INFORMATION FOR VOTERS IN THE PRIMARY SATURDAY

County Democratic Chairman J. E. Shropshire has announced the following information of interest, to voters and election officiin Saturday's primary:

Saturday, July 27th, is the day.

Vote early. Vote before noon if possible, so that the report can be sent in early and so the clerks will not have to work late.

The latest information from the attorney-general is that "women should be permitted to vote whether registered or not, if their homes are outside of cities of 10,000 population or more.'

Women voters, as well as men, may assist in holding the election. Phone in the returns at once after the count has been completed. Just tell the telephone operator you have election returns for Brady, and the proper connection will be made.

A voter must have lived in the state a year and in the county six months next preceding the election day.

Election officers may assist a voter who is blind or otherwise physically unable to make out said ballot but must not assist a voter simply because said voter cannot read or write.

Voters must not carry to the polls any data to refer to in mak-

Let the judges stamp "Woman" on every ticket voted by a woman, and "Woman Unregistered" on every ticket voted by a woman who has not registered.

Take every precaution so that we can easily verify our vote in case of a contest.

Women voters should bring their registration receipts to the polls; others should be prepared to make affidavit as to their qualifications at the voting places.

WILLIAM J. ROBINSON

The first man started and was soon out of sight. They waited in vain for a certain length of time for a signal that he had arrived, and then called No. 2. No. 2 started out, but we saw him go down before he had gone a hun-

Then No. 3 started. It was pitiful to watch those poor chaps. When a man knew it was his turn next I could see the poor fellow nervously working on his machine. He'd prime the engine, then he'd open and close the throttle quickly several times-anything, in fact, to keep himself busy. When his number would be called he'd hesitate a second and perhaps flood the car-buretor, then he'd take his dispatch and suddenly dash out.

Six of these fellows went down in less than half an hour. No. 7 was a young fellow whose name I don't know. I wish I did, for he was certainly the nerviest man I ever saw.

"No. 7" was hardly out of the officer's mouth before he had his dispatch and was on his way. About five minutes later the signal came that the dispatch had been delivered.

My officer told me afterward that the French general to whom he had handed the dispatch had taken the medaille militaire off his own breast and pinned it on that of this young dispatch rider. He was also later awarded the Victoria cross and given a commission. It is things like this that make one proud to belong to such an army.

CHAPTER III.

Soon after this I received orders to proceed by automatic to proceed by automobile to Aire and wait for instructions. Aire was at that time the headquarters of the Indian contingent, and I was anxtous to see the Indians in action. After two days' waiting there I got orders to go to Boescheppe and report myself for duty to Lieutenant McNulty. Boescheppe was not far away, so I started at once and arrived before dark. I found Lieutenant McNulty without any trouble, and he told me to report to him again the next morning, as he would not want me that day.

I found a cafe where there was room for me, and I made myself comfortable. I was very much interested in them, as they were the first I had seen in France.

That night I went around the village to see all there was to be seen, and unintentionally I stayed out after 8 o'clock. I was making my way back to my billet along the middle of the road. It was as dark as pitch, and I couldn't see a yard in front of me. Suddenly I bumped into something, and quicker than a flash two hands closed around my throat. My mouth just naturally opened wide, and I yelled "Friend!" the loudest I ever yelled in my life.

Then a light shone in my face, and I caw it was a great big Sikh on sentry to. As soon as he saw my uniform it was all right, but I was shivering for half an hour, and I vowed I'd never go prowling around at night again as long as I remained within the Indian lines.

The Indians are the most religious eople I ever saw. They seem to live only for their religion, and all their ac-gasp.

An American Boy's Baptism of Fire

By WILLIAM J. ROBINSON

Copyright, Little, Brown & Co.

The most graphic account of the great war that has yet been written comes from the pen of a twenty-two-year-old Boston boy, who has just returned from France, where as dragoon guardsman, dispatch rider and motor-car driver he served fourteen months under the British flag. Out of thirty-one motorcycle dispatch riders he was one of four survivors.

"My Old Kentucky Home." The men some one in the German trenches joined the singing in just as good English as any of us could speak. It was beautiful, but it made me awfully home-sick. After they had finished the same German voice sang "Dancing Around," and, believe me, that fellow could sing ragtime. He was applauded uproariously, and then we sang some more until the wee small hours of the morn-

During the night a couple of our chaps crawled up almost to the German parapet, and with them they took phonograph and a record. They wound up the machine, put on the reccame. The next morning they pulled the string, and it started the machine playing the song which was so popular in England at that time, "When We Wind Up the Watch on the Rhine." You can bet that that phonograph was

When on duty in the daytime it was not so Germans had the advantage over us in that their trenches were on higher ground, and they drained all the water lown into our own. We had only buckets to bail with, and it was very slow work, as well as dangerous. Then, too, the cold weather increased Pounds on Tanlac "There are five us at home who have taken Tanlac and it hasn't failed to bring good results in a single case," said Arthur M. Compton, a popular clerk at the Oriental Hotel and living at 1206 Wood street, Dallas, Texas, recently.

"As to my own case," Mr. Compton continued, "Tanlac has increased my weight 10 pounds in the past three weeks and has certainly relieved me of an awful lot of suffering. When I began taking it my stomach was all out of order and I had no appetite. I was so nervous I could hardly sleep, was all run-down and had that tired, sluggish feeling all the time. I had fallen off in weight and was awfully sick and discouraged.

"Finally my uncle from Terrell, Texas, persuaded me to try Tanlac and it has been a wonderful thing for me. My appetite is fine now and I eat like a shoat. man, for if he did he would lose caste. West Telephone Company

GENERAL OFFICES

TELEPHONE NOTICE!

Brownwood, Texas, July 22d, 1918.

During the last two years the war has indirectly thrown heavy burdens upon all public utilities, especially the Telephone utility. Not only has there been a tremendous increase in material costs, but labor has also required additional compensation, and taxes have increased abnormally.

We have done everything within reason in the operation of the Company to work economies and defer as long as possible any increase of rates. But the increase in our expense account has much more than absorbed the savings effected. Material increases in salaries and wages have already been met, but the constant increase in the cost of living makes it imperative that an additional substantial increase in wages be given our employees.

Our present rates are not at all based on the conditions existing at this time; therefore, becomes vitally necessary that our rates for local telephone service be increased in order that the organization of the Company may be held intact and enable us to maintain and operate our plant efficiently and to furnish you with reliable service.

The public generally is fully aware of the abnormal increase in expenses that every business establishment and individual is experiencing. The raise in rates is more than justified, and as the additional revenues go chiefly to our employees, we feel that it will meet with general approval.

Therefore, in accordance with a resolution passed by the Board of Directors on July 15th, 1918, the General Manager was authorized beginning with September 1st, 1918, to put the following increases in rates into effect:

Main Line Business Telephones - - - - from $3.30 to $4.00 Main Line Residence Telephones - - - - from $1.65 to $2.25

Main Line Business Telephones will be billed at $4.00, but a discount of 50c will be allowed if the account is paid on or before the 15th day of the current month.

Main Line Residence Telephones will be billed at $2.25, but a discount of 25c will be allowed if the account is paid on or before the 15th day of the current month.

Of the additional revenue derived, more than 60% will go to increases in salaries and wages, 22% to increased taxes, and the balance to repair parts and miscellaneous items.

Yours very truly,

F. W. GREBER

Notice to the Public

In view of the fact that there exists a shortage of fuel during extreme cold weather, and the practical impossibility of securing coal at the present, as well as the patriotic necessity of conserving the supply of coal and fuel oil, it is strongly recommended and required by the Federal Fuel Administrator of Texas, that each householder and institution, provide a supply of cord wood or stove wood, on the premises whereever possible, with the necessary wood stoves and facilities to take care of emergencies or possible fuel shortages.

"This District will be proud of Congressman Blanton when they know the standing he has achieved in Congress in the short time he has served us

"I had the pleasure of meeting him in the Hall of Representatives, and talked with several Congressmen and others, and learned that he had won the highest esteem and confidence of the members. He moved among them as 'one to the manner born,' alert and intensely wide-awake to every important measure introduced. A visit to his offices proved he was a man to be consulted on all important business. In spite of his arduous duties he found time to hunt up and look after the comforts of his old acquaintances from his district who were attending the old Confederates' greatest reunion, and seemed delighted to be able to serve them. All who met him there were full of encomiums for him.
