MRS. J. C. WILHELM, PIONEER RANCHER, PASSED AWAY SAT. MORNING AT CALLAN

Mrs. Johanna Carolyn Wilhelm, pioneer ranchwoman, and known far and wide over West Texas as one of the largest and most successful operators of ranches, passed away Saturday morning, January 22nd, at 9:40 o'clock, aged 69 years, 8 months and 2 days.

Mrs. Wilhelm was born in Koenigsberg, Germany, coming to the United States 51 years ago, when but 18 years old. She and her deceased husband were married in Germany, leaving the day after the wedding for the United States. They first located in Bell county and later in Hamilton county, and about 42 years ago, came to McCulloch, locating on their present homestead, 8 miles from Callan, and just over the McCulloch county line in Menard county.

Her ranch home was noted everywhere for its hospitality, and many a weary wayfarer found there a haven when traveling across the country.

Funeral services were held Sunday at the late residence of the deceased, and the body was then conveyed to Menard, where the Rev. L. Karcher, preached the funeral sermon at the Lutheran church, interment being made in the Menard cemetery.

Surviving are six children: Fritz Wilhelm of Menard, Frank Wilhelm of Brady; Mrs. Annie Volkman of Menard, Mrs. Speck of Eden, Mrs. Curny Haby of Lampasas and Miss Clara Wilhelm, who made her home with her mother. All were present at the bedside of their mother when the end came.

The sympathy of a host of friends is extended those left to mourn the passing of this noble woman.

NATION-WIDE CAMPAIGN TO RAISE FUNDS FOR EUROPEAN RELIEF WORK

LYRIC THEATRE WILL GIVE TWO SHOWS SUNDAY BENEFIT OF RELIEF FUND--"SOUL OF RAPHAEL," FEATURING CLARA K. YOUNG--DONATIONS ONLY

For the first time in its history, Brady will have a picture show both Sunday afternoon and Sunday night, the afternoon performance at 3:00 and the night performance at 8:30 o'clock. "Soul of Raphael," featuring Clara Kimbell Young, will be the picture shown both afternoon and night.

In addition to donating their time and services, theatre employes and musicians will also donate to the "100%" club--city theatres giving $50, and small theatres, $25. In the larger cities, the free shows, given on Saturday morning, will be preceded by a circus parade of school children, bands and civic members.

All city taxes are due and payable at the office of the undersigned on or before Monday January 31st. Penalty and interest added after that date.

WARNING. All city taxes are due and payable at the office of the undersigned on or before Monday January 31st. Penalty and interest added after that date. W. G. JOYCE, City Secretary and Tax Collector.

BIGGEST CHICKEN FLOCK IN McCULLOCH COUNTY IN BRADY--6,000 IN BUNCH

Brady boasts of the biggest flock of chickens ever seen in McCulloch county--over 6,000 head. And it takes just 1,000 pounds--half a ton, mind you--of feed per day, to keep them a-going. At that, it is estimated that a case of eggs per day is being laid by the flock, so that kind-of makes up for the expense of up-keep.

Does it pay to advertise? Ask Mayhew Produce Co. They'll tell 'em. Advertised last week to load out a car of chickens and the response nearly swamped them. Ira Mayhew nearly worked himself to death and had to call on J. C. Mayhew and Wilson Jordan to come to his aid.

Mayhews expected to load out the car last week, but were unable to get a poultry car set out for them. They will probably load out this week. In the meantime their turkey pen, covering a quarter block of ground, is so full of chickens, one can hardly walk through it.

The big purchase is all the more surprising since there has been a steady shipment of poultry from this section all during the past year.

VERDICT IN ED LEMONS CASE SET ASIDE--J. D. BLACKBURN PLEADS GUILTY

Due to reading an old notation, The Standard reporter last week reported the case against J. D. Blackburn, charged with aggravated assault, as continued. This was an error, as Mr. Blackburn entered a plea of guilty and was fined $25 and costs.

In the case of Ed Lemons, charged with theft under $50, and who was found guilty and given a ten minute jail sentence, appeal was taken as stated last week. After hearing the appeal, the court set the verdict aside, and granted a new trial. The case was continued until next term of court.

The court Monday took up the civil docket, the case of R. F. Kiser vs. Ft. W. & R. G. Ry., suit for damages, being first on trial. There are several railroad suits on the civil docket, and it is probable that the entire week will be consumed in trying these cases, according to County Judge Evans Adkins.

HONEST INJUN.

Brownwood has city class. The grand jury there has "admitted" that a crime wave now exists in Brown county.

OPEN LETTER NO. 6.

To the Farmers of McCulloch County:
The depredations of jack rabbits in particular, and the rabbit tribe in general, has been numerously brought to the attention of The Standard editor. He has been told of whole orchards being killed by rabbits stripping the bark from the trees. He has heard recounted how the rabbits kept the oats and winter grains nibbled off down to the ground. He has been assured that there will be no garden track raised this year, if the rabbit nuisance is not abated.

Then, he has laid before him the facts and figures in regard to successful drives made here and yonder with a view of exterminating the pests. Various communities, at a considerable expense, have erected traps, and have succeeded in trapping and killing the rabbits by the hundreds. Others have organized possees and hunted down Mr. Rabbit in the open with shot guns, and report like good success.

Either method is expensive—but at the same time, the cost is a mere trifle compared with the loss the farmer will inevitably face if the rabbits are not exterminated.

The thought that occurs to us, and which has been impressed upon us, is that the efforts of these few individual communities will be set at naught, unless every community in this county, and in this section organizes and adopts like practice. Kidding the country of the rabbit pest should not only be a favorite pastime now, but should be the express duty which every citizen owes to himself and his family and his neighbors.

Shall McCulloch county make the drive against rabbits county-wide? The Standard is with you if you say the word. We are at your service insofar as organizing the communities, advertising the plans and the time, and helping keep enthusiasm up, is concerned.

At your command,

THE GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS.

Texas furnishes an inviting field for constructive legislation. Nowhere could you find a land more conducive to the building of a high and enduring civilization than where falls the light of the Lone Star. Not only is Texas a land of opportunity, but ours is a day of opportunity. Let no one throw himself across the track to block the train of progress. Obstructionists never win battles. It is the progressive dynamic leader that counts.

While only a part of the men and women of Texas elected me governor, yet as I took the oath of office a few minutes ago, I stepped beyond the narrow and selfish confines of partisan politics and became the governor of every man, woman and child who live within our broad borders. I am the chosen servant of all. Thus it is with you, the representative of the people.

The past is dead, no prejudice now should poison our purpose. No bias should warp our judgment. No personalities should sidetrack our endeavors. No ill will should cloud our vision. No petty political bickerings of the past should stifle our patriotism or divide our energies. All for all (I trust) will be the gripping thought of this administration.

We must take our heads out of the clouds, in public and in private thinking, place our feet on the solid soil and by honest dealing, plain living and becoming industry, give to the people of Texas the most efficient, economically administered government she has ever had in all her splendid history.

Texas cannot live alone. The nations of earth are inter-dependent. The people of the world are all neighbors. The human race is passing through a period of transition. The old foundations of civilization have been dynamited. These are testing times. Big problems confront us.—Excerpts from Governor Neff's Inaugural Address.

A FLOWERETTE FOR BLANTON.

Congressman Blanton of Texas proved himself useful again the other day. An effort was under way to raise the salaries of congressmen and senators from $7,500 to $10,000. Blanton made a point of order that blocked the game of the treasury raiders, for which the people in general tender him sincere thanks.—Honey Grove Signal.

WHAT THE EDITOR GETS.

A child is born in the neighborhood, the editor gives the loud-lunged youngster and the happy parents a send-off and gets $9.00. It is christened and the minister gets $5 and the editor gets $9.00. The editor blushes and tells a dozen lies about the beautiful and accomplished bride. The minister gets $10 and a piece of cake and the editor gets $9.00. In the course of time she dies, the doctor gets from $15 to $100, the minister gets perhaps another $5, the undertaker gets from $75 to $200, the editor prints an obituary two columns long and a card of thanks and gets $9.00. No wonder so many country editors get rich. Have you paid your subscription?—Gibsonburg Derrick, Ohio.

A fond mother called her little son to her side and said: "Now, son, when you grow up, mother doesn't ever want to hear of you doing anything cruel; you must always be kind and gentle, and you must never shoot craps, for you should remember that the lives of the dear little craps are as dear to them as your life is to you." After all, shooting craps is an innocent pastime compared to that of shooting postal clerks.—Fort Worth Record.

Colonel James H. Lowry of the Honey Grove Signal is responsible for this one: "A Dallas judge declares that the auto speed fiends of Dallas should be shot. We have watched the capers of these fiends several times and give it as our opinion that many of them are already more than half shot." Colonel Lowry is reminded that Texas is a bone-dry state, that hop-heads are barred from purchasing narcotics, and that Dr. Aticus Webb and his men are on the job from nightfall until dewy morn.—Fort Worth Record.

Lenine has almost succeeded in destroying bourgeois money in Russia, for the ruble is now worth in our money less than one-half of a cent. In the wicked old capitalistic days it was worth 5 1/2 cents.—Springfield Republican.

As wild as we are for disarmament, we hope nobody thinks we are fool enough to believe that the world has fought its last war. If the treaty of Versailles hasn't left a burden of unfinished business behind, we are as blind as a brickbat.—Houston Post.

REMEMBER 1914?

"Have you forgotten 1914?" asked Clarence Ousley in addressing the farmers of San Augustine county Saturday. "In 1914 we were facing a world war; today we are facing a world peace. Therefore, there is more hope." It is a timely thought. Mr. Ousley told the farmers that he did not appear before them to give them an easy way out of their difficulties, but that he hoped to aid them to arrive at a solution of some of their problems. In giving them this thought he sounded the right keynote encouraging to point out to a man in distress that things might be worse. But the big thing is that we can be certain that things will be better. For, after all, it is cause for gratification that the world war is behind us, and that what we are facing now is the resumption of world peace. In 1914 men had set out upon a career of destruction, and no man could tell where it would end. Now men are setting out upon a career of building. The fact that for the most part it is "rebuilding" does not change the essential character of the future before us. No matter how hard the task ahead and no matter what courage and energy it will require, it is a task of rehabilitation and of progress.

The farmer who has seen the product of his labor swept away by the sharp decline in prices is in the midst of a very difficult situation. But at least he can look to a future in which courage and industry will bring their rewards. It is no consolation to contemplate it, perhaps, but it is a fact that most of us are in the same boat, and that the influences which affected the farmers' prosperity affected that of nearly everybody else. The bulk of men in the United States today are in the midst of a period of difficulty and embarrassment. But they face a future of hope. It is a good thing in this hour to "remember 1914." For in 1914 we faced a world tragedy. Today we face the task of rebuilding the world.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

American Legion Program.

This is the legislative program of the American Legion:
That Armistice day, Nov. 11, be made a legal holiday each year in Texas.

That $2,000,000 be provided for the erection of the state building at Austin as a memorial to those who lost their lives in the service of the United States during the world war.

The erection of an educational loan fund to enable ex-soldiers and their children to complete their education.

A provision that only fully naturalized or native-born citizens of the United States may vote in Texas.

Laws to prevent Japanese or other non-assimilable races from buying or leasing land in Texas.

Legalizing of boxing exhibitions held under the auspices of local posts of the American Legion.

Creation of a state commission to supervise indoor games and other innocent sports and amusements.

This is the legislative committee: Guy O. Shirey of Fort Worth, John W. Young of Austin, Charles W. Scruggs of Dallas, Lidsley Blakney of Houston, Rev. W. A. Hamlett of Austin, Frank Culver Jr. of Fort Worth, Manor Hecker of Galveston, F. M. Fitzpatrick of Waco and G. Clarence Smith of Clarksville.

WEAK; RUN-DOWN

Carolina Lady Got So She Could Just Drag.—"Cardui Built Me Up," She Declares.

Kernersville, N. C.—In an interesting statement regarding Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, Mrs. Wesley Mah, of near here, recently said: "I have known Cardui for years, but never knew its worth until a year or so ago. I was in a weakened, run-down condition. I became draggy—didn't eat or sleep to do any good; couldn't do anything without a great effort. I tried different remedies and medicines, yet I continued to drag. I decided to give Cardui a trial, and found it was just what I really needed. It made me feel much stronger soon after I began to use it. I began to eat more, and the nervous, weak feeling began to leave. Soon I was sleeping good. "Cardui built me up as no other tonic ever did. "I used Cardui with one daughter who was puny, felt bad and tired out all the time. It brought her right out, and soon she was as well as a girl could be. We think there is nothing like Cardui." Do not allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. You may find it just what you really need. For more than 40 years it has been used by thousands and thousands, and found just as Mrs. Mah describes it at our drug store.

COAL CO. FOREMAN TELLS OF TROUBLE

Suffered Seven Years—Gains Twenty-Two Pounds After Taking Tanlac.

"I wasn't much surprised when I got on the scales the other day and found that I had gained twenty-two pounds in weight, for I have been eating like a wolf and picking up rapidly ever since I finished my first bottle of Tanlac," said George Colton, 1114 E. 21st St., Kansas City, Mo., foreman for one of the large coal companies in Kansas City. "My wife and I both tested Tanlac," he continued, "and it has helped us so much that we want everybody to know about it. My kidneys had been bothering me for seven years or more and there were fearful pains in the small of my back. My kidneys disturbed me so often at night that I could get very little sleep and I was in such a badly run-down condition that I was forced to stay away from my work for days at a time. My appetite was poor and I could not eat anything but what would sour and cause the worst kind of pains in the pit of my stomach. I lost weight, had dizzy spells and headaches. "My wife had been suffering for a long time from very much the same kind of troubles, and after seeing how Tanlac was building her up I began taking it myself. In just a few weeks after she began taking Tanlac she was feeling like a new woman and had gained ten pounds in weight. By the time my first bottle was gone I was feeling like a different man. I am a well man now and haven't a pain of any kind. My kidneys never bother me any more and my appetite couldn't be better. I never miss a day from my work now and there's nothing too good for my wife and myself to say for Tanlac. Tanlac is sold in Brady by Trigg Drug Co., in Mercury by J. T. Matlock, in Rochelle by C. W. Carr, and by leading druggists everywhere.

With the Help of His Friends

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

Jack Henton emerged from the tent and threw himself down on the pine needles beside Tom. "Where's Court?" he asked. "Chasing a skirt!" Tom's voice held utter disgust. "It's the limit. Here we fellows come up here on a camping trip and the first thing Court does is to fall for a pretty face staying over at the hotel. It's playing the deuce with our plans."

"Righto," returned Jack, chucking a pine cone into the lake. "Per schedule, we should now be catching black bass on Lost Loon pond." "The funny part of it is," mused Tom, "the lady in question turns an iceberg shoulder on Court. I happened over on the steamer dock and take it from me, she has no use for him."

Jack sat up quickly. "All the more reason that we should nip it in the bud before he's smitten beyond hope." "Listen here, boy. What's the first thing a man objects to in a pretty woman?"

"Her belonging to somebody else!" replied Tom promptly. "Prezactly, old top. Same with a woman. She wants to think she's the first and only. Now hark to my little scheme. You put Court wise—don't tell him how you get the information, that isn't necessary—to the fact that the beautiful girl is engaged. Get it? Engaged. Only it would spoil her good times up here if the men got wise. For my end of it, I'll hint to Miss Willis that Court is not what he seems, that he has never got over a youthful love affair. Still loves the fair hand that gave him the mitten. Get me?"

"I get you," said Tom, "but why do you draw the pleasant end of it? And how," he continued suspiciously, "do you know her name, and how can you manage a conversation with her?" "Well," said Jack, slightly embarrassed, "I happen to have met the girl she's staying with, Sally Dalton. Our canoes bumped and—oh, I'll manage all right. Only, for the love of Pete, let's be speedy about it or we'll be too late with our assistance!"

Few schemers find their opportunities lying so neatly in wait as did Tom and Jack when they paddled over to the hotel that evening, apparently lured by the seductive strains of the three-piece orchestra playing for the weekly hop. First they spied Court leaning against a veranda pillar, gazing morosely at a thin young moon. Then on the lawn they descried Miriam Willis in the midst of a little group of men.

"Beat it, Tom," cried Jack, "over to Court, and so long as you're in it at all, go in strong. I'll wait my chance with Miss Willis." Twenty minutes later, Tom had succeeded in reaching the point he desired in his conversation with Court. "She's some looker!" he was saying diplomatically. Then he set off his bomb. "Her fiance is a lucky man!"

Even in the darkness Tom could feel Court's piercing glance. "Miss Willis—engaged?"

"Oh, years and years—three years!" Tom threw it off casually. Then, goaded by Court's silence, he elaborated. "She's keeping it dark up here for various reasons—but she's really absolutely infatuated with him."

"Look here, old chap"—Court's voice sounded strangely broken—"did she—she didn't get you to tell me all this?"

"No—oh, no." Tom retreated in alarm. "Only—it seemed as if you ought to know."

Tom felt Court's hand gripping his shoulder. "Thanks, Tom," he said. "You've been a genuine friend." Then Tom found himself alone.

Tom gazed after him doubtfully. Interfering with love's young dream—by George, he didn't know about it. Then his spirits rose. Tomorrow at this time their tents would be pitched on Lost Loon pond.

Meanwhile Jack, after a series of successful maneuvers which afterward he recalled with pride, succeeded in rounding up Sally Dalton, having a dance with her, getting an introduction to Miriam Willis, suggesting to the latter that they sit out a dance on the veranda.

Then, after a few remarks on the beauty of the night and the numerosness of the stars, Jack adroitly introduced the subject of Court. "Poor Court!" he said, "he tries so hard to enjoy himself. That affair a few years ago. He's never got over it!"

"Indeed! How interesting!" and Miriam's cool voice was more than merely polite. "Do tell me about it."

"Well, it—er—seems the girl jilted him. But he never stopped loving her. Says he never will. Unusual, isn't it?"

"Very!" returned Miriam dryly, as one who wishes to imply that her experience with men has been far otherwise. "Does he know you are telling me this?"

"Oh, no!" and Jack's voice was shocked. "He's very sensitive about it—never has mentioned her name. He simply goes to pieces whenever he speaks of it."

Miss Willis seemed to have lost interest and was drawing her scarf about her shoulders. "These August nights," she murmured, "are so chilly. I believe I will go in."

and the veranda and walks were slowly emptying. "All over, boy," chuckled Tom. "And no more skirts in our! Heigho, a start at dawn for Lost Loon pond. Can't you feel that three-pounder on your— Hist, Jack, what's that!"

What was it indeed? Silhouetted against the whiteness of the boat-house by the landing stood a familiar figure—and in his arms a girl.

Tom and Jack stopped short in their tracks and before they recovered from their astonishment snatches of conversation not intended for anyone's over-hearing came to their ears.

"My darling girl, to think we let a silly quarrel spoil our happiness! And you have considered yourself engaged to me just the same ever since!"

"But how did you know, Court?"

"Tom told me. Very decent of him. I never let on that I chose this lake because I had heard you were to be here! And until tonight you wouldn't even speak to me!"

"But I couldn't believe you were in earnest. Why, we owe everything to those two dear boys. When I heard how faithful you had been—oh, Court, if it hadn't been for them I should have gone away in the morning and never have known! But now—"

At this point Tom and Jack succeeded in backstepping to the veranda step, where they sat down weakly.

"She was here on purpose!"

"If it hadn't been for us!"

"Next time Court starts on a camping trip and suggests the place—"

"Next time Court starts on a trip, old boy," interrupted Jack, "we won't be going along. You'll be throwing old shoes and rice, while I—!" Jack paused and gazed thoughtfully at the stars.

"Yes, you, go on. What will you be doing?" egged on Tom, gleefully.

"I'll be consulting the maid of honor," finished Jack cheerfully.

Rats Exhibit Intelligence in Many Ways—How They Sometimes Obtain Food Supplies.

Rats are well known to be highly intelligent animals, although to the one unfamiliar with their customs this may seem due to their wariness in regard to traps and their boldness and courage in combat. Besides these traits, many others have been noted. Stories are told of ship rats that, while gnawing through the woodwork of a ship, always stop before they completely perforate the side.

The manner in which they transport eggs to their burrows is most surprising, says the New York Times. Rod well, in his book, "The Rat," gives a case in which a number of eggs were carried from the top of a house to the bottom by two rats devoting themselves to each egg, and alternately passing it down to each other at every step of the staircase. Rats will not only convey eggs from the top of the house to the bottom, but also from bottom to top. The male rat places himself on his forepaws, with his head downward, and raising up his hind legs and catching the egg between them pushes it up to the female, who stands on the step above, and secures it with her forepaws till he jumps up to her, and this process is repeated from step to step till the top is reached.

A writer in the Quarterly Review describes an instance aboard ship where in eggs were continually being stolen from the storeroom. Having laid in a fresh stock of eggs, the captain sat down in a position that commanded a view of the eggs and waited. Before long, to his great astonishment, he saw a number of rats approach, form a line from his egg baskets to their hole and hand the eggs from one to another in their fore paws.

Their long, narrow tails may seem of no use to many people, but they have proved very valuable in procuring food. Rats have been known to help themselves to oil by holding on to some convenient support by the side of the boiler and then dipping their tails into the oil and pass it to others.

Treasure for Aquarium.

There was added not long ago to the aquarium at Calcutta a gigantic crab, about two feet in diameter across its shell and having legs three feet long, which had been captured in a drug net in the Indian ocean about a mile from the shore and at a depth of 45 fathoms. After being placed in a large tank it devoured the fish and smaller crustaceans that were its fellow prisoners, and later in the evening surprised its keepers and visitors by emitting a white phosphorescent light, strangely illuminating the gloomy corner where it had concealed itself between two rocks.

Pacific Gulf Stream.

The Pacific has its own "gulf stream," which is called the Japan current, and it is formed in the same way. The trade winds, blowing from the tropics, bank up the warmed ocean waters in the Yellow sea (corresponding to our Gulf of Mexico), and thence they pour out between Japan and Formosa, the stream thus formed passing south of the Aleutian chain, along the southern coast of Alaska, and down the west coast of North America. Hence it comes about that the whole southern coast of Alaska has a temperate climate. It is warmed by the Japan current.

After Something New.

When his mother told Jimmie that it was time to get ready for Sunday school, the four-year-old rascal said: "I am not going to Sunday school any more. I know all about it and I am going out to the garage with father and learn to be a garage man."

8-YEAR OLD LAD, SON OF MR. AND MRS. C.D. MONTGOMERY, CRUSHED TO DEATH

LARGE CROWD SEES TERRIBLE TRAGEDY ON MAIN BUSINESS CORNER OF BRADY SATURDAY EVENING—BOY KNOCKED BENEATH AUTO—DIES SUNDAY.

One of Brady's most distressing accidents occurred about 5:00 o'clock Saturday evening at the corner of the Brady National bank, when an 8-year old lad, Lewis Montgomery, was crushed to death beneath the wheels of an automobile driven by S. V. Brandon, late of Ballinger, Texas. The accident occurred in plain view of a large crowd of Saturday afternoon shoppers, who stood aghast at the accident they were powerless to prevent. When those closest at hand rushed to the scene and tenderly picked up the limp form, the boy was still alive, but it was seen that the angel of death lurked not far distant. Dr. B. L. Craddock, who was one of the first to reach the body, picked the boy up and carried him to the walk, and Dr. J. B. Granville, who was close at hand, rushed him to the local sanitarium. An X-Ray was taken of his injuries, and showed a fractured skull. Although the lad rallied, he never regained consciousness, and the slender thread that bound him to this life was snapped in twain by the death angel Sunday morning, shortly after 5:00 o'clock.

While there was a large crowd in the immediate vicinity, few appear to have witnessed the accident entirely, and reports, consequently vary. The account most credited is that the little fellow, who would have been only 8 years old in March, was crossing the street along with other passersby, and just as the car reached the crossing he suddenly stepped back just in front of the car. Mr. Brandon, himself, was driving, and his view to the left was partially obstructed by a side curtain. However, Mrs. Brandon, who also occupied the front seat of the car, saw the lad's danger and screamed just before the car struck the body. Her scream attracted the attention of bystanders, but by that time the car had already passed over.

All are agreed that the car was running at a very moderate speed, and this is further evidenced by the fact that the heavy automobile, a Willys-Knight, was brought to a stand-still within a car's length.

The lad came to town Saturday afternoon in company of a 17-year old relative, and while the latter was shopping, strayed away from her care. Supposing that he had gone on home, the young lady returned home without him. For this reason, coupled with the fact that the family had only recently moved to town, it was an hour or more after the accident before the identity of the lad was learned.

The boys parents live on the southern extension of Blackburn street, his mother being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stroppe of the Fairview community. The family has been living the past year on the Nichols place north

BROWNWOOD HAS BURGLARY; FRISCO SAFE IS BLOWN AND ABOUT $275.00 CASH TAKEN

The office of the Frisco passenger station was entered by robbers at an early hour this (Monday) morning, the large safe being blown open and about $275 in money taken. Several hundred dollars was left in the safe within easy reach of the robbers who apparently hurried away without completing their job.

The watchman at the plant of the Brownwood Cotton Oil Mill stated that the safe was blown about 3 o'clock this morning. The noise alarmed him and on going out to ascertain the cause he saw two men hastily leave the Frisco office, enter a car that stood some distance away and drive away at a high rate of speed. The alarm was at once turned in and within twenty minutes after the explosion Sheriff Pugh and Deputy Sheriff Bert Hise were on the scene.

STATE SCHOOL INSPECTOR COMMENDS THE LOST CREEK SCHOOL FOR GOOD SHOWING

On the 17th inst. S. E. Clark, state school inspector for this part of the state, accompanied by W. M. Deans, school superintendent of McCulloch county, visited the Lost Creek school. After making a careful inspection of house and grounds, and everything connected with the school, Mr. Clark said: "Well there is nothing left the State Department of Education but to hand over the $910 promised the Lost Creek school, as it is right up to the minute on everything the state department has required of it."

All of which we fully appreciate, and we thank the state department for its generosity towards us, and Mr. Clark for his kindly comments and favorable passing, and also Mr. Deans for his promptness in getting our claims before the State Department of Education.

SOCIAL ITEMS.

B. H. S. Dramatic Club Party. Misses Florence Smith and Zenda Aschbacher entertained the B. H. S. Dramatic club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Bates on Friday night. A short program, games and various other amusements were enjoyed. Refreshments of jello and sandwiches were served.

Those present were Mrs. W. B. Anderson; Misses Blessing, Cherry, Davis, Marjorie McCall, Estella Jones, Kathryn Ballou, Edith McShan, Arvie Wegner, Gertrude Trigg, Mabel Strickland, Florence Smith, Zenda Aschbacher; Messrs. Glenn Ricks, Royston Taylor, Ace McShan, Harvey Blanton, Richard Davis, Arthur Awalt, Webb Craddock.

Harvey-Glenn.

A wedding of interest to a host of Brady friends and admirers was quietly solemnized Tuesday afternoon, January 18th, at Brownwood, when Miss Jackie Harvey became the bride of Mr. Jesse Glenn. The ceremony was read by the Rev. R. R. Rives of Brownwood at the Presbyterian parsonage in that city. Miss Orene Evans of Brady, niece of the bride, was the only attendant, besides the family of the minister officiating.

After spending a few days with relatives in Brownwood, the happy couple returned to Brady Thursday evening, and were showered with congratulations and best wishes by relatives and friends.

Mr. Glenn is a Brady boy, and enjoys the confidence and esteem of all. Having spent practically all his life here, his acquaintance extends all over this immediate section, and his many friends are rejoiced to learn that he has won for his bride so charming and attractive a young lady. Mrs. Glenn is the youngest daughter of L. F. Harvey, for many years a resident of Brady, and is popular with old and young alike. Her sweet disposition and many womanly qualities make her a most fitting companion for the man of her choice.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn will engage in ranching on the Glenn farm, being located three miles from town on the Mason road for the present. It is Mr. Glenn's intention, however, to build a modern bungalow on his own farm on the London road, where he and his bride expect to make their permanent residence. May every happiness be theirs, is the wish of all their friends.

A Tribute to Woman.

It takes a hundred men to make an encampment, but one woman can make a home. I not only admire woman as the most beautiful object ever created, but I reverence her as the redeeming glory of humanity, the sanctuary of all the virtues, the pledge of all perfect qualities of heart and head. It is not just nor right to lay sins of men at the feet of a woman. It is because women are so much better than men that their faults are considered greater. A man's desire is the foundation of love, but a woman's desire is born of her love. The one thing in this world that is constant, the one peak that rises above all clouds the one window in which the light forever burns, the star that darkness cannot quench, is woman's love. It rises to the greatest heights and sinks to the lowest depths. It forgives the most cruel injuries. It is perennial of life and grows in every climate. Neither coldness and neglect, harshness nor cruelty, can extinguish it. A woman's love is the perfume of the heart. This is the real love that subdues the earth; the love that has wrought all miracles of art, that gives us muscle all the way from the cradle song to the grand closing symphony that bears the soul away on wings of fire. A love that is greater than power, sweeter than life and stronger than death.—Robert Ingersoll.

WILD MAN AND WIFE HE CAUGHT IN BEAR TRAP 23 YEARS AGO, IS DRIVEN FROM MISSISSIPPI SWAMP

Laurel, Miss., Jan. 22.—Authorities today were conducting investigations in an effort to ascertain whether the two-year-old child found with Albert Farson, 74-year-old "wild man" and an apparently demented woman who he said was his wife, had been kidnapped.

The trio, almost naked when found yesterday in a remote section of the Leaf river bottom, were fed, clothed and placed in the county poor house at Ellisville. Their finding cleared up frequent reports of a "wild man" inhabiting the woods.

Parson, in good physical condition despite his age and the hardships of his life, told county authorities today he was in possession of homestead rights to property adjoining the ramshackle cabin which has been the home of the couple for years. The child he declined to discuss.

The woman, he said, he captured in a bear trap 23 years ago and made her his wife. Although incoherent in her statements, the woman stated she thought she was about 50 years old and remembered having been in a fight with a wildcat some time ago. One of her eyes was put out and her body badly scarred. When found the man's clothes were in tatters, the woman wore but a single torn garment and the child, a girl, was naked.

Parson was aided in his primitive farming by a blind horse, which he said he captured. He was plowing a sedge field yesterday when found. High water drove the trio from their habitation close to the river and, according to Parson, brought them for the first time in years close enough to civilization to enable them to be taken.

In the meantime authorities announced they were making efforts to learn the identity of the child and how the couple came in her possession. The baby stares with wide eyes at unaccustomed sights and shrinks like an unnamed animal from kindly hands. Plump, apparently well nourished and active, the baby shows no effects of hardships such as have scarred her "guardians."

SHOW AND BOXING EXHIBITION MAKE BIG HIT WITH ALL

Bailey Jones, referee, was knocked out in the second round of the preliminary bout. That sums up one of the main features of last Saturday night's show and boxing exhibition, according to many witnesses.

That the event gave entire satisfaction, there can be no doubt, as everyone who attended has words of commendation. Henry Hamilton, colored, was a feature attraction, and in singing, dancing and boxing—all three—he covered himself with glory and incidentally maintained both his breath and his equisopise. Hamilton began the show singing a series of Negro "Blues," much to the gratification of all present. Next he fought a 4-round preliminary with Andrew Jackson, also colored, in which all sham was missing. The two slammed each other about, hit and clinched with an abandon that was stimulating to say the least. The first round lasted two minutes, the second round three minutes, and the third round four and a half minutes, so interested was the time-keeper in the slug fest that he failed to note the flight of the minutes. It was in the second round of the bout that the fighters all but laid Referee Jones out for the count.

Following the fight Hamilton regained his breath and composure in time to do some buck and wing dancing that left no room for other than praise.

The big feature was the exhibition boxing between Ivan Williams of England, bantam weight champion of Battle Creek, Mich., and Johnny Walters, bantam weight champion of A. & M. college. Never has a cleaner, classier, faster and more scientific exhibition of the great sport been staged here. The men fought eight rounds without decision, and throughout the pace was fast and furious. It appears the general verdict that Williams had a little the better of his opponent in the matter of being able to deliver punches, but Walters was all to the good in clever and scientific knowledge of the game, and by his cleverness, avoided any punishment of a serious nature.

Walters was going good at the end of the 8th round, and was fresh and in good form. In fact, so confident was he of his ability to make a better showing than the slugging Englishman, that he and his backers are now endeavoring to arrange a 12-round fight, in which he expects to enter in first-class form, and show the real battler that he is.

There was a large crowd in attendance, and, as before stated, everyone enjoyed the whole affair and feel well repaid for having attended.

WILL DIG UNDER MUSTY CELLAR IN PARIS FOR LONG- BURIED GOLD TREASURE

Paris, Jan. 17.—Deep under the dusty cellar of a fifteenth century building, bearing No. 15 Rue Pavoo, a vast gold treasure may be discovered if the Paris courts give the present owner the right to explore and the past owners relinquish their legal rights to any wealth which may be unearthed. The application for permission to explore is now pending before three special experts, appointed by the Seine Tribunal, and it is hoped to commence work before spring.

So confident is the present owner that the tradition is reliable that he has made available a good round sum of money necessary for structural supports to prevent the collapse of the age-worn building.

No one knows just when the gold, estimated to represent a fortune of as much as 5,000,000 francs, as well as great quantities of gold plate and jewels, actually were buried. Some say it was during the religious wars in the latter part of the Sixteenth century. Others whose family records do not reach back so far are inclined to believe the fantastic tale had its origin during the revolution.

Still another theory is that Charles de Savoisy, banished from France in 1404 by Charles VI, buried the fortune there and escaped. When the King heard of De Savoisy's escape he ordered his house destroyed. In later years De Savoisy captured a rich Saracen expedition and regained the King's favor, whereupon he was allowed to return to Paris, but he could never get permission to rebuild his house. It was not until 1817 that his heirs reconstructed the place, but the De Savoisy family records do not mention anything about a fortune having been hidden there. In recent years the place has been remodeled for commercial purposes, a drug store having for many years done a thriving business on the scene of such historical incidents.

J. H. Hill orders The Standard sent to his daughter, Miss Dayste, who is attending Crescent college at Eureka Springs, Ark.

W. L. Joyce is here from Fort Worth for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Joyce, incident to attending court here. Accompanying Mr. Joyce here are Ed R. Henry and Bob Lockett, all three being employed with the Fort Worth Belt and Stockyards. Attorneys Weich and Short of Fort Worth are also members of the party, all of whom are interested in, or connected with, the Kiser railway suit now being tried in county court.

Mrs. Wm. Bauhof left Sunday night for Dallas market where she will spend several weeks at millinery headquarters investigating the new styles in ladies' chapeaux, and making her selection of spring millinery. Mrs. Bauhof announces that she will have her stock ready for display by the middle of February, and will have her millinery parlor upstairs at the C. H. Vincent store, where she will be pleased to see old and new patrons and friends, and show them her new lines of hats.

J. E. Bell, who came here last week from Austin, is superintending the rebuilding of the porch fronting the Queen hotel, work on which was begun yesterday morning. In addition to reflooring the porch, the supports are being rebuilt, making it as substantial as when new. The porch not only fronts Mr. Bell's property, the Queen hotel proper, but also Polk's barber shop and Central drug store, the second stories of which are used by the Queen hotel for roomers. The porch is accessible to all upstairs rooms, and is a favorite lounging place in the summer months.

A spell of cloudy weather brought a slow drizzling rain Monday morning, which promised to give McCulloch county a good soaking. Heavy clouds in the northwest indicated rain prospects, but proved to be a norther instead, which put a stop to the rain before it had much more than moistened the surface of the earth. At Cat, the norther was welcome, as it will have a tendency to retard the fruit blooms; numbers of the peach trees being just ready to bud out. A return of bright sunny weather this morning indicates another spell of pretty weather, although the effects of the norther are still to be felt.

Leslie Allen, former Bradyite, was a business visitor here from Junction Monday, and reported that he had disposed of his garage interests in that city, and with his father, W. M. Allen, also formerly of Brady, was preparing to engage in the grocery business there. The elder Mr. Allen has been engaged in the produce business since last fall, and while he started late in the season, he enjoyed a splendid business. This line they will continue in connection with their grocery. W. M. Allen has purchased a very desirable business location, and both he and his father have also bought residences in Junction, so they appear not only permanently located there, but expect to identify themselves with the best interests of Junction business and social life. All their many Brady and McCulloch county friends join in wishing them every success in their endeavors.
