INSURANCEIT STRENGTHENS YOUR CREDIT. IT KEEPS THE WOLF FROM THE DOOR. IT MAKES YOU SLEEP SOUNDAnderson & Carrithers*N. B. EMBRY WILL INSTALL LATEST TYPE COTTON GIN

SCHOOL HEAD WILL SEEK RE-ELECTION IN TOM GREEN COUNTY

Demolition of the fire-wrecked gin of N. B. Embry, destroyed the latter part of last August, is now in progress. All the gin machinery, rendered useless for further service by fire and water, is being removed, and the building is being razed to the ground. In its place, Mr. Embry proposes to erect one of the most modern and completely equipped plants in this section of Texas.

Mr. Embry has just placed the order for the Gullett system of gins, said to be the last word in gin machinery. The new type of gin is manufactured by the Gullett Gin Co., of Amite, La., and is to be shipped from Gullett, La., by the 15th of June. In the meantime Mr. Embry proposes to have the new gin house completed and in readiness to receive the new machinery.

COMMISSIONERS NAME J. E. BROWN CO. ATTORNEY

Commissioners court, meeting in special session this week, appointed John E. Brown as county attorney, succeeding E. P. Lea, who resigned two months ago. Mr. Brown has signified his acceptance of the offer, which assures that at the next session of county court cases on the criminal docket will not have to be postponed on account of lack of a prosecutor.

The appointment of Mr. Brown to the position is certain to meet with popular approval, since he is recognized as an attorney of ability, and one who will give the best that is in him to conscientiously perform the duties of the office.

ADD ANOTHER HALF-INCH TO WEEK'S RAIN REPORT—THIS IS NO JOB FOR LAZY MAN

Keeping up with the rain record is no job for a lazy man, for just about the time you have your totals nicely totaled, the total is rendered irrelevant and immaterial by another deluge of so many inches, more or less.

Take this week, for instance. Tuesday, the weather appeared fair and warmer, (decidedly warmer) and so, of course, Tuesday evening it rained another heavy shower totaling about .35 inches. Then, Wednesday it fairied up again and appeared a beautiful day until about 4:00 o'clock, when the heavy black clouds in the northwest foretold the deluge that fell at Lohn and that vicinity. For a time it appeared that the rain was passing around to the north, but about five o'clock it came up over Brady, with a veritable deluge falling in about 30 minutes' time. In the meantime, the Mercury and intermediate section had had about a two-inch rainfall.

The water in Brady fell so fast as to choke the gutters, and on the west side of the square a lake 14 feet deep in places was formed until the gutters could carry off the flow.

TWO ARRESTED AT STACY FOR VIOLATION OF "DRY" LAWS—3 STILLS SEIZED

Federal Prohibition Officer, Vic Bush, with Constable C. E. Pipes, of Coleman, seized three copper stills with three gallons of corn whiskey and 100 gallons of mash on a farm near Stacy last Monday. Two arrests were made and complaint charging violation of Federal prohibition law were filed against Wm. S. Richard and Ben Dickinson.—Coleman Democrat-Voice.

MAYOR LEE JONES AP. POINTS VARIOUS COM. MITTEES FOR THE YEAR

The city council met in regular session Tuesday night, Mayor Lee Jones presiding over the meeting. Aside from routine business, chief of interest were the committee appointments.

E. Jones presented bond as Mayor in the sum of $500, with A. H. Broad and H. C. Samuel as sureties, which was approved and accepted.

The following appointments on the various committees were made by Mayor Jones, the first-named being chairman of his committee:

Street Committee—B. Simpson, J. H. Ogden, C. H. Vincent.

FIFE FINDINGS.

Best Season in Years—Pear Valley Wins Good Ball Game'

Fife, Texas, May 2.

Editor Brady Standard:

We have had so many rains this week that we have lost track of them; anyway, we have the best season in years, wet weather springs everywhere, creeks and tanks full of water and nothing to do until it stops. Let it come.

Mrs. W. W. Davenport returned Saturday from Seguin, where she was called on account of the serious illness of her mother, who passed away soon after Mrs. Davenport reached her bedside.

Prof. J. M. Young was a business visitor at Brady Saturday.

The Pear Valley ball team came down last Friday and crossed bats with the Fife team. The game was a good one, although we lost it by a score of 4 to 3. Batteries for Pear Valley: Marshall and Faulkner; for Fife: B. Baldridge and Bachelor. Dair and Bright Baldridge left Saturday for Mexia where Dair will probably play ball this season and Bright expects to seek employment in the oil fields.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Finlay were shopping at Brady Saturday.

Louis Spiers of San Antonio was here the past week visiting friends, leaving Saturday for his home there.

Insist upon Kellogg's, the original Corn Flakes —they're wonderful

Kellogg flavor and Kellogg crispness are so different that there can be no comparison between Kellogg's Corn Flakes and imitations.

Little folks quickly say, "Get Kellogg's, Mother—please," because Kellogg's are never tough or leathery or hard to eat! Kellogg's are always so delicious that big bowls quickly disappear and eager little mouths appeal for more! And big folks appreciate the superiority of Kellogg's because their flavor is so inviting. Kellogg's are wonderful!

Insist upon Kellogg's—the kind in the RED and GREEN box that bears the signature of W. K. Kellogg, originator of Corn Flakes. None are genuine without it!

COW CREEK NEWS.

Have Real News to Report—A Rain —Singing at E. W. Woods'. (Too Late for Last Week).

WONDER WORDS.*Effect of Literature Upon History Is Noted.

Wonder, Or., April 27.

Editor Brady Standard:

This is the eleventh day that it has been clear and sunny with an incessant north wind and frost and ice every morning. Fruit trees are slowly coming into bloom.

I am glad you are a sensible editor and express your sentiment on momentous questions. The masked and white-robed mobs are getting in their pernicious work in California, Washington, and Oregon under the guise of the Ku Klux Klan—but, of course, the K. K. K. denies that it is them. I think it is high time that the Klan is disbanding, don't you? I see in the newspapers that there is being organized a secret society the purpose of which is to dispel the Ku Klux Klan. I think it is a wrong idea; for two wrongs never made one right, and if such conditions are allowed to prevail it will be only a short time until this country will be in as deplorable a condition as is Ireland—in a continuous state of rioting.

I am sorry that Thos. Dixon wrote that book entitled "The Clansman," for I verily believe that it was as much the cause of the present organization of the Ku Klux Klan as Harriet Beecher Stow's "Log Cabin" ("Uncle Tom's") was partly the cause of the Civil war (?) as was also the book entitled "St. Elmo" (the lady author whose name I cannot recall) was the cause of legislation being enacted prohibiting the fighting of duels, which was highly commendable. I think that everybody ought to read "Saint Elmo." I consider it about as masterly a work as it was ever my good fortune to get hold of.

Well, I promised to let you know the weights of my perfect cross pigs when I butchered them. Well, the three last year's pigs didn't either of them go as high as 500 pounds when dressed, but they all weighed over 400 each. And the mother sow only lacked fifteen pounds weighing 600 net weight. She was the one that measured 7 feet from tip to tip and the largest one I ever saw. I had them running at large in a small pasture. If I had confined them to a small pen in all probability they would have been fatter, but possibly not as healthy or sanitary.

And now, Mr. "A. Citizen," you made a very strong point in my favor; to which I will not reply at present, as time and space forbid; but soon I shall take pleasure in analyzing your theory. And also tell me how I manage to handle my large improved crossbred hogs when I butcher them. I use what the California people call "the whirly wheel-o-whack'em."

Columbia Dry Batteries*THE SPRING PEEPER

"I'm larger than you," said little Miss Spring Peeker.

"True," said Little Master Spring Peeker, "but you're not much more than an inch in size anyway, and everyone knows that an inch isn't a great deal."

"You have a nice brown throat," said Miss Spring Peeker, politely. "We both wear nice suits of yellowish brown."

"But the main thing about us is the way we love the springtime."

"Oh, how we love the springtime!"

"We do indeed," said Master Spring Peeker. "We love it better than anything else."

"Peep, peep, peep, how we love to sing. We sing alone and we sing in chorus. We simply love to sing."

"We begin very early in the spring to have our season's concerts. And when we're about through with our season the Common Tree Frogs begin their chorus."

"We look like little frogs. In fact we are little frogs, oh such little, little ones, and we're so hard to see or catch. We're quiet and we're smart though we look so small and delicate and helpless."

"We don't mind it if there is a pond about or marshy ground or what kind of a home we have as we love to sing and enjoy ourselves."

"People don't know us by sight very well, if at all, and they don't know us by talking right with us, but they know our voices."

"Yes, in the springtime we're singing, a-singing all we can, I believe I'll sing a song about the springtime now."

So Master Spring Peeker began to sing and this was his song:

Peep, peep, peep, peep,
Why should we sleep, sleep, sleep,
When we can sing, sing, sing,
And make our voices ring,
With a chirp, chirp, and gay,
On every rainy day.

And also every night,
When there isn't dazzling light;

For we like the dark, we do;

We like the soft moss too;

But best of all we like the spring,

Peep, peep, spring, the thir-

ping."

Master Spring Peeker grinned a funny little grin.

"Of course I like to sleep," he said,

"but I don't like to spend so much time sleeping that I haven't plenty of time for singing."

"Of course not," agreed Miss Spring Peeker.

Just then came along a lot of little creatures with wings upon their backs and wads in their hands.

"They aren't crickets," said Master Spring Peeker, "and they aren't birds."

"Whatever in the world are they?"

"We're fairies," they answered.

Master Spring Peeker was about to hide.

"Do not be afraid of us," they said.

"We will never, never hurt you. Nor do we want to catch you."

"But we just heard your song, and we thought it was a very beautiful song."

"We were wondering if you wouldn't come to the big Fairyland Concert which is to be given in the Serpentuous Swamp down a way from here."

"We'd like to have a chorus of Spring Peepers, and we would also love to have you sing that fine solo you were just singing."

Little Master Spring Peeker was very happy. He was just as happy as he could be.

"Oh, I would be honored, fairies, I would be honored indeed. And I will tell my friends and relatives, for I am sure they will all be honored, too."

"Good," said the fairies. "Then we'll have a great chorus of Spring Peepers. And though we will not send out invitations, their music will be heard for a long way off!"

Little Maurice, aged seven, was sampling the good fare on the side-board.

"Mother," he said, "what kind of cake is this? It's the best I've ever tasted."

"That is wedding cake, my dear," said his mother.

"Do people always have cake like this when they get married?" queried Maurice.

"Yes, they do generally," was the reply.

Maurice pondered a minute. "Ah," he said at last, "I see now why Henry VIII was married so many times."

JAP GIRLS GET INTO LINE

Increasing Physical Activity and Independence Are Regarded as of Particular Significance.

A new freedom in physical movement is discernible if not obvious in feminine Japan. It can be noted on the street in the little girls' play. Always they have had the most varied line of games and were fairly active, but nothing so unladylike as jumping over a stick, a sort of pole vault without the pole. Now this is not unusual in the larger towns, and surprisingly high do these wooden clogged, kimonoed, pig-tailed youngsters jump, and with much abandon.

In the girls' schools there is much more activity than even three years ago of the kind that past generations of American mothers called tomboyishness, and increasing interest in tennis and basketball. Also it is not uncommon now for maiden or matron to hold up her head in line with her spine, and frankly look on at this world and all its incumbrances. Formerly it was almost the great unpardonable not to carry the head slightly forward, with eyes downcast. This attitude of humiliation is now becoming fearfully old-fashioned.

Foreign teachers of long experience say that the change in this respect is striking in the classroom. Students when reciting now look up squarely at the instructor instead of at their knees as formerly. As this is not a taught thing, but the reflex of a change within, vital enough to overcome teaching and inherited tendency, it is significant.

Another change, trifling, but a straw that shows the direction and velocity of the current, is the growing habit of man and wife to walk side by side on the street instead of my lady pigeon-toeing along about a pace in the rear of her lord.—Scribner's Magazine.

TRUE DA VINCI IN LOUVRE?

Museum Director Scoffs at Theory That Famous Painting Has Been Brought to America.

Artists and friends of the Louvre museum may reassure themselves. The original of Leonardo da Vinci's painting, "La Belle Ferronniere," hangs in the museum and is not in America. This is on the authority of D'Estroumous de Constant, director of national museums.

"This is an old story," said the director. "It is not the first time that the authenticity of our masterpieces has been questioned by foreign collectors. There seems to be no way of putting a stop to the habit."

"The painting entered among our collections under the title of 'La Belle Ferronniere' was certainly from the brush of Leonardo da Vinci himself. It was among the art treasures of Francis I and, in 1642, Peter Dan, the king's minister of finances, identified it as the portrait of the duchess of Mantua. Certain historians, on the other hand, have maintained that it was that of Lucrezia Crivelli. It is generally conceded today that the picture represents La Belle Ferronniere, one of Francis I's favorites.

"Whoever it may represent, however, the painting had always hung in the private apartments of the king until it was transferred to the Louvre. Its authenticity might possibly have been questioned had it been stolen at any time. But no such misadventure ever occurred to it."—From Le Petit Paris. (Translated for the Kansas City Star.)

Bans the Merry-Go-Round.

Verily the most captious of music critics must confess that when the overture of "Poet and Peasant" is hoisted out by the steam callops of a merry-go-round it carries to the juvenile ear a more vital inspiration than could a Philharmonic feast in Carnegie Hall or a whole opera at the Metropolitan. Imagine, then, the grief of Tarsos Polycrone at the refusal of Mayor Scott of New Rochelle to license him to operate a $30,000 merry-go-round on a lot that he and his two brothers have bought at the entrance to Hudson park.

Supreme Court Justice Platt of White Plains will decide whether the gorgeous merry-go-round planned by the Polycrone brothers shall be sanctioned or not for the indignant trio have applied to him for a writ of mandamus to compel Mayor Scott to issue a license.—New York Sun.

Fishing Fleet Reduced One-Half.

Heavy toll exacted by storms threatens to ruin the fishing industry of Newfoundland. A movement now is on foot to induce the legislature to offer heavy bounties for the building of schooners, it is reported.

During 1921 42 stout fishing schooners dropped into Davy Jones' locker, and 1922 already has a lengthy list of losses. The entire Newfoundland fleet today is not more than half that of 1920. The number of schooners between 30 and 65 tons in service today is about 500, as against from 1,000 to 1,500 in the closing days of the Nineteenth century.

Triumph for Old-Timer.

The little red schoolhouse won a victory over the present day educational institution, with its domestic science and vocational training courses, during an old-fashioned spelling bee held in Bucyrus, Ohio, when Mrs. E. Renaissance, vertiginous, rendezvous and fortissimo were the words that spelled defeat to her opponents, and then Mrs. Finley became so excited she dropped out with "rubber boots."

HONEST INJUN.*HON INJ

The worst croakers we have heard lately have been the frogs—but at that theirs is a song of joy. Think of the frog! For ten long months he has had nothing but dry dirt in which to conceal himself. He buried himself away, by one of Nature's strange intuitions, and "died" for the time-being, until the rain sounded resurrection morn for him. And he came up singing his croaky song. There's a lesson for you, my brother!

CLEAN UP. IN EARNEST.

To clean up in earnest is the imperative duty of every Brady citizen. The City Health Officer in this issue makes special appeal to the citizens to go about the clean-up in a systematic and thorough fashion. The heavy rains, and the resultant stagnation pools, tin cans which act as water receptacles, the overflow of creek bottom, gullies and gutters, all contribute to the propagation of mosquitoes and other pests. Only prompt action upon the part of every citizen in eradicating these pest holes, can prevent a dangerous epidemic when the weather gets warm.

As stated by Dr. Craddock, special attention should be paid to tanks and troughs containing water. Such tanks should be coated over with coal oil at frequent intervals. This will effectively kill out the mosquitoes which flourish in these places.

Brady should be a city of beauty. Her alleys and her back yards should be free of tin cans and rubbish. Systematic and persistent effort will accomplish the desired result. Every citizen can find plenty to do, and by his example is sure to encourage others to like good work.

The time to do is now—let's go!

IN SPITE OF DIFFICULTIES.

Many of the exchange newspapers reaching The Bulletin during the past week have presented evidences of the havoc wrought by the heavy rains and floods. Some of them have come in abbreviated form, some with the unusual appearance presented by hand-set type instead of the usual linotype product, and some have reached this office as wet as the proverbial dishrag, as though they might have been floated across a flooded river after being placed in the mails. But it is significant that they have all gotten here, as usual.

It is one of the traditions of newspaperdom that no respectable newspaper will ever permit calamity to interfere with its regular publication. Holidays may cause the presses to stop occasionally, but fire and flood storm and every other hindrance is overcome with the dogged determination that has been characteristic of American newspapering for a century.—Brownwood Bulletin.

OH, NOT IN HATE.

Oh, not in hate the poppies blow In Flanders fields. The dead now know How poor is hate to those who tread The endless pathway of the dead— The poppy peace of friend and foe.

Whereto shall this war's merits flow? How shall our bright example show, Its sacred influence be sped? Oh, not in hate!

The asphodels are bending low To kiss the poppies as they grow— Red bloom for blood that has been shed,

White for the Benediction said Where fall the silent tears and slow. Oh, not in hate!

THE KU KLUX KLAN OF THE 60'S.

Many citizens, no doubt, look upon the present Ku Klux Klan as the legal and legitimate successor to the Ku Klux Klan of the 60's. They recall the splendid accomplishments of the original klan, called into being when the South lay prostrate; when carpet-baggers ruled with despotic hand, and encouraged the blacks in overbearing and insolent acts. The klan of the 60's was born of necessity—it needs no defense at our hands. When its leaders believed it had accomplished its purpose, and when the klan was in danger of becoming dominated by men with evil and sinister purposes, its chief, General Nathan B. Forrest in 1869 disbanded the klan. And in disbanding, it was the expressed purpose to forever dissolve the order. There can be no successor to the old klan, for it never again will be called into being—this being the solemn agreement and understanding of its leaders.

Unmasked, and with a known membership, the klan has the same right to existence as any other fraternal organization. The principles of 100% Americanism, which it has enunciated, are worthy of support and encouragement. But masked, working under cover at night, with a conglomerate membership which may be forced to respond to the will of its more desperate individuals, yet with good and bad members pledged to secrecy, the Ku Klux Klan presents one of the gravest perils of the age.

In the organization of Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, and other secret fraternal orders, the individual member is invited to share in the dispensation of good will, benevolence and charity, and in a social communion of which he has cause to be proud. But in the matter of a Ku Klux organization the inducement for membership, apparently, is based upon class prejudice and acts of violence. There is nothing in that to attract the better nature of a man, and certainly it is not an affiliation of which he is likely to boast with pride. The Klan, in Texas, has thrived to some extent on newspaper opposition, but it is noticeable that the Klan does not thrive on the results of its own exploits. That affair at Los Angeles Monday has served to greatly damage the prestige of Ku Kluxism, and it is a damage in the minds of the masses of the people upon whom newspaper comment has little effect.—Brownwood News.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

The report of the grand jury of Travis county has been filed with District Judge J. R. Hamilton. Here are a few excerpts from the report of the grand jury—they should cause sober reflection upon the part of every citizen:

"This organization claims to be the successor of the old Ku Klux organization that sprang into existence at Pulaski, Tenn., in 1866 and ceased to exist officially through a proclamation of its chief, General Nathan Bedford Forrest, in 1869; however, sporadic bands of men continued to exist as various sundry Ku Klux organizations as late as 1878. That this organization is an outgrowth of the old organization, as claimed by its defenders, is wholly untrue."

"The present organization is no more like the old organization than daylight is like darkness, and for the information of this court we are attaching hereto a complete text of the present so-called Ku Klux oath and also that of the old organization. We are also attaching hereto a copy of the objects and purposes of the old organization, contained in precept No 1 of said organization, which became a part of the constitution of the old organization. We are also attaching hereto a copy of document No. 1 of the new organization and we ask you to compare them as to their similarity."

"We invite your special attention to the contents of document No. 1 of the present Ku Klux organization which we believe contains some of the most dangerous doctrines advocated by the present organization. Some of it, of course, we endorse and every good citizen will endorse, but some of it we can not but do ought to condemn. It is dangerous in the extreme and violates that most sacred principle of free government. We do not believe that any officer of the law whose duty it is to execute the law fairly and impartially alike to every citizen, be he ever so humble, can be true to his oath of office and at the same time be true to the oath of the present Ku Klux Klan organization and its teaching as is set out in document No. 1."

"We believe that every peace officer, both State, county and city, should immediately renounce his allegiance to this organization or else retire from office, because there is danger, however conscientious an officer may be, that he will favor his brother klansmen against one who is not a klansman."

"This organization has worked incessantly to enlist all peace officers throughout the State, as well as the military organizations of the State into its toils and measures. That they have succeeded to an admirable degree is beyond question, but we think that the time has come for the good of the State and this community that they should cease their affiliation with the organization and renounce their allegiance thereto. If they do not—with the objects and purposes of the klan before us—we believe it will undermine the most sacred fabric of this Government. Many of them who are in this organization locally do not seem to appreciate fully the gravity of the situation."

"We find in our investigations that representatives of the State Government have become involved in this organization. This, we think, is unfair to the great mass of citizenship of the State. This grand jury does not want to go on record as saying that a man loses his individuality and his right to think for himself when he becomes a part and parcel of the State Government, but we do say that where a man is a representative of all the people he has no right to attach himself to any organization that has for its object the enforcement of laws other than thru the duly constituted authorities."

In future The Standard will have little, if anything, to say regarding the Ku Klux Klan, not that our opinion as to the menace the Klan presents to American citizenship has undergone the least change, nor that we believe any less that the Klan should never be allowed to obtain a foothold here, nor to continue its invisible organization anywhere in America. Even Klan leaders have come to realize this, as witness the statement of the grand goblin at Houston, who predicted that in time the "invisible" part of the Klan would be a thing of the past. The Standard simply takes the position that the Klan merely thrives upon newspaper opposition. It receives much the consideration that the "under dog" does in a fight. Put the Klan upon its own merits before the American people and it will soon come to its rope's end.

"OVERWHELMED"—OR THE STORY OF WHY THE EDITOR IS GOING TO LEAVE TOWN

If anyone should chance to miss the editor of The Standard from Brady the latter part of next week, here's the story of "Why the Editor Left Town."

Last year at the Texas Press association convention, held in McAllen, Texas, there appeared ones W. C. Edwards, editor and publisher of the Denton Record and Chronicle, who extended an invitation to the press gang to hold their 1922 convention in Denton. With such glowing phrases did Mr. Edwards paint the beauties and attractions that Denton offered, that the press boys voted "On to Denton in 1922." Assisting Mr. Edwards in putting over Denton as the convention city was H. F. Browder, contributing editor on the Record and Chronicle, and man extremely large of figure, just simply because he has such a big heart it takes a big body to cover it. They told about the wonderful things being done at C. I. A., and about the many hundreds of beautiful Texas girls who would be waiting there to greet the press boys and extend a hearty welcome. No wonder Denton captured the convention!

Now Denton has set out to make good—and no one questions but what they will—and more—for Denton folks appear united in putting forth every effort to entertain the Texas Press association, and ably seconding them is F. M. Bralley, president of C. I. A., and the hundreds of Texas students at this great Texas college. Then, too, there is the North Texas State Normal college to add to the welcoming chorus.

First we receive a letter from the Chamber of Commerce, of which Friend Browder is secretary, telling us Denton is "Looking for you," and then going on to state that the Acme Brick Co., the largest of its kind west of the Mississippi, was going to put on a "Dutch lunch" at its factory. In order to avoid any disappointments, Browder states that "we fear that the Volstead act may weaken the 'Dutch,' but it will be worth while."

This letter would make any editor get to wishing, and when we read the concluding paragraph in the letter sent out by the Texas Press association we just knew we were going. Here is how it read: "Make the Denton meeting as nearly perfect in attendance as possible—come and see the niftiest town in Texas, the best schools, the sweetest people and more pretty girls than you have ever imagined."

Then next we received a letter from Miss Zenda Aschbacher, former Brady girl, and C. I. A. student, in which Miss Aschbacher stated that at the request of Dr. Bralley, each student was extending a personal invitation to the editor of the paper they liked best to visit the college during the press association meet, and giving assurance that every nook and corner of the great college would be shown, and that we would have to agree that it is the most wonderful school anywhere to be found. Further than that, Dr. Bralley wished it understood that the invitation was to be considered as a special invitation from him and the college.

Now, everybody likes to see and visit the place where our home town girls are being prepared for life's great work; to know more about this great Texas school, the College of Industrial Arts, where many of McCulloch county's girls go each year. So the invitation, special and personal as it is, would make anyone feel that in the trip there would be sure to result a greater appreciation and understanding of the true worth of this college to the girls of our great state.

Then, to cap the climax, comes a letter from S. M. Richardson, former member of The Brady Standard family, and at present in charge of the linotype department of the Denton Record and Chronicle, also extending a personal invitation from himself and family. Now, Mac, recently had a very interesting experience with the Ku Klux Klan, being permitted to view initiation ceremonies from afar, and since the episode he has been given much free advice upon the subject of painlessly removing tar and feathers. No doubt but what Mac will have some interesting tales to spin.

Finally, there came to hand this week the special edition of the Record and Chronicle issued in honor of the coming convention of the Texas Press. It was a most wonderful edition, replete with views of the city, its colleges, its industrial plants and its progressive organizations and citizens. Also a considerable number of the press "gang" had their pictures contained therein, which, of course made it all the more interest-

+ THE LONG LOST BROTHER. +
+ By Estelle Levy.
+ + + + + + + + + + + + +

The winter was very cold; seemed more so than ever before to a certain little widow, whose husband had died just two months ago and left her very poor, with little Patricia to care for. Patricia was her little girl and she was only ten years old, but loved by all her little playmates. Patricia Pits Patrick is her name but all the little girls and all who knew her, called her Patty; they were Irish and had just come from Ireland six years ago. Thinking that they could make money in America, they came to New York. But they were not well off when they came and poor they now were, as Pat, the husband, could not find work. However, he managed to find small jobs and scrape up enough money to keep them living. But now Pat was gone and Mrs. Pits Patrick had to take sewing to keep her and little Patty alive. But now, she could scarcely find sewing to do. Today she was sitting beside the window thinking of her brother. He had started long before them for New York; had written to them and told them of wonderful New York and America. But time went by and they never heard from him again. So they, thinking he was dead, grieved over him and at last decided to come and try their luck in America and this wonderful New York. They had enough money saved and plenty over, but alas! it was all gone and so was Pat. What was it? Again she heard it, was some one knocking at the door? "Patty, dear, go see who it is." So Patty went, and returned, crying "Oh, mamma, mamma, it was that mean old land lord again; he has been here three times and here is a note." She gave it to Mrs. Pits Patrick, who opened it up and read as follows:

"I have been here three times and asked for the rent; each time you said 'I will surely have the money next time,' but you have never had it. Now I am tired of this and if you cannot give me the rent tomorrow morning, out you go."

Your Landlord,

"G. J. HOPKINS."

After reading this Mrs. Pits Patrick called Patty to her side. "Dear," she said, "you must not cry, but be a brave, sweet little girl and you and mother will get along nicely, but tomorrow we must leave our home and look for some other place to live." It was now seven o'clock, and as there was nothing for supper, Mrs. Pits Patrick put Patty to bed. Then she sat down and looked around their two shabby rooms, which they called home. They were up very early the next morning to pack up their belongings, what few they had. There was not a crumb of food, so they had no breakfast. Mrs. Pits Patrick put hers and Patty's few rags in a shawl and tied them up and out the door they started when they were bumped into by their landlord. "Well, leaving mighty early, aren't you?" "Yes," Mrs. Pits Patrick answered, "and we thank you for your trouble."

"Bah!" he answered, "why don't you apologize for yourself. All the trouble you caused me! And mind you, as soon as you make a dollar, it goes to me, remember, be sure you do!" Just as he finished, in the door stepped a tall, finely dressed lady, who giving Mrs. Pits Patrick a sneer, went into the house. Out into the cold, wintry street stepped Mrs. Pits Patrick and little Patty. Their feet sank into the cold, wet snow. Patty slowly turned to her mother. "Mother," he said, there will be no Christmas this year, will there?" "No," I guess not, dear," said her mother, with tears in her eyes. On they struggled; their bodies were soon quivering through their thin clothing. But on they went. Noon came and past and it was growing near night. Mrs. Pits Patrick from worries and weak and faint from going without food, soon gave way and fell unconscious in the white bed of snow. Poor little Patty did not know what to do. She ran on crying and calling for help, but alas! for she, too, fell and fainted dead away.

Now it happened that a very wealthy bachelor was taking a ride out in this part of the country, in which Mrs. Pits Patrick had strayed, and got out to walk around, when his dog started into bark and wag his tail; of course his master knew something was wrong and followed his faithful dog. The dog came to little Patty and licked her hands and face. The master stooped down and rubbing the child's hands, soon revived her and she began to cry and told him of her poor, dear mother. She lead the way and the man followed. They soon found Mrs. Pits Patrick. He picked her up and carried her to his car and, lifting Patty beside her, he got in and told the driver to drive home. When they reached home he laid Mrs. Pits Patrick on the bed, sent for the doctor and had the cook prepare a nice dinner. Soon Mrs. Pits Patrick was herself again, after she and Patty had eaten. He asked her to tell him her story. She did so, telling also of her long lost brother. When she had finished her story she arose to go. "And you don't know how much we thank you," she said.

"No, you are not going," he cried. "You are going to live with me forever; you are my sister. Long have I looked for you, but all in vain. Now I have found you; I have found you at last, thank God!"

She ran into his outstretched arms, crying, as she went, and finished with a kiss and sob "My long lost brother! I have found you at last!"

"And now," said Patty, "we can have a Christmas, can't we, mamma and uncle?"

"Yes" they both exclaimed at once.

* * * * *

Christmas came, and my, how beautiful and sunny the day, and how happy everyone seemed. In a certain beautiful home, sat side by side, Mrs. Pits Patrick and her long lost brother, and looking into their eyes and sitting on the floor, by the fire, with her arms full and beside her and in her lap, with many nice things Christmas had brought her, she said: "My, but this is the best Christmas I have ever had." And so it happened the long lost brother was found at last.

Defective Plea.

"John," asked father, "do you practice on the piano while I am away at business?"

"Yes, father, every day," replied the boy.

"How long did you practice today?"

"Three hours."

LOST CREEK ECHOES.

More High Water Than Ever Before —Losses Reported.

Voca, Texas, May 3.

Editor Brady Standard:
For the last eight or ten days we have had one big rain after another until the bridges and culverts are washed out and the roads all washed out and nearly ruined. The farms are badly washed and crops destroyed; nearly all the crops will have to be planted over. We have had more high waters than I have ever seen in the same length of time. Nothing short of a waterspout fell on Lost Creek; it arose to a height of 25 feet in about two hours, doing a great amount of damage to fencing and bottom farm lands along the creek. Some stock drowned and many turkeys and chickens were washed off along the low lands. The creek got to a depth of about seven feet at R. R. Evans' residence—not seven feet in the house because the house was high off the ground, although it wrecked the building considerably. It washed off his barn and smoke house. He lost his bacon, harness, bridles and collars, but the family all got out safely.

D. H. Henderson lost a number of his bee stands while he had them far above all previous high water marks, but when a waterspout falls it usually breaks all high water records.

One span of the Voca bridge over the San Saba river was washed away and the bridge over Tiger creek east of Voca was badly damaged, although none of it was lost.

The ground is soaked full of water and is running out everywhere, and it still rains every day and night.

J. W. and J. D. Millspap are losing a number of cattle of late from some unknown cause.

Q.—I am buying an automobile this spring. What is the first thing I should learn about running it?

A.—The telephone number of the nearest repair shop.

Q.—When is the best time to buy a used car?

A.—Just before you move. Your new neighbors will think you are the one who used it.

Q.—What is the best way to locate engine knocks?

A.—Begin with hymn No. 202. Then split each cylinder. The cylinder that contains the largest piston is the one that knocked.

Q.—I know you drive a good looking car, even though it didn't cost you much. What is the most you ever got out of it?

A.—About five times in a mile.

Q.—My wife says all Ford mechanics go to the Devil. What can I do about it?

A.—Buy Cureall Oil. Good for burns.

Power of Conviction.

The power of conviction is the greatest power in the world. It leads us on to the highest pinnacles of accomplishment and achievement.

Noah had it and conquered the earth.

Caesar had it and conquered the world.

Columbus had it and discovered America.

You get it and you, too, will bring home the bacon.

Convenience.

Have you heard that Henry's going to make the Ford car smaller?"

"No!"

"Yes. So you can wash them in the kitchen sink."

Buick "Four" Also Drives Through the Third Member

Whether it is a Four or a Six, every Buick measures up to the same rigid Buick standards of design and construction. Whatever is Buick, is Buick through-out.

The Buick Four, like the Buick Six, drives through the torque tube third member on the axle. Buick springs only support the body and insure easy riding. A Buick rear spring, accidentally broken, cannot mis-align the axle and tie you up on the road. This design is generally found only on high-priced cars.

"IT IS absolutely essential," said the secretary of treasury, glancing across his desk at the short, ruddy-complexioned, rather stout man who sat opposite him, "that the persons responsible for these lynchings at Versailles be arrested, tried and convicted. I don't think it is overstating the matter to say that this case is more important than any counterfeiting plot or smuggling scheme which the department has ever worked on, for the governor of Indiana has applied to the federal government for troops to handle the uprising which threatens to sweep over that part of the country, and the entire state is taking sides in the matter."

"Naturally we do not wish to send troops to Versailles unless it is absolutely necessary. It would only lead to additional bloodshed and disorder. What we need is someone who has the nerve to go out there, investigate the case from every possible angle and make a report as to the persons responsible for the lynchings. That's why I sent for you."

The man on the other side of the desk smiled and tapped thoughtfully with the forefinger of a hand which indicated strength and determination of character.

"Of course," continued the secretary, "I must warn you that the case is one that is apt to prove dangerous. More so, in fact, than anything you have ever attempted. Compared to it, the roundup of a gang of moonshiners is child's play—for here you will have to work entirely in the dark, one man against practically an entire state. A single slip would mean your death, and would force the government to take steps which might lead to protracted bloodshed."

"In which case," replied the other, "it would be well for me to get out to Versailles as soon as I can. The longer we wait the less chance there is of success. Don't make any attempt to hear from me or to locate me for at least a month. If, at the end of that time, you haven't received some kind of a report, you will know that they've got me. But, somehow, I've got a hunch that they won't."

It was two days later that the train which stopped at Versailles, Ind., halted just long enough to permit a single passenger to alight—a man who was short and rather plump and with a ruddy complexion, a man who registered at the local hotel as "James M. Beck" and who allowed it to become known that he was an insurance agent, representing one of the best-known companies in the country.

But Versailles, as Beck soon discovered, was a poor field for life insurance at that time. There was only one topic of conversation in which the natives were interested: the lynching of the five prisoners who had been taken from jail and murdered by an infuriated mob. This, coupled with open threats of defiance against the governor's edict that the guilty men must be punished, kept the town in a continual state of simmering, seething unrest—punctuated by frequent statements that any state or government official who tried to find out the names of the men implicated in the lynching would be shot on sight.

Beck apparently, wasn't in the least interested in the local turmoil. He had been sent to Versailles to sell insurance, and he was determined to sell it, no matter how many people he had to interview. The fact that he was a stranger led, of course, to immediate suspicion of his motives, and some two weeks passed before he was able to allay this.

About the end of the third week matters were brought to a head by reason of a wire which Beck sent to New York, a dispatch which was in code and which caused the operator to spread the report that the "life insurance agent" was a detective in disguise. Getting wind of this and realizing that he must take some radical step to offset suspicion, Beck approached the man who appeared to be the leader of the trouble-faction. The agent explained to him that he was getting tired of the quarters at the hotel, and wondered if it would be possible to secure lodgings in some private house where he would be a little more comfortable.

"Certainly," said the native. "I reckon we can put you up all right." And he smiled at the thought of this man whom he suspected placing himself entirely in his power. That, however, was precisely what Beck wished, and it only took a couple of days of clever acting to convince the local leader that he was only what he appeared to be—a slow, plodding and conscientious insurance agent. It was in the house of the most dangerous citizen of Versailles, under the very eyes of his associates, that the stranger secured the information he wanted and put it together, piece by piece, until he had the entire story.

It was precisely a month to the day after the conversation in the office of the secretary of the treasury, when that official received a wire from Chicago stating that "all facts about Versailles lynching now in hand. Complete list of men implicated follows by mail."

The name signed to the wire was "William J. Burns, chief of the United States secret service."

FORD SALES SHOW RAPID INCREASE

Rush of Orders Boosts April Output to 101,164

Ford retail sales showed a rapid increase in volume during March, says a report from the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, and have necessitated the building of 101,164 Ford cars and trucks in April in order to meet the requirements.

This is the largest output of Ford cars ever scheduled for April, being 10,000 above the same month of a year ago. It also marks an early opening of the spring and summer buying and seems to indicate that even more Ford cars and trucks will be sold in 1922 than in 1921, which was a banner year.

Orders for Ford cars and trucks have already exceeded the supply in many parts of the country, and purchasers are finding it necessary to accept deferred delivery. The Ford factory at Detroit is getting into capacity production as fast as possible, with the hope of preventing a similar shortage when the spring-summer rush begins.

LOUIS HOPKINS DIES AT ELDORADO FROM WOUND RECEIVED IN GUN BATTLE

Louis Hopkins, son of F. M. Hopkins and brother-in-law of Gus Ziriax, both of Voca, died Monday night from wounds received in a gun fight on the ranch of Mrs. David Sheen in Schleicher county. The wound was in the left arm, and blood poisoning set in, causing the death. Hopkins was born and raised in the Voca community, and was known to many McCulloch county citizens. He was aged about 30 years.

He had left this county about ten years ago. The following is the report of the death as published in the daily press under a San Angelo date line of May 2nd:

Davis Sheen, Schleicher county ranchman, and his son, Louis Sheen, 16, were reported en route this morning from their ranch to Eldorado, where charges of murder were to be filed against the father, and of assault to murder against the youth, according to Sheriff Leudecke.

The action follows the death at Eldorado last night of O. L. Hopkins, who was wounded in the left arm April 17 in a gun battle with Sheen on Mrs. Sheen's ranch, where Hopkins was employed.

At that time, Louis Sheen was not involved. Davis Sheen was not hurt seriously. He and Hopkins had been released under bonds of $750 each pending grand jury action on charges of assault to murder.

Hopkins will be buried here.

MAIL CARRYING IN THESE DAYS OF WET WEATHER AND WASHOUTS NO CINCH

Carrying of the U. S. mail to inland points is no unalloyed cinch these days, take the word of J. Embry, Brady-Mason carrier, for it.

When Embry reached the San Saba river Tuesday, he found the channel of the creek this side widened out to where the water ran several feet deep over the bridge. Embry had risked the crossing before, but caution told him it would be dangerous to try it this time. So he left his car at Kirklen's on the other side of the river, and shouldering his most important mail sacks, waded almost waist-deep over the bridge. On this side, he met an autoist bound for Mason, and advised him it was impossible to make the crossing. The autoist thereupon turned around and carried Embry into Brady.

Wednesday, Embry tried to make the trip, but found the stream again swollen to where crossing was impossible. Yesterday morning he phon-ed down and learned that the stream had gone down to where it was possible to get across, and accordingly the mail to Mason yesterday went out as usual.

MEXICANS ARRANGE BIG CELEBRATION ACCOUNT OF NATIONAL INDEPENDENCE

Today is the national independence day of Mexico, the anniversary of the freeing of the Mexicans from Emperor Maximilian, who was made emperor by the French. Junzrez is the national hero of the independence celebration and tributes is paid him upon this occasion. Mexicans all over the country will celebrate today, and special programs are planned at Melvin, Brady and other places. The program at Brady will be given at the skating rink, and will consist of patriotic addresses, songs, readings and the like. The celebration will close today with a grand baile (dance).

TELEPHONE SERVICE

Good telephone service depends upon three things:

FIRST: A well built plant properly maintained.

SECOND: A thoroughly organized and efficient operating force in each department.

THIRD: Courtesy at all times to every patron from the switchboard as well as the cashier's window.

We have the plant and the organization, and it is our purpose that first class telephone service shall be rendered our patrons with a smile and not with a frown.

Miss Lucille Benham left Wednesday night for Wichita Falls, where she will spend several weeks as a guest of Miss Thelma Kahn.

Mrs. Lou Townsend and little daughter are visiting in Alpine, where they are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Mason.

Misses Myrtle Wall and Alix Bowen, who have been guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wall, expect to return Sunday to their home at Temple.

John Kavanagh, business manager of the Menard Messenger, was in Brady last week, on a final visit to the dentist. Mr. Kavanagh has had all his teeth removed, hoping thereby to effect a cure for an illness which has all kept him on the invalid list for the past month or so.

Alfred Reissner is here from Wimar for a visit with his cousin, Paul Klatt. Alfred attempted to come to Brady last week, on a final visit to the dentist. Mr. Kavanagh has had all his teeth removed, hoping thereby to effect a cure for an illness which has all kept him on the invalid list for the past month or so.

Miss Ada Bagley arrived here Monday for a visit of a few weeks with her brother, Earl Bagley, and family. Miss Bagley has just closed her school at Round Mountain, and while enroute to Brady was forced to spend seven days in San Saba waiting for the flood waters to subside to where the Santa Fe was enabled to get train service restored. After visiting here, she will return to her home at San Marcos.
