BRADY'S WATER SUPPLY.

No Alarm by Possible Shortage Felt by Officials.

The fact that neighboring cities have adopted extreme measures to conserve their water supply, some of them limiting the hours during which water may be used, has served to cause alarm to be felt among the citizens of Brady that the water supply of this city may be running extremely low. This view, however, is positively negated by officials of the waterworks department, and all who have examined into the matter of water supply are agreed that a sufficient quantity remains in the reservoir to supply the city for the next three or four weeks, and that there is no real cause for alarm inasmuch as there still remains a number of holes of water from which an ample supply may be drawn.

In speaking with Superintendent Joe Lyle of the Brady Water & Light Works, Mr. Lyle said: "I think there is a great deal of unnecessary alarm felt over the situation. There is still a visible quantity of water in the reservoir to supply the entire city for the next two weeks, and perhaps longer, as the supply seems to be holding out better than we had even hoped for. The immense quantity of water used during the fire at the Methodist church did not diminish the supply to any appreciable extent. To forestall any possible contingency, however, we are now having the water supply at various other points in the creek tested to determine whether or not the same might be available in case of emergency. So far, we have felt no alarm over a possible shortage. The boiling of water is in no wise rendered any more necessary than usual, inasmuch as all water pumped into the water mains of the city goes through the same process of filtration as has been in use since the filter plant was built, and this water was tested out as over 99 per cent pure."

The confidence felt by the waterworks officials in the situation is emphasized by the fact that no restrictions have been placed upon the unlimited use of water. Lawn sprinklers are in operation all over the city in undiminished force, thousands of gallons of water are being placed upon the streets of Brady, and it is only necessary to keep one's water bill paid to be enabled to

3 NECESSITIES for Perfect Foot Comfort

Dr. Scholl's

Your feet need more care and attention than your face and hands. They are encased in tight shoes all day with practically no freedom of movement; that is one reason why they ache and tire easily. It is Nature's way of demanding attention.

Use Dr. Scholl's "3 Necessities for Perfect Foot Comfort" and your feet will become easy and comfortable.

- 1—With Dr. Scholl's Pedico Foot Soap remove the hard, dead tissue
- 2—Then massage with Dr. Scholl's Pedico Foot Balm to increase the circulation, tone up the muscles and relieve whatever soreness and irritation there may be.
- 3—After that, rub a quantity of Dr. Scholl's Antiseptic Foot Powder upon the feet and shake a little into the stockings and shoes. This keeps the feet cool and comfortable and absorbs the perspiration.

Come in and let us explain these preparations more fully.

Music's Re-Creation--What is it?
Music Recreation is Thomas A. Edison's New Art

The word re-creation was adopted by America's leading music critics to distinguish from talking machines the perfect musical result accomplished by Mr. Edison's new invention.

The New Edison

We want you to hear examples of this new art. Come to our store and let us play literal re-creations of the world's great singers and instrumentalists.

Zenatello has Recently Been Knighted by the King of Italy

"A voice of golden tone, prodigal in its expenditure, yet responsive to every emotional shade." This great Italian tenor's voice has just been Re-Created by Edison's wonderful new art. In this picture you see the great Zenatello actually singing in direct comparison with Edison's Re-Creation of his own voice, and proving conclusively that his living voice and Edison's Re-Creation of it are indistinguishable.

"Uncle Tom" Elliot Has Plan.
Mr. and Mrs. Tom Elliot returned Friday from a visit to Mason, Kerrville, Houston and other points. They were accompanied on the trip to Kerrville and Houston by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Kooch and children of Mason. Mr. Elliot reports the fair at Kerrville as having been a very creditable affair, although he vouchsafed the opinion that the San Saba fair had it surpassed for products and exhibits in general. The Schreiner bank at Kerrville is a magnificent structure, according to Mr. Elliot, being built of beautiful Italian marble quarried in Gillespie county. While on the trip the party spent two days on the Llano river at Capitola and there enjoyed a catch of enough fish to last them throughout the remainder of the season.

Quoting Mr. Elliot, "One of the saddest sights I have seen in my many years of experience was the cotton from Fredericksburg to Kerrville. The cotton stalks topped the old rock fences that have guarded the fields for ages, and the plants looked a beautiful green and smiled in the sunshine, but when the fields were examined but one boll was found and that was punctured. Mr. Elliot says the time was never better for good prices in cotton if the farmers will market their crops conservatively and not dump their entire product on the market at once. He thinks the farmers should concentrate their cotton in Brady, inasmuch as the advantages secured from concentrated shipments would more than repay any expense of bringing the cotton here. Not only would concentration in Brady be of value to every farmer in McCulloch county, but this city as the center of an area including Menard, Mason and parts of Brown and San Saba counties, would offer greater advantages to the cotton growers than could be had from any other method of handling the cotton.

HIS GOAL

By KEITH KENYON.

It was a rule of the company that any property found by employees must be turned in at the main office. At the end of a month, if there was no claimant, the finder received it as a sort of gerdon for his honesty. Reardon had almost forgotten the parcel until it was handed out to him Saturday night with his pay envelope. "Here's where you get the wallet of cash," grinned Malloy, sitting out on the bench at the side of the car barns, but Reardon didn't mind. He stood looking the parcel over, it was flat, about fourteen inches long and nine wide and perhaps an inch thick. "Open it, you gink," advised Malloy, but Jack shook his head good naturedly. "It'll keep awhile longer," he said, and swung up on an outbound car for home. He was a big chap, curly-haired, blue-eyed, with square shoulders and a straight carriage from his two years in the Philippines. When he had eaten dinner he went upstairs to his room on the third floor. It wasn't a hall room. He was getting his $2.85 a day; not so much, but enough so he could pay out five dollars for the third floor front and have an open grate fire when the furnace lost courage. He opened the package with a little close smile of amusement. It certainly didn't look like a gold mine. Some of the fellows had been lucky in finding articles of real value. Then he stopped short and stared with lowered head and intent gaze at his treasure trove. It was only the picture of a girl in a double leather frame, but the face enthralled him with its beauty. The next morning, Jack went to work with a growing feeling that something was missing in the general scheme of happiness. All day the feeling stayed with him. He sat by himself across the street from the car barns at his off hour, and went without his lunch. Finally, that afternoon, Wallace swung up on his car as it passed Thirty-fourth street, and Jack looked at the detective with sudden interest. "Say, Tom, listen," he said. "Suppose you only had a photograph of a girl to go by, never had seen her in your life. How would you find her?" "Go to the man who took the picture and get her name and address," Wallace replied. "You're a bright spark of hope, ain't you, now?"

It was noon the next day before he could do it. The place was over on Fifth avenue. It took all his courage to go into its ornate doors, tread its red velvet carpets and face the blonde young woman at the mahogany desk under the green and gold electrolite. He laid the picture before her and asked the name, and the answer came back at once, with the slightest uplift of eyebrows: "I suppose you're an artist. Why didn't you hunt for her up at the Models' club, Fifty-eighth street. I think it is. She isn't a regular patron, you know, she is merely one of our art models. This picture was made for an art firm to be used as the head on one of their perfume ads. Her name is Betty Bellairs."

"Give me the address of the club, will you, please?" Jack tried to speak in the proper off-hand professional manner, and wrote down the number almost nonchalantly. At the Art Models' club they gave her address. It was in the West Sixties, five flights up, in a brownstone apartment building in the rear apartment. Jack asked for her when the door opened, and the little ten-year-old girl who responded turned her head and called back through the hall, "Somebody to see you, Betty."

"Come right in," called a voice that made Jack's pulse tingle. She was in the living room, dusting it, her long brown hair in a braid down her back, and an all-enveloping apron on. But to Jack she was altogether adorable, and he stood mute for a minute, looking at her, glorying in her reality. Then he held out the package. "I found this and wanted to return it," he said. She opened it wonderingly, and laughed at sight of the contents. "Oh, it's my Ronteau picture. They gave me one all for myself, and I lost it on a Broadway car. It was ever so good of you to return it. How did you find me?"

And somehow in order to tell of the unraveling it was necessary that he sit down, and then followed the introduction to Mrs. Bellairs and Estelle, the little sister, and Jack found himself telling of the campaign in the islands and the home nest up in Maine and all sorts of things. With a goal ahead, it somehow seemed easy to force on now. He hunted up people he had not thought of, and went after the sort of work he loved best, electrical engineering. Not until he had the sure position, even starting in, did he tell Betty. After the first visit, it had become a custom for them to go for walks over through the park; with Estelle as a willing chaperon, and finally, just when the western skyline of the city lay in deep purple against the orange sunset sky, he held her back to rest a minute up in the wistaria arbor while Estelle skated down the path on her rollers. And then he told her just what it had meant to him—the finding of her picture—and of the goal he had set ahead of him.

J. E. Bell Purchases H. E. Finigan Place.

Rochelle, Texas, Aug. 22.
Editor Brady Standard:
Well, my news this week is about as short as the cotton crop. One fellow picked fifty acres and got three bales. But we will not have to work so hard and will get a good price for what we do make.

We have had a few nice showers the past week which will make the grass put out. I am afraid it is too late for fall feed unless the frost stays at home real late.

J. E. Bell purchased the H. E. Finigan place this week. We regret to see such good old settlers move away as Mr. and Mrs. Finigan.

The stork visited Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parker Wednesday night and left an infant babe to their care. Mother and little one getting along nicely.

Mrs. Joe Rogers is on the sick list this week.

Mr. Watson has moved to the Sellman place.

Mrs. Gressett spent most of last week with her mother, who has been real sick at her home near Brady. Bud Sutton will move this week. We haven't heard where Bud is going. FAIRY.

INSURANCE SETTLED.

Total Damage Agreed Upon at $900—$125 Salvage.

V. Davis of Brownwood, representing the Commonwealth Insurance Co., spent Wednesday and Thursday in the city adjusting the claim for fire loss on the Methodist church. An amicable agreement was reached whereby the damage was agreed upon at $900, and possession of the unburnt portion of the building together with the fixtures and furnishing was retained by the board of stewards. The settlement was declared entirely satisfactory to both parties concerned and the board of stewards speak in terms of highest praise of Mr. Davis' fairness in making the adjustment. Insurance amounting to $1300 had been carried on the building and $200 insurance was carried on the furniture and fixtures. Following the settlement of the insurance, a deal was closed with E. B. Ramsay, whereby the undestroyed lumber in the building was sold to him for $125, Mr. Ramsay agreeing to tear down the building and remove the lumber. Possession of the furniture and chancel railing, and the bell as well, was retained by the board of stewards. This furniture has been damaged only by heat and water, and can be restored to its former condition at comparatively small cost. While the bell was scarred in the fall, it is thought its tone is unimpaired. Work of tearing down and removing the walls of the building was begun yesterday afternoon by a force of workmen, and the lumber will be converted by Mr. Ramsay to his own use. Since the fire the chimney, which had been leaning at a dangerous angle, fell and the burnt roof and ceiling likewise crashed to the ground, part of the debris falling on the walk fronting the church. As the swaying walls of the building menaced the safety of the passersby, the city council condemned the structure and ordered its removal within a period of ten days, meanwhile having the walk blockaded to prevent any possibility of accident. At the present rate of progress, the building should be razed by tonight, and the walk will again be opened to pedestrians.

To Friends and Patrons. I have enjoyed a nice business since July and wish to continue same. In making my headquarters with Jones Drug Co. you will receive the same courteous and kind attention. Your business respectfully solicited. O. T. JACKSON, Fire Insurance

McDuff, Va.—"I suffered for several years," says Mrs. J. B. Whitaker, of this place, "with sick headache, and stomach trouble. Ten years ago a friend told me to try Theodford's Black-Draught, which I did, and I found it to be the best family medicine for young and old. I keep Black-Draught on hand all the time now, and when my children feel a little bad, they ask me for a dose, and it does them more good than any medicine they ever tried. We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught. Theodford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, and has been found to regulate weak stomachs, aid digestion, relieve indigestion, colic, wind, nausea, headache, sick stomach, and similar symptoms. BRADY, TEXAS, Aug. 25, 1916

WATER SUPPLY.

Brownwood is not the only town in this section that is having trouble with its water supply. Santa Anna is using every means to make the supply last as long as possible, and on the 14th of this month the mayor of the city of Ballinger drew up a proclamation declaring that all irrigation, sprinkling of lawns and grass must be stopped until rain brought relief. For the past ten days men have been employed in opening sand bars and draining the various water-holes in the creek to the pump station.—Brownwood Bulletin.

While the city dads in neighboring towns are acquiring gray hairs and wrinkles over the water situation in their respective burgs, Brady citizens rest secure in the knowledge that Brady has a sufficient water supply to tide over the dry spell. There has been no limitation placed upon the use of water in Brady for any purpose, and Brady lawns and Brady flowers are flourishing like the proverbial bay tree, and the street sprinkler still makes his numerous rounds as usual keeping the dust settled. And best of all, Brady's water is pure—or so near pure as it is humanly possible. In fact, there is not a city in Texas that can boast of better water than is in daily use for all purposes by Brady citizens.

THE SMOKY WAY.

If you are dissatisfied, take a trip—you'll like McCulloch county better when you return.

C. H. McGown was elected mayor of Brownwood over Geo. P. Walters by a vote of 418 to 229, after a spirited campaign.

The prospect of 15c cotton should not be allowed to completely hide the fact that hogs sold at $10.05 on the Fort Worth market last Friday.—Rockdale Reporter.

Brownwood has offered to supply the city of Ballinger with water in any quantity desired at the rate of $1.60 per car of 8,000 gallons f. o. b. Brownwood. At that rate no one should find it necessary to go thirsty long.

FARMING WITHOUT RAIN.

One Coleman farmer, and there are others, is this week plowing his cotton for the tenth time, using a twenty-six inch sweep in the process.

We have his word for it that the plant is still growing and promises a half bale to the acre, notwithstanding the fact that the last rain of any consequence was May 15th, three months ago.

By keeping the soil stirred and mulched between the rows he has prevented evaporation and is assured a profitable yield in the face of a drouth. It should be stated, however, that this successful farmer had his land in fine state of cultivation before planting; also he did not crowd his cotton in the rows, planting only twelve pounds of seed to the acre.

This same farmer made 237½ bushels of wheat to the acre, while some of his neighbors only made seven to nine bushels. This farmer cut his wheat land deep to begin with, then double-cut it with dises, and followed the showers with a section tooth harrow. All this was in preparation for planting.

Land preparation and intense cultivation is the only method of farming that will defeat a drouth. The trouble with many of "us" farmers, we "lay by" instead of "lay to."—Coleman Democrat-Voice.

Buys D. Doole Home.

J. E. Bell has closed a deal with D. Doole, Jr., for the latter's home place in South Brady, and expects to occupy the place with his family some time during the fall. The purchase includes the north half of the block on which is located the residence, garage, outbuildings and other improvements. The house is a commodious 7-room structure, and its excellent location makes it a most desirable piece of property. Mr. Bell expects to make considerable alterations and improvements in the residence before occupying the same.

The purchase is the second addition to Mr. Bell's holdings in Brady within the past month or two, he having recently acquired the Queen hotel property, and indicates his faith in the future progress and prosperity of the town.

RE-MARKING HIGHWAYS.

Indicators Every Quarter Mile on County Thoroughfares.

The highways in McCulloch county are to be re-marked with the colors of the National Highway association, as advocated at the San Antonio meeting. The Brady Auto Co. has undertaken the task of re-marking the roads from Brady to the Concho county line, and will place the indicators every quarter mile along the correct route. This will enable any traveler to determine whether or not he is on the right road before going more than a quarter mile out of his path. In fact, if he carefully observes the marks, it will be impossible for him to miss his way. The new colors are blue and red for straight ahead, and these will be placed every quarter mile on both sides of the road. Blue, red and blue will indicate a turn, and this sign will be placed on the side of the road towards which the turn should be made. The route from Brady to the Mason county line will be marked by some other firm of Brady not yet announced.

For the past several years he has been engaged in stock farming in the Niblock community. He is one of the county's substantial and progressive citizens, and possesses all the sterling qualities that count for good citizenship. His bride is a young lady of great degree of charm and personality. For several years she taught in the public schools of San Antonio, where she was most highly regarded by all who knew her.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All Druggists Sell. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

What The War Is Doing For The Farmer

The European war is not an unmitigated evil; nor yet is it an unmitigated blessing for this country. We shall see, as the war goes on, that it is a tempt to go into the ethical side of the question at all, nor shall we discuss "war brides", munition plants or other similar phases of the situation. We shall look at the war purely from the standpoint of prices and raw products, either produced here in this country or imported from foreign countries. And amongst them those that have not gone up in price in spite of the war.

For example, here is a peculiar situation in regard to a beverage which is so universally liked that it has become almost a staple. The name of that beverage is Coca-Cola.

Now Coca-Cola, as you know, is really an agricultural product—a product of the soil. Cane sugar—the very purest and finest—constitutes the main part of it. As you know, sugar has gone way up—every glass of Coca-Cola you drink makes some farmer's heart gladder.

So it is with the pure fruit juices that combined, produce the inimitable flavor of Coca-Cola. Not so much in quantity as when you consider a single glass of this delicious beverage, but enormous when the entire Coca-Cola output is considered.

Yet this product of nature—of the farm—increased in cost though it has been to the makers, has not been raised one penny in price to dealer—or to you. The price at the soda fountain and in the bottle has not risen one iota.

Now inasmuch as the rural population alone of America consumes millions of bottles and glasses of Coca-Cola every year, you and the other agriculturists of this country will not only be able to continue to please your palates and get delicious refreshment with this beverage at no increased cost, but you will be sending back to the farm bigger profits and more money at no greater expense to yourself.

of course when we consider raw products we must carry the subject further on into the matter of the prices we get and the prices we must pay for finished products. We shall confine our consideration, however, to those products which have their origin on the farm either in the raw state or finished and manufactured into edible or wearable articles.

Let us take wheat, for example. We all know that the war has put the price of wheat way up. Very well—this means that the whole country, city, town and rural population as well as paying more for their flour—therefore the wheat raiser should theoretically be getting more for his product, he is also paying some other agriculturist more for his product. This cuts down somewhat on the profits the war is bringing to the farmer. Then it would seem that the best way to keep ahead of the game is for the farmer to pay the farmer who raises his necessities the increased prices that the war has brought about and when having his luxuries or those things that are not bare necessities of life to pick and choose from Word comes from Austin that Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lockhart are the proud parents of a fine boy, and congratulations of Brady friends are the order of the day.

Ben Brown, who has been helplessly confined to his bed for some time with rheumatism, was carried to Marlin Wednesday night, where it is hoped the mineral baths will remedy his ailment.

Friends of W. G. Hampton will be pleased to know that he is able to be up once more and expects to be able to resume his position as sampler with R. G. Prater here within the next few weeks. Mr. Hampton has been down for the past six or eight months, and upon several occasions was thought to be at death's door. He submitted to numerous operations, and it was only sheer grit and a determination to win out that pulled him through. For the past several months he has been at his old home in Dublin recuperating.

GOOD ROADS MEETING.

Brady May Be Junction of Two Great Highways.

Messrs. T. P. Grant and J. T. Freeman returned Sunday from San Antonio, where they had been in attendance upon the Texas Good Roads Congress, the former as vice president in McCulloch county of the Texas division of the Puget Sound to the Gulf highway, and the latter as president of the Brady Y. M. B. L. At a special meeting of the Y. M. B. L. Tuesday morning the delegates reported upon the trip, and it was evident from their report that Brady not only had a fighting chance to retain her place on the National highway, but that Brady also might be placed upon the proposed state highway running from the Plains country to San Antonio, thus making a good roads junction of Brady. The delegates found considerable opposition to the highways coming by way of Brady, several other towns trying hard to get the route mapped out through their locality. Messrs. Grant and Freeman made strong pleas to have Brady retained on the highway, and their plea had the support of the engineer who originally mapped out the route through Brady. As a consequence, the route through Brady was retained temporarily, and final designation of the road will be made at a meeting to be held in Austin on September 6.

The work of Messrs. Grant and Freeman received the approval of the directors of the Brady Y. M. B. L. and a vote of thanks was tendered them. A committee composed of Messrs. W. D. Crothers, B. A. Hallum and T. P. Grant was named to raise funds to cover expenses of the trip, and also to secure funds for the purpose of sending delegates to the convention in Austin on September 6th. By reason of their excellent work, Messrs. Grant and Freeman were appointed delegates to the meeting in Austin, and an urgent appeal will be made to the business men of Brady to accompany the delegates in order that Brady may be strongly represented at the meeting. The delegates explained that one of the handicaps they encountered in the meeting at San Antonio was that while there were representatives from neighboring towns in attendance upon the meeting, the delegates chanced not to be present when the real fight for recognition occurred and thus handicapped the local delegates to a great extent. It is planned to have delegations from Voca, Fredonia, Llano, Burnet and Marble Falls join the Brady bunch at Austin and assist in the effort to retain the highway route.

Another feature of the San Antonio meeting reported on by Messrs. Grant and Freeman was that a report was made at the meeting to the effect that the bill for a State Highway commission would be the second measure introduced at the legislative session in Austin in January. This Highway commission would not only supervise the expenditure of money on public highways, thereby obviating waste and extravagance, but would enable the state of Texas to participate in the $80,000,000 U. S. government fund.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tubbs of the Dutton ranch are entertaining a new girl since the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nix are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a girl at their home last Thursday.

The first of the season's northerners blew up during the still hours of the night Thursday morning (?), and caused slight shivers to inconvenience early risers. The change proved refreshing.

The Rochelle-Brady Motor Car Co. has had a new sign placed on the front of their building. The company had a similar sign made only a few months ago, but the same was destroyed when the brick front was torn down to be replaced by a metal front.

Bob Hughes has mounted the water wagon and is now purveying moisture about the downtown streets by means of the street sprinkler. S. J. Durnett is taking a much-needed rest and is incidentally recuperating from a spell of illness that has threatened to get him down the past week.

The old stairway leading to the second floor of the Klondike building, which had fallen into a sad state of repair, was torn away this week, and Contractor Wilder has been engaged the past few days in replacing it with a new and substantial stair. A door has been cut in the north side of the building and the stair now leads direct from the street to the entrance.

M. L. Bailey, who lives down Waldrip way, was a business visitor in Brady yesterday, and took occasion to spend some of his hard-earned cash with us. He also philosophized to the extent that the true worth of an honest man is never appreciated except by the folks he owes. (If we failed to get this quotation right M. L. will cheerfully make any and all corrections.)

The Popular Dry Goods Co. is having the shelving on the west side of the store remodeled so as to provide more ample accommodations for the shoe stock. The shelving for shoes has been extended to the staircase, and the cabinets formerly containing dresses and cloaks have been replaced with shelving for notions and novelties. The dress and cloak department has been located on the deck, where more ample quarters have been provided.

Among the notable improvements of the past week has been the string of walks laid by S. W. Hughes, Mrs. J. E. Thompson and Leo Moore on the street fronting their property. The walks have just been completed and are a credit to the community. C. R. Alexander will join in the good work by having walks laid in front of his property this fall. The improvements, coupled with the block length of walks just completed by S. T. Ward, go a long way towards providing comfort to pedestrians using the street fronting the school building.

G. C. Kirk, Brady's Nuf Sed tailor, who has been doing society in the North and East, returned yesterday morning, and reports a great trip. Kirk's primary purpose in making the trip was to visit the tailoring houses of which he is representative and to get first-hand information on men's clothing and wearing apparel for the fall and winter season. His trip carried him to St. Louis, Cincinnati, Baltimore, New York, Brooklyn and other points, and at each stop he accumulated new ideas which he expects to take advantage of and which will be turned to the benefit of his patrons. Aside from the business features of the trip, sightseeing proved not the least of the pleasures. Kirk reports the most enjoyable of his experiences, as well as the most inexpensive, as having been a sight-seeing tour of New York on a "rubber neck" wagon and a return to his hotel on the subway, the whole of which cost him the sum of fifteen cents.

The Dumb Detective

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1916, by W. G. Chapman.)

"Out of the way, you brute!"

With the word, Perry Hull gave the stray dog lying on the mat outside of the door of his place of residence a kick that sent the animal rolling to the bottom of the steps.

The dog was a mongrel, ill fed, seemingly homeless and friendless. It did not skulk, however. Landing on its feet the animal bristled. Its eyes were fixed upon its persecutor with a look that said plainly:

"I won't forget you!"

Then the animal slowly proceeded down the street, holding up one foot, which the kick had temporarily crippled.

Hull disappeared within the house, waving his hand airily to the companion from whom he had just parted, Arthur Hope. The latter never returned the salutation. He had observed the cruel treatment of the dog. He hurried his steps and came up with the disabled animal.

"You poor creature!" he said pityingly, and he stooped and patted the head of the animal, who looked confidently into his face and wagged his stump of a tail and whimpered a trifle.

"You come home with me," continued Hope. "It won't be far," and the animal seemed to understand him and limped faithfully behind him. Hope assisted the dog up the steps as he reached his boarding house, led him to his room, bathed the injured limb, applied a soothing lotion, and Hope made a friend for life.

At the end of three or four days the dog was well. Some friends of Hope who saw the animal joked and scooped at the homely pet Hope had adopted. Certainly the creature was unprepossessing as to appearance. One friend, quite a dog fancier, declared the animal was a puzzle to him.

"A mixed breed, or mongrel, yet with some fine points," he observed. "He has the ferocity of a bulldog with the fine scent of a real hunter. Going to keep him?"

"I can't get rid of him," explained Hope. "I tried to lose him yesterday morning. He was back on the doorstep waiting for me at night. When he fixed those big, reproachful, yet grateful, eyes on me I wilted. I shall keep him."

Certainly the animal loved him. One evening he followed him to a house that held the dearest girl in the world for Arthur Hope—Nellie Ashton. Hull was there, a rival, as Hope and his escort ascended the porch. He recognized the animal, but said nothing. As to the dog, it gave one growl. At a word from Hope it subsided. He remembered! He retired to sullen silence at one end of the porch, but for two hours never took his venomful, menacing eyes away from Hull. In fact, the latter was quite uneasy all the evening through.

Nellie's father was a college professor, just retired from his former duties. He had never liked Hull, nor did Nellie, but both treated this visitor courteously. Hope knew considerable of the reckless spendthrift Hull, but he never discussed his faults publicly.

As time went on, the dog became a prime favorite with Nellie. For one thing, he happened to be on hand when she was alone in the house and an insolent and thieving tramp threatened to carry away some umbrellas and a coat from the hat rack.

"Trusty!"

That is what Nellie had dubbed the animal, and an utterance of that name brought the dog to the rescue. The tramp fled, with Trusty at his heels, sadly the worse for his venturesome experience.

Hull began to come less frequently to the Ashton home. In fact, matters, financial and social, were going from bad to worse with him. Hope heard that he had squandered about all he had and was in desperate straits. He amazed Nellie with his persistent wooing whenever he was fortunate enough to find himself alone with her.

One evening both Hull and Hope were at the home. The latter noticed that Hull was restless and uneasy. He left the lovers to themselves. He strolled in the garden with the professor, and Hope saw him later come out of the library and soon after leave the house.

The next morning Hope received a frantic telephone call from Nellie.

"Come quick!" she fluttered—"papa is in great trouble and needs your help."

Hope found the old man fairly prostrated. His story was that only the day preceding he had converted nearly all of his liquid means into negotiable securities. An hour previous he had gone to his desk in the library, to find the lock of a special drawer where he always kept his valuable papers broken and the securities gone.

"It means beggary!" gasped Mr. Ashton desolately.

Trusty had followed Hope that morning. He moved about the library as though in his quick and intelligent way he surmised that something was wrong and that he was expected to assist in righting it.

Suddenly Trusty uttered a sound that suggested a canine challenge. He stood looking inquisitively at his master and then ran his nose along the surface of a rug directly in front of the desk. It was as though he had detected the scent of some unfamiliar footmarks that did not belong there. Then the animal, bristling and eager of eye, leaped towards the door and paused, looking back at his master as though inviting him to follow.

"Why, how strange Trusty is acting!" exclaimed Nellie.

"Wait!" spoke Hope, and, as the dog started from the house, kept pace with him slightly to the rear.

It was patent to Hope that the dog was on a trail. Once, when Hope had been to an entertainment with Nellie, he had carried her gloves home with him by mistake. They had fallen out of his pocket and Trusty had instantly seized them, recognized them by the perfume Nellie used and, seizing them, darted for the Ashton home and delivered them to Nellie.

The animal proceeded down the street without deviating from a direct line to the business district. Trusty reached the one office building in the town and started up that stairs. As Hope reached the top landing he heard a frightful crash, then a wild shriek.

Hull had an office in the building, nursing the wreck of a real estate business that he had allowed to go to ruin. The dog had sprung clear through the broad glass top of the door of the office. Through the jagged ruin Hope saw Trusty now. He had sprung at Hull and pinned his shoulder, holding him into the chair where he sat, with bulldog ferocity.

Hope hurried into the room. It was to see upon the desk before the terrified and cowering Hull the securities that had been taken from the rifled desk of Professor Ashton.

"Trusty—here!" he called commandingly, and it was with reluctance that the animal unloosed his grip on the enemy he hated.

A packed valise showed that Hull had prepared to leave the town. Hope insisted upon his doing so, but minus the wealth he had planned to carry away with him.

"Go somewhere and make a man of yourself," he said, "and if you do your part not even the Ashtons shall ever know who stole the bonds."

Professor Ashton found his securities back in his desk, with the mystery of their abstraction never revealed, and Perry Hull drifted out of the sight and memory of the happy united lovers.

Korean Etiquette.

A recent Washington dispatch declares that a good many changes have taken place in Korean manners and etiquette since the Japanese came into control. A girls' high school was established at Seoul in 1905, and the girls who were admitted, fifty-four in number, were the daughters of noblemen. The teachers were women at first, but as the needs of the school grew and became more exacting, a few male instructors were appointed. The community in general, and the pupils' parents in particular, were enraged, alleging that it was an unpardonable offense for men to enter the gate of a girls' school, even if they were teachers.

The school authorities, therefore, made a concession that the male teachers should veil their faces when they passed the gate of the school. It is an absurd evasion, but the students' parents were satisfied with it. Some of the girls are attended by two or three chaperons, or maids, even when at their studies.—Youth's Companion.

Homemade "Stickentight" Paste.

What child does not like to cut out pictures and paste them? Here is an inexpensive paste that will keep indefinitely. It gets too thick add some cold water and cook and stir until it is smooth.

One cupful of flour, one teaspoonful powdered alum, one-half cupful cold water, two cupfuls boiling water, two tablespoonfuls lime water. A few drops oil of cloves or wintergreen. Mix the alum, flour and cold water, and beat until perfectly smooth; add the boiling water slowly, stirring all the time. Place on the stove and stir until it boils, then put in double cooker and cook about thirty minutes, stirring often. Keep in covered jars or cans.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Brady public school will open on Monday, Sept. 4. As usual, the grades from first to sixth, inclusive, will meet at the Central building on Monday morning, Sept. 4, at 9:00 o'clock. The pupils are urged to come prepared for work the first day. A list of books for each grade will be found at the Central Drug store, and the pupils should secure their books before the opening day. Pupils will not be given time to go to town for books during the first day of school, but will be required to settle down to work.

The high school students of the seventh grade will assemble for organization at the high school building on Monday, September 4, at 1:30 o'clock. High school students should not buy books until they register for their work. I will be at the high school all next week and students who wish to register for their work may do so. Also students who made failures last year will be given an opportunity to make up such deficiencies by examination. All failures must be satisfied before the opening of school in order to secure credit; otherwise the entire course will have to be done again.

A few minor changes have been made in the high school course of study. The course this year will be as follows:

First Year—Required: English, Algebra. Elective: Latin, Science, Domestic Economy, History.

Second Year—Required: English, Algebra. Elective: Latin, Science, Domestic Economy, History.

Third Year—Required: English, Plane Geometry. Elective: Latin, Science, Spanish, History.

Fourth Year—Required: English, American History. Elective: Latin, Science, Spanish, Mathematics.

All students will have to take those subjects on the required list, and each year choose two subjects from the elective list. Everybody's.

Sixteen credits are required for graduation, provided that each student must offer at least two credits in history in order to be permitted to graduate.

It is very desirable that parents help their children to decide what subjects to choose from the elective list. There will be no changing from one subject to another or dropping subjects after school opens.

Very respectfully,
W. L. HUGHES.

A member of Congress from one of the rural districts of Wisconsin was ambitious to distinguish himself by his oratory, and watched for a favorable opportunity. A motion was made in the House for enforcing the execution of some statute, whereupon the would-be orator rose, and after solemnly gazing upon the House in silence for a moment or so, addressed it as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, have we laws, or have we not laws? If we have not laws, and they are not observed, to what end are those laws made?"

So saying, he sat down, his chest inflated with conscious consequence. Instantly Jim Mann of Illinois rose and delivered this thought in these words:

"Mr. Speaker, did the honorable gentleman who last spoke speak to the purpose, or did he not speak to the purpose? If he did not speak to the purpose, to what purpose did he speak?"

COMPLETE SANITARIUM

GUYTON, STONE & MILLER OCCUPYING NEW BLDG.

Ideal Location and Splendid Arrangement of New Building. Noteworthy Features.

The finishing touches on the new Guyton, Stone & Miller sanitarium were made this week, and the building is being furnished this week and placed in readiness for occupancy. The new enterprise is one in which the citizenship of Brady may well take pride. The building, which was erected at a cost closely approximating $15,000, is a substantial, as well as an attractive structure, and the arrangement of the rooms very nearly approaches the ideal. The location is especially noteworthy, being on one of the highest elevations in the south part of town, and far enough removed from any other dwelling or building to enable unobstructed view of the surroundings, as well as making it a wonderfully pleasant place by reason of the cool breezes which have access from every quarter.

The building is quite an imposing structure, the outside being finished with a pressed brick veneer with trimmings of concrete. The interior is of same finish plaster, and the floors are of cement. Each floor has nine rooms and the twenty-seven rooms contained in the building are designed with especial care to convenience and accessibility. The basement houses the steam heating plant, kitchen and dining room, and the remainder of the rooms will be used for patients. On the first floor are the operating room, laboratory, lavatories and quarters of Dr. Guyton, and also rooms for patients. The second floor is fitted for the use of patients and quarters are also provided for the other doctors.

The operating room is especially well chosen for the purpose, being located on the southwest corner of the building and having numerous large windows, thus affording the very best of light. The room is finished in white, and has a white tile floor accentuating the lighting, and an immense overhead light provides artificial illumination when natural means fail.

A septic tank has been provided for the sanitary disposal of all waste and overflow, the tank having been built upon an approved U. S. government pattern. A concrete building located on the rear of the lot provides commodious quarters for the nurses and also houses the garage and outdoor equipment.

The hospital staff is composed of Drs. J. V. Guyton and D. M. Stone, chief surgeons; G. B. Miller, specialist in eye, ear, nose and throat; J. L. Hall, pathologist. A competent staff of nurses will assist in caring for the patients, and a nurse's training school will also be established in connection with the sanitarium.

The building is one of several institutions erected in McCulloch county by Contractor W. P. Gray, and as usual, is a credit both to Mr. Gray and to the community in which it is located. Mr. Gray not only shows great ability in carrying out the plans and specifications, but all of his work in this county has been of the highest order and has met with instant approval. Mr. Gray completed the sanitarium within forty-five days, although his contract allowed sixty days' time. Other buildings erected in McCulloch county by Contractor Gray have been the schools at Pear Valley, Lohn, Mercury and Voca. Mr. Gray has just received the contract for the erection of a $2,000 school building at Streeter, and will begin the work of erection this week.

ROAD SIGNS.

Brady Auto Co. Provides Travelers' Guides.

A commendable bit of enterprise on the part of Brady Auto Co. has been the placing of road signs, one on the Coleman road at the Melvin and Eden road intersections, and another on the Brownwood road at the Santa Anna and Rochelle road intersection. Each of the signs have arrows indicating the road which the driver should take to reach the proper destinations, and the signs are large enough lettered so that "he who runs may read."

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body; and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building- tonic, free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it.

CALOMEL DYNAMITES A SLUGGISH LIVER

Crashes Into Sour Bile, Making You Sick and You Lose a Day's Work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.
