THE NATIONAL HIGHWAY

ASSOCIATION WOULD HOLD ANNUAL MEETING HERE.

Who Will Take the Responsibility of Arranging for Their Coming and Welcome.

Here's a nut!
 The delegates to the annual meeting of the Puget Sound to the Gulf convention want to come to Brady and hold their meeting here, but in the absence of a commercial organization there is no one to bid them to come, or arrange for their coming.
 Something must be done at once!
 Shall Brady pass up the opportunity—and risk forever losing its place on the route of the National Highway. Neighboring towns have fought hard for this distinction; and now Brady is about to lose this vantage from sheer carelessness, indifference and self satisfaction.

Here is the letter from D. E. Colp, secretary of the association at Austin, addressed to Mr. T. P. Grant, secretary of the defunct Brady Commercial Club:
 "I have been expecting for several days to hear from you or your successor, concerning the annual meeting of the Puget Sound to Gulf, and the pleasure of the Brady people with reference to holding the annual meeting at that point.
 "The time is getting short to exploit this meeting and it will be necessary for us to act quickly in the matter. I would like to have the meeting as near July 4th as convenient. Since the 4th comes on Sunday, I would suggest that we either hold the meeting on Saturday or Tuesday, presuming that Monday would not give your people an opportunity to make the necessary preparations. However Monday would suit the delegates better than Tuesday, but we are going to leave this to the convenience of your town. I would like to have some definite information by return mail, if possible."

What is to be done?
 Who can speak for Brady?
 Who will take the responsibility upon his individual shoulders to reply to the letter and invite the association to meet here? Set the most opportune date? Guarantee entertainment to the visitors? Etc., etc., etc?
 And this is but one incident among a thousand that are sure to bob up during the year.

CAN BRADY AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT A COMMERCIAL BODY?

Dr. Hicks Martin, the original booster from Katemcy, the "Gem City," as it is known far and wide, was a visitor in Brady yesterday. The doctor always has a smile and a word of good cheer, and he says Prosperity is abroad in his section, and if the weather man will only give them a good rain soon, there would be nothing further to be wishing for at present. The rain Sunday night was barely sufficient at Katemcy to run from the roofs.

The good citizens of the Lohn Valley are elated over the fact that they are to have a new $10,000 gin plant in operation by the fall season. Messrs. R. L. and H. R. Stewart of Rockwood already have a force of workmen engaged in quarrying rock for the foundations, and work is to begin at once on the construction of the buildings. The new gin will be located just east of Lohn near the tank on Dr. J. P. Barton's place.

Picking Up The Loose Business

Building up a business is largely a matter of picking up the loose trade.

Every business man has a certain amount of trade that is assured. He hopes to build up his business, however, by serving the occasional customer well and adding him to his permanent list.

The telephone furnishes one of the easiest and surest means of getting and holding the occasional customer.

The WEST TEXAS TELEPHONE subscribers in your vicinity represent an enormous buying power, and you should make it convenient for them to deal with you by having adequate telephone facilities in your place of business.

This is only one of the almost countless uses of the telephone.

TRUTH TRIUMPHS.

Brady Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit.

A truthful statement of a Brady citizen, given in his own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney ills, use a tested kidney medicine.

A Brady citizen tells of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Could you demand more convincing proof of merit?
A. H. Conner, carpenter, Brady, says: "My back hurt me pretty badly. It seemed that the pain was mostly over my left kidney. My kidneys were congested and the kidney secretions piled in passage and contained sediment. I used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from the Jones Drug Co., and they relieved the trouble with my back, regulated the kidney action and cleared up the kidney secretions."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy, get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Conner had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Suppose We Pared These Tires

Suppose this All-Weather tread—now double-thick—was pared to the thinness of the usual anti-skid. Would it endure like this one? Or so resist puncture?

Suppose we used—as some do—one less fabric ply. Or made the whole tire lighter. Suppose we omitted our exclusive features:

Our No-Rim-Cut feature—
Our "On-Air" cure—
Our rubber rivets—
Our 126-piano-wire base.

All rivals do omit them. All of them are costly. Our "On-Air" cure alone costs us $450,000 yearly to save needless blowouts. But could Goodyear Fortified Tires retain top place if we did not give these extras?

Cost Added
Prices Lowered
Instead of that, we all the time add costly better-

We spend on experts $100,000 yearly to seek out new improvements.

Our All-Weather tread—always double-thick—is made still thicker in some sizes.

Our Inner Tubes have been thickened 14 per cent on the average.

Our fabric has been strengthened.

Yet on February 1st we made our third big price reduction in two years, bringing the total to 45 per cent. Now you are getting in Goodyear Fortified Tires the best value ever known in tire making.

It is due to yourself that you this year join this army of contented tire users. It is by far the largest army in Tiredom. Any dealer will supply you. (231)

Bond Election Ordered.

An election has been ordered in the Lohn common school district to be held on the 19th inst. to vote on a $7,500 bond issue for the purpose of erecting a new school building.

On account of the increase in scholastics in the district the past few years the present building is found entirely inadequate for efficient school work, and the progressive citizens of the community have decided upon the erection of a thoroughly modern and up-to-date building—one that will be a credit to the community.

It is understood that the taxpayers of the district are of practically one mind regarding the bond issue, and there is little or no doubt but the bonds will carry by an overwhelming majority.

TRADE AT HOME.

The Standard has been giving some space to the Trade at Home idea during the past few weeks. This article is addressed to the merchants. We believe it will give a hint as to how to compete with outside competition.

Ideas are formed largely through reading. For instance: new article is designed. It is illustrated and featured or advertised in the magazines. The reading public takes notice and wants the article. Some one secures it, and thereby starts the sale of the article in his home town.

People, you see, are very imitative. If Neighbor Smith finds something new that is particularly worth while, it is not long until Neighbor Jones wants the very identical thing. So it goes!

Here is where the merchant enters. The live merchant studies his trade magazine, the current magazines—everything pertaining to his business or his line. When he sees a well-advertised article he immediately places it in stock, anticipating its sale. That is salesmanship; that is business acumen. Anticipating your customers' wants and whims.

That is one way, and the best way, of competing with foreign concerns—having the goods the people want when they want it. When folks find they can get their needs supplied at home, they are forever going to get out of the notion that they must send out of town for the new goods, the popular goods and the best goods.

In the succeeding issues of The Standard we will reprint an article from Holland's Magazine relative to what one merchant did along this line.

Some oat harvest in the McCulloch country. Some country, that McCulloch.

McCulloch citizens are good road enthusiasts, better school enthusiasts, better home enthusiasts. It's great to be an enthusiast.

Great is McCulloch county. A week or two ago our Fife correspondent reported the completion of the scholastic census at that place, showing an increase of 30 per cent over that of last year. And now comes Brady, showing an increase in scholastics of 20 per cent over that of last year. Prosperity is surely abroad in the McCulloch country. Folks are not only looking our way, but they are COMING our way.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL.

You never can tell. Folks are funny propositions.

Right in Brady we have living, breathing, animated examples.

For instance: After carrying a commercial organization through five unfavorable years, the citizens of Brady last Wednesday decided to dissolve the aforesaid organization—and this action right in the face of the most prosperous and favorable period the town and country has known since '09.

We are not blaming the directors of the club, the secretary or the contributing members for being disgusted and ready to quit. But we do blame those who, by their negligence, their indifference and their unthoughtfulness, failed or refused to contribute toward the support of a commercial organization, and thereby robbed it of its rightful sphere of usefulness.

The business man or citizen who is so self-centered, who is so devoid of public spirit, who shows so little interest in the welfare of the community in which he resides as to withdraw or refuse his support to a commercial body whose sole purpose is the building of that community, can only be compared to the "Man Without a Country," who "living, shall forfeit fair renown, and, doubly dying, shall go down into the vile depths from which he sprung, unwept, unhonored and unsung."

SCHOOL BUILDING.

The Standard editor doffs his hat to the citizens of Pear Valley and Lohn. Both of these progressive communities have up bond elections for the purpose of building better schools. Pear Valley will vote on her bonds tomorrow; Lohn will vote on the question on the 19th—and we believe both elections will carry overwhelmingly. We have talked with a number of citizens of each community, and general sentiment appears for the bonds. We trust this sentiment will prevail, for there is nothing that contributes quite so much to the progress and development of a community as good schools. They are the foundation upon which the future development of a community rests; upon which the future of the growing citizens of the community must be built.

When the citizens of a community take pride and interest in their school, you can rest assured that they are going to have a good school, a live school, and school work that accomplishes its full purpose.

Another thing: Oats has temporarily dethroned King Cotton.

Hail to the Young Men's Business League. May it live and flourish and become a power for good in the McCulloch country.

The Standard is the mirror that reflects the prosperity and advantages of the Great McCulloch Country. And it is a plate glass, French bevel, life-size mirror, at that.

The grand jury could easily return an indictment for criminal negligence and as accessories before the fact against those citizens who contributed by their non-support to the death of the Brady Commercial Club.

If Brady should lose her place on the National Highway just because the Brady merchants and citizens are too indifferent to maintain and support a commercial organization, we hope future generations will not blame this editor. It looks to us like it was selling our heritage for a mess of pottage.

A PARADOX.

According to the "American Boy" magazine, a French scientist advises that flies have a distinct objection to the color blue. Therefore it is in order to paint the tables and all other places infested by this pest, with blue paint, and presto! the flies fly. We are willing to concede that the French scientist in all probability knows his business, but our observation has been that about the time we develop a case of the "blues" every gosh-dingling fly within the block tries to find a landing place on our nose.—Brady Standard.

The fly cannot know that your nose feels blue. Paint it.—Temple Telegram.

That's the trouble. Our nose is always red when we paint it. And, by-the-way, that is the only time we feel "blue".

Another rain in the McCulloch country will look like a million dollars to us.

Back Yard Party.

On Tuesday night of last week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. C. Koerth, Miss Lemmie Guthrie entertained a jolly crowd of young people with a "Back Yard Party," in honor of the Senior Class of the Brady High school.

The Seniors all promised that they would try for once not to be dignified, and right nobly did they keep their promise, judging by the noise they made while playing "Little White House on the Hill," and other similar games.

At a late hour the refreshments of grape punch, cake, bananas and peppermint stick candy were served the entire crowd.

All report a splendid time and regret that two Seniors, Mr.

Gus Shropshire and Miss Stella Traweck, were not in the city.

Those present were Misses Rachael Walker, Ruth Schaege, Norma Samuel, Virginia Miller, Mary Estelle Thompson, Mary Snider, Jennie Westbrook, Lucile Glazner of Stacy, and the hostess; Messrs. Orval Jackson, Chester Baze, Herbert Henderson, Henry Tipton, Bill Henderson and Larry O'Neal.

Following the games a delicious salad course, with an ice, was served by the hostess to the following members of the club: Mesdames S. W. Moffatt, G. V. Gansel, C. T. White, G. R. White, J. S. Wall, B. Simpson; Misses Lillian Roberts, Elizabeth Souther. Guests of the club present included Mesdames S. A. Benham, Thos. Donnell, Lewis Brook; Miss Fay Wall.

Celebrate Davis' Birthday.

Sunny South Chapter U. D. C. celebrated the 107th anniversary of the birth of Jefferson Davis yesterday afternoon with an interesting and entertaining program, which was rendered at Odd Fellows hall. A large number of the members of the chapter were present, in addition to several members of Ben McCulloch Camp U. C. V. and citizens of the city, and the program was highly enjoyed, especially by the veterans.

One of the most enjoyable numbers on the program was an address by County Attorney C. C. House on the life of Jefferson Davis. Mr. House is an eloquent speaker, and is always at his best when assigned a subject of this nature. Other numbers on the program consisted of patriotic songs, piano selections by members of the chapter and the reading of "General Robert E. Lee's Farewell Address to His Soldiers" by Mrs. R. D. Dyer.

Both the Commercial and Brady National banks were closed throughout the day in commemoration of the birthday of the only president of the Southern Confederacy.

Johnson-Rainbolt.

At the home of Rev. T. P. Grant, pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city, at 7:00 o'clock Wednesday evening occurred the marriage of Mr. Ike Pryor Rainbolt and Miss Mary Johanson. On account of the serious illness of a sister of the bride, the wedding was a very quiet one, and was witnessed by only a few relatives and friends of bride and groom.

Both Mr. Rainbolt and his bride were reared in Brady, and are numbered among the city's most popular young people. For the past two years or more the groom has been in the employ of the city water and light department in the capacity of bookkeeper and office man, and is regarded as one of the most capable accountants of the city. He is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rainbolt, one of the oldest and most highly respected families in this section of the state.

Mrs. Rainbolt is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Johanson of this city, and a young lady of charming personality and many accomplishments. She is a popular member of a number of the social clubs of the city, in addition to being one of the most prominent and enthusiastic workers in the Presbyterian church and Sunday school.

Those present at the wedding ceremony included Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McCall, the latter a sister of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McShan. Immediately after the ceremony the happy young couple left in an automobile for Rochelle, where they boarded the train for Temple, Galveston, San Antonio and other South Texas points.

They will return to Brady about the 12th inst. and will be at home to their friends at the residence of the groom's parents on North Bridge street.

PEACE TO ITS ASHES.

Commercial Club Crossed the River Styx Wednesday.

Quietly, and without a struggle, resigned to the inevitable and in the hope of a great resurrection some sweet day, the Brady Commercial Club last Wednesday morning embarked with Charon and crossed the River Styx.

The end came in the presence of but few friends and sympathizers, and as the milk of human kindness was running very low, no effort was made to give an injection of the Elixir of Life, or in any way attempt to prolong the suffering of the invalid.

The Brady Commercial Club was born many years ago and did active duty for Brady and the McCulloch country for many years. Since 1909, however, its health had been failing, due largely to a lack of proper diet. About a year and a half ago three noted surgeons, Howard Broad, Joe A. Adkins and W. L. Hughes were called in consultation and after conferring with the friends of the deceased, proceeded to prescribe injections of the Elixir of Life subscribed by the live merchants and citizens of Brady. The remedy completely rejuvenated the B. C. C., and for a while it appeared that it would recover entirely, but the supply of Elixir was not forthcoming, and nothing else would avail.

The emaciated corpse was laid 'neath the sod and the dew with few ceremonies. There were but one or two mourners. Parson Grant acted as chaplain at the funeral, while Judge F. M. Newman was master of ceremonies.

A suitable monument will no doubt be erected at some distant date by future generations to the memory of the Brady Commercial Club.

Peace to its ashes. So mote it be!

Two Very Poor Reasons

If some housewives inadvertently use baking powder which contains alum it is Usually for two reasons—lack of knowledge as to what it is made of, or because it costs less than a standard brand like Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, which is made from cream of tartar.

There is no longer any reason for lack of knowledge, since the label on every baking powder can shows in plain English just what it contains. If the label on your can names alum as one of the ingredients, and you are in doubt about its unhealthfulness, your doctor can enlighten you.

As to the lower cost, there is very little difference in practical use, about one cent for a whole cake or pan of biscuits—a mere trifle when you consider the vast difference in healthfulness in favor of food made with

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER Made from Cream of Tartar

A Booster in Town.

Our old-time friend, G. W. Vineyard, was in from the Stacy country Wednesday and gave us a call and a chat. Now, G. W. and the editor cannot agree on the war question, but we can hit it off pretty well on the subject of good roads, good crops, etc. Mr. Vineyard had occasion recently to visit Coleman, and he says the roads for a distance of a half-dozen miles or more beyond the river were in a terrible shape, and made him feel thoroughly proud of the McCulloch county roads. Now G. W. admits that the roads out in his neighborhood aren't the best in the world, and he stands ready to vote any necessary tax in order to improve them. In fact, he put a hand out on the road to grub out some stumps, just as an example of good-will toward the work.

G. W. reports a fine oat crop and while a good many are estimating their yields at around 100 bus. per acre, he is conservative and is satisfied to call it between 50 and 60 bus. He believes it most essential to get his land in first-class shape, and therefore flat breaks it first, then disc harrows it, and drills it in.

Mr. Vineyard is a type of the successful McCulloch county farmer, and his example is entitled to more than passing notice.

EVER SALIVATED BY CALOMEL? HORRIBLE!

Calomel is Quicksilver and Acts Like Dynamite on Your Liver.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into the system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for 50 cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—On Misery Creek, at the foot of a rock from which he has fallen, Sally Miller finds George Lescott, a landscape painter, unconscious, and after reviving him, goes for assistance.

CHAPTER II—Samson South and Sally, taking Lescott to Samson's home, are met by Spicer South, head of the family, who tells them that Jesse Purvey has been shot, and that Samson is suspected of the crime. Samson denies it.

CHAPTER IV—Samson reproves Tamarack Spicer for telling Sally that Jim Hollman is on the trail with bloodhounds hunting the man who shot Purvey.

CHAPTER V—The bloodhounds lose the trail at Spicer South's door. Lescott discovers artistic ability in Samson. While sketching with Lescott on the mountain, Tamarack discovers Samson to a jeering crowd of mountaineers. Samson thrashes him and denounces him as the "truce-buster" who shot Purvey.

CHAPTER VI—Lescott tries to persuade Samson to go to New York with him and develop his talent. Sally, loyal but heartbroken, furthers Lescott's efforts. The dance at Willie McCager's threatens trouble to Samson and Lescott.

CHAPTER VII—At the dance Samson tells the South clan he is going to leave the mountains. Lescott goes home to New York. Samson bids Spicer and Sally farewell and follows.

CHAPTER VIII—In New York Samson studies art and learns much of city ways. Drennie Lescott persuades Wilfred Horton, her dilettante lover, to do a man's work in the world.

CHAPTER IX—Prompted by her love, Sally teaches herself to write. Horton throws himself into the business world and becomes well hated by predatory financiers and politicians. At a Bohemian resort Samson meets William Farbish, sporty social parasite, and Horton's enemy.

CHAPTER X—Farbish sees Samson and Drennie dining together unchaperoned at the Wigwam roadhouse. He conspires with others to make Horton jealous and succeeds.

CHAPTER XI—Farbish brings Norton and Samson together at the Kenmore club's shooting lodge, and forces an open rupture, expecting Samson to kill Horton and so rid the political and financial thugs of the crusader. Samson exposes the plot and thrashes the conspirators.

CHAPTER XII—Samson is advised by his teachers to turn to portrait painting. Drennie commissions him to paint her portrait. Sally goes to Paris to study. Drennie finds in his studio pictured evidence of his loyalty to Sally.

the Souths, and he's going to do it—of he wants to."

"Sally," Willie McCager spoke, soothingly, "don't go gettin' mad. Caleb talks hasty. We knows ye used ter be Samson's gal, an' we hain't aimin' ter hurt yore feelin's. But Samson's done left the mountings. I reckon ef he wanted ter come back, he'd a-come afore now. Let him stay whar he's at."

"Whar is he at?" demanded old Caleb Wiley, in a truculent voice.

"That's his business," Sally flashed back, "but I know. All I want to tell you is this. Don't you make a move till I have time to get word to him. I tell you, he's got to have his say."

"I reckon we hain't a-goin' ter wait," sneered Caleb, "fer a feller that won't let hit be known whar he's a-joornin' at. Ef ye air so shore of him, why won't ye tell us whar he is now?"

"That's my business, too," Sally's voice was resolute. "I've got a letter here—it'll take two days to get to Samson. It'll take him two or three days more to get here. You've got to wait a week."

"Sally," the temporary chieftain spoke still in a patient, humoring sort of voice, as to a tempestuous child, "thar hain't no place ter mail a letter nigher than Hixon. No South can't ride inter Hixon, an' ride out again. The mail carrier won't be down this way fer two days yit."

"I'm not askin' any South to ride into Hixon. I recollect another time when Samson was the only one that would do that," she answered, still scornfully. "I didn't come here to ask favors. I come to give orders—for him. A train leaves soon in the morning. My letter's goin' on that train."

"Whose goin' ter take hit ter town fer ye?"

"I'm goin' to take it for myself." Her reply was, given as a matter of course.

"Thar wouldn't hardly be safe, Sally," the miller demurred; "this hain't no time fer a gal ter be galavantin' around by herself in the night time. Hit's a-comin' up ter storm, an' ye've got thirty miles ter ride, an' thirty-five gal ter yore house."

"I'm not scared," she replied. "I'm goin' an' I'm warnin' you now, if you do anything that Samson don't like, you'll have to answer to him, when he comes." She turned, walking very erect and dauntless to her sorrel mare, and disappeared at a gallop.

"I reckon," said Willie McCager, breaking silence at last, "hit don't make no great difference. He won't hardly come, nohow." Then, he added: "But that boy is smart."

Samson's return from Europe, after a year's study, was in the nature of a moderate triumph. With the art sponsorship of George Lescott and the social sponsorship of Adrienne, he found that orders for portraits, from those who could pay munificently, seemed to seek him. He was tasting the novelty of being lionized.

That summer Mrs. Lescott opened her house on Long Island early, and the life there was full of the sort of gaiety that comes to pleasant places when young men in flannels and girls in soft summery gowns and tanned cheeks are playing wholesomely and singing tunefully and making love—not too seriously.

Samson, tremendously busy these days in a new studio of his own, had run over for a week. Horton was, of course, of the party, and George Lescott was doing the honors as host.

One evening Adrienne left the dancers for the pergola, where she took refuge under a mass of honeysuckle. Samson South followed her. She saw him coming, and smiled. She was contrasting this Samson, loosely clad in flannels, with the Samson she had first seen rising awkwardly to greet her in the studio.

"You should have stayed inside and made yourself agreeable to the girls," Adrienne reproved him, as he came up. "What's the use of making a lion of you, if you won't roar for the visitors?"

"I've been roaring," laughed the man. "I've just been explaining to Miss Willoughby that we only eat the people we kill in Kentucky on certain days of solemn observance and sacrifice. I wanted to be agreeable to you, Drennie, for a while."

"Do you ever find yourself homesick, Samson, these days?"

The man answered with a short laugh. Then his words came softly, and not his own words, but those of one more eloquent:

"Who hath desired the sea? Her excellent loneliness rather than the forecourts of kings, and her uttermost pits than the streets where men gather."

His sea that his being fulfills? So and no otherwise—so and no otherwise hillmen desire their hills."

"And yet," she said, and a trace of the argumentative stole into her voice, "you haven't gone back."

"No." There was a note of self-reproach in his voice. "But soon I shall do. At least, for a time. I've been thinking a great deal lately about 'my flattered folk and wild.' I'm just beginning to understand my relation to them, and my duty."

"Your duty is no more to go back there and throw away your life," she found herself instantly contending, "than it is the duty of the young eagle, who has learned to fly, to go back to the nest where he was hatched."

"But, Drennie," he said, gently, "suppose the young eagle is the only one that knows how to fly—and suppose he could teach the others? Don't you see? I've only seen it myself for a little while."

"What is it that—that you see now?"

"I must go back, not to relapse, but to come to be a constructive force. I must carry some of the outside world to misery. I must take to them, because I am one of them, gifts that they would reject from other hands."

From the house came the strains of an alluring waltz. For a little time they listened without speech, then the girl said very gravely:

"You won't—you won't still feel bound to kill your enemies, will you, Samson?"

The man's face hardened.

"I believe I'd rather not talk about that. I shall have to win back the confidence I have lost. I shall have to take a place at the head of my clan by proving myself a man—and a man by their own standards. It is only at their head that I can lead them. If the lives of a few assassins have to be forfeited I shan't hesitate at that. I shall stake my own against them fairly. The end is worth it."

The girl breathed deeply, then she heard Samson's voice again:

"Drennie, I want you to understand that if I succeed it is your success. You took me raw and unfashioned, and you have made me. There is no way of thanking you."

"There is a way," she contradicted. "You can thank me by feeling just that way about it."

"Then I do thank you."

The next afternoon Adrienne and Samson were sitting with a gayly chattering group at the side lines of the tennis courts.

"When you go back to the mountains, Samson," Wilfred was suggesting, "we might form a partnership. 'South, Horton & Co., Development of Coal and Timber.' There are millions in it."

"Five years ago I should have met you with a Winchester rifle," laughed the Kentuckian. "Now I shall not."

"I'll go with you, Horton, and make a sketch or two," volunteered George Lescott, who had just then arrived from town. "And, by the way, Samson, here's a letter that came for you just as I left the studio."

The mountaineer took the envelope with a Hixon postmark, and for an instant gazed at it with a puzzled expression. It was addressed in a feminine hand, which he did not recognize. It was careful, but perfect, writing, such as one sees in a school copybook. With an apology he tore the covering and read the letter. Adrienne, glancing at his face, saw it suddenly pale and grow as set and hard as marble.

Samson's eyes were dwelling with only partial comprehension on the script. This is what he read:

"Dear Samson: The war is on again. Tamarack Spicer killed Jim Asberry, and the Hollmans have killed Tamarack. Uncle Spicer is shot, but he may get well. There is nobody to lead the Souths. I am trying to hold them down until I hear from you. Don't come if you don't want to—but the gun is ready. With love,

"SALLY."

Slowly Samson South came to his feet. His voice was in the dead-level pitch which Wilfred had once before heard. His eyes were as clear and hard as transparent flint.

"I'm sorry to be of trouble, George," he said, quietly. "But you must get me to New York at once—by motor I must take a train south tonight."

"No bad news, I hope," suggested Lescott.

For an instant Samson forgot his four years of veneer. The century of prenatal barbarism broke out fiercely. He was seeing things far away—and forgetting things near by. His eyes blazed and his fingers twitched.

"Hell, no!" he exclaimed. "The war's on, and my hands are freed!"

For an instant, as no one spoke, he stood breathing heavily, then, wheeling, rushed toward the house as though just across its threshold lay the fight into which he was aching to hurl himself.

CHAPTER XIV.

Samson stopped at his studio and threw open an old closet where, from a littered pile of discarded background draperies, canvases and stretchers, he fished out a buried and dust-covered pair of saddlebags. They had long lain there forgotten, but they held the rusty clothes in which he had left misery. He threw them over his arm and dropped them at Adrienne's feet, as he handed her the studio keys.

"The War's On and My Hands Are Freed!"

Will you please have George look after my things, and make the necessary excuses to my sitters? He'll find a list of posing appointments in the desk."

The girl nodded.

"What are those?" she asked, gazing at the great leather pockets as at some relic unearthed from Pompeian excavations.

"Saddlebags, Drennie," he said, "and in them are homespun and jeans. One can't lead his 'flattered folk and wild' in a cutaway coat."

Shortly they were at the station, and the man, standing at the side of the machine, took her hand.

"It's not good-by, you know," he said, smiling. "Just auf Wiedersehen."

She nodded and smiled too, but as she smiled she shivered, and turned the car slowly. There was no need to hurry now.

Samson had caught the fastest west-bound express on the schedule. In thirty-six hours he would be at Hixon. There were many things which his brain must attack and digest in these hours. He must arrange his plan of action to its minutest detail, because he would have as little time for reflection, once he had reached his own country, as a wildcat flung into a pack of hounds.

Arrested on Charge of Theft.
Sheriff J. C. Wall arrested Gilbert Ferris last night at the union depot and lodged him in the county jail on a charge of theft.

Ferris was taken into custody on a complaint filed several days ago by A. L. McBride, who lives several miles south of the city, charging theft of a .45 calibre Colts automatic pistol. Since the filing of the complaint Sheriff Wall has been watching his chance to catch Ferris with the gun in his possession, and when he saw him going toward the depot last night with a grip, followed and arrested him. A search of a suit case revealed the vicious looking pistol, which had evidently been hidden out in the woods for some time, as it was well covered with rust.

Ferris denies having stolen the gun, and states that he bought it from a negro living in the community.

NEAR DEATH BY SMOTHERING

But Husband, With Aid of Cardui, Effects Her Deliverance.

Draper, N. C.—Mrs. Helen Dalton, of this place, says: "I suffered for years, with pains in my left side, and would often almost smother to death. Medicines patched me up for awhile but then I would get worse again. Finally, my husband decided he wanted me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, so he bought me a bottle and I began using it. It did me more good than all the medicines I had taken."

I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefited by its use. There never has been, and never will be, a medicine to compare with Cardui. I believe it is a good medicine for all womanly troubles."

For over 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings and building weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a fair trial. It should surely help you, as it has a million others.

All that you want in any FOUR —at less expense for upkeep

Before you buy a car, the chances are that you'll look over quite a few of them. And when you have seen them all you'll find that this Studebaker FOUR at $985 gives you all that you can get in any FOUR—all, in fact, that you want in a FOUR—at LESS expense for upkeep.

And the reason is simply that while Studebaker has built into this FOUR all that the ideal FOUR should have—power, ease of control, riding comfort, long life and stamina, beauty of design and elegance of finish—LOW upkeep has always been the BIG consideration.

And so, in this FOUR, you'll find that Studebaker engineers have paid unusual attention to the balance and the alignment of the chassis that make a car not only EASY-riding, EASY-driving—but EASY on tires, too, and more economical of fuel.

So, too, you'll find little refinements in the motor, in the design of the exhaust manifold, in the oiling system—all thro' the car wherever such perfection of engineering could make it "a more delightful car to drive—a less expensive car to run." But see it—ride in it—drive it. We'll submit the car to any tests, however drastic, simply Recital a Success.

The recitals given at the court house on Monday and Tuesday evenings by the pupils of the Brady School of Music, under direction of Prof. J. C. Robbins, were largely attended and pronounced decided successes.

The program Monday night was rendered by the primary department of the school, and the work of the little folks reflected great credit, not only upon their own ability, but upon their able and efficient instructor as well.

Tuesday night's program was one of the greatest treats Brady music lovers have had the privilege of enjoying in some time, and the work of the pupils of the more advanced classes is pronounced to be of the very highest order.

Much credit is due Prof. Robbins for his earnest, patient and efficient work, and the success of both recitals is a source of considerable gratification to the many friends of the school, as well as serving to demonstrate most thoroughly the more than ordinary ability of the instructor.

Farm Conditions and Improvements to Be Discussed.

In an effort to present the problems of the farm, farm improvement and other subjects to the farmers, the State Department of Agriculture has arranged a series of meetings at various places in this section, Wm. Connally representing the department.

To "get results" for the farmer the department must have the active co-operation of, and establish the closest possible relations with the actual farmers and women of the farm homes of the State.

This can be secured only by community organizations. To this end, and for the purpose of organizing local institutions, Wm. Connally, representing this department, will lecture at the following places on the dates, and the hours stated below:

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. No alcohol in Scott's.

Brady Auto Co., local agents for the Buick, report the sale of three of these popular cars the past few days, deliveries of 5-passenger touring models having been made last week to C. J. Danielson of Melvin, Lewis Ball of Fort McKavett and Mrs. W. A. Graham of Mercury.

Manager Hallum states that practically the entire output of the Buick factory for this year has been sold, and that there is now only a very small number of cars in the hands of the dealers at this time.

Announcement of the 1916 models are expected early in next month, and Mr. Hallum is anticipating some sensational features in the new models. He reports a number of promising prospects for purchase of the new cars, which he hopes to be able to close up just as soon as the announcement of the new models is made.
