Work for Commercial Clubs

Three teams of experts in organization of co-operative marketing and diversification clubs began a whirlwind campaign for the organization of these clubs Dec. 1st. The organization experts will cover between sixty and one hundred of the principal cotton producing counties of the state. On their first visit they will talk over with the business men and commercial club leaders methods of organizing to secure diversification and for affording better marketing facilities for the new crops. After the local people have taken the matter up with the farmers they will return and assist in the final organization of these clubs. The proposition is not to organize the farmers, but to help them to organize themselves. The work is being done by the Extension service of the A. & M. college.

It Worked

A young lady took down the receiver and discovered that the telephone was busy.

"I just put on a pan of beans for dinner," she heard one woman complacently informing the other.

She hung up the receiver and waited. Three times she waited, and then, exasperated, she broke into the conversation. "Madam, I smell your beans burning," she announced crisply. A horrified scream greeted the remark and the young lady was able to put in her call.

Just received, a shipment of Big Ben alarm clocks. A. F. Grant, Jeweler.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" Tonight's Attraction

If the enthusiastic greeting given the announcement that the "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" would appear at the opera house tonight is any criterion, Manager Levy has made another hit and the opera house will be filled to capacity. "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is one of those popular book plays in which theatre-goers are so interested, and is from the pen of John Fox, Jr. There are four acts in the play, with Miss Dorrit Ashton as "June" supported by an all star company, which carries its own special scenery. A feature which will prove doubly pleasing is that there will be no tiresome waits between acts, there being five or six of the latest vaudeville features provided. Prices are 25c, 50c, and 75c. Reserved seat may be had at Jones Drug store.

On Friday night the seventh installment of the "Million Dollar Mystery," which is proving as fascinating as an interesting book and deservedly popular, will be given, when another crowded house is assured.

Will Entertain Club

Mrs. C. C. Johnson will entertain on Thursday afternoon from 3:00 to 5:30 in honor of the members of the Mothers and Teachers club of the Presbyterian church. All members of the organization are cordially invited to attend.

$31,000,000 in Crushed Stone

Crushed stone is the largest factor of the stone industry in the United States. Figures showing the value of crushed stone were first published by the United States Geological survey in 1898 and amounted to $4,031,445. By 1913 the output was valued at over $31,000,000. Of late years stone crushed for concrete making has largely taken the place of building and foundation stone.

Fixing the Blame

He found his own front porch with wonderful accuracy, navigated the steps with precision, and discovered the keyhole by instinct. Once in the dimly lighted hall, there was an ominous silence followed by a tremendous crash.

"Why, what has happened, Henry?" came a voice from above.

"It's all right, Mary, but I'll learn those goldfish to snap at me!"

A DECIDED SUCCESS

High School Students Make Hit in Comedy Offering

That the Brady High School Dramatic club possesses a number of young ladies and gentlemen of more than ordinary dramatic talent was more firmly established in the minds of the big audience which witnessed their presentation of the 3-act comedy entitled "The King Pin" at the Brady opera house last Thursday night.

The crowd taxed the capacity of the opera house to its utmost, and the frequent bursts of applause evidenced the fact that the efforts put forth by the members of the cast were duly appreciated. The performance was not only an artistic success, but a financial one as well, the treasury of the club being enriched to the amount of $115, and this sum will be used to cover a deficit incurred in the publication of the 1913-14 high school annual.

The work of Orval Jackson as Tom Ward in the leading role was specially noteworthy, and showed decided improvement since the last appearance of the club several months ago, and the other members of the cast acquitted themselves in a manner which is a source of considerable satisfaction to their many friends.

Following is the cast:
Tom Ward, editor of the Daily Post, Orval T. Jackson
Cyrus Cameron, president of the Central National Bank
C. E. Baze
Jim Fredericks, reporter for the Post, W. A. Shropshire
Joseph Cameron, O. J. Bradley
Dick Thompson, a friend
Chas. Morris
Fred Harwood, a politician
Lawrence Knox
John Connor, a politician
Phillip Bashaw
Ruth Cameron, daughter of Cyrus
Lemmie Guthrie
Betty Ward, Tom's sister
Virginia Miller
Mabel Carothers
Rachael Walker
Edith Schuyler
Mary Snider
Friends of Bettie and Ruth.
The club expects to present another play shortly before the holidays, full announcement to be made at a later date.

Bazaar a Success

The Christmas bazaar given by the Ladies Missionary societies of the Methodist church Friday and Saturday of last week was a decided success from every standpoint, and as a result of their work something more than $80 was added to the treasuries of the two organizations.

The bazaar was held in the room at the rear of the Brady National bank, and practically everything on display was sold during the two days. The display consisted of articles made and contributed by the members, among which was to be seen house dresses, aprons, table cloths, napkins, dainty bits of hand-embroidered handkerchiefs, lace collars, and many other articles suitable for Christmas gifts.

Quick lunches and delicious home-made candies were served throughout the time.

INSTITUTE ENDS.

Successful Joint Meeting of Menard-McCulloch Co. Teachers

The most successful teachers institute in the history of this section of the state came to a close last Friday afternoon, the session having convened Monday morning with the teachers from this and Menard county in attendance.

That the meeting was such a decided success is attributed almost entirely to the untiring efforts and executive ability of County Superintendent E. L. White. Mr. White has devoted most of his time for the past two or three months to the preparation of the program and the securing of competent lecturers, and his labors in this direction brought some of the most noted educators of the country to Brady to lecture before the institute.

Foremost among these was Dr. H. W. Focht, specialist in rural education of the federal department of education of Washington, D. C., who delivered two lectures last Wednesday. In the course of his remarks Dr. Focht said in part: "Texas is at a critical period in its educational career. Like many other states, it is preparing to get away from the wrong kind of educational conditions. I do not come to Texas to tell you that you should do this or that, but rather to tell you what other people in the world are doing, so that you may draw some lessons. The cities have been sapping the very life of the country, and it should be stopped; but before it can be stopped there must come better schools for rural children, and better country living. The teacher is the natural leader of the community, but before our teachers can successfully lead, they must stay in the community and become a part of it in truth. The teacher who goes from place to place can render service only in books. The people should keep good teachers as long as possible. There is an educational unrest throughout the nation. The people want better schools and they are going to get them. Better conditions are coming for country people, and it is absolutely necessary to the well being of the entire nation."

Another lecturer whose addresses were equally as highly appreciated as were those of Dr. Focht was Dr. H. T. Musselman of Dallas, editor of the Texas School Magazine, and one of the most eminent writers on educational subjects in the United States. Dr. Musselman has traveled extensively in both America and Europe and proved to be one of the most entertaining and instructive speakers of the entire week. Knowing that he had studied European conditions carefully, and was thoroughly qualified, Supt. White prevailed on Dr. Musselman to deliver a lecture to the general public at the court house Monday night on "The Causes Which Brought About the European War." Every available seat in the room was taken, and the speaker was given the closest attention throughout his discourse of more than an hour.

Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor university at Waco, was the principal speaker at Tuesday's session of the institute, and he also delivered a lecture to the general public at the court house that night.

Other speakers of state and national prominence who were here during the week were State Supt. W. F. Doughty of Austin, Prof. Claude B. Farrington, Professor of Education, Sam Houston Normal at Huntsville, and Miss Mary Watkins of San Antonio, lecturer for the Texas Congress of Mothers, the latter of whom organized a Parent-Teachers association while here. President F. M. Bralley of the College of Industrial Arts at Denton, and Principal S. R. Crowell of San Saba, both of whom were on the program for addresses, were unable to attend on account of illness.

More than one hundred teachers were in attendance during the week, and all were enthusiastic in commenting upon the success of the meeting.

Profit in "Hot House" Lambs

A suggestion of much value to every farmer interested in diversified crops and livestock, in place of cotton alone, comes from C. C. French of the advisory board of the Texas Industrial Congress, in the following statement:

"The sheep men of Western Texas and New Mexico will always raise sheep of the wool type, and not the mutton type, because they must have sheep that will herd well; their men will not be sheep feeders. So they will always have more or less old ewes to sell in the spring of the year. These ewes can easily be separated from the herds at shearing time.

"Many of these old ewes appear on the market at Ft. Worth every spring, rarely ever fat, and when thin sell at a low price. These ewes, if bred in the spring at as early a date as they can be purchased to bucks of the mutton type, will produce a fine lamb that if pastured on wheat and oats in the winter and put on full feed and fed until spring, can be made to weigh from 50 to 75 pounds, and sometimes more. These lambs always sell at a good price, and it is now well known that these 'spring lambs' as they are called, can be produced in Texas for less than one-half what it costs to produce what is known as 'hot house lambs' in the east. There is a great demand for this kind of meat. After the lambs are sold, the ewes that have been well cared for all winter can be full fed and marketed two weeks before the grass sheep reach the market, and will sell at a good price.

"I regard this method of handling a small bunch of sheep as very profitable; the deal is cleaned up every year and the farmer besides having a cash crop, knows what he has made. There are many farmers in Texas who want to reduce their cotton acreage and do not want to raise hogs. Let them come or send to Ft. Worth stockyards next spring and secure some of these ewes and handle them as outlined above. They will find that they have opened up a new and profitable industry, and that there are other things than cotton."

Buy him some swell pajamas, or anything that may be useful. Don't buy him something he will cast aside. Kirk, the tailor, has a bunch of stuff for men at the men's store. Nuf-Sed.

See us about that set of harness. O. D. Mann & Sons.

BUSINESS BETTERMENT

Evidence on Every Hand and Reasons Many

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—Today the financial horizon is so nearly cloudless that there is little upon which to base pessimistic predictions. Already our grain is pouring across the Atlantic and the United States farmer has harvested a five billion dollar crop. Foreign orders have started factory operations which at once tend to relieve the stagnation in the steam coal trade; the steel situation has turned from serious depression to rapid improvement, and the whole mineral industry may soon expect to share in this general business improvement.

The new federal banking system makes the money reserve more mobile than ever before, and extension of credit is now possible without the veto power remaining in the hands of a small group of big men.

Still another reason for belief in business betterment is that on the one side, the people are realizing that they are and have been in reality the silent partners in big business, and now that there has come the promise of some regulation that will in large part prevent monopolistic centralization, the people are interested in getting their share of returns that can come only with operation at a profit. On the other hand, the managers of the large corporations, the trustees of the investing public, are beginning to see that a certain financial security goes with public confidence, and that the attitude to the public so tersely expressed 30 years ago, "the public be damned," does not pay dividends today.

Livestock on the Market

Ft. Worth, Dec. 7.—Under very liberal receipts the cattle market Saturday showed an advance in most all classes for the week. Demand for Mexican consignments and all canner material has been exceptionally broad. Fat steers alone showed a bad turn, the market on those closing about 10c lower. Mexican steers, however, are fully 10 to 15 cents higher and a similar appreciation has been shown on all classes of cows, heifers and bulls. Stocker and feeder steers were 10 to 15 cents higher. Calves close on a strong basis. Among the important deals of the week may be mentioned feeder steers at $7.35, the high level of the year, stocker calves at $7.25, feeder bulls at $5.50 and light calves at $8.

The hog market has suffered a big decline, due to excessive receipts at Chicago following the lifting of quarantine restrictions. The close was right around 40 cents as compared with last week's settling basis.

Sheep, lambs and goats closed on a strong basis. Buyers are not receiving enough supplies to half way go around.

"MUSTN'T TOUCH."

Remember when you were a little tad, or taddess, and your mother or father pointed out something to your little eyes and said: "Mustn't touch"? Of course you remember it. You'll never forget as long as you live how those very words threw a cloak of mystery around the object that you "mustn't touch," and how that phrase started the determination in your mind that you would touch.

The other day a mother took her two-year-old baby to call on a neighbor. The first thing the child noticed in the room was some fancy sewing, laid aside for the moment. She pointed at it and said, in her childish lisp: "Pitty!"

"Mustn't touch, baby," warned her mother, drawing her away from the sewing.

Then the mother turned to talk with her friend. The very first thing the baby did was to touch the fancy work. The "mustn't touch" command of her mother only whetted her curiosity and made her touch the sewing. But she pricked her finger on a needle and learned through experience not to touch.

Men and women are only big boys and girls. They have almost the same thoughts, and identically the same aversion to the phrase "mustn't touch." Only in the realm of big boy and girlhood it isn't a mother or father who says "mustn't touch," but some law, framed by a zealot who would try to make legislation do what nothing but education or experience will accomplish. Such laws are always broken, and thus is generated a disrespect for good and necessary laws.

If a law was passed today prohibiting a man having ham and eggs for breakfast it would be a safe wager that he would have ham and eggs for breakfast for 364 days out of the year and on the 365th day he would have—ham and eggs.

NEW MANAGEMENT

The Manard Messenger came to our desk last week under new management, the paper having been sold the past week to R. E. Billings, late of Pickton, Hopkins county. The new proprietor announces that he will consolidate a plant he owns at Pickton with that of The Messenger, thus giving one of the best small-town newspaper plants in this section of the state, and will otherwise improve the paper.

We extend fraternal greetings to the East Texas brother, and trust that his fondest anticipations may be fully realized.

L. E. Callan, the retiring editor of The Messenger, will remain in Menard, having engaged in another line of business.

Claude Callan has a friend in Brady. There is nothing strange about this, for Claude has lots of them scattered all around over the country. This Brady friend avers that Claude has told him on numerous occasions that if it were possible to keep a supply of collar buttons on hand that he (Claude) would go "dressed up" all the time. A few days ago this friend accumulated in some manner a collection of eighty-odd gold collar buttons and now says that he is going to remember Claude at Christmas time with at least 75 per cent of the number. We are going to use our influence in getting the buttons to Claude early, in order that he may work off a part of them on some of his friends this Christmas.

Do your Christmas shopping, and do it early.

Seeing Them as Others See

The following, of interest to citizens of Brady, clipped from our exchange list, bearing on the attorney general's investigation into the affairs of the Texas Business Men's association, is given as a matter of news, without comment: Killeen Herald:

The Herald shamefacedly pleads guilty to having used some of the free plate sent out by the Commercial Secretaries association of Fort Worth, but never without reading it and to some degree endorsing its contents. But early in the year we became convinced that they were deliberately playing we country publishers for a set of suckers, thereby getting a big lot of free publicity for any favorites of theirs, and a lot of free kicking for the preachers and others who might become the object of their wrath. Two of their tools sent out so much rot, and it was so rotten that "anyone though he be a fool need not err therein." Now the records brought out in the investigation before the attorney general's department verifies and vindicates our suspicion and makes us blush that we have ever used any of their stuff through it was free and prepared, that fact alone ought to have been sufficient reason for our declining to use it. Not long since a representative of the concern called in to see us with the object of getting us out in town with him to assist in fleecing our townsmen. When we had told him that we considered it one of the most corrupt concerns that ever passed under the pretense of representing a worthy cause he put up the feeble defense that it was not like it once was, and excused himself. We wait for the final outcome of the investigation, wondering if they will prove to be more powerful than the legal department of our state.

Val Verde Co. Herald:

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec 7.—Capt. B. B. Paddock, chairman of the committee appointed by the Texas Business Men's association to look after the injunction suit filed by the attorney general, announced today that he was receiving numerous letters from members of the organization urging that the suit against the association be fought to a finish.

In discussing the subject, Capt. Paddock said: "The suit, in effect, questions the integrity of the business interests of Texas, denies them the right to unite in an effort to develop the state's resources and chal-

I keep Black-Draught on hand all the time now, and when my children feel a little bad, they ask me for a dose, and it does them more good than any medicine they ever tried.

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught."

Germinating Seed Corn

It costs more to get seed in the ear, but it is a lot more satisfactory. We may have to throw out half of it, but if we buy it shelled the sorting can not be done, and the chances are there will be at least as much need of sorting. In buying seed I have found it unsafe to go far north. As we go north all varieties grow smaller.

Not a single ear of corn intended for seed should be allowed to pass without a perfect examination. To make a proper examination of your seed corn lay all the ears out in rows where you can get at them comfortably, leaving them lay until your test is completed. Take a few scattering kernels out of each of these ears and examine the germs carefully. Many ears which, for the most part, are sound, will be found to have little raised or swollen places where the germs are likely to be injured, so be careful to look out for these. Discard all doubtful ears. Then take five scattering kernels from each of the ears which appear to be sound and make a germination test. Make a separate test of each ten ears, as follows:

Take an empty cigar box and a double piece of soft newspaper about the size of the box for each lot of fifty kernels, five of which were taken from each of the ten ears referred to above, to be tested. Moisten one of the papers, put the fifty kernels upon the middle of it, fold it from both ends, as you would a letter, and place it into the cigar box. As many of these packages as the box will hold may be put into it in this way. When the box is full, close it and set it into a warm room, but away from the stove. Open the box every two or three days and sprinkle in a little water, if necessary, to keep the paper moist. At the end of six days take the papers out and count the kernels that have germinated. Forty-five to forty-eight kernels out of each fifty should have germinated. Where forty-five to forty-eight kernels out of the fifty have not germinated, examine the ten ears from which the faulty kernels came and try to detect the ears that are at fault and discard them from that ten.

If your seed corn is already shelled take several lots of fifty kernels from different portions of each sack for the germination test. Do not begrudge the time it will take to do this work. It will surely pay you. A few hours or a day spent in this way may make you several more bushels of corn per acre.

In case you should find yourself without enough good seed corn try to secure some as near home as possible. If you must go away from home do not go too far north, because your seed will produce smaller varieties. Buy your seed corn in the ear and make sure that it will germinate before you accept it or shell it.

We also desire to call the attention of farmers to the importance of selecting their seed so as to have uniform sized kernels. Unless the kernels are uniform in size the stand is sure to be uneven. Discard the small and uneven kernels from the tips and butts and hand pick the rest if necessary. It will pay you well to spend days in preparing your seed corn.—Ex.

Some Poultry Hints

Milk is one of the best foods for egg production.

Young chicks should not be fed until they are 36 hours old.

Wire in the garden, not the hens. Allow the hens free range.

The hen's greatest profit-producing period is the first and second years.

It takes well-fed hens to produce eggs, but they must not be allowed to become too fat.

The free use of kerosene on the roosts, dropping boards, in the cracks, and around the nests will exterminate mites.

Remove the male from the flock as soon as the hatching season is over. Infertile eggs keep much better than those that are fertile.

February and March are the best hatching months. Chicks hatched during these months are freer from sore head than those hatched later. They also come into laying when eggs are high priced.

In dusting a hen with insect powder, hold her by the feet, head down, working the powder well into the feathers, giving special attention to regions around the vent and under the wings.

A good home made egg tester or candler can be made from a large shoe box, or any box that is large enough to go over a lamp, by removing an end and cutting a hole a little larger than the size of a quarter in the bottom of the box, so that when it is set over a common kerosene lamp the hole in the bottom will be opposite the blaze. A hole the size of a silver dollar should be cut in the top of the box to allow the heat to escape. This tester used to test eggs for market will show fresh eggs perfectly clear when placed before the small hole with a lamp lighted inside the box. After eggs have been under a setting hen for seven days they should be removed and tested to see whether they are fertile or infertile. Infertile eggs under the test will show perfectly clear, as do fresh ones. In this way it is often possible to put all the eggs that three hens originally started to sit on under two hens and reset the other hen again.
