inform all of our people throughout the county of the action taken here and of the prices agreed upon, and ask that they accept and stand by this action."

W. G. Joyce offered an amendment to the report of the committee, which provided for a price of 60c, 70c and 80c, but the original report was unanimously adopted.

A resolution was also adopted commending the action of Governor Colquitt in calling a special session of the legislature to enact a law providing for the establishment of warehouses and to validate cotton warehouse receipts.

A motion was made and carried requesting Secretary Grant of the Brady Commercial Club to notify all communities in the county and all adjacent counties of the action of the mass meeting, and request that they take similar steps looking to the regulation of prices in order that the action of the meeting may be most effective.

Judge F. M. Newman read a letter which he had addressed to Governor Colquitt last Friday, in which he proposed the enactment of a law which provides for the suspension of enforced collection of debts in the state until February 1, 1915. This was greeted with enthusiastic applause by the audience.

Under the law proposed by Judge Newman which he outlined to the governor, no suit could be entered for the collection of debt and would serve to stay all executions, but ample provision is made for the protection of the creditor in case of attempted fraud on the part of debtor.

Much favorable comment on such a law was heard and it is pointed out that the enactment of legislation would serve to relieve the conditions which will undoubtedly obtain in the entire South so long as there is no market for the cotton crop. A law suspending the enforced collection of debts in Galveston county was passed by the legislature following the Galveston storm in 1900, and but for this enactment many concerns which are now in a thriving and prosperous condition would have been bankrupted.

Before adjournment Judge Shropshire stated that local citizens expected to organize a stock company for the purpose of operating a bonded warehouse for storing and holding the cotton until it could be sold at satisfactory prices, but that it was deemed advisable to take no steps in this direction until after it was known what action was taken by the special session of the legislature, which convened in Austin yesterday for the purpose of enacting a bonded warehouse bill. He promised the farmers that just as soon as the matter was settled by the legislature that the local company would be organized and that all assistance within the power of the business and professional men of Brady would be given to the farmers.

SAFETY FIRST

A. W. Keller was the victim of a painful accident last week, when he was bitten on the arm by a horse. Mr. Keller walked near the animal, which seized him on the fleshy part of the right arm, badly bruising the flesh. The wound caused considerable pain, but no serious results are anticipated.—Brady Standard.

There is as much compound pain in such a wound as in anything of a similar nature, and a good part of the suffering comes from the fact that it makes a person real mad to be injured by the front end of a horse when he has been taught that the other end was the dangerous part of such an infernal machine.—Temple Telegram.

A few days ago this editor had occasion to visit the place of business of a well-known contemporary. When starting on our journey up South Blackburn street, we thought we had the location of Sellers' hangout well fixed in our mind, but on stopping at the place where we had been accustomed to finding it heretofore, we decided that we must have our wires crossed. The place that we walked into looked nothing like the Sentinel office of old, but took on more of the aspect of a large and prosperous banking institution. The walls and ceiling of the building were adorned with a new coating of wall paper (not newspaper), a portion of the floor had been replaced with bright new boards, several new articles of furniture added and a new wash basin and shelf for same, were some of the new sights which greeted us. In fact, the only familiar sight about the whole place was Editor Sellers' bald head, the lower front part of which was wreathed in his usual happy smile.

CROP CONDITION.

Hot Weather and Drouth Damage Corn and Cotton.

Texas has been facing drouth conditions except for local showers more or less generally over the state, for many weeks, and it is feeling the consequences. A trip across the state with close observation of the crops would leave the observer in a very mixed condition of mind. He would see corn of all sizes and stages, and all degrees of suffering from drouth; and cotton from a few inches high to the blooming and fruiting stages. The injury to the corn is becoming marked, and our advice to the farmers who have silos is to cut and ensilage their crops before they get too yellow, and play a stream of water into the blower while the filling is taking place. If the corn has not sufficient moisture during the fruiting stage it will not make ears, and the nubbins will be far better for livestock if chopped up and fed green with the remainder of the plant than in the shape of a half-sized cob with a few lonesome grains on it.

The condition of the corn and cotton is such as to baffle the wildest and most determined forecaster. The six weeks following the freeze on April 9th have caused it to be replanted from time to time as the weather permitted, for there was so much rain, this means that it is at all stages of growth. There are yet fields with the plants not more than two feet high, mostly in lowlands, and other fields near them that have practically made. In general, the upland corn all over the state—especially in South Texas below the freeze line—came along well; but the lowland corn, except where there have been local showers, has been hard hit by the drouth and is in a great many cases fit only for forage. Much of the early planted corn may get by the drouth and make a reasonable yield, where the local rains have helped, but generally speaking, the confined hot weather has greatly reduced the probable state yield, ranging all the way from 40 per cent to normal, with an average of 65 to 75 per cent of normal for the state at large. The average will fall below 65 per cent if a change in the weather does not come within a week.

Of the cotton, the late planted portion of the crop is suffering material damage, but the damage is not so great as would have been the loss from boll weevil if the drouth had not come to the rescue. With favorable conditions henceforward the yield will be 10 to 20 per cent under normal, and if the drouth is not broken the yield will be less in proportion to the continuance of present conditions.

Northeast Texas. There were local rains, mainly in the Red river counties, from the 8th to the 10th, which were of benefit to corn and cotton. The crops need rain throughout this section.

Northwest Texas. This section of the state has probably fared better than any other section during the present growing season, and here—especially in the lower counties—the crops will be helped by rain. Il Cooke, Montague, Wise, Jack and some neighboring counties the corn has been damaged up to 40 per cent and the cotton very much less. On the Plains and at the foot of the Plains the corn and cotton are in good condition and the grain sorgum crops are coming along without damage. There were rains over the Panhandle and as far down as Haskell and Stonewall counties on the 8th and 9th that were of much benefit, as they were general and seasoning in character. The range is in good condition, but general rains, while not especially needed, will be of some advantage.

Central Texas. Notwithstanding local rains, drouth conditions are affecting the central section, especially damaging the young cotton and corn. Kafir and milo are in good shape, and two or three good rains spread over the next two or three weeks will save the situation as regards cotton and the grain sorgums, and be of some help as regards the corn. Nevertheless, farmers who have silos should fill them with their corn if they have not done so already; if the average for corn is above 15 bushels per acre in Central Texas this year, the growers may congratulate themselves. While the young cotton is being hurt by the dry weather, several good rains, like those on the 9th, if general, will bring it out in good shape.

Southeast Texas. The Sabine counties have experienced a drouth that has burned up much of the corn, which was planted up to seven weeks late, but rains in Jefferson county and the immediate vicinity greatly aided the young corn and cotton in that locality. The cotton here has been damaged less than the corn, and will make a fair yield if some rain falls over these counties soon. The dry weather has been a Godsend to the lower end of the state, since otherwise the cotton crop would have been saying that the first bale was sold from Lyford on the 3rd, and desires credit for his city accordingly. The cotton in the lower counties is in good shape, and is being picked. The yield there will be up to and better than the average, and other rains before frost will increase it.

Southwest Texas. The ranges are beginning to show the effect of dry weather, although no material retrogression has resulted as yet. Showers, purely local in character, fell over this section during the week ending July 12. Southwest Texas is in good shape, as compared with other years.

General. The business men and the farmers should bear in mind the old maxim that while "things are never as good as hoped they are always better than is feared." While the fruiting crops have experienced a material check from the dry weather, timely rains may yet wonderfully change the outlook and bring the yield for the year from all sources that will be found not much less than the average.

practically a total loss from the boll weevil. Rains have fallen in the Coast counties, more or less local in character on the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th and were of much benefit; the South end of the state is, therefore, comparatively speaking, in good condition. In the last bulletin the Congress gave the first bale of cotton as being reported in Edinburg, in Hidalgo county. ## NEAR DEATH BY SMOTHERING

But Husband, With Aid of Cardui, Effects Her Deliverance.

Draper, N. C.—Mrs. Helen Dalton, of this place, says: "I suffered for years, with pains in my left side, and would often almost smother to death. Medicines patched me up for awhile but then I would get worse again. Finally, my husband decided he wanted me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, so he bought me a bottle and I began using it. It did me more good than all the medicines I had taken."

I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefited by its use. There never has been, and never will be, a medicine to compare with Cardui. I believe it is a good medicine for all womanly troubles."

HOLD AUCTION SALE

Col. Rufus J. Lackland Conducts Sale of Richland Springs Lots

Col. Rufus J. Lackland and brother, Sidney C. Lackland, promoters of the South Heights Lot Selling contest, arrived in the city Friday morning from San Saba, spending Friday and Saturday here in the interest of the contest.

Saturday morning an auction sale of lots was conducted on the Brady National bank corner by Col. Lackland, and a number of local citizens invested in lots in the new Richland Springs addition. Col. Lackland is one of the best and most widely known real estate auctioneers of the South, and his services in this capacity are always in demand.

In the sale of lots in the South Heights addition to Richland Springs an unwise plan has been adopted. Prizes have been offered by the owners of the property to the persons selling the largest number of lots. Four thousand votes are given to the purchaser of a lot, or double that number if all cash is paid. The purchaser may then cast his votes for his favorite contestant, and the one to whose credit the largest number of votes have been placed up to the close of the contest, September 15th, will be awarded a new 1915 DeSoto 5-passenger automobile. The contestant receiving the next highest number of votes will receive a beautiful diamond ring valued at $150, while the third and fourth prizes will be gold watches.

The contest is open to San Saba, Brown, McCulloch, Mills and Lampasas counties, and something like seventy-five contestants have already entered. The list includes about twenty Brady ladies, who are actively engaged in the contest. The capital prize is one of which anyone should be proud and the desire of possession is acting as a stimulus to the contestants and their friends. Quite a number also have their eye on second, third and fourth prizes, either one of which would amply reward any of the entrants for their work in the contest.

Texas Indians are Farmers.

Washington, D. C. Aug. 10.—The Indian population of Texas in 1913 was 702, according to a report which has just been issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Polk county has more red skins than any other Texas county and most of them are engaged in agricultural pursuits.

Between 1900 and 1912 the number of Texas Indians increased from 290 to 702. From 1912 to 1913 there was not a single Indian birth or death reported in Texas. Neither did any leave the state nor any Indian immigrants locate within our borders.

The total Indian population of the United States at the last enumeration was approximately 323,000 and 117,000, or about 30 per cent of the total live reservations of the United States cover approximately forty million acres. The bulk of the Indian reservation area is in Arizona. Texas is one of the few states that has no Indian territory.
