

JEFF MEERS OIL CO. CLOSES CONTRACT FOR BUILDING OF RIG

RIG MATERIAL BEING LOADED OUT AT COLEMAN

Jeff Meers announces the closing of a contract for the building of the rig on the Jeff Meers Oil Co. tract in Concho county. Contractor A. L. Jones, who has built practically all the rigs in this section, has the contract for the Meers rig, and the material was to be loaded out yesterday at Coleman. The rig will be a duplicate of the one at Salt Gap. As August 1st is the time limit for the rig completion, the next few weeks will see some busy times. In fact, Mr. Meers says he did some tall hustling in the purchase of the rig, and was fortunate enough to get the only six-inch rig irons in this section. Except for his securing these irons, the completion of the derrick would have been delayed something like 60 days.

The Meers Oil Co. location is on a 4,000 acre tract in Concho county, part of the Shultz Oil Co. land, and part Mrs. Cora Hartgroves. The exact location for the test is near the south end of Survey 231, Concho county.

The spudding in of the Prairie's new shallow test is being anticipated any day now. The rig has been moved to a location 1200 feet west of the Prairie's deep test, the water line has been laid and, all that was lacking Monday was the raising of the mast. The Prairie expects to develop the 380 ft. sand in which their gas well was brought in a couple weeks ago, to test it out for oil.

The Cochran & Stewart test on the Brandenberger ranch in Mason county has been delayed somewhat by a crooked hole. The drillers are about to get the hole straightened and drilling resumed at 125 ft.

With the drying of the roads, fuel oil, casing and material is again being carried out to the various tests in the county, all of which are expected to be operating full blast again this week.

R. C. Newton was here Sunday from Idabel, Okla., noting the progress of operations in the county. He was greatly interested in the Prairie's gas well. Mr. Newton reports his shallow test on the Schmidt Survey No. 86 as having successfully cased off a flow of water, and now resuming drilling at about 415 ft.

RAY BROWN LOST 3 OF 4 PRISONERS - SHELL HIT THEM

Falling flat on the ground when the Germans sent over their shells, whizzbangs and shrapnel, saved many an American soldier's life, says Ray Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brown, who returned last Thursday from something like a year's service overseas with the 34th Infantry of the 7th Division. As proof, Brown cites the fact that the Germans were so used to the protection of their trenches, they did not know how to protect themselves out in the open. Consequently when Brown and another American soldier started taking four German prisoners to the rear, the other boy leading and Brown following, then fell flat on the ground the moment they heard the enemy artillery open fire in their direction. The Germans failed to take like precautions, and as a result two were killed instantly by the fire of their comrades, and the third was mortally wounded, an arm and leg being torn from his body.

The incident occurred the last of October 1918, on the St. Mihiel front, where the 7th Division took 310 Hill from the Germans after three other divisions had failed in the effort. Originally Brown was in the 90th Division, but was transferred to the 7th. The error made by the other divisions was in sending too large and compact bodies against the Germans. The Germans had splendid artillery and knew every inch of the country, consequently they were enabled to mow the Americans down as they advanced. But two companies of the 7th Brigade were ordered to charge the hill, and the men were scattered along so thin a line as to offer no big target. At the same time the balance of the Division started to circle the hill. The charging Americans made so much noise shouting that the Germans were forewarned, and took to their heels, with the result that but few were captured. The four prisoners mentioned at the beginning were some of these prisoners.

As soon as the German infantry had retreated to a safe distance, the German artillery would open fire on the evacuated positions. Consequently the Americans had to dig themselves in without a moment's loss of time. The soldier who was slow or too careless to do this, was exposed to fire and invariably suffered fatal consequences. This advance was made in broad daylight.

While on the St. Mihiel front Brown was gassed, when he started to remove his gas mask just as the heavy cloud of mustard gas came rolling over. He says one could smell, feel and taste the gas, and he lost no time getting his mask back on again. At the time he suffered no ill effects, except the gas made his eyes water, and gave him a nauseated feeling in his stomach so much that he could not retain food. He continued in service until after the armistice was signed, when he spent two months and five days in Evacuation Hospital No. 1, and Base Hospitals Nos. 78 and 55, near Toul. In addition to a course of treatment, the doctors would take ex-Ray pictures every ten days. In all, eight ex-Rays were taken of him before he was released from the hospital. While ordinarily, he suffers no ill effects from the experience, yet Ray is inclined to nervousness, and when he gets hot, or tries to scuffle, he has a choking sensation and can hardly catch his breath.

In the fighting, Brown was armed with a Browning automatic, which somewhat resembled a machine gun, but only fired 6 shots at a clip. Every two automatics were supplied with ammunition by three carriers, each of whom carried 360 rounds. The carriers themselves were armed with 30-30 rifles.

Brown was in the Moselle river sector when the armistice was signed and his division had received orders to go over the top at 11:30 o'clock that morning. When news of the armistice was had, the boys threw down their guns, and shouting and cheering at

Making Profit Out of a Pest Best Way to Get Rid of Cocklebur

Have you a cockle-burr patch on your home place? Do you want to get rid of it profitably? Of course, you do!

The Standard is indebted to Friend Walter Caldwell, the genial manager of the Dr. R. A. Lindley Ink Co. offices at Fort Worth, for a valuable suggestion as regards turning this pest to profit.

Under date of July 5th, Walter writes:

"After reading your article in the last issue of your valued paper, where Mr. Carl Schmidt, of Lohn, Texas, is calling the attention to the citizens of McCulloch county, in regard to the dreaded cockle burr, which we have all fought in the years past, and considered it a great pest, I thought of an article that I had just read in the Cottonseed Oil Magazine of June, 1919.

"I am enclosing you a copy of the report made by Mr. Rhodes, Chemist, which will speak for itself.

"Should this noted pest find its way into the commercial world, a great number of counties should reap enough benefit from it to keep up their roads, for we all know that you can not travel over one of our public roads, but what we will find a nice large patch of cockle burrs in the low places.

"Now, I do not want to cast any reflections on the roads of McCulloch county, for with the exception of about two counties I have been in, Old McCulloch county has the best roads of all.

"Best of wishes to all."

The Remedy.
Here is the method spoken of by Mr. Caldwell, and which is reprinted from the Cotton Oil Magazine:

Out of the cockle burr which sticks to the clothes of the passerby, and which has generally been considered a pest, is now being made a new and valuable oil available for use in paints and varnishes and adapted for food.

The details were explained by Mr. L. B. Rhodes, oil chemist, of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, in an address delivered here May 3, before the North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society:

"The cockle burr," said Mr. Rhodes, "is widely distributed through the United States, so that it is more or less of a nuisance in most localities and is very abundant throughout the South. If the burrs could be obtained systematically in sufficient large quantities, they could be easily milled.

"Those which I have gathered were either dry or in a half-dry condition. They were cut in half by a trimming board and the kernels mashed. They were then placed in a box and vigorously shaken. The hulls were taken out, leaving the kernels at the bottom. These kernels were then pounded and rubbed in a mortar until the black shucks were removed, after which the husks were forced out by blowing. The ground kernels were then wrapped in cheesecloth and pressed between cold steel plates.

"The oil thus obtained was allowed to settle for three or four days and then filtered. It is of a light yellow shade; has a clear, sparkling appearance and a pleasant odor and an agreeable nutty taste. It keeps well without becoming rancid. On account of this quality it should eventually be used as a substitute in the dietary for other vegetable oils.

"The press cake left after expressing the oil should be of value as a food for cattle, and certainly it can be readily used as a fertilizer."

Mr. Rhodes said that he had no doubt that before long the cockle-burr oil would have a place in commerce because the richness of the kernel and the ease with which the oil can be extracted. The yield from the kernel is about 30 per cent, and the kernels constitute about the same proportion of the bulk of the crude burrs. The press cake contains 40.34 per cent of protein.

WAS WITNESS OF DEATH OF ELIJAH ALLIN IN FRANCE

The soldier boys returning from overseas, and who have been in the thick of the fray, say that after a time one sees so much of Death stalking in their midst that they become calloused to the sight, and the call of duty in the height of the battle always sounds louder than the call from the wounded. However, when your "bunkie" or your pal or your friend from "back home" falls—that's when it gets next to you.

Imagine then the feelings of Jim Darley of Voca when he saw Elijah F. Allin of Brady fall when a bit of shrapnel struck him full in the stomach. Allin was only about the twentieth man from Darley at the time. Both boys were in the same squad, and from the 8th of October until the 28th of October, 1918, the 141st Infantry, of which they were a part, occupied the front line trenches of the Champagne sector. Allin met his fate on the evening of Sunday, October 13th, when the enemy sent over a heavy barrage of shell fire. The fighting had been carried out into the open, and there was no protecting trench. Shrapnel from a bursting shell singled out Allin from the boys in the line for its victim.

Darley returned Saturday after a 10 months' service overseas as a member of Co. A, 141st Infantry, 36th Division. Grover Whitman of Melvin, who was a member of Co. C, of the same infantry and division, and who passed through the same thrilling incidents, returned Monday. Both boys came through it all without a scratch. They state that it is hard to conceive the immensity of the work accomplished by the U. S. in France, following our entrance into the war. As an example, they say the U. S. alone built 35 railroads in and through France, equipping them with locomotives, rolling stock, depots, warehouses, etc.

Darley was held in quarantine at New York for 17 days on account of supposed cases of small pox on board his ship, but which were in reality only chicken pox. It was the intention of the government to send them by water to Galveston, but after their quarantine, the boys raised such a protest over the delay that they were sent back to Texas by rail.

One of the peculiar incidents of the war was the variety of wounds inflicted by shrapnel. One boy was struck in the cheek by a tiny bit of shrapnel, possibly twice as big as a pin head. The missile ranged downward just under the skin and finally hung loosely in the skin of his jaw, where it remained for several days before a surgeon removed it. In the meantime no ill effects were felt by the victim.

GERMAN HABITAT IN HINDENBURG LINE PALATIAL

The German quarters in the Hindenburg were palatial, according to a description furnished by Melvin Calloway, youngest son of C. C. Calloway, and who has just returned from ten months' overseas service with Co. M, 141st Infantry, 36th Division.

The 36th Division relieved the 2nd Division on the Champagne front on October 8th, and for 21 days faced the Germans in open warfare. The 2nd Division had pushed the Germans back four miles beyond the famous Hindenburg line, which was the last of the German's wonderful trench systems. Back of it, they had nothing but barbed wire entanglements for protection and both the Germans and opposing Americans were forced to fight out in the open.

The Hindenburg line, occupied by the Germans for four years, was a most wonderful trench system, and had been wonderfully improved during their four years' stay. It was located in a canyon, and immense dug-outs had been excavated, and rendered almost indestructible with concrete. The quarters were lighted with electricity, and the Germans had established a modern water works system for their own use. Many of the dug-outs were elegantly furnished, being equipped with living rooms, bedrooms, kitchens and some even had saloons equipped with bars.

The driving of the Germans out of this famous line was begun with a 36-hour barrage by the artillery, which rendered the line untenable. The Germans left in such haste that they failed to carry all their beer with them, and the American dough-boys used such as was left behind to celebrate the victory.

Despite the fact that their fighting was largely in the open, the casualties were small, there being only 28 or 30 lost out of Calloway's company of 238 men. On the 29th of October they were marched 15 miles back of the line for a rest, and on the day of the armistice, they had their packs rolled and strapped onto their backs ready to return to the front. Their destination this time was the Verdun front, where they were to be used in a drive on Metz. When news of the armistice was had, the boys threw down their packs and shouted and cheered for joy.

Calloway says the hungriest he ever got, was following their 35-mile hike to the front when they first entered the fighting zone. The boys were so weary with their long hike and the heavy pack they were carrying that they threw their reserve rations away. For four days he subsisted on a can of condensed milk and a hunk of bread. The best rations they secured from the packs of dead Germans, and consisted of a can of honey and hard bread. It is no exaggeration to say, states Calloway, that a soldier could get blood all over his hands in taking the rations from a dead body, and still enjoy the food.

While in service he enjoyed several furloughs, spending the time in South France, and the expenses of the trip being borne by the government. A certain number of the boys were allowed a furlough each week, and when all had had their vacation, the first of the number would be entitled to another. Many beautiful recreation camps were provided, and the boys all enjoyed the change immensely.

CROOKS.

There are a lot of crooks in Sterling county that ought to be suppressed. They are robbing the people of their automobile tires, gasoline and time every day, and if they do not give these things up freely, they are threatened with serious injury or even death.

The crooks to which we refer are not humans, but sharp crooks in our public roads. Everytime an automobile goes down the road toward San Angelo, these crooks reach out and take a bit of rubber from the tires, a little gasoline from the tank and a little time from the schedule. In time these crooks hold up the public for enough money to buy a good ranch.

Now, the thing to do with these crooks is to suppress them. Make them straight. We may have to take a half acre of some man's land to do this, but let us do it and then pay him for it—pay him well and then some, for it is worth it.

A crook in the road is a very costly luxury. It not only taxes every man who is obligated to navigate it, but it takes more of his tax money to maintain it. A crook in a road where it can be straightened is a white elephant on the hands of the tax payers. Let us get wise and eliminate these crooks which are a burden to the taxpayers and a reflection on our intelligence.—Sterling City News Record.

San Saba, Tex., July 5.—San Saba celebrated the 4th as never before in its history, it being the second day and the main one of the three-day district convention of the American legion for the 17th congressional district. Citizens of the entire county gathered here, joined by large numbers from surrounding counties, to observe the day and do honor to the members of the legion, the attendance for the day being the highest and reaching over seven thousand. The weather remained perfect, which was a happy stroke of fortune, inasmuch as up until three days ago the long period of unsettled weather and daily rains was still upon us. The people were filled with the spirit of the day, which with the auspicious weather, resulted in everything being carried through with a snap and enthusiasm.

The convention opened for the day with a short business session at the court house immediately preceding the soldiers' sailors' and marines' parade. The boys marched in uniform and as perfectly as if they were undergoing official inspection and were roundly cheered throughout the line of march. After the parade the main event of the day occurred the patriotic address by Col. Henry D. Lindsley, temporary chairman of the national association of the legion, at the fair grounds, the seat of the encampment. Colonel Lindsley's address was the best of the sort ever delivered at this place, he thrilled the large gathering who heard him to the depths and was frequently cheered to the echo.

Following the address the other event of the day, second only in importance to the address, the great barbecue dinner for the guests and the general public, took place at the grounds. As a mark of their gratitude and esteem for the legionaries, the ranchmen of the county donated with the utmost freedom all the heaves and muttens needed to feed the host of people, twenty heaves and forty muttens, and stood ready to furnish as many more, if necessary.

The remainder of the program of the day included horse races, a baseball game, bathing and boating, and, in the evening, two blocks of the down town district were roped off for a street dance, which lasted until taps, 1 o'clock, a. m.

LOCAL BRIEFS

L. T. Brown arrived last Friday from Dallas for a visit with his wife, who is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Levy. Mr. Brown is manager of the American Film Co. and also the Pathe Co. at Dallas.

The many friends of W. O. Shultz of Paint Rock will regret to learn that he is in a sanitarium at Fort Worth suffering from blood poison. The cause and seriousness of his illness has not been ascertained.

Mrs. Ed S. Clark and children, Grace and Paul, returned Sunday from Bangs, where they had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. King, the past week or so. Her mother has been quite ill, and was still in bad health at the time of her departure.

Miss Sue Riley, who has been assistant to Frank Johnson at the local Western Union telegraph office, left last night for Chillicothe, Texas, where she has been given charge of the W. U. office at that place. All her many friends will be pleased to learn of her promotion.

C. H. Vincent left Sunday night for Denison, where he will visit his mother, Mrs. S. H. Vincent, who is reported ill at that place. Following her improvement, he will continue on his way to market, spending several weeks in St. Louis and Chicago, where he will purchase the fall and winter stock for his store.

Mrs. C. R. Alexander is here this week to spend several days visiting with friends while looking after business affairs. Mrs. Alexander has been quite ill since leaving Brady, and has been under treatment at a sanitarium in Corpus Christi. At present she feels much improved. The children and Mr. Alexander are still at Austwell.

A. D. Wright, who has been voted absent from Brady the past eighteen months, returned here Monday, and says he is back to stay. A. D. followed the carpenter's trade at San Antonio during the war activities, and more recently has been working in Fort Worth and Eastland. He says San Antonio, Fort Worth, Eastland, Ranger and Cisco are the fastest building places in the State of Texas, and that there is a world of work at all these points.

Ernest W. Sparks is greeting his Brady friends with the same happy smile as of yore. Ernest has been employed with the Texas Company at Port Neches since leaving Brady over a year ago, and recently assayed the role of editor of the Port Neches Star-News. However, he found the editorial duties required too much of his time, and accordingly resigned the editorial job. Ernest is prospering in his new home, but still thinks there is no place like Brady, and no folks like Brady folks.

Our good friend, J. G. Millsap, was in from the Melvin community Saturday on a short business visit. J. G. says the farmers out his way are pretty badly in the weeds, and mighty busy as a result. He reports that his estimate of the rains' damage to small grain has dropped from 50% to 16 2-3 per cent. He put in 100 acres, but the freezes killed out a good portion of it, and thinned down the balance. In the long run, though, this thinning down proved a benefit, and his yield on his remaining 25 acres of oats and 18 acres of wheat is threshing out very satisfactorily. His wheat was cut very late—just when it was falling down—but it did not sprout out like much of that cut earlier. All around, Mr. Millsap thinks his disadvantages and misfortunes have turned out to his benefit in the long run.

A solid week of bright, sunny days is the extent of our "Fair-Weather" report. July started off very well, and promised to become a right-hand man to the farmers who were trying to thresh their grain, get their crops out of the weeds and see their cotton growing. However, the charm was broken Sunday afternoon by a light shower at Brady, and Monday showers were had both in the morning and after dinner. The total precipitation in Brady was only three-tenths of an inch, but to the south and west the rain appeared much heavier. Today continues cloudy and shows possibilities of a shower. The week of pretty weather has dried out the fields and shocks of grain very well, and the threshers are humming early and late. The grain damage appears less, and prospects for bumper crops of all kinds better with each succeeding day.

Regular 25c Gingham, 20c. A. R. HOOPER.

FIVE FINDINGS.

Soldiers Return—Chas. Mitchell Was Wounded 5 Times in Argonne.

Fife, Texas, July 2.

(Too Late for Last Week).

Editor Brady Standard:

We have had no rain for two days now, and everybody is busy killing weeds.

R. A. Wright is here from Globe, Ariz., on a visit to his father, J. J. Wright.

Mrs. Robert Littleman left Monday on a visit to her parents in West Virginia.

Mrs. M. A. Tedder left Tuesday for Kempner, after a visit with her son, S. F. Tedder and family here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Mitchell, Mrs. A. M. Long, Jas. Mitchell and Robt. Littleman went to San Angelo Wednesday in Mr. Littleman's car. Mrs. Mitchell's father, E. G. Glathery is very low at San Angelo and is not expected to live.

Albert Finnigan, Raymond Hobbs, Chas. Mitchell and E. D. Baldrige came in last week from Germany. Albert and Raymond were members of the 345 Field Artillery, 90th Division and were in Germany 5 months, but were not in action. Chas. Mitchell, a member of Co. B, 315 Eng., 90th Division, and in the Argonne Woods was wounded five times by a high explosive shell and was in the hospital 2 months. Then he returned to active service and was in Germany 5 months. Also E. Dair Baldrige was a member of Co. C, 315 Eng., 90th Division and was in all the battles of Argonne, St. Mihiel and around Verdun and was at Stenay the farthest advanced point of the A. E. F. when the armistice was signed. He came out without a scratch but says there were times when he expected to be blown to pieces any minute. The boys came home, found everybody in the weeds, grabbed a hoe and are now busily engaged in killing weeds instead of Germans.

We notice our misrepresentatives have ratified the Federal suffrage amendment. Next thing we know they will put the saloon back, raise the governor's salary and buy Kirby's pine land. No reason for quitting on suffrage, boys!

Brooks Says Tanlac Has Overcome His Troubles—Feels Like A New Man.

"My wife obtained such satisfactory results from Tanlac that I tried it myself and I have gained ten pounds and feel like a new man," said J. W. Brooks, traffic superintendent for the Western Union Telegraph Co. at Dallas, Texas, and living at 1732 Hickory St., that city.

"When I began taking Tanlac," he continued, "I was suffering from a stubborn case of stomach trouble, the result of an attack of acute indigestion I had several years ago. I had an awful pain across my back and was so nervous and worried about my kidneys that I could hardly sleep at all. I suffered from rheumatism in my legs, my feet would swell and I was tired and languid all the time. I was badly run-down, lost weight.

"After using Tanlac for a short time I began to pick up and kept improving till now my rheumatism is all gone, the pains have disappeared from my back and my kidneys don't worry me like they did. I have a fine appetite and can eat anything I want without suffering at all from indigestion, my sleep is sound and restful and I get up in the morning Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

WONDER WORDS.

A Cougar Hunt Is Exciting Sport in Oregon.

Wonder, Ore., June 29.

Editor Brady Standard:

I am sending a slipping from the Rogue River Courier of an event which happened in this community, near here, which may be of interest to your readers. If you have room for it, let it suffice for my letter for this time.

"O. I. C. U. R. RIGHT."

"George Woodridge of Grants Pass, who is acting as chief packer for U. S. Government Surveyor Price in camp on Peavine ridge, while hunting his pack animals in company with 'Pete' Ainsworth last Wednesday forenoon, came upon the track of a cougar just west of camp. His famous 'varmint' dogs, 'Lead' and 'Spot' were with him and gave chase and soon had Mr. Cougar treed where they held him until the men arrived on the scene of action. Although their sole armament consisted of a .38 six-shooter in the hands of Mr. Woodridge and a fist full of rocks which 'Pete' had accumulated in the meantime, they proceeded to open the battle. Mr. Woodridge emptied his revolver, every shot taking effect, although none of the bullets found a vital spot before the besieged animal concluded to carry the war into Africa by descending from the tree and engaging his assailants at close quarters, which he did only to be confronted by an empty revolver and the now infuriated dogs—not to mention 'Pete' and his geological specimens. And now ensued a battle royal between the dogs and Mr. Cougar, the former receiving such assistance as 'Pete' was able to afford with his rocks as occasion served; the war raged with varying results until Mr. Woodridge had time to reload his revolver when he administered a well directed shot which ended the affray. 'Lead,' the chief trailer, came out with a badly lacerated jaw with which the cougar's teeth had connected while 'Spot' escaped with a severe buffet on the side of his head from the enraged cougar's paw.

"The animal, which was a young male, measured nine feet from tip to tail, the pelt being in prime condition. 'Lead' with careful nursing is expected to be ready for the trail in a week or two, but 'Pete' insists that he has had his 'satisfy' of engraving cougars at close quarters with anything of a smaller calibre than a French .75."
