BRADY IS ENJOYING AN EXTENSIVE BUILDING AND IMPROVEMENT PERIOD

EVERY SECTION OF CITY SEEING BUILDING AND IMPROVEMENTS IN PROGRESS—CARPENTERS ARE ALL BUSY AND REPORT BUSINESS OUTLOOK SPLENDID.

While, with the exception of one or two projects, there is nothing of large proportion in the way of building or improvement now under way, yet there is considerable new work being done in all parts of the city...

Among the improvements in the business section, most noteworthy are the improvements in Dutton park, which are now well under way.

In the residential district, A. B. Stobaugh has recently completed a commodious addition to his residence, and A. B. Carrithers, in the same neighborhood, is now having a new addition built to his home.

The improvement of Dutton City park is now progressing rapidly, practically all the material, with the exception of boarding for the fence, being at hand.

grand stand, bleachers of ample size will be constructed in like substantial fashion. Parking spaces for automobiles will be arranged at either side of the grand stand and bleachers.

Improvements are now under way at the Ford garage, which will make this one of the most attractive garages in West Texas.

Adjoining these buildings on the south, Lee Morgan plans to erect at once a modern office, fronting the carpenter work shop just completed by him.

A. B. Stobaugh has recently had completed a most commodious and comfortable addition to his home in South Brady.

Lee Morgan is now in charge of the building of an addition to the A. B. Carrithers home, and which will give two added bedrooms with south exposure, to Mr. Carrithers' already comfortable residence.

E. M. Womack has materially improved and added to the attractiveness of his South Brady home. Mr. Womack had the original structure entirely remodeled, new weatherboarding being placed throughout.

B. A. Hallum Residence. B. A. Hallum also has become infected with the building fever, and has employed A. H. Conner to build for him a 2-story sleeping porch.

N. H. Rogers Residence. N. H. Rogers is now laying the foundation for a new home to be occupied by himself and family.

W. H. Ballou Residence. W. H. Ballou has just had completed a 14x30 windowed sleeping room on the east side of his north side residence.

M'CULLOCH COUNTY REAL ESTATE ACTIVE—MORE HOME OWNERS HERE

BRADY RESIDENT PROPERTY IN DEMAND AND DESIRABLE PROPERTY IS BEING SOUGHT BY CITIZENS—COUNTY REALTY TRANSFERS SHOW DEMAND.

As will be noted from the list of real estate transfers in another column of this paper, McCulloch county real estate continues to change hands steadily, and almost invariably the transfer is made to permanent owners.

Notable in the list of recent purchasers of Brady resident property is E. T. Stobaugh, who has purchased from Carroll Gray the latter's residence on North Bridge street.

J. B. Baker is another Brady citizen, who has decided Brady is a good place to call home. Mr. Baker established himself here last fall in the tailoring business, moving his family to Brady from Santa Anna.

Dan Cottrell, who returned to Brady some months ago, after spending a year or two in other sections of Texas, is another to be added to Brady's list of permanent citizens.

An announcement of great importance to the citizens of Brady is that of the meeting to be held here on May 5th, at which the matter of the Frisco extension to the border will be under consideration.

MEETING IN BRADY MAY 5 TO CONSIDER EXTENSION OF FRISCO TO BORDER

DISTRICT MANAGER OF WEST TEXAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CALLS MEETING TO PLAN DEL RIO EXTENSION—FOUR ROUTES ARE NOW PROJECTED.

Brady citizens should begin at once to plan for the entertainment of delegates who will meet here upon that occasion, and who will be assembled here from all points along the Frisco route from St. Louis to Brady.

A meeting of all towns interested in the extension of the Frisco railroad has been called at Brady, May 5th. Much interest has been developed in the extension of this road to the border and it is hoped at the meeting to get concerted action.

Brady citizens should begin at once to plan for the entertainment of delegates who will meet here upon that occasion, and who will be assembled here from all points along the Frisco route from St. Louis to Brady.

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Jack Wesson, federal revenue officer acting in Kentucky, pulled in his mare and coolly surveyed the heights in front of him. The trail, which wound sluggishly through the defile, disappeared into the heart of the forest, to reappear, a sinuous, winding ribbon, along the flank of the crest. There was no sign of human habitation in that rugged and abandoned land.

Yet somewhere on the mountain was the cabin of the Winters men, "moonshiners" and outlaws. And for the arrest of Charlie Winters, the youngest, Wesson held a warrant. He had set forth to bring him into Coonville. Others had held warrants, too; but Wesson, newly appointed to his post, was more reckless than they, and he had dared to ride alone into the heart of the Winters stronghold.

He reined in suddenly, for his quick eyes had caught a glimmering flash from the peak in front of him.

His weapon in his hand, Wesson leaped forward, scaled the boulders on the summit, and appeared before the door. Upon the threshold, a rifle in his hands, stood a young man. His back was turned and he was attempting to eject a stuck cartridge.

"Hands up!" yelled Wesson.

The man started, stared at him for an instant, and then, with a sudden dash, leaped across the cabin, gained the rear entrance and was away and running like a deer. Wesson followed him. He was certain that this was Charlie Winters, whose appearance had been particularly impressed upon him by his superior officer when he started on his mission.

"Looks like his sister," he had said. "You've seen that Winters girl down at the Bridge? Image! Don't go arresting a day club instead of him," he had said Tuesday.

Charlie had only recently returned from Mrs. Winters' unknown, to resume his "moonshining" operations, which had been broken up by the authorities some time before. The rest of the family was hiding somewhere across the Tennessee boundary; Charlie alone had ventured back to the cabin on the mountain.

His revolver in his hand, the young officer followed the fugitive. But, though in the pink of condition, he could not lessen the distance between himself and the young mountaineer. His hope, however, was in his superior staying powers.

But just where the crest dipped down into the valley below, the fugitive flung himself panting upon the ground, and, as Jack Wesson ran forward, held up a hand and called:

"Stop! You can't come nearer!"

Wesson did stop, from sheer surprise. For this voice was a distinct and clear woman's voice, and, as he looked, he saw a strand of long, silken dark hair floating freely from below the old slouch hat.

"Miss Helen!" he gasped.

The girl sat up and laughed. "Yes, I'm Miss Helen," she said. "I reckon it's Charlie you're after."

"Where is Charlie?" he demanded, savagely, standing over her. He had often seen her in Coonville, this dark-haired and blue-eyed mountain girl, of that perfection of type which flourishes, as in its native soil, in the Kentucky hills. The sight of her, flushed with her race, her eyes alight with triumph, set his heart furiously beating, and mingled with this new emotion, was one of anger and shame at having been outwitted.

"Charlie?" she drawled. "Oh, Charlie was in the woodshed when you came up. I reckon you won't find him now, though. Charlie is a swift runner. I reckon Charlie is swifter than me, and you couldn't catch me," she mocked.

"Then—then?" he stammered.

"Now, Mr. Wesson," said the girl, soothingly, "if it hadn't been for me you'd never have reached the mountain. Charlie had a bend on you all along the trail. You've got me to thank for saving your life by this here change of parts."

"Well, I've got you, anyway," said Wesson, sullenly.

"I reckon not," she drawled.

"Why not?"

"Because," she answered, "this is Tennessee, and I reckon your territory's Kentucky."

Wesson was dumfounded. He had forgotten the warning, carefully conveyed, that the Winters cabin was designedly perched upon the border line, and that therefore he must take his captive within the cabin itself.

"You stop right where you are," said Helen. "If you lay a finger on me I'll tell the governor of Tennessee."

A light of amusement flickered in Wesson's eyes. Deliberately he stretched out his hand, found the cool, slender fingers of the girl, and held them.

"I guess the law doesn't say anything against amicable visiting between the states, does it?" he asked.

"Well," she admitted, "if you come that way, I—I guess it doesn't."

Wesson stepped forward and planted both feet firmly upon Tennessee soil.

"Nor about—this?" he asked.

And, placing his arm round her, he drew her to him and kissed her upon the lips.

"Helen," he said, "this isn't love at first sight, for I've loved you since I first saw you in Coonville. But it comes mighty near, and if I can't get Charlie—why, I reckon I'm going to get you some day."

ROCHELLE RUMBLINGS.

Early Planting of Cotton — School Second to None in County.
Rochelle, Texas, April 4.
Editor Brady Standard:

The weather continues to be very unsettled since the Easter cold snap. No ice to amount to anything, but all gardens that were not covered, were killed. All volunteer beans, potatoes, and such like were killed to the ground. Also all corn was badly singed but of course that will come out and with no more severe cold and plenty of rain at the right time, we think we will make a bumper crop.

And just as soon as all danger of frost is over, the transplanting of sweet potato slips will begin and we are hoping for even better results and a more plentiful harvest than last year.

It seems a little early, but I hear there are some beginning to plant cotton. I suppose most of them realize the fact that the early bird catches the worm, for last season the first cotton brought a reasonable fair price, but gradually kept on the descending scale till at last it hit the bottom and really didn't only hit the bottom, but knocked the whole thing out. And I guess it is still out as the price has advanced but very little up to the present time.

I see in the papers that in the northern states fruit is all killed and the loss to owners very great which makes it bad for them and their fruit crop is the same to them as cotton and grain is to us Southern farmers. Then too, the people who have no orchards are depending on the ones that have to supply their need in this line, so the loss makes it bad on all concerned.

Mr. Humphrey, wife and son, W. J., accompanied by Mr. Baird Henderson and Frank Sellman, motored over to Mullin to visit in the home of the ladies' sister, Mrs. Tyson, whose husband, Mr. Tyson, has been quite sick for some time past and was very little better yesterday. In fact, they don't seem to entertain much hope of his recovery.

Mr. Elie Foster, wife and 3 children, from Jones county, came in on the south-bound Frisco train on Sunday morning. Both Mr. Foster and wife are McCulloch county products, but have been away in New Mexico and oil fields in different places for several years but of course, the love for the dear old county, as well as relatives and friends, stayed with them all these years and finally brought them back to the scenes of their childhood and to the old school houses, Cow Boy and Round Mountain, where they both attended the schools of that day and time. They have been away something like ten years and will find many changes and many who once greeted them, as neighbors and friends, passed on to the Great Beyond.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Williamson have just returned from an extended visit of two weeks, visiting her mother and sisters of Fort Worth and their son, Jerre and wife, of Cresson and other places too numerous to mention, and to say the very least, they had an all round good time and saw on their trip many relatives, as well as a host of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Lesley Sanson spent the noon hour with Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sellman on last Sunday, enjoying the time as well as a good dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rodgers of Deep Creek community visited his sister, Mrs. Lem Parker Sunday and found one of her sons, Alton, down with a cartharal fever and had been for 28 days though they think the boy's fever about broke. However, he has some fever each day and likely will have for several days yet.

Mr. Paul Haddow and Miss Pauline Woodford motored over to San Angelo Sunday, the 3rd and there were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at 3 p. m. and wired the message back to Rochelle of this happy event. They were accompanied on the trip by Miss Hendrickson of Sweden.

Bro. Cobern, the M. E. pastor delivered another one of his most interesting sermons last Sunday to a well filled house and also again at night. The Methodist Sunday school and also the Baptist, are taking on more interest and doing better work than for quite a while. There seems to have been a wave of spirituality swept over this community, for which we feel very grateful and hope this good work may continue and much and lasting good be done.

Our school (second to none in the county) continues its good work and on last Friday night, April Fool day, had a box supper. The proceeds of which was to help bear the expenses of the boys over to Comanche. Then on Saturday night a play pulled off by Jim fellow townsman and teacher at Pear Valley. The play was gotten up in this school, delivered there, then was brought to Rochelle and 15 per cent of the proceeds made here also went to the boys' track meet fund. Our boys and girls did so well at Brady in the exercises, winning medals, long distance races and such, that the town to encourage them in this good work, has made every effort to prepare means for this trip to the district meet. We are proud of our school and when we can do nothing more, we stand off and yell, hurrah! hurrah! for Rochellians!

"It's a mere formality, I know, sir, this asking for your daughter's hand; but we thought it would be pleasing to you if it were observed."
Helen's father stiffened. "And may I inquire," he asked, "who suggested that asking my consent to Helen's marriage was a mere formality?"
"Yes, sir," replied the young man. "It was Helen's mother."—Harper's.

RENEWED TESTIMONY.
No one in Brady who suffers back-ache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Brady man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Brady resident can doubt.
W. F. Bodenhamer, says: "Some years ago my back began to ache and often I got right down with it. My feet and ankles became swollen and my kidneys did not act as they should. These troubles came on in spells and every time I would use Doan's Kidney Pills they would relieve me. I always have Doan's Kidney Pills in the house." (Statement given April 29, 1915.)
On May 16, 1919 Mr. Bodenhamer said: "I still can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as highly as I did when I gave my former statement. They are a splendid kidney remedy. Occasionally I take a few doses and I always get the same good benefit."

PLUMBER BRINGS RELIEF TO INJURED MAN WHEN EMINENT SURGEONS FAIL

London, April 4.—Eminent surgeons in a Charing Cross hospital stood over a patient in the operating room and were completely baffled. Then they called in the plumber from the basement, rigged him out in the professional white garb of a surgeon, sterilized his hands and told him to go to work. He did. The life of the patient was saved.

The case got too much for the surgeons when they saw that they did not have tools that were strong enough. John Neal of Battersea, an engineer, was pierced from the left shoulder to the right knee by a steel rod half an inch thick. The accident is considered to be the most unique in the history of medicine here as the bar had passed right across the man's body under the skin, missing all the vital organs and all bones and projecting through the knee.

The surgeons found, however, that they could not extract the bar, so they sent for the plumber, Charles Venables, and in consultation explained the difficulty to him.

Like all good plumbers, Mr. Venables had to return for his tools, so he went to the basement and fetched an engineer's stock and die and after the necessary preliminaries he screwed the stock to the bar, got it in action and gradually drew out the long bar, while students and nurses, with a big class of interested students in the theater of the operating room looked on. The patient is progressing favorably.

Venables has been the hospital plumber sixteen years. He said he had performed many operations, but this was his first medical work. The task took him five minutes and was made more delicate than an ordinary plumbing job, due to the fact that the bar had turned after entering the body. The patient was under an anesthetic during the entire operation. When he regained consciousness and the case was explained to him he had a great laugh, calling in the plumber and promised that he had changed his mind about all plumbers.

The Up-Hill Pull

You do not think of cutting down your supply of gasoline when you come to a hill. On the contrary you give your carbureter more gas to get over the top with ease. The fellow who does not do this, is stalled on the roadside, while you are over the top and have forgotten the ones passed far behind.

The same condition confronts business—you speed your engine to increase power—advertising accelerates business. The business that neglects advertising now, is in the same position as the motorist who fails to give his car more gas at a hill.

Merchandising plans for the future will direct more attention to the dynamic forces of the business building power of advertising. More than in the past, advertising will be the determining factor in creating sales.

Not Aiding Profiteer.

The third grade was studying multiplication, and some of the children were having trouble with the tables. One boy was having an especially hard time, so his folks were helping him at home. One night they were questioning him, and his sister said: "Birch, if you were to go down to the store to buy nine apples and the grocer told you there were seven cents apiece, what would you say?" Birch answered immediately: "I'd say, 'Nothin' doin'; I won't pay it.'"

Receipt for "Jackass Brandy."

As we hear a great deal now about home brew and a number of our people are in favor of returning to the good old days when every man could make his own at home, and for the benefit of those who desire to do so we give them the following receipt which we found in an exchange this week. The man who left this receipt shot and killed himself on a lumber pile in San Francisco after calling a crowd to witness the act.

The receipt is as follows:
"Seven spoons of barbed wire, 10 pounds of chewing tobacco, one sack of tulle roots, one can blasting powder, five gallons of river water. Mix all together and cool for nine days and nights. Set on ice and cool while you dig your grave. Then take one drink and go for the hole. You will not need a covering. The jackass will cremate you."—Exchange.
