The county commissioners are willing to do all in their power to assist in building a good road, but they ask the cooperation of the Brady citizens.

The Standard has no desire to harp upon the conditions prevailing. Our time can be better spent in other matters. But this matter should be settled. Let Brady get on record either as favoring the road improvement and willing to do her part toward the work, or else as opposed. For this purpose, we would suggest that a mass meeting be held, and the matter placed before the citizens for action.

Let the citiens act in concert, and settle this problem once for all time.

"Think of giving up the freedom of girlhood!" she finally said. "She'll miss her parties and dances, her freedom to go and come as she pleases. and her right to buy what she wants with the money she's earned herself. It's different from what it was when girls were dependent on their fathers and marriage meant only the change of the person who attended to money matters. To give up one's independence for the sake of a man-especially a man one barely knows-is positively foolhardy! Margaret always seemed such a nice, sensible girl, too. I'm surprised. "Isn't it strange how crazy girls are to get married?" declared Mrs. Roth. "They don't realize when they're well
