HOWARD Watches

The well known favor of the HOWARD Watch among yachting men illustrates the wonderful character of the HOWARD in meeting men of so many different kinds and occupations on their own ground. Men in commerce, in the technical industries, in the professions, in official life.

Here in this community more men are buying HOWARD Watches every year.

We carry a full line of HOWARDS—do a big business—and own to a pride in the fact that men call us HOWARD Headquarters.

A HOWARD Watch is always worth what you pay for it—$40 to $170—and the EDWARD HOWARD model at $350.

Dinner for Benefit of Brady Boy Scouts.

Dinner will be served in the Syndicate building Saturday, April 29th, the proceeds to go to the local troop of Boy Scouts.

This is the first instance the Scouts have solicited financial aid, which is a remarkable showing, considering the work they have accomplished. Ten of the boys have recently passed their tests for second class Scouts, and several of them will be ready for first-class tests at an early date.

However, special equipment will be required for some of these and they take this means of giving the public an opportunity to assist the movement. The very nominal price of 25c will be charged for the dinner. This is made possible by the fact that a large portion of the eatables will be contributed by the mothers and friends of the Scouts.

Don't forget the time and place. Come and help the boys out and enjoy yourself.

MORE RAINFALL.

Much Appreciated Moisture Visits McCulloch Country.

Another good shower fell throughout the Brady country Wednesday night, beginning about 6:00 o'clock and continuing intermittently for several hours. The West Texas Telephone Co. reports good rains at Lohn, Fife, Waldrip, Melvin, Eden and Rochelle. Light rains were reported at Mason and San Saba. At Brady the rain gauge at the Commercial National bank registered .3 inches.

The moisture, supplementing the rain had Sunday afternoon, will prove of great benefit to the oats, much of which has already begun to head out, although the growth is quite small. The moisture will serve to quicken the growth and fill out the kernels. The rain Sunday was quite good from Rochelle towards Brownwood, and in the north and west parts of the county. A very good rain was had at Melvin, and a good downpour at Eden. Also in the south part of the county good rains were had both Sunday afternoon and Wednesday afternoon.

But a light shower was had in Brady Sunday.

TUESDAY'S EXCURSION.

Brady Enthusiasts Complete Last Arc of Circle.

The Brady boosters completed the last arc of the trade excursion encircling the county on Tuesday, when Whiteland, Melvin, Pasche, Welview, Eden, Menard, Hext and Calf Creek were visited. Something like twenty-five cars were in line for the procession, Frank Morgan heading the line on his motorcycle, and all the trade trippers were bubbling over with enthusiasm and the merchants and citizens at the various stops were overwhelmed with souvenirs, cards and advertising literature.

Cordial welcomes were extended the visitors at the various stops, and at Melvin and Pasche several cars from Lohn and other points joined the procession.

Possibly no town on the visit made a better impression upon the excursionists than did Melvin. The bustle, building and growth of this hustling McCulloch community was everywhere successful, the comparatively smooth roads throughout the trip contributing to the enjoyment. Evidences of good rains were had in puddles of water along the road all the way from Melvin to Eden, the rain getting noticeably heavier towards the latter place. About Menard the dusty roads gave best evidence of no rain. At Hext the ground was again moist, but from the river this way it was dry again.

Owing to the fact that several of the boosters took short cuts both going from and returning to Brady, a full list of the personnel of the party could not be obtained. The following were numbered among those participating: Messrs. and Mesdames B. Simpson, A. B. Reagan, G. C. Kirk, J. E. Wiley, B. L. Malone, Arthur Neal, H. C. Samuel, W. J. Yantis and children, Joe McCall, Alvin Neal, June Coorpendor, N. J. Huie, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. McCall and daughter, Marjorie; Mesdames C. A. Gavit, N. T. Cook, Callahan, John Rainbolt, W. F. Roberts, J. S. Anderson, Elma Campbell, McKeage, Jack Coe and daughter, Rose Lemae.

noticeable. New business houses, new dwellings and more in course of construction were the mute, but noticeable signs of prosperity.

At Eden, although the coming of the Brady boosters was known but shortly before their arrival, a goodly crowd of citizens was on hand, and many were the favorable comments passed upon this pretty little city. A several hours' stop was made in Menard where dinner was taken, and where the visitors availed themselves of the opportunity to rest and removed the stains of travel occasioned by the autos following in close procession. The return trip was made with brief stops at Hext and Calf Creek.

Although there were several delays of cars by reason of punctures and minor accidents, on the whole the trip was entirely

LOST CREEK ECHOES.

A. McWilliams, Pioneer Citizen, Died Last Saturday.

Voca, Texas, April 27.
Editor Brady Standard:
Our part of the county is now dressed up in its best spring suit, all decorated with flowers of every description.

Our corn crops are all worked out and are looking fine.

I see quite a lot of cotton up to a good stand.

We have had three good rains since the drouth was broken up, with a nice shower thrown in Sunday evening with a sprinkle of hail.

A. McWilliams died last Saturday morning of heart failure. He was an old pioneer settler of this county, coming here from Kansas in 1876. I well remember that in those days the few scattering settlers were hard pressed, at times, for money. Mr. Mc was always ready to help those in need. He was a good man and a good citizen, and will be greatly missed. He was 82 years old. Our sympathy goes out to the bereft ones. He was buried by the Masons at the Mt. Tabor cemetery Sunday eve.

The fruit crop here is excellent.

The small grain waited almost too long for rain, but I think there will be considerable oats made, as they are doing all right now.

This letter was delayed a day or two in mailing. Another fine rain Wednesday will assure the oat crop. A CITIZEN.

The Katemicy high school closed last Friday night. The closing exercises Thursday and Friday night were very much enjoyed by large crowds. The programs were very interesting.

Prof. G. F. Phillips has been re-elected as superintendent of our school at an advanced salary. This is his fourth successive term in this position.

Robt. Redford, Misses Grover Alexander, Stella and Maggie Henderson and Mrs. Lou Underwood of Llano were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips during the closing exercises of the school. Miss Althea Alexander, the primary teacher in our school, returned home with them.

Miss Modena Sansom was a visitor here the latter part of last week.

Messrs. Ed Jordan and Geo. T. Kidd made a business trip to Mason Monday.

Prof. and Mrs. G. F. Phillips left Tuesday for a visit to his parents at Mineola, Texas.

Dr. Hicks Martin, our highly esteemed and worthy physician, has decided to locate at Potosi, Taylor county. It is with much regret that we give him up, for we know him to be a successful physician and a fine Christian gentleman. We always found him on the right side of moral questions. He has lived and practiced in this community the past ten years and he has had splendid success as a physician. Dr. Martin is a broad-minded, public-spirited man, and the people of Potosi are to be congratulated upon securing him as a citizen and physician. He is a valuable asset to any community. Mrs. Montgomery is able to begin her school again.

Mr. Kiser of Pear Valley was a welcome visitor at Calf Creek Sunday. He reports prospects very favorable for a good small grain crop in the northwest part of the county.

The Nine school closed last Friday.

Quite a number of Calf Creek people attended the school entertainment at Nine last Friday night. All report a good time, and the program excellent.

O. Hodges and sister, Miss Eunice, of Hext were on one Creek Sunday.

Quite a few of the Nine boys were over Sunday.

Quite a number of cattle are dying from eating frost-bitten leaves. Frank Wilhelm is reported to be the heaviest loser.

Mr. Boyd gave a dance last Friday night. All report a nice time—but, oh, so sleepy next day.

Apprehensive.

He was ticketed to undergo a slight operation at the city hospital. Simple though the operation was, the man didn't feel quite easy about himself. A few minutes before the anesthetic was to be applied he sent for his physician, who was to handle the instruments.

"Please, doctor," he said, "be careful about me."

"Oh, don't worry," the doctor said, with fine assurance. "You'll be all right."

"But I wish you to be careful, doctor," the patient insisted.

Riley stated to the officers that he had purchased the articles in Brownwood, and was unaware they were stolen property.

Arrested for Theft.

Sheriff Wall this morning placed under arrest J. C. Riley, charging him with theft under value of $50.00. It is alleged that Riley had in his possession an auto casing which was identified as being the one stolen off of the car of J. F. Biggs some time ago while the car was standing in front of the show. Riley had also left a cover for an auto casing with Frank Hurd at the Brady Auto Co., requesting him to sell the same. This was also identified as being Biggs' property.

Riley stated to the officers that he had purchased the articles in Brownwood, and was unaware they were stolen property. Riley is a recent comer to Brady, having made his home here only during the past few months. He is agent for the Singer Sewing Machine Co., and as such has been covering all this section in his Ford car, meanwhile keeping his machine stored in the Masonic building on Blackburn street.

Bond was set at $250, which Riley expected to have no trouble in making, and was held to the county court.

FIND RICH ALUM DEPOSITS

Discovery That Will Materially Add to the Wealth of a Section of Australia.

The Myall river in the state of New South Wales debouches into the bay at Port Stephens, which is 35 miles north of Newcastle. Upon a recent trip up the river there was noticed on the wharf at a landing some six miles from Port Stephens a pile of what appeared to be lumps of marble. On investigation it was found, however, that the white stone was alunite, and there were about sixty tons of it in the pile. Vessels of moderate draft can proceed up the Myall river as far as the landing mentioned, but beyond that point freight can only be carried on barges.

Thirty miles north of Port Stephens is a small village called Bullahdelah, situated close to what is known as the Alum mountain. This mountain is composed entirely of alunite, and it is the only known deposit in Australia.

The stone yields on an average 80 per cent of alum. According to the statistics for the mining industry of New South Wales, the output of alum from the years 1856 to 1908 was valued at $450,000 and for 1908 to the end of 1913, $190,000. Since the year 1908 about 1,200 tons of the rock have been taken out annually and shipped to England for treatment, where the alum is extracted much more cheaply than is possible here.—Consul Lucien N. Sullivan, Newcastle, New South Wales.

WAS BARRED

Monk—What's up, Zebe? Wouldn't they enter you for the races?
Zebe—Nope. Told me I was barred.

PROPER DEFINITION.

The old man came into the dimly-lighted parlor just in time to catch the young man in the act of kissing his daughter.

"Sir," said the stern parent, "what do you mean by that kind of business?"

"Pardon me," rejoined the y. m., calmly, "but it isn't business at all; it's the pleasantest kind of pleasure, I assure you."

MORE LIKE THE FOOT.

Canvasser—Sir, you are the head of the house, I presume?

Peckem—Your presumption is quite natural, but you have another guess coming.

Canvasser—Beg pardon, but I don't quite catch your drift?

Peckem—Well, my wife says I'm always kicking, and as I have to foot the bills, you can draw your own conclusion.

A RELIEF.

"Charley does scold a great deal around the house," said young Mrs. Torkins. "But in a way it's a relief."

"A relief?"

"Yes. When he's cross he isn't trying to tell funny stories and keeping me guessing as to when I ought to laugh."

TOO MUCH FOR THE PROF.

"Is it possible to square a circle?" asked the youthful student.

"Not if it is a sewing circle," replied the old professor, as his mind reverted to an afternoon when he had remained at home to help his wife entertain one, only to be silenced by the verbal display of numerous family skeletons in the neighborhood.

THE NATURAL RESULT.

"Was there much mourning in society among the girls when the catch of the season was engaged?"

"Well, all the belles were told."

MISINTERPRETED.

She—The new shoes are going to be higher.

He—Then, my dear, you'll have to get your old ones patched.

Between 130 and 150 Brady boosters were in our city Friday. The ladies of the community had prepared dinner for the crowd at the tabernacle and had it waiting when they arrived. Well, we will admit that they were "some hungry," but our people never do things by halves, so we had enough dinner for everybody and lots left over. The sum of $68.40 was collected. The fund goes toward paying for the tabernacle. Brady Y. M. B. L. is a fine bunch of boosters and are doing their city a world of good by their clean, up-to-date advertising.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

CAUTION.

We passed a home the other day where was a small toddling child just learning to walk. Near the porch were two open tubs full of rain water—a stage, as it were—seemingly set for tragedy. Every day we are forcefully reminded that our carelessness is something appalling.—Coleman Democrat-Boice.

Folks have been trained to be afraid, but they have not been trained to be cautious. Such training is wrong. People should not be afraid, but they should be cautious. The exercise of due caution will serve to avert many little tragedies.—Temple Telegram.

The government is going to get a volunteer count on the birds. It is presumed that the figures given will be reliable, for we know the little feathery chirps will sit still while we enumerate them. But we need further information before going to work. Are we to include jail birds, Thanksgiving turkeys and women who wear ultra-slit skirts?—Temple Mirror.

Peroration for candidate for any office from county judge up: "If you will entrust to my care and keeping the commission to hold this office during a period of years I promise to serve your interests well and truly and at the end of that time I swear by the heavens that bend above us and by the hills that seem eternal, I will return it to you unstained with dishonor." Loud applause.—Temple Telegram.

In the swing around the county, Brady boosters saw large fields where corn was already up and growing vigorously. In several places cotton, too, was peeping from the bosom of Mother Earth. While oats nearly everywhere were small and beginning to head out, yet the splendid rains of the past week will help this grain along. Everything's inviting in McCulloch country. Come over and be with us.

We read in last week's Fort Worth paper an article headed "Battle of the Eggs," and our memory reverted to those palmy stirring and troublous times when us toughs fought the "other gang" with eggs of ancient hue and cast. However, times have changed and the Ft. Worth battle resolved itself into the pleasant pastime of an Easter egg hunt.

MOTHERS' DAY.

Governor Ferguson has issued a proclamation designating Sunday, May 7th, as "Mothers' Day."

"It is a great privilege to me," says the Governor in his proclamation, "in accord with the precedent and with reverence for the splendid motherhood of our state and nation, to respectfully request every man and every woman, young and old, in Texas, regardless of where they may be or in what manner they may be engaged or how pressing may be the demands upon their time and attention, to observe Sunday, May 7th, as 'Mothers' Day.'"

"It is not within my province to suggest the mode or the manner of this remembrance, but, as acts and deeds speak louder than words venture to suggest that an actual reminder of our appreciation and gratitude in the form of some appropriate gift be given or sent to our mothers. If it is not convenient to do more, a good letter may be sent or a visit paid.

"A custom prevails, and a beautiful one it is, that we wear a white flower upon this day in memory of our mother. Let us do this to remind us of her purity and truth, but let us not neglect the definite expression of whole-heartedness and kindness to her or to some other in her memory.

"Though we may be men and women grown old, with our own and our children's children about us, we will ever be as little ones to our mother. Her anxiety, her brooding care and her elastic love, beginning at our birth, continue as long as life lasts, and longer, for a thing so holy, so radiant as a mother's love certainly, surely has a place in heaven.

"May we not, upon this day, also meditate upon her example, her Christian faith and fortitude, and, most of all, the willing sacrifice she has made for us? This meditation will be a blessing to us and help us to search our hearts."

"Deal gently with her Time! These many years Of life have brought more smiles with them than tears; Lay not thy hand too harshly on her now.

But, trace decline so gently on her brow That like the sunset of Southern clime, Where twilight lingers in the summer tide, And fades at last into the silent night

Ere one may know the passing of the light, So may she pass—since 'tis the common lot— As one who resting, sleeps, and knows it not."

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If your work is tiring, if your nerves are excited, if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions. It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. No alcohol. Scott & Bowne, Elizabeth, N. J.

CHASTE LUCY.

Chaste Lucy went to Scotland, Loved the breezes on the leas, But she nearly died of horror At the bonnie Scotchman's knees.

Lucy is so good, so pure, Her life is so serene, I sometimes think she would be blue If she were not so green.

Chaste Lucy pulls her dresses round Her feet in shocked surprise. What? Walk in that potato patch? Potatoes, sir, have eyes!"

Chaste Lucy thought arithmetic The best of mild distractions, Until one day she found it told About improper fractions.

The breeches on the warship's guns Caused Lucy great distraction; 'Twas naught to her confusion When the ship was stripped for action.

Chaste Lucy is so pure, so good, And proper, so folks say, She wouldn't read a letter that She knew had "gone astray."

Chaste Lucy's 'gainst preparedness; For her no war's alarms, She'll never know the sweetness Of the stirring "call to arms."

Chaste Lucy was benumbed with fright, While gaily tango-tripping, To her partner's murmur low, "My word!—your costume's ripping!"

Chaste Lucy, on an ocean trip, Had shocks and frights galore, She was quite horrified to see The steamer hug the shore.

Sweet Lucy is a pacifist By nature mild and meek, She never frowns when she is kissed, But turns the other cheek. —Exchange.

THE TRADE TRIP.

It is the desire and intention of The Standard in all things to give credit where credit is due. Consequently in mentioning the success of the Brady Y. M. B. L. trade excursion we wish to state that while the Y. M. B. L. was sponsor for the trip and wielded its influence for success, yet credit is also due Messrs. W. W. Jordan, B. L. Malone and M. S. Sellers, who served as a committee to enlist the interest and co-operation of the Brady citizens. Secretary D. W. Rowlett also worked untiringly to keep up interest, to secure large numbers of cars for each trip and to provide means of conveyance for everyone wishing to participate. A vote of thanks is also due all owners of automobiles who placed their machines at the disposal of the boosters. It was a splendid example of universal co-operation among all citizens, and we sincerely believe the good feeling engendered, the interest aroused and the spirit of unity exhibited will redound to the credit and benefit of every citizen of Brady and of McCulloch county and surroundings as well.

The sight of the well-tilled and prosperous appearing farms everywhere greeted the Brady trade trippers upon their excursions last week and this. At every point of the compass were these facts evidenced. There's prosperity and progress in McCulloch county.

They Read the Country Papers. Listen to what Herman Rosenfield, advertising manager of Sears, Roebuck & Co., recently told the members of the American Ad club at a convention: "We have a bureau whose duty it is to read each week the country newspapers from all over the country. There is not a paper of any consequence in our trade territory that our bureau does not get. The bureau looks over these papers and when we find a town where the merchants are not advertising in the local paper we immediately flood that territory with our literature. It always brings results far in excess of the same efforts put forth in the territory where the local merchants use their local papers."

Of course, judging from the few remarks above, there could be no better argument why advertising does not pay the local merchant. If he would advertise his business as judiciously as does the mail order concern, lots of this trade would remain at home. It is not necessary

Getting Cheaper Every Day One Dollar's Worth

We are going to keep that suite of Ivory Furniture in our show window until somebody buys it if we have to leave it there until the price is $1.00, but we will not have to leave it that long.

People are phoning us now what each day's price is and it would not surprise us to see it go at any time. This handsome suite contains six pieces—a bed, a dresser, dressing table, ladies' writing desk, a chair and a rocker, and is of the latest design in pattern and a beautiful ivory finish. Our regular price of this suite is $75.00, and it is reasonable at that.

Monday of this week the price was $63.00. Saturday it will be $58.00 if the suite is not taken before. If you need this furniture it will pay you to look into the matter.

FOR DAN'S DEAR SAKE

By ELINOR GATES.

Hildreth-Chesley was all agog over the charms, the wealth, the clothes of a newcomer, Mrs. Ruel Latran, who had taken the Farms under rather a long lease—Green Farms, to be exact, the show place of the colony. Whoever lived in it must have money, also social sponsors; also, beyond all, personality.

You see, Olney, who owned the Farms, although tired of the place, yet held it in a certain petulant regard, which made him exacting as to possible tenants.

The which is illuminating—both as to owner and new tenant. Olney had never seen her, but what he had heard from a mutual acquaintance so prepossessed him in her favor that his inquiries had not gone beyond her bank account.

The colony, of course, swarmed in welcome to her. That she was distinctly new was all in her favor. A vague haze of romance enshrouded her past.

No armor is so impenetrable as a casual frankness that scouts the name of secrets. Mrs. Latran was amazingly frank—even about her age. Twenty-nine she gave herself out to be, sighing that it was so near to thirty and waving away consoling speech that she hardly looked twenty-five. Further, she spoke of her college, of her native country, touching very lightly on the fact that she was the last of her race. Oddly, she did not think ever to mention the family name, but there was no tripping her, even if anybody had tried it, over country sights and sounds, and habits of mind.

It was even odder—women took to her amazingly. As Teeny Ware put it, she was the best sort of good fellow.

Olney, who came down in August, laughed over the saying. His coming was a surprise. Of course, he did not go to the Farms, but he did meet the mistress of it many times. Also, he studied her intently—a thing he had rarely done for any woman.

Notwithstanding, they got on admirably. She apparently ignored the challenge of his scrutiny and was gay and cordial as with all the rest. So there was really scant warrant for his saying to her at the end of a fortnight, "Madam, whatever the game is henceforth you must count me in."

"Not yet. It would spoil—everything," she answered, and it was amazing what mirth and mockery danced over her eyes and mouth. "I dare not even let my whole self in," she ran on. "The experiment is as gorgeous as a soap bubble—and as easily broken."

"I won't break it," Olney answered, kindly. "Tell me by little. As, for instance, isn't Dan Langton the original first cause of it?"

"You are his best friend?" she parried.

Olney nodded, but said quickly: "I come next to you. No—he hasn't said so outright—but when he talked of you the very first time—I knew."

"So that's why you let me come here," she said, smiling and nodding. "And I have believed it was all my wonderful man of business. Say! What did he tell you?"

"Nothing—had no chance," Olney answered tranquilly. Then, dropping to a plaintive key: "Please remember I've a weak heart—can't stand this strain of curiosity. Tell me and I'll never tell anybody—but Dan."

"You mean—about the experiment?" she asked.

Olney smiled a "Yes." She went on quickly, as though fearing to lose courage: "The experiment is—to see if a bookmade woman can hold her own with—the other sort."

"Explain! This is all Sanskrit to me," Olney exploded.

She drew a deep breath and hurried on: "My mother was a cook, my father a day laborer. He died when I was five, and when I was fifteen my mother followed him. Then old Ruel Latran, for whom she had worked all my life, a cripple and blind, married me—to save me. He made a will giving me everything. For seven years I was eyes, hands, feet to him, never stirring from the house except for walks while he slept. I don't know how he got the notion, but he himself proposed correspondence courses to me. Also he let me have books and leisure, getting in a stout nurse so I might have more time. Almost his last words before the stroke were: 'Make yourself a lady so you'll do credit to the money.' I did my best—am doing it still."

"After I was free there was a period of travel. In course of it I met Dan. You know what he is—how high-strung, how almost finicky—yet in a week he was begging me to marry him. I would have done it gladly only for one thing—I loved him just as crazily, just as unreasonably as he loved me. I couldn't take the chance of making him ashamed of me—that is to say, of making him hate me. So I've come here among his own sort to try myself out. Tell me—what chance have I of winning?"

"No chance about it—it's a dead moral certainty!" Olney declared brusquely, getting up and shaking both her hands. Over his shoulder he added: "I'm going to call up Dan. Be ready to see us around twelve tomorrow. He's always said I should be his best man."

Locates at Potosi.

Dr. Hicks Martin was here from Katemcy last Friday enroute to Potosi, Taylor county, where he expects to take up his permanent place of residence. While the town is not a new one, yet it has taken on a new and inspiring growth and the doctor thinks offers greatest of inducements to a man of his profession. That he will be missed by the Katemcy citizens goes without saying. For many years the doctor has looked after the health and welfare of the good citizens of that bustling community, and he has been a consistent and faithful booster for the Katemcy neighborhood. A man of strong personality, the doctor has won the high esteem of all who know him, and his sunny smile has made him a welcome visitor in every home and community. While regretting his departure, The Standard joins in extending every good wish for success and happiness in his new home, and commends the doctor and his good wife to the kindest graces of the citizens of Potosi.

Mrs. Martin will remain at Katemcy for the present, looking after property and affairs there, but expects to join the doctor in their new home within the next few weeks.

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

A large bottle costs 50 cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition.

A WINNING PENALTY

By JEAN GREY.

Elsie turned upon him, her dropped hands clenching hard. "If you starved for an ideal, disdaining to work unworthily, I could love you, starve with you joyously," she said, "but when you let weak pride and pure vanity stand in the way—"

"I don't understand," Davis interrupted, looking uncomfortable.

"You do understand," Elsie retorted. "You think it beneath your dignity to listen to reason. Graham wanted you to rewrite an act. You put the play in a drawer and have not looked at it since. Because, forsooth, he's an ass—off the stage. I know it—everybody does. But he has the instinct that tells him what will get over. You lack it. Your way may be ever so much finer—"

"Thanks for them kind words," Davis tried to say with merry scorn, but hurt and angry in spite of himself.

Elsie went on pitilessly: "It was so with your book—first half is adorable—fresh and witty and clean. Everybody says so—but you will lug in dirt all through the last half. Needless dirt! Yes, you shall hear the truth. If your soul wore a dirty garment I could understand your sticking by it. It doesn't. You are clean—your uncleanness is just affectation—no matter how you prate about strength—"

"This grows monotonous," Davis broke in, "like the Mona Lisa smile. I'd rather be sworn at than have you so perfectly reasonable. Maybe I ought to let impatience do her perfect work. Still it occurs to me you are perhaps more acutely aware of my shortcomings from viewing them through the lens of another man's perfections."

"Only partly right," Elsie answered. "I've felt this coming all along—but until you brought in Maginn I wouldn't let myself say it—even to myself. I—"

"So I fetched a stick to break my own head. Well, it shall be bless you, my children!" Davis interrupted superbly. "Maginn, the little busy bee, improves the shining hour. Naturally he hovers over all sweets—"

"Maginn has just this to do with it," she cried, her nails dug into her palms. "He's below you—worlds beneath you—in every way except one—he does what he can and does it with a sincerity of belief in himself that quite redeems his conceit. If you tried only half so hard—"

"You forget I am not a banker's son," Davis cried, now thoroughly angry. "Don't waste more breath, my dear. I understand. You are tired of waiting, of hoping, of believing. Maginn, with his expectations, his sweetly solemn mind, tempts you sadly. Take him and welcome. I offer you my felicitation, and wish you a very good evening."

"As you will, but take this," Elsie answered, slipping off his ring, a mere thread of gold with a winking fire opal on top. Her hand trembled. Was it for this she had but half an hour earlier sent Maginn away with a "No" so kind it was irrevocable? She knew it was wicked, but she had been kind as a penance for hating poor Maginn because of his humble perfections. They were bearing him so much farther and higher than Lynn Davis' better parts were ever likely to carry him.

"Aren't you truly a sybarite in love with luxury?" Davis asked, drawing a pace nearer.

She shook her head, her breath coming quick. "I don't mind lacking things—hardly a little bit," she said. "The hard part is doing without, because you must. If I were only rich enough I should let myself be really dowdy now and then."

"Is that why you are suddenly so severe with me?" Davis asked, his eyes beginning to twinkle. She flung up her head, saying bravely with a crimson flush, "No!"

"Then why, Maginn has his perfections aside?" Davis demanded.

She turned on him, her eyes flashing. "Let Maginn alone!" she said. "Mention of him is—insulting. My concern is—you. You only! Do you think it does not hurt me to have you slothful, indifferent, to see men unfit to black your shoes going ahead of you in the race of life? You are not great, but I do believe you have in you the makings of greatness. I thought love and trust would help you to show it. Now I see my mistake. You say you love me?"

"It may be a delusion—but I love to hug it," Davis answered.

"Then if you do—if you care enough to think of me as a wife, listen! Put it to yourself thus: Here is a prize worth winning. I'm going to win it, though the job is a man's size. It means hard work and putting dragons to rout—dragons of shyness and conceit—"

"Ah, me! How highly some people esteem themselves!" Davis broke in. "Say, guardian angel, what will happen, if I refuse?"

"Worse things—much worse," Elsie said promptly, coming very close and looking up in his face. "For I shall marry you and make you work, whether or no—"

"In that case," he cried, kissing her, "I refuse absolutely!"

SOLICITING FUNDS.

Committee Hopes to Raise $5,000 for Mason Road.

While enthusiasm over improvement of the Mason road is at its height, the Brady Y. M. B. L. has seized upon the opportunity to solicit and raise a fund of $5,000 towards improving this important highway. A committee composed of W. D. Crothers, E. L. Jones and D. W. Rowlett this morning began circulation of a subscription list for this purpose, and hope every citizen interested in better roads will contribute liberally.

The county commissioners have offered to equal in expenditure for Mason road improvement any amount raised by Brady citizens; consequently if the $5,000 can be raised it will mean that a total of $10,000 will be available for this thoroughfare. This sum should be ample to put the entire road in first-class condition.

Much of the road has already been improved. Especially has the Camp San Saba portion been improved, and with ten miles of piked road extending from the Brady city limits it is estimated that the sum above set forth will just about cover all necessary expenditures.

Brady owes Mason this improvement, as Mason has already done her full share, and no one will receive greater benefit than will Brady.

Putting a Quietus on Them.

A novelist recently found himself in a train with two talkative women. Having recognized him from his published portraits, they opened fire upon him in regard to his novels, praising them in a manner which was unendurable to the sensitive author.

Presently the train entered a tunnel, and in the darkness the novelist raised the back of his hand to his lips and kissed it soundly. When light returned, he found the two women regarding each other in icy silence.

Addressing them with great suavity, he said:

"Ah, ladies, the one regret of my life will be that I shall never know which of you it was that kissed me."

From last accounts, the ladies had not spoken to each other.—New York Globe.

BACKACHE IS A WARNING.

Brady People Should Not Neglect Their Kidneys.

Backache is often nature's most frequent signal of weakened kidneys. To cure the pains and aches, to remove the lameness when it arises from weakened kidneys, you must reach the cause—the kidneys. If you have pain through the small of your back, urinary disorders, headaches, dizzy spells, or are nervous and depressed, start treating the kidneys with a tested kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been proved good and are especially for weak kidneys. Doan's have been used for kidney trouble for over 50 years. Read Brady testimony.

E. Strickland, Brady, says: "I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, as they have always given very satisfactory results. I often got down with my back and it made me suffer severely. I have found that Doan's Kidney Pills relieve the trouble right away. I always keep them on hand and use them as needed." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Strickland had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

VALUABLE RECIPE.

Saves Cows Which Have Eaten Frost-Bitten Leaves.

Numerous and heavy losses are reported by McCulloch county cattlemen during the past few weeks as a result of the animals having eaten frost-bitten leaves. Jesse Ballou a week or two ago reported the loss of a number of cows; Henry Maier is said to have lost several head and Frank Wilhelm's losses are reported to aggregate some $300 or $400 worth.

A. F. McCoy gives the following experience, which is worth the reading and may be of great value to every cattleman.

Several years ago Mr. McCoy bought a four-ounce vial of medicine labeled "Save the Animals" from a transient, paying two bits therefor. Mrs. McCoy laughed heartily over his purchase, stating that it was composed only of kerosene, turpentine and camphor, and that she could make "medicine" as good as that.

On the morning of May 1st of that year a heavy frost fell, killing corn that was half knee-high, and all other vegetation as well. A little later one of Mr. McCoy's cows came up dizzy and blinded and staggering about in circles. As a last resort, Mr. McCoy decided to give his medicine "Save the Cow," a try-out, and accordingly poured the contents of the 4-ounce bottle down the animal's throat. What was his surprise a little later to see the animal about as well as ever. Later, along towards night, another cow showed the same symptoms, falling repeatedly and finally being unable to rise. Mr. McCoy then told his wife that here was her chance to demonstrate that she could make the medicine, and she proved she could by mixing kerosene, turpentine and camphor in equal parts, and four ounces of this mixture was given to the cow.

The following morning Mr. McCoy went out to the lot fully expecting to skin a dead cow, but he was gratified beyond expression to find her about as though nothing unusual had ever transpired.

Later he and Jim Harkrider tried the remedy on a steer that had eaten frost-bitten leaves, and again demonstrated the merits of the remedy.

In view of Mr. McCoy's success it might be well for every stockman to clip and preserve this simple and inexpensive remedy—mix kerosene, turpentine and camphor in equal parts, giving about four ounces as a dose.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Mrs. C. R. Alexander returned Wednesday from Brownwood, and her many friends will be pleased to learn that the affection of her ear has been so greatly benefited by the care of the specialist that she will not have to return for further treatment.

Brady High school lost two games to Richland Springs Friday and Saturday, the former by a score of 7 to 4, the latter at the rate of 13 to 1. The Brady bunch had played but a few games together, and team work was lacking to a noticeable degree.

J. C. Wall, John Rainbolt, J. S. Wall, A. A. Liverman of Fife, and Gus Liverman, John Lane and son of Long Valley are among the witnesses from this county at the trial in San Saba court next week of the State of Texas vs. Paul Wyckoff. Wyckoff is charged with the murder last month of A. J. Harkey.

The concrete foundations for the new three-story vault at the Commercial National bank are this week being laid, and as soon as the concrete sets, the brick and concrete walls will be erected. The excavation for the basement has been completed, and within another week the improvements will be well under way.

The Boy Scouts had a very enjoyable over-night hike under Scoutmaster Clarence Snider last Thursday. The boys started on the hike Thursday afternoon and camped out over night, returning late Friday afternoon. About fifteen members participated, and great sport was had in putting into use camp regulations learned in their course of study.

B. Simpson returned yesterday from Ballinger with another Chevrolet car which he will use for demonstration. The first Chevrolet was sold by Mr. Simpson to Tom Ball on first sight, and no opportunity was given for demonstrating the car to anyone else. Mr. Simpson feels that he has secured a car that will meet every requirement of those wanting a classy machine at an extremely moderate price.

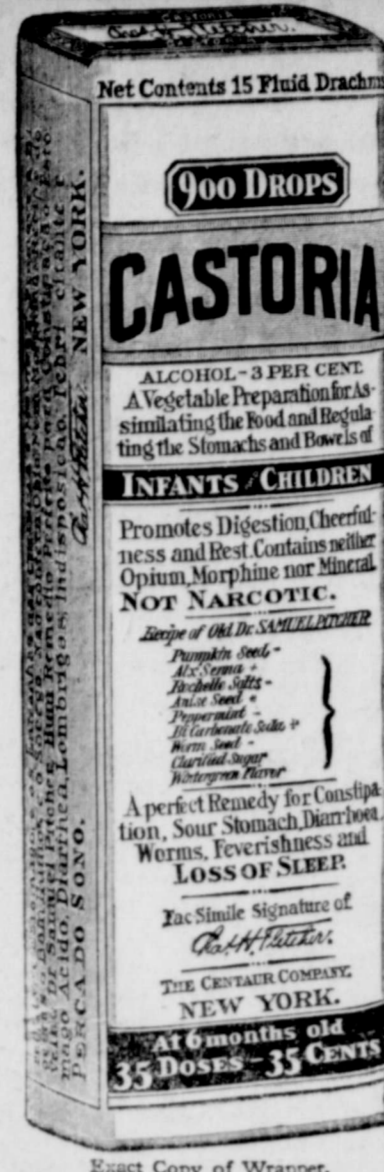

W. L. Oliver of Menard passed through Brady Monday morning upon his return home from Temple, where he was called by the death of his father. The elder Oliver was well along in the 70's, and on account of his advanced age his death was not unexpected. He was a veteran of the war between the states, and was one of the most highly esteemed, as well as old citizens of Bell county. The many Brady friends of W. L. Oliver sympathize with him in his bereavement.

S. A. Benham this week began extensive improvements upon his residence. The front porch has been torn away, and the room facing east will be moved to the west side of the residence, being replaced by a large living room extending the entire width of the front of the house. A spacious porch will also be added in front, still further enhancing the attractiveness and comfort of the home. The work of improvement is rapidly progressing, and the new addition is expected to be completed within the next few weeks.

Chas. Wilmann is interesting local ginners in a clever invention which has been patented by him, and in which he is interested jointly with Mr. Sparks of Eden and other parties. The contrivance is a packer for a gin, and in its demonstration on the Sparks gin at Eden and the Bauhof gin at Melvin last year it was a pronounced success. Mr. Wilmann spent part of last week in Dallas at the Ginners' convention, where his invention aroused much interest and favorable comment. He contemplates the organization of a stock company for the manufacture and exploiting of the apparatus.

Messrs. H. and Ike Wilensky, L. Ballou, J. L. Spiller and J. Zeidl, who composed one of the crowds of Brady boosters, had the misfortune to get their car damaged upon the return trip, and were forced to walk two miles to the nearest railroad station, taking the night Frisco train to Brady. The accident happened in a pasture on the Whiteland road, the driver losing control of his car and letting it collide with a stump. Without noticing that the steering rod was broken, the car was backed off and set in motion with the result that it collided with a second stump. The party thereupon abandoned the gas-wagon, and had it towed into Brady Wednesday for repairs.

Pleasant to take, too, which is of great importance when a child must be given to young children. This remedy is most effective in relieving coughs, colds and other ailments everywhere.

"You forget. I am not a banker's son," Davis cried, now thoroughly angry. "Don't waste more breath, my dear. I understand. You are tired of waiting, of hoping, of believing. Maginn, with his expectations, his sweetly solemn mind, tempts you sadly. Take him and welcome. I offer you my felicitation, and wish you a very good evening."

"As you will, but take this," Elsie answered, slipping off his ring, a mere thread of gold with a winking fire opal on top. Her hand trembled. Was it for this she had but half an hour earlier sent Maginn away with a "No" so kind it was irrevocable? She knew it was wicked, but she had been kind as a penance for hating poor Maginn because of his humble perfections. They were bearing him so much farther and higher than Lynn Davis' better parts were ever likely to carry him.

"Aren't you truly a sybarite in love with luxury?" Davis asked, drawing a pace nearer.

She shook her head, her breath coming quick. "I don't mind lacking things—hardly a little bit," she said. "The hard part is doing without, because you must. If I were only rich enough I should let myself be really dowdy now and then."

"Is that why you are suddenly so severe with me?" Davis asked, his eyes beginning to twinkle. She flung up her head, saying bravely with a crimson flush, "No!"

"Then why, Maginn and his perfections aside?" Davis demanded.

She turned on him, her eyes flashing. "Let Maginn alone!" she said. "Mention of him is—insulting. My concern is—you. You only! Do you think it does not hurt me to have you slothful, indifferent, to see me unfit to black your shoes going ahead of you in the race of life? You are not great, but I do believe you have in you the makings of greatness. I thought love and trust would help you to show it. Now I see my mistake. You say you love me?"

"It may be a delusion—but I love to hug it," Davis answered.

"Then if you do—if you care enough to think of me as a wife, listen! Put it to yourself thus: Here is a prize worth winning. I'm going to win it, though the job is a man's size. It means hard work and putting dragons to rout—dragons of shyness and conceit—"

"Ah, me! How highly some people esteem themselves!" Davis broke in. "Say, guardian angel, what will happen, if I refuse?"

"Worse things—much worse," Elsie said promptly, coming very close and looking up in his face. "For I shall marry you and make you work, whether or no—"

"In that case," he cried, kissing her, "I refuse absolutely!"

SOLICITING FUNDS.

Committee Hopes to Raise $5,000 for Mason Road.

While enthusiasm over improvement of the Mason road is at its height, the Brady Y. M. B. L. has seized upon the opportunity to solicit and raise a fund of $5,000 towards improving this important highway. A committee composed of W. D. Crothers, E. L. Jones and D. W. Rowlett this morning began circulation of a subscription list for this purpose, and hope every citizen interested in better roads will contribute liberally.

The county commissioners have offered to equal in expenditure for Mason road improvement any amount raised by Brady citizens; consequently if the $5,000 can be raised it will mean that a total of $10,000 will be available for this thoroughfare. This sum should be ample to put the entire road in first-class condition.

Much of the road has already been improved. Especially has the Camp San Saba portion been improved, and with ten miles of piked road extending from the Brady city limits it is estimated that the sum above set forth will just about cover all necessary expenditures.

Brady owes Mason this improvement, as Mason has already done her full share, and no one will receive greater benefit than will Brady.

Putting a Quietus on Them.

A novelist recently found himself in a train with two talkative women. Having recognized him from his published portraits, they opened fire upon him in regard to his novels, praising them in a manner which was unendurable to the sensitive author.

Presently the train entered a tunnel, and in the darkness the novelist raised the back of his hand to his lips and kissed it soundly. When light returned, he found the two women regarding each other in icy silence.

Addressing them with great suavity, he said:

"Ah, ladies, the one regret of my life will be that I shall never know which of you it was that kissed me."

From last accounts, the ladies had not spoken to each other.—New York Globe.

BACKACHE IS A WARNING.

Brady People Should Not Neglect Their Kidneys.

Backache is often nature's most frequent signal of weakened kidneys. To cure the pains and aches, to remove the lameness when it arises from weakened kidneys, you must reach the cause—the kidneys. If you have pain through the small of your back, urinary disorders, headaches, dizzy spells, or are nervous and depressed, start treating the kidneys with a tested kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been proved good and are especially for weak kidneys. Doan's have been used for kidney trouble for over 50 years. Read Brady testimony.

B. Strickland, Brady, says: "I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, as they have always given me very satisfactory results. I often got down with my back and it made me suffer severely. I have found that Doan's Kidney Pills relieve the trouble right away. I always keep them on hand and use them as needed."

VALUABLE RECIPE.

Saves Cows Which Have Eaten Frost-Bitten Leaves.

Numerous and heavy losses are reported by McCulloch county cattlemen during the past few weeks as a result of the animals having eaten frost-bitten leaves. Jesse Ballou a week or two ago reported the loss of a number of cows; Henry Miller is said to have lost several head and Frank Wilhelm's losses are reported to aggregate some $300 or $400 worth.

A. F. McCoy gives the following experience, which is worth the reading and may be of great value to every cattleman.

Several years ago Mr. McCoy bought a four-ounce vial of medicine labeled "Save the Animals" from a transient, paying two bits therefor. Mrs. McCoy laughed heartily over his purchase, stating that it was composed only of kerosene, turpentine and camphor, and that she could make "medicine" as good as that.

On the morning of May 1st of that year a heavy frost fell, killing corn that was half knee-high, and all other vegetation as well. A little later one of Mr. McCoy's cows came up dizzy and blinded and staggering about in circles. As a last resort, Mr. McCoy decided to give his medicine "Save the Cow," a try-out, and accordingly poured the contents of the 4-ounce bottle down the animal's throat. What was his surprise a little later to see the animal about as well as ever. Later, along towards night, another cow showed the same symptoms, falling repeatedly and finally being unable to rise. Mr. McCoy then told his wife that here was her chance to demonstrate that she could make the medicine, and she proved she could by mixing kerosene, turpentine and camphor in equal parts, and four ounces of this mixture was given the cow.

The following morning Mr. McCoy went out to the lot fully expecting to skin a dead cow, but he was gratified beyond expression to find her about as though nothing unusual had ever transpired.

Later he and Jim Harkrider tried the remedy on a steer that had eaten frost-bitten leaves, and again demonstrated the merits of the remedy.

In view of Mr. McCoy's success it might be well for every stockman to clip and preserve this simple and inexpensive remedy—mix kerosene, turpentine and camphor in equal parts, giving about four ounces as a dose.

B. Simpson returned yesterday from Ballinger with another Chevrolet car which he will use for demonstration. The first Chevrolet was sold by Mr. Simpson to Tom Ball on first sight, and no opportunity was given for demonstrating the car to anyone else. Mr. Simpson feels that he has secured a car that will meet every requirement of those wanting a classy machine at an extremely moderate price.

W. L. Oliver of Menard passed through Brady Monday morning upon his return home from Temple, where he was called by the death of his father. The elder Oliver was well along in the 70's, and on account of his advanced age his death was not unexpected. He was a veteran of the war between the states, and was one of the most highly esteemed, as well as old citizens of Bell county. The many Brady friends of W. L. Oliver sympathize with him in his bereavement.

S. A. Benham this week began extensive improvements upon his residence. The front porch has been torn away, and the room facing east will be moved to the west side of the residence, being replaced by a large living room extending the entire width of the front of the house. A spacious porch will also be added in front, still further enhancing the attractiveness and comfort of the home. The work of improvement is rapidly progressing, and the new addition is expected to be completed within the next few weeks.

Chas. Wilmann is interesting local ginners in a clever invention which has been patented by him, and in which he is interested jointly with Mr. Sparks of Eden and other parties. The contrivance is a packer for a gin, and in its demonstration on the Sparks gin at Eden and the Bauhof gin at Melvin last year it was a pronounced success. Mr. Wilmann spent part of last week in Dallas at the Ginners' convention, where his invention aroused much interest and favorable comment. He contemplates the organization of a stock company for the manufacture and exploiting of the apparatus.

Messrs. H. and Ike Wilensky, L. Ballou, J. L. Spiller and J. Zeidl, who composed one of the crowds of Brady boosters, had the misfortune to get their car damaged upon the return trip, and were forced to walk two miles to the nearest railroad station, taking the night Frisco train to Brady. The accident happened in a pasture on the Whiteland road, the driver losing control of his car and letting it collide with a stump. Without noticing that the steering rod was broken, the car was backed off and set in motion with the result that it collided with a second stump. The party thereupon abandoned the gas-wagon, and had it towed into Brady Wednesday for repairs.

Safe Medicine for Children.
"Is it safe?" is the first question to be considered when buying cough medicine for children. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has long been a favorite with mothers of young children as it contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. It is pleasant to take, too, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. This remedy is most effective in relieving coughs, colds and croup. Obtainable everywhere.

Eradication of Johnson Grass. (By G. M. Garren, Agronomist, Extension Service, A. & M. College.)

There is no method of eradicating Johnson grass "while you wait." The quick, easy, inexpensive method has not yet been discovered. Its root stock habits of propagation renders it very probable that such a method will never be discovered. However, it can be eradicated by any farmer who is willing to pay the price of "keeping everlastingly at it." Eternal vigilance is the price of agricultural liberty in the eradication of Johnson grass.

It is a great farm nuisance in any field, especially where irrigation is practiced. Ordinary cultivation only sends the root stock deeper into the loose soil and thereby renders eradication doubly difficult. The principle upon which its eradication depends is based upon the utter destruction of the root stocks. This principle can be applied by either direct or indirect methods. The direct is the destruction of the root stocks outright; the indirect is not to allow the tops to grow and hereby starve the roots to death.

Practical ways of applying these methods as they have been gathered from men in the field working at the job, are here submitted:

First: Turn badly infested land into pasture or meadow so the grass can be grazed or mown. The lack of cultivation keeps the root stocks near the surface of the ground where they can better be handled by the direct method. At the same time, the grazing or the mowing is starving the roots by the indirect method. All are agreed that continual pasturing will kill it, but it will require several years.

Second: The manager of a big irrigation farm in Medina county reports that last season he sowed his badly infested land in Sudan grass. At the end of the season the amount of infestation had been so greatly reduced he is going to repeat the sowing of Sudan grass on the same land the present season. He believes he will, by this method, finally eradicate the Johnson grass. He is correct and will succeed. The very shallow cultivation required for Sudan grass and its frequent mowings, are applications of both the direct and indirect methods.

Third: Another farmer on an irrigation farm near San Antonio, Texas, that is very badly infested claims that he can practically eradicate it in one season by frequent turnings of the land and the consequent exposure of the root stocks to the hot sun during the months of July and August. This method, he claims, will destroy it all except a few isolated patches that can be easily handled. This is an application of the direct method. The objection to this method is that a man loses the use of his land for at least two months. This objection can be partially overcome by grazing hogs on the freshly upturned roots.

In this instance and in all others, where there are only a few isolated patches to deal with they can be destroyed by a heavy application of table salt. The salt will kill the roots and not permanently injure the land.

Fourth: In cultivated fields use long, sharp sweeps that will cut the grass just beneath the surface of the ground. The few bunches left in the rows will have to be cut with a hoe.
