M'CULLOCH SALVATION ARMY QUOTA ASSURED

A meeting of McCulloch County Army Salvation Advisory board was held last Friday morning, J. A. Holton, chairman of the Finance committee in charge, and with the following members in attendance:

E. J. Adkins, M. S. Sellers, C. H. Vincent, C. A. Trigg, A. B. Carrithers, H. F. Schwenker and W. I. Myers.

After a brief discussion of the matter, in which great interest was aroused by reason of the fact that the first county raising its quota was to receive a page of illustrated write-up in a Sunday edition of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, this generous offer having voluntarily been made by that paper, it was decided to divide Brady into four sections, allotting each section to part of the finance committee present, with instructions to raise McCulloch county's quota of $500 and have the money in the bank by noon.

That the committee did their work thoroughly and well was evidenced by the fact that by noon over $400 had been collected and placed on deposit. A call was thereupon sent out to a number of McCulloch county towns, asking that they join in the campaign and use their best efforts to put the McCulloch county fund over the top, with the result that within the course of an hour, Melvin phoned that she had raised $30.00. This left but a small sum to be raised by the remaining towns in the county, which amount was personally guaranteed by Messrs. Holton and Trigg, in order that a wire might be sent to Salvation Army headquarters that McCulloch county had gone over the top with her quota.

The local members of the advisory board feel confident that they stand an excellent chance to be first in the raising of quotas, in which event the publicity given this county will be worth the amount donated many times over. Regardless of this feature, however, the committee felt that the Salvation Army, in its great work of conducting rescue homes, of operating workmen's hotels, in giving a helping hand to the unfortunate, and in providing Christmas cheer for the poor and needy, richly deserved the amount raised among our citizens.

JUDGE J. O. WOODWARD URGES GRAND JURY TO TAKE BOOZE ACTION

Coleman, Texas, Oct. 25.—Judge J. O. Woodward, presiding in district court here, told members of the incoming grand jury that he expected them to leave no stone unturned in sifting evidence which would be presented on gambling, bootlegging and other violations. Walter U. Erley, prosecuting attorney, is said to be preparing to submit much evidence of liquor violations to the grand jury.

Conductive Anesthesia or Nerve Blocking

Which is being used by modern dental surgeons, enables the dentist to perform operations upon the teeth, which are usually considered almost unbearable, practically PAINLESS. These operations include fillings, crownings, bridgings, nerve removing and extractions.

I took a special course this past summer in New York in Conductive Anesthesia and Extractions.

Abscessed, or impacted wisdom teeth, I now remove practically painless. No more fear of the dentist where this method is used.

PARENT-TEACHERS TO OFFER FIRST NUMBER LYCEUM COURSE SAT.

Get this down in your note book; or tie a string around your finger; whatever you do, do not forget that Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock the Parent-Teachers association of Brady will present the first number of this lyceum course at the Brady court house. They desire your presence. In fact, if you believe in advancing the best interests of the Brady schools, you will be present and ask your neighbors and friends also to be there.

Individual admissions will be 50c for grownups and 35c for children, with season tickets being sold at $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for school children.

Committees from the association have been selling tickets the past few days with fair success. No citizen should require urging to buy a ticket. In their aims and ambitions, the members of the Parent-Teachers association have only the good of the schools and the advancement of the interests of the school children at heart. Every citizen can well afford to assist them in their endeavors, especially when they receive the full value of their money back in the entertainment provided through the lyceum course.

BROWNWOOD COUNCIL HAS ORDINANCE LIMITING USE OF CITY WATER

The Brownwood city council Thursday passed an emergency ordinance forbidding the use of water in the city for any other purpose except that of household necessity. Watering lawns, gardens, trees, washing automobiles and any use of water except for domestic purposes being stopped. Penalty for violating the ordinance is fixed at a fine of anywhere from $10 to $100.

The city council is forced to take this drastic action in order to conserve the city supply of water, which is regarded as very low.

Should the present drought continue three months longer the problem of water for the city will become very serious indeed.—Brownwood News.

ROCKWOOD HAS $50,000 FIRE LOSS EARLY LAST WEDNESDAY MORNING

The town of Rockwood had a disastrous fire loss early Wednesday morning, when four stores with their stocks were completely destroyed, entailing a loss of between $40,000 and $50,000. The fire originated about 8:00 or 8:30 in the ware-room of the Temp Kennedy general mercantile store, owned by Kennedy & Estes, completely wiping them out, and also destroying the A. F. Hart drug store, the postoffice and Mrs. Vise's grocery store. Every residence in the town caught fire, but were saved nevertheless. The only buildings escaping the flames were the bank and the E. T. Stobaugh general mercantile store, located on the westside and out of range of the fire.

Dr. G. F. Stevenson, Osteopathic Masseuse, will be in Brady for a while. Phone 161, or call on me at J. S. Abernathy's.

DECLARATION OF THE CAUSES AND NECESSITY OF TAKING UP ARMS

The Brady Standard's Americanization Series

June 23, 1775, a committee was appointed by the president of the Continental Congress "to draw up a declaration, to be published by General Washington upon his arrival at the camp before Boston." The report was brought in the next day, and, after debate, was recommended, and Dickinson and Jefferson added to the committee. A draft prepared by Jefferson being thought by Dickinson to be too outspoken, the latter prepared a new one, retaining, however, the closing paragraphs as drawn by Jefferson. In this form the declaration was reported June twenty-seventh, and agreed to July sixth. The closing paragraphs which Jefferson composed are as follows:

We are reduced to the alternative of choosing an unconditional submission to the tyranny of irritated ministers, or resistance by force. The latter is our choice. We have counted the cost of this contest, and find nothing so dreadful as voluntary slavery. Honor, justice, and humanity forbid us tamely to surrender that freedom which we received from our gallant ancestors, and which our innocent posterity have a right to receive from us. We cannot endure the infamy and guilt of resigning succeeding generations to that wretchedness which inevitably awaits them, if we basely entail hereditary bondage upon them.

Our cause is just. Our union is perfect. Our internal resources are great, and, if necessary, foreign assistance is undoubtedly attainable. We gratefully acknowledge, as signal instances of the Divine favor towards us, that His Providence would not permit us to be called into this severe controversy, until we were grown up to our present strength, had been previously exercised in warlike operation, and possessed of the means of defending ourselves. With hearts fortified with these animating reflections, we most solemnly before God and the world declare that exerting the utmost energy of those powers, which our beneficent Creator hath bestowed upon us, the arms we have been compelled by our enemies to assume, we will, in defiance of every hazard, with unabating firmness and perseverance, employ for the preservation of our liberties; being with one mind resolved to die freemen than to live slaves.

Let this declaration should disquiet the minds of our friends and fellow-subjects in any part of the empire, we assure them that we mean not to dissolve that union which has so long and so happily subsisted between us, and which we sincerely wish to see restored. Necessity has not yet driven us into that desperate measure, nor induced us to excite any other nation to war against them. We have not raised armies with ambitious designs of separating from Great Britain, and establishing independent states. We fight not for glory or for conquest. We exhibit to mankind the remarkable spectacle of a people attacked by unprovoked enemies, without any imputation or suspicion of offense. They boast of their privileges and civilization, and yet proffer no milder conditions than servitude or death.

In our own native land, in defence of the freedom that is our birthright, and which we ever enjoyed till the late violation of it—for the protection of our property, acquired solely by the honest industry of our forefathers and ourselves, against violence actually offered, we have taken up arms. We shall lay them down when hostilities shall cease on the part of our aggressors, and their all danger of being renewed shall be removed and not before.

With a humble confidence in the mercies of the supreme and impartial Judge and Ruler of the Universe, we most devoutly implore His divine goodness to protect us happily through this great conflict, to dispose our adversaries to reconciliation on reasonable terms, and thereby to relieve the empire from the calamities of civil war.

GULF-PLAINS-CANADA HIGHWAY IS ROUTED VIA BRADY ON TO CORPUS

PUGET SOUND TO THE GULF HIGHWAY BOOSTERS SECURE PERMANENT ROUTING OF IMPORTANT HIGHWAY EXTENDING FROM CANADIAN BORDER.

At a meeting held in Lubbock this month, Hon. F. H. Burmeister, president, John Boswell, secretary, and other Puget Sound to the Gulf Highway officials and boosters, secured the permanent routing of the Gulf-Plains-Canada highway via the Puget Sound to Gulf highway. The road will enter Texas at Texhoma, on the north boundary line of the Texas Panhandle, and go south from there thru Stratford to Dumas; thence to Amarillo and via the Puget Sound to Gulf highway to Corpus Christi on the Gulf coast.

This is the advice received here by F. R. Wulff, McCulloch county's leading exponent of good roads, and who was named McCulloch county director of the newly acquired highway. Marking, Publicity and Finance committees were appointed at the Lubbock meeting, and Big Springs was selected as the meeting place for the next convention at some date next year, and prior to the holding of the National convention.

The organization, which had heretofore been a temporary one, was made permanent at the Lubbock meeting, Hon. J. M. Simpson of Tullia, being president, and R. M. Fielder of Tullia, secretary.

The securing of this new highway means the turning of an additional stream of tourists down through this section of Texas, and gives the Puget Sound to Gulf an outlet to Colorado, the Pacific coast and to the Canadian border as well.

The Puget Sound to Gulf highway is now one of the best improved highways running north and south through the state. It is the shortest route by far from Amarillo to the Gulf, and the present extensive good roads work being done on this highway promises to make it one of the most popular and extensively traveled highways in the state. No highway can offer greater scenic beauty than does this one, and but for the few almost impassable stretches it would now be the greatest highway in the state.

I. G. ABNEY HAS RESIDENCE MOVED TO NEW LOCATION IN SOUTH BRADY

The I. G. Abney residence has been moved from its former location on West Commerce street, and a couple blocks east of the waterworks plant, to Mr. Abney's block in the southeastern section of Brady. The new location provides a splendid level and fertile lot, with attractive surroundings, and Mr. Abney is putting forth every effort to enhance the appearance and value of his new home place. The moving of the garage and other outbuildings will probably be completed this week.

The moving of the commodious residence was an engineering feat. In order to avoid having to pass under the heavy telephone cables, it was decided to move the house along the street running directly south from its former location, and then east to its present position. One lone cable, however, offered an object that could not be overcome, or rather, undercome. Consequently, the highest point of the roof was cut off, the house passed under the cable and the separate segment replaced with neatness and dispatch.

The moving was accomplished by Roy Holliday, and excited much favorable comment.

FIND GAS AND OIL IN WELL OF TEXAS-MEERS. CO. IN CONCHO

San Angelo, Tex., Oct. 25.—A flow of oil estimated at 50 barrels per day and a flow of 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas came in at the Texas-Meers Oil company's Hargis well on the W. O. Schultz ranch in Concho county, according to a telephone report received here today. This production was obtained upon drilling below the 1,373 foot level into a sand. The well was shot several weeks ago.

PECAN SHIPPING IN PROGRESS IN BRADY THIS WK.

McCulloch county is this week marketing her pecan crop, and indications are that the yield will be larger than was at first anticipated. The extreme dry weather caused the crop to be light everywhere, although a very good yield is being obtained from pecan groves along the rivers and creeks that were not dry. The pecans, however, will not average up in size to the usual crop, but even the smallest pecans are finely flavored and will doubtless find a good market.

The Mayhew Produce Co. last Sunday shipped out their first car of graded pecans, and have two more cars to be shipped, one of which will go out today or tomorrow. By means of their new grader, these pecans have been cleaned of all trash, and have been divided into four grades, ranging from the smallest, about the size of a marble, to the famous Jumbo paper-shell pecan, which approach the Brazilian "nigger-toe" in size. The first carload shipment was directed to Kansas City, where L. B. Reeves is superintending its distribution, while the remaining cars will go to Chicago, or eastern markets.

The Mayhew Produce Co. is widely advertising our famous paper-shell pecans, carrying advertisements in a number of journals and magazines in the East.

Confusion.

Smithers sat slyly slipping slivers of liver into his mouth. Smithers always had livers for dinner. And he demanded his liver in small slivers. Suddenly a frown came over his face. "Garckon!" he demanded.

Smithers was proud of his French accent.

"These livers are not cut into small enough slivers."

The waiter became confused. He was all apologies, in fact he was one large apology.

"Monsieur Smithers wants his slivers in smaller livers?"

"No! No! I want my livers in smaller slivers."

"You mean your slippers in slivered livers?"

"No! Smithers' livered in slithered slippers."

"Oh! Slivers of slithers smithered in slivered livers?"

"Great God, no. I say, slippared slivers in smaller smithers."

"Oh yes, smithered slippers of slippared slithered livers."

Smithers changed a custom of years. "Bring me a kidney," he croaked.—Fort Worth Record.

FIVE FINDINGS.

School Attendance Increasing—Literary Society Organized.

Fife, Texas, Oct. 25.

Editor Brady Standard:

This community was given a treat in singing Friday night by the Vaughn Quartette of Jacksonville, Texas. A large crowd heard them and enjoyed the singing.

Joe Miller of San Saba visited his brother, W. A. Miller here last week.

S. H. Mayo returned Friday from a business trip to Houston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Walker of Marion visited with their daughter, Mrs. H. D. Bradley Sunday.

Miss Floyce King of Brady visited her sister, Miss Knola, here Sunday.

School is progressing nicely, with the attendance increasing each week. About 90 pupils are now enrolled. A Literary society was organized last Friday, with 25 members, with the following pupils as officers: Grady Wilkes, president; Ethel Mitchell, vice-president; Nellie Doyle, secretary; a committee was selected to draft constitution and by-laws composed of Myrtle Coonrod, Ada Horn and Cyril Farmer, a programme committee composed of Bert Coonrod, Nova Doyle and Eula Baldrige was selected to arrange a program for the next meeting of the society, Friday evening, Nov. 4th. Much interest is being manifested by the pupils in their school work and every one is invited out to hear their first program on that date. The basket ball teams have commenced practice and will soon be ready to meet all challengers.

Mr. Irwin Ewing of Brady was a visitor here Sunday.

Singing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bradley Sunday night was attended by a large crowd, and was enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Doc Wyres is visiting relatives at Marlin and Doc is doing the bachelor act until she returns.

Miss Mayme Wade, who is principal of Ledbetter school was a pleasant visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Finlay Sunday.

H. D. Bradley, W. W. Cooper and James Finlay were at Lohn Friday on business.

Hubert Adkins was here Friday collecting taxes.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Finlay returned last week from a visit to relatives at Mason.

Jack Rutherford of Whon was here on business Saturday.

R. K. Finlay Jr. is having his dwelling painted this week. Pete Lemke is doing the work. "E. Z."

LEDBETTER ROUNDUPS.

Fortunate Rain Two Weeks Ago Filled Water Holes on Creek.

Lohn, Texas, Oct. 17.

Editor Brady Standard:

I have been reading The Brady Standard and have been able to find but a few of the county correspondents still writing, so I thought I would drop a few lines. If this escapes the waste basket, then I shall try to write again.

The teachers have just returned from attending the institute at Brownwood and report a fine time. They are on duty this morning with a full school. Our efficient group of teachers consists of Misses Mayme Wade and Lucy Purdy of this community, and Miss Merle Farmsworth of Millersview. They taught two weeks before institute.

During institute week Mr. E. W. Woods, wife and daughter, Miss Fay, visited Mr. Woods' mother near the Plains, and report a pleasant trip.

Mr. Willie Young and family also took advantage of institute week and visited Mr. Young's father, W. S. Young in New Mexico. They report a sight-seeing trip as well as a visit.

Mr. Other Poe and Miss Mae Stroops surprised their many friends by going to Brady Saturday afternoon and being united in marriage. Other is a son of Mr. John Poe and is a popular young man of the community. He is engaged in the farming industry. Mrs. Poe is a daughter of Mrs. Lizzie Stroops. She is a very charming young lady. We wish them great happiness in life.

Mrs. Marie Baum is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornils.

Mr. Elder Turner and family left last Monday to hunt cotton picking.

Most of the people of our community have finished cotton picking and are ready to start the children to school. We have had a dry fall which has been very favorable for the farmers in finishing their cotton.

It has been very dry for the stock raisers, but a very fortunate rain fell at the mountain two weeks ago which caused Cow Creek to run, filling all the holes with water just past the Ledbetter school house. This was a great help to those hauling water.

Mr. Henry Davis, wife and two children from Fairview visited Mr. John Ake's home Sunday.

A number from this community have been attending the Apostolic meeting at Lohn, conducted by Bro. Harvey Anderson. He also preached Saturday night in our midst. Come again, Bro. Anderson.

Pecan gathering seems to be the order of the day with the folks near the river and creeks.

Not any more crops of any kind in the fields. All are gathered and sold, or housed up.

It is too dry to plow, so most everybody's having a rest.

If it don't rain any this winter we ought to get good rested, or maybe we will get tired of resting.

Mrs. Schooley and Mrs. Holloway made a trip out to Callahan county a few days ago to attend the funeral of their little grand son, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Schooley.

Messrs. A. L. Holloway and Uncle Joe Perry of Miles, Texas, have just returned from a two-weeks trip into Arkansas. It is interesting to hear Mr. Holloway telling about his trip. They went to Arkansas in response to some glowing reports of that country, thinking they might buy a home there. Womble was the point they headed for but went to many other points while there. He said that after crossing Red River they passed through some good country, for a distance of seventy-five miles, but the land in that section was very high, from $75 to $100 per acre. He said when they reached Womble, a saw-mill town, and found the land agent whose name they had and after looking over the country and the places that he offered for sale, Holloway said he told the agent that he would not give a dollar for the whole county. I ask why. "Well," he said, "the farms were on the sides of steep hills and hollows, and the ground was covered, with rocks, sassafras, sweet gum and persimmon sprouts and briars." He says he has got enough of Arkansas.

Last Thursday evening the teachers and patrons of the Lost Creek school organized a Parent-Teachers club. After the organization was completed several important subjects were discussed. The first subject discussed was for the school to buy a pig to feed the waste scraps from the noon lunch. And it was agreed upon to buy a pig and at the close of the school, sell the pig and turn the proceeds to the school. The next was the importance of some play-ground equipment. So there will be a basket ball arrangement fixed up, some swings, see-saws, etc. And thirdly, it was discussed and agreed upon that a noon day hot lunch through the winter months would be helpful for the children. So two days the lunch will consist of hot rice, two days hot tomato soups and one day hot milk chocolate. Adjournment was announced to meet once a month to discuss plans for the betterment of the school. "A CITIZEN."

NILE NOT THE GREATEST RIVER—MISSISSIPPI-MISSOURI LONGEST IN THE WORLD

In the development of a new country the early settlers invariably follow the rivers from the coast. The inland water ways are of the highest importance to the welfare of a country, for they aid in the development of unsettled areas and materially reduce the expense of transportation of the necessities of life. Even though a stream may not be navigable for any craft larger than a canoe it may serve as a guiding line to the first explorer.

There are comparatively few rivers whose exact lengths are known, but the following list of lengths of the principal rivers of the world has been compiled by the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, from various sources and is probably as nearly accurate as any other to be had. The United States has the distinction of containing within its borders the longest river system in the world—the Mississippi-Missouri. Distances given in even hundreds of miles are approximate:

River	Miles
Mississippi (United States) from extreme source	2,456
Missouri (United States) from extreme source	2,945
Mississippi-Missouri (United States)	4,221
Nile (Africa)	4,000
Amazon (Brazil)	3,500
Ob (Siberia)	3,200
Yangtze-Kiang (China)	3,100
Amur (China)	2,900
Konga (Africa)	2,900
Yenisei (Siberia)	2,800
Hwang (Yellow) (China)	2,700
Lena (Siberia)	2,600
Murray-Darling (Australia)	2,200
Yukon (Alaska and Canada)	2,200

THE wisest of feminine names is Sophy, or Sophia, as she should be called properly. It is perhaps the only name which is closely associated with Divine attributes, since its origin dates back to the dedication of that most gorgeous of Christian temples by which Justinian declared that he had surpassed Solomon. It was called St. Sophia (the holy wisdom of God).

According to the "Preacher" in the Book of Ecclesiastics, Wisdom is the mother of fair Love, Hope and holy Fear, and this idea is said to have suggested the allegory of the holy woman with three daughters so called, and in compliment to the newly built church, the niece of Justinian's empress, afterward wife of his nephew and successor, was called Sophia. The name straightway became fashionable among the daughters of the nobility of Greece and was carried, through Slavonians, to Germany.

History records a Hungarian princess of that name in 919, and another, daughter of King Geysa, married Magnus of Saxony and spread the use of the name throughout Saxony. Denmark is said to have received it through this latter princess and has since made it almost a national name. Its vogue with the royalty of Denmark is unmistakable and its use spread through all classes.

England barely escaped having a Queen Sophia and even though Sophia Dorothea of Yette never actually ascended the throne of England, her granddaughters gave it vogue in the British Isles in the reign of the House of Hanover.

England claimed both Sophia and Sophy. France makes her Sophie; Italy Sofia, Germany Sophia and Fleka, and Russia Sofia. Sophia has an old talismanic stone—malachite. It protects its wearer from danger, if it is engraved with an image of the sun. It is particularly potent for children and is said to ward off disease and promote peaceful slumber if attached to a child's cradle. Saturday is Sophia's lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

FARM HINTS.

The following is the third of a series of articles upon the growing of Sweet Clover, written by C. H. McDowell, Superintendent, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Sub-Station No. 6, Denton, Texas.

Sweet Clover As a Permanent Pasture

Sweet clover will make a great deal of early spring and late fall pasture. For permanent pasture it should be planted two years in succession. This is to avoid having it all die at the close of the second season when the two year old plants have seeded. Otherwise, there might be a break in the crop, even if the plant reseeds itself, due to the fact that very often reseeding from shattered seed will not occur if the weather conditions are dry and unfavorable.

The pasturing of sweet clover should not be attempted until the young plants are firmly rooted and have attained a height at least from 6 to 8 inches. At first, it will be necessary to confine the stock on the clover until they have acquired a taste for it, and have learned to eat it. As soon as stock have learned to eat sweet clover, they seem to relish both the green top and the cured hay. Hogs will damage sweet clover by rooting and sheep are very likely to beat it into the ground if allowed to pasture it too heavily. There is not so much danger from cattle and horses pasturing the clover close enough to kill it if allowed plenty of range. Sweet clover is not as likely to bloat the stock as alfalfa, and is reasonably safe to pasture at any time.

Sweet Clover As a Hay Crop—Time to Cut For Hay.

Sweet clover should be cut for hay as soon as it has reached an average height of from 30 to 36 inches. Great care should be taken that the sickle be on the mower or binder is raised fully 6 inches off the ground at the first cutting. If the clover is mowed close to the ground there is great danger of partially or completely killing the stand. The new growth the first year comes from buds formed in the axils of the leaves left on the stubble, and for this reason it is very important that a long stubble be left. If the season is favorable, a second cutting for hay can be made the first year. An average yield of three-fourths to one ton of cured hay per acre per cutting has been secured.

The new crop of sweet clover the second year is produced from underground buds that come from the crown of the old root, and for this reason, it is not necessary to allow a long stubble to remain standing, to rot throughout the winter. This old stubble greatly interferes the following spring with the early hay crop of the second year. Growth is mowed for hay, and will cause the hay to become full of trash and rotten stubble.

The first cutting for hay the second year should be made early when the clover has reached an average height of only 30 inches and some time before the clover begins to bloom. The sickle bar should be raised high at this cutting, leaving a stubble from 6 to 9 inches high, upon which a good seed crop may be allowed to mature.

The seed crop may be harvested with an ordinary grain binder, and stored up like wheat or oats. To prevent excessive shattering, pans should be made and hung under the binder to catch the shattered seed.

Curing the Hay. Sweet clover is more difficult to cure than alfalfa, as the leaves are likely to shatter off before the stems are thoroughly cured. The curing should be done after the dew has dried the following morning or not later than the next day, or after the plants have become well wilted, the clover should be raked into small windrows early while the dew is on. The hay should be cocked immediately after raking. The cocks should be small, narrow and steep. This will eliminate shattering of the leaves to the minimum. The hay should be allowed to remain in the cocks for several days until the stems have thoroughly cured, then it may be baled.

RHYMES OF THE TIMES

By Evangelist Campbell.

Great to be "Mendin'." The nightmare of suffering is fading at last, The crucial and most dreaded now gone; The dark night of danger somehow has been passed; And the glad sun-filled day will now dawn.

It's great to be "mendin'"—tho' still far from strong, And my myriads of friends are so kind; Their letters and flowers all pregnant with song, Proved a tonic no Doctor could find. Each rose wore a smile like a friend tried and true; Their fragrance like spirits to cheer, I'd look at those faces just as I would you— Had you been there in person old dear.

Oh, "it's great to be 'mendin'" tho' propped up in bed, And eating thru straws, and can't shaye; It's better somehow than knowing you're dead And about to be put in your grave!

I can hear babies crying—brand new ones they say— Young and old, rich and poor, not in vain, Reaching out to a surgeon and nurse day by day In this bedlam of suffering and pain.

The sunshine seems brighter, And hearts are much lighter; And the world looks more cheerful and glad; The song birds sing sweeter The shadows seem fleeter, And I've a thousand more friends than I had.

But friends while I'm "mendin'" These I'd be "sendin'" Don't fail to remember the ill. Send a flower or a letter As a tonic they're better Than all the scientific skill.

HONEST INJUN.

Now that Brownwood has a water famine in sight, we suppose she will want to borrow back all the water she offered Brady in such abundance in times past. Which reminds us: Brady has some hole of wholesome water.

ANOTHER HIGHWAY.

All roads led to Rome. That was because Rome has the greatest highway system of the age.

Many roads point to Brady. That is because Brady is the logical junction for roads running north and south, east and west, nor-east by south-west—in fact, roads running in every direction of the compass, and which start in some definite place and have some definite point as their terminus. But has Brady a highway system that will assure keeping our place on all these important highways?

The process of building a great highway system resolves itself simply and emphatically in the building of first-class highways. It is natural that travelers should follow the line of least resistance, for whether they be out for pleasure or on business, such obstacles as bad roads naturally hinder the attaining of their goal.

Brady and McCulloch county have the highways—now it is high time to provide a real highway for these highways. Let's make a highway from county line to county line of the Puget Sound to Gulf route. Let's make a highway from county line to county line of the great Fort Worth - Bredy - Fort Stockton route. Let's make a highway from county line to county line of the Southwest Trail. Not only will we be serving ourselves in so doing, but the additional travel through this county will bring dollars to McCulloch county from transients who would never know there was such a county and such a people on the face of the earth.

Let's get direct connections with the Pacific coast, the Atlantic coast, the Canadian border, and the Mexican border and Gulf coast. Good roads will accomplish this more surely than rails of steel and powerful engines and trains.

THE BIG STRIKE.

With the possibilities of the railroad strike looming up more ominous than ever before, it behooves the nation to carefully search out the causes back of the movement. The daily papers make it appear that the railroad employees are choosing a very inopportune time to strike, with millions of idle men ready to take their positions. On the other hand the railroad employees very justly say: "What benefit will the public derive if our salaries are again reduced, and yet nothing is done towards a reduction of the extortionate railway rates?" Which, everyone must agree, is a very vital matter. Local railway employees say the general public is by no means advised as to facts in the matter, and the following editorial, which appeared in Jas. Ferguson's Forum, has been given The Standard editor with request to publish, and with the assurance that it very correctly presents the matter from the side of the railroad employees.

Yes, it is going to be a big strike. The biggest in history. Every branch of the railroad service will be involved. The issue is plain and clear-cut. In war times the railroads asked for increase in rates. Their main argument for the increase was that labor cost had increased.

As the cost of living had increased, nobody denied the right of railroad labor to have at least a living wage increase. To enable the railroads to pay this wage increase, the Interstate Commerce commission granted an increase in rates equal to almost double the rates charged in pre-war times.

THINGS TO THINK ABOUT.

T. B. Cobb of Doole says that a small bad stretch of road last year caused a breakdown of one of his wagons, which cost $25.00 to repair. That was $25 cash out of his pocket, not to mention the time lost, the labor involved and the annoyance caused. Nor does it include the penalty that bad stretches place upon tonnage. Where good roads all the way would enable the transporting of say 3,000 to 5,000 pounds in one load, a single bad stretch, even though small, will cause the cutting down of the load by half. Good roads bonds would cost far less than actual cash spent in repairs, not to mention time saved, labor saved, longer life to the carriers and bigger loads carried. By the way, T. B. Cobb is a good roads booster. Do you wonder?

Nobody can deny and everybody knows that increased railroad rates were allowed because of increased labor cost as a result of the high cost of living.

Some months ago the railroads cut the wages of the railroad employees 12 per cent. In the hopes that the cost of living would decrease, the railroad workers made their arrangements to submit to the cut.

As a result of this cut in labor the public expected and had a right to expect that some relief would be granted from the excessive and extortionate rates which are now destroying all business. But no relief has come or been offered to the people. On the other hand, the railroad owners are intimating that their rates must be further increased. And without any warning and to all appearances for the purpose of bringing on a conflict, the railroads now demand that railroad wages be further cut 10 per cent more.

In other words, the plain, unvarnished fact is that the railroads want the right to cut labor twenty-two per cent (22 per cent) and won't agree to cut rates to the public one bit. The question at once arises where does the public come in, or what advantage is it to get by cutting wages 22 per cent? How will it help business to give 22 per cent of the railroad man's wages to the railroads when the railroads won't give anything to the public?

The whole row could be settled in two minutes if the railroads would express their willingness to do as much for the public when they want to cut wages as they asked the public to do for them when it became necessary to raise wages.

But, no, the railroads want to hog the whole situation and they have picked a time of stress and want to put it over.

If they succeed in this cut they will cut again and again, until their employees will be reduced to a starvation basis. And as they now control the Interstate Commerce commission and the big daily press of the country no relief can ever be obtained from robbing rates now extorted from the public under the right of law.

This contest involves far more than a railroad man's personal grievance. It puts up to the people right now whether the railroads are for the people or whether the people are for the railroads. If the railroads win this strike their employees will be enslaved and the public will be helpless. Let our farmer friends understand their interest in this contest. If we align ourselves with the idea of lower wages for labor, we lay the precedent for the argument for lower prices for the product of farm. If wages must be continually lowered on the railroads and in the factories, then no purchasing power remains to buy the products of the farm. What this country needs now, what the farming and live stock interests specially need now, is not a reduction in wages, but it needs more money in circulation and big pay rolls to be spent for the products of the ranch and farm.

Believing that railroad wages should not be cut without the railroad rates are cut at the same time, I here and now pledge my support in every way that I can give it to the side of the railroad employees in this great contest in which we are all going to be engaged.

While the boys are striking for wages let the public strike for rate relief. By joining our strength and resources we can bring the railroads to a showdown that they can no longer exploit the people.

Let us all show our colors. This strike is a righteous demand for a square deal. Let us say so. Let us tell the railroad employees we are with them and that by the eternal Gods we are going to stay with them to the bitter end. Let us as business men and farmers say in unmistakable language that we are with the workers with our heart, our hand and our purse.

If meetings can be had at once by the people declaring our condemnation of the attitude of the railroads in wanting to cut wages and not cut rates to the public, this strike will be settled in less than 30 days and we will get a reduction in rates and we can begin to do some business at home with each other. Farm products will begin to be distributed all over the country, the high cost of living will come down and there will be no objection to a reasonable reduction in wages.

Don't let anybody scare you by the plea that there is no remedy and that the railroads can holdout longer than labor.

When the war came on, for the public good and the public safety the railroads were commandeered by the government. This action was just in morals and sound in law. The rights of the public are always greater than the rights of corporations which exist only by the authority of the public. Then it must follow that that right can be exercised at any time—as much in time of peace as in time of war. If this strike should be prolonged to where the need for food or fuel or clothes should become imperative, it will be the duty of the government and the government will again commandeer the railroads and operate them for the public good, fair alike to the public and to the employees. If the government can take a railroad to feed an army, then it will take them again when it is necessary to feed women and children. If the railroads don't believe it, just let them start something. The Forum will discuss the strike situation fearlessly and if our facilities should be interrupted, I intend to take the stump and discuss the railroad question from one end of this state to the other. Nobody can charge me with being a demagogue. I am the only man that ever had the nerve to put in a platform for governor that the railroads were entitled to an increase in rates. I have always stood for a fair deal to the railroads and I have always the courage to say so. But I think the present attitude of the railroads is shameful and disgraceful, an insult to the intelligence of the American people. I am, therefore, against them in this contest and I contend that calling of this strike is justified, right and proper and should be supported by the public everywhere.

"Light," Littleford replied, with a shrug of his huge shoulders. "What's that same we'll do." Heck was sent for, and shortly he sneaked into the lair and went off toward the settle-the-Balls. In the crook of his arm he carried his rifle, and inside his coat he carried three pieces of dynamite for the match—and he stepped with great care for setting the explosive too much. It had not been gone an hour when he heard a dull, smothered roar somewhere to the northward. He ran up from his desk, and waiting horse, mounted like a streak toward the and at John Moreland's big house a little before the day, and hallooed lustily. John Moreland and his wife tried out in response to the waved aside all greetings and inquiries after his health, which he had come to Moreland turned quick-wittedly to the boys—

"Hosses, boys! It'll be a fight, and let's be at it and let's fight." Five minutes later the boys and their mounts rode out the gate with full belts of dynamite.

Half an hour after they had left the office building, Dale had stationed his men, deployed as a line of skirmishers, behind sheltering trees some two hundred feet above the Balls and their kinsmen.

John Moreland, Ben Littleford and Bill Dale were not far apart. "It's a shame to do it," said Dale. "I swear, we can't shoot men in the back like this!"

John Moreland, twisted his mouth into a queer smile of contempt, and so did Ben Littleford. They knew, far better than their leader, the ways of that people without a principle. The Balls and Turners wouldn't hesitate to shoot them in the back!

"Well," John Moreland replied, and it was almost a sneer, "ye might go down there and give 'em some candy, and kiss 'em, and ax 'em won't they please surrender!"

Dale leaned around his tree, a great snarled chestnut, and called boldly: "You've got a chance to surrender now—and you'd certainly better take it quick!"

stairway, and Ben Littleford and the Morelands followed close upon his heels. At the front and side windows behind anything they had been able to find that would stop a bullet, Ben Littleford with rifles in their hands patiently watching for a human target to appear on the mountainside above. Ben and Little Tom lay in a corner, where they were fairly safe from chance bullets. Hayes had bound up their wounds as well as he could with the material at hand. They were both white and helpless and suffering, but still full of the old Littleford fighting spirit.

Dale seized his Winchester and belt of cartridges from the hands of the man who had brought them to him, and turned to the others. A bullet crashed through the wall and struck the floor at his foot; he paid no attention to it.

"Listen to me, boys," Dale was buckling his cartridge-belt with rapid, steady fingers. "From where they are hiding, the Balls and Turners can hardly see the lower story of this building. We'll go downstairs, open the front door, and run to the edge of the laurels at the foot of the mountain. Then we'll turn to the right, make a wide detour, and get above the Ball outfit; we'll be fighting downhill in a wide half-circle up the side of David Moreland's mountain."

To a man, they were ready. They reached the thick undergrowth without being seen by the enemy. While the Balls and Turners fired more or less aimlessly at the building, drank white whisky and called drunkenly for the surrender to them of Bill Dale, Bill Dale and his men were making their way steadily in a wide half-circle up the side of David Moreland's mountain.

Half an hour after they had left the office building, Dale had stationed his men, deployed as a line of skirmishers, behind sheltering trees some two hundred feet above the Balls and their kinsmen.

John Moreland, Ben Littleford and Bill Dale were not far apart. "It's a shame to do it," said Dale. "I swear, we can't shoot men in the back like this!"

John Moreland, twisted his mouth into a queer smile of contempt, and so did Ben Littleford. They knew, far better than their leader, the ways of that people without a principle. The Balls and Turners wouldn't hesitate to shoot them in the back!

"Well," John Moreland replied, and it was almost a sneer, "ye might go down there and give 'em some candy, and kiss 'em, and ax 'em won't they please surrender!"

Dale leaned around his tree, a great snarled chestnut, and called boldly: "You've got a chance to surrender now—and you'd certainly better take it quick!"

One of them below yelled surprisedly: "Who're you?" Then they all whipped to the other side of their sheltering timber.

The answer came at once: "I'm Bill Dale, and I'm peeved! You're at the mercy of the finest hill clan that ever looked along rifle barrels; will you surrender, or fight it out?"

"You said it—we'll fight it out!" cried a burly cousin of Black Adam Ball, deceased.

"You're on!" growled Bill Dale, slipping his rifle out beside the tree. "Give 'em h—l, boys!"

He was unused to this sort of thing, and he was incautious. He showed a little too much of himself—there was a sudden keen report from below, and a bullet hole appeared in the rim of his hat! John Moreland fired the next shot, and he broke the right arm of the man who had just fired at Bill Dale. This opened the battle in earnest.

A. W. KELLER NOW HAS FULL-FLEDGED GARAGE AND FILLING STATION

A. W. Keller does not believe in going into any project unless he does the job up in thorough fashion. Consequently when he engaged in the auto repair business, he next decided that it was up to him to carry a line of tires, tubes and accessories, with the result that he added the famous Gates Tires to his line. Then the calls for gasoline and lub became so insistent that he decided to install a filling station and give service that was real and left nothing to the imagination.

The result is that he has just installed a neat and attractive gasoline pump, and says he is going to be there early and late with accommodation for the autoist. An attractive red, white and blue combination of lights draws attention to the filling station at night, and reminds late comers and goers that Friend Keller is on the job.

Stands by Him. She was a sweet young bride, who had already found that what looks like a nice piece of meat in the shop often seems to have gone through a private transformation scene when it arrives home.

"How is it?" she inquired eagerly, when an old married friend called upon her, "that you always manage to 'ave such delicious beef?"

"It's very simple," replied the older woman. "I first select a good, honest butcher, and then I stand by him."

"Oh, I see. You give him all the trade, you mean?" said the innocent young bride.

"No," answered her companion, grimly. "I stand by him while he is cutting the meat." — Washington Post.

A. W. ELLERS NOW HAS FULL-FLEADED GARAGE AND FILLING STATION

A. W. ELLERS does not believe in getting into any project unless he does the job up in thorough fashion. Consequently when he engaged in the auto repair business, he soon decided that if you go to him to carry a line at them, they will be satisfied with the result that he adds the famous Galley Tires to his line. Then the Galley for gasoline and his business so abundant that he decided to install a filling station, and give service that you need and left nothing to the imagination.

The result is that he has just installed a most and attractive finishing shop, and now he is going to be there every day and with convenience for the motorist. An attractive and when and then combination of Galley tires, gasoline and service is a business that you need and leave Ellers on the job.

He was a very young child, who had already found that what looks like a safe piece of work in the shop often seems to have gone through a painful transformation some when it arrives home.

"How is it?" she inquired eagerly, when an old married friend called upon her, "that you always manage to buy such addition best?"

"It's very simple," replied the old woman. "I first select a good, honest picture, and then I stand by it."

"Oh, I see. You give him all the work you can get, and the picture hangs there."

"No," answered her companion, "I stand by the artist in a real sense. I stand by the artist in a real sense."

TAX ASSOCIATION HELD IN THURSDAY AND FRIDAY
HIVE MEETING IN Ft. Worth

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hedger have returned from Fort Worth, where they spent the past week in attendance upon the annual convention of the Tax Assn. of Texas. They report a most wonderful time, with entertainment galore, and instructive and interesting business sessions. The convention was held in the new Texas hotel, one of the most beautiful in the South, and nothing was left undone in the making of the meeting a grand success.

Following the opening business sessions on Wednesday, the ladies enjoyed a visit to the opera in the afternoon, and at night the entire association was entertained at the Majestic theatre. Thursday afternoon the session closed with an 18-mile drive around Lake Worth, followed by a banquet at night, at which professional singers and entertainers were provided. A big feature of the banquet was the address by Marvin H. Brown, a lawyer of considerable fame, and one of the shrewdest and best-informed men of the state. Friday, an interurban car had been chartered and the entire delegation was taken to Dallas where they enjoyed a luncheon at the Sanger building, and following which they were presented with passes to the State fair.

Mr. King of Alice, retiring president of the association, was presented with a gold fountain pen by the body as a token of esteem, and upon Mr. Hedger was conferred the honor of making the presentation speech. Caboon Blake of Harris county, vice-president of the association, was also presented with a gold pen.

New officers elected were Squire Boone, San Angelo, president; S. D. Shannon, Fort Worth, vice-president; Gus Reininger, New Braunfels, was retained as secretary. Austin was chosen as the meeting place of the association next year.
