Water Mains Being Laid.

Superintendent J. M. Lyle of the Brady Water & Light Works has a large force of workmen engaged this week extending the water main from the corner of North Bridge street and Crothers avenue to a point just south of the High school building.

The main is being extended a distance of about 1100 feet up the avenue, 4-inch pipe being used, and the expense of installation is being borne principally by the citizens to be benefitted thereby.

This improvement will enable the water and light department to render its patrons on the north side more efficient service than in the past, and at the same time furnish fire protection to a great deal of property in that portion of the city which is at present without protection of any kind.

The work will probably be completed early next week.

CLEAN UP CAMPAIGN

SANITARY DEPARTMENT
BEGIN WORK TUESDAY.

City Will Haul Away Rubbish
From Homes Free of Charge;
To Continue Indefinitely

Alderman A. W. Tipton, chairman of the Sanitary committee of the city council, announces the inauguration of an extensive clean-up campaign for the city, the work to begin next Tuesday morning.

Under the plan adopted for this campaign, a trash wagon will be put into service by the Sanitary department and will be continued until the entire city has been thoroughly cleaned from one end to another. The work will be started on the north side Tuesday morning.

The only requirements exacted of the citizens in this cleanup is that all trash, tin cans and rubbish of whatsoever kind be collected and placed on the sidewalks, where it may be conveniently picked up by the city's wagons and hauled to the dumping grounds. This work is to be done free of charge to the citizens.

Each section of the city will be gone over in a systematic manner, and when the work has been completed Brady will be one of the cleanest towns in the state.

The citizens are urgently requested to co-operate with the committee in this work, to the end that the entire town may be thoroughly cleaned and thus insure against contagious disease of all kinds during the coming summer months.

It will soon be time for light weight, pajamas, night robes and athletic underwear. A look at our new line is all we ask, "AND THE PRICE IS RIGHT." Mann Bros.

The Standard is informed upon excellent authority that plans for a new and modern hotel building are in progress and that work is expected to be begun at once. It is understood that the proposition is a local enterprise and is backed by some of the most prominent and substantial citizens of Brady.

THE CHRISTIAN PICTURED.

At Opera House Next Tuesday Night.

"The Million Dollar Mystery" will close its most exciting episodes Friday night of this and next weeks.

"Washington at Valley Forge" will feature Saturday night.

Tuesday "The Christian" in eight reels, will tell a superb Christian love story, of the life of a Christian country boy in the metropolis of the world, as contrasted with the heartless acts of a wealthy titled social vampire, wherein the Christian is the victim of mob violence for protecting a woman's honor. This is said to be the best acting film ever made, and the New York papers endorse the subject as the "Biggest and most wonderful picture ever seen, in which the Christian never appeared to better advantage."

NEW WHOLESALE HOUSE.

Bradley & McClure Open New Business House Here.

Bradley & McClure is the style of a new firm which opened for business the first of the week in the Gibbons building, next door to Scott & Co. The firm is composed of C. H. Bradley and R. B. McClure, both of whom are well known local business men.

The new firm will conduct a wholesale business exclusively, handling Swift & Co. packing house products and the Libby, McNeill & Libby line of canned fruits, catsups, pickles, etc., and will supply the retail merchants of this territory with these two lines of goods.

The addition of this firm to the business interests of the city will add materially to Brady's prestige as a wholesale center and will bring a large volume of business here, which, heretofore has gone to Brownwood or Fort Worth, where similar stocks are carried.

Only a portion of the stock has been received to date, but several car loads are now en route and are expected to arrive within a few days.

A Warning to Citizens.

I wish to call attention of the general public to the fact that it is a violation of city ordinances, punishable by a fine of from $1.00 to $50.00, to ride, drive or propel any vehicle of whatsoever kind over a line of fire hose being used either in actual service or for drilling by the department of the city of Brady. I take this method of giving fair warning that all violators will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law, and trust that it will not be necessary to file complaints against anyone on this score.

Attention is also directed to another city ordinance which makes it a violation of law for any person not a member of the fire department to get on or ride any of the apparatus belonging to the city fire department. Violators may be punished by a fine of from $1.00 to $50.00. This ordinance has been violated recently without prosecution, but hereafter complaints will be promptly filed against any and all persons who fail to comply with the provisions of this ordinance.

J. M. ANDERSON,
City Marshal.

Easter will soon be here, and all nature will rejoice. Will you let us dress you up in a Price & Co. suit, Ralston Shoes and a Mallory Hat? If so, you will likewise rejoice. Mann Bros.

We make terms on Planters and Cultivators. E. J. Broad. Never think of buying a buggy until you have looked over the Moon Bros.; sold only by Brod Merc. Co. in McCulloch county.

FORD

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford is lighter than any other car of its size and power. Light weight means economy. Economy in gasoline consumption. Economy in tire expense. Economy in repair bills—less than two cents a mile for operation and up-keep.

Yet with all its light weight the Ford is the strongest, sturdiest car that is built. It is the longest lasting car. Vanadium steel is responsible for that. "Antifatigue" steel, scientists call it—the strongest, toughest steel put into automobile construction.

Buyers will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August, 1914, and August, 1915. Runabout $440; Touring Car $490; Town Car $690; Couplet $750; Sedan $975; f. o. b. Detroit with all equipment.

LOST CREEK ECHOES.

Voca, Texas, March 21. Editor Brady Standard:

Instead of riding the corn planter, as had been planned Friday, some of our farmers changed the program and went to hauling wood.

The Lost Creek School boys recently went to Fredonia and played the school boys there a good game of ball, coming out winners. The girls basket ball team went along and played the pick of Fredonia and Oak Grove teams, winning six to seven points in favor of Fredonia.

Elder S. W. Alford of the Church of Christ of Windgate, Texas, was here last Tuesday, having been called by wire to officiate in Christian baptism for Oscar Capps.

According to previous announcement, Mr. Wm. Connally, E. L. White, Jack McLaughy, T. P. Grant and Editor Schwenker arrived on time in the latter's car Thursday, and were met by a number of the leading citizens, with smiles and handshakes, as usually given those who are out for education and advancement of ideas and plans for the betterment of the rural home and life. All made interesting addresses and organized an Egg and Poultry Circle with about 20 members, with D. H. Henderson president, and C. P. Taylor secretary. Come again gentlemen. We assure you the same courteous treatment any time you see fit to visit our community.

PEAR VALLEY DOINGS.

Pear Valley, Texas, March 22. Editor Brady Standard:

Three weeks ago Mrs. Ranting Tim had her hubby plant lettuce, radishes, beets and mustard. A few came up, but the poor little fellows look so cold these mornings we advised her to put hoods and socks on 'em.

Pear Valley school boys played Lohm school team, at Lohm, last Tuesday evening, resulting in 7 to 5 in favor of the home team. Lohm had previously played Pear Valley and won by two scores. There will be another game played soon to decide who is the victor.

Mrs. Geo. Vinyard returned home last Sunday from Lometa, to which place she had gone to visit her husband, who is at work there. Mrs. Vinyard was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Jack Reed, who had been visiting her sister at Lampasas, returning home via Lometa.

Bro. Alford of the Church of Christ preached several nights the past week at the Valley, continuing over Sunday. While the weather has been unfavorable, the attendance was fairly good. Bro. Alford is known as the boy preacher, but the boy knows his lesson.

We have quite an epidemic of sore throat in our community, but no serious cases.

When Anybody Finds a Cure He Is Generally Willing To Tell His Neighbor

¶ The willingness of one neighbor to tell another neighbor in a private way of the benefit received from Peruna, explains the popularity of Peruna more than all the advertising that has been done.

¶ The fear of the publicity undoubtedly prevents the majority of such people from writing a testimonial to be used in the newspaper. But in spite of that we are receiving fine testimonials continually.

ANEMIA—Mrs. F. A. DeWitt, Marengo, Ohio, says: "I believe Peruna to be the best tonic. I recommend it for any run-down condition of the system."

SPRING COLDS—Mrs. Rhoda Stufflebeam, Bunch, Iowa: "A spring cold I took settled on my lungs. Coughed. Could not sleep. We feared consumption. Thanks to Peruna, I am a well woman today."

CATARRH—Mrs. Sadie Allen, Joseph, Oregon: "My little boy is entirely cured of catarrh of the ears by Peruna. Am thankful for your good advice."

SPRING TONIC—Mrs. Wm. McRoberts, Brown Valley, Minn.: "Taken in spring Peruna tones up the system, acts as a tonic. I consider Peruna a whole family medicine chest."

¶ How did they hear of Peruna?

¶ Simply because one neighbor is always willing to tell another one he has found a cure. Neighborly conversation of grateful patients has done more for Peruna than advertising. Much more.

A LESSON IN THIS.

Here's a news item of interest:

"One million German pigs have been billeted on the civilian population of Belgium. The pigs must be fed and cared for by the Belgians, without distinction as to class. One of the wealthiest inhabitants of Brussels has been compelled to take twelve hogs on what is styled "reduced rates by the week." His poorest neighbors have at least one pig to a family.

"For some time there have been reports of a shortage of fodder in Germany, whereas the amount in Belgium is nearly normal, hence the importation of the swine.

"With their customary thoroughness, the German authorities have devised an elaborate system of billeting the pigs and obtaining reports as to their condition. The distribution system has broken down occasionally, however, with the result that occupants of apartments and flats have found themselves saddled with the care of several animals."

The Germans, as a nation and as a class, are famed for their thrift and foresight. If, then, they see relief to the Belgians from the danger of starvation and suffering through the simple expedient of raising a pig, what a lesson should it be to the spendthrift and careless citizens of the United States. The Baby Beef, the Hog and the Poultry clubs are the local means of achieving independence for the American farmer, and the example set in Belgium should be an incentive to greater and more concerted action among our citizens to "live at home".

Take the swatter out of the moth balls.

There is a deal of truth in the saying that we never know how to really appreciate anything good until we miss it. Take the "Cracks at the Crowd" column in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, for instance. During Claude Callan's visit to Menard the past week so, the editorial page of that paper had a forlorn and incomplete appearance, that emphasized more than anything else could have, how essential to its brightness is the daily ministrations of Callan. We think it is a very good plan to allow Claude to make a visit back to Menard occasionally to keep from becoming homesick, but we believe it will be the part of good policy for the F. W. S.-T. folks to cut his visit as short as possible.

Dearly beloved readers, The Standard has had its Spring house-cleaning, and we have emerged therefrom in greatly refreshed appearance (parenthetically speaking). The dust and grime, the ink-spots and the tear-drops, the lost hopes and the unfulfilled dreams have all been erased from the time-scarred and foot-worn floor by a vigorous decoration of soap-suds, hot water and elbow-grease, and the splintered surface has been soothingly balm-ed, bathed and beautified with applied applications of healing, healthful and healthy antiseptic oil. Having thus provided for ourselves a firm and lasting foundation upon which to base future operations, we are now ready to attack the dust of ages that fondly lingers on the walls, as well as to remove the grimy finger-prints and the reminders of last year's fly season from the window panes. When, our beloved, all this has come to pass, then beware! We are going to launch a campaign of clean-up for your floors and walls and ceilings and indoors and outdoors and front yards and back yards. We are, so we are.

Keep your eye glued to the fact that Brady is going to have a Clean-Up Day.

The compulsory education bill has been passed by the Texas legislature, and beginning 1916 the law will require children to attend school. Some 15 or more years ago the compulsory education bill was passed in Iowa and other northern states. Slowly, but surely we are progressing.

DEBT THE FOE OF THRIFT.

In days of Hebrew national prominence every seventh year was a "pay-up" period. Kansas has something similar in its "pay-up week." This week of the entire fifty-two, almost everybody who is in a position to make restitution does his and her best to do so. Debt is the secret assassin of thrift. The debt habit is the twin brother of poverty. The great trouble of the country is the credit system. A man, without trouble, obtains credit. This encourages many to do wrong. "The pay-up" week in Kansas is not so bad an idea, but its necessity is evidence of the folly of a great many people in Kansas.

Tuesday Literary Club.

"Texas—The affections of her people, like the rivers of her borders, flow to an inseparable union."

The ladies of the Tuesday club delightfully entertained their friends last Tuesday afternoon at the Presbyterian church with an open meeting.

A special program on Texas, her resources, her wealth, her industries, her notable men and women and their achievements, was given, which proved to be interesting as well as instructive. Each member rendered her part with credit, showing that she had given her subject time and thought.

Mrs. Noble, our worthy president, in her delightful way, gave a short sketch of Texas history. Such condensation was remarkable and, given in her original manner with perfect wording, fixed Texas history in our minds to stay.

The knowledge that Mrs. W. N. White imparted to us concerning the artists and authors that Texas can boast of was surprising. Mrs. Jas. Mann and Mrs. F. W. Henderson in their talks on "The Texas Club Woman," and "Texas' Place in Federated Club Work," aroused much enthusiasm and was an inspiration to the thought that "No Nation is Greater Than Its Women".

The pleasing program, followed by a social hour and the serving of refreshments, made the afternoon one of genuine pleasure. The guests departed voting the event a decided success.

Woman's Missionary Society.

Despite the inclement weather, members of the Mission Study class met at the church Monday afternoon. The attendance was fairly good and a profitable hour was spent in the study of the lesson.

A devotional meeting will be held at the Methodist church on Monday, March 29, at 3 p. m.

Parent and Teachers Association

The parent and Teachers Association met at the school building Wednesday afternoon, March 17th. This was one of the best meetings the association has had. A very interesting program was carried out. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Bevans, Mrs. King presided. The meeting opened by repeating the Lord's prayer.

An article on the purpose of this association by the president followed.

An Ideal Teacher, by Mrs. Noble.

Recitation, "The Mule," was rendered by Grace Lucile Bevans.

Reading by Mrs. Donnel. "An Ideal Parent," by Miss Lena Carroll.

Recitation, "Little Willie's Complaint," by George Dutton. Quartette, by Mesdames Baker, Bashaw and Duke Mann and Miss Jewel Westbrook.

Song by twelve little girls of Miss Young's room.

Recitation, by Lou Ella Adalene Bevans.

The following program committee was appointed: Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Snider, Miss Inez Butler, two new members, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Wegner were added.

The association sold sandwiches and coffee and cleared $14.55.

The following program will be rendered next meeting, March 31st:

"School Economy," by members.

"How to Teach Honesty in School," Mrs. Ed Broad.

Reading, Mrs. F. W. Henderson.

Two tables of players enjoyed an interesting series of games of Five Hundred, in which Miss Rose Stallings won club prize for high score, while Mrs. W. L. Hughes was awarded guest prize.

Following the games the hostess served a course of delicious refreshments consisting of salad, beaten biscuits, olives and tea to the following club members: Mesdames W. D. Crothers, C. T. White; Misses Harriet Cook, Hayde Willoughby, Lillian Roberts, Rose Stallings. Mesdames G. V. Gansel and W. L. Hughes were guests of the club.

Miss Esther Anderson will entertain the club at the meeting next Wednesday afternoon.

The Old and the New

OLD WAY

Of course you have noticed the improvements we have made in laundering collars.

NEW WAY

By our new method, we so launder a collar that its top edge, where it is turned over, is not sharp, but slightly rounded, more space is given all along between the inside and outside of the collar, where the tie slides.

And by the way, this new method also assists in preventing the edges of the collar from cracking.

This Is The Machine

Now used by all the large city laundries. You may now have your laundry done just as nicely in Brady as in any city in the state.

 Japanese Assist Evangelists.
 We are having the Hiroshima series of meetings in connection with the three years' evangelistic campaign which was planned by Mr. Mott and Christian leaders in Japan, half the money being raised, as you know, in America and half in Japan. yesterday we had Mr. Muramatsu with us. He is a prominent and wealthy merchant in Nogoya, exporting large quantities of china to England and America. He has done a great deal for Y. M. C. A. work in Japan and has given large sums of money to different religious causes. He gave a most earnest talk at the meeting yesterday.
 Mrs. Hirooka was also with us yesterday and again today. She is the oldest sister of the Mitsui family, perhaps the wealthiest family in Japan. She is a banker herself, president of the Kashima bank, and is an extremely clever business woman. She was converted when 61 years of age and now, though she is still actively engaged in the banking business, goes to meetings a great deal and talks to the women of Japan upon every possible occasion. A few years ago we had a very prominent visitor in Japan from Harvard university, who in his talks to Japanese audiences made statements about Christ and the Christian religion which she thought were calculated to do great harm to the cause of Christianity; so she made a tour of all the places he had visited and gave talks herself, saying that his statements were false, and earnestly preaching the gospel.

 We had our first service today in our beautiful new church. It is truly a great blessing to the Hiroshima Japanese Christians to have this new place of worship. There were about 350 present at the preaching service this morning. Mr. Metani is a most earnest pastor and a very spiritual-minded, consecrated Christian worker.
 The Japanese Ladies' Aid Society in the church has worked earnestly to raise the money for the cushions and other furnishings. A great many of them are poor, and it has meant real sacrifice to them, but their happiness in the new church and in the part they have had in raising funds for it is ample compensation.
 The school is very quiet tonight. All the girls have gone to the service, and of their own choice, since their going was not

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—On Misery Creek, at the foot of a rock from which he has fallen, Sally Miller finds George Lescott, a landscape painter, unconscious, and after reviving him, goes for assistance.

CHAPTER II—Samson South and Sally, taking Lescott to Samson's home, are met by Spicer South, head of the family, who tells them that Jesse Purvey has been shot, and that Samson is suspected of the crime. Samson denies it.

CHAPTER III—The shooting of Jesse Purvey breaks the truce of Hollman-South feud.

CHAPTER IV—Samson reproves Tamarack Spicer for telling Sally that Jim Hollman is on the trail with bloodhounds hunting the man who shot Purvey.

CHAPTER V—The bloodhounds lose the trail at Spicer South's door. Lescott discovers artistic ability in Samson. While sketching with Lescott on the mountain, Tamarack discovers Samson to a jeering crowd of mountaineers. Samson thrashes him and denounces him as the "truce-buster" who shot Purvey.

CHAPTER VI—Lescott tries to persuade Samson to go to New York with him and develop his talent. Sally, loyal but heartbroken, furthers Lescott's efforts. The dance at Wile McCager's threatens trouble to Samson and Lescott.

CHAPTER VII—At the dance Samson tells the South clan he is going to leave the mountains. Lescott goes home to New York. Samson bids Spicer and Sally farewell and follows.

Light, the boy could read her soul, and her soul was sobbing.

He drew her toward him, and held her very tight.

"Sally," he said, in a voice which threatened to choke, "I want ye to take keer of yerself. Ye hain't like these other gals round here. Ye hain't got big hands an' feet. Ye kain't stand as much as they kin. Don't stay out in the night air too much—an', Sally—fer God's sake take keer of yerself!" He broke off, and picked up his hat.

"An' that gun, Sally," he repeated at the door, "that there's the most precious thing I've got. I loves hit better than anything—take keer of hit."

Again, she caught at his shoulders. "Does ye love hit better'n ye do me, Samson?" she demanded.

He hesitated. "I reckon ye knows how much I loves ye, Sally," he said, slowly, "but I've done made a promise, an' that gun's a-goin' ter keep hit fer me."

They went together out to the stile, he still carrying his rifle, as though loath to let it go, and she crossed with him to the road.

As he untied his reins, she threw her arms about his neck, and for a long while they stood there under the clouds and stars, as he held her close. There was no eloquence of leave-taking, no professions of undying love, for these two hearts were inarticulate and dizzy clinging to a wilderness code of self-repression—and they had reached a point where speech would have swept them both away to a breakdown.

CHAPTER VIII.

The boy from Misery rode slowly toward Hixon. At times the moon struggled out and made the shadows black along the way. At other times it was like riding in a huge cauldron of pitch. When he passed into that stretch of country at whose heart Jesse Purvey dwelt he raised his voice in song. His singing was very bad, and the ballad lacked tune, but it served its purpose of saving him from the suspicion of furtiveness. Though the front of the house was black, behind its heavy shutters he knew that his coming might be noted, and night-riding at this particular spot might be misconstrued in the absence of frank warning.

The correctness of his inference brought a brief smile to his lips when he crossed the creek that skirted the orchard and heard a stable door creak softly behind him. He was to be followed again—and watched, but he did not look back or pause to listen for the hoofbeats of his unsolicited escort. On the soft mud of the road he would hardly have drawn them had he bent his ear and heard rein. He rode at a walk, for his train would not leave until five o'clock in the morning. There was time in plenty.

It was cold and depressing as he trudged the empty streets from the livery stable to the railroad station, carrying his saddlebags over his arm. At last he heard the whistle and saw the blazing headlight, and a minute later he had pushed his way into the smoking car and dropped his saddlebags on the seat beside him. Then, for the first time, he saw and recognized his watchers. Purvey meant to have Samson shadowed as far as Lexington, and his movements from that point definitely reported. Jim Asberry and Aaron Hollis were the chosen spies. He did not speak to the two enemies who took seats across the car, but his face hardened, and his brows came together in a black scowl.

—a sleeping car to which he was assigned after leaving Lexington was almost empty, but he felt upon him the interested gaze of those few eyes that were turned toward his entrance. He engaged every pair with a pair very clear and steady and undrooping, until somehow each lip that had started to twist in amusement straightened, and the twinkle that rose at first glance sobered at second. Yet, for all his specious seeming of unconcern, Samson was winking to the fact that he was a scarecrow, and his sensitive pride made him cut his meals short in the dining car, where he was kept busy beating down inquisitive eyes with his defiant gaze. He resolved after some thought upon a definite policy. It was a very old policy, but to him new—and a discovery. He would change nothing in himself that involved a surrender of code or conviction. But, wherever it could be done with honor, he would concede to custom.

It was late in the second afternoon when he stepped from the train at Jersey City, to be engulfed in an unimagined roar and congestion. Here it was impossible to hold his own against the unconcealed laughter of the many, and he stood for an instant glaring about like a caged tiger, while three currents of humanity separated and flowed toward the three ferry exits. Then he saw the smiling face of Lescott, and Lescott's extended hand. Even Lescott, immaculately garbed and far-coated, seemed almost a stranger, and the boy's feeling of intimacy froze to inward constraint and diffidence. But Lescott knew nothing of that. The stoic in Samson held true, masking his emotions.

"So you came," said the New Yorker, heartily, grasping the boy's hand. "Where's your luggage? We'll just pick that up and make a dash for the ferry."

"Hyar hit is," replied Samson, who still carried his saddlebags. The painter's eyes twinkled, but the mirth was so frank and friendly that the boy, instead of glaring in defiance, grinned responsively.

"Right, oh!" laughed Lescott. "I thought maybe you'd bring a trunk, but it's the wise man who travels light."

He followed Lescott out to the foot of Twenty-third street, and stepped with him into the tonneau of the painter's waiting car. Lescott lived with his family uptown, for it happened that, had his canvases possessed no value whatever, he would still have been in a position to drive his motor and follow his impulses about the world. If he did not take the boy to his home, it was because he understood that a life which must be not only full of early embarrassment, but positively revolutionary, should be approached by easy stages. Consequently the car turned down Fifth avenue, passed under the arch and drew up before a door just off Washington square, where the landscape painter had a studio suit. There were sleeping rooms and such accessories as seemed to the boy unheard-of luxury, though Lescott regarded the place as a makeshift annex to his home establishment.

"You'd better take your time in selecting permanent quarters," was his careless fashion of explaining to Samson. "It's just as well not to hurry. You are to stay here with me, as long as you will."

"I'm obleeged ter ye," replied the boy, to whose training in open-hearted hospitality the invitation seemed only natural. The evening meal was brought in from a neighboring open fire, Samson eating in mountain silence, while his host chatted and asked questions.

"Samson," suggested the painter, when the dinner things had been carried out and they were alone, "you are here for two purposes: First, to study painting; second, to educate and equate yourself for coming conditions. It's going to take work, more work, and then some more work."

"I hain't skeered of work."

"I believe that. Also, you must keep out of trouble. You've got to ride your fighting instinct with a strong curb."

"I don't low to let nobody run over me." The statement was not argumentative; only an announcement of a principle which was not subject to modification.

"All right, but until you learn the ropes let me advise you."

The boy gazed into the fire for a few moments of silence.

"I gives ye my hand on that," he promised.

At eleven o'clock the painter, having shown his guest over the premises, said good-night and went uptown to his own house. Samson lay a long while awake, with many disquieting reflections.

Meanwhile Lescott, letting himself into a house overlooking the park, was hailed by a chorus of voices from the dining room. He turned and went in to join a gay group just back from the opera. As he thoughtfully mixed himself a highball, they bombarded him with questions.

"didn't you bring your barbarian with you?" demanded a dark-eyed girl, who looked very much as Lescott himself might have looked had he been a girl—and very young and lovely. Now she flashed on him an affectionate smile, and added: "We have been waiting to see him. Must we go to bed disappointed?"

George stood looking down on them, and tinkled the ice in his glass.

"He wasn't brought on for purposes of exhibition, Drennie," he smiled. "I was afraid if he came in here in the fashion of his arrival—carrying his saddlebags—your ultracivilized folk might have laughed."

"No! Now, actually with saddlebags?" echoed a young fellow with a likable face which was for the moment ingenuously amused. "That goes Dick Whittington one better. You do make some rare discoveries, George. We celebrate you."

"Thanks, Horton," commented the painter, dryly. "When you New Yorkers have learned what these barbarians already know, the control of your overcivilized risibles and a courtesy deeper than your shirt-fronts—maybe I'll let you have a look. Meantime I'm much too fond of all of you to risk letting you laugh at my barbarian."

Several months were spent laboring with charcoal and paper over plaster casts in Lescott's studio, and Lescott himself played instructor. When the skylight darkened with the coming of evening, the boy whose mountain nature cried out for exercise went for long trips that carried him over many miles of city pavements, and after that, when the gas was lit, he turned, still insatiably hungry, to volumes of history, and algebra, and facts.

A sloop-rigged boat with a crew of two was dancing before a brisk breeze through blue Bermuda water. Off to the right Hamilton rose sheer and colorful from the bay. At the tiller sat the white-clad figure of Adrienne Lescott. Puffs of wind that whipped the tautly billowing sheets lashed her dark hair about her face. Her lips, vividly red like poppy petals, were just now curved into an amused smile, which made them even more than ordinarily kissable and tantalizing. Her companion was neglecting his nominal duty of tending the sheet to watch her.

"Wilfred," she teased, "your contrast is quite startling—and, in a way, effective. From head to foot you are spotless white—but your scowl is absolutely the blackest black that our eyes endure." And, she added, in an

CONSUMPTION TAKES 350 PEOPLE DAILY

Over 350 people succumb to consumption every day in the United States. Science proves that the germs only thrive when the system is weakened from colds or sickness, overwork, confining duties or when general weakness exists.

The best physicians point out that during changing seasons the blood should be made rich and pure and active by taking Scott's Emulsion after meals. The cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion warms the body by enriching the blood; it peculiarly strengthens the lungs and throat, while it upbuilds the resistive forces of the body to avoid colds and prevent consumption. If you work indoors, tire easily, feel languid or nervous, Scott's Emulsion is the most strengthening food-medicine known. It is totally free from alcohol or any stupefying drug. Avoid substitutes.

The searchers saw the signs of bears near where the child was found, and old woodsmen declared that the babe was kept alive by sleeping with the cubs and their mother. ### Keep the Childner Bright and Happy

Happy youngsters must be healthy. The digestive organs of children get out of order as readily as do those of their elders, and the result is equally distressing. When the bowels are clogged with an accumulation of refuse from the stomach the child naturally becomes cross and fretful from the discomfort, and is often punished for temper when medical attention is really what is needed.

The next time your child is cross and unhappy, without apparent reason, try giving it a mild laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild, pleasant tasting combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, and is especially recommended for children because of its gentle action. It is sold in drug stores, everywhere. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.
